Defrauding a corporation in which the United States is a stockholder constitutes a federal offense, over to punish which it may legislate, the by the government against Leroy W. Walter in Florida.

One person was killed and nine others injured, two of them probably fatally, in Shreveport, La., when a racing automobile driven by Max Markmann, of Chicago, at the Louisiana state fair, crashed through the race track fence and plunged into a crowd of spectators.

NEW HAVEN ROAD AWARDED $2,891,206 FROM THE GOVT

Payment Fulfills Guarantee on Account of Earnings During the First Six Months After Termination of Federal Control—With Sums Previously Paid the Railroad Has Received $14,788,406, Closing the Account—Award Was Made Yesterday by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Washington, Oct. 22.—The New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad was awarded today by the interstate commerce commission, a payment from the government of $2,891,206 on account of the guarantee of earnings during the first six months after termination of federal control. With sums previously paid by the government, the railroad has received $14,788,406, and the account is now closed.

TEAPOT DOME OIL RESERVE GREATLY OVERESTIMATED

Washington, Oct. 23.—The senate public lands committee, beginning an investigation today of the government's lease last year of the Teapot Dome, Wyoming, naval oil reserve to the Sinclair interests, made public the reports of two expert geologists which declared the field's potential production had been greatly overestimated.

Both experts who made an investigation for the committee, agreed that a large part of the reserve was subject to drainage by nearby wells and also that it coud not be held indefinitely as an undeveloped field. Leasing in some form was necessary, the committee was told, to prevent greater loss through drainage by adjacent wells.

As against an original bureau of mines estimate that the reserve would produce 185,000,000 barrels, Frederick G. Clapp, of New York, one of the committee's geologists, gave a rough estimate of 16,000,000 barrels, while the other investigator, James O. Lewis, of Tulsa, Okla., said it would be not less than 12,000,000 nor more than 24,000,000 barrels.

The "first" sand, from which 20,000,000 barrels had been expected, was said by the experts to be entirely barren. In other respects also their report minimized the value of the field whose lease, Harry F. Sinclair testified before the La Follette investigating committee last winter, was worth more than $100,000,000.

GOV. TEMPLETON TO URGE ENFORCEMENT OF LIQUOR LAWS

Hartford, Oct. 22.—Governor Templeton revealed today that State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn of Hartford county was in Washington during President Coolidge's conference with governors on the question of prohibition enforcement.

As a result of the conference, Governor Templeton will communicate with all chiefs of police in Connecticut cities urging them to leave no stone unturned in the enforcement of the liquor laws and pledging them the full co-operation of the governor's office in the work. He will also confer with Chief Justice George W. Wheeler, who recently completed county meetings of judges prosecutors and justices of the peace at which he recommended the imposition of jail sentences for first offenses under the prohibition law.

The governor came away from the conference firmly convinced, he said, that the prohibition amendment can be enforced and determined to do all in his power to see that it is in Connecticut. He said today that jail sentences are needed to secure a proper enforcement of this law, as most rum-runners and bootleggers have enough money to pay fines with comparative ease, but the governor said this did not necessarily mean that he favored jail sentences for first offenders.

"I didn't see a drop of liquor any of the time the governors were together," said the Connecticut executive.

TO OVERCOME OUTFLOW OF HIGH POWER BEER

Washington, Oct. 22.—Expansion of the federal government's prohibition enforcement machinery in an effort to stop liquor smuggling and to check what is described by officials as rapidly increasing supplwies of high power beer, is under consideration at the treasury. The programme contemplates practically doubling the strength of the coast guard and the placing of a prohibition agent in every brewery.

While the changes under consideration for the coast guard have not yet been placed before Secretary Mellon, those in charge of the service have calculated approximately twenty million dollars would have to be appropriated by congress to carry them out. Tentative plans call for the addition of more than a score of cutters and about fifty speedy power boats to be used in tracking down rum runners off the coasts. Additional personnel also is proposed.

Secretary Mellon is said to recognize that "high power beer is becoming all too common," in many sections of the country, and, it is reported, is inclined to favor a return tothe old arrangement of putting an agent of the treasury on guard in all breweries so that daily tests may be made of products.

UNIVERSALIST GENERAL CONVENTION IN PROVIDENCE

Providence, R. I., Oct. 23.—Rev. George L. Huntley, of Boston, was elected president of the General Sunday School association at the Universalist general convention here today. Other officers elected were: Vice Presidents, Rev. Francis W. Gibbs, of Fitchburg, Mass.; and Rev. Laura B. Galer, of Mount Pleasant, Iowa; secretary, Carl A. Hempel, of Lynn, Mass.; and treasurer, Marshall A. Brown of New Madison, Ohio.

TO RESUME CONFERENCES WITH COAL OPERATORS

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 22.—Governor Pinchot today made plans to resume on Wednesday his conferences with anthracite coal operators in an effort to have coal prices reduced this winter to the level of last year's prices. The governor communicated with S. D. Warriner, chairman of the operators' policy committee, who came here a week ago with A. H. Jessup and W. J. Richards, and requested Mr. Warriner and his associates to return Wednesday afternoon.

IMPORTANT POINT SCORED FOR WILLIAM J. CORCORAN

Boston, Oct. 23.—An important point was scored by counsel for William J. Corcoran, former district attorney of Middlesex county, and six other male defendants on trial here charged with extortion, when Judge Quinn ruled today that the remarkable statement made by Mrs. Theresa Duggan, one of the defendants and self-confessed "lure," cannot be used as evidence against the others. The statement was made voluntarily in the office of Attorney General J. Weston Allen in 1919.

The confession, the reading of which was started by Assistant District Attorney Hill Friday and concluded today, involved the names of Corcoran, Joseph C. Pelletier, former district attorney of Suffolk county, removed for misconduct in office; Nathan A. Tufts, removed as district attorney of Middlesex county for malfeasance in office, and Harry E. Levenson, an attorney.

today told of the alleged victimizing today told of the alleged victimizing of two men, the name of one of whom was "something like Hunnewell."

"They got him two or three times," the confession continued, and Mrs. Duggan "guessed" that they extorted money from him "until he was cleaned." The second victim, the confession said, was William Ayer, a railroad man from Maine, who was also lured by Mrs. Duggan and a Mrs. Lillian Reese into a compromising situation.

The confession admitted failure to obtain money from Ayer. "They claimed they didn't do anything with him because he was too big a man to handle," the confession stated.

MORE COMPLICATIONS IN STOKES DIVORCE HEARING

New York, Oct. 23.—Assistant District Attorney Pecora, on the witness stand in the Stokes divorce retrial this afternoon, denied subornation charges of Joseph A. Thornton, a negro witness for W. E. D. Stokes, who testified last week that officials of the district attorney's office had induced him to contradict his evidence after the first trial.

Mr. Pecora told of questioning Thornton on a perjury complaint from attorneys for Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes, after Max D. Steuer, counsel for the wealthy hotel owner, had abruptly closed the plaintiff's case as the twenty-first of his 70 witnesses stepped from the stand. Twelve of the 21 were negroes, many of whom contradicted themselves repeatedly and four of whom repudiated affidavits introduced in court by Mr. Stokes. Joseph H. Dawson, notary public, was the first defense witness. His affirmed the validity of the documents.

Mr. Stokes was called to the stand twice by Samuel Untermyer, counsel for Mrs. Stokes, after Mrs. Stokes had waived the right of a wife to forbid testimony by a husband at his divorce trial. Supreme Court Justice Mahoney sustained objection after objection to Mr. Untermyer's questions, however, and most of the time the plaintiff was on the stand was consumed in bickerings between counsel, which was silenced only by threats from the bench after Mr. Untermyer had criticised Justice Mahoney's conduct of the case.

VET. SWINDLED OUT OF HIS LIFE'S SAVINGS, $1,500

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 23.—Posing as representatives of the "Carnegie Institute for Pensioned Soldiers," two swindlers made away late today with $1,500, the life savings of Jacob Young, 54, Civil war veteran and retired Cincinnati policeman. The swindlers said Young was to receive $3,000 compensation from the Carnegie Institute provided he could show that he had saved $1,500. Young drew the money from the bank and placed it in a tin box carried by one of the men. After signing papers with great flourish, the men gave Young the tin box. On reaching his home Young found that the box was filled with paper slips.

TYPED 147 WORDS A MINUTE FOR ONE HOUR

New York, Oct. 22.—Establishing a new record for typewriting speed, an average of 147 words a minute for one hour, Albert Tangora, of Paterson, N. J., today won an official contest at the opening session of the National Business show.

Tangora defeated by one point George L. Hossfeld, who eclipsed his own world's record of 143 words a minute, made last year. The winner wrote 9,126 words and made twenty-eight errors for a net score of 8,846 words.

LACK OF WATER POWER IN WESTERN NORTH CAROLINA

Charlotte, N. C., Oct. 22.—Industrial plants in eight South Carolina counties operated by power supplied by the Southern Power company were idle today, the power company's program of curtailment of service necessitated by lack of rain in the mountains of western North Carolina having become effective.

The program provides that plants in each of several zones in the Carolinas will be idle one day each week for an indefinite period.

WILLIMANTIC

NORWICH BULLETIN
Willimantic Office
51 Church Street Telephone 1052

The 11-room building known as the Ramsdell place at Mansfield Center was totally destroyed by fire, believed to have started from sparks from a fire place in a second floor room, between 3 and 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The assistance of the Willimantic fire department was secured, but nothing much could be done, due to lack of water. The total loss is estimated at $12,000. The building was owned by Mrs. Eunice Marsh, wife of the late Dr. E. H. Marsh. Mrs. Marsh and her daughter, Miss Elsie Marsh occupied the house, but since last July had leased two rooms to Dr. and Mrs. W. D. McCormick, the latter taking over Dr. Marsh's practice after his death. Neither the Marshes or the McCormicks were at home at the time the fire broke out. Dr. and Mrs. McCormick returned from a call about 3.30 o'clock and both smelled smoke. Mrs. McCormick went up stairs to investigate and upon opening the door of one room was was driven back by dense smoke. Flames broke out shortly after and the Bank street engine house in this city was notified. Lieutenant Henry J. Kelley and a squad of firemen on the Reo chemical combination truck answered the call. All that could be done was to save some of the furniture and neighbors assisted in this work. The furniture in the upper floor was destroyed. Mrs. Marsh believes that her loss will aggregate $10,000 including the furniture. Dr. McCormick places his loss at $3,000. Through a local agency, $1,800 insurance was carried on the house and $600 on the Marsh furniture.

With a registration much larger than in past year, the evening school opened Monday night with sessions at the high school building. William O. Brooks is principal and he also plans to conduct several classes, as time permits. Lawrence King, head of the commercial department at Windham High school, is in charge of the commercial work at the evening school. Miss Muriel Gelinas, also of high school faculty is teacher of stenography and typewriting.

One course which proved popular with the students was the domestic science course with Miss Josephine Lennon as instructor in sewing and Miss Helen Barker of cooking. Both are teaching these subject at the high school.

Miss Lillian M. Sherwood is again in charge of arithmetic and grade school subjects. The foreigners' English course has been divided into two divisions, the beginners and intermediate and advanced classes. Miss Janet crawford is in charge of the former classes and Miss Nellie Milliken of the latter. Miss Crawford is of the English department and Miss Milliken instructor in civics and history at the high school. Miss Sherwood is also a member of the high school faculty.

An innovation this year will be recreation in the high school gymnasium after the regular evening school classes.

The program printed in The Bulletin Monday as prepared for the annual convention of the Connecticut Sunday School association in Willimantic, November 7, 8 and 9 in the Congregational church was of special interest to all this who believe in the religious education of the boys and girls of Connecticut as the means of making better citizens.

Friends who attended a recent miscellaneous shower given Miss Dorothy Bishop at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bishop on Walnut street were: Mrs. John Adams, Mrs. Arthur Trudeau, Mrs. G. Hurley, Mrs. William Parker, Mrs. Harry Harrington, Mrs. Mabel Booker, Mrs. Katherine Bedford, Mrs. Margaret St. Peter, Mrs. Annie Casey, Mrs. Joseph Brown, Mrs. Francis W. Brown and daughter, Mrs. D. E. Martin, Mrs. Fred Taylor, Mrs. Raymond Taylor, Mrs. Agnior Nadassi, Mrs. Eugene Roy, Mrs. Grace Ashton, Mrs. Albert Armstrong, Mrs. Annie Bishop and the Misses Anna Caisse, Rose Caisse, Helen Canton, Helen Loiselle, Laura Laprade, Leda Caisse, Mildred Pickett, Edith and Ethel Taylor and Miss Viola Bishop.

The affair was in honor of Miss Bishop's approaching marriage with John Healey of Worcester, Mass. She was presented beautiful gifts of silver, china, linen, aluminum, etc.

The senior masquerade under the auspices of the class of 1924, Windham High school will be given at the town hall early in November. A committee has been appointed and arrangements for the affair are under way.

Emerson Risch of Fairbault, Minn., and Richard Farrell of Hamilton, O., who overstayed their furlough from the U. S. S. Utah and were taken into custody by Chief Allan MacArthur, were taken from the local police station Monday morning by Officer A. D. Leary of the Submarine base and returned to New London.

Principal Egbert A. Case, of Windham High school, announced that the first marking period of the school year ended Monday afternoon and report cards will be sent out to every pupil at the high school this (Tuesday.)

A meeting is to be held this (Tuesday) evening at Al-Pierre Tabarin at which Mrs. Fannie Dixon Welch, a member of the democratic state central committee will deliver an address. George Timmins will be in charge. The meeting is public. Mrs. Welch, who resides in Columbia, is widely known in this city and has made many friends through her stand on public matters. She is one of the champions of the laboring class. A number of other speakers are expected to be present.

The Willimantic police department members have come to the exasperated conclusion that setting up silent cops and parking signs has become very much like setting up pins on a bowling alley. Just as fast as the dummy cops are placed in position they are smashed up. The rampage on these harmless cops has been carried out hot and heavy of late. some of the culprits have escaped scot free, but others have not.

The last wooden policeman to be wrecked was the one on Main street at the head of Railroad street. The car which did the damage was driven by Henry C. Murphy of Milton, Mass. One of the parking signs on Main street near the crossing of the New Haven railroad was smashed Monday morning by one of the Dexter Brothers five ton trucks. A few weeks ago the large umbrella used by the traffic officer on Main street, was smashed by a Massachusetts motorist. The driver promised to furnish the department with a new one. In the meantime the broken umbrella was patched up and is still in use. The new one has arrived and is being kept for future use.

Captain Frank P. Fenton, special state agent for the Humane society was called away from his breakfast Monday morning by a telephone message which stated that a badly wounded deer was lying in the road near the home of Dr. George E. Wilcox on West Main street. Captain Fenton secured a shot gun and with Probation Officer S. Arnold Peckham, made a trip to the place. The trip and the shot gun were useless, however, as no deer was in sight and neighbors in that vicinity denied having seen any such animal.

A special meeting of the Hebrew young men and women is to be held Wednesday evening at the synagogue on Bank street to discuss plans for conducting the recently formed association. Rabbi Silverman, leader of the Norwich association and six male member will be present to explain the work.

Victor Hamel was charged with intoxication in the police court Monday morning. Hamel pleaded guilty. Judge Frank H. Fear imposed a fine of $10 and costs, which was paid.

Invitations were received in this city to the wedding of George Alexander Orrok and Miss Elsie Ellsworth Geer of Windsor. The wedding took place at Taylor Chappell, New York, at noon Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Orrok will be at home after November 1st at 115 East 140th street. Mr. Orrok is a summer resident of Scotland and well known here.

Guests at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Girouard for the week-end were Miss Virginia Carrington of Suffield, Miss Caroline Russell of Long Island, and Joseph Donohue of Baltic. The Misses Carrington and Russell were former classmates of Miss Gertrude Girouard at St. Elizabeth college, N. J.

Mrs. Estelle T. Lathrop of Lewiston avenue, motored to Abington Sunday where she was joined by Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Weeks, who left Monday for Lewiston, Me.

Judge George M. Andrews has ended complications and a knotty problem in his decision recently given in the Mansfield "mystery horse" case. The fifteen year old bay horse in the possession of Richard Nichols and Elmer Warren of Mansfield, but claimed by Mrs. Belle Huntington, a neighbor, was the cause of a decided stir in the town of Windham, Chaplin and Mansfield. The horse now goes back to Nichols and Warren with the sanction of Mrs. Huntington.

Charles Nichols, father and father-in-law, respectively of the men who possessed the animal, was arrested on a warrant sworn out by Mrs. Huntington for having a horse in his possession not his own. The hearing was held before Judge Andrews on the evening of September 24 and lasted until midnight. Both sides were well supplied with witnesses, including a half dozen well known Thread City horsemen for the Nichols and Warren faction. Mrs. Huntington and her hired man, Ernest Crane were positive in their identification of the animal as their own. Judge Andrews finally decided to put the horse in the hands of State Policeman Harrison Hurlburt of Staff, a. The animal was to be taken to the Huntington farm and his behavior there would prove his ownership. The horse acted perfectly at home and was allowed to remain. The next day a searching party was formed consisting Charles T. Nichols, Richard Nichols, who alleged he traded for the horse with Eban Chappell of Chaplin, Frank Davis of this city, George Topliff and Ernest Crane, the hired man. After tramping around for two hours the carcass of a horse was found in a swamp. Mrs. Huntington had alleged that she had let her horse out to pasture the latter part of April and that he never returned. Nothing but the skeleton of the horse was left but it could be seen that it had been mired. The carcass bore resemblance of the mystery horse and even Crane agreed to this. Mrs. Huntington then began to do some tall thinking. About the middle of August she had been the Nichols and Warren horse being driven by and she had laid her claim to it. The men refused to give up the animal and the court proceedings followed. In his report, State Policeman Hurlburt stated that he thought the horse belonged to Mrs. Huntington.

Mrs. Huntington felt sure that the five horse was her own, but still there might be a mistake; so a few days ago she decided that Nichols and Warren could retail the horse under dispute.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre.

The management of the Palace theatre are certainly living up to their promise to give Norwich theatregoers the very best entertainment possible.

For the first three days of this week a program of real entertainment is offerde.

Miss Edna Ayers, who won many admirers last week, is being held over for another week. Her numbers are A Miss in the Dark and Swinging Down the Lane.

Justly hailed as a tremendous Paramount production, The Chest was greeted with marked enthusiasm by capacity houses last night at its premiere presentation at the Palace theatre. The climax, which proved a hearty one, sent everyone home in a most amiable frame of mind.

The story, written by Hector Turnbull, is developed with a wealth of color and presents Pola Negri in the delightful role of Carmelita de Cordoba, a Latin-American beauty, who elopes with an American. As a result to this escapade she is disinherited by her father and forced to live in the modest little flat her husband is able to provide for her.

Carmelita has attracted the attention of a crook posing as a wealthy art connoisseur and East Indian prince, who follows her to New York. Tired of poverty, the girl takes to gambling and loses a large charity fund intrusted to her and she is forced to borrow from the "prince." But when she goes to repay him he tells her that it is not the money he wants—but her. Then follows the big thrill of the production, when Carmelita refuses to go through with the bargain with this renegade—the big situation which made the story a successful photoplay, opera, novel and stage play. The Cheat casts Miss Negri as a modern, bewitching woman of fashion.

A comedy with an unusual amount of laughs is shown and the Palace News Weekly completes a bill which is bound to please the most exacting.

The Spoilers at the Bread.

Excitement and thrills, suspense and conflict are said to be simply crowded into The Spoilers, Jesse D. Hamilton's production of Rex Beach's famous novel of Alaska, which will be shown at the Bread theatre today and tomorrow. By the critics this film has been termed one of the masterpieces of the screen.

There is every reason to believe that The Spoilers is everything that has been claimed for it, as it boasts an unusually notable cast, headed by Milton Sills, Anna Q. Nilsson, Barbara Bedford, Robert Edeson, Noah Beery, Mitchell Lewis, Robert McKim, Sam de Grasse, John Elliott, Ford Sterling, Louise Fazenda and Rockcliffe Fellowes.

The Spoilers was written by Beach from actual observation of the turmoil that followed in the Yukon when crooks jumped the claims of the miners and looted them of their gold for months until justice was restored. His novel is an authentic record of the historic gold rush to the Yukon and in transferring it to the screen Director Lambert Hillyer has lost none of the atmosphere of the recklessly dangerous life among those courageous fortune seekers.

Much has been made of the thrillingly realistic fight between Milton Sills and Noah Beery in this 1923 version of The Spoilers, which is said to eclipse the fight between William Farnum and Tom Santschi in the first Spoilers a decade ago.

The Pathe News and an Educational comedy make up the remainder of the bill.

Broadway Theatre.

Sue Emerson's Emerald Revue was the feature attraction with seven people. It carried special scenery and was a hugh success.

Leyland & Shannon in Song Hits of 1923 opened the bill with a very pleasing act.

Bitt Wood, the boob and his harmonica, in second spot, also made a hit.

Fern & Marie offered a very good comedy turn.

Described in its advance notices as a picture of power, punch and purpose, it more than lived up to the promises made for it by the management. In fact, for once they can be accused of undue modesty in being too sparing of their adjectives, for here is a picture worthy of unrestricted praise, without fear of carping criticism.

Marriage Morals, by Will Nigh—he is responsible for both the story and the direction—tells a story as old as time and as new as the last edition of a daily paper.

Strand Theatre.

Showing Hollywood, Cal., the capital of filmdom, as it really is, not as it is sometimes painted, is one of the features of the James Cruze, Paramount picture, Hollywood, which is being shown at the Strand theatre today and Wednesday. Frank Condon, who wrote the short story from which the picture was adapted, lives in and knows Hollywood intimately. James Cruze, the director, lives in and is familiar with every phase of the community and studio life. The only strangers are some of the unknown players, who interpret the roles of the folks from Centerville, Ind., and who are quite like the characters they depict.

Joel Whitaker is ordered west for his health. His granddaughter Angela, comes with him to seek a place in the films, having been told and herself being quite certain, that she will be a howling success and a star. Later on, all the family come to California and all get into the films except Angela who never gets a chance. They meet all the noted screen folk—stars and directors, and their adventures are both humorous and pathetic with a touch of thrill thrown in.

One of the features—perhaps the greatest—is seeing all the famous screen folk in one film. Another is the opportunity of seeing the famous places in and about the western film capital. Unquestionably this is the most novel picture that has ever reached the screen.

A comedy and news are the short subjects.

The Sowing of the Orchestra Violins.

Were you ever impressed with the unanimity of mind which expresses itself in the bowing of a violin section of a first class symphony orchestra? If not, watch the first violin section of the New York Philharmonic when the orchestra plays at the state armory in New London Monday evening, Oct. 29th.

If you have thought that it was a sort of ornamental finish to the performance, attained by concerted drill for the sake of appearance, you were in error.

The reason for up bows and down bows in the case of a solo performer may be highly technical, as the system of piano fingering is when applied. In the orchestra the individual reason is multiplied by eighteen in the first violin section to the Philharmonic, the eighteenth man manipulating his bow identically with the concertmaster, as the first player in the first chair is called, and who sits at the left hand of the conductor.

One of the duties of the concertmaster is to arrange the bowing for all works performed, and the traditions in bowing are stronger than in tempos.

The Philharmonic orchestra of today uses much of the music which was on its programs over half a century ago, notably the Beethoven symphonies. On these old scores appear the markings of Theodore Thomas, who made them while he was the orchestra's concertmaster, a position which he held from 1855 to 1877, when he was elected conductor of the organization.

The first signs of age are shown in the skin. Remember that a soft, smooth complexion is not to be had after the age of twenty without persistent effort.

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

Now Recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Washington, D.C.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved me from an operation which a physician said I would have to have for a very bad case of female trouble. My system was all run down after two years after my little girl was born. Then I read of your wonderful medicine and decided to try it. I could hardly drag one foot after the other, and after taking six bottles of the Vegetable Compound I felt like a new woman. I now do all my housework, also washing and ironing, and do not know what real trouble is. My health is fine, and I weigh 148 pounds. When I started taking it I weighed 97 pounds. I gladly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to any one who is suffering from female trouble or is run down. You may use this testimonial for I am only too glad to let suffering women know what the Vegetable Compound did for me."—Mrs. IDA HEWITT, 1629 Penna. Ave. S.E., Washington, D.C.

Such letters from women in every section of this country prove beyond question the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

The local building operations for the third week in October still maintain the same rapid progress made during the earlier part of the month and the number of permits for new buildings is up to the normal average for the week. Many new buildings are being erected in various sections of the city especially at the Blackstone place of Washington street and on Broadway on the old Slater land. Several houses here are in the various stages of construction and work is being rapidly pushed along to complete them before the cold weather starts in to be severe.

During the week there were seven permits issued at the office of Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton, approximately the same number as for the corresponding week a year ago. The total estimated valuation of the new buildings as placed by the owners is approximately $14,000 but when completed the valuation will be nearer $20,000. This year has seen more dwelling houses erected in Norwich than in any previous year since the office of fire marshal was created. This has also been true not only in Norwich but in the whole of eastern Connecticut where there has been considerable building of new homes in the towns surrounding Norwich.

The seven building permits issued by Fire Marshal Stanton during the past week were as follows:

To Charles C. Treat to erect a one-story building on Woodmansee avenue to be used as an ice cream factory. The building will be a frame construction and will be 16x24 feet. The foundation and floor will be of concrete and the exterior finished in composition shingles.

To Ben Gweedow to erect a two-tenement house on Mechanic street. The building will be of frame construction and two stories high with a frontage of 24 feet and depth of 50 feet. The foundation will be of stone and the exterior finish will be of stucco and shingles. The interior will be finished in hardwood.

To George H. Boucher to build a frame garage at 123 Broad street for Charles Stewart. The garage will be 20x12 feet.

To W. T. Myer, architect, to erect two frame cottages on Yantic street (Blackstone place) for Benjamin Kreiger. Both cottages will be 28x26 feet with stone foundations. The exterior finishes will be in cedar shingles and the interior will be in hardwood. Work has already started on the buildings which will contain five rooms each.

To Edward J. Duro to build a frame addition to his present building on Kost Main street. The addition will be 17x33 feet at the front and 9 by 23 feet at the rear.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were 12 sales of real estate as compared to 21 sales for the corresponding week in 1922. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $15,900 and $25,225.

In New London there were 10 sales of real estate, three more than for the corresponding week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $18,900 and $25,400.

The State Situation.

A larger number of permits for new construction was issued in the leading Connecticut towns during the past week than in the like week of the year 1922, but for a smaller volume of building. In the week 382 permits were granted, for buildings costing $463,264. Against these figures there were 226 permits granted in the same towns a year ago, the structures costing $926,134, and 184 in 1921, for buildings costing $392,452.

NEW LONDON.

The excavating has been started for a dwelling which the Titus Land Co., 105 State street, are to build on Terrace boulevard at Bishop's terrace. The house will be 24x30 feet, colonial design, arranged for eight rooms, with furnace heat, and all improvements. The building will be done by the day. A six-room house is now being completed on Terrace boulevard by the same company.

Extensive alterations are to be made by Isador Glater to his building at 522 Bank street. The second floor of the present frame building will be converted from a loft into two modern apartments of four and five rooms. There will be an extension of present steam heating system, new plumbing and wiring.

Applications for Building Permits.

William Lenehan, garage, 64 Jackson avenue. $500.

Nathan Belcher, garage, 22 Addison street. $400.

Amelia T. Kuhn, garage, Riverview avenue. $400.

Number of permits issued for the week, 9.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Practically the entire membership of the Windham County Bar will come to Danielson Wednesday to attend the funeral services of Judge Milton A. Shumway, formerly a supreme court justice of Connecticut, and from other counties will come men whose names are written high in judicial circles in the state to pay tribute to one as highly regarded as any man who has gone out of Windham county to engage in the profession of law in this state. Attorneys who are coming here to attend the funeral will gather, it was made known Monday, at the offices of Attorney E. L. Darbie in the Windham County National bank building and will march from there in a body to St. Alban's church, where Judge Shumway attended services for many years.

Incident to hunting stories that have been appearing in columns in The Bulletin during the past week it has been amusing to note that some big tales have been told, without, it appears, any regard to the fact that some of the publicity, if investigated closely, might lead to arrests for violation of the game laws.

It is more or less painful to punch holes in a good hunting story, but, then, consideration must be given to the laws that govern the activities of the hunters and to the fact that they may not make any great records these days without the liability of being called to account for so doing.

Witness a section of the statutes—part V, Section 45—of the game laws "No person shall kill in any day more than two pheasants, woodcock or ruffed grouse. Witness also a paragraph of Section 46 of the same part of the game laws: 'No person shall hunt, take, possess, kill or attempt to kill any female pheasant.'

And yet one reads of a man having seven male pheasants in his possession as the result of a day's hunt—and hears of another man who bags four pheasants in an afternoon's hunt, two of these female pheasants.

Doubtless the possessors of this illegal number of pheasants and kind of pheasants after a single day's hunting are more or less innocently violating the law, but ignorance of the statutes will not be accepted as an excuse in court, if such hunters happens to be apprehended.

Game wardens are not sufficiently plentiful to watch every hunter every day, and it is with regret that notice is taken in this column of the fact that some of those who hunt are ignorantly or intentionally doing all they can when they go afield to check the state's efforts to make game plentiful and, incidentally, to cheat their fellow sportsmen out of a good day of sport with dog and gun.

It was suggested Monday that members of hunting and fishing clubs in eastern Connecticut would be doing the state a service if they would personally report violations of the game laws that come to their attention, as for instance the ones referred to in this comment.

Experiencing for the first time this season a temperature that declined to rise out of the 40's throughout the day and reading of a two-foot-snow fall in Ontario, householders who are still waiting for coal orders to be filled that they placed last spring might have been excused Monday if they allowed themselves a few minutes thought on the proposition that if a bus load of governors who met at West Baden last week and then hurried over to Washington for some formalities relative to law enforcement devoted a little time profitably they might well concern themselves with fuel rather than alcohol. For it, as is often said, only the depraved and unworthy are interested in violating the law relative to intoxicating liquors, this leaves scores of millions of righteous persons at the mercy of the Ice King and His Majesty The Cold.

Trusting people hereabouts were inclined to hail Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania as a Moses that was to lead them out of a fuelless wilderness when a settlement of the affair between operators and miners was announced in September, but they are beginning to doubt that now. Coal isn't arriving as rapidly as many expected—and that makes things different. Need for fuel is at war-time prices. The average man is now convinced that the fuel problem isn't settled. And he has reason to so believe.

A Monday morning of the Sacred Heart church, in Wauregan, funeral services were held for Eli LaCharitie, 53, who died of injuries he received eight weeks ago when he was struck in Woonsocket, by an electric car and has since been a patient in a hospital in that city.

Rev. J. F. Mathieu, the pastor, was celebrant of the high mass of requiem, attended by relatives and many friends. Burial was in Sacred Heart cemetery. The bearers were Joseph Caron, A. F. Duval, Raoul Brunet, C. B. Roscoe, Joseph Benoit, and John Chenail. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Monday afternoon at the church in Clayville funeral services were conducted for William H. Taylor by Rev. Daniel Bennett, pastor of the Maple Root church, Washington, R. I. Burial was in the Clayville cemetery. The bearers were Walter Comstock, John Round, Frank Cahoone and Alison Cole. A. F. Wood was the funeral director.

On various streets in Danielson Monday afternoon and evening property owners engaged in a leaf burning carnival, this year the leaves for the most part came down within a period of 72 hours, during the duration of a northeast storm. They have carpeted lawns and covered side walks and filled gutters since that time. Monday, having dried out considerably, they were put to the torch. The borough was more or less under a smoke screen in certain sections for several hours, a fact that did not appear to worry anyone very materially.

Significant of the manner in which residents of Danielson and the surrounding country have salted away their dollars during the past few years was the announcement Monday that the deposits in the savings department of the Danielson Trust company have topped $550,000 in a little less than two years, since this department of the bank began operations. Incidentally, when the directors of the Trust company met Monday morning they declared a dividend payable November 1, at the rate of 4 1-2 per cent. per annum.

As a banking center Danielson has made amazing strides during the past decade and there is no better evidence of it than the manner in which the savings department of the Trust company has grown. This growth is taken as indicating the fact that residents of the territory of which Danielson is the trading center are assured of the strength and stability of Danielson's banking institutions, all of which have made remarkable gains during the past few years and this year promise to establish new records of business transacted during a twelve months' period. J. Arthur Atwood is president of the Trust company, F. A. Jacobs secretary and Clifford H. Starkweather treasurer.

At the present time deposits in savings institutions in Danielson are approaching the $7,000,000 mark, and it will be reached in all probability in the not distant future.

Henry Bernier, driving a light motor truck of the firm of his father, R. X. Bernier and Earl Clements, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Clements, Franklin street, had a narrow escape from death at the Franklin street crossing when the rear end of the truck was struck and damaged by the northbound passenger train due here at 4.05 p. m.

Mr. Bernier said afterwards that he was going eastward along Franklin street near St. James' school and had almost driven the machine onto the track when he saw the approaching train. His first thought was to jump, realizing that his chances against driving across were against him getting through in safety and fearing a collision with the train if swung his machine either way alongside the track. Another mental flash fixed in his mind the fact he could not leave the boy riding beside him to his fate—so he stepped on the gas in a last desperate gamble on getting across.

He made it, but the locomotive sheared off the tail board of the truck and some uprights holding the top. The engineer probably averted a fatality by applying his emergency brake and slowing down the train just enough to let the truck almost clear the track. Franklin street crossing is protected by an automatic signal gong, but accidents and near accidents have occurred there for years, some of them including fatalities, and the crossing is regarded as a danger spot—one where a motorist should exercise every caution.

Rev. Charles Kirby, M. S., preaching a mission to the English-speaking men of St. James' parish this week, is meeting with a spontaneous response and the attendance has been large the first two evenings, as well as the masses in the morning. Father Kirby will preach at services opening each evening this week at 7.30. The mission will conclude next Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Gaston A. Maindon motored to New Bedford Sunday for a visit with friends.

John A. Delmars of Pawtucket was a visitor with friends in Danielson Monday.

It is anticipated that the deferred meeting between borough officials and representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, to discuss a better lighting system for Main street, will be held this week.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Kennedy, observing the silver anniversary of their wedding, have been spending a few days visiting in Hartford.

PUTNAM

Train-wrecking, regarded generally as an obsolete pastime, seems to have had at least a temporary revival, even if not effective, and city police and railroad officers were given their attention Monday to preparing a case that involves several boys who the their best Saturday afternoon to wreck two trains running over what is familiarly known as the Norwich-Worcester branch of the N. Y., N. H. and H. railroad through this city.

From information available Monday it is indicated the four boys, some of them as young as 9 and others as old as 12 or 13, tried vainly Saturday afternoon to wreck two trains. In their first attempt at turning in a real sensation they placed an obstruction in the form of a railroad tie across the rails of the track running between this city and Dayville at a point just south of what is known as White's crossing, though the crossing has long since been abolished and has been replaced by an underpass.

A passenger train plowed into this obstruction, tossing the tie high in the air and splintering it more or less impressively, but the train did not budge from the rails and proceeded without much being known about it excepting to the locomotive crew.

Possibly the boys who figure in the case were hidden observers of what occurred—that likely will be developed later—but in any event, they may be regarded as not having been entirely satisfied with the results obtained, for they busied themselves after this incident with putting up a more formidable barrier for the next train that happened along to buck against.

Two railroad ties, some boxes, pieces of iron and some stones were next piled on the track. It so happened that a freight train was the next along, but keen-eyed locomotive crew spied the obstruction on the track and it was removed after the train had been brought to a halt a safe distance away from the obstruction.

Outside railroad and police circles nothing was said about the matter over the week-end, during which period an investigation that has promising results was undertaken. It appears that four or more boys were concerned in the episode. At least two of them were said on Monday to have acknowledged their part in the affair, a very serious one and one that is challenging the most serious consideration of the police and other officials concerned with the punishment of such crimes against the law.

It is regarded as very fortunate that neither train selected for wrecking suffered as the result of the plot against them. In one case the obstruction was ineffective and in the other was discovered in time to prevent any possible damage.

This good fortune was not regarded here Monday as in any degree lessening the chargers of the boys concerned escaping punishment. That they should after one failure again attempt to wreck a train is taken as indicating that they were very serious in their purpose and that they are therefore deserving of critical consideration when they are presented in court, an eventuality that will not long be delayed, it was indicated Monday.

The police and officials of the city court have the names of some of the boys concerned in the affair and expect to have the case cleared up sufficiently to present it to the court here in the very near future. Some of the boys concerned in the affair are said to be resident just over the line in the town of Killingly.

The attempts to wreck the trains were made just inside the southern boundary of the town of Putnam, but close to the northern border, at that point, of the town of Killingly.

The following of interest appeared in a Webster paper Monday: John Evaraits of Putnam, was arrested last night by Officer Jy Burns on a warrant sworn out by the Connecticut state police, on a charge of non-support of his three children.

The Connecticut officials have been on the lookout for Everaits for a long time and word was telephoned to the Webster police department that he was in Webster. Chief of Police James Hetherman detached Burns to locate Everaits and he was found on Pleasant street. He was locked up in the police station to await the Connecticut state police.

It is alleged that his wife had left him with the three children as he failed to support them. The children have been sent to a home to be cared for. It is also alleged that at one time he sent one of his boys to Webster to go to some of his friends here to be taken care of.

He will be turned over to the Connecticut officials who will take charge of the matter.

Practically all the attorneys in this city who can possibly arrange to be in attendance will be present tomorrow (Wednesday) at the funeral services to be held for Judge Milton A. Shumway, a former justice of the supreme court of errors, at St. Alban's church in Danielson. Judge Shumway was a distinguished member of the Windham County Bar, and for many years came to this city periodically to sit at sessions of the superior court. Among his legal associates, as with all in every walk of life who knew him, he was regarded with affection and appreciated for his great abilities as a jurist. All honor will be shown him Wednesday by the lawyers of the county.

Jeremiah Keeney, East Boston, three days' resident in this city, is now a patient at the State Hospital in Norwich, being taken there Sunday after it was established that he is mentally deranged. Keeney fell into the hands of the police, after he had come to Officer Sponcey to enter complaint against alleged doings at the railroad camp, so-called, in the local yards, where he had been making his headquarters after coming here to work as a member of the work train crew operating out of this city. The things about which he complained led to an investigation at the camp, where the chef gave the officers the first clue that Keeney evidently was mentally unbalanced. Acting on this information a physician was called to make an examination of Keeney, and on the doctor's advice Keeney was committed to Norwich. He has neither relative nor friends in this territory, so far as is known.

Indications Monday were that Mayor Victor Chapdelaine, republican incumbent, will be unopposed for election at the biennial city meeting, the first Monday in December. Mayor Chapdelaine is not an aggressive candidate to succeed himself, but has agreed to accept nomination in the republican caucus if the members of his party desire him to be the standard bearer. The mayor also happens to appeal to the democrats as a chief executive, and it was broadly hinted Monday that if the republicans make him their candidate for mayor that the democrats will not name anyone to run against him. Mayor Chapdelaine has made a good record in office; there is no desire apparent at the present time to start a campaign him and at least some of the influential democratic leaders feel that the interests of the city will be faithfully served by returning him to office.

Next week will bring the first of the ward caucuses to nominate candidates for the common council and the general city caucuses are expected to be held on November 11 and 12 by the democrats and republicans.

L. F. Kimball, of Grosvenordale, supervisor of schools, reported Monday that his car was damaged Sunday at Grosvenordale, when struck by a machine driven by Francis Dygran of Lake street, Webster. Mr. Kimball said that he was driving along at a speed not greater than 10 miles an hour when he saw the Duggan car approaching at high speed. This was at what may be called the square at Grosvenordale, where the clear way is about 45 feet in width. Mr. Kimball said that although he hugged the curb at the left side of the square and even drove his car up over an 8-inch riser and into shrubbery to escape being hit by the Duggan car, that machine came along and crashed into him. Both machines were considerably damaged in the crash, but no one injured.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Rhodes, of this town of Thompson, are to leave November 1, for a motor trip to Florida. They are to tour that state during the winter and do not anticipate a return to Thompson until early in May.

The contract price for the long stretch of cement highway now being built out of this city through Killingly avenue toward the Killingly line is said to be in the vicinity of $72,000, although the total cost may reach to $100,000. The contract may not be finished this fall, but the greater part of the road will be laid and the route left in good condition for winter travel. Only such portion of the road as can be rebuilt this fall will be torn up.

The low mark for temperatures since last spring was reached in this city during Monday's daylight hours, when the mercury dropped to 34 degrees.

WESTERLY

In the 24 pastimes held by the New England Veteran Firemen's association for the season which closed Oct. 14th there were 43 hard cars or "subs" entered. For best play Star No. 1 of Westerly stood 15th engine with a play of 320 feet 4 1-4 inches, which was made in the only muster which the local firemen attended.

What was first thought to be due to playing with fire when the three small children of Embert N. Eleaser, a chauffeur, had been left alone on the second floor of the house at 20 Oak street soon after 1 o'clock Monday, was afterward thought to have resulted from an overheated kitchen range. The flames were discovered by neighbors and a fire alarm was turned in from Box 68, corner of Oak and Tower streets. The Cyclone Engine company pump responded, as did the Alert hook and ladder truck. The firemen finished the work of extinguishing the flames, which had been confined by the use of buckets of water to the kitchen, where the woodwork was charred and the wallpaper and ceiling smoked and wet with water. The damage amounted to a small sum. When the flames were first discovered Joseph Manfredi of 77 Oak street and Peter Simone of 84 Oak street dashed through the flames near the doorway at the top of an outside flight of stairs and brought the three children out of the bedroom to places of safety. It was at this same house that the fire department responded some little time ago for a fire, the origin of which at the time was unknown.

In the superior court in Providence Monday Judge Barrows denied the petition of Attorney Henry L. Burdick and Everett A. Kingsley and their clients for an injunction to restrain Tax Collector James M. Tendleton of Westerly from collecting the sewage assessment tax. The judge also declared vacant the restraining order issued a week ago Saturday which was granted Messrs. Burdick and Langworthy. Representing the town treasurer at the hearing was Town Solicitor John Ferguson, Jr. Judge Barrows said that to hold up the payment of taxes for the sewer betterment was a serious thing and that if the suit had been brough beween individuals he would have granted the injunction, that the case might go before the supreme court for a decision, as the matter "is of grave public importance."

The funeral of Olizini Bourre was held from the home of his daughter, Mrs. William Howeson in Lisbon on Monday morning. Requiem mass was said by Rev. James J. Tyler, at St. Mary's church in Jewett City. Burial was in St. Thomas' cemetery, Voluntown. The bearers were Louis Richards, Thomas McDonald, Joseph Gelinas and Edward St. John, all members of Court Liberty, F. of A. Hourigan Bros. were in charge of the arrangements.

Miss Delphine Beauregard is in New Bedford for two days on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Asher N. Read of Rockville are visiting at R. J. Guy's. Yes, we have coal. Orders promptly filled. P. J. Malady.—adv.

The following scores were shot on the Voluntown Rifle club range. Dana Ballou put up a fine 50-shot score for the Kaufmann medal, this shooting puts him up in the expert class. There are very few riflemen today that can place 45 shots out of 50 in a two-inch circle at 50 yards, offhand. To date these are the five highest 50-shot scores made: Kaufmann 499, Shaldon 493, Palmer 487, Ballou 485, Stebbins 482.

The writer will not be surprised that some day one of these boys will make the possible 500.

Charles Palmer made the high score for the Edward medal, 94 out of a possible 100 on the expert target. Some few months ago Palmer and Kaufmann shot a 50-shot match on this target each making 475. This score broke the world's record by two points.

COLUMBIA

The Ladies' Aid society of Columbia Congregational church held the annual meeting at the home of Mrs. James A. Utley. The following officers were elected. First directress, Mrs. Alonzo Little; second, Mrs. Henry B. Hutchins; third, Mrs. Trosselion G. Tucker; secretary, Mrs. Lester C. Hutchins; treasurer, Miss Amelia Fuller. Miss Lillian Lyman, Mrs. Chas K. Hitchcock and Mrs. Clayton E. Hunt were elected as members of the social committee.

The treasurer reported cash on hand Sept., 1922, $54.56, received interest on Liberty bonds $8.50, sales of quilts and fancy work $24.50, sundry receipts $11.10, total $98.66.

Paid for the care of the church $36.40, paid sundry expenses $4.06, total 40.46. Deposited in the bank $40, balance in treasurer's hands $18.20, total $98.66.

During the past month the society has been having the parsonage put in thorough order for Rev. Charles G. Haun and family, Mr. Haun having accepted a call to the pastorate. Bills for the repairs amounting to $73.75 were presented and ordered paid.

Charles K. Hitchcock, Jr., of Bonnie Terre, Missouri, is spending a vacation in the east and is at present at the home of his parents on Columbia Green.

At the meeting of the grange last week the lecturer presented an entertaining programme in harmony with the customs and traditions of All Hallowe'en.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

Mrs. Frank Haigh is visiting her sister, Mrs. Howarth of Plymouth, Mass.

William E. Benton has been confined to the house for several days on account of illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ellis have moved to Hartford for the winter.

The hospital aid society is to meet at the Johnson Hospital Tuesday afternoon, at 2.30.

Mrs. Ethel Davis Strong of East Hampton has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Edith Davis, in West Stafford.

The engagement of Miss Elizabeth M. Sanders of Hartford, to Harold H. Comins of New York has been announced. Miss Sanders was at one time assistant in the kindergarten department of the borough school. Mr. Comins is a son of Mrs. Nettie Comins of High Street.

Miss Juliette Dondero has returned to Meriden, after a brief visit with friends in town.

Mrs. Ellen Morrison of Willimantic has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Gordon Chester.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Johnson, of Revere, Mass., are visiting friends in the borough.

CANTERBURY GREEN

Rev. Ralph Knight and family are now occupying the parsonage. Mr. Knight will continue his course at the Hartford Theological school, making the trips to that city by automobile for the present.

After an interlude of several weeks, the Ladies' Aid society resumed meetings Tuesday last at the home of Mrs. Clinton Frink. Plans are being made for the annual harvest supper.

Edward Green, for many years sexton at the church, has been taken seriously ill and was recently taken to Norwich state hospital. He had been in failing health for some time. Merritt Hawes is acting as sexton.

Recent week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wright were Mr. and Mrs. Bailey and son and Mr. and Mrs. Blake of Worcester.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brown of Norwood, Mass., visited over Sunday, the 14th, with their cousin, Mrs. Chauncey Frink.

Howard Hoxsie of Westbrook was a recent visitor here to accompany home his wife and children, who have been spending some time with Mrs. Hoxsie's aunt, Mrs. Sager. Mrs. Sager returned with the family to Westbrook.

Mr. Rietzell and daughters, with a friend, spent the short vacation over the holiday at their home in Elmdale.

A friend of William Barker, Mr. Curtin of Quincy, Mass., lately visited here and brought his radio set, which he installed so that the family had the pleasure of listening to a radio concert.

Mrs. Abbie Buss has returned to the Exley home after spending the summer in Willimantic.

Lucius Exley recently visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Exley, after two months' stay in New York. He has now returned to the University of Cincinnati, where he is studying mechanical engineering.

EAST COLCHESTER

The rain was very welcome as everything is very dry and wells are low.

Robert and Gloria Case of Norwich spent the week end with local relatives.

Guy Clark of Westchester has bought a wood lot of Patrick McGrath and intends to move his sawmill there soon.

Many a man's best thoughts appeared in yesterday's paper.

BACKING ENFORCEMENT.

In the conference held at Washington relative to the enforcement of law there was recognition given to the importance of giving particular attention to the studied efforts to break down the dry law.

The sentiment expressed was in keeping with the recognized demands of the situation. President Coolidge directed the attention of the governors to the fact that neither the constitutional amendment nor the act of enforcement relieves the states of their responsibilities, that no surrender of a state's responsibility is contemplated by it, but that because of them and the power to pass enforcing laws there is a responsibility resting on the states "which may not always be exercised, but which can never be avoided."

The president declared his determination to give to the law-abiding people that support and protection to which they are entitled against the lawless element, and the conference should result in an increased activity in keeping therewith. Certain evidences of an awakened endeavor in behalf of law enforcement have been noted within the past few months. Conditions have gotten to the point where some move of the kind was required. Law was being ignored right and left and even many who were supposed to uphold and enforce the law were dodging their responsibility. Corruption within the ranks of the dry law enforcers has been notorious.

The gathering of governors in their Indiana meeting was emphatically in behalf of backing up the law. There was no other consistent position that they could take. That with the Washington conference should have a beneficial effect. With the president pointing out to the states the responsibility resting on them there is reason to anticipate a quickening of the enforcement efforts and a better cooperation between the respective authorities. Whether that proves to be temporary or permanent remains to be seen.

THE HUNTING SEASON.

With the hunting season opened new dangers need to be guarded against.

There is the grave danger of shooting some companion or some other hunter in mistake for game.

There is the danger of so carrying the gun that it will be caught by a twig and unintentionally discharged with serious results to anyone who happens to be in front of the muzzle.

There is likewise the danger of starting fires in the woods by the careless casting aside of firebrands of one kind or another.

Because of the unusually dry fall there were those states in which the governor indefinitely postponed the opening of the hunting season. Recent rains serves to soak the leaves and underbrush so that the lifting of the ban was made possible soon after it was established. A few days are likely to change the situation, however, so that dry underbrush will again need to be carefully considered.

Many are there who get a vast amount of pleasure from hunting or traveling about the country in search of game. It is well to remember that there are certain laws which need to be carefully observed, and certain requirements that must be complied with before it is wise to set foot afield.

Keeping within the law and observing the requirements of safety, for self as well as others, cannot be too scrupulously followed. Precautions cannot be ignored and it is always well to bear in mind that proper consideration should be given to those on whose property any hunting is being done.

Hunters not only can be the cause of much damage but they can be a great nuisance. That is why they are not given a more cordial welcome in some sections. It only requires the faults of a few to cause embarrassments, troubles and restrictions for the many.

If there is a pleasure attached to hunting it is well worth preserving by taking good care that the privileges that are extended are not abused.

A SERIOUS PROBLEM.

According to the chairman of the safety section of the American Railway association railway crossing problems, which have increased 100 per cent. a year, represent one of the most serious problems now confronting the railroads.

The series of crossing accidents which has occurred in Indiana and Ohio within the past month fully support the great disregard there is for the danger at grade crossings.

In one test made at a city crossing there were 98 out of 250 drivers who never looked in either direction as they approached and crossed the railroad track, 65 looked only in one direction and only one actually stopped and looked in both directions. When investigations show that the number of instances where cars driven into trains is almost as great as where the locomotive strikes the car, it indicates the utter lack of regard for the real danger, and the refusal to profit by the lessons which are taught by too many fatalities.

With so many instances where families or entire auto loads of humanity are wiped out there would seem to be adequate warning to others. The railroad crossing should be feared instead of having it looked upon as a point which should be raced for. There are those who may delight in taking such chances but too many do not stop to realize that they are simply advancing the date of their funerals.

Not many people actually jump in front of a train to be destroyed, not many are going to deliberately halt their auto on a crossing with a train in sight, and yet that is what has been repeatedly done and is being done in an increasing number of cases by the auto drivers who fail to have their machines under proper control as they approach the crossings and who fail to look out for their own safety.

Safety campaigns have served to decrease accidents in many other directions. The greatest of all safety campaigns the lessons that are taught by the frightful crossing accidents should be enough to cut the crossing accidents in half instead of doubling them. Most certainly it is a serious problem.

MEXICO'S COMING ELECTION.

Regardless of the time it takes to get out of them Mexico has no difficulty in getting into troubles. It has been having one of its best administrations for a long time under Obregon. Efforts have been directed toward pacification and a building up of industrial effort. Unity has replaced the divided activities. How long it is going to continue in this channel is no small problem.

Mexico is getting ready for another election. If Obregon were to be a candidate there would be much less uncertainty concerning the result. He has announced, however, that he is not a candidate. This would seem to leave the field open to the one on whom his favor might rest were it a fact that there was no other looking for the office.

Obregon has expressed his intention to support Calles, a member of his cabinet. The surprising fact in connection with this is that Calles is rated as more or less of a red which causes some to be unwilling to follow such a lead. But what gives evidence of a spirited contest is the fact that Obregon and De la Huerta, another member of his cabinet, have broken and De la Huerta is out for the presidency.

De la Huerta appeals to those who are opposed to any red inclination. He has made a good impression in this country where, because he was secretary of the treasury, he has been connected with much financiering. Charges which are supposed to react against him politically are being made and the way paved for a warm contest for the office which Obregon will leave. Coming as it will so soon after this country has extended recognition more than the usual interest is bound to be manifested here.

ANOTHER BUFFALO KILLING.

There was a time when there was a fear that the buffalo was to become extinct. That isn't forecast by the announcement to the effect that about 3,000 of the herd in Wainright buffalo park in Canada are to be killed off because there are more than the forage will feed and the herd is increasing too rapidly.

It wasn't so many years ago that even greater slaughter of the buffalo was resorted to in this country. There was in fact the day when buffalo robes were all the rage, though few if any of them are to be seen today.

The Canadian government in maintaining a preserve for the buffaloes is doing what this country has done for a considerable time on a smaller scale. But with the demand for buffaloes much less than the supply it has become necessary to reduce the herd in order that other animals maintained on the reservation may likewise have a chance to exist and get sufficient food.

It hasn't taken many years for the comparatively small herd maintained by the Canadian government to reach the total of 3,000. Reducing the number by a quarter will still leave the number sufficiently large to meet all requirements and yet insure against the extermination of the animals. When the time comes for the killing it is to be expected that the buffalo steaks and the hides will not go to waste, and it doesn't appear that the Canadian government contemplates any such thing. It prefers to see that the herd is kept down to the size of the feeding ground instead of letting the herd go to unlimited numbers and skimping on the fodder.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

"Dam breaks in Oklahoma." Well, Oklahoma has been under a severe strain for some time.

Filling station gas is cut to 18 cents in Massachusetts, but there is another kind which still remains on the free list.

There hasn't been so much concern over low water supplies in many places since prohibition was put into effect.

Many there are who should not overlook the opportunities afforded to get an education through the evening schools.

Suspension of the hunting season in Massachusetts because of the drought was a commendable preventive move.

That hunger strike by the 12,000 Irish prisoners ought to mean quite a saving to the Irish Free State if kept up long enough.

The world's series is over, but not the season in which other cities determine that the series will not be played in New York next year.

The plan to bring General Oglethorpe's remains to this country has been blocked. Now let there be an end to such grave looting.

Even though there are 40,000 who want to leave Russia and come to this country it is not likely that will be flattered to the extent of letting them all in.

FROM LUCILLES DIARY

"How are you going to celebrate?" I asked Genevra Hughson the night before her birthday, when the Hughsons and George Reguier were playing bridge at our house.

"Mercy, how exclusive! Do be generous and let us have a picnic with you. I adore the Dunes, and so does George, don't you George?" I asked.

"Yes, but—" began George, who was cut short by Chuck, who said he thought it would be a lark for us all to go.

"How about it, old man?" he asked, turning to George.

"I'll be delighted to go on one condition, and that is, that I'm allowed to provide the lunch."

"But, George," protested Chuck "we don't go in for elaborate eats. Genevra just packs up some eggs and bacon, and we cook them over a bonfire, and we make coffee and have doughnuts or something."

"This time Mrs. Hughson is not to pack or cook anything. It's her day, and she isn't to do any work. Please let me take the responsibility," insisted George in his generous way.

Remembering how much room there is in George's car, I called up Louise Fuller that night after my guests had left, and invited her and Canby to go with us. It seemed a good opportunity to do something nice for Louise who has been "off" me of late for some

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Robert Bridges, England's poet laureate, who soon is to visit America for the purpose of lecturing at the University of Michigan, today enters upon his 80th year. Dr. Bridges has held the poet laureateship since 1913. Though not widely known at the time of his selection for the honorary post held in times past by such eminent poets as Johnson, Dryden, Southey, Wordsworth and Tennyson, he was credited with having exerted great influence in a select circle. He was born in 1844, was educated at Eton and at Oxford, studied medicine and practiced as a hospital physician until 1882, when he retired. For a time he privately printed his poetry and other compositions. The "Growth of Love" is a series of sixty-nine sonnets privately circulated from 1876 to 1889. In later years he published other volumes of his poems, as well as several comedies, romantic dramas, and historical tragedies. His work generally is marked by precision and delicacy.

Stories That Recall Others

A Miss is Good for a Mile.

A merchant who prided himself on thrift decided to make a special window display of men's clothing. He resurrected from his storeroom an antiquated signboard with adjustable letters. He found that some of the punctuation marks were missing but concluded that he could make out with what he had. He therefore managed to construct a sign which read "Mens Wear."

A number of persons stopped the next few days to gaze at the sign and the merchant congratulated himself on his skill in window decorating. The pastor of his church visited him and while there was a smile on his face, there was a certain sternness in his manner. "You've got to change that sign," he said. "Unfortunately, it's probably true, but there is no need to advertise such an unhappy phase of human nature. Besides, it is likely to have a bad impression upon the young people."

The amazed merchant ran out to the front of the store to find out what it was all about. He then scrutinized his handiwork. There was a picture of a man hunting for a lost collar button, demonstrating that it paid to keep a supply on hand. Almost immediately above the picture was the sign. But one of the letters had been displaced. The "s" in mens had been pushed along so that it joined "wear," and the sign read "Men swear."

strange reason. Knowing how abundantly George would provide, I did not bother to notify him that our party had grown. I confess that when he found the Fullers waiting with me to start, he did look astonished. But he recovered swiftly, and welcomed them warmly, and we soon drove off in the best of holiday spirits.

"Why are you going this way?" I asked George as he turned.

"To meet the Hughsons at the South Beach hotel."

"But we decided to meet at the South Shore club, after some discussion. Don't you remember?"

"No, probably you're right. My mind was on my catering duties last evening," he answered genially, and we were both surprised not to see the Hughsons at the appointed place.

"They should have been here ten minutes ago," he said.

"Well, you can't expect everybody to be as prompt as we are," I remarked, but we waited and waited and they did not appear. George went to a telephone and when he returned he said no one answered from their apartment. We went back to the hotel and they were not there.

"Oh, they have just gone on ahead," I reassured him, but as we drove and drove and did not overtake them, George grew anxious. I told him not to fret for I knew just where the Hughsons always had their picnics in the Dunes, and I could lead him right there. We were again disappointed not to find them where I expected.

"By jiminy, what shall we do?" asked George dolefully.

"It's after 1.30, I say we eat."

"But, Lucile, we can't eat without them," he protested.

"They may never come. At least let us each have a sandwich. Going without food always makes my head ache," I warned him, and he reluctantly opened the hamper.

The lunch was perfect. George had had it prepared by the chef at his club, and no dainty was forgotten.

"I do wish we could find the Hughsons," he said.

"No use hunting through all these sandhills," I answered. "We had best stay put, and let Chuck and Genevra come to us.' But they did not come, and at length we consumed the whole lunch, birthday cake and all. I was glad the Fullers were along, for I must say that George became a glum companion.

"Where in the world were you?" I asked Genevra over the phone last night. "We waited and waited for you," took all of its attention.

"And we waited and waited for you at the South Beach hotel. Then we went right on out to the Dunes, because we phoned your mother, and she said you had got an early start. We expected to find you at Tremont, but you weren't there, so after waiting again a long while, we bought some stale buns and some milk"

"I'm sorry you misunderstood," I told her.

"We didn't misunderstand," said Genevra sharply and she hung up.—Chicago News.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

An Appreciation.

Mr. Editor: We feel constrained to express our appreciation of the nature of The Bulletin's report of the recent fire in the Norwich Belt Manufacturing company's plant. It is rarely that a news report will tell even half the truth about a fire controlled by the automatic "firemen," the automatic sprinklers—the disposition seeming to be to give all the credit to the human firemen, who, of course, richly deserve it; but while the news press is not disposed to give credit where credit is due, the human firemen all over the country are disposed this way and an indication of this is an account of the facts of this fire as given by one of the most representative chiefs of fire departments in North America, Chief Stanton of Norwich, as follows:

"On the arrival of the department, the sprinklers having done the trick, two lines of hose were used less than three minutes and the fire was held by automatic sprinklers as usual where given a chance.

"The plant is of frame construction and with the contents is worth $450,000. The damage was less than $4,000 and the automatic sprinklers, five in number, saved the plant."

Yours very truly,

I. HOAGLAND,
Secretary National Automatic Sprinkler Association.

A Little Talk on Thrift

"It Doesn't Pay."

Recently a man in New York City was sent to prison because he had stolen his firm's money. As the solemn words which meant his incarceration in Sing Sing were pronounced he said to those standing near, "Well, it doesn't pay!"

No, it did not pay him when he was getting along well, saving money and advancing steadily with his firm, to begin making investments that were supposed to yield abnormal returns. One dollar can no more be made to do the work of many with safety and honesty than one brick can be made to fill the place of many in a wall that shall be safe and sound.

It did not pay this man when, after losing his savings in crooked stock deals, he tried to recoup his losses by risking additional funds. And it did not pay when, to secure these funds, it was necessary to juggle the books of the company he worked for. Also when he found that money could be obtained easily in this way, it did not pay him to begin leading a life of reckless extravagance.

Benjamin Franklin once wrote a little story of his boyhood days when he "paid too much for his whistle".

All those who are lured from prudent paths by the desire to pile up unearned riches invariably pay too much for their whistles. No, it does not pay.

The path of thrift is a safe one to travel. It may not seem to carry one into enchanted places where money is to be found "growing on bushes", yet it is to be noted that almost without exception the men in America who have amassed great fortunes have laid the foundations of their wealth in thrift.

Those who are content to acquire possessions slowly and steadily and indulge only in such pleasures as they can afford, will never stand amidst the wreckage of a ruined life some day and exclaim in their despair "Well, it doesn't pay."—American Thrift Society.

Teeth Beauty
Adds a premier charm
It comes by combating film

You who love beauty should learn this way to prettier teeth, if you don't know it now. That is one great beauty item.

Millions now use this method. You see the results today wherever you look. Now see them on your own teeth. Make this delightful test.

Film mars beauty

Your teeth are coated with a viscous film. You can feel it now. Under old-way brushing, much of it clings and stays. Soon it becomes discolored, then forms dingy coats. Teeth thus lose their beauty and lustre.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Then dental science found two ways to fight film. One disintegrates the film as it all stages of formation. The other removes it without harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods effective. Then a new-type tooth paste was created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Now careful people of every 20 nations employ it, largely by dental advice.

A constant fight

Then Pepsodent creates a constant fight on acids and starch deposits. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, also to starch digestant. Thus it gives marvelous power to those great tooth-protecting agents in the mouth.

The result is a new dazzling set. Men, women and children, all the world over, are enjoying it today.

You'll be surprised

The results of Pepsodent will amaze and delight you. They are quick and apparent, and you will realize what they mean to you and yours.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

Protect the Enamel
Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

Pittsburgh Man Tells How His Trouble Was Brought To End

"Well, sir, if any man has cause to be glad he tried Tanlac, I am that man," declared William Tietz, a machinist, of 4060 Howley St., Pittsburgh, Pa.

"For two years, I was in misery from stomach trouble. My kidneys also bothered me, I had backache continually, couldn't sleep right, and didn't feel like working at all.

"Tanlac drove these ailments right out, put me to eating, sleeping and feeling fine, and I now call myself a well man."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Edwin R. Edwards

After an illness of a week Margaret J. Murphy, wife of Edwin R. Edwards, of 44 Hinckley street, died in this city Monday morning. In March, 1888, she was united in marriage with Edwin R. Edwards by Rev. F. P. Shahan. Surviving are, her husband, two sons, John P. Edwards and Edwin J. Edwards, mail carrier, and two daughters, Mrs. A. J. Twomey of Westerly and Mrs. Joseph F. Lynch of this city. There are also nine grandchildren.

Mrs. Edwards was a member of St. Patrick's church and belonged to the Rosary society of St. Patrick's parish. She was a loving wife and mother and will be greatly missed in her home circle.

Mrs. Homer Soules.

Jennie Udell Soules, wife of Homer Soules, died at 9 o'clock Monday afternoon in this city after a lingering illness. Mrs. Soules began to fail in health last February and since September her condition had steadily become worse.

She was born in Providence 49 years ago, the daughter of Charles and Catherine Udell and 28 years ago last September in North Adams, Mass., was united in marriage with Homer Soules. For the past 4 years her home had been in Norwich, her residence at the time of her death being at 77 Church street.

Surviving besides her husband, Homer Soules, is one son, Norman of this city; also a brother, Walter Udell of Norwich. There are also relatives in Worcester and Providence.

She was a member of St. Mary's Memorial church and took active interest in church affairs until health prevented her from doing so. News of her death will be received with sorrow by her many friends, and sorrow is expressed for her family in its bereavement.

Mrs. William McNeely

After an illness of about a year, Fannie J. Lyon, widow of William McNeely, died Monday evening at 6.30 o'clock at her home at 480 Boswell avenue.

Mrs. McNeely was born in Duninneely, County Donegal, Ireland, on January 12, 1849, the daughter of William Lyon and Bessie Coayngham. Fifty years ago on July 4th, she was united in marriage in New York city with William McNeely, who died in this city seven years ago Sept. 24th, last. Nine children were born to them, seven of whom survive, Mrs. F. E. Robinson, Mrs. H. E. Wightman, Mrs. C. H. Kimball and William McNeely of Norwich, Mrs. H. A. Fowler of Claremont, N. H., Mrs. C. A. Ranger of Waterbury and John H. McNeely of Clinton, Conn. A daughter, Harriet Maud, died at the age of two years; another daughter, Mrs. Herbert D. Armstrong, passed away in this city at the age of 28 years. A brother, George C. Lyon, passed away in Norwich in July, 1902. There are also thirteen grandchildren surviving and several nephews and nieces, also one sister, Mrs. John D. Hollingsworth of Norwich, and one brother, William Lyon of Dunkineen, County Donegal, Ireland.

Mrs. McNeely was a member of St. Andrew's Episcopal church for over thirty-five years and was always a faithful attendant. She was a loving, conscientious mother whose only thought was of her home and children.

Mrs. Edward J. Morrisey

After an illness of about 8 weeks Dula Fenton, beloved wife of Edward J. Morrisey of New Milford, Conn., died Monday afternoon at 2.15 o'clock in this city. Mrs. Morrisey had been spending the summer with her nieces, the Misses Fitzpatrick, of 159 Cliff street and was taken ill about two months ago, best medical care failing to restore her to health.

She was born in Richmond, Va., the daughter of Patrick and Mary Dady Fenton, and came to this city with her parents when a child, living in Greeneville, where her girlhood days were spent. On April 26, 1892, in New Milford, she was united in marriage with Edward J. Morrisey, the ceremony being conducted by Rev. T. J. Kelley.

She is survived by her husband, a retired lumber merchant of New Milford, one brother, Michael Fenton of New Haven, one nephew, Dennis J. Fitzpatrick of California and six nieces, Mrs. Catherine M. Harrington, Mrs. Daniel Barry and the Misses Mary G., Elizabeth B., Anna A., and Josephine T. Fitzpatrick all of Norwich.

She was a member of St. Xavier church of New Milford and president of the Catholic Charitable society of the church where she was a devoted member. Her numerous friends will learn of her death with sorrow and regrets are being expressed to her relatives.

FUNERAL

Mrs. Charles Church.

Monday afternoon the funeral of Mrs. Charles Church was held at her late home in Uncasville, in the presence of many friends. The Rev. Mr. Smith, pastor of the M. E. church, and the Rev. J. B. Aldrich of Norwich Town, a former pastor, officiated. Burial was in Comstock cemetery. The bearers were: Nelson Church, Oscar Church, Julian Church and Elmer Brown.

The death of Mrs. Church marks the passing of an old and valued citizen. She was born in New London in 1837 and her life was spent in the vicinity of her native town. She was preeminently a homemaker and a good neighbor and her helpfulness and influence will be missed in the community she delighted to serve. Mrs. Church was the widow of Capt. Charles Church, a well known whaling captain who died several years ago.

$60,937 IN PLEDGES ON FIRST DAY STARTS HOSPITAL CAMPAIGN WITH A RUSH

The town hall shook with thunders of applause Monday evening when the first reports of the teams in the Backus hospital campaign for $250,000 showed the great total of $60,937 in subscriptions.

Of this the Norwich men's and women's teams, with the executive committee, accounted for $54,687, and Jewett City, which was the only one of the outlying districts to report, added the fine figure of $14,850, which drew out a hearty burst of applause.

The big company of about 500 workers which had assembled for the usual supper was on the qui vive to hear what the first reports were and as each team captain gave his figures he was applauded with special bursts of enthusiasm for the two leading teams, Dr. R. R. Agnew's in the men's division with $3,493, Mrs. O. L. Johnson's in the women's division with $6,765 and the executive committee with $16,710. The women led the men in the total with $15,859 as against the men's $13,678.

At the supper at 6.30, Russell A. Clapp, jr., was song leader and music was by Swahn's orchestra. Chairman James L. Case called upon Rev. M. H. May, pastor of St. Patrick's church, to say grace, and following the supper the chairman introduced President H. A. Tirrell of the hospital board to make some announcements.

Mr. Tirrell said in view of some criticism that had been circulating about the expense of this campaign he wished to say that those in charge of the drive had at first endeavored to get some Norwich man to undertake the direction. This proved impossible and it was then unanimously agreed to secure an expert at this work. Mr. Cleveland was secured and he is to receive two per cent of the money raised. We hope that he will receive a large sum for we know that without him we probably wouldn't get 98 per cent of what we are going to get. Then there has been $4,500 laid aside for expenses of all kinds. The comparatively small sum of money spent for these suppers, said Mr. Tirrell, is felt to be fully justified by the results obtained. As my friend, Alex Pasnik told me, said Mr. Tirrell, "I'm no slouch of a business man, but if any man will bring me business I'll pay him 10 per cent and say 'Thank you' for it."

Chairman Case added a word that he had never a campaign with so little criticism of it and as for Mr. Cleveland, the campaign manager, he was so far ahead of any other expert he had known that there was no comparison. Mr. Case especially urged the members of the teams to be on time for the suppers at 6.30 each evening.

Bishop Murray Speaks.

Bishop John G. Murray of Hartford was the special speaker and guest of the evening. He was introduced by Rev. W. A. Keefe, pastor of St. Mary's Memorial church, who inspired the workers as he spoke of this wonderful gathering that had brought together people from all parts of the city who were working in complete harmony for one purpose. Father Keefe said he was confident this drive was to go gloriously over the top as other drives in Norwich have done. There is not a man or a woman on the teams but can say the drive is for himself or herself, and it's the best cause we have been called on to work in for many a day. He advised that the workers follow the rules of the organization and they will be bound to send the drive over the top to $500,000.

The entire assemblage stood and applauded Bishop Murray as he rose to speak and held the close attention of his hearers with his vigorous words in endorsing the great Norwich community effort.

Unselfishness, he declared, was at the basis of all good citizenship and those workers are engaged for an unselfish cause that can reach every heart. What can present a stronger appeal than a hospital? A hospital is not primarily what its buildings only appear to be. The vital element is the personnel, the physicians and surgeons and the nursing element. If you hope to develop the highest type of nursing service, you owe it to the nurse to give her the best accommodations, the kind of accommodations she needs and which will inspire in her a new enthusiasm for her work. Those are your representatives and doing a service in your name. They desire to give the best that is in them to that service and this imposes an obligation upon the entire community to support their work. You never know when the emergency service may be called on for yourselves, and in supplying it for others you give insurance and protection for yourselves.

Bishop Murray asked why Norwich shouldn't double its quota. The committee had been too modest, he said, in what it was asking the community to do. New Britain had set a quota of $200,000 and had reached $754,000. Bristol had gone from $300,000 to $560,000. Let us make the first figure in our results a 3 or a 4 or a 5, instead of a 2.

Following Bishop Murray's stirring address, the meeting was given over to hearing the reports.

SETS $10,000 BAIL FOR WATERFORD DOCTOR

New London, Oct. 22.—Dr. Charles A. Gasson, 48, of Station 17, Waterford, was arrested tonight by County Detective William Lewis and State Policeman Sergeant Clifford Gorgas charged with abortion. He was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Thomas F. Morton and the case continued until Wednesday. He was held in $10,000 bail and being unable to procure a surety on his bond he was committed to jail to await trial. The warrant for the arrest of Gasson was issued by Grand Juror Ernest H. Lewis of Waterford. Dr. Gasson was formerly located in New London at that time being a civilian in the employ of the government at the dispensary at Fort Trumbull. It is understood that County Detective Lewis has obtained information that may lead to other arrests.

Dr. Gasson was arrested at 10 o'clock and was given an immediate hearing and after being committed to jail an unsuccessful attempt was made by friends to procure bail. Dr. Gasson is married and has been a resident of New London about 10 years.

Roy Ellis, 19, was arrested tonight by Patrolman Braxton Hill when the officer, who was in plain clothes, detected Ellis stealing a motometer from the automobile of Frederick Dunn while the machine was parked in front of the Y. M. C. A. on Meridian street. The arrest of Ellis occurred following complaint made to the police by George R. Fisher of Nathan Hale street that his automobile had been entered and equipment stole while his machine was in front of the building. Officer Hill was sent to Meridian street and arrived there in time to observe Ellis removing the meter from Dunn's machine. At the police station Ellis declared that a stranger offered him 25 cents to procure the meter from Dunn's car. He denied all knowledge of the theft of the contents of Fisher's car.

GIVES FINE PROGRAMME FOR Y. M. C. A. COURSE

The Russian Cathedral Sextette delighted an audience of 350 at the Y. M. C. A. building Monday evening in the opening number of the course of three entertainments to be given this fall and winter by the "Y" management. The sextette well merited the hearty bursts of applause that greeted them at the close of each number and the audience was very appreciative of the unusual programme presented. The entertainment as a whole was a rare treat to the music lovers of Norwich. The sextette includes Mme. Alexandra Shlikevitch, soprano, Mme. Xenia Ogranoff, mezzo soprano; Alexander Vikinsky, first tenor; Nicholas Vasilieff, second tenor; Nicholas Antonoff, bass; Alexander Kandiba, bass and Harry E. Wilhelm, pianist.

The programme was given in two parts as follows:

Part I—In Church, Tschaikowsky; Prayer of the Good Thief, Lvoff, sextette; Zascolka, Kossacks' song; The Painter, Dimoff, quartette; duet, Sea Gulls Cry, Grodski, soprano and mezzo soprano; solo, For You Alone, Geehl, first tenor, piano solo, Scherzo in B minor, Mendelssohn; En Route, Godard; A Song of India, Rinsky-Korsakoff; Mighty Like a Rose, Nevin, sextette; intermission.

Part II.—Red Sarafan, Variamoff; Kalinka, folk song, sextette; Di Lu Li, folk song; Vanka Tanka, folk song, quartette; The World Is Waiting for the Sunrise; Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses, and Somewhere a Voice Is Calling, Nicholas Vasilieff; The Two Grenadiers, Schuwann, Alexander Kandiba; Shades of Night, Arkhangelsky, Sextette from Lucia, Donizetti, sextette.

The piano used was loaned by The Talking Machine Shop.

WEDDINGS.

Coffey-Hedler.

Thomas Michael Coffey and Miss Anna Emma Hedler, both of Occum, were united in marriage Monday morning at St. Joseph's church, Occum, by Rev. Frederick R. H. DesGeraault, the rector. The bridesmaid was Miss Alice Sheller and the best man was John Coffey. Following the church ceremony there was a reception and breakfast at the home of the bride's parents in Occum. The bride and groom left during the day for a wedding trip and on their return they will reside in Norwich.

Mr. Coffey is the son of Michael and Mary Wood Coffey and was born in Occum. He is employed as a meat cutter. His bride is the daughter of Andrew and Bertha Wunderlich Hedler and has always lived in Occum. The bride received a number of beautiful gifts. Both are well known and are popular with their many friends who extend them best wishes in their married life.

Jones—Smith

Miss Margaret Holt Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bishop Smith of Poquonock and Jordan, and Lloyd Backus Jones, son of Dr. D. J. Jones of Norwich, were married Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, at St. James Episcopal church, New London, Rev. Philip Markham Kerridge, the rector, officiating. They were unattended.

Miss Smith, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of brown and tan duvetyne with a hat of dark blue velvet trimmed with ostrich tips. She carried a bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley.

Following the ceremony, which was witnessed by members of the two families and a few intimate friends, Mr. Jones and his bride left by motor for Boston. Before returning to Norwich, where they are to make their home, they will visit relatives in New York and Brooklyn, N. Y.

The bride is a granddaughter of Mrs. Frederick M. Smith of the Mohican hotel and a niece of Henry Hut Smith, assistant treasurer of the Mariners savings bank, New London.

Mr. Jones is a grandson of the late Asa Backus, a prominent resident of East Great Plain, Norwich.

RACE BETWEEN ZEV AND MY OWN IS PRACTICALLY ASSURED FOR NOV. 3RD

New York, Oct. 22—(By the A. P.)—Zev, international three-year-old champion as a result of its decisive victory Saturday over Papyrus, the English derby winner, will settle his rivalry with My Own for American honors in the Latonia championship at Latonia, Ky., November 3, unless present plans go astray.

Samuel C. Hildreth, trainer of Zev, today announced that the Rancocas colt would be shipped to Latonia next week for the big stake and as rear admiral Cary T. Grayson, owner of My Own, already had entered his unbeaten star, it seems assured that these two thoroughbreds would settle their disputed question of supremacy.

"Nothing will keep Zev out of the race except a break-down," declared Hildreth, who added that he had declined to enter his charge in the $25,000 Washington handicap, at a mile and a quarter, to be run as the closing feature at Laurel, Md., next Saturday. My Own is an entry in this event but there was some speculation today as to whether Admiral Grayson might desire to have the great son of King James match strides with Zev.

Should My Own and Zev meet at Latonia it would be a real test for both thoroughbreds for the championship is at a mile and three-quarters, two furlongs longer than the international race. My Own has proved his worth as a distance runner on more than one occasion this season and Zev disproved the contention of critics that he lacked staying qualities by demonstrating both unusual stamina as well as marvelous speed in conquering Papyrus.

Matt Winn, general manager of Latonia track, announced today that he would increase the value of the championship purse to the winner from $34,000 to $50,000, providing Zev and My Own go to the post.

In such an event, Zev, if victorious, would come close to eclipsing the world's money winning record for a thoroughbred. This record, $320,000, now is held by Ksar, a French horse. By taking $80,000 of the $100,000 international purse, Zev increased his earnings to $254,936, setting a new American high mark, so that $50,000 more would put the Rancocas star's figure beyond $300,000 and within striking distance of the top.

Hildreth declared he would not consent to a special match between Zev and My Own but furthers considered it likely that the prospective meeting of the pair at Latonia would amount to the same thing. They considered it as likely that other entries in the championship might be scratched because of the central interest in the My Own-Zev contest, which has been a source of heated contention since the two were rival candidates for the honor of meeting Papyrus.

With turf interest drawn to Zev and My Own, Papyrus, the gallant Britisher, drew but scant attention when he embarked this afternoon on the Aquitania, due to sail tomorrow morning for England. With him will go Basil Jarvis, trainer, and Steve Donoghue, the famous little jockey, who won his fifth derby astride Papyrus at Epsom Downs this year.

After this trip by van from Belmont Park, where he plckered his farewell to a small gathering of thoroughbred followers, Papyrus went up the specially constructed tarpaulin-lined gangway leading to "E" deck and the pneumatic-cushioned stall in which he made the trip to this country.

The derby winner was as unconcerned as when he went to the barrier with Zev Saturday and a few seconds after entering his box was munching his particular brand of hay.

Trainer Jarvis said Papyrus came out of the race in good condition. He voiced his appreciation for the sportsmanlike treatment he and his association were accorded during their stay here. He laid Papyrus' poor showing in the race to the heavy track conditions.

Donoghue bade his adieu to American tracks by riding two mounts at Empire city track this afternoon. He could do not better than third, however, each time. Astride Ladkin, of August Belmont's stable, he took the small end of the purse in the fourth race, which H. T. Waters, an outsider, won in 1:05 1-2, a track record for the five and a half furlongs. In the sixth race, Donoghue had the leg up on Dominique and finished third again. Hullabaloo nosing out Amor Patrias, ridden by Earl Sande, in the last jump.

Though disappointed in his desire to have My Own race Papyrus, Admiral Grayson's readiness to keep his colt fit to substitute for Zev in an emergency has been recognized by the Jockey Club, which announced today the presentation of a silver cup, made in 1766, to the Washington sportsman as a mark of its appreciation.

ORIOLES BEAT BLUES IN SEVENTH GAME

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 23—(By the A. P.)—The Orioles prolonged the little world series by winning the seventh game from Kansas City at Oriole park this afternoon, 10 to 9. Five runs behind, when they came in for their final bats, the Blues finished a thrilling five run rally, tying the score and knocking Lefty Groves from the rubber. Tommy Thomas was rushed to the rescue and stopped the run making after allowing one hit.

Baltimore, however, came back in its half of the ninth and scored the necessary run to win. Wilkinson who had been sent in to pitch after a pinch hitter had batted for Zinn, started badly by walking Maisel. Porter singled over short and Sheedy was hit, filling the bases. Bishop grounded to Hammond and Maisel was forced out at the plate. With two strikes and no balls, Styles dropped a Texas leaguer back of second, scoring Porter with the winning run.

Displaying more pep and punch than at any time in the series, the Orioles played the Blues off their feet in the early stages of the game. Lefty Schupp was batted from the box and Zinn, who followed him, fared little better. Styles, Porter, Bishop and Lawry hit homers for the winners, while Brief banged the ball out of the lot for Kansas City in the stirring ninth with two men on bases. Good and Scott also made homers for the Blues.

A cold, biting wind blew across the field all during the game, making it uncomfortable for both players and spectators. Today's attendance was the smallest of the series, only 15,567 paying $2,520.60 to see the game.

The series now stands four for Kansas City and three for Baltimore.

LEE FOHL SELECTED TO MANAGE THE RED SOX

Boston, Oct. 22—President Robert Quinn, of the Boston American League club, announced tonight that Lee Fohl, former manager of the St. Louis Browns, had consented to manage the Red Sox during the 1924 season, succeeding Frank Chance. Fohl was let out by the St. Louis Club in midseason this year.

President Quinn said he had received a telegram today from Fohl saying that he had arranged his personal affairs so that he could come to Boston next year to manage the club. Fohld added, Quinn said, that he would come to Boston in a few days to sign a contract. According to the Red Sox president there has been no dispute as to terms and nothing remains but the signing of the contract.

Quinn also announced the unconditional release of Jimmie Burke, who was assistant to Frank Chance during the latter's term as Red Sox manager.

COLUMBIA HITS ROCKS BUT SLIGHT INJURIES RESULT

Gloucester, Mass., October 22—The schooner Columbia, challenger for the international fishermen's trophy, hit a rock just outside Gloucester harbor today while on her way to Halifax to meet the Canadian defender Bluenose in the race series scheduled to begin Saturday. Captain Ben Pine brought the vessel back to port for examination and possible repair. Her injuries are not believed to be serious.

The schooner struck just outside of Great Round Rock which is marked with a spar buoy and lies off the breakwater at the entrance to the harbor. The after part of the vessel collided twice with the obstruction with a heavy jar, no leak followed but Captain Pine decided to "play safe" and returned to port. The Columbia was tied up at her wharf tonight and will be hauled out on the marine railway in the morning.

"We lost no time by coming back," the skipper said. "We would have encountered head winds anyway. I believe a couple of hours on the railway will be all the boat needs and we will sail for Halifax tomorrow afternoon."

The return of the Columbia, which had been sped on her journey, a short time before with the ringing of bells and blowing of whistles from a gleam over the city and recalled the tradition that a "jinx" seems to follow all Gloucester contenders in international schooner races, broke in the season the Columbia was in collision with a French trawler near Sable Island. She is the latest in a series of racing schooners many of which have met with disaster.

Among the major untoward incidents cited by the superstitious fisherfolk to prove that the International race is unlucky is Gloucester ships are the loss of the Esperanto and the wreck of the Puritan. The Esperanto, winner of the first international series sailed at Halifax in 1920, was lost the next year on Sable Island. The Puritan, built to replace her, as a cup contender, was wrecked in the summer of 1923 almost on the same spot. The Henry Ford last year's contender, had her share of mishap, grounding on a sand bar soon after her launching.

GREB BEATS BOGASH BY A SLIGHT MARGIN

Newark, N. J., Oct. 22—Harry Greb of Pittsburgh, middleweight champion, tonight defeated Lou Bogash of Bridgeport, Conn., by a shade in a 12 round no-decision bout, according to a newspapermen's decision.

Greb was booed throughout the encounter by the large crowd because of his habit of gripping his left around Bogash's neck and raining hammer blows on his opponent's head and neck. The booing continued until he went to his dressing room.

Owing to the state law, Greb's title was not at stake. He weighed in at 166 pounds and Bogash at 168. The newspapermen gave Greb five rounds, Bogash four and called three even.

Greb fought his usual fight, dancing in all four corners of the ring, but Bogash was often the aggressor and was not backward in exchanging blows with the champion.

MATCH RACE BETWEEN HAPPY THOUGHTS AND SARAZEN

Laurel, Md., Oct. 22.—Mrs. V. K. Vanderbilt's Sarazen and E. F. Simms' Happy Thoughts have been matched for a six furlong race at this track Friday, the winner to receive $15,000, it was announced by Spalding Lowe Jenkins, president of the Maryland Satte Fair association, which operates the track.

Both horses are unbeaten, Sarazen having scored eight and Happy Thoughts six consecutive victories.

Earle Sande, who rode Zev to victory over Papyrus Saturday, will have the mount on Sarazen. Andy Schuttinger is to ride Happy Thoughts.

Mrs. Vanderbilt's horse will carry 118 pounds in the race and the Simms colt 116.

GANS KNOCKS OUT BLACK IN EIGHTH

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 22.—Panama Joe Gans of New York tonight knocked out "Whitey" Black of Detroit in the eighth round of a ten round bout. Black took the count while resting on one knee, going down after a light blow. Referee Dick Nugent of Buffalo, 33 seconds before the knockout came, ordered Black to fight and threatened to stop the bout, he said afterwards. Clarence Jennings, deputy state athletic commissioner, ordered Black's money held up until the fight could be investigated. Neither man landed a telling blow during the eight rounds. They are welterweights.

VILLA WINS POPULAR VERDICT OVER WHITE

Philadelphia, Oct. 22.—Pancho Villa, flyweight champion, went out of his division tonight and won the popular decision over Jabez White, Albany, N. Y., bantamweight. White had an advantage of nine pounds in weight, but his handicap apparently did not bother the Filipino, who, in the opinion of the majority of the newspapermen at the ringside, had the better of the bout throughout.

Villa landed a hard blow on White's face in the third round and at the end of the fight the Albany boxer's nose was still bleeding profusely.

BABE RUTH GOES HITLESS AGAINST MINE PITCHER

Hazelton, Pa., Oct. 22—Babe Ruth came to Hazelton today for a baseball game. It was made a holiday, the mines closing down at noon and public schools of all towns in the region closing at an early hour. Mine workers left their posts at the majority of operations in such numbers that work had to be suspended. Babe went hitless against Mondero, a mine worker of Coleraine, who pitched for the Hazelton team. He struck out the home run king but twice.

Donoghue Rides at New York.

New York, Oct. 22.—Steve Donoghue, famous British jockey, who rode Papyrus in the international race Saturday with Zev, accepted mounts in two of today's races at Empire City track but could do no better than third either time. Donoghue got third place with Ladkin in the fourth race, won by H. T. Waters, and landed the small end of the purse with Dominique in the sixth, which was captured by Armor Patrias.

Vanderbilt Cancels U. of M.

Ann Arbor, Oct. 22.—The Vanderbilt-Michigan game will probably be dropped when next year's schedule is drawn, it was indicated at the offices of Fielding H. Yost, director of athletics at the University of Michigan, today.

Word has been received here that Vanderbilt is considering replacing the Wolverines on their schedule with an eastern team, probably Yale.

FOUR-TEAM INDOOR BASEBALL LEAGUE IS ORGANIZED IN NORWICH

On Monday evening at the state armory following the drill of Battery B a four team indoor baseball league was organized comprising the two service teams, Battery B and the Combat Train. The Nuggets and Spencer's Colts. Final arrangements were not completed last evening and another meeting will be called at which time officers of the league will be appointed and a few minor details regarding the schedule and expenses will be taken up.

All four of these teams played in a series last year and the interest was at top notch during the entire season and this year with a league well organized there should be plenty competition during the coming season. The league will probably be started the first Monday night in November with the Battery playing either the Nuggets or Colts in the opening game, the Combat Train will probably open the season against one of the outside teams.

Nuggets Beat Battery in Practice Game

In a practice game preliminary to the opening of the indoor league the Nuggets took a hard fought battle from the Battery team by a score of 5 to 5. The game was one of the best played in the armory in some time and was productive of much good playing by both teams.

The Nuggets started their half of the inning very unsuspiciously while the Soldiers started off with a whirlwind attack on Georgie Madden's slow underhand ball that netted two runs. The Nuggets in the second inning tried but fell short, but in this frame held the battery to no score. The third inning was the start of the Nuggets march to victory and they scored two runs making it an even score. The Battery boys in their turn retaliated with two big and lusty runs giving them their two run advantage. Coming into the fourth inning trailing by two runs again the Nuggets annexed enough counters to make it 4 all. The battery artillery was silenced for five innings while the Nuggets by consistant plugging secured one lone tally in the sixth inning giving them a slight margin. However going into the ninth inning with one run lead the Nuggets let down a barrage of hits that netted two runs and then the Battery thoroughly disorganized presented the Nuggets two more runs with wild pegs.

With a commanding lead of five runs Georgie Madden pitched the best ball of the game getting his first two men with ease. The Battery made one last threat with two down and by wild base running and two hits scored one run before the final out.

The outstanding feature was the work of Manchester behind the bat and a large percentage of the put outs were due to his speed. Madden also pitched a good game. Freddy Bush in the outfield was also a shining light. Lemieux, Coleman and Morse were the stars for the Battery.

MY OWN RETURNS TO STABLE WITH COLD

Washington Oct. 22.—My Own, Admiral Grayson's three year old thoroughbred, returned to his stable at Laurel today with a cold and coughing badly. The colt caught the cold, Trainer Burch said, in the hurried trip to New York and back, and being worked out in the rain at the New York tracks last Saturday. I hope we will have My Own in shape to meet all his engagements, including the race at Latonia," said Admiral Grayson. "He has been keyed up since September for the international match race and I hope he won't go stale. His cold is bad (but not necessarily serious and I hope to have him in condition again soon."

Martin Now State Cop.

Charleston, W. Va., Oct. 22.—Bob Martin, heavyweight boxer, donned the uniform of a state trooper today and went on duty with a special patrol at Webster Springs. Martin enlisted, as a "buck" private in the state police Saturday.

Speaker Leaves for Home.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 22.—Tris Speaker, manager of the Cleveland American league team, left here tonight for his home in Hubbard City, Tex., after a ten days' fishing trip in Canada. Speaker said the Indians would again train at Lakeland, Fla., next spring, adding that the loder pitchers would again be sent to Hot Springs, Ark., about two weeks in advance of the other players' departure for Lakeland.

AUTO DASHES WILD ON WESTERLY STREET

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, Oct. 22—While driving the Stuart-six automobile of Mrs. Harriet M. Greene, accompanied by her son, F. Stewart Greene, Mrs. Norman Bromley of New Britain, who has passed the summer in Westerly, apparently became confused as someone crossed the street and drove upon the sidewalk this afternoon about 4.30, striking Frank E. Brown of No. 264 West Broad street. She was driving down Granite street, near the high school building when the machine ran upon the sidewalk and struck Mr. Brown as he was returning to Coleman's electric shop, where he is employed, with a basket of tools. He was knocked down and was dragged out into the middle of the street where he was left as the automobile dashed across Broad street and crashed into the front of the Buick car of George W. Woodward, parked near the front of the water works office. The Woodward car sustained a smashed front wheel and front of the car with little damage to the Greene car. The occupants sustained a nervous shock.

Mr. Brown was picked up by Highway Superintendent Leone and carried to the office of Dr. John Champlin. Here it was found that his left ear was ground off, practically severed and hung by the lobe. The left side of his face was ground with dirt. He sustained two scalp wounds, one 6 cut which required several stitches to close. His right ear and nose were skinned with four or five abrasions, one on each hand and abrasions and contusions near the right hip caused by pliers which were in his pockets. His left foot and left leg were skinned. Dr. Champlin sewed on the severed ear and treated the numerous injuries. Mr. Brown was taken to his home in the automobile of Harry H. Coleman.

Mrs. Bromley was detained by the police until a hearing before Clerk M. Walter Flynn in a special session of the Third district court. She was released on $500 bail furnished by Mrs. Harriet M. Greene to appear in district court next Friday morning in answer to a reckless driving charge. Mrs. Bromley is said to have been familiar with operating a Ford automobile but this is the second time that she had operated a larger machine.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS UNSETTLED.

New York, Oct. 23.—Stock prices opened firm in today's market, despite the unfavorable week end political developments in Germany, but the general list turned heavy in the third hour on selling believed to have been inspired by the increasing weakness of the foreign exchanges, demand sterling and German marks touching new low levels for the year. Speculative interest, except in a few special issues, was at low ebb, the day's volume of business totaling only about half a million shares.

When the market opened Wall street appeared to be of the opinion that stock prices already had discounted the worst that could happen in Germany and that the week end uprisings would have little effect on the domestic economic situation. Short covering operations were resumed in the leaders with the result that gains of a point or so were recorded by Baldwin and American Locomotives, American Can and Dupont.

The continued heaviness of sterling, which dropped below $4.50 and was attributed to the withdrawal of American bank balances in London, through fear of inflationary measures in Great Britain, eventually created a pessimistic sentiment among professional traders which found its reflection in a larger volume of selling orders.

Special weakness again cropped out in the rubber shares, U. S. Rubber common and first preferred sinking to new low levels for the year. New minimum prices also were established by a number of other issues including Central Leather preferred, Texas & Pacific Coal & Oil, Amo Knitted Hosiery, Pressed Steel Car preferred, Illinois Central preferred and Columbia Graphophone preferred.

The market, however, was not without its bright spots, Woolworth jumped 6 points to 271, a new 1923 top, and Kresge climbed 10 points to 145 1-4. New bank prices also were established by Tobacco Products A, Reynolds Tobacco B and Pacific Telephone. Merger negotiations were again responsible for the strength of the tobacco stocks. Declaration of a higher dividend by the directors of the Hartman Corporation carried that stock to 86 5-8 but it slipped back to 84 3-4 later on profit taking.

In the foreign exchange market, French and Belgian francs each broke about 13 points, the former selling around 5.77, cents and the latter around 4.86 1-2 cents. German marks sold as low as two cents a billion.

Brokers were reported to be lending large sums on call. The call money rate opened at 4 1-2 and easing to 4 before the close. The time money market was dull with brokers bidding 5 and bankers asking 5 1-4, some 90 day loans being arranged at the higher figure. Only a limited amount of commercial paper is coming into the market. The bulk of the prime names moving at 5 1-4 per cent.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—Ideal weather for conditioning the corn crop led to a decided setback today in the price of that cereal and had a bearish effect on wheat, but gossip about prospective amendment of the Capper-Tincher bill tended somewhat to rally the wheat market at the last. The finish in wheat was unsettled at the same as Saturday's close to 3-8 cent down with corn 1c to 3c lower, oats 1-4 to 5-8c off, and provisions varying from 8 cents decline to 12 cents advance.

With the corn market weak from the outset, wheat bulls were at a disadvantage although the wheat market showed a little firmness during the first few minutes. The initial appearance of strength in wheat was ascribed to the fact that wheat shipments frm North America were large and that Liverpool quotations were higher. Unsettled conditions in Germany, however, and an increase of the United States visible supply were adverse factors, as was a bearish estimate of the Argentine crop. Besides, France was said to have concluded arrangements with Russia for a large supply, and dispatches at hand announced the lifting of Russian taxes on export grain.

As the day grew to an end assertions which were current that President Collidge was to investigate the merits of the Capper Tincher bill attracted notice of the bull side of the wheat market. Bulls also put some stress on further talk about foreign credit plans in wheat exports from the United States. In the corn market the fine weather was generally looked upon as the forerunner of big receipts. Demand for nearby deliveries was much less in evidence than has recently been the case. Oats declined with corn.

CURB MARKET.

New York, Oct. 23.—There was a fair sized accumulation of week-end buying orders in today's curb market, giving opening prices a firm tone. Considerable activity developed in Park & Tilford, which moved up nearly 2 points to 38, a new top, but the rest of the list with a few exceptions, turned reactionary, closing prices representing net losses of small fractions to 8 1-2 points in the close of Standard Oil of Ohio.

The heavy buying movement that appeared in Hartman Corporation on Saturday was explained by the increased dividend today which sent the new stock, selling on a "when issued basis up to 42 3-4 a new top, but it dropped back to 41 at the close. Cleveland Motors dropped to a new low at 23 on a small turnover.

Oils were mixed, the active issues showing irregular and fractional changes. Standard Oil of Indiana and Southern States Oil, the two most active issues, showed slight recessions.

BOND MARKET.

New York, Oct. 22.—A rather free offering of European bonds during the forenoon and steady sale of Mexican issues throughout the session gave today's bond market an unsettled appearance. Net changes, however, closing prices showed, were comparatively small, with high grade railroad mortgages and a majority of the domestic industrial liens pointing upward. Active United States government bonds also recorded moderate improvement.

Both the Mexican 4s and 5s were heavy on news dispatches of possible interruption of the Mexico debt agreement as a result of political differences in Mexico. Commenting informally on such dispatches, Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co., chairman of the international committee of bankers on Mexico said members of the committee were confident the agreement would be carried out. The Mexican 4s sagged a point and the 5s 2 3-8s both touching new lows for the year.

The demand for high grade investment railroad mortgages, while slightly less than some days last week, continued in fair volume. Secondary issues were shaded a trifle. There was some selling of Public Utility liens, but a wide assortment of industrials moved forward fractionally.

The $15,000,000 debenture bond offering of the International Match Corporation was readily sold and the books closed. Other offerings included the $10,000,000 federal intermediate credit banks issue, also were reported as moving in fair volume.

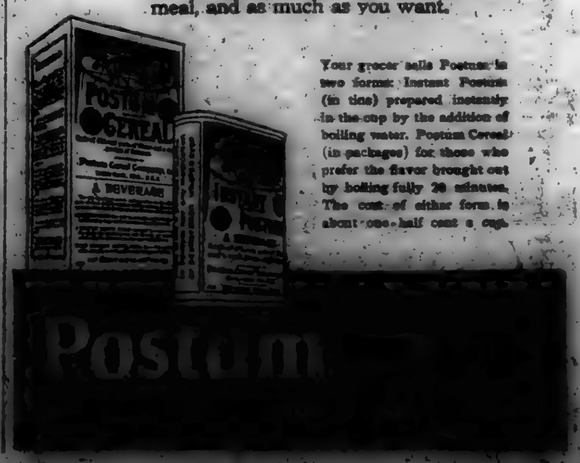
Do you take orders from a Coffee Pot?

IT must be humiliating for thousands of people to confess that they lack the will-power to stop coffee.

They know from experience that it results in irritated nerves; keeps them awake nights; makes them nervous. Yet they don't seem to be able to say "no."

If you find that coffee harms you, change to the pure cereal beverage, Postum. You'll find it delicious and satisfying. And it is absolutely free from caffeine or any other harmful drug, so you can drink Postum at any meal, and as much as you want.



Your grocer sells Postum in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) prepared instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages) for those who prefer the flavor brought out by boiling fully 20 minutes. The cost of either form is about one-half cent a cup.

LEONARD BRIDGE

Recently when cows belonging to Peter Shields and Clarence Thomas met together in the pasture a fight ensued. In the skirmish one cow got her horns around the neck of another cow in such a way that neither could free herself. The cow's horns were of such a shape that they locked about the other cow's neck, holding her tight. Several farmers worked for some time trying to separate the two cows, but it was not until a saw was procured and the animal's horns sawed off that they were able to release them.

Mrs. Eugene Lewis entertained her brothers, Myron, George, Harry and Albert Rice, from Warren, Mass., last Sunday.

Attorney and Mrs. Barnbrook and adopted daughter and a friend motored from Providence, R. I., Saturday, bringing Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hughes to their home after two weeks' visit in Providence and vicinity. The party returned to their homes in the afternoon.

Mrs. Alfred Hughes, Mrs. Kenneth Cummings and Mrs. David Walsh attended the demonstration and lecture by Mrs. Dakin, nutrition specialist from Connecticut Agricultural college, at Goshen Community club rooms on Thursday.

Miss Lizzie Newberry returned Thursday after several weeks' visit with friends and former neighbors at East Haddam and Millington.

Kenneth L. Cummings is having a shed taken down and is to move his property to a different location. He will also have the shed rebuilt. Otto Nettleton of Lebanon is doing the work.

PUZZLE

Upon the fifth day of the week
The first to fall is found.
A letter next is added
The fifth to fall is found.
Add letter three, it's plain to see
The sixth to fall is found.
Last letter add, the seventh fall
Is found in every town.

The answer doubtless you will find
Or thrall myself am at fault.
Then add a letter to the end
The eighth to fall is found.
This added letter will complete
The eighth to fall is found.
Add letter five, the seventh fall
Is found in every town.

Are all the letters right, you ask?
Why, certainly, I'm sure.
Then add a letter to the end
The sixth to fall is found.
Add letter three, it's plain to see
The fifth to fall is found.
Add letter two, the fourth fall
Is found in every town.

Add letter one, the third fall
Is found in every town.
Add letter four, the second fall
Is found in every town.
Add letter six, the first fall
Is found in every town.
Add letter seven, the whole fall
Is found in every town.

THOMAS EDISON'S BIRTHDAY

When Grandma trod the primrose path
The 11th to dandelion fluff
Was Thomas Edison born.
Grandma's father, I've been told,
Was born the 12th to gold
Which Thomas Edison sold.
Grandma's brother, Uncle Jim,
Was born the 13th to skim
The cream from off the milk.
They changed it into butter, then
Sold it for a long time,
Which Thomas Edison made shine.
Grandma grew from the spring bud
Down there in front the meadow lane
Where Thomas Edison played.

This night, electric beams shine out
Where two are coming to shore;
Slowly they wander at last over
Or beyond the rolling hills
Of Thomas Edison.
They pause a while in their quiet quest
For brides of June don't change a lot
But the same light burns that shone for three—Love's altar fires, Heart, Hearth,
Mother Love Edison, Home

HUMOR OF THE DAY

"That woman is looking daggers at me."

"Come back at her with biting sass."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"My daughter's music," declared the mother, "has been a great success."

"Indeed!" returned the grouchy neighbor sued you, I suppose!"—Boston Traveler.

"My daughter's music," replied the mother, "has been a great success."

"Indeed!" returned the grouch. "Some neighbor sued you. I suppose!"—Farmers' Sun (Toronto).

Nip—"Shay—whe're you been?"
Tuck—"To a wedding."
Nip—"Shy good?"
Tuck—"Rotten."
Nip—"Who got married?"
Tuck—"I did."—Virginia Reel.

Griggs—"So you didn't hear the burglar until he was leaving the house. Were you alarmed?"

Briggs—"I should say I was. I thought it was the cook sneaking out on us."—Boston Transcript.

"The trouble with Clarence is that every time he comes to see me, he tells me everything he knows."

"And then what do you do for the rest of the evening?"—Lippincott's Mag.

"Maybe the actors forgot their parts," said the other little one.—Boston Transcript.

THE WEATHER.

Winds.

North of Sandy Hook: Strong northeast gales over south portion: overcast weather, probably showers over south portion Tuesday.

Conditions.

The indications are for a continuation of generally fair weather Tuesday and Wednesday in the states east of the Mississippi river except that rain is probable along the Atlantic coast as far north as southern New Jersey and southern New England. The temperature will not change materially.

Pressure was low Monday night from Manitoba southwestward to southern Arizona and from the vicinity of Jamaica northward over Cuba, the Bahamas and the Atlantic ocean to Latitude 37, off the Virginia Capes, and it was high over all other regions. Strong north and northeast winds and gales prevailed along the Atlantic coast from Cape Hatteras to Cape Cod. Showers have occurred within the last 24 hours along the Atlantic coast from South Carolina to southern New England. The temperature was lower Monday in the South Atlantic states.

Pressure low and falling from Jamaica northward to Latitude 37 off Virginia Capes and abnormally high in the northwestward will cause north and northeast gales on Atlantic coast from Cape Hatteras northward and strong north and northwest winds over western Caribbean sea, the Florida Straits and along the south Atlantic coast next 24 hours.

Forecast.

Northern New England: Fair Tuesday and Wednesday; little change in temperature.

Southern New England: Cloudy Tuesday and Wednesday; probably rain on the southeast coast; little change in temperature.

Observations in Norwich.

WOONSOCKET WOMAN SUICIDES BY JUMPING INTO YANTIC RIVER

Despondent since the death of her baby four months ago, Sophy Sokolowics, 37, wife of John Jokolowics of Woonsocket, jumped into the Yantic river near Forest street about 9 o'clock Monday night and was drowned. The body floated and was recovered about 15 minutes later by the police in a shallow spot where it had stranded near the Central Vermont railroad station as it floated downstream.

Mrs. Sokolowics, with her husband and two children, came here Saturday to visit her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. John Dubinski of Forest street. Her husband went back home with the children Sunday, intending to have her stay for a while with the Dubinski family.

Shortly before 9 o'clock Monday night Mrs. Sokolowics said she wanted to go outside to take a walk and when she left the house another woman, Mrs. Mary Ulokovich, who lives in the other tenement in the Forest street house, followed along after her as she was suspicious that everything was not right. Mrs. Sokolowics started down towards the river and when the other woman caught hold of her and tried to hold her back, the Woonsocket woman put up a fight and tore the hair and clothes of Mrs. Ulokovich until the Norwich woman had to let her go. Then the desperate woman plunged into the river and was drowned.

Capt. D. J. Twomey at police headquarters got a telephone message from a West Side man that a woman was drowned over near the Ulmer tannery and at once sent Sergeant Tom Murphy and Officer John Dombroski to the West Side. Sergeant Murphy secured a rowboat with George Porter and Philip Herts and recovered the body, which was then taken to the undertaking rooms of Shea & Burke, after Dr. C. C. Glidersleeve, the medical examiner, had responded to a call from Capt. Twomey. Capt. Twomey also had Dr. Boris Sohn go to the tannery to give any help that he could if the woman were alive. As the place where the woman jumped into the river was some distance below the tannery and the body had been taken out on the opposite shore, there was nothing the doctor could do.

Word was sent to the woman's husband in Woonsocket and he will arrive here today (Tuesday). She was born in Russia and is survived by her husband and two children.

EDWARD HARLAND MILLER GOES TO WHITE PLAINS

A letter received in Norwich Monday from Edward Harland Miller, who broke his hip in a fall on the street in New York, Aug. 14th, while starting to buy his ticket to Norwich for his vacation, located him at the Burke Foundation, White Plains, N. Y. This is a beautifully located and equipped home for convalescents, founded and endowed by John Burke a number of years ago.

Mr. Miller writes that he is able to get to his meals three times daily by the use of crutches, but as this is rather an effort, from now on he is to have a wheel chair. He praises the fine care received while at Bellevue hospital, where nurses and doctors did everything for his comfort.

His friends of the Norwich Society in New York and others continued to visit and cheer him. He explains that stiffness of his fingers will not permit him to reply yet to the numerous letters which he has received—and which have been so gratefully appreciated.

Will Give Grange Play.

The Norwich grange members who gave a playlet at Pachaug grange recently are planning to give it before the next meeting of their own grange. The title is "30 Minutes For Refreshments" and those in the cast are John Rogers, Clara Karkutt, Florence Brown, LeRoy Miner, Lewis Aldrich, Stanton Brown and Mrs. I. E. Richardson.

Sang at Wedding.

At the charming church wedding of Miss Gladys Stearns of New London, and Harold Baker of Fishers Island, held in the Methodist Episcopal church parlors at New London, Saturday afternoon, Mrs. H. L. Richardson, of this city, sang, "Because," by D. Hardelot, just before the ceremony.

SHOT 21 POUND COON HIS FOURTH THIS YEAR

East Oneco, Oct. 22.—Robert J. Dixon shot a 21 pound coon back of the railroad station Saturday night, making four so far this season.

C. B. Montgomery entertained the following guests Sunday: Mrs. Jannie Wild of Jewett City, Mrs. Mercier and Mrs. Gilbert of Plainfield, Mrs. Hugh Lewellyn and Miss Tucker of Parrsbon, N. S., Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Walsh, Misses Freida, Grace, Gladys, Thelma and Ida M. Walsh, Master Donald and Master Robert Walsh all of Packedville, and Miss Annie Cone of New London.

Gus Morency of Moosup was a Sunday visitor in town.

Miss Belcery entertained Foster, R. I., relatives Sunday.

State policemen are now in evidence again along the state line.

BRITISH SAILORS VISIT NORWICH FIRE STATION

E. Riley, A. Marsh, Clare and B. Knappitt, four petty officers of H. M. S. Valerian, now at the state pier in New London, were visitors at the central fire station Monday evening and were shown about the station by Chief Howard L. Stanton. During the day they were in Hartford and met Mayor Kinsella and made an inspection trip of the state capitol building.

Birthday Surprise Party.

A surprise party was given Miss Mary Ulrich of Dunham street in honor of her fourteenth birthday by eighteen boy and girl friends. The living room was prettily decorated with autumn foliage and asters. Rev. M. H. May was an honored guest and made a brief speech of congratulation for the birthday. Singing, dancing, games and music was enjoyed by all. A dainty luncheon was served by Mrs. Frank Ulrich, assisted by Mrs. A. Kruck.

TAFTVILLE

The Ocawasin Camp Fire Girls have issued invitations to all the members of the Taftville Congregational church school to a Hallowe'en party next Friday evening in the lecture rooms of the church.

Mr. and Mrs. George Peltier of New Haven have been recent guests of Mr. Peltier's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Octave Peltier of North B street.

Mr. and Mrs. Osten Ferguson, who have been the guests of Mrs. Ferguson's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Bogle of Providence street, have returned to their home in Holyoke, Mass.

Miss Gertrude M. Young of North Third avenue is spending several days with relatives in Meriden.

The choir of the Versailles Methodist Episcopal church have issued invitations to a Hallowe'en frolic in the basement of the church on October 31st.

Mrs. Nellie Thompson, who has been employed at the Penemah Home for the past 25 years, has left town to make her home with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Thompson of Hartford.

The Community Sewing Class met Monday evening in the Red Cross rooms in the Penemah building.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence J. Nagle of the Penemah House have as their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Armstrong of Providence, R. I.

Troop 4, Boy Scouts, held their weekly meeting in the basement of the Sacred Heart school building, on Monday evening.

Several men have been engaged raking up and carting away the leaves which are carpeting the village streets.

The water shortage is so acute in Occum and the water supply at the Totokett company reservoir so low, that it has been necessary to pump river water into the reservoir. Many of the wells about the village are dry also.

NORWICH TOWN

For the benefit of the church and community a series of evening meetings was held during last week, and will continue through this week, at the First Methodist church, under supervision of the pastor, Rev. James B. Aldrich. The helpful and inspiring addresses by clergymen, both in and out of Norwich, have thus far attracted a good attendance at each meeting.

Beginning last Tuesday evening, Rev. Charles Smith, pastor of Uncasville Methodist church, was the speaker, taking for his text I King's 6:7. His theme was "The Silent Building of the Spiritual Temple. On Wednesday evening, General Secretary Edwin Hill of the Y. M. C. A., spoke from Romans 8:14. Two Forces in the Life of Man, was the theme. District Superintendent Rev. William H. Bath, gave two addresses. Thursday evening, Rev. Mr. Bath used for his text, Isaiah 32-2, the theme being, Influence of a Good Man and on Friday evening, his theme was, The Saviour of the Lost. The schedule for this week is as follows: Tuesday evening, Rev. Dr. David A. Pitt, pastor of the Central Baptist church; Wednesday evening, Rev. Harlow Graham, pastor of Trinity Methodist church; Thursday evening, Rev. Chauncy W. Ruoff, of Baltic; Friday evening, Rev. H. L. Wilbur, of Jewett City.

Ever Ready Circle of the King's Daughters is to meet this week with Miss Jennie L. Congdon, of Mediterranean Lane.

The service Sunday morning at the First Congregational church was of an unusual character and comprised several echoes from the national council at Springfield. The hymn Faith of Our Fathers, responsive reading, 139th Psalter, and scripture lesson, Eph. 4: 1-16, were used that day by most of the Congregational churches, and some others, as suggested by the council. The entire service was conducted by laymen, in the absence of the pastor.

After the announcements for the day, Thomas H. Bacheler gave a fine address during the sermon period from Ex. 14-15, Speak to the children of Israel that they go forward. Progress was the theme. Progress in the past, of the human race in all lines, especially lately, and in the lifetime of the speaker; many new useful inventions, many that we now could not do without; progress of church and state, maintaining especially equal suffrage for the sexes, and the amendment outlawing the liquor traffic. The speaker stated that a law of the national world was growth and progress, also made a prophesy that the prohibition amendment to the constitution could not be and never would be repealed, giving for one reason that of the power wielded by women at the polls. Some notable examples were given of the rise of the colored people from slavery. Progress in all lines is traced to God and His churches; membership of all churches always produce leaders, as was Moses. Christianity is always at the head of progressive civilization. The congregation was enjoined not to rest on laurels, but to be real good Samaritans and help their fellowmen in every way, to be good and to show them how to live the Christ life. "To Go Forward."

Herbert E. Hicks, field secretary of Christian Endeavor in Connecticut, ably assisted in the service, making a great addition in his prayer and discourse. His text was The Endeavor World, Mention was made of Christian Endeavor in this state in particular, what has been accomplished, what is planned to do, and what can be done in getting the different societies to see what they could accomplish. The good results of Christain Endeavor are known the world over. Much good advice of a deep spiritual nature was given to the new officers installed by Field Secretary Hicks at the evening meeting of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, when his talk was even more inspiring than that of the morning. Referring to the Intermediate society, he emphasized that it had a fine corps of officers and should have a prosperous year if the members continue as they have started, everything being harmonious.

The Christian Endeavor society of Scotland road held a meeting Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the hall conducted by Thomas H. Bacheler. The lesson was from some of the parables of Christ: The Sower, The Pearl of Great Price, The Leaven. The speaker gave some interpretations of them, also spoke of the difficulty of one's understanding them unless led by the Spirit of God. Spiritual truth was spirituality discerned. Congregational singing of familiar hymns was given with spirit at all of the meetings.

To Unclog the Pores by Removing Stifling Skin

Clogged pores cause many complexion difficulties. This condition makes the skin coarse in texture. It interferes with elimination of waste matter, producing a muddy or blotchy complexion, blackheads, eruptions and other defects. To open and cleanse the closed pores there is nothing more effective than ordinary mercolised wax. It should be applied at night like cold cream, and washed off in the morning. Mercolised wax, to be had at any drug store (one ounce will do), will also remove the effects of the condition referred to. That is, it removes the undesirable complexion itself, with its disfiguring marks. Possessing a peculiar absorbent power, it takes off the soiled skin in minute particles, so gradually there is no inconvenience. It is recommended in preference to cosmetics, as the new complexion it reveals is a natural one.

Stop Itching Scalp

Rub Parisian Sage on your head and you won't have to scratch the dandruff off; stops itching scalp instantly; makes hair grow and keeps it luxuriant, soft, fluffy and beautiful. The best hair tonic and scalp treatment. The Lee & Osgood Co. and all drug and toilet counters sell it.

LARGE PIMPLES ALL OVER FACE

Were Red and Scaled Over. Cuticura Heals.

"I was troubled with pimples on my face. They were large and red and scaled over, and were scattered all over my face. They itched badly causing me to scratch, and my face was very much disfigured. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. After using it I could see an improvement so purchased more, which healed me." (Signed) Miss Ida Barthas, 20 Herton St., Taunton, Mass., Mar. 31, 1923.

Cuticura Soap is ideal for cleansing and purifying. Cuticura Ointment to soothe and heal and Cuticura Talcum to powder and perfume are ideal for daily toilet purposes.

NEW LONDONERS BOARD VALERIAN FOR RECEPTION MONDAY AFTERNOON

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Oct. 23.—In the police court a gang of shop workers were accused of having trespassed on the tracks and land of the New Haven railroad in going to and coming from their work. The complaints against the accused—a full dozen of them—were disposed of by suspension of judgment as the men were considered not to be trespassers in the serious sense of the word, but rather men who desired to get to their work with the least travel. They were arrested by the state police.

Some five weeks ago a man named Parks was found drunk and down in the street and was taken to Lawrence hospital where it was determined that he had suffered a shock of paralysis. He has been in the hospital under treatment since, and even today he shows that one side is affected. He talks with difficulty and his arms and legs are not normal as to the use he can make of them. In the hospital Parks made a written statement which he signed extolling where he got his booze.

Parks named three men as persons who sold him liquor. Today, when his case was called in court, he repudiated the accusation and said he could not remember any thing he did or anything he said when he was picked up, or while he was in the hospital. He was positive that he never bought any liquor at the places he named in his signed statement. He did recall, however, that he bought a half pint of gin on the street, but he represented that he could not tell where or of whom he bought that stuff. He said he visited the places he named daily, mostly to get tobacco, but he did not buy any liquor in any of the places. His testimony was all the state had to rely upon for conviction of the men Park had accused. So the alleged dealers were declared not guilty by the court. One of them, who had asked through his attorney for a continuance of the case against him, will be heard later in the week.

Cornelius Walker, a Central Vermont railroad man, charged with failure to support his wife, asked for a continuance, claiming that he desired to obtain counsel and that he had witnesses who would come into court and testify that he never neglected his wife. He said he owned her some $200 on a promise to support but that he was employed but about two days a week and could not give all that he would to provide for her. The case was put over till Wednesday.

Daniel Delong was charged with beating his wife. He is white and she is black and a little older than her husband. She says DeLong is a terror when he is drinking, but that otherwise he is a good worker at the Babcock Press company.

When he got his inning on the witness stand he said the whole trouble arose when Tillie dumped his wine into the sink. He said he got a bushel of grapes and proceeded to make about four or five gallons of wine. This she dumped and that made him mad.

Judge Prince sentenced DeLong to three months in jail and then suspended execution of the penalty that the pair might live together in Monroe Court. If Daniel comes to judgment again he is likely to go to jail for a long stay.

William Radner, employed by the American Express company at Yonkers, admitted that he ran his car into an Overland car owned by Salvatore Covino, which was parked near the corner of Bank and Shaw street. Radner and three companions came in from Yonkers about two o'clock in the morning. When the Radner car came bowling down the street it went smashing into the Covino car and tore it, is is said, to the extent of $150. Radner claimed he could not see the car in the brightly lighted street. He also made oath that he had drank nothing stronger than coffee and that he partook of at New Haven two hours before. Judge Prince fined him $25 today.

Henry Bassin of Plainfield was fined $10 for carrying a revolver in his motorcycle. He said he was a peddler and that he secured permission to carry the weapon from the police department at Plainfield. That of course did not give him authority to carry the gun outside the domain over which the police of Plainfield have jurisdiction and it does not give him authority now to carry the revolver—a law passed by the last legislature will not allow guns to be carried in motorcycles.

Harold Eldridge, a driver of coal automobiles for the Howard Street Coal company, admitted that he beat his wife, mother of his two children, simply because he lost his temper. Judge Prince fined him $15 and sentenced him to six months in jail, but suspended execution of the sentence for six months and put Eldridge under the watchful care of Probation Officer Mansfield.

Frank Zankow, 12, was found roaming about State street at 1.30 o'clock this morning by Patrolman Clarence Wells and as the youngster had been observed of late about the streets the officer decided to escort the boy to the police station. There the youngster declared that his father and mother were in New York, having left several days ago and had left him to take care of himself. In order to assure the boy being properly housed until his parents returned home, he was given into the custody of Probational Officer Mansfield.

Commissioner Stoeckel today caused the operator's license of Harry A. Wolfe, of 1 Grand street, to be suspended. Wolfe's automobile was in collision with another automobile recently. The commissioner also suspended the motorcycle operator's license of Edwin G. Swanson, 132 Broad street. Mr. Swanson, who is employed in the freight service of the New Haven railroad, was recently prosecuted for reckless driving on Broad street where the motorcycle was forced from the highway in order to avoid colliding with another vehicle.

News was received in New London this afternoon of the death this morning at a New York hospital of Warren G. McLaughlin of that city, following an illness of several days of pleurisy. Mr. McLaughlin, who was employed as salesman by a sporting goods house, was a member of years ago a pitcher on the New London baseball club, being a southpaw and was with the local team during its management by Charles H. Humphrey.

Angelina De Luca has sold a house and lot at 90 Thames street to Willsup R. Golding.

Daniel S. Marsh, Daniel S. Marsh, Jr., and Cora A. Marsh have sold a house and lot on Cedar street to Samuel Freemon.

Mrs. Earle Neale and infant son, of Montauk avenue, Miss Helen Foley of Willetts avenue extension, Waterford; Cadet Herbert Rowland, United States Coast Guard Academy, Plant Hagg, Fort Wright, Miss Elizabeth Heffernan, Connecticut avenue, Mrs. Arthur McPherson and infant son, of Union court and James Petersen of the United States Coast Guard academy, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

William E. Treat, 69, died Saturday night at the home of his son, William L. Treat, 6 Summer street, after an illness of many months. Mr. Treat was employed many years as hostler, being latterly employed by Thomas Howe, former well known livery stable proprietor. Mr. Treat was twice married, his first wife being Miss Elizabeth Lax of New London.

An automobile, owned and operated by Edgar L. Parker of Waterford and a machine, owned by Mrs. Rose Jenkins, 67 Blackhall street, were in collision this morning, corner Broad street and Jefferson avenue. Both cars were damaged.

David G. Haskill, 63 West Salem street, Mattapan, Mass., today again requested the New London police to assist him locating his daughter Eleanor, 14, who has been absent from home several weeks and who at one time was living in New London as the wife of a sailor, the couple having taken lodging in the Mansion house, on Crystal avenue. Haskill made his former request for information of his daughter on the 6th inst., and at that time it was ascertained that the girl had resided at the Mansion house from the 3rd to the 7th inst., but had left for Maine, presumably to join her sailor consort, whose ship was destined to a Maine port.

Following the burglary of the stationery store of J. Solomon, 30 Main street, Sunday afternoon, when fountain pens, valued at $210, pen knives, air rifles, etc., all of the aggregate value of $800 were stolen the police this morning rounded up about a dozen boys who perpetrated the burglary. Because of the age of the youngsters, they were not presented in the police court, but were given into the custody of Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield and will be presented in the juvenile court the latter part of the week. The greater part of the plunder was recovered. Entrance to the place was gained by smashing a rear window, which would permit only the passage through of a youth. One lad entered the store through the window and passed out the plunder to the others.

The officers of the British ship Valerian, which has been in this harbor a week, tendered a reception to the people of this city this afternoon. Capt. Evan Bruce Gardyne, the commander, and his staff met the visitors at the gangway and invited them on board for an inspection of the ship. Tea, sandwiches, cake, candy and cigarettes were provided. Then followed dancing on the after-deck, to music of the victrola. There were some 150 or 200 guests during the afternoon, the house of the reception being from 3 to 6 o'clock. The Valerian will weigh anchor at 5 a. m. Thursday and clear for Bermuda. Capt. Gardyne has arranged to go to Waterbury tomorrow to pay his respects to Governor Templeton, if that can be arranged. It was the intention of the governor to meet Capt. Gardyne and officers of the Valerian at the state capitol tomorrow, but the governor finds that previous engagements in Waterbury will keep him in that city during the day. If Capt. Gardyne cannot make the arrangements desired he will extend his compliments to the governor over the telephone. The officers and crew of the Valerian are greatly pleased with their reception in this city and declared that they have enjoyed their stay in New London very much. Visitors to the destroyer Saturday and Monday were attracted by a large silver loving cup, presented the crew by the Lions and Rotary clubs of New London. A large basket of flowers was presented by John Coleman Prince post, American legion. The ship is equipped fore and aft with four-inch guns. It also carried two bom-bom guns, one a full automatic and the semi-auto. The destroyer is equipped with two screws and can turn in the water within its own length. There are seven officers and 100 men, most of whom saw active service during the World war. The ship was built in 1918.

The funeral of Isadora E., wife of Nathaniel R. Clark, was held this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at the residence of her sister, Mrs. William H. Cone, 48 Lewis street. Services were conducted by Rev. William J. Greene, pastor of All Souls' church. During the service Miss Mary Brown sang "Crossing the Bar." Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Mrs. Frank Pino of Groton, Daniel McGuire, Mystic, Charles Armstrong, Groton and Mrs. Don Troper and infant of Hamburg, were patients discharged today at Home Memorial hospital.

Slade & Bernstein, proprietors of the Modern Store, Bank street, recently put out of business when Collector of Taxes Allen C. Richards caused an attachment to be placed on the store for back taxes amounting to about $300, and who later filed a petition in bankruptcy, have liabilities of $4,744.-66 and assets of $3,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Congdon have closed their home in Ridgewood park, Waterford for the winter and have located on Granite street.

Mrs. F. Valentine Chappell is spending a few days in Washington.

Miss Lucia Chapman, daughter of Rev. Edward M. Chapman, has returned, having spent several days in New York.

Trolley traffic was at a standstill on State street for some time this forenoon when the Jefferson avenue line car of the Connecticut company split a switch at the corner of Main street, the car leaving the rails and blocking both main line tracks.

Mrs. Frank Wilcox, 7 Frost street, complained to the police late this afternoon that during the day her home was entered and a thorough search made. Although practically all the rooms were ransacked, the thief obtained but $5. Entrance was gained by forcing a rear window.

William Otis, owner of the power boat Mary, license 158-J, moored in Winthrop's Cove, complained that the craft was boarded by boys who by their pranks nearly caused the boat to sink. The youth entered the boat and taking the pump to the well pumped water into the boat so that when Otis went to the craft late this afternoon, he found the boat ready to sink. He reported the matter to the police.

Vincent Mazzabisio, 14 Tenth street, employed by the Central Vermont railroad as a laborer, had his left foot crushed this forenoon, at East New London, when a rail that he and other laborers were handling fell upon the leg. The injured man was taken to Lawrence hospital.

The Young Women's Christian Association today secured an option on the residence of James P. Sullivan, corner of Church and Huntington streets and it is probable that within a few days the deeds will have passed transferring the desirable property to the association.

Attorney Arthur T. Keefe will shortly have a house erected on Hillside avenue to be the home of Mr. Keefe and his family.

Federal prohibition agents from all over the state were called in conference in Hartford during the week by Chief Enforcement Agent James E. Wheeler. Matters pertaining to the rigid enforcement of the prohibition law were discussed.

REVOLT WAS ISOLATED ATHENS FROM OTHER PARTS OF GREECE

Message to the State Department From Athens Says It is Impossible to Tell How Extensive the Movement is in the Greek Army—The Object of the Counter-Revolutionists is to Supplant the Present Revolutionary Government With a Constitutional Civil Ministry, Preferably Under Zaimis—Athens Reports That of 1,400 Mutineers 800 Have Been Made Prisoners—An Engagement Was Fought Near Chalcis.

Washington, Oct. 23.—The Greek counter-revolutionary movement yesterday had virtually isolated Athens from all of telegraph communication with other parts of Greece, according to advices to the state department sent from Athens last night. The message said that it was not possible at this time to tell how extensive the movement was in the Greek army.

Press despatches reporting the situation were not being accepted in Athens last night for transmission, the message said. The present Athens government, it was added, was taking steps to arm the numerous refugees quartered in the vicinity of Athens. Counter-revolutionary forces were holding two railway junctions that control traffic from the capital to other parts fo Greece when the despatch was filed.

The department made public the following summary of its advices:

"A counter-revolution, with headquarters in Corinth, under officers with Venizelist sympathies, broke out on Oct. 22 with the alleged purpose of supplanting the present revolutionary government with a constitutional civil ministry for holding elections, preferably under Zaimis.

"A limited number of counter-revolutionary troops are holding the railway junction at Skimitari, near Chalkis, which, together with counter-revolutionary forces at Corinth, isolate Athens from railway service with the rest of Greece. Communications of all sorts are interrupted and it is impossible to determine what response the various troop bodies throughout Greece have made to this purely political coup.

"Information indicates that the revolutionary government will refuse to resign at present, even though obliged to use force, as it is claimed that the next few days will prove that the counter-revolution has been assisted by Metaxas' officers, which will automatically swing sympathy to the present revolutionary government and react unfavorably against all its opponents.

"The revolutionary government has cancelled the recent decrees of Oct. 4 abolishing both martial law and press censorship and has issued an order to arrest 'suspicious characters.' All refugees about Athens with military training are being arrested, although little excitement is shown in Athens. Lack of communication prevents even the revolutionary authorities at the present moment from determining how serious the situation may be, and press telegrams were not being accepted the evening of Oct. 22."

GREEK GOVERNMENT HAS PUT DOWN THE REVOLT

Athens, Oct. 23 (By the A. P.)—Official information shows that the government has been successful in its struggle to put down the revolt started Monday with General Metaxas as its leader.

It was not without fighting, however, that the government was able to break the revolt. Among the important engagements was one near Chalcis, where one of the chief factors in the movement, Colonel D. Jiras and his corps, came into conflict with regular troops under General Othonalos. Of the 1400 mutineers, 800 were made prisoner. The extent of the casualties in the fighting is not yet known.

It was announced officially that the mutineers at Schismataris had fled northward, deserting their leaders. The same communique confirmed the dispersal of a group of mutineers at Katerina and the capture of their officers.

The latest news from Saloniki says the mutineers under Colonel Ziras have been dispersed and that Ziras has fled. General Othonaios has wired the government from Saloniki that he is able to place as many troops at the disposal of the government as may be required. This is interpreted here as meaning the revolutionary movement in Macedonia has collapsed. Colonel Plastiras who headed the revolution which resulted in the overthrow of King Constantine, said tonight that he considered the uprising in Macedonia ended and that he believed it would break down in a few days in Peloponesus. The Peloponesus and Corinth canals will be completely blockaded tonight by government forces.

The municipal councils of Athens and Piraeus today passed resolutions condemning the mutiny and expressing confidence in the government.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE ISSUES ARMISTICE DAY MESSAGE

New York, Oct. 23.—A message from President Coolidge, calling the attention of the nation to the deep significance of Armistice Day, was made public tonight by the League of Remembrance.

"It is now quite apparent," said the president, "that the observance of Armistice Day is destined to be, for many years, one of the national sacramental occasions of deep significance. So long as the generation of young men who served in the World war, and those who supported them behind the lines, shall continue to color the national thought and interest, this occasion will be in no danger of losing its place in the public thought. When they are gone it will just as surely be held sacred in the memories of those who are to come after as the other national memorial days have been. Observance of Armistice Day will always be a reminder of the great part which our nation took in the fraternity of the world in a time of overshadowing crisis. Already it has become a peculiarly significant world memorial day, celebrated on every continent by people who feel its special appeal because they were participants in the tremendous events which it celebrates. Such universal observance must tend to draw closer together the great communities in whose keeping are the destinies of our civilization, and to make them realize more and more the essential unit of human society."

The league of remembrance was organized to obtain simultaneous and world-wide observance of Armistice Day by the two minutes' silence at the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month. The observance is now general in almost every English-speaking country, according to Percy Bullen, secretary of the league.

TO TEST VALIDITY OF MASS. BILLBOARD LAW

Malden, Mass., Oct. 23.—A test case to determine the validity of the new billboard law in this state was started here today. Three billposting concerns were fined $10 each in the district court for maintaining billboards within 300 feet of a parkway and all appealed. The case will be heard in the superior court at Cambridge next month.

PANAMA EXPERIENCING UNUSUALLY HEAVY RAINS

Panama, Oct. 23.—Unusually heavy rains have been falling in Panama for the past two days, the average precipitation on the Atlantic side amounting to 2.75 inches between 8 a. m. and 8 p. m. yesterday.

Gatun Lake has risen above the 85 foot level and four spillway gates have been opened. The most serious freshet in the Chagres river since December, 1906, is expected.

MEMORY WAS RESTORED BY BLOW ON THE HEAD

St. Cloud, Minn., Oct. 23.—The blow on the head that knocked Arthur E. Whitney, federal prohibition agent of Minneapolis, under the wheels of a beer truck at New Munich, Min., on Wednesday night, fracturing his skull also turned the pages of his life back five years, it was revealed here last night.

Whitney was overseas 27 months during the World war, was gassed three times, and a victim of aphasia. His life after the last gas was a blank.

After the war he landed in New York and obtained a job as a federal prohibition agent. There he met a young woman known as Mrs. Ann Whitney, who has lived in St. Paul with him for the last two years.

When Whitney at a local hospital regained consciousness last night for the first time since the blow yesterday, standing beside the bed was Mrs. Luella Whitney, who married him in Grafton, N. D., in 1912, and who bore him two sons.

He said he knew nothing of Ann Whitney, nothing of the baby soon to arrive, nothing of the almost complete divorce proceedings between himself and Luella, and nothing of how he was hurt.

Whitney had a faint idea that he had been a government dry agent, however. He asked his wife how the boys were and apparently did not realize the passage of time.

Physicians say Whitney will recover.

PROTESTS RUSH HOUR CONDITIONS IN SUBWAY

New York, Oct. 23.—A protest by all church organizations against present conditions in the subway during rush hours was urged last night by the Rev. James J. Corrigan, D. D., of Brooklyn, a Roman Catholic priest, who said that women traveling through the city's underground system are subjected to "shameful and notorious indignities."

He recommended reservation of the front and rear cars of each train during the rush hours for women. Transit commission officials to whom Dr. Corrigan protested admitted frankly that the situation was exactly as he described it, and said that the plan of reserving cars for women would be put under immediate consideration.

"Everyone knows about the shameful crowding of both sexes so that they can't move, even to lift their hands," Dr. Corrigan said. "During rush hours lustful, cowardly men are allowed to annoy our women and no serious effort is made to stop them. the publicity that might arise from They escape because the women fear any complaint. It is not right for human being to be packed in that way."

FOUR GIRLS IMPRISONED 25 DAYS WITHOUT FOOD

Tokio, Oct. 23. Four Japanese girls, students at the Yokohama high school, who were buried under a heap of debris during the earthquake, were rescued alive after being imprisoned for 25 days without food.

Workmen clearing away the debris came upon a large arched rock, and removing the earth around it, found the girls under the protecting boulder. They had kept alive on thefew drops of water that had trickled down from above.

The girls were taken to a hospital where they are said to be recovering.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

British Sailor Killed by American

Antwerp, Oct. 23.—(By the A. P.)—One British sailor was killed by a knife thrust through his heart last night in a clash between sailors of the United States cruiser Pittsburgh and the crew of the British merchant steamer Malita. The Americans claim that they had been attacked by the British sailors and acted in self defense. One of the Americans was placed under arrest and turned over to the care of the captain of the Pittsburgh.

LLOYD GEORGE DWELLS ON STRIFE IN EUROPE

Cleveland, Oct. 23.—(By the A. P.)—Declaring that Great Britain seeks nothing in Europe except a cessation of strife and that "there you can help us," David Lloyd George, the war-time premier of Great Britain, at the chamber of commerce luncheon here today renewed his plea for "effective co-operation" between the two great English-speaking commonwealths.

"At this hour," the former premier asserted, "there is a deadly, grim, ghastly struggle going on in Europe, not for the moment with cannon and machine guns, but none the less it is a deadly struggle and I ask you, don't you turn your backs altogether on Europe. You save it once. Don't give it up. It has been a great continent. Where have been great men thrown up during the ages in it to whom you, you as well as ourselves, owe much.

"And although I come to this land with no mission, if you ask me, I have got one word to say, and since you press me to speak, I say I ask you, the people of this mighty land, this prosperous land, this peaceable land, this land of liberty, once more to turn the eyes towards Europe that once saved it and will yet do so."

Mr. Lloyd George arrived here at noon from Marion, where he placed a wreath on the sarcophagus of the late President Harding and visited Mrs. Harding.

At the ceremony attending the laying of the cornerstone of the new library here the former premier took the place originally assigned to the late President Harding on the program.

Speaking to a vast audience he declared that "your view of a world peace is identical with ours and may the crusade we entered into together with such a noble purpose a few years ago, continue until the standard of peace is planted in the citadel of the nations throughout the world."

"Everywhere today," he added, "I see your glorious flag and our glorious flag waving side by side, and as long as they fly together I have confidence in the future of this old world."

POLITICAL CONFERENCES HELD AT THE WHITE HOUSE

Washington, Oct. 23.—Impetus was given political discussions in Washington today by a series of conferences held at the White House by President Coolidge.

The president inquired as to the party situation in New England in conferences with Earle S. Kinsley, national committeeman from Vermont, and Frank Knox, a prominent New Hampshire republican, and then went over the general situation with a number of leaders at a luncheon conference.

Participating in the luncheon discussion were John T. Adams, chairman, and Fred W. Upham, treasurer, of the republican national committee; C. H. Huston, chairman of the committee's ways and means department; William R. Wrigley, of Chicago, who with Mr. Upham, is a house guest at the White House; William C. Sproul, former governor of Pennsylvania; E. T. Stotesbury, of Philadelphia; James N. Stanley, of Denver, and Frank W. Stearns, of Boston, one of the president's leading advisors. All of those at the luncheon were guarded later in their statements regarding the subjects discussed but it was understood that chief attention was given to party finances and methods of wiping out the deficit incurred in the 1920 campaign.

Another subject understood to have been discussed was selection of the 1924 convention city. Mr. Upham has been active in behalf of Chicago but considerable attention has recently been given by some party leaders to Denver and it was learend that Mr. Stanley, who is a leading attorney of Denver, pointed out to the other luncheon guests the advantages of the Colorado city.

PRESBYTERIAN SYNOD IN SESSION IN BRIDGEPORT

Bridgeport, Oct. 23.—Rev. Francis Laird, of West Barnett, Vt., was elected moderator of the Presbyterian synod of New England, which opened its three day 11th annual meeting at today, with nearly 100 ministers from the First Presbyterian church here all parts of New England in attendance. Other delegates are expected to arrive tomorrow.

The first day's session was taken up with speeches and discussion of church and church extension work, and an address by Rev. Dr. Harold MacA. Robinson, of Philadelphia, Pa., at a popular meeting tonight on "Advance steps in an adequate program of religious education."

Retiring Moderator Rev. Charles Allen Fisher, of Worcester, Mass., opened the session with devotional services, following with a sermon on "The trupped giving no uncertain sound," in which the pastors present were urged to stand by the courage of their convictions, and to sound the alarm against present day worldliness which leads to sin.

Other speakers were Rev. J. K. McGillivary, M. A., of Boston Rev. M. S. Bush, M. A., of Boston; Rev. Edward E. Deaver, Ph. D., of Waltham, Mass.; Rev. Dr. Harold MacA. Robinson, of Philadelphia; Rev. W. A. Squires, of Philadelphia; Professor A. J. William Myer, Ph. D., of Hartford; Mr. Harry Bone, of the University of Vermont, and Rev. Alexander Allison, Jr., pastor of the local church.

KILLED COMRADE WHILE PREPARING FOR HUNT

Lowell, Mass., Oct. 23.—Altie L. Toner, 28, a boilermaker, at the Boston and Maine shops at North Billerica, was shot and instantly killed this morning when a pistol in the hands of a co-worker, Henry D. Doty, exploded as they were making preparation for a hunting trip. Toner leaves a wife and children at 66 Proctor avenue, Revere. Doty, a former Lowell resident, also is employed at the car shops and moved to Billerica yesterday. Neither Doty nor Charles A. Doucette of Wilmington, a witness to the shooting, has been held by the police. The assistant medical examiner of Middlesex county, performed an autopsy.

Mrs. Rogers Removed From the Farm Board

Gov. Templeton Ends Controversy That Has Been Impairing the Institution.

Waterbury, Oct. 23.—Governor C. A. Templeton tonight settled the long controversy over the State Farm for Women by removing Mrs. Helen Rogers of Hamden as a member of the board of directors.

In his statement explaining his course of action, the governor rehearses the difficulties that arose between her and the other directors and which led to the resignation of the superintendent, Miss Anna Peterson.

Three courses were open to him he said: to remove Mrs. Rogers, to revome the other directors; to revome all directors and appoint an entirely new board.

In answer to the claim that to remove all would work for public confidence in the farm, he states that public confidence is not won in that way and that in the long run the public will be satisfied only with what is the right thing, the best for the farm and its inmates.

He finds that while Mrs. Rogers unquestionably had the interests of the farm at heart, she adopted an attitude of obstruction which resulted in continual friction, loss of morale and impaired discipline.

TESTIMONY THAT STOKES TAMPERED WITH WITNESS

New York, Oct. 23.—An attempt of W. E. D. Stokes to obtain evidence against his wife, Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes, from Henry Williams, a negro waiter on a transcontinental train, in return for testimony favorable to Williams who had been charged with stealing Mrs. Stokes' jewels today was recorded in the retrial of the wealthy hotel owner's divorce suit.

Mr. Stokes' alleged efforts to get damaging testimony from Williams were brought out while Bernard H. Sandler, attorney for the waiter in the theft case, was on the stand. Mr. Sandler took the stand just before Clarence McCormick, close friend of Edgar T. Wallace, principal co-respondent, was sworn as a witness and court adjourned for the day. McCormick was expected to testify tomorrow morning.

Mr. Sandler testified Mr. Stokes had come to him with an offer to exchange evidence of value to Williams in his theft trial, for evidence against Mrs. Stokes in the divorce suit. He denied Mr. Stokes had offered Williams money through him. He produced a letter from the hotel man to the waiter, then in a Pittsburgh penitentiary on a murder charge, mentioning pawn tickets for jewelry Williams was said to have left before being acquitted of stealing the gems and asking Williams to write and tell him all he could to help him in his divorce trial, adding he would do all he could to help him in his divorce trial, adding he would do all he could to help the waiter.

The earlier part of the day was consumed in reading depositions taken by the defense before a commission in Bunceton, Mo., to refute testimony that Mrs. Stokes had been seen there with Wallace in 1904, before her marriage.

FAREWELL SPEECH BY AMBASSADOR HARVEY

London, Oct. 23 (By the A. P.)—Ambassador Harvey delivered a long farewell speech at the Pilgrims' dinner tonight, in which he reiterated the willingness of the United States to help assess Germany's capacity to pay reparations, reviewed the Monroe doctrine and declared that America must and would keep aloof from the broils of Europe.

He reminded his large audience, which included the British prime minister, Stanley Baldwin, the British ambassador, Sir Auckland Geddes, and the French, Belgian and Japanese ambassadors, that the United States had waived all reparations claims from Germany for the joint account of the allies and was therefore disinterested, but that when America came to the door of Europe to assist in a settlement of the reparations she found the door closed.

"We are ready to promote any scheme for the economic rehabilitation of Europe," he declared. "We are ready to join in any conference which will promote the recuperation and stability of the world, but we cannot smash in the door."

STORM RAGED ALONG THE NORTH ATLANTIC COAST.

New York, Oct. 23.—A fifty mile northeaster, reported to be raging along the coast from Newfoundland to Cape Hatteras, hit this section hard today, endangering several craft and leading indirectly to the injury of more than half a dozen persons.

A three-masted British schooner called for help thirty miles off Fire Island and the coast guard cutter Seminole was tonight racing to her assistance. At the same time the gale sweeping across Long Island sound caught the 45-foot ketch Harpoon, owned by William Washburn Nutting, which was to have raced a boat of equal size belonging to the Duke of Leinster across the Atlantic next spring and cast it on the rocks off Fort Totten, near Whitestone, L. I.

Meanwhile dispatches from Norfolk reported receipt of an S. O. S. call from the British steamer West Moreland and stated that the Cape Charles lightship had been blown from her moorings.

Ashore, wind and rain were beating down hard on New York and surrounding communities and considerable damage to the beachfront was reported along the New Jersey coast.

Slippery rails led to the injury of six persons in a rear end trolley collision at Clifton, N. J., while Peter Kutchuch of Minesla, L. I., a motorman was badly burned and scalded when he grasped a live wire that had fallen across the path of his car in Garden City.

4,000 GEISHA GIRLS WERE MADE HOMELESS BY QUAKE

Tokio, Oct. 23.—More than four thousand Geisha girls were made homeless as a result of the earthquake and fire. Some of them have taken refuge in the neighboring provinces. Others have gone to Osaka, Kobe, Kyoto and Nagoya, but many remain and are being sheltered in tents.

The chief of the safety section of the Metropolitan police board believes the authorities should allow the girls to return to their former quarters even though it becomes necessary to house them in barracks.

Separatists Capture Castle in Coblenz

Restlessness Caused by Failure of Stresemann to Use Dictatorial Authority.

Paris, Oct. 23.—A despatch from Coblenz to the Havas Agency, tonight says:

The separatists have captured the castle. The mayor and prefect of police have undertaken to instruct the police to refrain from using arms.

Ehrenbreitstein fortress, the most formidable stronghold in the Rhineland, is generally referred to in the occupied territory as "the castle." If it is confirmed that the separatists have occupied the fortress it is of great importance, as Ehrenbreitstein commands not only the city of Coblenz but also the Rhine river for miles.

ALL WORK IN HARBOR OF HAMBURG AT A STANDSTILL

Berlin, Oct. 23.—At various points in the suburbs of Hamburg today the communists erected barricades with trees and other materials, and fierce fighting with the police was still proceedinh behind them this afternoon. The railway between Hamburg and Lubeck was torn up to prevent the reichswehr troops from reaching Hamburg, but the line was repaired almost immediately.

All work in the harbor of Hamburg is at a complete standstill, either because the workmen have struck or the management closed down operations.

Everything was quiet in the center of the city this afternoon, but armed police patrols were parading the streets.

ANOTHER PARLIAMENTARY CRISIS IS IMMINENT

Berlin, Oct. 23 (By the A. P.)—Another parliamentary crisis, and one which will harbor far more serious internal ramifications than that which recently carried Dr. Stresemann into office for a second time at the head of a loosely jointed coalition, is an early prospect, in the opinion of political leaders. Socialistic impatience with the Stresemann government's tolerance of Von Kahr, the Bavarian director, and the indignation of the radicals over the resolute manner in which Saxony is being dealt with under the existing state of military law, already constitute points of divergence which threaten the socialists' defection from the present coalition.

The chancellor's failure to make prompt and categorical use of his dictatorial authority in enforcing urgent remedial measures is also causing restlessness in the ranks of the radical party and its principal organ, Vorwaerts, which is not holding back plainspoken criticism of the government, in which the party is represented by three ministers.

Among the reichstag leaders there is a feeling that Chancellor Stresemann's majority is no longer a reliable asset to him in parliament and that he may find himself without adequate support when the house reconvenes next Friday. The government will then be called upon by the radicals to explain the apparent discrepancy whereby Saxony is overrun with reichswehr divisions, whereas Bavaria is permitted to flout the central government's authority at pleasure.

Dr. Von Kahr's rebellion is primarily aimed at the socialistic regime, which he asserts has constantly dominated the Berlin cabinet, and on this score it is not precluded that the socialists will force the issue by withdrawing from the coalition, leaving the chancellor or President Ebert the choice of organizing a bourgeois government or dissolving the reichstag and then placing the federal authority in the hands of a directorate.

Sufficient political and economic combustibles have been accumulating the past week to bring on a crisis over night.

An attempt to modify the Weimar constitution in favor of more pronuonced federalism might precipitate a conflict which would immediately terminate the socialists' relations with the government.

Beset with a score of ailments of foreign and internal origin, the Stresemann cabinet has seemingly contented itself to drift. With numberless adversities confronting it, its failure to halt the further collapse of the mark has incidentally also seriously handicapped its efforts to float a new currency based on a gold standard. Along with the collapse of finances has gone the development of more serious conditions in the food situation throughout Germany, which daily is assuming more menacing proportions, especially in the metropolitan centers.

Briefly stated, the chancellor and his ministers seem to have lost their way in an impenetrable gloom born of the chaos which is engulfing it and the German people at a pace which neither martial law nor dictatorial legislative authority seems capable of halting.

RIOTING IN HAMBURG IS BEING SUPPRESSED

Berlin, Oct. 23.—An official account of the rioting at Hamburg, issued here this afternoon, says:

"Suppression of the disorders is progressing and the police are fully capable of mastering the situation. No reichswehr troops were used. The fighting for the possession of the police stations was very violent. The rioters fired from houses, roofs and gardens and the police lost two killed and several wounded.

"A considerable police force was needed to disperse the rioters, who acted with great brutality. A police sergeant on the way to take up his duty was murdered.

"Gatherings in the center of the city are being dispersed. Special measures were taken to protect the harbor."

DRESDEN QUIET AS THE REICHSWEHR TROOPS ENTER

Dresden, Oct. 23. — Reichswehr troops entering Dresden today, marching to the strains of martial music, General Von Mueller, whose orders were recently defied by the Saxon government reviewed the troops, who were equipped ready for field duty and accompanied by armored cars and machine gunners.

There was no hostile manifestation on the part of the population.

DECLINE IN PRICE OF RAW SILK IN YOKOHAMA

Tokio, Oct. 23.—Owing to a decreased demand for it in America, the price of raw silk on the Yokohama market declined ninety yen per thousand kin during the last week. (A yen is approximately 50 cents. A kin is approximately 1.33 pounds.)

GOV. WALTON OF OKLAHOMA SUSPENDED FROM OFFICE

Temporarily Relieved of His Official Duties When the Senate, 36 to 1, Concurred With the Lower House on a Bill of Impeachment Against Him—Vote in the House Was 77 to 17—Bill Charges the Chief Executive With Diverting Certain Moneys "From the Statutory Object and Purpose for Which They Were Appropriated by Law".

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 23.—(By the A. P.)—Governor J. C. Walton was suspended from office at 6.40 p. m., when the state senate by a vote of 36 to 1 adopted a resolution temporarily relieving him of his official duties, following the submission by the lower house of a bill of impeachment against him.

The impeachment bill charged the executive with entering into a "corrupt government," with Dr. A. E. Davenport, state health commissioner to place T. P. Edwards, the governor's personal chauffeur, on the payroll of the health department at $200 a month; and thereby "certain moneys were diverted from the statutory object and purpose for which they were appropriated by law."

The suspension resolution was introduced by Senator W. M. Gulager, of Muskogee. A committee was named to inform the governor and lieutenant governor of the action.

Lieutenant Governor Trapp is in Sapulpa, Okla., and was notified by telephone. The committee delivered their message to the governor in his office.

The senate will resolve itself into a court of impeachment tomorrow, it was said. Chief Justice J. T. Johnson, of the state supreme court will preside.

Meanwhile, the house is to continue consideration of the remaining 20 counts in the impeachment indictment.

The vote on the impeachment charges in the house came unexpectedly. After most of the session had been devoted to reading testimony taken by the investigating committee and one effort to suspend the oral presentation had been voted down, the house suddenly changed its course, cut off the reading and plunged into consideration of the second article in the impeachment bill. Consideration of article three followed at once.

Vote in House 77 to 17

Oklahoma City, Oct. 23.—(By the A. P.)—An impeachment trial for Governor J. C. Walton was assured today when the lower house of the state legislature approved the second of 22 charges against the chief executive contained in a bill of impeachment submitted by its committee of investigation and impeachment.

Interrupting the reading of testimony, the house voted to consider the charge that the governor had his personal chauffeur placed on the payroll of the state health department, and on a roll call approved the submission of the charge to the senate for trial by a vote of 77 to 17 with nine members absent.

The house then passed to the consideration of the third charge, which is that the executive prevented the assembling of a grand jury which had been summoned to investigate his official conduct.

The first charge in the committee report has not been considered.

The house decided to present to the senate each article as it is adopted and the first charge approved was given to the upper body which at once placed in motion its machinery to remove the governor from office during the trial.

Later the house adopted article three.

Meantime, after the bill had been read to the senate, by W. B. Ludley, representative from Muskogee county, it was found that it had not been properly certified and a delay ensued while the bill was taken back to the house for certification.

The senate voted to receive the charge and Senator W. M. Gulager of Muskogee introduced the resolution which would suspend the governor and make Lieutenant Governor M. E. Trapp, acting executive, until the former's trial.

Immediately afterward the house transmitted article three, charging the governor with preventing the meeting of a grand jury that was to inquire into his official acts, and the senate accepted it.

The senate notified the house that it would convene at any time to receive the additional impeachment articles that might be adopted later by the lower body and then adjourned.

STATEMENT BY STAFF OF STATE REFORMATORY

Cheshire, Oct. 23.—Charges which were recently made against a subordinate officer of the staff of the state reformatory, have been declared "either unimportant or unjust" by the directors, who tonight issued the following explanatory statement:

"Cheshire, Oct. 23 ... "In view of the fact that a considerable amount of criticism of the state reformatory at Cheshire has been published in the press of the state, it seems wise to the directors of the reformatory to make a statement.

"The adverse criticisms of the reformatory have centered around one of the subordinate officers of the institution direct charges of intemperance have been made against this particular officer along with other minor charges. The minor charges have upon careful investigation, been found to be either unimportant or unjust. The charges of intemperance have been based upon past indiscretions on his part, and as far as we can determine have never occurred on the grounds of the reformatory. We are satisfied that no lapse of this nature; either on the grounds of the state reformatory, or away from the institution have occurred for more than a year past. The officer in question has solemnly promised to abstain in the future from all intoxicants. We believe he will hold strictly to this promise. Any lapse on his part will result in his immediate dismissal by the superintendent of the reformatory. In view of the excellent record of the officer referred to, we are of the opinion that justice and fairness demand that we support the superintendent of the reformatory in his determination to retain the valuable services of this officer.

"We, the directors of the reformatory, have confidence in the ability and humane instincts of the superintendent of the reformatory, and wish to assure the people of Connecticut through the press that so long as our confidence in him remains unshaken, as it is at present, we will support him in the administration of the institution, and in the discharge of his difficult duties to the state of Connecticut and the inmates committed to our care.

FORD-FOR-PRESIDENT CLUBS MEET IN DETROIT DEC. 12, 13, 14

Detroit, Oct. 23 (By the A. P.)—The movement initiated by a small group of Henry Ford's friends and neighbors to make him president of the United States, took its first step forward today, in the announcement that Ford-for-president clubs scattered throughout the country, will be called into conference, here, Dec. 12, 13 and 14.

Formation of a new national political party with Mr. Ford as its standard bearer, was announced as the object of the conference.

Admitting the sponsors of the club had assurance from Mr. Ford that he would accept leadership of the proposed new party, William Kronberg, Dearborn editor, and one of the founders of the original Ford club, announced that decision to call the conference, was at the insistence of similar organizations throughout the country.

The calling of the December conference was decided upon at a meeting of representatives of three Michigan Ford clubs held here last night. esolutions inviting the cooperation of the national grange, the American Federation of Labor, the Farm bureau, the farmer-labor party and kindred organizations were adopted by the meeting.

CLAIMS TO BE DAUGHTER OF DR. PATRICK D. RIORDAN

New York, Oct. 23.—Mrs. Katherine Riordan Rennison, claiming to be the daughter of Dr. Patrick D. Riordan, a former coroner of New York county, who died September 26, today applied to Surrogate O'Brien to revoke letters of administration of Dr. Riordan's estate granted to his brother, James of Waterbury, Conn., and transferred to her. Dr. Riordan was supposed to have been a bachelor.

Mrs. Rennison declared that her mother, Mary and Dr. Riordan, came from Ireland together, and that while she was unable to find records of a legal marriage she had adavits of persons who knew them as man and wife.

Mrs. Rennison produced a baptismal certificate giving the name of Patrick D. Riordan as her father. She asserted that Dr. Riordan had always recognized her as his daughter and contributed to her maintenance, even after the death of her mother in 1906.

Counsel for James E. Riordan declared that the coroner had never been legally married or had a common law wife. He said he would submit affidavits of Dr. Riordan's closest friends who knew him only as a bachelor.

"He told one of his friends," the lawyer said, "that he was leading a lonely and miserable life."

Decision was reserved.

$100,000 FOR BETTERMENT OF INDUSTRIAL RELATIONSHIP

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 23.—A gift of $100,000 to endow a fellowship for the ultimate purpose of fostering better relations between capital and labor was acknowledged by Harvard university today. The money, the gift of the family of the late Jacob Wertheim, of New York city, is to provide an endowment for the Jacob Wertheim research fellowship for the betterment of industrial relationships, which is to serve as a memorial for the merchant and philanthropist.

Mr. Wertheim who died in 1920, had studied closely the relations between capital and labor and had devoted much time to the subject of profit sharing. A special study in profit sharing, under the terms of the gift, is to be made by the recipient of the fellowship.

Harvard each year will award the income from the endowment, about $5,000 a year, to the candidate regarded as the most competent to conduct original research in the field of industrial cooperation. The fellowship need not necessarily be held by a person with a university degree, but regardless of sex, will be limited to those who qualify as experts in the field of industrial research.

HIGH LEVELS FOR SEASON IN THE COTTON MARKET

New York, Oct. 23.—New high levels for the season were reached today in the cotton market when October sold at 30.35, December at 30.75 and March at 29.83, representing net advances of about 50 to 55 points. Reduced private crop estimates and reports of frost in the belt accompanied the advance.

MARRIED COUPLE SHOT IN DANCE HALL IN ST. LOUIS

St. Louis, Oct. 23.—Mr. and Mrs. Richard Grant of Chicago were shot and killed in a dance hall in the western part of the city early today. Wilfred Stalcup, their chauffeur, was wounded seriously. Police were told the shooting was done by highwaymen.

The second day in the program of the 95th anniversary services of the Methodist church was marked by a concert by the Y. L. choir of the church. There were fifteen numbers on the program, including a number of orchestral selections, tenor and soprano solos, a reading by Mrs. Charles H. Beebe, selections by the choir and numbers by the women's chorus. Edwin F. Crose was director and Mrs. Beebe accompanist. The orchestra members were: Mrs. Marion Hailing, piano; Ralph Gibson, violin; O. Raymond Young, violin; Lewys Gerry, cornet; Claude Ide, clarinet, and Hudson Barrows, flute. The Imperial quartet, Miss Ruth Herrick, Miss Muriel Keeseely, Arthur L. Clark and E. F. Crose, gave two numbers. Solos were sung by Anthony McKeana, Miss Ruth Herrick and Charles B. Jordan.

The third day of the anniversary services was designated as Sabbath School anniversary. Services were held in the evening with Supt. W. H. Parkhurst in charge. The address was delivered by Rev. J. L. Bartholomew, pastor of the First church of Pawtucket, R. I. Miss Marjory Palmer of New London, a student at Willimantic Normal school, was heard in vocal selections. The Sunday school children sang three numbers and the full vested choir of the church participated in the exercises.

Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton, a hunter of some credit himself, stated Tuesday that it is not in accordance with the law to bag an excessive number of birds.

A section of the law is as follows: "No person shall kill more than two pheasants, five woodcock or three partridges in any one day. Also no person shall hunt, take, possess, kill or attempt to kill any female pheasant. Also that in any one year, the limit that may be bagged by any one hunter is 15 pheasants, 36 woodcock and 21 partridges."

It remains true, however, that although many break the law and secure too many birds there are still those who are unable to get even the number within the requirements of the law.

Seasoned hunters explain the abundance of birds as being due to the open winter and the pleasant spring which followed, allowing birds to breed freely.

After ten years of family difficulties and misunderstandings, the domestic hardships of Dr. Bert K. Dow and his wife, Bessie L. Dow of Willimantic, were ended at the session of superior court Tuesday forenoon when Mrs. Dow was granted a decree of divorce, with $5,000 alimony.

Dr. Dow had agreed on the amount of alimony before the court and it was accepted by Judge L. P. Waldo in making his decision. There was no opposition.

Brief statements were given by four witnesses.

The plaintiff told of having married the defendant at her home in Waterbury, they had one child, a son, now 19 and that they moved in 1915 from apartments on Main street to a residence on Pleasant street. Her husband refused to live with her there. She later moved to Valley street where she rented rooms to Normal school students. She is now a resident of Worcester, Mass., moving there last June. She had not lived with her husband since 1915. She said that he sometimes helped in the support of their son.

Charles A. Gates testified to the separation of the couple. C. H. Wells of Springfield, a brother of Mrs. Dow, and his wife, Anna N. Wells, testified to Mrs. Dow claiming that she had been deserted since 1915.

Dr. Dow made no claim for his son and the young man showed his willingness to remain with his mother.

It was announced that two other cases on Tuesday's list had been settled out of court, Joseph A. Bailliargeon vs. Eleanor Marrotte of Killingly and Bertha Erbacker vs. Albert Rondeau. The latter case was of much local interest.

In a bastardy action, which was heard before a justice of the peace in May 1923, with a decision for the defendant, an appeal was taken and the case went over several terms. The plaintiff was a twenty-one-year-old girl and the plaintiff a dancing teacher who had located in this city, coming from Webster, Mass.

At a conference of the attorneys in the case, it was agreed to withdraw the case from the court, without costs.

Before opening court, Judge Marvin stated that he had intended to postpone the opening of court Tuesday on account of the death of Judge Milton A. Shumway, but as the assignments could be disposed of quickly he decided to hold the session. However, there is to be no session today (Wednesday) the day of Judge Shumway's funeral. Court will resume Thursday morning at 11 o'clock.

The three cases for today (Wednesday) went over and will be assigned at Friday's short calendar session. The cases assigned for Thursday will stand as dated.

Funeral services for Milo A. Shumway were held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the grave in the Woodward cemetery, Warrenville. Avery & VanZandt were in charge of the arrangements.

Today (Wednesday) is a big day for Windham High school eleven, in charge of Coach T. A. Callaghan, for today is the day when they stack up against their old rivals, Norwich Free Academy. Windham has a clean record so far and the boys are out to keep it so. The local warriors have a great deal of confidence in the outcome of the game. They are stronger and wiser than ever and The Rose City boys are not so formidable this year as in the past.

Saturday afternoon the pigskin boys go to Danielson where they play a return game with the Killingly High outfit. Another sweeping victory over the latter crew is expected.

Mayor Charles A. Gates has issued a call for a special city meeting to be held at the town hall, Tuesday evening, Oct. 30. An important matter to be taken up is whether the citizens will authorize and order the rebuilding and equipment of the city icehouses and appropriate $14,000 for that purpose. Other clauses in the warning call for the following appropriations: $38,000 for the use of the fire department; $500 for maintenance of sewers; $296.50 for sewer construction; $5,000 for the construction of sidewalks and $4,539.36 for the use of the ice department.

Fred A. Rathbun, a prominent resident of Hebron, and its former representative in the state legislature for several years, is authority for the statement that the construction of a stretch of highway between Hebron and Marlboro, consisting of about five miles, is a certainty during the coming year. The stretch is an important link in the New York city-Boston road and is badly needed.

Clara Upton was before the police court Tuesday morning, to answer to the charge of intoxication and breach of the peace. Judge Foss asked her what she wished to plead and for an answer Mrs. Upton asked to have the case continued until this (Wednesday) morning. She alleged having good reasons.

A meeting of the Windham Democratic club, which was to have been held at Al-Pierre Tuesday evening, was indefinitely postponed.

The St. Jean Baptist Society Carnival which closed Monday evening at Al-Pierre Tabarin, was a huge success. The hall was crowded Saturday and Monday nights. Alexis Caisse was chairman of the committee.

The action taken at the adjourned annual town meeting Saturday, Oct. 6, on clauses of the warning, was ratified by a sweeping majority, at a special town meeting held Tuesday afternoon at the town hall. The meeting was called to order at 2 o'clock by Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton, the call was read and First Selectman Russell A. Andrews was selected as moderator. Lyman Maine and Amos Fowler were chosen box tenders and Eugene Randall and Ruell Hyde checkers.

When the meeting opened there were about 40 people present, practically all of whom were from Windham. The balloting was on the following matters (a) to approve or disapprove appropriating the sum of $5,000 for the completing of the work of obtaining sufficient water for the new school at Windham Center and the completing of the grading of the grounds and furnishings for the said building. (b) to approve or disapprove of the appropriating the sum of $20,000 or part thereof that may be necessary for the construction of state roads in Windham; the town to pay one-quarter of that amount and the remainder to be furnished by the state to determine whether the town of Windham will issue bonds of $130,000, the proceeds to be used for the erection of the Windham Center school and the new addition to the Natchaug Grammar school as well as to determine whether registered or coupon; the date of such bonds, and the time and maturity thereof and the person or persons by whom the same shall be signed and executed, in behalf of the town.

The appropriation of $5,000 for the Windham Center school completion was ratified by a vote of about 37 to 7 and the voters chose to take advantage of the state road aid fund by a vote of 36 to 1. Regarding this fund, if the state spends $30,000 or less in building state roads in the town of Windham, the town only has to share one-quarter or $5,000 of the total expense, thereby profiting by something like $15,000.

Tuesday evening, at a shower given Miss Grace Laisell, of Windham street, at the home of Mrs. Molly Hempstead, on Main street, announcement was made of her recent marriage in New London with Harold Jacobs, of Holyoke, Mass., son of Alderman and Mrs. Edgar W. Jacobs of Potter street, this city. The announcement came as a surprise to Miss Loisell's many friends and she was tendered hearty good wishes. The bride was presented beautiful gifts of silver, linen, cut glass, etc. The rooms were attractively decorated and luncheon was served by the hostess. Those present were Misses Dora Gray, Florence Coutu, Rose and Anna Caisse, Grace Dion, Leda Caisse, Eleanor Moriarty, Evelyn Bamlon, Mae Moriarty, Margaret Sullivan, Helen Loisell, Mae Shugrue, Claire Loisell of Hartford, Mrs. Harry Dumas, Mrs. F. Foley and Mrs. Crane.

District Governor George Cooper, accompanied by his daughter, Miss Myra Cooper made his official visit to Willimantic Rotary club Tuesday evening, at a meeting and luncheon attended by members and guests. President James P. Mustard was in charge. In spite of rainy weather only two of the members were absent. Following the opening of the meeting at 6.35 o'clock and singing during the repast, the baldheaded members and guests were called upon to sing Darling, I Am Growing Old. The singers were Dr. C. S. Simonds, C. Harry Branch, James L. Harmon, George W. Hickey, Morris S. Leonard, Rev. Harry S. MacCready, Charles W. Hill, John Ahearn, Harry W. Standish, John C. Tracy and Fred D. Jordan.

Later those so favored that they could put a comb to sense use were called upon to sing. The instrumental music was by a three-piece orchestra, with John Quinlan at the piano. George Hickey then organized a tissue paper horn orchestra. This jass band included Patsy Carey, Fred Jordan, Charlie Alpaugh, Dr. Hanley, John Tracy, Lon Kingsbury and Geo. Shafer. The old-timers seemed to be lacking in wind and were dismissed and a new band organized, with Tim Weatherhead, Ray Parker, Harry Standish, Ellison Smith, Henry Congdon, Dr. Jordan. The new outfit successfully vibrated through a selection. The roll call and the minutes of the previous meeting were then read. A. E. Greene was appointed by the president a delegate to a joint meeting with the Visiting Nurses' association, Rev. Harry S. MacCready, presented as the first speaker of the evening, gave an inspiring talk in which he told of the suffering and misery into which the countries of the world had been thrown and the stand which we, as a powerful nation, should take in offering relief, physically, morally and spiritually. The honor guest of the evening was Miss Myra Cooper and on behalf of the club President Mustard presented her flowers while the club sang a song of greeting. District Governor George Cooper was then presented and thanked the club for the part which the members had taken in making the fall conclave at Rutland, Vt., the best attended conclave in the history of the 36th district. Governor George gave a brief account of the origin of Rotary when the first Rotary club of four members was organized in Chicago, Ill., by Cecil Harris, a former farmer boy in Wallingford, Vt., where dignity did not exist in its erudish form and the lives of men were given in unselfish service, where the golden rule was the law of mankind. "To be happy make others happy, and to have friends be a friend!" said the speaker. Governor George then told of the extension work being done by Rotary International. There are now 1600 clubs in the world with a membership of 100,000. At the conclusion of his talk the speaker greeted Attorney Harry Gaucher, the president-elect of a newly organized Lions' club, this city. At the suggestion of the district governor 36 seconds were spent in silent prayer for the success of Rotary during the coming year. Governor George received the hearty applause of those present. President Mustard then offered the greetings of the club to the Lions' club, still in its infancy, and proffered the assistance of the Rotary club to the local Lions. Attorney Gaucher thanked the members for the encouragement given him in the Lions' club.

Glenwood
Makes Cooking Easy

"And now you must see my kitchen"

YOUR kitchen, after all, is the real heart of your housekeeping. Why shouldn't you take pride in it?

Nothing in your home is quite so close to the family happiness as the kitchen range. Three times a day you entrust the success of your meals to it.

You will be as proud of the good looks of a Gold Medal Glenwood as of its perfect baking. Its porcelain enamel surface is as easy to keep shiningly clean as a slab of marble.

A Gold Medal does anything that two complete ranges can do, each burning a different fuel. Your first week's baking with a Gold Medal will prove how truly helpful a range can be.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Approximately 30 operatives in the twisting department of the Connecticut mills—manufacturers of automobile tire fabric—walked out Tuesday afternoon, after failure to agree, it was said, with officials of the concern relative to the number of machines they would operate.

A spokesman for the workers stated that they had been asked to operate four 5-ply twisters of 160 spindles each instead of the three twisters that have been operating, and that the task not only seemed too great but the proposed compensation too small.

Rumors of the labor difficulty that came to a head Tuesday have been heard for several days. The operatives claim to have heard of the proposed increase in charge and were opposed to it from the first. The situation reached a climax Tuesday afternoon when the operatives, after conferences between themselves and discussion with representatives of the mill decided that they had rather not work than remain employed at the plant under the new arrangement, and walked out. A number of them braving a heavy rainstorm in their anxiety to get away from the mill.

Upper Reynolds street on Stearns hill—is torn up for a considerable distance while repairs are being made that it is expected will make this part of the state highway leading to South Killingly sufficiently strong to take care of the heavy traffic it now has to bear each day. Drainage has been considered as well as other things in undertaking the improvements now underway, and persons who have been by where operations are going on note that an excavation has been made to the depth of several feet in the center of the state highway. This excavation is being filled with rock, and it is not considered likely that the road will again break through after it is repaired as it did at the end of the past winter, when that particular section of the road was reduced to a jog and scores of cars stalled there.

A long term continuance was allowed Tuesday morning by Judge W. Penner Woodward of the town court, in passing upon the case of John Evergates, of Webster, brought here to answer to a charge of non-support of one of his boys. After hearing a presentation of testimony in the case Judge Woodward ordered that Evergates be required to pay $5.50 weekly for the support of the boy in question, James Evergates, now an inmate of the Windham County Temporary Home for Children at Putnam, where two others of Mr. Evergates' children are also living. Under this arrangement the case against Evergates was continued until April 26, 1924, he in the meantime posting a bond of $100 to carry out his agreement.

The boy that figures in this case has been more or less in the public eye for a number of months. For a time he roamed about the street here with no home. Later the state police took charge of him while they were investigating as to who was responsible for his support and he lived at the barracks on North Main street.

Evergates has raised some question about the boy's paternity and asserted that Mrs. Evergates left him to go to Salt Lake City with another man. She is still believed to be in Utah. Officials hold Evergates strictly responsible for the boy's support, however, and have seen to it that such support is provided at least until late in April of the coming year.

Add to the list of the motor vehicles that have come to grief on the Danielson-Providence state highway a 5-ton Pierce Arrow truck, owned by the E. P. Winward Co., a big trucking concern, this ponderous machine, loaded with bales of cotton cloth, sliding off the road and poking its nose through a fence a little more than a mile east of here, near the Masserelli farm late Tuesday afternoon while a northeaster was howling dismally and rain was falling as it has not fallen for many months.

The driver said after the accident that he could not hold the big machine in the road, and the tracks of the wheels show how it headed, with impish deliberation, straight for the state highway fence, a long section of which crumpled up and collapsed under the impact. The driver was not injured.

Traveling with the mired truck was another machine of the Winward company. This second truck with another that came along from the east with a load of beams and a fourth truck that appeared out of the murk to the westward—a giant Mack—linked uptogether with steel cable and two-inch ropes finally succeeded in hauling the stalled machine back onto the highway. It was more or less damaged, however, and its load was transferred to its companion machine for shipment into Rhode Island. Traffic was blocked for a few minutes while the truck was being hauled back into the road.

At Clayville Tuesday, Mrs. William Taylor, whose husband was buried in that place Monday, died, her death following that of her husband within a week. Mrs. Taylor has been a resident of Chepatchet for many years and her death so soon after that of her husband came as a surprise to her relatives and friends and was regarded as having been hurried by her husband's passing.

Tuesday afternoon, at her home on Mechanic street funeral services for Phoebe E., widow of Joseph Snow, were conducted by Rev. W. F. Davis, acting pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church. The services were attended by relatives and friends of Mrs. Snow. Burial was in Westfield Cemetery. The bearers were Arthur A. Dean, Walter Allen, Abner Young and Clarence Carr. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

The body of Miss Annie Reid, 55, a native of Ireland, who died in New York last Friday, is at the home of her sister, Mrs. William Riley, in Wauregan, where funeral services are to be held today. Miss Reid was a sister of Patrick Reid, well known resident of Wauregan, also of Mrs. Edward Lenihan of the West Side, Danielson. Another sister, Miss Katherine Lenihan, is a resident of New York.

Miss Blanche Lucas of Broad street is at her home and recuperating, after undergoing a surgical operation for relief of a throat trouble at a private hospital in Worcester.

Mrs. W. C. Flagg, who has been a resident of Norwich and Pleasure Beach for several years has returned to Danielson to make her home.

Miss Elizabeth Dunn has returned to Danielson after visiting with Bridgeport relatives.

There was a representative audience at the Orpheum theatre Tuesday evening for the first of the entertainments in the American legion course.

The Service battery, 182nd Field Artillery, held a regular drill at the state armory Tuesday evening after which there was a basketball game between teams of the Inter-Battery league, these teams headed by Roscoe Burton and Emil Meunier.

Relatives from this town were at Worcester Tuesday, to attend the funeral of Frank Bailey, a former resident of this town, who died following injuries received a few days ago, as told in a recent issue of The Bulletin.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert S. Field and family are moving from Brooklyn, where they have lived for years, to a home which they have purchased on Lewis boulevard. Mr. Field is the officer in charge of the state police barracks here and his new home is not distant from the barracks.

The storm notwithstanding, there was a large congregation at St. James' church Tuesday evening for the third evening's service as the mission being conducted by Rev. Charles Kirby, M. S.

Eugene S. Nash, 86, one of the oldest residents of Danielson, died here Tuesday evening at 7.30 o'clock after a long illness. He has been an invalid since April 1917 and during all the time has had the loving care of his daughter, Mrs. Frederick M. Reed of High street, with whom he has made his home. Mr. Nash had probably as remarkably interesting career as any of Danielson's people. He was born in Norwich, July 2, 1840 a son of Captain James S. and Mary Ann Gavitt Nash and was of a seafaring family. As a mere boy he joined the rush of those who went to California, a few years after gold was discovered there in 1849, and later was at sea for a number of years. As a youth he served in the Union forces during the Civil War and after that great conflict voyages that he made upon returning to the sea took him to many points in the world and he spent several years on whaling vessels that voyaged to the Antartic.

Later in life he was in the lighthouse service and for a number of years was keeper of Latimer's reef light ship. It is recalled that Mr. Nash while living at Watch Hill was one of the brave crew who set out from shore in a life boat and rescued many who would otherwise have been lost in the wreck of the steamer Metis. For this exploit by special act of congress Mr. Nash was awarded a gold medal.

Mr. Nash came to Danielson with his family to make his home in the spring of 1878. For a number of years he was station agent for the New Haven railroad and later for a long period of years was engaged in the lunch cart and lunch room business. He had been retired for a considerable time before his last illness.

In June 1870 Mr. Nash was united in marriage with Ann Frances Dodge of a family well known in Watch Hill and Westerly. Mrs. Nash died in September 1916. Mr. Nash is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Frederick M. Reed and Mrs. Ella Wood and by three sons, James, Frederick and George, all of Danielson.

PUTNAM

In so far as the public was concerned, there were no developments Tuesday, relative to the attempt made by small boys last Saturday afternoon to wreck two trains on the Norwich-Worcester branch of the N. Y., N. H. and H. R. R., south of here, near White's Crossing. It was stated, however, in official circles that the investigation of the case, which is well advanced, was being carried on and that likely there would be court action in the matter in the not distant future. Having, it is said, important admissions from two of the boys alleged to have been concerned in this very serious affair, the officials do not contemplate any great difficulty in eventually getting all available information relative to the incident and presenting those concerned before the proper tribunal.

Secretary J. H. Corbett of the county organization of the Y. M. C. A., with headquarters in this city, announced Tuesday that a Pioneer group was formed in Putnam Monday evening, at a conference held at the Congregational church. There are 16 boys in this group at the present time and these have been divided into two sections—the Army and the Navy—and the boys will engage in a membership campaign that will extend to November 15. The group that produces the largest number of new members will be entertained with refreshments at the expense of the losing group.

F. B. Williams has been appointed leader of the group and is much interested in the possibilities that are open to its members.

Secretary Corbett addressed the meeting of Pioneers and outlined the programme of activities, in a general way. Unlike the Boy Scouts, the Pioneers wear no uniforms, are not subjected to any qualifying tests in woodcraft, first aid, etc., but they do have much of interest to hold their attention, including an educational period, a recreational period and a period of Bible study, among a wide range of activities.

Secretary Corbett expects much from the newly organized Pioneers, and it is anticipated that the membership will be materially increased before November 15th.

John Gartland, long known by city court officials, was before Judge H. H. Geissler Tuesday morning, to answer to a charge of having been intoxicated. Gartland was inclined to dispute and nag when Judge Geissler asked him certain questions. Among other things he denied he was a resident of the town of Killingly—said he had not been for 30 years—and claimed East Cambridge, Mass., as his home. He said he had a family of children—and that four of his sons served in the World war—and also that his youngest child was 21 years of age. It so happened that Judge Geissler was more or less familiar with Gartland's record and in passing sentence ordered that he be sent to jail for 30 days on the intoxication count and that he be given an additional 60 days for being a common drunkard. The costs in the case amounts to $10.14, so Gartland will be confined at the county jail until February.

Gartland said he had been in Putnam only a few minutes when he was arrested, and asked the judge to believe that he had walked in from the state line, several miles away, to the north, in a period of 15 minutes. Naturally Judge Geissler didn't believe.

Everything is all set for the ward and city caucuses that are to precede the biennial city election the first Tuesday in December. The caucuses are of special interest this year in view of the fact that the chief contest at the election promises to be over the control of the common council—and not over the selection of a mayor. As goes the council—politically—so goes the power with which to name appointive offices, such, for instance as the captain of police, sergeant of police, superintendent of streets and prosecuting and assistant prosecuting attorneys.

What was whispered a month ago is now being openly talked—that the programme is to nominate and elect councilmen who are favorable to ousting Captain William Jarvis as active head of the police department, chiefly to punish him for liquor raids which he and his men have made in the north end, and to name in his place John Bulger, who was captain in the department two years ago and failed of reappointment because of an adverse feeling in the common council now serving, though some changes, occasioned by death, have since occurred. The programme also includes the proposal that Attorney J. F. Carpenter be superseded as prosecuting attorney by Attorney Irving H. Miron, recently elected town tax collector on the republican ticket.

Making these widely talked of changes involves having control of the common council, made up of nine members. This is what is centralizing interest in the ward and city caucuses.

Tuesday it was stated that the republican caucuses in Wards No. 1 and No. 2 are to be held on the evening of November 5. On the evening of November 6 the caucuses in Wards No. 3 and No. 4 will be held by the republicans.

The republican city caucus at which a candidate for alderman-at-large will be named is to be held on the evening of Nov. 9. The democratic city caucus is to be held on the evening of November 10.

Proponents of the plan to oust Prosecuting Attorney Carpenter and Captain Jarvis are said to be set on controlling a sufficient number of the caucuses of both parties to place in nomination men who will vote for Attorney Miron and Former Captain Bulger, if nominated. Both political parties will be subjected to pressure to bring about changes that the opposition to the present lineup desires.

The guard company from this city won the first prize—a silver cup—at a competitive drill held Saturday evening in Holden hall, Webster, under the auspices of Lakeside lodge, L. O. O. M., second prize going to a company from Willimantic and third prize to a Webster company. Proceeds from the carnival at which the local guard company engaged in competitive drill will go toward swelling the Christmas tree fund.

In the superior court at Willimantic when a short calendar session is held on Friday of this week it is anticipated that some agreement will be reached as to alimony in the divorce case of Mrs. Laura Corcoran of this city vs. Thomas Corcoran, of Monson, Mass., formerly agent of the French River Textile company, at Mechanicsville. Mr. Corcoran is now a patient with a fractured ankle in the Roosevelt hospital, New York.

Another northeaster that developed during the small hours of the morning and held on with unabated vigor all throughout the day did its bit to restore water supply conditions in this territory to normal. The rainfall in this particular storm averaged nearly an inch up to sunset Tuesday evening and went far toward further relieving in full measure the drought that has endured for the past two months.

Of the 5,513 motor vehicles registered in Windham county, an even 500 or more are owned in the town of Putnam, it was set forth in figures published on the Norwich page Monday as emanating from the state motor vehicle department. Thompson has 456 registered machines, Woodstock 405, Pomfret 243, Hampton 80, Ashford 103, Scotland 59, Canterbury 153, Killingly 730, Windham 1,206, Plainfield 630, Eastford 125, Brooklyn 250, Chaplin 48 and Sterling 225. And still some people are able to pay their grocery bills promptly.

Funeral services for Stephen Brady, veteran of the Spanish American war, were held from his home on Church street Tuesday morning with services at St. Mary's church. The funeral was attended by a large number of relatives and friends, including a delegation of Spanish War Veterans. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Joseph Welch, taxi driver injured when his automobile overturned on the state highway near the Children's home a week ago, was reported Tuesday as improving at the Day Kimball hospital.

Tuesday was one day when the game birds were not bothered by gunners, though it was within the open season. Even the most enthusiastic hunters were willing to call it off on such a stormy day.

Secretary J. H. Corbett of the County Y. M. C. A. expressed his pleasure Tuesday over the manner in which plans are working out for Windham county representations at the Older Boys' conference.

James Delida, a resident of Danielson reported to the police that his car was slightly damaged here Sunday in a collision in which his was struck by another machine. No one was injured.

Putnam young people have many plans for the observance of Hallowe'en—a week from this (Wednesday) evening.

It is recalled by many of his admirers that next Saturday—the 27th—will be the 65th anniversary of the birth of President Theodore Roosevelt.

Tuesday was another lost day for the construction crews that are hurrying the work of erecting three buildings in Putnam's business section. The rain stopped operations completely.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

George Pallanck, son of Fibiana Pallanck of, Tolland Avenue, is in a critical condition at Johnson Memorial hospital as the result of being stabbed with a jack-knife by Dan Sousy, Saturday night. Sousy and Pallanck had gone to the home of Angelina Bacchiocchi, on the Cooper Lane road, Saturday evening, when they secured several drinks of wine. Later the two men got into an argument on Main Street and Sousy, according to his own statement to State Policeman Harmon, late Saturday night, drew a knife from his pocket and stabbed Pallanck in the abdomen. The injured man was taken by Charles Quinly to the hospital. In the borough court, Monday morning, Sousy was charged with assault with intent to kill, and was bound over to the December court, under bonds of $2500, which was furnished by Pietro Corrini. As a result of the trouble between Sousy and Pallanck, a search was made of the home of Angeline Bacchiocchi, Monday morning and the officers discovered 12 barrels of wine in the cellar. Mrs. Bacchiocchi was placed under arrest by Officer Harmon of the local State police barracks, charged with selling and keeping liquor with intent to sell. Evidence of three sales was produced in court and Judge Heald imposed a fine of $350.00 and costs of $31.91, and a jail sentence of 18 days. Setterino Bacchi, the father-in-law of the woman paid the fine and costs and she was taken to jail by State Policeman Hulburt to work out the jail sentence.

Ernest K. Taft is confined to the house by illness.

Miss Gladys Houle of the town clerk's office is having a week's vacation.

JEWETT CITY

It is "painful to punch holes" in any statement that is not correct. And it is equally "amusing" to read how people jump at conclusions. An item stating that a hunter was seen at Plainfield station with seven cock pheasants which he had shot, recently appeared in this column. The correspondent was fully aware of the violation of law in such a case, and the item was written with the intent of calling attention to such violation, and giving "publicity" to the fact of the violation of said law. The hunter was unknown to the person who gave the information as was also his destination. But he was headed toward Danielson. It has been the request numerous times of Deputy Game Warden W. R. Palmer that "publicity" be given violation of game laws that people may take warning thereby.

The funeral service of Mrs. Emma Field Hyde was held at the home of Mrs. Ida Benjamin, Tuesday afternoon. Rev. W. J. Reynolds, pastor of Newent Congregational church, conducted the service. Mrs. G. H. Prior, Mrs. George Sparks, Miss Ida I. Foster and Mrs. E. H. Hiscox sang Rock of Ages and Abide With Me. Burial was in the Ames cemetery in Lisbon. The bearers were Walter, Ernest and Carl Benjamin and John T. Stewart. There were beautiful flowers.

Henry LaBoune has returned from Canada where he has been spending several months.

Robert Olson has returned from Bethlehem, N. H., where he has been assistant manager at the Central House. He expects to go to St. Petersburg, Florida, for the winter, as assistant manager at West Coast Inn.

Mrs. C. E. Spicer, Miss Ida Foster, Mrs. W. C. Jeffers, Mrs. Francis Campbell, Mrs. George Thornton, Martha Davis, Miss Ruby Thornton, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Cheney, Mrs. E. B. Cheney, Mrs. E. M. Gray, Mrs. Irving Thornton, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gray attended the funeral of Mrs. Harriett Tillinghast in Lisbon Monday. Rev. E. E. Scates, pastor of the Jewett City Baptist church, of which she was a member, conducted the service. Those who attended from Jewett City represented Ruthie Rebekah lodge nd Faith Chapter, O. E. S., as well as being friends of Mrs. Tillinghast's.

COLCHESTER

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gillette, Mr. and Mrs. I. Newton Danphinee of this place and William Greshardt of Havana, Cuba, have returned from a five weeks' trip in Mr. Gillette's touring car to Nova Scotia. They traveled over 1500 miles on the trip.

Lucius C. Brown was a delegate to the Grand Lodge session of the A. O. U. W., held in New York City.

John Grant of Hartford, was in town Saturday.

The Salvation Army Band of South Manchester, gave a short concert on Main Street, Saturday afternoon, which was enjoyed by a good sized audience. There was 30 members of the band. The members are not only first class musicians but are also good singers. The band played several selections and sang once. Short addresses were made by some of the officers of the Salvation Army Corps. They were en route to New London, where they gave two concerts, Saturday and Sunday.

Attorney Michael D. O'Connell of Stafford Springs was the guest of his sisters over Sunday.

Charles M. Bailey of New Britain has been with his family, who are visiting Mr. Bailey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry I. Bailey.

Frank Case and family of Norwich were guests of Mr. Case's father, James S. Case, Sunday.

The Episcopal services were held in the Baptist church Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Rev. T. D. Martin of Hebron, officiating.

Walter B. Lumbard of Hartford was the guest of his mother on Norwich Avenue over Sunday.

DIVORCE IS GRANTED ON GROUND OF DESERTION

A divorce was granted to Mrs. Florence Seeley of Mystic from Charles A. Seeley, by Judge Isaac Wolfe in superior court at New London Tuesday. The decision was given on the grounds of desertion. The case was continued from last Friday and the only witness heard Tuesday was Miss Annie Conklin, who testified that she had known Mrs. Seeley since 1917, that she saw Mrs. Seeley daily, and during that time Mrs. Seeley's husband was not living with her. Attorney Arthur T. Keefe represented Mrs. Seeley.

WESTERLY

A compromise democratic town ticket list of nominees was filed with Town Clerk Everett E. Whipple, Monday afternoon at 5.30 o'clock. It had been talked for some time that such a ticket would be placed in the field. At the democratic caucus held two weeks ago Saturday night in the council chambers of the Westerly town hall, it seemed as if this would not be the case. A former secretary of the Westerly democratic town committee, Bernard J. Christy spoke at the time against such a procedure and it seemed as if this was the sentiment of the meeting. The list of nominees filed follows:

First town councilman, Frank G. Booth; second councilman, Thomas H. Morrison; third councilman, George A. Dolan; fourth councilman, Louis J. Rossi; fifth councilman, Edwin L. Sawyer; sixth councilman, Wilbert A. Clarke; seventh councilman, Farquhar Smith. Highway commissioner, Louis Leone. The nominations for school committee are left blank, as no names for the offices are supplied to take the places of Dr. H. F. Doyle and Fayette F. Freeman, who would not give their consent to the use of their names. On this ticket the nominee for second, fourth and seventh councilmen are the same as appears on the republican ticket. The rest of the two town tickets are similar.

"Notice of the payment of the within tax is hereby waived. James M. Pendleton, Collector." This is the inscription which will appear on the face of the sewage assessment bills and is the result of the special meeting held at the request of Town Treasurer James M. Pendleton Tuesday forenoon at 11 o'clock in the council chambers of the Westerly town hall. There were present at the session Council President Campbell, Councilman, Morrison, Rossi, Nichols and Smith; Council Clerk Whipple and Town Solicitor John Ferguson, Jr. At the opening, Treasurer Pendleton said that he wanted a vote before adjournment to make available the balance of the money appropriated for school buildings.

Town Solicitor Ferguson reviewed the result of the hearing in the superior court session in Providence when the injunction request of Attorneys Burdick and Kingsley to prevent the sewage assessment collection was denied. Briefly reviewing the case, Town Solicitor Ferguson offered the following resolution:

Whereas, bill of complaint has been entered in the superior court for the county of Washington in the state of Rhode Island by Henry L. Burdick and Everett A. Kingsley vs James M. Pendleton, collector of taxes and the town of Westerly, praying that the said James M. Pendletown, collector be restrained from collecting the sewerage tax so called, assessed on the 15th day of June, 1923, it is

Resolved, that the town of Westerly hereby waives all notice of protest of the payment of the said tax by any and all of taxpayers within the drainage district.

Councilman Campbell said he thought this was good calculation. Treasurer Pendleton thought it would prevent advantage being taken of people less informed as to their legal rights than themselves.

I. T. Arnold of Appanaug, R. I., was a business visitor in Westerly Monday and Tuesday.

Miss Jennie N. Smith returned to Westerly Monday after a vacation visit in New York.

A regular communication of Franklin lodge, No. 20, F. and A. M., was held in the Masonic rooms Tuesday evening.

Richard Richards of Brooklyn N. Y., was a visitor in Westerly Monday.

Bernard J. Christy, who has been in the employ of a brush company, has entered the employ of a phonograph shop.

William B. Senior of Pawcatuck was a business caller in Boston the first of the week.

The heavy rainfall Tuesday again caused a pond to form at the junction of Canal street and Railroad avenue, right in the line of both pedestrian and vehicular traffic to the Westerly station of the New Haven railroad.

The condition of Frank E. Brown, of West Broad street, who was injured in an automobile mishap at the High school corner of Broad street Monday evening was reported Tuesday as comfortable as could be expected. Examination showed that a small bone in his foot had been broken, in addition to his other injuries.

Men in the employ of the Westerly highway department Monday morning began the work of digging up Oak street, near the junction with High street, in preparation for repairs and improvements to the highway at that point.

Mrs. Bridget McSweeney and Mrs. Peter Holliday of Westerly are patients at the Rhode Island hospital, Providence.

Mrs. Alfred Wills of Westerly was a visitor in Providence Tuesday.

LISBON

Mrs. Harriet Tillinghast whose death occurred Friday, Oct. 19, at the home of her niece, Mrs. C. A. Mell, was born in Colchester, July 2, 1846, the daughter of Jehial and Abby Jane Ingraham. Dec. 13, 1869 she was united in marriage with John A. Tillinghast of Griswold, the ceremony being performed in Lisbon by Rev. John Haskell. Their only son died at the age of eighteen years in Jewett City where she made her home until after the death of her husband. For several years past she resided in Taftville, and on account of failing health about a year ago came to live with her niece. The only surviving member of her family is a brother, Charles Ingraham of Willimantic.

There are several nieces and nephews. The funeral was held Monday afternoon at one o'clock, Rev. E. E. Scates pastor of the Jewett City Baptist church, of which Mrs. Tillinghast was a member, officiating. The bearers were Clarence A. Mell, Frank A. Mell, Thomas Gray and Edward Lewis.

Burial was in the family plot in Pachaug cemetery. There were flowers from Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Mell and family, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Cheney, Miss Martha Davis, Mrs. Hugh Davis, The King's Daughters, Eastern Star, Rebekahs and Jewett City Baptist church. Relatives from out of town who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ingraham of Willimantic, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lewis of Preston and Mrs. Bertha Bishop of Sterling.

KEEPING-UP-THE-RECORD

Below, we quote a letter, recently received from Mr. Walter Kingsley, of Plainfield, our dealer covering Windham County, Conn. Mr. Kingsley is known throughout this section of Connecticut as a man above reproach, a real business man, and one who has proven his worth as well as a credit to the community and state in which he resides.

OFFICE OF
WALTER KINGSLEY & SON
PLAINFIELD, CONN.

October 16, 1923.

H. H. Allyn Rubber Corporation,
Gentlemen:

Please send me, as soon as you can, eight (8) 28x3 tubes for motorcycles, and have them fitted with the regular motorcycle valves. Three weeks ago I placed two of the 30x3½ "Self Seal" Tubes on a car that has since been run to Florida, eighteen hundred miles. Just received a postal from the owner, saying that he picked up seven nails on the trip and that he took them out and that he had no trouble with tubes and that none of the air was lost. A pretty good record I think.

Yours truly,
(Signed) WALTER KINGSLEY.

If you have not subscribed for the number of shares desired, of the Capital stock of this Corporation, at the par price $1.00 per share, do so now. Special Offer closes November 8th, 1923. Thereafter all shares will be sold at $1.50 per share. Our Local Dealer, Wm. Meleski, 15 Ferry Street, Phone 2144, carries all sizes of Standard "Self Seal Leak Proof" Inner Tubes in stock. ## POORLY ADDRESSED LETTERS.

Complaints about the postal service are as old as the service itself. Some of them are justified while others are not. Some of those who depend upon the postoffice employes to supply the addresses are laying the basis for those unjustified complaints. Those who fail to supply the street address are imposing added duties upon the postal clerks and carriers and imposing upon the service, and the larger the community the greater the imposition.

Repeated efforts are made to give instructions to the writers of letters relative to the best method of addressing letters in order to facilitate the handling of them. Just how much good this does is difficult to estimate. But from the number that continue to go to the dead letter office it doesn't appear to have accomplished much, or least not permanently.

Those who write letters should bear in mind that postal employes are not mind readers. They have enough to do without spending their time trying to decipher scrawling, poorly written, illegible addresses. If it is desired that a letter should reach its destination, and that must be the hope of most people who write, special effort should be made to address the envelope in writing that can be read by others. Let it be printed if necessary, for the added time is preferable to the waste of the time used in writing the letter through delays necessitated by bad writing or the lack of street address.

Clerks and carriers know many addresses and deliver many puzzling inscriptions but it ought not to be required of them, and a great expense necessitated in maintaining the dead letter office could be overcome if the letter writers but took the care to do their part.

Haste makes waste, and it most certainly does when letters are badly or improperly addressed, and the time to realise that is while the letter is being addressed rather than after its non-delivery or visit to the dead letter office has been discovered.

SEPARATION BY GERMAN STATES.

The movement for a republic in the Rhineland adds a new complication to the situation in Germany. There are other sections of the country which have decided upon separation, where the movement has been attributed to monarchists, but there is no telling how long any of these efforts will be able to hold out. If any of them succeed it means complications whatever the reason for the action may be.

Dissatisfaction with Berlin is the basis for the action in all instances. In Bavaria and Saxony there is a feeling that Berlin is going to yield to the reparation demands and settle with the allies in a way that has been persistently opposed. In the Rhineland there is a feeling that Prussia is responsible for the suffering and misery that have been experienced, and a desire to get away from it. Whether any of the efforts are going to succeed will probably be determined within a short time.

While the allies are taking no part in any of the movements, they are keenly interested nevertheless for there arises the question if the separationists are successful as to who is going to shoulder the debts of Germany. Surely they were a part of it when they were contracted, and it can hardly be expected that they will slide out from under just by pulling away from Prussia at this late date. In fact it was because of the insistence upon the adherence to the policies that it followed that Berlin worked itself into its present predicament. And for that reason those states which are pulling away cannot expect to cast off their burden of responsibility or their share of the reparations.

A new and a decidedly unpleasant situation is placed before Berlin by the separationists. It finds itself with broken authority and driven to the necessity of trying to get the states back under some kind of a promise of improved conditions. It will be interesting to note whether there is any more reliance placed in Berlin promises by some of the German people than there is by France and some of the other nations.

THE GREEK REFUGEES.

Interest has been directed to the situation in the near east for a long time. The desire to help has been manifested in the large contributions. But just now attention is being centered in the move that is being made by Greece to make the refugees to the number of 600,000 beneficial to themselves and to Greece, instead of continuing as a burden.

Greece had no place for this large number of people who were driven out of Asia Minor. They could find no work and they were living upon charity until it was decided to place them upon a tract of about a million acres which the Greek government has provided for the purpose of having them develop it agriculturally. It is territory that has been devastated by war in past years but better than waste land and in need of just such development as the refugees are capable of.

Such a solution of the refugee problem calls for funds, five million being advanced by Greece, a loan of a similar amount being obtained from Great Britain while a much larger bond issue is expected to maintain the effort, directed as it will be by a commission headed by Henry Morganthau of New York, formerly ambassador to Turkey.

Added interest is given to the undertaking from that fact that an American is placed in such a responsible position. It indicates the determination to surround the effort with all possible safeguards and a sincere desire that it will be just as much of a success as is contemplated.

If Greece can turn these refugees to its actual benefit it will be a grand good thing for that country, while those driven from the homes which they and their fathers occupied for many years should become steadfast citizens and an asset to the country. The solution of the refugee situation is being tackled in a manner that should satisfactorily meet one of the bothersome problems in the near east. It will certainly be a most welcome outcome if the forced flight of the people from Asia Minor can be turned both to their benefit and the benefit of those who received them.

BREAKING THE DROUGHT.

From all indications the drought has been broken and from now on the filling of the reservoirs, along with the ponds and brooks, can be expected in anticipation of winter.

Periodically there is experienced just such dry spells when alarm is felt over the low water supplies. Possibly if it were not for such shortages of water there would be less attention directed to the enlarging of reservoirs. Under normal conditions water supplies, except where large growth or new and large demands are made upon them, are adequate. It is where they are insufficient to store water in sufficiently large quantities to meet the demands for long periods without replenishment that the strain comes and it is then that necessary thought is directed to proper provision for the ponding of that great amount which goes to waste during the months of heavy rainfall.

The means of conserving the rainfall gives protection against the occasional droughts. Wells and brooks may go dry through lack of rain but if the reservoirs are of sufficient capacity to hold the bulk of the precipitation when it is to be had the alarm is offset. The capacity of reservoirs must therefore be figured on the dry rather than on the wet season, and it is chiefly those communities which have not made provision against a drought that does the most worrying.

Every unusual dry spell emphasizes the fact that it doesn't pay to delay providing for an adequate water supply until a community finds itself suffering from a lack of water. It is where drought warnings are heeded that protection for the future is insured.

CANAL BUSINESS.

Figures showing the canal service indicate that it is a grand thing that we built the canal, while the number of vessels using the canal and flying the American flag makes it clear that we, as well as others, are profiting handsomely from our canal and making good use of our ships.

Traffic is coming in large volume from the Pacific to the Atlantic coast as is shown by the August tonnage of over 1,439,000 tons while only about half that tonnage was carried from the Atlantic to the Pacific. That coastwise trade is all done in American ships, a restriction which was made for the protection of our shipping. But of the August ships going through the canal two-thirds of them were flying our flag.

The ocean to ocean traffic through the canal does not represent just the coastwise traffic but includes that between foreign countries as well as between this and other countries, but it represents a growing appreciation of the advantages which are being offered by this short cut in water transportation.

As a trade stimulant the canal has accomplished much and its service is by no means at its limit. Traffic is growing to the point where the canal is much more busy than in other years but without crowding.

That it has gotten to the point where increased facilities are required for canal service doesn't seem to be established, but with the growth of the business handled by the canal in comparison with that experienced in previous years there may be good ground for turning attention to added canal facilities in a much shorter period than was contemplated when the Panama canal was completed.

OLD TIES

"Well, what do you know about that!"

Artie Billings threw down the newspaper in some excitement. "Played marbles with him when we were kids—Rockhouse Henderson I mean, the new pitcher of the Red Ties, the team that plays Chicago next week—and I haven't seen nor heard of him in all these years! Here's his history in full, so I'm sure of the bird. 'One of Exburg's favorite sons'—say, all that Exburg ever knew about Rocky Henderson was that he was the raggedest, pertest, most neglected little rat in the town! There were ten or so Henderson children, Rocky most of ran away or something when he was about 14 and this is the first news. Well, well!"

"He must be rioting in his baseball wealth," said the interested roommate. "Must seem queer to drag down a fat salary after years of poverty. "Wonder what it has done to him?"

"I always kind of liked Rocky," Artie Billings mused out loud. "He had grit and a pathetic look in his eyes and he seemed so grateful at being let play with us kids in our yard. My mother would give him cookies and once or twice she sewed up his clothes when they threatened to depart from him entirely. I guess we were about the only real friends he had in Exburg, come to think of it.

"He slung a wicked ball even in those days and it's just his luck that some manager saw him and grabbed him. Say, but I'd like to see him again! I'll bet old Rocky has come through all right!"

"Look him up," suggested the interested roommate. "Seems to me he'd be tickled to death to see you again, especially somebody from the old home town. Why not ask him out to dinner with us!"

"He can't have many friends with his roving life," agreed Artie Billings. "And your boyhood chums always stick in your mind, no matter how many years go by. I'm going to see that game and get hold of Rocky if I have to jump the railing!"

All through the week before the game the thought of Rocky Henderson was very much in Artie's mind. Little flashes from the past chased themselves across his memory—he and Rocky dabbling bare brown toes in the creek, the leaves in the ash trees rustling over their cropped heads, mysterious birds chirping and chattering in the greenness above; the time the sand bank caved in and only his helping hand dragged Rocky from the river; the tramps through the hickory woods in the fall and the bags of hickory nuts, the shrill-voiced plans for the future, varying from an Alladin's cave succession to the presidency. His heart warmed. One lived in such a rush in Chicago that memories came rarely like this.

The day of the game Artie Billings shouted himself hoarse and was a nervous wreck in his excitement over the marvelous playing of the Red Ties' new pitcher. There were others with him. The grandstand was a wave of human beings up and down throughout the excitement of the plays. "Why, I know him!" he felt like telling the men about him who were talking about Rocky's famous twist. "He's a regular guy!" Even at the distance he had recognized in the tall pitcher his old playmate.

Wriggling and punching his way through the crowd when the last inning was ended Artie fought the path toward the Red Ties and up to the tight little bunch of people surrounding Rocky Henderson. He had difficulty in restraining his smiles. Wouldn't the old boy be surprised? Eagerly he grabbed a muscular arm when near enough to the idol of the minute.

"Hey old scout!" he cried jovially. "Glad to see you! 'Member me? Art Billings? Exburg?

The tall pitcher finished what he was saying to a reporter and then turned in an annoyed way to what was clutching his arm. Looking Artie fairly in the eyes, there was no welcoming gleam on his face.

"I'm Art Billings," repeated the other a trifle dazed. "You and I ran around together a lot back in Exburg, you know—you remember—went swimming together and—and all that! Wanted to see you again and have you out to dinner!"

Rockhouse Henderson's face was impassive. "Don' remember," he half grumbled. "Sorry——'nother date." Moving decidely in the direction of an impatiently waiting man with a large diamond on his hand, Artie heard his words trail away. "More of those guys claiming to be acquainted," he grumbled. "Bother me to death! C'mon, let's go!"

Artie Billings stood stock still for several seconds, heedless of the amused glances of those near. He was beyond embarrassment. Something kindly and impulsive in his nature dried up and died on the spot. He moved away slowly.

"Oh, yes I saw him," he answered the queries of his expectant roommate. "No, he isn't coming. Rocky is—say, it's funny what life does to people, isn't it!"—Exchange.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

George Le Boutillier, new president of the Long Island railroad, has been serving as vice president and director of that company since the early part of the present year and is the natural choice for the presidency, made vacant by the death of the veteran Ralph Peters. Though only 47 years old, Mr. Le Boutillier is rated as A No. 1 among practical railroad administrators. For he knows the business from the post of rodman and surveyor up, having begun his career in 1890 as a rodman on the western lines of the Pennsylvania system. It was at this time that he made the acquaintance of Mr. Peters, then a division superintendent of the Pennsylvania, and in whose office in Cincinnati he served for two years. During the long illness of President Peters he served as acting head of the Long Island railroad. As president he will receive a salary of $75 000 a year.

Stories That Recall Others

They Used the Same Tactics.

Uncle Guy is a meat dealer. Just before the world's series started his fingers became caught in the meat grinder and two were crushed. He decided a few days later that since he couldn't work he would journey to New York and see the series.

His family was very sympathetic until his eight year old nephew came to call, saw the hand and heard of his uncle's proposed trip. Then the little fellow grinned. "I used the same trick on the teacher to get off from an examination," he said, "only I used the pencil sharpener instead of the meat grinder."

Where to Go.

It was raining and several lawyers who had congregated began to tell of college days. One told of a professor with short cropped hair and a pure New England style who used to say, "Young gentlemen, if you wish to know what law was go to Prof. A.; if you wish to know what the law is going to be, go to Prof. B.; if you wish to know what the law ought to be go to Prof. C., but, young gentlemen if you wish to know what the law is—draw up your chairs."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Navy Day, Oct. 27.

Mr. Editor: Navy day is not a day set apart for joyous celebration, but rather a day when all Americans are earnestly requested to give serious thought to their first line of defense, the American navy.

October 27th, the day designated as Navy day, is, as some people will remember the birthday of the late Theodore Roosevelt.

There never lived a more vigorous champion of an up to the minute navy than he and I sincerely believe that the present greatness of the American navy is dated back to Theodore Roosevelt from whom a new inspiration was born and has been faithfully carried along until today we can look back and clearly trace the progress made in every branch of the navy.

The Navy League is responsible for Navy day and the league's objective is to ever carry to the public the need of the navy.

The American navy is an organization that comparatively few people really comprehend, yet nearly everyone takes it for granted that it is a systematized machine. Behind that machine there lives the most loyal of hearts, they are the life blood of the service, typical representatives of our national life.

I am sure that the average citizen does not realize what an intricate organization a navy is, involving as it does every detail of administration from the routine functioning of the navy department to the final splinter of the battens on a target raft as it reels under the impact of a dreadnought's salvo.

The navy properly begins with the navy department at Washington, D. C. There the navy is subdivided into various departments under bureau heads or chiefs who usually rank as rear admirals and are designated as follows:

Operation, Navigation, Ordnance, Engineering, Construction, Medical, Supply, etc. The sub-departments or bureaus are really nerve centers which extend to every vessel and station or base in the navy and are represented there by one or more officers of appropriate rank who are responsible through their commanding officer to the particular bureau or department as to the final administration of their charges.

The commanders-in-chief of the Atlantic, Pacific and Asiatic fleets hold the rank of admiral while in command, the seniority resting with the commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet. The fleets are sub-divided into squadrons and squadrons are subdivided into divisions, each division being commanded by a vice or rear admiral. The command of a squadron of battleships goes to the vice admiral and the senior rear admirals.

Battleships and most first rate vessels are usually commanded by a full rank captain, but in explanation I will state that every officer in command of a vessel is properly addressed as captain regardless of whether he is a full rank captain or is an ensign. He is officially ordered to a vessel as its commanding officer. The above I find is a source of misunderstanding with many unacquainted with the navy. Destroyers are usually commanded by officers with the rank of commander, lieutenant-commander or lieutenant.

The efficiency of the navy depends upon the thorough training of the personel and an ample supply of modern equipment the whole combined forming the material from which a navy is made.

If the American navy is capable of carrying out a vigorous offensive to a victorious conclusion there will never be a demand for a great American army, there will never be a wasted American countryside or scattered families and shattered homes. Here in picturesque New England, the cradle of liberty, the work shop of our nation there are a million reasons why the American navy should be second to none.

The point is for Mr. Average Citizen to find out whether his navy is really second to none in theory or in face.

Is the active units of the navy actually properly manned or are we short of men due to congressional restrictions, etc.?

Is the fleet properly balanced with the right type of vessels, destroyers, scouts, submarines, aircraft carriers, supply and repair vessels, etc.?

Have we the necessary dry-docks and repair yards and advanced bases for our fleets?

Has the navy sufficient funds at its disposal to properly develop itself as necessity demands that an up to date navy should?

These are questions that only experts can properly answer, yet they furnish an opportunity for you to give the subject the serious thought it deserves.

If the draft board was drawing numbers on Navy day there would be some real thinking. Don't leave it all to someone else but form an opinion of your own and then impress it upon your representatives in congress who will be guided by your united opinions and will act accordingly.

That is what Navy day is for. For you to become acquainted with your navy.

Peace, may God grant us peace, for none but fools can wish to go to war, yet pause in your cry for peace and ask yourself this question. How can we keep peace?

The future may solve this complex problem, but at present there seems to be but one solution, which is, that a great and powerful peace loving people, girdle themselves with their armor and say—Stop!

So on this Navy day pause and consider, ask another question, Am I one of the average Americans that is just taking things for granted, or am I alive to the real issues and necessities of the day?

What can I do to keep my home intact, my country free, free from the taint of militarism and navalism yet secure against any designing enemies? Let this be our prayer: Oh, God, let us not become blind.

In completion of this letter let me urge you to spend part of Navy day in becoming more acquainted with the navy. Take a trip down to the submarine base and look through a submarine. Look over the yard and plant, see the torpedoes, etc. Talk with the officers and men there and notice their courtesy and ready knowledge of the instruments given into their hands. And when you come away perhaps you will have a new opinion of your navy.

Yours for the service,
CHARLES N. BENTLEY.

LOST BREATH, HEART FLUTTERED after least exertion

Weak, Nervous Woman Obtains New Health

"Some months ago, I found that after the slightest exertion I suffered from shortness of breath and fluttering of the heart. Frequently I would get a stabbing pain in my left side. I tried various remedies but instead of improving I became worse. My appetite failed and soon even the sight of food became repulsive. Then my nerves became so weak that I would "jump" at any sudden sound.

One day a friend called and, seeing my exhausted condition, told me that what I needed was Wincarnis. I began taking it right away and in all I have taken four bottles and I am amazed at the wonderful result. Today I am strong and well and I owe all my restored health to Wincarnis."

WEDDINGS.

Nelson—Lawrence.

At noon Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Lawrence, East Great Plain, their daughter, Catherine Denison, was united in marriage with Gustave L. Nelson of 38 Sunnyside avenue, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Nelson of this city. Rev. Joseph F. Cobb, of South Windham, formerly pastor of the Universalist church, this city, performed the ceremony. The bridesmaid was Miss Esther Hansen and the best man was C. Rudolph Nelson, brother of the groom.

The bride was charming in white crepe de chine and veil of white tulle caught with orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaid's gown was of light blue georgette crepe and she carried pink roses. The bride's gift to her maid was a gold brooch and the gift of the groom to the best man was a ring.

Autumn leaves and flowers were used in the house decorations. Following the ceremony a reception was held and a buffet luncheon was served. The bride received many gifts of silver, cut glass, china, linen and checks. During the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Nelson left for a wedding trip to New York and Washington and on their return will reside at No. 40 Johnson street, Willimantic, where they will be at home to their friends after December 1st.

Mr. Nelson is employed as chief accountant for the Jordan Hardware company, Willimantic. He is a graduate of the local public schools and the Free Academy. His bride is a graduate of the Free Academy and has always made her home in Norwich.

Gildersleeve—Shumway

On Thursday, Oct 18, Miss Eleanor Shumway, daughter of Harold H. Shumway of Newton Highlands was united in marriage with Dr George Harold Gildersleeve, son of Dr and Mrs Charles Child Gildersleeve of this city.

The ceremony was performed at the bride's home by Dr. Samuel H. Woodrow of the Newton Highlands Congregational church of which the bride is an active member.

The best man was Donald C. Gildersleeve, brother of the groom. The bride was attended by her sisters, and Misses Marjorie and Helen Shumway and Mrs. Theron Walker of Melrose.

The bride's gown was of white crepe satin draped into an ornament in pearls and rhinestones. The veil was of Duchesse lace caught with orange blossoms while the only adornment was a platinum bar pin, the gift of the groom. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

The bride is well known in the Newtons and Boston and for the past two years has been engaged in social work in New Haven.

Dr. Gildersleeve is a graduate of Brown university and Yale Medical school and is now connected with the Hartford hospital.

The young couple received many beautiful gifts including silver, lamps, clocks, china, several mahogany pieces, linen, substantial checks and many other useful gifts. Following the ceremony a reception was held at which guests were present from many of the surrounding towns, Texas and Montreal, Canada were also represented.

Marquadt—Kilkenny.

Monday morning St. Mary's church was the scene of a pretty wedding when Miss Gertrude Catherine Kilkenny of 267 Central avenue, became the bride of Robert John Marquardt, son of Mrs. Helen Marquardt of New York city. The ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. William A. Keefe.

The bride was handsomely gowned in white canton crepe designed in latest fashion and a veil caught with pearls. The bridesmaid was Miss Marguerite Kilkenny, sister of the bride, who was charmingly gowned in orchid with lattice work trimmings and black velvet trimmed, with lace picture hat. The best man was Anthony Marquardt, brother of the groom, also of New York.

The bride's gift to the groom was a diamond platinum stickpin. To her maid, she gave a pearl ring. The groom's gift to the bride was a string of pearls and to the best man a check.

The bride's traveling suit was blue tricotine and black velvet hat. After a trip to Washington Mr. and Mrs. Marquardt will be at home to their friends at 552 Union avenue, Bronx, New York.

Lamparelli—Lenardelli.

Nicola Lamparelli and Miss Stella Lenardelli were married Monday morning at St. Patrick's church by Rev. M. H. May, the pastor. The bride was beautifully gowned in white canton crepe with orange blossom wreath and a pretty trimmed veil. She carried white roses and white carnations. Mrs. Lucia Malerba, who wore a pink canton crepe dress and a pearl crown, was the matron of honor. The bridesmaid was Miss Vittoria Rasina, who wore pink taffeta with a pearl crown. Both attendants carried pink roses and pink carnations. Jane Regina, all dressed in white, was the flower girl. The best men were Francesco Malerba and Guiseppe Lonardelli, a brother of the bride.

After the ceremony the bridal party had their picture taken and then went to the home of the bride's sister, on Lake street, where a wedding breakfast was served, followed by music.

At noon a dinner was served, the decorations as well as all the other rooms being pink and white. The adult guests were twenty-five, besides a good number of children. After dinner music, by Pedace's orchestra, and dancing followed. During the afternoon the number of friends increased, being in all more than two hundred. During the afternoon and evening refreshments were served.

A poem addressing both the bride and the groom was given by Miss Sarina Boan, one of the guests present at the evening reception.

Both the bride and groom received many useful gifts. They were both born in Italy and have lived in this country for a year or two. They will reside at 12 Hickory street.

SUBSCRIPTIONS ON SECOND DAY

SEND HOSPITAL FUND TO $94,904

Wet weather Tuesday failed to dampen the enthusiasm of the workers in the Backus hospital campaign as they made their reports at the supper in the town hall in the evening, although it doubtless had some effect on the field work that could be done during the day.

When the reports were all in Tuesday night the campaign had advanced $25,997 nearer its goal and the grand total at the close of the day was $94,904.

The women's division again led the men, having $6,213 in subscriptions to report, while the men's tally was $5,549 and both led the executive committee which reported $3,880.

A special feature in the Norwich reports was a subscription of $5,000 from the Masonic bodies of Norwich, which was announced by Chairman James L. Case with an expression of deep appreciation for this unsolicited response in the big community effort.

The industries committee made its first report Tuesday night, giving the fine figure of $13,240 and Taftville came along with its first report of the generous figure of $1,096.

The two silk banners, which are awarded each night to the team bringing in the highest amounts in subscriptions were awarded for Tuesday to Percival W. Chapman's team in the men's division and Miss Hannah M. Crowell's team in the women's division.

Campaign Manager Treadwell Cleveland reminded the team workers of the silver cup offered by Mayor Mile R. Waters, which is to be awarded to the team captain whose team brings in the greatest number, rather than the largest amount in subscriptions. This will work as a stimulus to get every subscription possible, whether large or small, as the campaign workers welcome the participation of every citizen who gives, applauding the spirit of helpfulness that even the smallest gift indicates.

After the singing of a verse of America led by Louis A. Wheeler and Swahn's orchestra, the invocation was pronounced by Rev. R. R. Graham, rector of Christ Episcopal church.

Chairman Case congratulated the workers on the good attendance for the rainy night and announced that the women had beaten out the men the night before in attendance, having 128 of their team members on hand to 118 of the men.

At the supper Tuesday night, the nine student nurses at the hospital in the class of 1924 were guests and had seats at the table at the front of the hall.

When the speaking programme was reached after the supper Chairman Case introduced Mrs. Samuel H. Davis of Westerly, one of the prominent leaders in the recent successful hospital campaign there.

Mrs. Davis gave an inspiring and encouraging talk to the workers as she spoke of the thrilling week of the campaign in Westerly, which started in an atmosphere of pessimism but ended in a glorious victory that left in an envious frame of mind all those who had not got aboard the band wagon.

One of the few good things that the late war brought out was community service, said Mrs. Davis. The community spirit then aroused has never wholly died out and when as now some great humanitarian service is needed, how you rally to the call. We are citizens all in this day and age and I believe that community service is the best possible expression of Christian citizenship.

Hospitals, she continued, are the great salvage shops of broken humanity, so what better service can you render your own people and your neighbors than that of building and equipping with every modern instrument of healing one of those wonderful human salvage shops, and as you pass by in the days to come and see the white clad nurses, the clever physicians going to and fro on their errands of mercy, with pride and joy, you can say, I serve.

The community spirit that has been revitalized by this campaign, that spirit of cooperation so necessary to the endurance and progress of town, state and nation, is as valuable as your hospital fund will be. She closed with the following paraphrase from Kipling: "It won't be the men's division or the women's, as a whole, but the everlasting team work of every bloomin' soul" that will carry you to a complete and wonderful victory. Westerly will rejoice with you in that victory.

Mrs. Davis was given a rousing burst of applause, after which Chairman Case called on Mr. Davis, who had accompanied his wife here, to make a few remarks. He responded with a few words, expressing his absolute belief in the success of the Norwich campaign.

Song Leader Wheeler and William G. Park responded to an insistent call that they sing Gallagher and Shean, and when they were given an encore they brought down the house by singing a parody on the song which brought in the names of Mr. Case and Mr. Tirrell in the campaign.

The nurses supplied the final song number of the evening, responding with The Long, Long Trail, assisted by Song Leader Wheeler.

The evening closed with the team reports that roused great enthusiasm.

Armistice Day Meeting Postponed.

Owing to the heavy rain of Tuesday night, the scheduled meeting between members of Armistice day committees of Robert O. Fletcher post, No. 4, A. L., and Richard E. Hourigan post, No. 594, V. F. W., was postponed. Plans are to be made at the coming meeting for Armistice day observance including proper services for Sunday Nov. 11th, and the decorating of the graves of veterans of the World war located in the town of Norwich.

FORMER MAYOR OSGOOD DIED TUESDAY AFTERNOON

The death of Frederic L. Osgood, a former mayor of this city occurred at 1.30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at his home at 134 Washington street, following a severe attack of an illness from which he had suffered for a number of years. Mr. Osgood had been up and around but several months ago was forced to be extremely careful, and on Tuesday noon after enjoying his luncheon he was seized with an attack from which he failed to rally.

Mr. Osgood was the son of the late Dr. Charles Osgood and was born in this city May 21, 1846. His education was acquired in the local public schools and at the Norwich Free Academy where he stood high among his classmates. Throughout his long life he took active interest in public affairs. In 1882 he was elected an alderman of the city serving under H. H. Osgood who was at that time mayor of the city. In 1884 he was re-elected alderman and served for the following four years being a member of several of the important committees.

In May 1896, he was selected by the democratic party for the office of mayor and was elected by a substantial majority, fulfilling the duties of his office with efficiency and judgment. His record in office was recognized by the public and in 1898 he was reelected mayor by the largest majority ever given to a candidate for mayor, running over 800 votes ahead of his opponent.

At the close of his second term as mayor, Mr. Osgood was offered the nomination for a third term but declined. He was one of the most popular mayors the city has ever had, his fairness and wise judgment being recognized by people of all parties.

On October 7, 1874, he was united in marriage with Miss Eliza J. White, a daughter of William and Adeline Kinne White and since that time Mr. and Mrs. Osgood had made their home in their beautiful residence on Washington street. Mr. Osgood had a wide circle of friends and socially was a great favorite. He was always an enthusiastic yachtsman and greatly enjoyed his membership in the New York Yacht club, which he had the honor of being the oldest member in years of active membership. He spent considerable time each year in New York and annually enjoyed the yachting trips of the club. Many winters were also spent in New York where Mr. Osgood was well known and popular. He was a past exalted ruler and held a life membership in Norwich Lodge, No. 430, B. P. O. Elks, a member of the Arcanum club, Sons of the American Revolution, the Society of Colonial Wars, Founders of Norwich and the Automobile Club of Hartford.

Mr. Osgood was of a pleasing disposition and had the faculty of making friends and holding their sincere esteem. Of a generous and kind nature, he was ever willing to make gifts to worthy causes. He was always interested in public affairs. In his death the city of Norwich has lost one of its influential citizens and a man who held Norwich and its welfare uppermost in his thought.

NORWICH MAN LOST HIS WAY IN MAINE WOODS

A story rivaling in a way the famous childrens story of Babes in the Woods came out Tuesday shortly after the return of several prominent business men from the Maine woods, where they recently went to hunt big game.

The Norwich men, Charles Taylor, Charles A. Saxton, Charles A. Geger and George L. Ingalls, about ten days ago started for Maine on the hunting trip and everything went well until one day when the men decided to make one last hunting trip into the forests. Several of the party with their guide started into the forest, followed by Charles Taylor and his guide, who were to meet them at a point some distance down the trail. The party went to the appointed place and waited for the two men to come up with them, but they failed to show up, and a trip back to camp showed the reason.

Mr. Taylor and his guide by some means, which it is claimed should not happen to a guide in the Maine woods, became lost in the forest and wandered around searching for the trail. In the excitement Mr. Taylor lost his guide and then, being alone in the forest, in possible danger of being attacked by a moose or other big game, he started out for somewhere. After walking a distance evidently far enough to convince him that he had walked almost home he came across another hunting party and was led back to the trail. Here he learned he was 12 miles out of his way and, securing aid, soon was returned to his brethren. Had it not been for the other hunting party in the woods that day, Mr. Taylor's experiences might have taken on a more serious turn.

LEADERS HOLD PLACES IN LADIES' PINOCHLE CLUB

The second night's play of the Ladies' Pinochle club at the office of Dr. Marie Boynton Tuesday resulted in several changes but Mrs. Houston with a score of 6960 continued in first place, although Mrs. Standish with the high score of the evening, 7060, went from eighth place to fourth place in the standing, and Mrs. Stevens with the low score of the evening dropped from second to eighth place.

The scores for Tuesday night's play were as follows: Mrs. Standish 7060, Mrs. Houston 6960, Mrs. Wyant 6735, Mrs. Kromer 6695, Mrs. Bradlaw 6640, Mrs. L. Maples 6590, Miss A. Maples 6355, Miss Crumb 6275, Mrs. Washburn 5820, Mrs. Boynton 5800, Mrs. Crowell 5710, and Mrs. Stevens 4980.

The order of standings to date are as follows: Mrs. Houston 14,810, Mrs. Bradlaw 13,645, Mrs. Kromer 13,590, Mrs. Standish 13,315, Miss Crumb 12,950, Miss A. Maples 12,815, Mrs. Crowell 12,425, Mrs. Stevens 12,220, Mrs. Washburn 12,065, Mrs. Boynton 11,945, Mrs. Wyant 11,805, and Mrs. L. Maples 11,165.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

WOMEN OF THREE GENERATIONS

The daughter, mother and grandmother have all proved from personal experience the remarkable strengthening and tonic properties of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in overcoming the ills of women. It was first made from roots and herbs in 1873 by Lydia E. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., for her neighbors and friends. Its fame has spread from shore to shore until it is now looked upon by women everywhere as the standard remedy for woman's ill. It has been proved that it benefits 98 out of every 100 women who try it, which is a marvelous record for any remedy to hold.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL ATTENDANCE RECORD EXPECTED TO BE BROKEN THIS SEASON

New York, Oct. 22—New attendance records for football are likely to be set this season, if the early season rush for the turn-stiles at gridiron battles throughout the country may be taken as a criterion.

The total attendance in but five of the leading gridiron engagements last week approached 200,000. The Harvard-Holy Cross game attracted 60,000; the Michigan-Ohio State game, 46,000; the Pennsylvania-Columbia game, 35,000; the Notre Dame-Princeton game 20,000 and the Syracuse-Pittsburgh game, 25,000. When it is remembered were played that afternoon each at-nearly 300 college football contests tracting additional thousands, the tremendous popularity of the sport is manifest.

Never, so early in the season, has the college pastime gained so great a hold upon the public. At Cambridge the wooden stands formerly required only for the Harvard-Dartmouth, Harvard-Princeton and Harvard-Yale games, were almost filled, notwithstanding the fact both Boston college and Tufts staged contests nearby.

The Harvard-Dartmouth game next Saturday, tickets for which are restricted to graduates and undergraduates of the two institutions, will find the stadium packed with a capacity throng, with thousands who otherwise would witness the game forced to follow newspaper scoreboards to obtain early knowledge of the progress of the play.

A gathering of world's series proportions is expected at the Yankee Stadium, where Clarence Spears' West Virginians meet Hugo Bezdek's Penn Staters in a football battle on which the so-called eastern championship may hinge. West Virginia already having conquered Washington and Jefferson and Pittsburgh and Penn State having downed Annapolis.

The annual Northern invasion of Centre College on this occasion to meet Pennsylvania, the Princeton-Navy clash at Baltimore, the Notre Dame-Georgia Tech intersectional contest at South Bend, the First Eastern visit of Marquette, undefeated for two years, which is to play the sturdy Boston College eleven at Braves Field, the Yale-Brown annual at New Haven, and the meeting of Pittsburgh and its near neighbor, Carnegie Tech, are other games listed for Saturday, each of which seems certain to attract capacity crowds and help swell the new attendance mark of the year.

COMMISSION REFUSES TO REINSTATE JOE LYNCH

New York, Oct. 22—The New York State athletic commission today refused to lift the suspension of Joe Lynch, world's bantamweight champion, despite testimony of the title-holder's physician and trainer that a shoulder injury caused cancellation of his title bout with Joe Burman, of Chicago, last Friday night. Lynch was suspended when he failed to fight Burman and will remain under official ban, it was announced, until he fulfills his contract with the Chicagoan.

Lynch's physician told the commission that he had reset a shoulder dislocation, sustained, according to the champion, when he tripped over his dog. Commission doctors, however, previously had found no evidence of injury when they examined the boxer.

Besides his suspension, Lynch also stands deprived of his title in this state. The bantam crown was transferred by the commission to Burman when Lynch failed to accept a challenge within the prescribed period but it passed last Friday into the possession of Abe Goldstein, who outpointed Burman in a bout substituted for the Lynch-Burman go.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE WISHES COLUMBIA BEST OF LUCK

Boston, Oct. 22—A telegram from President Coolidge received today by Wilfred W. Lufkin, collector of the port of Boston, expresses his interest in the international fishermen's races starting off Halifax next Saturday. Mr. Lufkin will leave Gloucester tomorrow on the U. S. S. Bushnell to serve as one of the American observers in the race series.

"I will be glad," the president's telegram says, "to have you communicate my greetings and best wishes for the participants of the international fishermen's race at Halifax this month. I have always taken a great interest in these races and have been much gratified at the public enthusiasm regarding them both in this country and Canada. May the present contest develop the best that there is in the boats and crews and increase the public estimation of real sportsmanship."

ENGLISH HORSE ON WAY TO NATIVE DOWNS

New York, Oct. 22—Papyrus, English derby winner, tonight is on his way back home after a 3,200-mile journey in quest of international thoroughbred laurels that proved in vain Saturday when the American star, Zev, trounced the invading three-year-old in a mile and a half race at Belmont park.

Accompanying Papyrus aboard the Aquitania, which sailed this morning, were his trainer, Basil Jarvis, jockey, Steve Donoghue, others of his retinue and a party of British sportsmen which came over for the $100,000 match.

"Only the rain beat us," said Trainer Jarvis in his parting comment on the race. "With the track fast we would assuredly have won. Papyrus had never experienced anything like such heavy going in his life. If Zev comes to England next year, as his owner, Harry F. Sinclair, has intimated, Papyrus will be ready for a real battle with his conqueror."

Jarvis, incidentally explained why Papyrus wore smooth racing plates, which, in the opinion of critics, kept the Britisher from performing at his best. The trainer said he had been advised to use calked plates but hesitated to do so because he feared that Papyrus might cut himself with the sharp clips.

"I dare to make the change at the last moment," he said "because Papyrus had never worn calks and might have injured himself seriously. I have no excuses to offer for the defeat of my colt."

Donoghue declared he hoped to make another trip to this country soon. He admitted having received several offers to ride for American owners, but said his present contracts in England made it impossible for him to accept.

Referring to the race, he said: "When I saw I was beaten and had no hope of catching Zev I made no effort to push Papyrus. When Papyrus failed to respond I knew there was no hope and because of the sloppy track, I gave up in the home stretch."

TRYING TO ORGANIZE E. C. SOCCER LEAGUE

An Eastern Connecticut Socce league is the plan of the Taftville Social and Football club if satisfactory arrangements can be made. A meeting is to be held Thursday evening at the Taftville Social and Football club rooms at 8 o'clock when the soccer supporters will assemble to discuss plans for the coming season. It is expected that a large number will turn out and that the J. B. Martin Co. will send a large delegation to the meeting as the company will be represented by a soccer team this season.

It is the purpose of the soccer-loving fans to organize a league with Taftville, the J. B. Martin Co., Groton and New London, the latter two places having entered the soccer field for the first time in a number of years.

The Taftville team will be the strongest in a number of years provided the fans give the team the proper support. Taftville will be represented by such players as Wragg, Strong, Jarvis, Jones, Greenhalgh and several players who have just come to this section from Scotland and England, the home of soccer.

The Taftville team will have a practice game on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Hockey Association Nominates

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 23—Members of the United States amateur hockey association have nominated candidates for offices to be voted upon at the annual meeting in Cleveland, Ohio, on October 27, President W. S. Haddock announced here tonight. Mr. Haddock was nominated without opposition for president, as was secretary-treasurer Raynham Townsend, of New Haven. Roy D. Schooley, of Pittsburgh, Dr. Cnon., is a candidate for member of the executive committee.

CENTRAL VILLAGE MAKES READY FOR BASKETBALL SEASON

(Special to the Bulletin)

Central Village, Oct. 23—At a recent meeting of the Central Rovers Basketball team and other young men of the village interested in basketball, it was voted to continue the team for another season. It was decided that the name of the team be changed from the Central Rovers to the Central Athletic club, thereby allowing anyone interested in the game to join the club and a team will be picked from the best men. The Town Hall has been hired for the season and practice will be held every Wednesday night and every other Monday night. At the first practice there were twelve men out and there are prospects for a successful season. Practically the entire Rover team of last year has returned and as this will be the second year that these men have played together and with a goodly number of new men out for the team, competition will be keen and a fast team is promised. New uniforms are to be ordered soon and it is expected that within a couple of weeks the team will be ready for a hard but successful season. Joseph Eaton has been elected Captain and Alfred Nedeau manager. We would like to play any of the local High school teams, especially Plainfield High, Killing, Putnam, Windham High, Chapman Tech or New London and other schools in which the game is played. Games with any of these schools will be of the high school type, amateur rules will be enforced and clean sportsmanlike games are promised. The players of this team are amateurs, most of them having played in high school or on teams equivalent to a high school team of good standing so that any school playing this team will in no way injure the scholastic standing. We would also like to hear from the Norwich Y. M. C. A., Willimantic Y. M. C. A., Baltic Bantams, The Service Battery team of Danielson, the Buddies of Plainfield and other local amateur teams. Will the managers of these teams please write to Alfred Nedeau, Central Village, Conn.

SISLER PLANS NO RADICAL CHANGES IN BROWNS

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 22—George Sisler, who last Saturday was named manager of the St. Louis Americans, today asserted that no radical changes were contemplated in the personnel of the team, but added he intended to start "intensive educational training wherever a man can be improved." He stated he hoped to play next season, but that he would not do so unless his vision was improved sufficiently to permit him to "do it well."

The youngest major leaguer manager said trades would be made very cautiously.

He said no opportunities would be passed up to bolster up the pitching staff, and expressed the hope that Shocker would be with the team next year. Shocker has asked Judge Landis to declare him a free agent, as a result of his suspension last season for alleged violation of a club rule.

Sisler said the Browns were weak in reserves and efforts would be made to strengthen the reserve force.

"I certainly hope to play next season," he continued. "I could not play today, but my eyes have improved wonderfully, and if the improvement continues I ought to be ready to play in the spring. However, I assure you that I will not play unless I can do it well."

ZEV AND MY OWN WILL POSITIVELY RACE

Cincinnati, Ohio., Oct. 23—Zev, the conqueror of the English derby winner, Papyrus, and My Own, Rear Admiral Grayson's crack three year old, will positively appear in the great mile, on November 3, a telegram received by Latonia racing officials from Colonel Matt J. Winn, general manager of the Kentucky jockey club, today stated.

Horsemen at Latonia believe the cough developed by My Own will respond to treatment and the challenger of Zev will be in running condition before the date of the Latonia classic.

The championship closed with 76 nominations, included in which are the greatest of three year olds on American turf. In Memoriam, owned by Carl Wiedemann, of Newport, Ky., who has shown good form, has been especially prepared for the event, and most likely will be a starter. Mr. Wiedemann is credited with having announced that he would bet a large amount of money that his horse could defeat either of the eastern cracks. Whether the appearance of Zev and My Own will frighten owners and cause withdrawals of eligibles for the race is not yet apparent.

The championship saw its first inning in 1919, when it was won by Mad Hatter.

Yale-Army Tickets Out

New Haven, Oct. 22—The Yale varsity football squad had its practice indoors this afternoon, the first time this year, in the armory at Pratt field. In place of the scrimmage there was a long signal drill.

All tickets for the Yale-Army game have been alloted and are being sent out. It was announced tonight that there would be a sale of season tickets for persons holding season tickets next Monday. Each person having a season ticket is entitled to purchase one ticket for the Yale-Army game. There will be no public sale.

COBB HITS FOR BETTER THAN .300 FOR HIS EIGHTEENTH CONSECUTIVE MAJOR SEASON

New York, Oct. 22—(By the A. P.)—Ty Cobb, fiery pilot of the Detroit Tigers, has added new glory to his all-time batting record, a mark almost lost sight of in the closing battles of the season and the smoke of world's series conflict. For with the end of the 1923 season, Cobb ended his eighteenth consecutive season above the .300 swatting class and came into possession of the all-time record which he had shared for a season with Hans Wagner, famous old shortstop of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Wagner set the mark at 17 years and when he retired it was the opinion of many that that was one mark that would stand to the credit of Wagner for all time. This belief was based on frequent reports that Cobb was about to retire and the fact that in 1920 his batting average dropped to .334. That mark, the lowest Ty had hit since 1908, gave him a sting of fifteen consecutive marks of center than .300. The next year the Georgian fooled the baseball dopesters by hanging the ball for a mark of .336, and then tied Wagner's strong of seventeen consecutive .30) marks with a record in 1922 of .401, the third time in his career he had reached the ultra-select class of hitters.

A controversy involving one of Cobb's hits of that season arose between President Johnson of the American League and the official scorer in New York who scored the play in question as an error. It was important in that the play as scored gave Cobb a record of .399, but the official scorer was overruled by President Johnson who ruled that the play be scored as a hit, thus making Ty's mark for the season .401. Cobb forged ahead of the record held jointly by himself and Wagner by hitting for .378 in the 1923 season, thus running his string of consecutive .300 marks up to eighteen.

Another record which the Detroit manager prized loose from the former Pirate shortstop was that of making the largest number of hits. Wagner in his major league career accumulated 3,430 safe drives, while Cobb's 188 made in the 1923 season, gave him a total of 3,454.

Cobb's record for consecutive heavy hitting is the best that has ever complied in the history of the major scatters. Besides Wagner and Cobb, the late Cap. Anson win the only other player who hit for .300 seventeen years or more. Anson turned the trick 20 times, but there was a break of two years after his string reached fifteen. He then finished with five consecutive years in the .300 class.

In compiling his wonderful record Cobb made more than 200 hits in the .400 class, his highest mark, each of eight seasons and three times being .420 in 1911. The only time in his major league career he failed to hit up to .300 was 1905, his first season. That year he was not a regular and in the games he played had to be content with a batting average of .240. Over the stretch of fifteen years in the American League his batting average is .378.

Cobb's string of eighteen consecutive .300 marks is likely to remain a record for many years as Babe Ruth and George Sisler, with strings of seven .300 consecutive marks each, have the best starts of any of the present-day players on the Georgian's record.

ACCIDENT TO COLUMBIA MAY POSTPONE RACE

Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 22—The accident which prevented the sailing for Halifax yesterday of the schooner Columbia, American challenger for the international fishermen's trophy now held by the Nova Scotia schooner Bluenose, may cause postponement of the first race of this year's international series scheduled to take place off Halifax on Saturday.

The Columbia returned to port yesterday shortly after she had started for Halifax. The vessel shattered an eight foot shoe aft by striking a rock at the entrance to Gloucester harbor. Captain Ben Pine, her skipper, had her hauled out on the marine railway today and a new section of shoe was set in place. Repairs were completed tonight, and Pine will sail for Canada again tomorrow morning.

If the weather moderates, he said, the Columbia will probably reach Halifax Friday afternoon. This will give her little time to prepare for a race Saturday.

The American race committee, it was said tonight, will not ask for a postponement as the Columbia will be under the jurisdiction of the international committee. It is expected that if the Columbia reaches Canada too late to get her rig ready for Saturday this body will order postponement for a day or two.

MY OWN AND MY DEAR MATCHED IN FAMILY AFFAIR

Baltimore, Oct. 22—Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, owner of My Own, will confer with William P. Riggs, secretary of the Maryland Jockey club, tomorrow, regarding a proposal made by Riggs that My Own be matched against his full sister, My Dear, owned by Fred Muscanter, in a mile and a half race at Pimlico, November 10, for a $20,000 purse.

The race will be a weight for age affair. Admiral Grayson has suggested that an effort be made to have Eddie and Clarence Kummer ride the horses, or, if they are not available, Johnny and Harry Calahan.

Reports that My Own had developed a cough in New York were denied at Laurel today. My Own worked a mile over a heavy track today in an easy 1.46. My Dear was also put through a workout, and finished a mile and one eighth in 1.54 eased up.

Bender and Styles Suspended

Baltimore, Oct. 22—The indefinite suspension of pitcher "Chief" Bender and catcher Lena Styles of the Baltimore internationals was announced today by Jack Dunn, managing owner of the Orioles. Dunn said he took this step because he was displeased with the conduct of the two players and Baltimore clubs here last night, at a banquet given the Kansas City. They will not be permitted to enter the local grounds again, according to Dunn.

Farrell Buys Yearling

New York, Oct. 22—Frank Farrell, New York turfman, has purchased for close to a record price a full brother of Sarazen, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt's unbeaten two-year-old, from Phil Chinn, Kentucky breeder. Farrell was understood to have given $15,000 and two young mares, the equivalent of about $25,000 altogether, for the yearling gelding, which is by High Time-Rush Box.

Chance Leaves for Home

Los Angeles, Oct. 22—Frank Chance former manager of the Boston Red Sox, has returned home for the winter. Chance says he has two propositions to lead major ball clubs in 1924, but is not willing to make an announcement until later.

Firpo is Entertained

Panama, Oct. 22—Luis Angel Firpo was entertained at luncheon at the Union Club here yesterday. A heavy rain necessitated cancellation of the exhibition bout scheduled for last evening. Firpo said he intended to return to Panama in three months.

SPORT NOTES

Polo is probably the oldest of athletic sports. It has been traced to 600 B. C.

In defeating the Vanderbilt University eleven Michigan made up for the 0 to 0 tie game of last year when these teams dedicated the new Vanderbilt stadium.

The great stadium in Grant Park, Chicago, which will seat 80,000 spectators when completed, is to be used almost exclusively for meets and exhibitions of amateur athletics.

The clubs that make up the big football leagues in England are so scattered about the country that the members of the teams spend more time traveling than in actual playing.

Maine is looking forward to a banner season of winter sports. Half a dozen cities and the four leading colleges of the state are already planning programs of snow-time outdoor activities.

"Casey" Stengel, who immortalized himself in the recent World's Series, played ball in six different leagues before he finally found a permanent berth in the National circuit ten years ago.

Now in his sixty-fourth year, Eugene Corri of London, who has probably officiated at more great fights in all parts of the world than any other referee, is now writing his reminiscences for the English press.

With a view of developing the best players for the championship games with the Harvard and Princeton freshmen, Yale adopted the system of putting two freshmen elevens in the field at the start of the season.

The automobile is said greatly to have helped the attendance at football games in the Middle West, and especially among the farmer population, who often drive fifty miles to see one of the "Big Ten" or Missouri Conference games.

Butler College's disastrous defeat at the hands of the University of Illinois furnished one of the big surprises of the early football season in the mid-west. Butler last year with nine of the same men in the lineup as this year had little difficulty in downing the Illini.

Earle Sande, who rode Zev in the $100,000 match race against Papyrus, has been riding thoroughbreds since he was nine years old, and has been a success from the start.

Evidence of the popularity of football in "Big Ten" circles this year is furnished by the report that the Michigan stadium seating capacity of 42,000 was over subscribed to the extent of some $25,000 that had to be returned to applicants for tickets to the Michigan-Ohio State game.

20TH "AXE MURDER" IN BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 23—Birmingham's "axe murder" record reached a total of twenty today, when Mrs. rank Romeo died from wounds inflicted by a person who entered the the shop and home of Bernard Vigilants, her son-in-law, last night, Mrs. Vigilante was probably fatally injured. The assailant used a meat cleaver. Sixty dollars was removed from the cash register.

Besides twenty deaths from such attacks with the last two and a half years, eighteen other persons have been injured and have recovered.

Numerous arrests have been made following the attacks but few convictions have resulted. The victim in nearly every case was a small shop keeper. Most of the persons attacked have been foreigners. In some cases robbery appeared the motive, the records reveal, while in others there was no sign of robbery.

FEDERATION OF WOMEN'S CLUBS IN CONVENTION

Westport, Oct. 23.—Delegates from women's clubs from all parts of the tate attended the annual convention here today of the Connecticut Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. Percy V. Pennypacker, of Austin, Texas, former head of the federation of women's clubs of the United States, in the afternoon address pleaded for a more active participation of women in politics. "Citizenship," said she, "means patriotism, and patriotism means an appreciation of the solemn responsibility and glorious privilege of the ballot. Presence at the polls and the act of voting places women on record in the eyes of their townspeople and proves that they do not belong to the army of the indifferent." Mrs. John Crawford of the Westport Town Improvement association welcomed the delegates to the convention. Over 100 delegates were present.

AFFIDAVITS IN $200,000 LIBEL SUIT AGAINST HENRY FORD

New York, Oct. 23.—Counsel for Herman Bernstein, plaintiff in a $200,000 libel suit against Henry Ford and the Dearborn Publishing company, today filed affidavits in supreme court declaring the order of the court directing method of the service of the summons and complaint in the case had been accomplished.

The affidavits set forth that copies of the papers had been mailed to the defendants and that once each week, for six successive weeks, copies of the papers and the court order were published in the New York Law Journal and a New York newspaper, as ordered by the court.

Bernstein, an author and editor, based his suit upon accounts published in the Dearborn Independent and an interview alleged to have been given by Mr. Ford in which he was quoted as saying that Bernstein had furnished the information used in some of the published articles attacking Jews.

AUNT OF DROWNED HENRY OLSEN WRITES TO NEW LONDON POLICE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 24.—James P. Connors and Miss Catharine O'Connell were married this morning at 8 o'clock at St. Joseph's church, by Rev. William C. Fitzsimons. James O'Connor, nephew of the bridegroom, was best man and Miss Nellie Dwyer, a cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Connors left for a visit in New York and Philadelphia. Upon their return the newlyweds will reside on Brainard street.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Denison have returned to Eastern Point, concluding several days' visit at Great Barrington, Mass. They were accompanied on the trip by Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Marks, of Hartford.

Miss Maxel B. Hadley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Hadley of 36 Lincoln avenue and employed in the division accountant's office of the New Haven railroad left yesterday for Norfolk, Va., to visit Miss Amy Vandergrift. Miss Hadley formerly resided in Norfolk.

Lester T. Sherman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Forest B. Sherman of Beckwith street, and Miss Eleanor Packer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Packer, of 26 Perry street, were married at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the parsonage of the First Baptist church, by Rev. Chester H. Howe in the presence of relatives and a few friends. They were unattended. Mr. and Mrs. Sherman left at once on an automobile trip to Vermont. Upon their return they will make their home with the bride's parents. Mr. Sherman is a mason by occupation and is employed at Norwich.

An automobile, owned and driven by John Rose, truckman, and a truck, owned by Coffey & Company, and operated by Frank George, were in collision this morning on the Fishers Island Navigation company's wharf. Both trucks were considerably damaged.

The police this afternoon received a communication from Mrs. Ada Carson, 27 Myrtle avenue, Buffalo, N. Y., requesting information in connection with the death by drowning in New London harbor, several weeks ago, of Mrs. Carson's nephew, Henry Olsen, a fireman on the fishing steamer Herbert N. Edwards. Mrs. Carson also stated that she had been informed by a member of the crew of the Edwards that her nephew had in his possession about $100 when he met his death and that there was also a considerable sum of money for back wages due him. Olsen was drowned when he fell overboard while engaging in a fight with another member of the Edwards' crew, Emil Strom, and there was no money of any description found in the clothing of the man. As to back wages, Mrs. Carson was informed that she would have to be informed on that matter by the owners of the Edwards, the Fisheries Product Company, of Promise Land.

Nathaniel R. Clark, residing at the Hotel Mohican who is spending a few days in New York, will go Friday to Marblehead, Mass., where he will spend a fortnight with his brother, W. J. Clark.

Henry R. Griswold and Frank J. Alexander have sold a tract of land on South Ledyard street to John P. and Elizabeth Mansfield.

Mrs. Glenn Chapman and infant son, of Groton, and Mrs. Felix Melanson and infant daughter, of Blinman street were patients discharged today at Lawrence hospital.

The funeral of Mrs. Minnie E. Branch was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at her residence, 232 Jefferson avenue. The services were conducted by Rev. Chester H. Howe, of the First Baptist church. Relatives of Mrs. Branch acted as bearers. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

At the funeral of William E. Treat this afternoon at 48 Shapley street, the services were conducted by Rev. Joseph R. Elder, pastor of Huntington Street Baptist church. Burial was in the family plot in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Mrs. Marianna Maroni, 58, wife of Michael Maroni, died this morning at her home, 25 Fourth street. Mrs. Maroni had been in ill health a long time. She leaves only her husband.

The police court today nolled the complaint it has been carrying along for several weeks against Mariano Barca, one of three men alleged to be selling liquor and to have sold to Fern Parks, who was paralyzed as a result of drinking booze, or wood alcohol. The proprietors of two other places were found not guilty yesterday when charged with the same offense, and it was on the testimony of Parks that the state relied wholly for conviction. Parks told one story to the police when he was in the hospital, but when he got away from there he said he could not remember anything that happened after he fell and was taken to the hospital.

Mrs. William Hayward, wife of Col. Hayward of New York, and who was the widow of Morton F. Plant, now residing in New York, is a guest at the Hotel Mohican. Mrs. Hayward's visit to her former home is for the purpose of attending to business matters. She will return to New York the latter part of the week.

An automobile owned and driven by A. G. Huggard of Montville and a car owned and driven by Nikita Kotolup, 250 Bank street, were in collision on Bank street this afternoon. Both cars were damaged and Kotolup places the responsibility for the crash upon Huggard.

The trolley car for Norwich this evening at 7.45 o'clock was derailed at the corner of State and Main streets, the forward wheels splitting a switch. The car was gotten back on the rails without much delay.

Because of the dislodgement of two of the fire alarm wires on a pole this afternoon the contact of the two broken wires caused the alarm to be sounded irregularly at intervals. Chief Rose had repairs completed within an hour.

Schooner Blossom, soon to go to the Antarctic from this port, is storing up here. The craft will leave considerable money in the New London stores. Her trade is a reminder of the times when New London fitted out so many vessels—some for whaling cruises, others for pleasure trips and still others for fishing voyages. In a storm like that of today it was no unusual sight to see 100 sails at the mouth of the harbor, the vessels being in port to escape the weather. Today there was not a single vessel at anchor far down the harbor.

A man of large means said today that he had faith in the future of New London that would lead him to invest in real estate whenever he saw what he considered a "good buy." It was his opinion that the cost of construction now was too great to warrant anybody making investments in new buildings. He believed that new work now represented a value that was twice what the property built could be produced for five years hence. But, he said, the location of property would enter somewhat into fixing a value upon it.

SAYS WORLD COMING TO BATTLE OF ARMAGEDDON

Judge Rutherford, president of the International Bible Students' association, delivered a free lecture Sunday afternoon in Madison Square Garden, New York, upon Armageddon.

In part he said:

Referring to the day in which we are living, Jesus declared there would be a great falling away from the faith by professed Christians. A fulfilment of this is before our eyes in all the denominational churches. The fundamentalists are making a desperate fight against the modernists' man's origin, his fall, the ransom, the latter opposing the Bible, denying sacrifice and the presence of our Lord, and scoffing at His second coming. This is as Jesus said it would be.

Armageddon was the great battlefield of Palestine. There Gideon and his army put to flight the Midianites who in their distress and excitement destroyed each other. Gideon's band pictured the Messiah, while the Midianites pictured Christendom. That battle of Armageddon foreshadowed the complete downfall of Satan's empire and the establishment of Messiah's kingdom.

There are three great agencies dominated by evil spirits, that are gathering the nations to this mighty conflict. (Revelation 16:13) They are: (1) Satan's organization bent upon the destruction of the Lord's anointed; (2) world rulers made up of the commercial and political giants supported by an apostate clergy, determined to rule mankind in behalf of the minority; and (3) a false system of religion which holds before mankind false doctrines and false hopes. Like frogs, they boast of their ability to bring peace and prosperity and order out of the chaotic condition. They prepare for war and appeal to the patriotism of the rank and file to induce them to enter the conflict, a certain class of the clergy joining in preaching the people into the trenches. This they do in a desperate attempt to hold the evil order of things together.

The Lord, as the antitypical Gideon is turning on the light that the people may see the true situation. But the powers that be, disregarding God's Word, as the prophet foreshadows, will rush on to the conflict and "fall and rise no more, because of the sword which I will send among you."—Jeremiah 25:33 10.

The trouble will be followed by the establishment of peace and righteousness under the rein of the Messiah. It shall be a time of refreshing and blessing for mankind. (Acts Keep his sayings and obey his word 3:19,24.) Then says Jesus, those who turning to righteousness and following the same will live forever and not die.

Many ask: What shall we do? And the Lord's Word answers: "Before the fierce anger of the Lord come upon you, * * seek ye the Lord, all ye meek (teachable) of the earth * * seek righteousness, seek meekness: it may be ye shall be hid in the day of the Lord's anger."—Zephaniah 2:2-3.

The time has come for truth to triumph. The fight is on to the end. In a battle between right and wrong, between truth and error. The forces of error are led by Satan, the god of this world, acting through his visible governing factors, an apostate clergy and the principals of the flock, made up of big business men and big politicians who hold religion as a cloak for selfish uses. The forces of truth are led by Christ Jesus, the Messiah, now here. All of those who in the light of this day willingly ally themselves with Satan in his nefarious work in fighting against the Lord and His anointed, the Lord declares shall suffer a punishment like unto that which shall be visited upon Satan. All those who willingly ally themselves with Jesus Christ, the king of glory, shall be brought through the time of troubleand, being obedient to righteousness, shall live forever.

In the name of Jesus Christ, the king of kings, we sound the alarm. We appeal to all those who have faith in God and His Word, who believe that Jesus Christ is His beloved Son and the Saviour of mankind to separate themselves from the wicked systems, dominated by selfish men, and to take their stand upon the Lord's side and, doing this, receive the blessings of His kingdom which God has prepared for them. Millions now living, becoming obedient to righteousness, shall never die, but live forever in happiness.

STATE'S GOVERNMENT COST WAS $13.97 PER CAPITA

The department of commerce announces from Washington that the cost of government for the state of Connecticut for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1922, amounted to $26,050,-.65, which was a per capita cost of $13.97. In 1918 the per capita cost was $8.21, and in 1915, $5.16, the totals for these years being $10,721,-.48 and $9,9976,662, respectively. The per capita costs for 1922 consisted of expenses of general departments, $10.34; expenses of public service enterprises, $0.04; payments for interest, $0.42, and for outlays, $3.16. About 75 per cent. of all payments or permanent improvements were for highway construction.

The total revenue receipts for 1922 were $21,615,641, or $15.20 per capita. For the fiscal year the per capita excess of revenue receipts over governmental costs was, therefore, $1.25.

In Connecticut property and special taxes represented 41.8 per cent. of the total revenue for 1922, 38.4 per cent. for 1918, and 69.3 per cent. for 1915. The increase in the amount of property and special taxes collected was 3.1 per cent. from 1915 to 1918, and 4.9 per cent. from 1918 to 1922. The per capita property and special taxes were $6.35 in 1922, $4.83 in 1918, and $4.25 in 1915.

Earnings of general departments, or compensation for services rendered by state officials, represented 11.0 per cent. of the total revenue for 922, 6.2 per cent. for 1918, and 10.7 er cent. for 1915.

Business and non-business licenses constitute 38.9 per cent. of the total revenue for 1922, 49.8 per cent. or 1918, and 40.9 per cent. for 1915. Receipts from business licenses consist chiefly of taxes exacted from insurance and other incorporated companies while those from non-business licenses comprise taxes on motor vehicles and amounts paid for hunting and fishing privileges.

The net indebtedness (funded and floating debt less sinking assets) of Connecticut was $4.21 per capita, for 922, $6.56 for 1918, and $9.06 for 915.

For 1922 the assessed valuation of property in Connecticut subject to ad alorem taxation was $1,962,765,631; he amount of taxes levied was $2,221,-124; and the per capita levy, $1.55.

PRESENTS HOSPITAL APPEAL BEFORE THEATRE AUDIENCE

Speaking Monday night at the Broadway theatre in behalf of the Backus hospital campaign, Max Hanover was given enthusiastic applause as he made the appeal for the citizens to respond to the present call and give the hospital what it imperatively needs.

Mr. Hanover spoke as follows:

Ladies and Gentlemen—Fellow Citizens: I am very glad to see so many of you here tonight, so happy, so contented and so secure. You came to this splendid theatre to learn the beautiful and instructing lessons of life which are presented on the screen. One can easily observe by your expressions of approval of that which is virtuous, joint and heroic, and of your disapproval of whatever is cruel, unjust, and immoral, in which way the scale of your character is tipping—and it is tipping very high, almost reaching the ideal.

It gives me great pleasure to talk to a people who range so high in their ethical standard, especially now when I am enlisted as a volunteer under the auspices of the Backus Hospital drive to raise a fund of $250,000 in order that we may all have a hospital fitting to our needs. No doubt most of you here are also enlisted in this most noble cause, and are also working for it.

I believe that there is not one single man or woman in our city of Norwich who does not know by this time the imperative need of building a nurses' new home for the Backus hospital. But I will ask your kind indulgence to allow me to present this drive to you as an ethical proposition.

I will recall what I said to you at the beginning, that I am glad to see so many of you here tonight, so happy, so contented, and so secure. But are we really as secure as we seem to be? Why, no! We haven't even the most elementary need which a community must have; that is, a modern, well equipped hospital. But you will say, "We have Backus Hospital, a splendid institution"—so it is. And if any one in our community finds criticism against the hospital for not being run in conformity with his or her desire, I must tell this man or woman most respectfully that they are doing this splendid institution a great injustice, as they do not know at what tremendous handicap the hospital authorities have been working.

Since the great world war the cost of maintenance has made the financing the outlay of the Backus Hospital a very discouraging proposition. To meet this ever increasing outlay, the income of the hospital endowment was not sufficient and an inroad had to be made into the capital, in order to give our people somewhat near the service which was absolutely needed.

The Backus Hospital authorities labored conscientiously, almost frantically, and heroically, to render the best service with the scant and ever dwindling means at their command. To procure the newest and very expensive scientific instruments and hospital appliances which are so tremendously essential to relieving the sufferings and save even the lives of our afflicted citizens, was almost impossible. And it is heartrending to know how the Backus Hospital authorities felt at their impotence.

The time, however, has come when this policy can no more be pursued, and in justice to all our people, in humane duty and responsibility to every one of us, and to our dependents who are so dear to us, they now come and say to you, "fellow citizens, help us, shield you and safeguard you when you meet with the unforseen, over which we have no control. Help us raise your hospital to a standard of efficiency and to a capacity to take proper care of at least your normal needs—and to this end we must have the minimum of $250,-000." This money is an absolute and immediate necessity!

Now, fellow citizens, the proposition is clearly before you and needs no more elucidation. It is up to us to raise this money, to raise it quickly and with enthusiasm. I appeal to your sense of duty. Let this be no ordinary drive. Let us spare no time, no labor, no effort. Let us all, with one will, with one heart, with one accord pledge our honor to raise this needed fund.

It must be raised and I am sure that it will be raised with the help of every one of you.

MARKET WAS IRREGULAR.

New York, Oct. 24.—Stock prices generally failed to give any indication of a definite trend in today's quiet market, most issues sounding irregularly within a narrow trading area.

Renewed weakness of sterling exchange, which carried it down to another new low level for the year, had a depressing effect on sentiment, but its effect on stock prices was generally held to be negligible. The financial community, however, is paying close attention to European cables, which have formed the major topic of morning conferences in some of the largest banks.

Fluctuations in stock prices continue to reflect the play of opposing speculative forces. Fresh weakness cropped out again today in the rubber and leather issues, most of which fell to new low records for the year, and in a few special stocks such as American Sugar, Famous Players and International Paper, which also sold at the year's minimum prices.

Stocks of mail order houses, chain stores and tobacco companies were in good demand most of the session. Woolworth, Kresge, May Department Stores and General Baking soaring to new high records for the year. Discriminating purchases also took place in other parts of the list.

Opening prices in today's market were reactionary but the net losses in the usual leaders were small. Good buying support appeared at the lower levels and the market started to rally but trading again became dull. Northwestern, rails particularly the Mill roads, suffered another sinking spell through a renewal of speculative fear of a reduction in freight rates with resultant declines in net earnings. The whole market improved in the last hour on rather active short covering in Baldwin, American Can and U. S. Steel, all of which closed fractionally higher.

Acute weakness of Central Leather was directly traceable to the quarterly report published today, which disclosed a deficit of $2,826,034 in the third quarter as compared with a surplus of $758,074 in the corresponding period last year. Loss of export business by recent developments in the Ruhr was the explanation generally heard for the heaviness of the coppers.

Just before the close marked strength developed in Davison Chemical and Codo Cola, each of which closed at net gains of nearly two points.

Demand sterling broke to a new low of $4.47 5-8 in the early trading but rallied later to $4.49 3-8 on publication of despatches announcing the defeat of separatist forces in various cities of the Ruhr. Continental exchanges also recovered after an early period of heaviness. German marks continued their course toward the vanishing point, being quoted at one cent a million.

Call money opened at 4 1-2 per cent. and changed not at 4. More time money was available today at 5 1-2 per cent. for all maturities up to 90 days, but lenders are still holding back.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—Renewed gossip about possible governmental action regarding increase of the wheat tariff or as to reduction of railroad freight rates on export wheat had a bullish effect today on the wheat market. Gains, however, failed to hold well. Closing prices were unsettled, 1-8c to 3-8c@1-2c net higher, with December 1.08 1-4 to 1.08 3-4@1-8c and May 1.10 3-8@1-2c to 1.10 1-2. Corn finished at 1-8c to 1-4c decline. Oats 1-8c to 1-4c@3-8c off, and provisions varying from unchanged figures to a rise of 25c.

After a wavering start, the wheat market soon took a decided upward swing, with active buying in progress on the part of leading houses. Some of the demand was attributed to fresh indications of a shortage of choice milling wheat east of the Rocky mountains and to the fact that September wheat exports from the United States were larger than generally had been supposed. The favorite explanation of the upturn in prices, however, was talk of expected tariff or freight rate changes. But nothing definite on either subject was forthcoming, and with the corn market showing a weakness the wheat market displayed lessened strength in the last hour of trading.

An estimate that non-European countries, China and Japan in particular, will require 34,000,000 bushels more wheat this season than heretofore believed would be the case was something of a bullish factor. Prospects, too, of United States vessel owners co-operating in handling Canadian wheat on the Great Lakes also were construed as helpful to bulls.

Fine weather and the likelihood of liberal receipts sooner than had been expected had a depressing effect on nearby deliveries of corn. For the first time in a long while country offerings exceeded the demand. Oats were easier in sympathy with corn.

Provisions averaged higher in response to the action of the hog market. Lard scored new high price records for the season.

BOND MARKET.

New York, Oct. 23.—Today's bond market displayed a somewhat heavier tone with the volume of trading falling off slightly. Traders attributed the general decline to sentimental selling under the leadership, largely, of foreign government issues.

Renewal of the operations of the U. S. government sinking fund and some buying attributed to British sources gave the Liberty bonds a better tone, all of the active issues recording small gains.

While most of the French government and municipal bonds receded on selling influenced by overseas news reports, the feature of trading in the foreign group again today centered in the Meridion bonds. The 4s fell off 2 1-4 and the 6s 2 3-8, both touching new low prices for the year. All of the papers gave considerable space to yesterday's late afternoon statement by Thomas W. Lamont of the international committee of bankers on Mexico that he believed Mexico would carry out her agreement to resume interest payments, but the response was further selling.

A few secondary railroad mortgages moved forward but a greater number moved lower. Traders reported that the volume of inquiries for public utility liens continued large but few sales were made. Rubber, sugar and copper company liens were offered freely and several issues moved downward.

CURB MARKET.

New York, Oct. 23.—Heavy trading in Park & Tilford, which was pushed up to the record 1923 high of 54 1-2, featured today's curb market. Fluctuations in other active shares were narrow and irregular with gains and losses about evenly divided.

Declaration of a dividend of 10 per cent. on the stock of Ford Motor of Canada as compared with a dividend of 15 per cent. in October, 1922, failed to bring out any large volume of stock, only two sales of 10 shares each being recorded, one at 418 and the other at 417, as compared with 417 1-2, the previous closing price. Cleveland Motors dropped one point to 21 1-2, a new low.

Standard Oil of Indiana closed unchanged at 55 3-8, while fractional improvement was noted in Standard Oils of New York and Kentucky. Humble, Vacuum and Gulf of Pennsylvania. Carib Syndicate and Pennsylvania-Mexico Fuel each dropped a point.

Mexican bonds were heavy, the 4s of 1945 dropping one point to 31 3-8.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Slater Hall Musical Course.

The Slater Hall musical course for the season of 1923-24 is most attractive and of rare merit. The interest in this series is very great. Subscribers for course tickets are requested to select their seats for the season at once, at The Cranston Co., Broadway. Mail or 'phone orders will be given prompt attention.

On Friday evening, Nov. 3d, Jeanne Gordon, leading contralto for the Metropolitan Opera Co., will appear. George Roberts, the accomplished pianist, will be her assisting artist, and will play two groups of selections.

in the Metropolitan Opera Co. Her voice is one of the most beautiful heard in the Metropolitan for many years, a voice of extraordinary range, of ample power, warm, rich and firm in texture. Personal beauty and fine interpretation have contributed much to her success. The concert season just passed marked sensational achievements. The demand for her services far exceeded the limited time possible for concert appearances, owing to her long Metropolitan season.

On Friday evening, Jan. 11th, Percy Grainger, the distinguished young Australian pianist and composer, will appear. Percy Grainger holds his audiences spellbound by his masterly playing.

On Wednesday evening, Feb. 6th, Olive Marshall, the noted soprano, will appear in joint recital with Jeun Bedetti, the famous 'cellist.

On Friday evening, March 7th, Erna Rubinstein, aptly called the 'genius of the violin, will appear.

The coming season this wonderful violinist will appear with the leading symphonies and her tour of America will include concerts in practically all of the leading cities.

Connecticut College Concerts.

The following encomiums have been taken from the daily newspapers of New York, Boston and Chicago:

"In appearance and manner Wilheke is not unlike the great violinist Kreisler. His playing is also of the same strong and vigorous type."

Willem Wilheke appears March 24 with the Elshuco Trio.

"Mr. Werrenrath has a beautiful baritone voice, a subtle, elegant, finished and richly colored delivery, imagination, communicative power, and a command of the pronunciation of text."

Reinald Werrenrath comes to New London Dec. 6th.

"No violinist of our time has equaled Frits Kreisler in his hold upon the public; while none has won and maintained that hold by clearer deserts or higher qualities."

New London state armory Jan. 14th.

These renowned artists, together with the complete New York Philharmonic orchestra, conducted by Willem Van Hoogstraten, comprise the Connecticut college concert series.

Course tickets are on sale now. Order them before it is too late to secure a good choice of seats. Public sale of all tickets begins Oct. 22 at Starr Bros., New London.

HE'S NO MAN'S SUCCESSOR.

Because he resents being called Valentino's successor, Charles de Roche, the brilliant young French Paramount actor, refused to dance the tango with Pola Negri in the Polish star's second American picture, The Cheat, which is on view at the Palace theatre today for the last time.

Instead Miss Negri and the versatile Frenchman danced the more fashionable waltz so popular in the capitals of Europe.

It wasn't that De Roche couldn't dance the tango. Before he made his screen debut he was a professional dancer, and the tango was one of his specialties. But ever since he arrived in the United States he has been hailed by the press of the country as the man who is to fill the vacant shoes of Rodolph Valentino.

This De Roche resents. He points out that he won his own spurs in his native country and he doesn't relish being the substitute or successor to anyone. He prefers to be Charles de Roche and stand or fall by that.

Breed Theatre.

The Spoilers, Jesse D. Hampton's screen production of Rex Beach's celebrated novel of the Klondike, which will be shown for the last times today at the Breed theatre, is an immense picture. When Selig filmed this red-blooded romance of Alaska's gold rush a decade ago it was regarded as the greatest photoplay of its day. But this 1923 version is assuredly one of the most spectacular and exciting pictures ever made.

A remarkable cast is seen in the picture with Milton Sills as the manly hero; Anna Q. Nilsson as Cherry Malotte, the loyal dance hall queen; Barbara Bedford, a pretty brunette, as Helen Chester, the innocent heroine; Noah Beery as McNamara, the crooked but courageous politician; Mitchell Lewis as Marshal Voorhees, afraid of no man that walked; Robert Edeson as the rough and ready Joe Dextry, mine owner and ready to face death for his rights; Sam de Grasse as the cowardly Judge Stillman; Ford Sterling, Rockcliffe Fellowes, Louise Fazenda, Gordon Russell, Wallace MacDonald and numerous other players well known for their ability to act western roles.

It isn't this superb cast and its skilful acting which make The Spoilers such thrilling entertainment. It's the story. Rex Beach described at first-hand the feverish fight for gold in the Klondike when the sands of the Yukon suddenly turned yellow. His account of how the miners were despoiled of some of their richest properties by corrupt politicians is an historic event. Beach crammed his novel with conflict, romance and suspense, and this Director Lambert Hillyer has skilfully portrayed on the silver sheet.

The crashing climax in The Spoilers comes, of course, in that epic fight in which Glennister and McNamara settle their scores. Their tussle is one of the very best rough and tumble fights of the screen... If you enjoy a red-blooded exciting film, with a real story, don't miss The Spoilers.

Other pictures on the bill include Movie Chats and an Educational comedy.

Breed Theatre Secures Papyrus-Zev Race Pictures for Showing Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

The Breed theatre has arranged for the exclusive showing on next Sunday, Monday and Tuesday of the great $100,000 international race films between Papyrus and Zev which were taken last Saturday at Belmont park. Twenty-five cameramen were used to take these pictures and no detail was overlooked, so you can see the race just as it happened. It is the best race picture ever taken. It is not a news reel.

Broadway Theatre.

The B. F. Keith feature vaudeville attraction scheduled for the Broadway theatre the last half of this week is Harmony Land, vaudeville's classiest musical offering, carrying special scenery and electrical effects. Five excellent musicians furnish the music and song entertainment.

Murphy and Bradley offer a variety skit.

The Self-Made Wife, the Universal all-star photoplay which comes to the Broadway theatre Thursday, was directed by Jack Dillon, who directed Mary Pickford in Suds and who has directed many other notable screen successes. The story was written as a serial for the Saturday Evening Post by Elizabeth Alexander and adapted to the screen by Albert Kenyon. The play was filmed with an all-star cast, including Ethel Grey Terry, Cranford Kent, Phillips Smalley, Virginia Ainsworth and Dorothy Cummings.

The Strand.

Local theatregoers will be given an opportunity of seeing The Rip Tide, which has been characterized as "the most astounding picture ever made," when that great feature comes to the Strand theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Created by A. B. Maescher Productions from an original story by J. Grubb Alexander, The Rip Tide strikes a new note in picture construction, and in all truth may be said to mark the dawn of a new era. Never before has there been embodied in one production so many striking and unusual features. First of all there is the story itself which is daring in the extreme. It is a story of conflict and of strong emotions—of love and hate and the evil that men do. So rich is it in incident and big moments that it would be practically impossible to attempt a listing of the highlights.

The cast is superlative. Stuart Holmes, who heads the aggregation of artists, is too well known to need any introduction to theatre-goers. A consummate artist whose work is invariably marked by polish, intelligence and finesse, he has never before been given a role containing the opportunities which are offered him as Count Boris Vronsky, the black-hearted Tartar, whose machinations bring about a series of near-tragedies.

The New Leather Pusher series of H. C. Witwer's favorite hero, Sylvester Pent stories called The Wandering Two, will be seen as well as a news weekly.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

A Pearl Necklace.

Now, let me think a minute or two,
Or I shall make a mistake,
And the printerman will get provoked
At Aunt Jemina's cake.

Oh, yes, I remember now. The little meadowmouse was looking out of his little grass house. But, sad to say, he

He wore a silk hat.

"Come in," he asked.

"I haven't time," answered the anxious bunny boy.

Just then an old crow walked along the top of the fence. He wore a silk hat and carried a cane on which he couldn't lean for the fence rail was too narrow.

"Hello!" said Little Jack Rabbit.

Goodness me! That well dressed crow nearly lost his balance he was so startled, but as soon as he caught his breath he said:

"I have just found a beautiful pearl necklace. Do you think it belongs to the Queen of Hearts?"

"I'm sure I don't know," answered the little rabbit. "Suppose you come along with me and maybe we'll find the owner."

No sooner was the silk-hatted old crow seated behind the little bunny than Dapple Gray kicked out his heels and away they went to the next village.

They stopped before the office of the Mother Goose Daily Newspaper and asked the man who ran the "Lost and Found" advertisements if he knew who had lost a beautiful pearl necklace of twenty-three pearls and a little diamond clasp.

"Let me think," he answered, scratching the top of his head, which was as bald as a billiard ball. You see, he was a bald-headed eagle, although I forgot to mention it before. "You might inquire at a green house down the road about a mile. A little yellow hen lives there who once had a coral necklace."

Away went Dapple Gray again and after a while they came to the little green house. In answer to the Old Crow's knock the little yellow hen herself opened the door.

"Have you lost a necklace of pearls?" asked the crow, politely doffing his hat.

"Dearie me! Let me look!" she answered, hopping back into her little house. Pretty soon she came back with a jewel case as empty as a Christmas stocking on the Fourth of July.

"Who could have taken it out?" she sighed.

At once the honest old crow handed over the pearl necklace and then hopped inside for a cup of tea while Little Jack Rabbit rode away, and in the next story, if the bakerman doesn't make a mistake, and bring me a cake three feet out of a cake, I'll tell you what happened after that.

What the Traffic Transmission Means to YOU

WHETHER you have been driving 10 weeks or 10 years, the Traffic Transmission means greater confidence, safety, and pleasure in driving—with nothing new to learn.

You can't strip gears—their edges and corners never undergo a strain.

You can change gears instantaneously—going up hill or down at all normal driving speeds.

You can make the change without "feeling your way" or working the clutch at a stand-still.

You can prevent skidding by an instant change to second, distributing the braking effect of the engine equally between the rear wheels.

You can pull out of mud holes and deep sand—a quick, sure shift rolls you out before you stall.

You can save your car from needless strains—by an easy shift to second instead of staying in high.

1924 CHANDLER

which is the first and only car to use the totally new principle involved in the Traffic Transmission. We urge you to drive it, for the

PIKES PEAK MOTOR

of the 1924 Chandler has all its acknowledged performance mastery of old, plus important improvements that makes its operation flawlessly smooth and noiseless. Drive it! Ten minutes at the wheel tells all!

POETRY

THE VOICELESS.

We count the broken lyres that rest
Where the sweet wailing singers slept—
But o'er their silent sister's breast
The wild flowers who will scatter tears?
A few can touch the magic string,
And noisy fame is proud to win them:
Alas for those that never sing,
But die with all their music in them!

Nay, grieve not for the dead alone
Whose song has told their heart's sad story,
Weep for the voiceless, who have known
The cross without the crown of glory!
Not where Leticadian breezes sweep
O'er Sappo's memory-haunted billow,
But where the glistening night dews weep
On nameless sorrow's churchyard pillow.

O hearts that break and give no sign
Save whitening lip and fading tresses,
Till death pours out his longed for wine
To slow-dropped train of misery's crushing presses,
If singing breath or echoing chord
To every hidden pang were given,
What endless melodies were poured,
As sad as earth, as sweet as heaven!
—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

HERALDS.

When woods have worn their summer dress
Too long, and tarnished in the year;
Weary with heat and dust and days—
The little crimson trees appear.

So radiant in their livery
Of red; these herald pages sing
Their glowing banners that announce
The swift, soon coming of a king.

There will be glorious sights and gold
To dazzle eyes that are not blind;
A gay and splendid cavalcade,
Trailing their royal robes behind.
—Anne Blackwell Payne, in New York Herald.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

"Over his ears?"—London Answers.

Lady—"Would you mind changing this portrait you painted of my husband for a landscape? I'm going to get a divorce." — London Passing Show.

"Society Belle Writes Play," reads a headline. "Society Belle Washes Dishes," would be more startling. But of course she doesn't. — Capper's Weekly.

"Yes—on mine!"
"What are you up to now?"
"As you see, I am having my back yard covered with asphalt."
"What's the idea?"
"I'd like to see my neighbor's chickens scratch that up."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"I see where a bill has been introduced in the New York legislature to compel the placing of rear lights on all baby carriages."
"Huh—Why don't they go a little farther and compel all babies to hold out their arms when they go to turn a corner?"—Florida Times-Union.

FULL ASSOCIATED PRESS DESPATCHES

NORWICH, CONN., WEDNESDAY, OCT. 24, 1923.

The Bulletin.

Norwich, Wednesday, Oct. 24, 1923.

THE WEATHER

Winds

North of Sandy Hook: Northeast gales. There will be heavy thick rainy weather Wednesday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: There will be northeast and east gales over north and strong shifting winds and probably gales over south with thick rainy weather Wednesday.

Conditions

The disturbance that developed in the vicinity of the Bahamas and Eastern Cuba has moved almost directly northwards and its center near Norfolk, Va., Tuesday night. This storm has been attended by general rains in the Atlantic coast from Cape Hatteras northward. The highest wind velocity reported was eight miles an hour, from the northwest at Atlantic City, N. J.

The coast storm will move northward and it will be attended by rain Wednesday in the north Atlantic states and by shifting gales along the Middle Atlantic and North Atlantic coasts. Following the passage of this storm, fair weather will prevail generally Thursday east of the Mississippi river, except in northern New England and northern New York. The temperature will not change materially during the next two days.

Forecast

For Southern New England: Rain Wednesday and Wednesday night; Thursday cloudy, little change in temperature.

Mrs. Samuel Kronig left Tuesday for El Paso, Texas, for a stay with her daughter, Mrs. Otto Nordwald. She plans to spend the winter in California.

THREE SUMMER MONTHS PRODUCED OPERATING GAIN FOR SHORE LINE

During three months of the present year, June, July and August, the Shore Line Electric Railway Co. was operated at a gain, according to the latest report filed by Receiver Robert W. Perkins with the clerk of the superior court.

In June the operating gain was $121.43, in July $8,840.19, and in August $8,230.62. Operating deficits in the other months were $2,656.75 for January, $1,958.69 for February, $1,456.17 for March, $636.48 for April, and $1,796.63 for May. The net operating deficit for the year up to the last day of August was $1,720.49.

For the whole period of the receivership a total operating deficit of $50,808.39 is shown. Of this amount $53,227.01 was the operating deficit up to Dec. 31, 1920, $,485.25 was the deficit for the year 1921 and $1,720.49 is the operating deficit to Sept. 1 this year. In 1922 there was an operating gain of $7,424.36, which is an offset against the other periods when operating expenses exceeded receipts.

The operating account to Aug. 31, 1923, showed cash on hand Aug. 1, 1923, $31,009.18, cash receipts in August, passenger revenue $10,803.30, accounts receivable, $1820.78, miscellaneous $337.50; total $43,970.76; cash disbursements, payrolls $5,473.30; power purchased $1081.33; material and supplies $793.54; liquidation expense $2,567.14 miscellaneous $3,809.84; total $16,723.44; leaving cash on hand Sept. 1, 1923, of $27,247.22.

Assets: Road and equipment $1,528,139.59; special deposit in Old Colony Trust Co., $13,335.83; other investment $531,000; cash $27,247.22; accounts receivable $29,835.61; material and supplies $13,591.42; rent and insurance premium paid in advance, $582.17; unadjusted debits $1,356.40; difference between tangible assets and preferred claims $1,174,945.57; operating deficit to Aug. 31, 1923, $50,808.39; a total of $3,360,852.19.

Liabilities—Funded debt $2,275,000, accounts payable $21,126.07, bond interest matured as of Oct. 1, 1919, $306,562.50, accrued taxes $8,322.23; unadjusted credits $166.14; liquidation account $299,674.25; a total of $3,360,852.19.

BAIL OF $10,000 IS FURNISHED FOR DOCTOR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 24.—Dr. Charles A. Gasson of Station 17, Waterford, who was taken into custody late last night by County Detective William Lewis and Sergeant Clifford Gorgas of the state police, charged with criminal abortion, was liberated early this morning when he obtained sureties on his bond of $10,000. The qualifiers to the bond were Mrs. Jessie V. Bradley of 165 Tyler avenue, Eastern Point, and Mrs. Edna Gasson, wife of the accused, the latter tendering her note for $1,800 to Justice of the Peace Thomas F. Morton, as Mrs. Gasson owned an equity of the face of the note in the property where she and the physician resided and where the abertion of which Dr. Gasson is charged is alleged to have been committed.

Gasson will be given a hearing before Justice Morton in Firemen's hall, Waterford, tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, at which time the girl, a New London miss of about 18, is expected to tell her story of what happened at the Gasson place.

Gasson, while a resident of New London, at which time he was employed at the dispensary at Fort Trumbull, during the World war, was suspected of making a practice of performing abortions, but he was never arrested as evidence to warrant his being apprehended could not be obtained. Since taking possession of the Waterford house it has not been infrequent to observe numerous automobiles at the house during the night.

OLDER GIRLS CONFERENCE WILL HAVE NOTED SPEAKERS

A rare opportunity to hear some of the most noted speakers of New England is offered to the older girls of the church and high schools of Connecticut at the Older Girls' Conference in New Haven Friday, Saturday and Sunday, October 26, 27 and 28.

Each high school girls' club and each Sunday school class may send five delegates.

This is the annual conference for girls between the ages of 15 and 20 held under the ausolces of the Connecticut Sunday School association. The purpose of the conference is to give older girls a vision of Christian service, help them in making life's choices and suggest to them methods of training for their work in the church and community.

Some of the speakers will be: Rev. Charles N. Arbuckle, D. D., minister, First Baptist church, Newton, Mass; Miss Margaret Slattery, author and Sunday school specialist, Boston, Mass; Rev. Henry Hallam Tweedy, D. D., professor of practical theology, Yale Divinity school, New Haven.

GEN. JACKSON STOOD ON STONE IN OSGOOD COTTAGE GROUNDS

It is an interesting fact that, at the cottage on Sachem street owned by former Mayor Frederick L. Osgood, the flat stone remains undisturbed on which President Andrew Jackson stood, when, in the summer of 1833, he laid the cornerstone of the monument to Uncas, great sachem of the Mohegan Indian tribe.

GROTON DWELLING FIRE WAS QUICKLY EXTINGUISHED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 23.—The three-family dwelling off Ledyard avenue, Groton, occupying a site where the former brewery was located, was discovered ablaze shortly after 1 o'clock this forenoon, causing an alarm to be rung in from Box 25. Groton's fire department, the Pioneer Hose company, responded in quick time and with the firemen entering the building the blaze was located between the partitions. After a half hour's work, during which time a quantity of chemicals was deposited upon the burning timbers, the fire was extinguished. The origin of the fire is not known, but it is believed was due to an overheated chimney. The house, which has been the location of several fires within the past few months, is owned by Emanuel Buonano and is occupied by Italian families.

SLATER HEIR ENGAGED TO CORDELIA BIDDLE DUKE

A New York despatch says:

The engagement of Cordelia Biddle Duke, divorced wife of the late Angier B. Duke, tobacco magnate, and William Slater, heir to the Slater fortune, is reported here.

Slater was himself divorced from Madeline Allen of Orange, N. J. The latter is said to have received a large slice of the Slater fortune as a divorce settlement.

Mrs. Duke was divorced from her wealthy husband when she objected to his actions in staging gay parties in his Fifth avenue mansion. The revelation that she received more than $1,000,000 to give freedom to her husband was made after the latter was drowned last summer in Long Island sound.

GEORGE FANNING, DESPONDENT, SUICIDED AT HARTFORD

George Fanning, 32, of 108 Baltimore street, Hartford, an official of the Empire Steam Laundry company, committed suicide Oct. 19, by hanging in the attic of his home, Hartford paper state. Some of those in the household had occasion to visit the attic and found him suspended from the rafters by the cord of his bathrobe.

Mr. Fanning had gone into the attic without attracting the attention of the family and removing the cord of his bathrobe tied one end to the rafters and fastened the other about his neck while he stood on a trunk. Then he jumped from the trunk.

Mr. Fanning was the son of William Edmund Fanning of 944 Farmington avenue, a well known Hartford business man and proprietor of the laundry with which has son was connected. The son had been in poor health for several months. Lately according to the authorities, he had worried over financial matters. The house he rented is one of the best on the street. From the time of the birth of his infant daughter Elizabeth, he had employed a housekeeper for his wife. Besides his young wife and daughter, he leaves two sons, George and William, both under five years of age.

He was a grandson of the late Judge George Fanning of Ledyard, and his mother is Ada Marie Moxley, daughter of the late Solon A. Moxley of Norwich.

DIAMOND-STUDDED WATCH FOR MRS. SADIE PLAUT MAYER

Hartford papers state that Mrs. Jerome Mayer (Sadie Plaut) of Oxford street, treasurer of the Hartford section, Council of Jewish Women, was presented a platinum wrist watch by the officers, board of directors and chairmen of standing committees of the council at the board meeting held Friday.

Mrs. Mayer has been very active in working for the success of the Hartford council, and it was she who prepared the program for the year's literary, musical and social meetings of the organization.

TRINITY METHODIST MEN FORM BIBLE CLASS CLUB

At a meeting of the men of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church Tuesday evening in the church parlors a Men's Bible class and club was organized with Robert McNeely as the first president. The meeting, which was called for the purpose of bringing the men into closer fellowship, was preceded by a harvest supper at 6.30. The menu, served under the direction of the Ladies' Aid society, was as follows: Corned beef, cold veal, white potatoes, sweet potatoes, cabbage, beets, carrots, coldslaw, relish, rolls, squash and apple pie, assorted fruit, tea and coffee.

Robert McNeely, toastmaster, called the meeting to order at the close of the supper, and the object of the meeting, to form a Bible class and club, was explained. Toasts were given by Rev. E. J. Ayers; Rev. W. H. Bath and Rev. J. Harlow Graham, pastor of the church. Rev. L. H. Dorchester of Hartford spoke on Experiences With Church Men's Clubs.

The meeting voted to organize a Bible class and club and the organization vote was followed by an election of officers, resulting as follows: President, Robert McNeely; vice president, Ernest O. Rodier; secretary, Vincent S. Welch; treasurer, George W. Greenhalgh. The club will meet Sunday at 12 o'clock as a Bible class, at which time the aims and object of the organization will be explained for the benefit of the men of the parish who were unable to be present at Tuesday night's meeting.

The church parlors were attractively decorated with autumn foliage and crepe paper. Mrs. Alvin D. Lewis was chairman of the committee in charge of the harvest supper and was assisted by the following: Mrs. Gray, Mrs. Pendleton, Mrs. Russ, Mrs. Worthington and Mrs. Worcester. Those who acted as waitresses were Mrs. H. M. Newbury, Miss Gladys Newbury, Miss Eleanor Fenton, Mrs. George Wallen, Mrs. Christopher Allen, Mrs. George Greenhalgh, Mrs. Vincent Welch, Mrs. Ernest J. Jones, Mrs. Geer, Miss Amy Burlingame, Miss Isabel Shearer, Mrs. Durie and Mrs. Tracy.

NEW LONDON COUNTY BECOMING DRY SPOT

Federal prohibition officers are to be called together often in the future to determine the condition of Connecticut in regard to the enforcement of the Eighteenth amendment, said James T. Wheeler, chief prohibition enforcement officer in the state, Monday. Mr. Wheeler said that meetings will be held in order to check up the violations in various sections of the state and to determine what measures should be applied in regard to rum running and open saloons. Conditions at this time are encouraging, Mr. Wheeler said, and in a short time he hopes to have the whole state under complete control. Speaking of the condition of New London county Mr. Wheeler was enthusiastic about the manner in which the law is being enforced on all sides.

"There is not a bar in Hartford county" said Mr. Wheeler "and in a short time I feel sure that this condition will prevail all through the state. New London is nearly closed up and New Haven is the same. There are, however, a few saloons in Waterbury, but the vice squads of both the municipal and state authorities are working hand in hand with our men. This situation will be cleared in the near future.

"I understand that Litchfield county is more or less open, but you may rest assured that action will be taken there before long and that the law will be enforced. This will be especially true in Terryville, Torrington, Winsted and New Milford. Reports from Putnam in Windham county are encouraging and it will not be long before Putnam will be in the same shape as Willimantic. In Willimantic, I have been given to understand, all saloons have been dismantled.

"In Hartford, especially," said Mr. Wheeler, "the municipal authorities are doing all they are able to do to help the situation. At our meeting of last week most of the men reported how much they appreciated the aid given them."

Mr. Wheeler said that the greatest difficulty experienced by the federal agents was with rum runners. Communities on Long Island sound find them especially troublesome.

State Attorney Hadlai A. Hull of New London county is waging an active campaign against rum runners and in one case a sentence of 15 months was imposed. "Men will not take chances with heavy jail sentences," said Mr. Wheeler.

BRINGS STONE INTO COURT OVER WHICH WOMAN FELL

Trial of the suit of Mrs. Catherine Bell, Prest street, New London, against the city of New London for $10,000 for injuries received when she fell on the sidewalk on Prest street and broke her wrist, was resumed in superior court there Tuesday morning. The case was unfinished last Thursday after being started earlier in the week.

Director of Law Frank L. McGuire introduced new testimony on behalf of the city. The witnesses called during the morning session were: Frederick W. Hull, a contractor; James B. Cottrell, a city employe in October, 1920, when the accident took place, and Kenneth H. Holmes, a surveyor in the employ of the city.

Mr. Hull testified that Mrs. Bell had been employed at his home as a cook for $8 a week and her keep. He stated that he had noticed that she had a lameness prior to her fall. Mr. Cottrell testified that he had laid the curb along Prest street in June, 1920. He stated that when he finished the work the sidewalk was in good condition. In February of this year he stated he re-examined the walk and found that a stone was protruding at one point.

Mr. Holmes testified that he had been a surveyor for ten years and that he had excavated a large stone from the walk and he produced charts and diagrams to visualize the condition of the sidewalk for the jury. A small model, showing the exact position of the stone in the ground was also placed on exhibit. Mr. Holmes produced from a box the heavy stone over which it is alleged the plaintiff fell, causing her injury.

Two arguments were made before court adjourned Tuesday afternoon until next Tuesday morning.

A pretty fall wedding was solemnized at Sacred Heart church Tuesday morning when Miss Florida Raymond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noel Raymond of Norwich avenue, became the bride of Leo Lemoine of Norwich, the ceremony being performed at a nuptial high mass celebrated by Rev. U. O. Beilerose, pastor of the church. They were attended by Miss Anna May Raymond, a sister of the bride, and David Lafournier, a cousin of the groom. After the ceremony there was a reception and wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents. The young couple are very popular and have many friends who wish them prosperity in their married life.

Miss Pearl Tetlow of New Bedford, Mass., who recently graduated from St. Luke's hospital training school, is visiting relatives in town.

One of the electric light poles on South A street was blown down during Tuesday's storm.

Mrs. Earle M. Wood of North Third avenue spent Tuesday in Hartford.

Have You Any Idea How Your Collar Is Washed?

We are making a specialty of both SOFT and STIFF COLLARS and have equipped ourselves to launder them exactly the same as the collar manufacturers.

Each collar goes through a DOZEN OPERATIONS before it is returned to you.

It is washed thoroughly, rinsed, and the excess water removed. Next, it is starched and dried, then dampened, and ironed flat. Then the seam of the collar is dampened and the collar folded on a collar shaper which prevents the collar from cracking. We will show you how our methods take less wear out of the collar than the system previously used.

We starch the stiff collars with a fine quality WHEAT STARCH which gives them a flexible finish and makes them more comfortable.

If you are one of those who are sure that your collars are put in a grinding machine, COME IN AND SEE FOR YOURSELF!

GERMANY REQUESTS HEARING BY REPARATION COMMISSION

The Belgians Are Now Said to Believe the Germans Should Be Allowed to State Their Case—The Commission Will Probably Take Up the Request at Its Regular Meeting Friday—Chancellor Stresemann and His Cabinet is to Confer With Representatives of the Occupied Areas in Regard to the Situation in the Rhineland—Berlin Press Reports That the Attempt to Establish a Rheinish Republic Has Failed.

Paris, Oct. 24—Germany's formal application for a hearing before the reparation commission on the subject of her capacity to pay is considered in authoritative circles as having brought the whole reparation problem to a new crisis. The German request was contained in a note presented to the commission this afternoon by Dr. Mayer head of the German reparation delegation in Paris.

It is anticipated that it will bring up an issue between the French delegates on one side and the British, Belgian, Italian representatives on the other, the three later being known to favor a hearing for the Germans. The British and Italians have been inclined in this direction for some time, and the Belgians are now said to believe that the time has come when the Germans should be allowed to state their case.

Premier Poincare, it is recalled, has all along contended that if any reestimate of Germany's capacity to pay were made, it should be done by the reparation commission, but he has hitherto avoided committing himself as to whether the commission might properly take up that question in the present circumstances. In his last interview with Herr Von Hoesch, the German charge d'affaires, he declared he would not consent to consideration of any such question by the commission until the passive resistance had entirely ceased.

It is understood that the French will regard the resistance as having ceased only when deliveries in kind are resumed on the reparation account. The Germans in their note today assume that the resistance will be considered as having ceased, but the deliveries have not yet been resumed, and if M. Poincare clings to his previous attitude, the instructions to the French delegation on the commission will be to oppose consideration of the German request.

The majority of the commission, it is understood, will not insist upon considering Germany's request that she be heard if France stands out against it, though certain members have expressed the opinion that the gravest crisis has been reached in the reparations problem and that it may be safely passed if the Germans are heard while if their application is refused the result will likely be to plunge Germany into an inextricable situation.

In French circles the granting to the Germans on the capacity of their country to pay would be though tantamount to an admission that the total of reparation due from Germany may be further reduced, and it is gravely doubted whether the French Premier has reached the point where he is willing to make such a concession.

The foreign office had not been officially apprised of the German document at a late hour; consequently an authoritative view of it could not be obtained. The reparation commission will probably take up the request at its regular meeting Friday. If Sir John Bradbury, the British representative, returns from England in time.

FAILED TO ESTABLISH A RHENISH REPUBLIC

Berlin, Oct. 24 (By the A. P.).—The attempt to establish a Rhenish republic has failed, according to the Berlin newspapers, whose despatches represent the separatists as having been expelled or voluntarily withdrawn from almost all the towns over which their flag had been hoisted. The failure of the movement is attributed to bitter opposition on the part of the populace and the loyalty of both officials and workers.

Conflicting accounts are published of the attempt to establish a Palatinate republic. Despatches from Frankfort report that a French representative on the Rhineland high commission informed the members of the diet that the palatinate had been established as an autonomous state with a provisional government. On the other hand, a despatch to Vorwaerts asserts that "all preparations have been made to establish the palatinate republic as a federal state of the Reich."

The reicharat's debate on Bavarian affairs has been postponed. Upon the insistence of the Bavarian envoy in Berlin, Chancellor Stresemann decided that an open session of the reicharat for a discussion of the Bavarian difficulties should not be held for the present, but, instead, he conferred for several hours with the premiers of the federated states. No decision has yet been reached.

The latest foreign currency regulations have brought about attempts at evasion. All the possessors of foreign monies are now trying to change them in Cologne or Danzig, preferably to Berlin, for it became known today that the dollar was quoted in the two former cities at 166,000,000,000 marks, whereas the official Berlin quotation was only 23,000,000,000.

Disorders persist in various centers of Germany owing to the high price of foodstuffs. In most cases, however, the malcontents are dispersed before plundering occurs, but at Elberfeld and Kiel the situation became threatening this afternoon and the police were obliged to use their batons and swords.

The communistic revolt at Hamburg may be regarded as suppressed, although isolated nests of communist bands are still offering resistance. Up to the present the inetrvention of the eichswehr troops is not needed. A state of siege has been proclaimed over Hamburg harbor during the night, with the curfew from 11 o'clock until 5 a. m. A special court has been instituted to try several hundred persons who were arrested for taking part in the disorders. Eighty communists have been arrested at Altona through the police surprising three secret meetings.

All the dockworkers at Bremen have gone on strike and the harbor is at a complete standstill, but there have been no disorders. The workmen at the Vulkan yards are forming proletarian centuries and have placed the management of the works under the supervision of the workers' leaders.

STRESEMANN CABINET IS GOING TO WESTPHALIA

London, Oct. 24.—An exchange Telegraph despatch from Berlin says Chancellor Stresemann, accompanied by the ministers of interior and occupied regions and by Herr Von Braun, Brussian Premier, is going to Hagen, Westphalia, tonight to confer with representatives of the occupied areas in regard to the situation in the Rhineland.

VILLAGE HAD FOUR CHANGES OF GOV'T WITHIN TWO DAYS

Brussels, Oct. 24.—The little village of Julich, northeast of Aix-La-Chapelle has had four changes of government within two days, according to the Belgian Telegraphic agency.

Julich was captured Monday by the separatists, but yesterday the communists drove them but, only to be recaptured by the more vigorous nationalists. Last night the separatists reinforced came back, ousted the nationalists, and are still holding the city hall.

DECLINES TO RECOGNIZE AUTHORITY OF SENATE

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 24 (By the A. P.).—With seven counts against him in the impeachment bill being perfected by the lower house of the Oklahoma legislature, Governor J. C. Walton tonight continued his refusal to recognize the authority of a senate resolution to suspend him and awaited a hearing in state supreme court tomorrow to determine whether he or Lieutenant Governor M. E. Trapp is the legally empowered chief executive of the state.

At that time the court will rule on an application to make permanent its writ of prohibition which restrains Governor Walton from interfering with the duties of Lieutenant Governor Trapp as acting governor.

The house adjourned shortly before 6 p. m., concluding a day that had been replete with feverish preparations for the impending trial of the chief executive.

STATEMENT BY GOVENOR WALTON OF OKLAHOMA

Oklahoma, Okla., Oct. 24—(By the A. P.)—Governor J. C. Walton, in a statement issued late today "to the people of the visible government," declared that "a conspiracy for the express purpose of preferring impeachment charges against me," existed before the convening of the present extraordinary session of the state legislature, and that "whatever the future may hold for me personally, I shall die as I have lived, fighting for orderly, constitutional government, honestly and fearlessly administered."

LLOYD GEORGE IS DUE IN WASHINGTON TODAY

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct., 24—A true Welsh greeting was given David Lloyd Georget the war-time Premier of Great Britain, upon his arrival here today to be the guest of the city. Welsh organizations were out in force to meet the distinguished visitor at the station and to escort him on a ride of several miles through streets lined deep with residents. Among whom groups of school children were conspicuous.

The reception commission was led by Mayor William A. Magee and included Secretary Davis, of the department of labor at Washington, who is identified with Welsh activities and will accompany Mr. Lloyd George to Washington.

During his stay here the former premier was a guest at the home of Mrs. John Worthington, widow of one of the founders of the American Gorsedd, a secret society of Welshmen. Upon the arrival at the home, he was made an honorary member of the organization at a formal ceremony held behind closed doors.

During the afternoon Mr. Lloyd George rested and at 6 o'clock was the guest at a Welsh dinner before addressing a mass meeting at Syria Mosque. Leaving here at midnight, he is due in Washington tomorrow morning for a three days' visit.

TO PROTEST PRODUCTION OF WILD WEST SHOWS

New York, Oct. 24—A commission to fight the production of rodeos and wildwest shows, termed as the most flagrant examples of cruelty to animals, was directed today in resolutions adopted by the American world humane conference. The resolutions were submitted by Mrs. V. A. E. Dustin of Cleveland.

Declaring that no animal performs unless driven to it by some form of cruelty, Mrs. Dustin condemned bullfights, rodeos, wild west shows, Alaskan dog races, and motion pictures of stampedes and other animal stunts.

The making of motion pictures, she said, frequently involved the risk of death or injury to large numbers of animals. She cited several movie plays now being shown in various parts of the country and declared these productions were made possible only through the "greatest cruelty to dumb beasts."

"In one picture," she added, "hundreds of steers were driven into a stampede with the result that many were killed and others painfully injured."

She referred to a picture in which a goat danced grotesquely on its hind legs. The act was made possible, she asserted, because ammonia had been poured into the animals ear, causing him to jump up and down.

Courtmartial for Loss of Destroyers

Secretary Denby Orders Largest Single Courtmartial in History of the Navy.

Washington, Oct. 24.—The largest single courtmartial in the history of the navy was ordered today as a result of the inqury into the loss of seven destroyers off Honda Point, California, last Sept. 8. A squadron commander, two division commanders, seven commanders of destroyers and the flotilla navigator will be brought to trial at San Diego, before a general court.

Secretary Denby, acting on the findings of the board of inquiry as reported to him by Admiral S. S. Robison, commander in chief of the battle fleet, ordered that the court sessions begin at once.

The secretary emphasized that inclusion of an officer's name in the list of those to face courtmartial should not be taken to imply that such officers had been held responsible for the disaster. It was intended, he added, as much to afford an opportunity for the officer to clear his record as to fix blame and detrmine punishment.

The officers whose trial was recommended are Captains E. H. Watson and Robert Morris, Commanders W. S. Pye, L. P. Davis, W. H. Toss, W. L. Calhoun; Lieutenant Commanders H. J. Seed, H. O. Roesch, D. T. Hunter, R. H. Booth and Lieutenant L. F. Blodgett.

The list includes the commander of Squadron 11 and of Divisions 11 and 33, which made up the larger group, the executives of the destroyers Delphy, Woodbury, S. P. Lee, Young, Fuller, Nicholas and Chauncey, all of which were stranded on the rocks off Honda Point.

The disaster, characterized by naval officers as the "greatest peacetime blow ever sustained by the United States navy," occurred at 9 o'clock at night when the destroyer group was in the course of a practice run. Inadequate visibility, due to fog, inaccurate bearings from shore radio stations and unrecorded currents were among the causes put forward by the crews of the ships but the initial reports to the department developed several features which led to official demand for a deeper inquiry. No adequate explanation has been given, officials here say, for the excessive speed of 20 knots maintained in unfavorable weather conditions, nor was it explained why seven ships in succession "followed the leader" in crashing upon the rocks.

It developed after several days that two additional ships, the Farragut and Somers, also had struck but pulled off without serious injury.

The board of inquiry, headed by Captain W. V. Pratt, convened at the San Diego base and in response to the wide interest in the case, Secretary Denby ordered that its sessions be public.

Officers summoned before a courtmartial are automatically barred from active service. It was said at the department that the destroyers commissioned to replace these lost in the wreck probably would be manned by new personnel.

DECLARES CONNECTICUT LEGISLATURE IS MOSSY

New Haven, Oct. 24.—Connecticut possesses a "rotten" borough system, every law in its statute books is nullified because a broad loophole has been supplied with each regulation, the Connecticut League of Women Voters was told by Don C. Seitz of the New York World and Professor of Law William Reynolds Vance at the meeting of the school of citizenship here this afternoon.

"Connecticut is mossy in spots," said Mr. Seitz. "One of the most mossy is the Connecticut legislature. How to make it a clean stone I do not know."

The Connecticut problem, the professor asserted, centered in the town of Union. He said that one voter there, under two representatives for each town method, carried as much responsibility as 125 voters in New Haven, 125 in Hartford, 120 in Bridgeport and 85 in Waterbury.

As each community in the state was allowed only two representatives in the general assembly, that meant, the professor stated, that one man in Union was equivalent to more than 100 in the other cities named.

BANDITS SHOOT MESSINGER GET BETWEEN $18,000 AND $20,000

New York, Oct. 24—Four armed bandits today held up William Kelly, 59 year-old messinger for the Manufacturers Trust company, in an east 54th street hallway, shot him twice when he put up a spirited resistance, and then escaped with between $18,000 and $20,000 in cash.

Kelly, a retired policeman, fought grimly to save the money and felled one of his assailants, using a bag filled with silver as a club, just as another of the highwaymen shot him in the head and shoulder. He still held on to the two bags he had been delivering, one containing bills and the other silver, when he fell to the pavement unconscious. The bandits seized only the one containing the bills.

As Kelly dropped and as the crowd which had been attracted by the shots rushed at the bandits, they retreated through a hallway in a vacant building to fifty third street when they entered a waiting motor car and escaped. Kelly was removed to Bellevue Hospital in a serious condition.

THREE RIVER STEAMERS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Camden, N. J., Oct. 24.—Three newly renovated river passenger steamers were practically destroyed tonight by a fire which swept through the yards of the Camden Shipbuilding company, causing damage estimated at $100,000.

Originating from unknown causes aboard the steamer Twilight, the flames raced to the Princeton and the Columbia, lying alongside, completely destroying both. The Twilight was badly damaged.

FIRE DESTROYED CATHOLIC ACADEMY IN PITTSBURGH

Pittsburgh, Oct. 24.—Fire tonight practically destroyed the Academy of Our Lady of Mercy, located in the Oakland district, entailing a loss estimated at nearly a half million dollars.

Eighty children, students at the academy, and 150 nuns hurried from the building in fire drill formation a few minutes after the fire was discovered on the top floor of the three-story structure. None was injured.

Finds the System of Federal Aid Unsound

Flyd E. Thompson Says Gov't Employes Are Stepping on Each Other's Heels.

Boston, Oct., 24—The American nation is plunging into an abyss of communism, Floyd Eugene Thompson, Chief Justice of the supreme court of Illinois, said tonight in an address before the associated industries of Massachusetts in which he denounced "governmental paternalism."

"The brave heart of American business is being broken by government intermeddling and the individual citizen is constantly reminded of the over-ready jailor," he said. "Government job holders are stepping on each others' heels and new jobs are being created daily."

Attacking what he termed the present "law making craze," he said: "the surest remedy is to enforce strictly all laws that are passed and an outraged people will immediately rise up in righteous rebellion and bring about a prompt repeal of existing paternalistic legislation and make legislative bodies more responsible to the true spirit of American government.

"We Americans today awaken from a peaceful sleep to find in the place of the land of liberty a region of regulation. Our federal government is now in the death throes of over-indulgence and until it regains the strength of its youth we should not add to its agony by feeding it more local problems.

"The whole system of federal aid, as we know it, is not only fundamentally unsound but it is morally and legally wrong."

C. L. Bardo, general manager of the New Haven and Hartford railroad, told the association today that he expected that the operations of his road in 1924 would result in a surplus after fixed charges. The deficit for 1923, he said, would be substantially below that of 1922. He expressed the opinion that the question of railroad consolidation as authorized by the transportation act, would when rightly understood by the people, be settled upon a just basis."

Clifford S. Anderson, assistant secretary and counsel of the Norton Company of Worcester, was elected president.

OBJECTS TO METHODS OF IMMIGRATION EXAMINERS

New York, Oct. 24.—Charges that government immigration examiners pay more attention to immigrants' baggage than to their physical and mental condition, were made today by Dr. Spencer C. Dawes, medical examiner of the state hospital commission before an interstate immigration conference.

Dr. Dawes said he had seen aliens admitted at the rate of eight per minute, while 27 minutes were taken for the examination of the baggage of the eight.

Representatives of eight states attended the conference. The interstate conference on immigration was organized with Dr. Dawes as president, Samuel D. McKenny, Chicago, vice president and Mrs. Elizabeth Cloonan, of the New York state examiner's office secretary.

A committee tomorrow will formulate an immigration programme for presentation to the various states represented, Connecticut, Illinois, Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and Washington.

Dr. Dawes advocated holding steamship companies responsible for the mental and physical condition of aliens carried by them. He declared irresponsible and heedless politicians were flooding the country with defective aliens. Thousands have been deported he said, who were admitted on direct order from Washington obtained by political influence.

UNDERWOOD OPENS HIS PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN

Nocona, Texas, Oct. 24—Senator Oscar W Underwood, of Alabama, formally opened his campaign for the democratic presidential nomination here this afternoon. From the platform of his train here he said:

"I have come to ask something of you; I have led the democratic party in both houses of congress for years. I am a southern man, bred and born. We are approaching the time when the democratic party must name the man to carry its banner in the next election. It has been eighty years since the south carried the banner of democracy. It has been eighty years years since the south elected a president of the United States."

"I am going to give the south a chance to select a southern man to carry the banner of democracy. The south must assert itself and I believe if the south asks, the great democratic north will recognize its right for you to carry the banner yourself.

"If you don't think I am the man to carry this banner, send your delegation to the convention pledged for another southern man. But let him be a southern man."

HERBERT BOOTH TO WED MISS ANNA ETHEL LANE

Yonkers, N. Y., Oct. 24—Herbert Booth, evangelist and son of General William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, will be married here November 26 to Miss Anna Ethel Lane, former matron of the Young Women's Christian Association home in this city, it was announced today.

Miss Lane met Mr. Booth in Australia several years ago and returned to the United States with him and his late wife, who died in 1919.

BOOTLEGGED AT CAMP COLE LAST SUMMER

New Haven, Oct. 24.—Michael Onofrio, of this city, pleaded guilty to the charge of bootlegging at Camp Cole in East Haven last summer and was sentenced to jail for 15 days in the criminal common pleas court here today. Valente Ballotti, also of this city, charged with a similar offence, was found not guilty. He was discharged.

MALE AWARDED $1 OF $50,000 IN BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT

New York, Oct. 24.—A jury in the Brooklyn supreme court today awarded Orlando E. Salisbury, 50 year old druggist, $1 in his $50,000 breach of promise suit against Miss Clara L. Bentsen, 55. Salisbury testified at the trial that he had remained single from 1911 to 1920 because of her promise to wed him. She denied the allegation.

NORTHEAST STORM PROVED DESTRUCTIVE TO SHIPPING

Occidental Liner Mascotte is Reported Sinking Off the East Coast of Florida—Hundreds of Small Craft in Harbors and Coves Along the Atlantic Coast Were Destroyed or Swept to Sea—Rum Schooner Was Set Afire and Abandoned by Her Crew 18 Miles Off Sandy Hook—Fate of Steamship That Sent Call for Assistance Remains Unknown—Many Ocean Liners Are Being Delayed by Bad Weather.

New York, Oct. 24—(By the A. P.)—Furies of the deep, stirred by the northeast gale that blew from Monday night until noon today, took their toll in ships on the high seas and swept a destructive hand along the Atlantic shore.

The William S. McDonald, an adventurous alcohol carrying schooner rom La Have, N. S., battered by the gale through the night, was set afire and abandoned by her crew of seven 18 miles off Sandy hook this morning. The crew were rescued by the tanker San Manuel.

The fate of the steamship that sent out a call for help Monday night reporting she was in distress off the Delaware Capes, remained unknown. This distressed vessel was at first reported to be the British steamer Westmoreland, but cable dispatches from London today said the Westmoreland was safe about 800 miles from the Irish coast.

Numerous trans-Atlantic steamers, buffeted and damaged by the seas, reported they would be delayed many hours in reaching port. The Lucania, from Southampton, and San Juan, from Porto Rico, the Maracaibo from Venezuela and the Frederick VIII from Christiania, the day's arrivals, were battered and damaged to some extent. The Maracaibo had lost part of her railing.

Hundreds of small craft, lying in harbors and coves along the coast were destroyed or swept to sea.

STEAMER SINKING OFF EAST COAST OF FLORIDA

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 24 (By the A. P.).—The Boston and Gloucester steamer Mascotte is sinking in four fathoms of water in Cape Carnavaral, off the east coast of Florida, after having sprung aleak this morning, according to a telephone message from the United States coast guard station at Cape Carnavaral.

The coast guard cutter Yamacraw of Savannah, Ga., is rushing to the steamer's assistance, according to information at the coast guard station, and was expected to reach her about midnight. So far as is known no lives have been lost and it is expected the steamer can be kept afloat until the Yamacraw arrives.

The Mascotte, a combination freight and passenger steamer of about 1,000 tons' displacement, formerly belonged to the Peninsular and Occidental Steamship company but recently was sold to the Boston and Gloucester Steamship company. P. J. Saunders, vice president and general manager of the P. and O. company, said tonight that the Mascotte was on its way to Boston, where it is to be reconditioned and put into service between Boston and Gloucester. Information at the coast guard station at Cape Canavaral was that she was bound for Havana.

A despatch from Daytona stated that the Mascotte had twenty-four passengers aboard. The point of origin of the ship has not been learned. Mr. Saunders said the last he heard of her she was at Key West. Efforts to communicate with the Cap Canavaral lighthouse were unavailing. Members of the coast guard station, it was said, are standing by the Mascotte, and there is thought to be little danger of loss of life.

BAD WEATHER DELAYING U. S. LINER LEVIATHAN

Southampton, Oct. 24—The United States liner Leviathan wirelessed the office of the line here today that she would be unable to reach Cherbourg until Saturday morning. She was quite safe, the message stated and was proceeding toward the French coast at reduced speed, probably because of bad weather. The liner is expected to reach Southampton Saturday evening instead of Friday afternoon.

GRAFT IN CONTRACTS FOR VETERANS' BUREAU HOSPITAL

Washington, Oct. 24 (By the A. P.).—Intrigue, debauchery and corruption in connection with contracts for veterans' bureau hospitals were charged today before the senate committee investigating the bureau.

Elias H. Mortimer of Philadelphia, formerly a representative of the Thompson-Black company of Chicago, was the witness. He testified that while seeking a hospital contract in 1922 he loaned $5,000 to Charles R. Forbes, then director of the bureau; that on another occasion he advanced him an additional $1,000 or $1,500, and that none of the money had been repaid.

Moreover, the witness told the committee that James W. Black, a member of the Chicago firm, now dead, had told him that he understood J. W. Thompson, the other partner, had made advances to Forbes aggregating $32,000. Mortimer testified also that he had paid Forbes' expenses on various trips about the country, official and unofficial.

Mortimer's story, which required four hours for the telling in a crowded committee room, was interspersed with incidents of what he described as "drinking parties," at which he said were present Forbes, Mrs. Mortimer, himself and others. The trail of these parties, as he outlined it, led from Washington to Atlantic City, Philadelphia, New York, thence to Chicago and San Francisco and up and down the Pacific coast. They culminated, according to his version, at Hayden Lake, Washington, where Forbes and some of the women guests, on a dare, jumped into the lake with their clothes on.

MISS MURRAY APPOINTED A FACTORY INSPECTOR

Hartford, Oct. 24.—Miss Grace Norton Murray of Guilford, resigned organizer of the Connecticut League of Women Voters, was appointed today by Commissioner of Labor and Factory Inspectino Harry E. MacKenzie to be a mercantile inspector in the state labor department. The appointment is effective Dec. 1.

Miss Murray is a daughter of the late Rev. William H. Murray, well known as "Adirondack" Murray, author of many outdoor life articles and organiser of the "Golden Rule," predecessor of "Youth's Companion." Her mother, Frances (Rivers) Murray, was a cousin of the late Hon. Robert Young, long-time speaker of the Canadian house of parliament.

MRS. HARRY C. CUSHING HAS NERVOUS BREAKDOWN

New York, Oct. 24.—Mrs. Harry Cooke Cushing, 3d, formerly Miss Cathleen Vanderbilt, bride of four months, is in Woman's hospital suffering from a nervous breakdown, it became known today. Her condition became so serious that several days ago blood transfusion was resorted to. She was reported to be resting comfortably.

Her illness was brought on by a terrifying experience last August in a lightning storm that played around a steamer on which she and her husband were traveling from Boston to New York, Mr. Cushing said today.

Mrs. Cushing is the daughter of Reginald Vanderbilt and the present Mrs. Sidney J. Colford.

OBITUARY.

Rev. John C. Hedwig.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Oct. 24.—Rev. John C. Hedwig, S. J., 70, died at the Jesuit noviate of St. Andrew's this afternoon. Father Hedwig, an astronomer, came here in 1916 from Georgetown university, where, as director of the astronomical observatory, he had succeeded Rev. Father Hagen, when the latter was transferred to Rome to take charge of the Vatican observatory.

200,000 PERSONS KLAN DAY AT TEXAS STATE FAIR

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 24.—Klan day at the Texas state fair attracted more than three hundred thousand persons, Secretary Stratton estimated tonight. George K. Butcher of the Dallas klan, general chairman, said that of this number upward of thirty thousand were klansmen. They came in twenty-one special trains and in automobiles, he said, from almost every realm.

The feature of the day's program, which was given over to the knights of the Ku Klux Klan, was an address by Dr. H. W. Evans, imperial wizard, who spoke on klan policies and its attitude toward negroes, Jews and Catholics.

Immigration is the outstanding problem confronting the United States, Dr. Evans declared in his address. Besides this problem, he said all other national difficulties are trivial. To determine a just and lasting remedy is the supreme task of all true Americans and the ultimate object of the klan, he declared,

"We already have at least three powerful and numerous elements that do now, and forever will, defy every fundamental requirement of assimilation;" Dr. Evans said. He named these as the negro, who he said "cannot attain the Anglo-Saxon level," the Jew, "a people apart from all other people," and the Roman and Greek Catholics, to whom "the presidency at Washington is subordinate to the priesthood at Rome."

Preceding the address by Dr. Evans the only formal event on the program was the dedication of Hope cottage, a home for foundlings.

WOULD THRICE REPLACE PHEASANT SHOT BY A FRIEND

Hartford, Oct. 24.—When Connecticut breeds more hunters like the one who wrote the following letter to Superintendent John W. Titcomb of the fish and game department, the work of protecting game birds in the state will be made easy.

"I would like to buy three hen pheasants to replace one that was shot accidentally and of course I will let the three of them go in the woods where this one was shot. If you cannot sell them to me please tell me who can.

Superintendent Titcomb investigated the case and was convinced of the man's sincerity. Then he sent him the address of some pheasant farms where he could buy birds. The superintendent has no intention of prosecuting a man of such a type for violation of the hunting law. Incidentally the man was an alien.

RELEASED UPON PROMISE NEVER TO RETURN TO U. S

Leavenworth, Kas., Oct. 24.—Librado Rivera, noted Mexican socialist and revolutionist, was released today from the federal penitentiary upon his agreement never to return to the United States. Rivera was convicted of conspiracy to violate the espionage act in Los Angeles in 1918 and sentenced to 15 years.

Rivera is a writer and newspaperman of prominence in Mexico. It is understood that his release was effected through a plea by high Mexican officials.

MARRIED MAN PENALIZED $5,000 FOR A STOLEN KISS

New York, Oct. 24.—A price of $5,000 for a stolen kiss was fixed by a supreme court jury in Brooklyn today, when Louis Goodman was ordered to pay this amount to Mrs. Alice Mercer. In her suit the woman asked for damages of $50,000.

The defendant, who is married and the father of two children, denied the charge, saying Mrs. Mercer made no outcry and did not summon assistance.

Wednesday evening's program marking the fourth day of the 95th anniversary celebration of the Methodist church was carried out before a large attendance, despite the stormy weather. The program was designated as "Church Home Night." Several former pastors and church members were present. A reception was held in the auditorium from 5 to 6 o'clock followed by a supper in the vestry. The Ladies' Aid Society and Sorority of the church had prepared the banquet and it was served by members of the Men's club. Rev. A. Stanley Muirhead the pastor, was in charge of the exercises. Rev. Joseph Cooper, pastor of the South Manchester Methodist church as the speaker. Special music rendered by the double quartet of the Men's Club of Baltic Methodist Church was supplemented by instrumental selections.

Willimantic has a wonder-man, A. Linn Weatherhead better known as "Tim" six feet and some inches in his stocking feet. Tim is Entrance Manager of the Willimantic office of the Southern New England Telephone company and he has just completed the designing and building of an eight room house practically without any assistance. When Big Tim started upon his exploit he had almost no knowledge of the handling of tools and practically no experience in carpentry. Tim, however, is endowed with an uncommon amount of perseverance and stick-to-itiveness and besides the house has built a large garage in the rear of his lot. Tim states that about 40 sets of plans were drawn for the house before the work had actually started. The job was begun in August, 1923 and will be definitely complete next year. The work on the structure was done after business hours and during Tim's vacation last summer. The services of a young man helper were secured only on necessary occasions.

Norwich Free Academy-Windham High School rivalry on the gridiron was not renewed Wednesday, due to wet grounds, necessitating a postponement of the game. Windham's next tilt is in Danielson, next Saturday afternoon against the Killingly High eleven. The locals gave the Killingly outfit a trouncing at Recreation Park here earlier this season and history may repeat itself. The team is playing a wonderful brand of ball under the Coffey system, inaugurated by last year's coach, Arthur J. Sullivan, and continued by the present mentor, Coach F. A. Gallagher, who has also developed a successful short pass over the line of scrimmage. This aerial play is often seen in a college eleven game, but is rarely used by high schools.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION
Muddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes
—Most Women Can Have
Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known
Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, dizziness, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit. 15c and 30c.

gan, of Main street, and Miss Alice J. Johnson, daughter of Mrs. Josephine Johnson of 75 Oak street were married Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock at St. Joseph's rectory. Rev. O. S. Beaumister performed the ceremony. The attendants were Eugene Moriarty and Miss Margaret J. Ryan. The bride was attired in brown chiffon velvet, wore a hat to match and carried Killarney roses. The maid of honor wore a grey canton crepe gown with a hat to match and carried Columbia roses. Mr. and Mrs. Regan left on a honeymoon trip to Boston, and upon their return in two weeks will reside at 154 Windham Road.

The bride received many gifts. Mrs. Regan has been employed at the local plant of the American Thread company. Mr. Regan is a plumber, in the employ of Hollis H. Lyman.

In taking up the case of Mrs. Clara Upton charged with intoxicatoin Judge Foss of the police court found that she had been committed to jail four times within the past year. She was informed that she would be given one last chance if she promised to abstain from drinking and causing disturbances. She gave her promise and a fine of $5 and costs was imposed. She was warned that another appearance in court would mean a long stay in jail.

Mrs. Upton was arrested by Officer Arthur M. Hurley while creating a disturbance in front of her home on Clark street. The officers have been called to the Upton home on an average of once a week to quell family brawls and arguments stimulated by moonshine, but Monday night her condition was such that she was placed under arrest. Mrs. Upton had nothing to say in her own behalf and made arrangements whereby she might pay the fine and costs.

Twenty five dollars was voted to the Visiting Nurses' Association at a meeting of San Jose Council, No. 14 Knights of Columbus held Tuesday evening. Grand Knight Gilbert P. Flynn announced that the exemplification of the third degree would be held in this city, Sunday, November 4. The second degree will be conferred on the preceeding Thursday. The first degree was exemplified upon twelve candidates Tuesday night.

Grand Knight Flynn will represent the council at Friday evening's meeting of the board of directors of the Visiting Nurses' Association with representatives of all the organizations of the city.

Mrs. Adeline C. Burnham, 78 widow of Selah A. Burnham died suddenly Wednesday morning at her home in Andover. She was the daughter of George H. and Lucia Parker White. She was born in Andover, May 12, 1846, and leaves a daughter, Mrs. Jennie Squires, of Andover.

Oliver W. Stewart, of Chicago, president of the flying squadron, directs the work of that organization from the last division of speakers, it being divided into three divisions. This arrangement brings him into each city on the last day of a series of meetings and permits him to close up the campaign in each place. Mr. Stewart, who was former member of Illinois legislature, was associated with former Governor J. Frank Hanly in founding the flying squadron foundation and succeeded to the head of the organization on the death of the former on August 1, 1920. The Squadron will be in Willimantic for a series of six big meetings, the first two meetings being held Wednesday afternoon and evening.

Thomas Wylie was fined $25 and costs in the Columbia town court Tuesday morning, on a charge of reckless driving. An appeal was taken to the Tolland county superior court on the grounds that the prosecution had not produced sufficient evidence for conviction. Officer Frod T. Caron of the State Police Department, made the arrest recently. Wylie is the driver of one of a fleet of cars owned by the Hartford-Willimantic Bus company.

The people of Willimantic have been made aware of the benefits of the city ice plant at the pumping station in Mansfield on several occasions but have refused to take this into consideration. The value of the ice plant was made apparent Wednesday when it became known that an ice shortage is in view should the remaining ice at the plant be thrown on the market to the independent ice dealers of the city. The supply of ice harvested last winter at the Willimantic River cove and stored at Ayer's ice houses, taken over by the independent dealers, Peter J. Roy and A. L. Girouard was sold out a short time ago. Mr. Roy has been purchasing ice for his customers from L. W. Ives, who holds the contract for the sale of the city ice. Irouard refused to pay the price asked by Mr. Ives and contracted for several carloads of ice from Providence.

Mr. Ives took an inventory of the ice on hand at the municipal plant and came to the conclusion that he could not dispose of any more ice to other contractors. Wednesday afternoon Mr. Roy made arrangements to take over part of Girouard's shipment.

At the time the ice houses were destroyed by fire, last August, there were about 600 tons of ice in the sheds. The sides of the sheds were rebuilt but the ice was covered only with straw and hay consequently the supply has diminished rapidly. Partly for this shortage and the danger of a late freezing season Mr. Ives is using precaution of having the city ice last until the next harvest. Another ice plant cleaned out a few days ago is that at the old Mateon farm, in Mansfield, now owned by Joseph Brown.

Two thousand tons of ice had been stored ther last year. Close to 7,000 tons of ice had been stored at the Ayer houses.

The A. C. Tyler Auxiliary, No. 14 is to hold a Hallowe'en party in the G. A. R. room of the town building Friday evening. Each member will invite one guest. The committee in charge includes: Algea Sweeney, chairman; Katherine Joyce, Ellen Lynch, Mabel Peck, Wardy Hoey, Laura Hornberger, and Ellen Cronin.

The Active Four, John M. Ryan, Raymond Jennings, James Healy and John Sugrue are completing the details for a get-together banquet at Challenger's Inn, Windham, next Tuesday evening. A musical program will be carried out and several will speak.

"It is an ill rain which saves no labor". The storms have piled up the fast falling leaves into the gutters so that the employes of the street department need only to drive up in trucks and pitch them into the machine and drive off. Besides making it easier to clean the streets, it saves the trouble of burning the leaves.

Driving through the rain Tuesday night, Clifford Tatro of 221 Crown street, New Haven, kabooed the dummy at the corner of Railroad and Main streets and smashed the lantern. Tatro reported the matter and settled for the damage. This is the third time in two weeks that the silent policeman in that location had been wrecked.

A communication received by Captain of police Thomas Grady from the State Motor Vehicle Department states that the operators' license of William G. Messner, of 275 Asn street, this city has been suspended dating from October 23. Messner has not resided in Willimantic for the past two months, living now in Worcester, Mass. The reason for the suspension of the license is not known by the local police force.

The board of management of Anna Wood Elderkin Chapter D. A. R. has been invited to Lebanon by the Jonathan Trumbull chapter today (Thursday). The special meeting is to be held in the old war office given by the Sons of the Revolution to the Daughters.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

SOME GOOD HINTS ON MARKETING TURKEYS

Turkey time's acoming! If you want top prices for your birds, here's a few tips from the United States Department of Agriculture.

Range fattening is more satisfactory than pen fattening, the department says. Begin fattening about three weeks or a month before marketing, and proceed gradually by feeding lightly on corn in the morning and again in the evening a short time before the turkeys go to roost. Increase the quantity of corn fed gradually until the birds are getting all they will eat. Be careful not to feed new corn too heavily until the turkeys have become accustomed to it to prevent digestive troubles.

Good sized, well matured birds in good condition for fattening can often be marketed to best advantage at Thanksgiving. Small, immature turkeys should be held until Christmas, for further fattening, but if the birds are unthrifty market them at once. Sales outlets to reisers within express shipping distance of good markets are local consumers, local buyers and dealers, more distant buyers or dealers and carlot shippers, and receivers or commission merchants of live or dressed poultry in the large cities. To determine the best available outlet study shipping charges and keep in touch with both local and distant buyers as to price. Distant buyers will mail quotations on request.

Most producers market their turkeys alive. Shipping turkeys to markets is justified only when making local sales or there is an unusually favorable outlet for the dressed product. Shipping coops should be high enough to enable the birds to stand up. A coop three feet long two feet wide and 20 inches high will accommodate five or six turkeys. Overcrowding may result in bruising which detracts from the market value; overcrowding may also cause death and complete loss.

If the birds are on the road only a few hours, do not feed before shipping. If they are on the road a longer time water and feed liberally to prevent shrinkage in weight. Ship in time to place the turkeys on the market a day or two before the holiday. Late arrivals may reach an overstocked market, and arrival after the holiday usually means lower prices.

Killing and dressing birds is simple when properly done. Hang up the turkeys by their legs and with single stroke push the point of a sharp knife up through the roof of the mouth into the brain. When properly done this operation paralyzes the bird and loosens the feathers so that they come out easily. Then sever the veins in the throat just beyond the skull for bleeding. The turkey should be dry picked and plucked clean. Thoroughly cool the carcass after plucking, inasmuch as failure to remove all animal heat promptly will result in early spoilage. Cool either by hanging outdoors if the temperature is between 30 and 45 degrees, or by immersing in cold running spring water or ice water.

When thoroughly chilled, the carcasses are ready for shipment. A barrel is a convenient shipping container. Place a layer of cracked ice in the bottom of the barrel, then a layer of turkeys, followed alternately by layers of ice and turkeys, and topped off with a layer of ice. Tack burlap over the top of the barrel.

CAUTION! If you are building up a permanent turkey business be sure to retain as many of the finest, largest, quickest growing young birds needed to rear the next year's flock and send the rest to market.

GRAPE CUTTINGS MADE FROM LAST GROWTH

Grape cuttings may be made from the current season's cane growth, using three joints and cutting to a joint at the lower end. A fair per cent. of rooting is frequently secured if the cuttings are set out in a nursery row in the garden at this time taking care to throw a little strawy manure or hay over the tops of the cuttings when cold weather comes, but for surest results in having cuttings root it is best to handle them in a box or frame where a little artificial heat is supplied to the lower ends as suggested for roses. Another way of furnishing heat to the bottom ends of all cuttings is to dig a pit in a well drained sandy place in the garden and place in this bundles of cuttings with the bottoms of but ends up. Over these bottoms place about two inches of soil or sand and over all place a pile of manure and leaves a foot or more deep. The the same winter this method or the former is used namely, that extra warmth combined with the right degree of moisture stimulates the activities of the tissues and hastens the formation of new roots.

In the spring of the year cuttings of various kinds handled in the above way will be mostly rooted and about May 1 at the latest should be taken out of the frame or pit and set out in a nursery row in the garden for a year or two to secure some growth before transplanting to the final location.

INCREASING THE POTATO CROP BY SPRAYING

With few except yield have been obtained by spraying potatoes as a protection against insect pests and diseases, says Farmers' Bulletin 1249, Increasing the Potato Crop by Spraying, just issued by the United States department of agriculture. This fact has been established by extensive experiments conducted in New York and Vermont. During a 10-year period, at different experiment stations in New York state, an average gain of 60 bushels an acre was obtained. At the Vermont station, during a 20-year period, which involved all possible seasonal variations, an average gain of 106 bushels an acre, or 64 per cent, over the unsprayed, resulted.

In addition, records taken from a business point of view on a series of experiments of a 9-year duration conducted by farmers under the direction of the New York state experiment station show large gains. The average cost of spraying, including materials, labor, and wear and tear on machinery, was $4.74 an acre. The 9-year average increase in yield due making a net profit of $14.13 an acre, to spray was 36 bushels an acre. When these experiments were conducted the cost of materials was less than at the time the bulletin was written, but the increased product warrants an increased expenditure.

TIME TO TRANSPLANT MANY PERENNIALS NOW

At this time of the year the home gardener may well undertake to propagate for himself a few more plants of grapes, roses, phlox, iris, peonies and common shrubs. He may have the original plants to work from in his own garden or he may be able to secure the necessary divisions or cuttings from a friend or neighbor.

Many of the herbacious perennials, such as tall-growing phlox, iris, and peonies may be dug, divided and transplanted now. Many common shrubs such as lilac, mock orange, spiraea and deutzias make small side-shoots or suckers and these can be dug up or separated from the parent plant and set out in a new position. Hardy roses and grapes may be propagated by cuttings taken at this time of the year. Cuttings of rambler roses like Dorothy Perkins and the Red Excelsa, root very easily, those of the Crimson rambler with slightly more difficulty, but these and cuttings of most other roses suitable for our northern climate, like the varieties which comprise the big groups of hybrid tea roses and hybrid perpetual roses, can be rooted readily if taken now and planted in a special frame furnished with a little bottom heat. This bottom heat beneath the lower ends of the cuttings hastens root formation. It is provided readily by six to eight inches of decomposing horse stable manure and leaves tightly packed in the bottom of the pit or frame.

The whole bed is kept slightly moist and covered with cloth or grass to keep up the humidity of the air. When hard, freezing weather comes, a covering of four to six inches of dry leaves or straw is placed over the tops of the cuttings and glass sash is placed over all to keep out snow and water.

POULTRY HOSPITAL MAY SAVE FLOCK

Every poultry farmer should have a hospital for his sick birds. The lack of such a house or room is many times the cause of poultrymen going out of business.

This hospital need not necessarily be a building. It may be a room in the barn, or on a small place, it may be two or three cages away from the main poultry house where sick birds can be placed, but on a large poultry farm where good birds are kept, it is a good plan to have a building about 10 by 12 to keep these sick birds in.

Any bird which is listless, paralyzed or refuses to get up on its feet, in short, any bird that in any way looks out of order, should be put in this hospital at once. Birds with a slight cold should not be allowed to remain in with the regular flock, because if permitted to do so they immediately spread cold to other birds and many times throughout the flock. As soon as the whole flock is cold-infected, it means a decided check on egg production which finally means a loss. The bird that has paralysis probably has either worms, coccidiosis or tuberculosis. Any more of these diseases is highly contagious so the advantage of immediate segregation of this kind may be seen.

If birds are very light, probably the best remedy is to kill and burn them. One of the easiest ways to burn infected birds is to dig a hole in the ground, put the bird in and throw quick lime upon it, then cover it with dirt. The lime quickly causes decomposition and kills whatever disease may have been present.

THERE'S A SCHOOLHOUSE I KNOW.

There lovingly lingers the sun
And shines on the children at play in the yard
Before their school tasks are begun.

Sometimes I imagine its brightness grows dim
When the children in school disappear;
The yard seems so lonesome, and empty, and bare
Without any little ones near.

Nor do I remain in the still, silent yard,
With the children I slip in the door.
The welcoming schoolroom contains such a charm
I wonder I ne'er came before.

But you see . . . now the reason I'm whisp'ring to you . . .
Why a call from that school comes to me
In a small desk down front sits a yellow haired lad,
And that little boy's mine, so you see.

Why I often go down that soft-shaded hill
To the schoolhouse that sits in the sun;
The hopes of a mother are centered right there
Where her baby's schooldays are begun!

—Agnes Choate Wonson, in Boston Globe.

THE ROAD.

The road it slips between the hills
And wanders up and down;
It idles past the country store,
It hurries through the town,
Its shining wheelruts cross the creek
Beneath the gum tree tall;
It travels far, through many lands,
Yet never moves at all.

And many pass along the road
By night time and by day;
It greets them all with smiling face
And helps them on their way.
And still they come with horse and cart,
With steers and creaking wains,
And still they come and still they go
And still the road remains.

I would that I the road might be,
And like the road could roam—
From town to town, from sea to sea—
Yet always stay at home.
To aid the gentle and the squire,
The beggarman and dame,
To be a friend to all the world,
But still remain the same.

To help them all upon their way
Along my shining track,
The farmer with his heavy load,
The peddler with his pack.
Yet since I cannot be the road—
As I can never be—
Then who will take the twining road,
The shining road with me?

—Victor Sarbuck.

KALEIDOSCOPE

Nine states have women state superintendents of education.

It is thought that the handshaking habit of America contributed largely to the death of Theodore Roosevelt.

An eastern contractor recently completed moving a hotel which weighed 60,000 tons, a distance of 120 feet.

The old coal pit tramways of about 100 years ago for which George Stevenson built his first "locomotive engines," had four feet 8 1-2-inch gauge, and that is still the standard.

The trolley company at Akron, O., advertised that service was costing 5.7 cents a rider, while the company was held to a 5-cent fare by its franchise. The company therefore asked patrons to drop an additional cent in the fare box as a favor. The appeal brought little response at first, but now there is a deposit of a daily average of about 21,000 pennies.

George Weaver, of Parish, N. Y., had some help from nature in gathering his crops. He had left a load of oats standing near his barn when a whirlwind, resembling a small tornado, formed and struck the load and carried it into the barn, the doors being open. When the whirlwind had spent its force Mr. Weaver went to the barn and pitched the oats into the loft.

As a result of the search made this spring in foreign countries by entomologists of the United States department of agriculture for natural enemies of the gypsy moth, 34,978 tachinid fly puparia were sent or brought to this country. France, Spain, Italy, Germany, Austria, Hungary, Roumania, Poland and Japan were visited. Rearing work is in progress with adult parasites received from Europe and Japan.

FINAL HONORS ARE PAID JUDGE MILTON A. SHUMWAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Danielson, Oct. 24.—An assemblage that filled St. Alban's Episcopal church attended the funeral of Judge Milton A. Shumway, Wednesday, at noon. Numbered among those present were justices of the supreme court of errors, judges of the superior court, former justices of the supreme court and judges of the superior courts of Connecticut and many members of the New London County Bar and of the Windham County Bar.

Representatives of Killingly's official body, officials of the borough, banking associates, business and professional men from Danielson and surrounding towns were included in the congregation that assembled with relatives and close friends of Judge Shumway for the service, impressively conducted by Rev. George A. Alcott of Haddam, a former rector of St. Alban's. Business in Danielson was completely suspended during the funeral service and was not resumed until 2 p. m. The choir of the church sang during the service the solo, Lead Kindly Light, by W. W. Reimer.

Burial was in Westfield cemetery, where the committal service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Alcott. The grave and surrounding area was literally carpeted with magnificent floral pieces which were in great number.

Judge Harry E. Back, Judge W. Fenner Woodward, Judge Sabin S. Russell, Attorney E. L. Darble, Alfred L. Reed and Nathan D. Prince were the bearers. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Among the members of the bar who attended the funeral were Chief Justice George W. Wheeler and Justices Curtis and Keeler of the supreme court of errors. Judges Haines, Middletown; Hinman, Willimantic; Wolfe, New Haven; Avery, New London; Brown, Norwich; Nickerson, Cornwall; Banks, Bridgeport, and Ells, Waterbury, of the superior court; former Justice John M. Thayer of the supreme court and former Judge Gardiner Greene of the superior court, both of Norwich; State Attorney Charles E. Searls, Putnam, and Judge Edgar M. Warner, Putnam, clerk of the Windham county superior court. In addition practically the entire membership of the Windham County Bar and many members of the New London County Bar were present.

Having safely passed through a period during which populations of the towns hereabouts worried along with a water supply so scanty that use of any quantity of it seemed like sheer wantonness, water is now arriving in quantities sufficient to attract the attention of a Noah.

It might be considered as bordering on exaggeration to say that anyone hereabouts had started to build an ark, at least up to early Wednesday evening, but that possibly may yet have to be considered if a storm that has been threatening to make a week of it does not cease.

Water was pouring over the dam across the Quinebaug river at Main street during Wednesday and the sight was an absorbing one for the many who go that way every day and have been looking at a steadily receding river that at times appeared about to disappear completely and leave the fish and other living things therein to learn to swim on dry land.

There was ample water for the use of the power plants at the mills on Wednesday, and the continued rise of the river threatened back water, a bothersome surplus, in a day or two.

One trouble caused by the rapid rise of the Quinebaug and Assawaga rivers was the washing from their banks and into the streams of great quantities of leaves that have come down from the trees and bushes in the past fortnight. These leaves were especially plentiful in the Quinebaug and were giving trouble in the canals, where they were banking against the grates and partly blocking the flow of water into the wheel pits.

From a place of obscurity in Dowe's store there came to light Wednesday a copy of The Reporter, a small four-page newspaper published at Brooklyn and dated September 15, 1879. Looked over today, after a lapse of more than two score years, it is perhaps of greater interest to old residents of Brooklyn and Danielson than when it was issued.

The editor's name does not appear, though there is a valedictory in which he sets forth his aim in having established the little sheet to be published weekly during a summer season and hints that he was only a transient resident of Brooklyn.

News items carried by the paper indicate that, in its essentials, life does not vary much today from what it was in 1879. There may be more creature comforts and luxuries, but basically, things have not changed a great deal.

For instance, quoted from the news notes: A young man appeard at James Howland's Tuesday selling lamp burners and after he had left too many were missed. Later the man was arrested, but as there was no real evidence against him, he was released and went his way rejoicing.

And again: Dr. Whitcomb has a horse that has developed a decided taste for eggs. A hen has been laying in the horse's manger and the horse has quietly eaten the eggs, evidently on the half shell.

Also: Brooklyn is getting to be quite lively. We counted seven carriages in less than four hours passing through Main street.

Relative to the Brooklyn fair the paper says: About the same inducement are on the highly colored posters as have been offered for years, and like a twice-told tale, will be pleasant from its familiarity. Like old friends, we shall hail its ever-the-same mammoth squashes and apples and plates of grapes and its patchwork quilts, to say nothing of the oxen and the wonderful things they do.

And this as to law enforcement, now a popular topic: Two men who were arrested in East Killingly on Thursday for peddling liquor from a wagon were lodged safely in our jail by Sheriff Baker. The men hailed from Holyoke, Mass., and had been selling by the pint, quart, etc.

The advertisements in the paper are of very special interest today. They include announcements by Greenslit & Hamilton, printers, Danielsonville; Frank T. Preston, watchmaker, with John M. Dowe, Danielsonville; Willis Kenyon, meats and poultry; C. C. Burdick, livery and boarding stable; Charles W. Chapman, blacksmithing; R. K. Stewart, boots and shoes; Clarence Cleveland, oyster and fish market; The Preston House, Brooklyn, a hotel for summer boarders, E. L. Preston, Prop.; F. S. Howe, carriage and wagon manufacturing; Edgar M. Warner, attorney-at-law, Central Village; Mortlake House, B. S. Wilbur, Prop.; Alfred Pray, dealer in dry goods, groceries, boots and shoes; Lewis Searles, first class groceries; L. G. Young, sale and livery stable; W. W. Woodward, drugs and medicines, Danielsonville.

Mrs. Mary E. Lovett, Willimantic, president, and other grand officers of the Rebekah state assembly, will come to Danielson tomorrow (Friday) evening to make a visit to Dorcas Rebekah lodge.

Members of Mrs. George I. Eaton's Sunday school class are to meet this (Thursday) afternoon with Mrs. F. F. Bailey of Broad street.

This week's lecture in the teachers' university extension course brought out 100 per cent. attendance, every one of the 40 teachers enrolled being present.

Interest is being very well maintained in the mission being conducted this week by Rev. Charles Kirby, M. S., at St. James' church.

Norman Ross has been at Providence for a conference relative to obtaining a settlement for the wrecking of his automobile by a big motor truck that crashed into it last Saturday on Waterman's hill and practically ruined the machine.

There is a prospect, it is said, that an electrically lighted sidewalk clock may be installed by one of the business concerns in the borough. The matter is now receiving consideration.

With the bulk of the leaves down, hunters look for the best hunting so far this season as soon as the weather clears and makes it possible to go afield with any degree of comfort.

There is a fond hope that the New Haven railroad may see its way clear to apply a few dollars out of the $9,000,000 recently awarded it by the federal government toward the proper repair of the Main street crossing here, though this may be a forlorn and useless hope.

Some more sections of state highway fences on the Little Rest route have succumbed to the battering of trucks and pleasure cars during the past few days, but none need be discouraged. There is a little of the fencing left yet.

A flivver driver whose car stalled in the rain Wednesday and refused to budge even under the most expert nursing and treating informed an inquisitive on-looker that he believed there was something the matter with its presidential boom—or, perhaps, the wishbone.

Wednesday morning, at the Sacred Heart church in Wauregan, Rev. J. C. Mathieu was celebrant of a high mass of requiem at funeral services for Miss Annie Reid, who died in New York last Friday. The services was attended by relatives and many friends. Burial was in Sacred Heart cemetery. The bearers were James Riley, Owen Lenihan, James Noon, John Ryan, Frederick Reynolds and Lionel Messier. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

PUTNAM

Two mill properties—the Powhattan and the Morse mills—plants operated for years by the Nightingale-Morse company passed into the hands of new owners Wednesday when they were sold at auction to the highest bidder. The Powhattan mill, a five story brick structure, with its addition, power house, stockhouses and other small structures and approximately 78,550 square feet of land, was purchased by Clarence Hammond Knowlton for $55,000. He said a minute later that he was acting for the H. K. H. Silk Company, operating plants in this city, at Watertown, Conn., and at other points. Mr. Knowlton declined to disclose such plans as the company for which he acted and of which he is an official may have.

The Morse mill, a five-story structure of stone at Providence and Church streets, was sold to L. J. Harley, Jr., of Springfield, Mass., for $25,000. Mr. Harley said that he purchased the mill for speculation and that he had no plans for the operation of it. Mr. Harley denied that he represented the Fisk Rubber company interests, said to have been interested in obtaining the mill and the power plant. Mr. Harley's purchase included 154,870 feet of land, of which 1,000 feet in length is along the Quinebaug river, 600 feet along Church street and 150 feet along Providence street.

The transactions having to do with the change in ownership in those properties mark the end of a definite period in the textile manufacturing history of this city and likely the beginning of a new era in which these mills are to play a part. The Morse mills were established here in 1847, and the Powhattan plant built in 1873. They have ever been mainstays of Putnam's industrial strength.

To what future uses the mills are to be put is yet not a part of public knowledge. Following the sale of the plants themselves the auction proceeded for the sale of 1,990 lots of machinery and equipment of various kinds, and this being taken by numbers out of the large attendance of buyers, representatives of various New England textile centers as well as textile towns and cities in southern states.

Rumor persisted Wednesday that the H. K. H. company may have acquired Powhattan mill for the purpose of removing its local plant there. The H. K. H. company's present mill here is owned by the Harris estate and there has been a report circulating for some time that the H. K. H. interests would like to acquire the Powhattan mill.

The Powhattan mill could not be erected today for less than $300,000, it is estimated, so it appears that the new owners have acquired it at a bargain figure. L. A. Wolf of the L. A. W. corporation of this city made the opening bid for the plant at $25,000, but this was quickly run up to $40,000, at which figure Mr. Knowlton made his first offer. A bidder representing the Rosenthal interests of New York bid along with Mr. Knowlton up to and beyond the $50,000 mark and finally dropped out after a final offer of $54,500. There was less competition in the bidding for the Morse mill, Mr. Harley opening the sale with a bid of $20,000 and eventually, under pressure from another bidder, offering $25,000.

At the sale of both the Powhattan and Morse mills it was stipulated that the buyers would have the privilege of arranging with the Nightingale-Morse, Inc., for the taking of 1,000,000 gallons of water each 24 hours from the Quinebaug river, and that any amount in excess of that might be taken out daily if replaced above the dams. The Nightingale-Morse, Inc., retains the water power rights of the two plants sold and also rights of way to water wheels on both properties. A representative of the Nightingale-Morse interests said that corporation would be pleased to enter into an arrangement for the sale of water power to the new purchasers of the mills.

The machinery of the mills is now being dispersed to buyers who purchased liberally during Wednesday's sale and will be on hand again today, the closing day of the sale.

A delegation of about fifty older boys and men from the various towns of Windham county are planning to attend the 24th Connecticut Older boys' Conference at New London, over the week end of October 26 to 28. This delegation is the largest that Windham county has ever sent to an Older Boys' Conference. Among those planning to attend are: Rev. Wilbur E. Newton, Newell Newton, Herbert Wetherbee, Edward Cassells, burn Lunch, North Grosvenordale; William C. Aldrich, Minot E. Horne, Leroy Thompson, Allen Thayer, Samuel Rich, Robert E. Bruce, Harold Ar- Ralph E. Scott, Walter Knight, Reynold Franklin Perry, Putnam; Haig S. Iskiyan, Jr., Hampton; Clarence J. Salmon, Brooklyn; Lyman F. Lyon, Danielson; Lewis R. White, Pomfret Center; Lewis Gallup, Cecil L. Butler, Earle S. Butler, Plainfield; Frank F. Friese, Owen William Fryling, Wauregan; Rev. Y. O. Wain, Thomas O. Elliott, George Bothany, Allen Colby, James Elliott, Joseph H. Elliott, Earl Geissler, Carl Geissler, Abington; Stanley Dominick, William Ninnimen, Carl Salo, James Viadi, Phoenixville; Herbert Buell, Arthur Proulx of North Ashford, Chiakott, Charles D. Tatem, Eastford; Stanley Leveille, Thompson.

The programme of the conference will consist of inspirational addresses by some of the leading boy workers of the country; banquet on Friday night at the State Armory, and numerous discussion sessions on the problems of a boy's life. Saturday afternoon is to be given over to recreation and sight seeing. A very pleasant and helpful time is anticipated.

Among the speakers are Margaret Slattery of Boston, Rev. James Lee Ellenwood, Troy, N. Y., Arthur N. Cotton, New York city, international secretary of the Y. M. C. A.

Wednesday morning, the death of Mrs. Margaret Livingston Myers, 67, occurred at her home on Pomfret street. Mrs. Myers had been in failing health for about a year, but pneumonia was the immediate cause of death. She leaves a daughter, Mrs. Mary Andrews, and two sons, John Myers of Oxford and Clarence Myers of this city.

Mayor Victor Chapdelaine reaffirmed Wednesday a previously stated attitude toward becoming a candidate of the republicans to succeed himself. Mayor Chapdelaine said he would accept the nomination if tendered him, though he is not seeking it. The attitude of Charles Richard is about the same as that of the mayor. He is not an active candidate and will step aside if the republicans desire to nominate some other person for mayor.

Manufacturing concerns here were gleeful, as they were all along the Quinebaug river, Wednesday over the continued downpour of rain. The rains of the past week and the present week have brought the streams to a higher level than they have reached for several months. While the Quinebaug and other rivers in the territory are not up to their normal fall levels they have made a big advance toward that much desired condition.

A number of supreme and superior court judges who had been at Danielson to attend the funeral of Judge Milton A. Shumway were in this city Wednesday, en route to their homes or where their courts are sitting throughout the state.

The detour from White's crossing to Attawaugan was reduced in sections to a sea of mud Wednesday after the hard rainfall of the week, but there were few protests in view of the great shortage of water that has existed.

Rev. John Chandler, prominent for the missionary work he has done in India, is to be the speaker at union services to be held in the Congregational church Sunday evening next.

Mrs. Charles Jacobson and daughter, of Norwich, are to come here to spend the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Diamond.

Samuel Smith, formerly landlord of the City hotel, is to engage in business here. Mr. Smith is to use one of the stores in his South Main street property for the enterprise.

A train of 43 flat cars loaded with 144 automobiles passed through this city Wednesday morning, Boston-bound. This is the first trainload shipment noted passing through Putnam this fall. The cars were en route from Flint, Mich.

BOLTON

Average attendance for the Bolton schools for September was: North school 99 per cent., Center school 98 per cent., Birch Mountain 93 per cent., and South school 86 per cent.

Supervisor W. S. Dakin of West Hartford conducted a teachers' meeting at the Center schoolhouse last week Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Steele and daughter, Miss Ruth Steele, from the Catskill mountains, New York, have been visiting Mrs. Cora Rose.

George Rose has returned from Aston, N. Y., where he was last week to attend a friend's wedding, at which he was best man.

Bolton schools were closed last Friday to allow the teachers to attend a teachers' institute in Ellington.

Elmer J. Finley of Forest Hills Gardens, L. I., is at his Bolton home, Shady Nook, for a time to enjoy the hunting season.

Mrs. Fred H. Phelps of Windsor has been visiting at Charles N. Loomis'.

Mrs. Maxwell Hutchinson of Andover is spending some time at Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Loomis' at Bolton Notch.

WESTERLY

Tuesday afternoon, the candidates for the town council of Westerly in the election which takes place Tuesday, Nov. 6th, whose names appear on the list of republican nominees named in the republican caucus and which also appeared on the list submitted by Thomas V. B. Clancy, chairman of the democratic town committee—Councilmen Morrison, Rossi and Smith—filed with the Westerly town clerk a sworn statement in which they refused to allow the use of their names as democratic nominees.

To many it appears doubtful if Town Clerk Whipple can accept the withdrawal of these names as it would appear that the time limit had already expired and that the town clerk would have to be guided by the list submitted Monday in making up the ballots for the town election. The General Statutes of Rhode Island 1909, page 100, Sec. 16, read that in federal and state elections a period of twenty days before the election is set as the time limit. In town elections, in which class the Nov. 6th election date comes, 15 days before election is the limit set for filing lists with the town clerk, so authority seems to be lacking for the town clerk to accept either additions or withdrawals after the 15-day interval which would expire at the closing of the town clerk's office at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon. The above withdrawals were made on the following afternoon.

Wednesday morning, at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, was solemnized the wedding of Mary Cecelia Murray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Murray, and William James Quinlan, son of Mrs. Cornelius Quinlan of Westerly. At 9 o'clock, nuptial high mass was celebrated by Rev. John F. Murray of Providence, a cousin of the bride. Miss Mary E. Quinlan, a sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, Richard J. Butler, Jr., a cousin of the bride, being best man. The ushers were J. Austin Murphy, Edward J. Butler, Charles J. Butler, 2nd, and Russell J. Lenihan. A breakfast followed the ceremony, with a reception at 1 o'clock. Following a wedding trip to New York and other places, Mr. and Mrs. Quinlan will make their home at 16 Granite street.

Douglas Bonner, who has been employed by the Mohican company, in charge of their fruit department for the past five years, has entered the employ of a Westerly furniture company.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. H. O. Dunn left Westerly Wednesday morning, closing their home, "Ninigret" at Haversham, and went to Washington, D. C., for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Porter Hoxie of the West Side are passing a few days of their vacation in Boston.

The condition of Edward C. McNeily was reported Wednesday as not so favorable, congestion of both lungs having begun.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Barber of Westerly and Watch Hill left town on Wednesday noon for a visit to Boston previous to their returning to Florida to their winter home.

Twenty members of the Scottish clan woman's auxiliary went to New London Tuesday night with four of the members of Craigs Lea lodge, to be present at a party given by the Scottish society of the Whaling city to the officers and crew of the visiting British warship H. M. S. Valerian which has been at the state pier in New London the past week, leaving that port Wednesday morning.

St. Michael's branch, Connecticut Council of Catholic Women, has inaugurated a course in millinary, taught in the parish hall. The course will comprise ten classes and will be directed by Miss M. M. Towey. The course is for members of the organization, but any woman of the parish desiring to take advantage of the opportunity may register and become a member. A class in millinery for the Girl Scouts, under the direction of Miss Towey, is held every Tuesday evening. A course in home nursing will begin in November.

The recent rummage sale held under the auspices of the society was a success, the proceeds being $150. This sum will be expended in charitable work during the winter. The organization has installed a Red Cross first aid outfit in St. Michael's school to be used in case of injuries to pupils during recreation periods.

SOUTH KILLINGLY

Henry Tewgood spent Saturday in Brockton.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Crowley of Valley Falls spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Phillips.

Mrs. Edmund Goodness has returned from a week's vacation spent with her brothers in Lakewood, R. I., and Fall River, Mass.

Mrs. P. H. Coffey was the guest of Luther Cole of North Sterling on an automobile ride to Putnam Friday. While there they called at Day Kimball hospital to see Mrs. George Slater.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Spaulding, Myra Spaulding and William Potter of Auburn, R. I., spent the week end with local friends.

A harvest supper and dance was held in the Community house Saturday evening. Mrs. Henry Spaulding had charge of the supper. Her assistants were Mrs. and Miss Kelley, Mrs. A. E. Phillips, Mrs. Raymond Tilton, Mrs. M. D. Whitaker, Ruth Spaulding, Mrs. Everett Dexter, Lillie Young and Ruth Coffey.

Ruth, Frances and Beatrice Coffey received their ninth term pin in the G. T. C. band Sunday evening.

At the Sunday evening service Rev. W. B. Williams gave a very interesting report of the national council of Congregationalists which Mr. Williams attended in Springfield last week.

NORTH STERLING

Mrs. Sarah Hill will spend the winter in Willimantic.

Earl Benway and family of North Oxford, Mass., spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Spooner.

Mrs. Marion L. Brown has returned from Anthony, R. I.

Miss Dorothy Plummer spent Sunday in Providence.

Local people attended the harvest supper at South Killingly Saturday evening.

The rainstorm was welcomed, as wells and streams were very low and dry. In some places a large number of trout died in the small streams during the drouth.

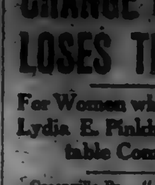
CHANGE OF LIFE LOSES TERRORS

For Women who Rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound



Greenville, Pa.—"I took your medicine through the Change of Life and it did wonders for me. I was down in bed when I started to take it and weighed 85 pounds. I had hot flashes and was so nervous and weak that everything would get black and I could not see. I would sit and cry and did not know what I was crying for. Since I have been taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I feel younger than I did ten years ago, and my friends all tell me I look younger, and I owe it all to the Vegetable Compound. I do all my housework for a family of seven now. I will be glad to answer any woman who writes me in regard to my case."—Mrs. JOHN MYERS, 66 Union St., Greenville, Pa.

Many letters similar to this have been published testifying to the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. They are sincere expression from women who describe in best they can their feelings before and after taking this well-known medicine.

STONINGTON TOWN COURT FINES ON LIQUOR CASES

Acting under the direction of Prosecuting Attorney George R. McKenna, six officers went on a raiding trip Saturday night in Stonington and as a result four men were arrested for alleged possession and keeping liquor for sale.

Those arrested were Matthias Geisar, who lives on what is known as 101 Ranch. One hundred and fifty gallons of beer was seized at that place. He was released by Judge W. A. Wilcox at 2.45 a. m. Sunday on bond of $4,000 furnished by R. M. Delagrange; John M. Haxlin, who operates two stores in Mystic, a small amount of liquor being found at his place. He was also released on $4,000 bail, furnished by his wife.

Frank Rogers and Manuel Munig 11 Water street were also taken in. The officers found a still at the house but located in an upper room of another apartment in the double house. It is said to have been the property of a man who left the village suddenly.

As the result of the raids the Stonington town court had a busy session Monday morning with Judge W. A. Wilcox on the bench.

John Haxlin was fined $200 on one count and given a 30 days in jail sentence which was suspended for six months, and was fined $75 on a second count. The costs were $36.89. He paid.

Frank Rogers was convicted of keeping liquor for sale, fined $150 and ordered jailed for 15 days. He stated that the liquor found at his place was a combination of molasses and oil prepared for bathing purposes. He was taken to jail.

The case of Mathias Geisar, who faces three counts, was continued to Thursday and bonds of $4,000 furnished.

Manuel Monis was discharged from custody, there being no evidence against him.

ENDING STATE FARM TROUBLE.

By the removal of Mrs. Helen Rogers of Hamden as a member of the board of directors of the state farm for women, Governor Templeton took the action which the situation called for.

Even after the investigation that was conducted by the Russell Sage foundation, as well as before, the governor went thoroughly into all phases of the situation and the conclusion that he reached was inevitable. He might have acted quicker but he has eliminated any chance of being charged with applying snap judgment.

His action was in keeping with the recommendation following the investigation by an impartial person. Friction in the conduct of the state institution has been caused because of the unwillingness of Mrs. Rogers to cooperate with the other members of the board. That she was duly interested in the farm and the successful administration of the institution was indicated but it was the manner in which she displayed it that disclosed her unfitness.

Conditions of the kind disclosed are unfortunate. They do not make for good management and the governor has acted for the purpose of eliminating them. To have asked for the resignations of all the other members would have been a gross injustice to those who have faithfully served the farm. It would have made it next to impossible to secure others to serve in a similar capacity. Those who create discord in a board of that kind must expect to shoulder the penalty, rather than to have it shunted onto others.

The step that has been taken by the governor was forecasted by the investigation and it was warranted by the showdown which prompted the governor to get the opinion of an impartial investigator. It is action that will unquestionably meet with the approval of the people of the commonwealth, and it is to be hoped that the institution will henceforth be free from such regrettable handicaps.

FOREST PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION.

An example which should impress itself upon others is that which is furnished by a group of land owners in Hartford county, who have witnessed the heavy loss on woodland property from fires for many years and have seen the wisdom of joining hands in an effort to offer more successful resistance and possible prevention.

Last year alone there were nearly 100 fires in that county from various causes. An acreage of 14,000 was burned over, causing a loss of more than $40,000 and it is a natural conclusion that has been reached by them in deciding that it is preferable to put their funds into efforts to fight and prevent fire than to stand still and accept such losses without offering resistance.

It isn't to be supposed that they figure that they will be able to prevent all the fires. Too much depends upon the action of others for that, but by organizing and perfecting a fire-fighting force, establishing lookouts for the discovery of the first signs of fire and being prepared to battle such whenever necessary is going to mean a different result by the end of another year. It means that organization against woodland fires has been undertaken on lines similar to those in cities and through quick response and a readiness to fight fire control can be obtained quicker and with less damage done.

It is through organization of this kind that the solution of a big problem will be obtained from the standpoint of fire fighting. There still remains the need of impressing upon those who travel through the woodlands that they are responsible for preventing many of the fires from starting. With the cooperation of those agencies causing fires and the organization prepared to fight them highly commendable results should be obtained.

Everything points to the successful outcome of the Hartford county plan. In the interest of waste elimination it might well be extended to all the counties of the state, with a number of fire districts in the wooded areas of each county.

STUDYING THE COLORADO.

Not all the danger, not all the adventure and not all the chances for the explorer are confined to trips into the polar regions. While there is still much to be learned in the far north and the far south there are other sections much nearer home where much study can be applied and where plenty of courage and understanding are required to successfully obtain the facts desired.

This is well illustrated by the experience of the expedition sent out by the United States geological survey for the purpose of getting data concerning the Colorado river where it flows through the canyon in order that a better decision might be reached concerning the possibilities of damming the stream for irrigation purposes.

Shooting the rapids of the Colorado might be best sport for some. Studying the conditions, the currents, the possibilities along the stream as it winds through walls of rock can be appreciated as appealing to others. Apparently it seems simple enough, and to many it might seem that the great difficulty lay in keeping the vessel on an even keel.

It was not many days ago, after the Colorado river had risen rapidly, that fear was expressed for the safety of this expedition. With the stream in its narrow confined responding to storms and cloudbursts to such an extent that it rises from 30 to 60 feet in a night, according to location, it can be appreciated that peril of no slight degree is faced by those who endeavor to negotiate the 500 mile trip. Fully alive to the river's antics those in charge of the expedition were prepared to safeguard themselves. Vigilance was necessary as it is in all instances where danger is likely. The members of the expedition have experienced what few ever will or what only a few would seek. Whether they are prepared to urge the erection of dams on the stream for irrigation purposes will be known later. Their trip has, however, served to furnish additional information about one locality of which none too much is actually known.

WHOLESALE COAL PROFITS.

When the federal coal commission puts forth its final report it deals with the facts as it finds them. It isn't engaged in the business of playing favorites. It is not to be urged that it is interested in the retail coal dealers just because it appears to exonerate them as a class.

What it has discovered is that in the handling of fuel in times of emergency the wholesalers have been engaged in the practice of fleecing the consumer by taking 300 per cent profits over those of pre-war days, regardless of what the effect of such demands might be.

Naturally the consumer is disposed to place the blame for all his troubles on the one with whom he does business, without giving consideration to the fact that the retailer likewise has his troubles and is subjected to the dominance of the wholesaler. And this is all the worse if the retailer is obliged to depend upon the independent wholesaler who is more interested in getting rich quick than he is in supplying the needs of the coal consuming public year in and year out.

It is well to have the finger placed definitely on one class involved in the coal hold-up. All of the trouble probably doesn't exist there, but it furnishes the opportunity for having that corrected. The commission believes that the president should seek legislation from congress which would place the wholesale distribution of coal in the hands of the executive in time of emergency. It is action that congress should be eager to comply with.

"IMPOSSIBLE TO SEE ANYONE."

Just what the circumstances were, aside from the fact that it was raining hard and the report claimed "it was impossible to see anyone crossing the street," are not known. Whether the driver of the machine was proceeding cautiously or speeding is not indicated, but the knocking down and killing of a woman in the street by an auto in a Massachusetts city only points to the importance of exercising great caution under those conditions.

That caution should be displayed both by the drivers of automobiles as well as those crossing the streets. It is a habit for many to lower an umbrella and walk behind it so that it is impossible to see whether any thing is coming or not. That is inadequate self protection when crossing a street.

There are also those drivers who plunge along through the streets during a rain storm without regard for the fact that it is "impossible to see anyone" or the excellent chances of skidding if the brakes are suddenly applied. It would of course be too much for the pedestrians to expect that such auto drivers would endeavor to refrain from throwing most of the mud in the puddles along the street onto the helpless.

There are dangers enough that confront the auto driver and the pedestrian crossing the street during good weather. They are greatly increased during storms. It is therefore obvious that whatever the care exercised under ordinary conditions it should be the greater under unfavorable conditions. Certainly speed and lack of control at such times are highly dangerous, and the best time for giving it thought and respect is before anything happens. The more difficult it is to see anyone the greater need there is for control.

SHATTERED DREAMS

"When we are married," the newly engaged young man told the fair young creature in the Bulgarian embroidered sports frock, "I am firmly resolved on one thing and that is that I never am going to interfere with you, Cantata! I believe in individual freedom and you shall do exactly what you choose and when you choose!"

"Alexander," breathed the delighted girl in the sports frock, "I never heard anything so remarkable in all my life. Of course I shall never want to do anything or go any place you are not interested in, but to know that I can is wonderful! Oh, how I wish some of my married friends could hear you say that! You can't imagine how sorry I feel for them!

"There is Anabel Phillip—whenever she says she guesses she'll have the girls in to lunch her husband says right away no, let's have a dinner party instead. Poor Anabel slaved for a year on a set of luncheon napkins and doilies and has the loveliest bouillon cups, but she never is able to use any of them because one uses soup plates for dinners. It is positively pathetic to see her take out her luncheon napkins and smooth them over.

"And Petunia Sunstroke has to work and fight for months before she can get away to go down to New York and see what they have in the shops! Her husband says there is plenty right in Chicago to buy and Petunia can't make him see that her soul needs the expansion of—er—well, you know how it is! I guess they'll just curl up in envy when they see me taking a train if I want to and having parties every day if I choose!"

"Well," said the newly engaged young man a bit anxiously, "maybe Sam Sunstroke can't afford railway tickets every minute or so and I suppose if your budget won't allow both a luncheon and dinner it is best to give the dinner and get everybody in. You see—"

"Why, Alexander!" the young woman remonstrated in great surprise, "I declare, if you don't talk just the way I've heard their husbands talk! I'd like to know what is the use of leading me to think that I am going to do exactly as I choose and then objecting to the very first things I speak about! All my life I've dreamed of going to New York whenever I felt like it, and think of the fun Petunia and I could have down there going around shopping and—"

"Well, but you see," the newly engaged young man said somewhat apologetically, "you know what my salary is and I can't figure out much of anything left over after we pay our expenses. So how the grief you can take trips whenever you feel like it is more than I can see! I shouldn't like the idea of your wandering around a strange town all alone without me anyhow, Cantata."

"That's just what Sam told Petunia," cried the young woman rebelliously. "I'd like to know what you had in mind Alexander, when you raved about individual freedom! I suppose you meant that I could decide on the desserts and buy a new biscuit cutter if I needed one without telephoning you for advice! I had no idea you were that sort of man! I should think you'd want your wife to keep up with the latest styles in everything, and, unless you go to New York real often—why, you said I was to do just as I chose and—"

"Something is wrong here," the newly engaged young man said with a worried brow. "I have it! Within reason! I meant you were to do just as you chose so long as it was anything within reason."

"I knew it!" the fair young creature cried tragically. "To think you should get that husbandly tone so quickly! And who is to decide what's in reason or not, Alexander? If you do, why then I won't be doing as I choose unless you choose and if I decide you'll say I'm wrecking our finances and your life! I never yet knew a husband and wife who could agree as to which side of an argument was right! The one with the long-distance voice and better endurance always wins out and then other sulks for a week! I just knew when you started talking it was too good to be true! When a man says his wife is to do just as she chooses it doesn't mean a thing!"

"Well," the newly engaged young man said heroically with a gulp, "I guess maybe it doesn't—unless he has several millions in the bank! I guess I talked too soon, Cantata!"

"I just knew there wasn't any such animal," the fair young thing in the Bulgarian sports costume said regretfully to herself. "Darn it!"—Exchange.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Child Welfare.

Dear Editor:—"The flood of time is rolling on." Shelley calls it an "unfathomable sea." To the children who had to labor in mines and factories far beyond their strength, it has been a sea brackish with salt tears.

The children's bureau of the department of labor reports the distressing fact, that there have been more children employed in mines and factories than ever before; a million under the age of 15 years; 387,063 of this million are under fourteen years of age. The heart that does not shrink in horror over this atrocious exploration of the childhood of America must belong to the stone age.

It was Victor Hugo who said "He who has seen the suffering of men, has seen nothing, he must see the suffering of woman. He who has seen the suffering of women has seen nothing, he must see the suffering of children."

Ever since the supreme court pronounced the child welfare law unconstitutional nearly two years ago, there has been much discussion pro and con upon the subject which has ended in talk while the cry of the children for mere justice has gone up to heaven unanswered and their souls and bodies have continued to be sacrificed on the altar of mammon.

The greatest question which America faces today is how to build up physically her young men and women, even before facing the moral intellectual problems.

How can it be done, if our boys and girls under fifteen are stunted physically—spiritually and morally?

They are moulded into creatures of the earth—earthy; the living soul is bruised and crushed.

What is to prevent them from forming the ranks of criminals?

America already has the reputation of having more criminals than any other country.

Think of it "America first in crime!"

Why not? If the apathy and indifference of the American people is so great that it allows a million of its children to be sacrificed for commercial gain how can it be otherwise?

What are we to do about it? There does not appear to be but one way, through the Constitutional Amendment. Some are opposed, arguing that it should be left to the states. We did not leave the slavery of the black man to the states—but fought a bloody fight to face them. Are not the children of America of as much importance?

They are in a way bought and sold for gain; they are helpless and it is an "unfathomable sea" of mystery how men and women in christian communities can be so apathetic as they have been to their misery and to the results that must follow in the future as these boys and girls grow to manhood and womanhood.

To christian education, enlightenment and reason devoid of pity, mercy and justice? Has the federation of labor a greater sense or right and justice than other organizations.

They have come out strongly for an amendment to our Constitution on behalf of child welfare.

If our churches cried out in one voice against this iniquitous exploitation of children in labor—how long would it be before childhood would be lawfully protected.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

Nayarit, Mexico's Newest State.

"The state of Nayarit, Mexico, where a battle is reported between a band of agrarians and Mexican troops, will be looked for in vain if one depends on maps or reference books printed more than six years ago" says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"This tropical, Pacific coast region of Mexico was until a few years ago the Territory of Tepic," continues the bulletin. "But Mexico, like the United States, has been steadily revamping her territories into states, and old Tepic, rich in memories of the Spanish regime, was the latest to undergo the transformation. When it was advanced in 1917 to the status of statehood it took as its name that of the Nayarit Mountains which extend into the region from the north."

In the communication to The Society Herbert Corey, who recently traveled through Nayarit, describes as follows the valley of the Santiago, Mexico's longest river, the leading agricultural section of the new state:

"One does not often hear of the Santiago river and yet it is the longest in Mexico. Rising in the state of Morelos, it flows through Lake Chapala and on to the sea near San Blas. Cortes sailed it for some distance with his little barks. At intervals it roars through barrancas which are sometimes 2,000 feet below the level of the surrounding plain, and in which the Indian farmers find a sub-tropic climate that forces vegetation as might an equatorial hothouses. During the rainy season the river spreads 35 miles wide through the flat, jungle-grown lower lands.

"It runs through farming land that could feed two or three of our own states, if the farmers were only given a chance to farm and not compelled at the muzzle of rifles to drop the plow and be patriotes, every little while.

"This land would grow any sort of a tropical crop if it were given a chance. One can in season ride through miles of wild limes and lemons rotting on the ground. The thought of cultivating oranges has never yet come to the peon. It has not even occurred to him to fight the black scale or whatever other enemy may attack the trees. The cocorito palm is responsible for a local soap-making monopoly, for its kernels are 45 per cent. oil.

"There are fields of sugar-cane, and bananas flourish wherever planted. The best coffee in the world—at least as good coffee as there is in the world—comes from this district. Rice and tobacco and dates and figs grow almost without attention. In the barrancas the vanilla bean is found.

"Through Nayarit, from its ancient Pacific port of San Blas, runs the remains of the old Spanish Road eastward to Mexico City and born through the lowlands beyond to Vera Cruz on the Atlantic. Thanks to The Road, the east-bound convoys from the Philippines were spared the perilous traverse around Cape Horn.

"The main highway was defended by forts or by minor outposts at strategic points, and from it lesser trails were driven into the hills or the more inviting valleys, for the convenience of priest and miner.

"Not until Porfio Diaz began to build the net of Mexican railroads did The Road begin to fall into disuse, and even today there are wide stretches of country which can only be reached by it. In these back block ons sees the Mexico that appears to the eyes of Baron Humboldt an Madam Calderon de la Barca."

Isn't it queer that the things the people want most to know are usually none of their business?

Stories That Recall Others

Out For A Walk.

The letters of the alphabet are all A. B. C's to Mary. One evening recently while downtown with her parents she became much interested in a large electric sign.

After a moment of intense observation it dawned upon her that the flickering lights were really forming something definite, and she exclaimed, "Oh, look, mother, the A. B. C's are taking a walk."

He Had His Suspicions

Aunt Grace's admirer was rather homely and had hair which was rapidly thinning, and Joseph did not like him. But Aunt Grace did, and was very cosy around him.

So when she and her admirer went to leave Joseph's home one evening she begged the little fellow to kiss her. But Joseph steadily refused. "Oh, Joseph," she said shyly, "there are people who beg to kiss me."

"Yuh," Joseph agreed scornfully, "and when I get as old and baldheaded as he is I bet I have to beg the girls to kiss me, too."

ONE DEAD AFTER AUTO UPSET NEAR GROTON PARK

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Oct. 24—William A. Bray, 26, residing at 216 Jefferson avenue and employed as pay clerk by the William Spencer Co., in charge of the freight department of the marine district of the Central Vermont railroad, is dead at the Home Memorial hospital and Cornelius Walker of 14 Blydenburg avenue is a patient at the institution suffering from injuries sustained tonight at Poquonnoc when Walker's automobile overturned near the former Groton driving park.

Bray sustained among other injuries several fractured ribs and punctured lungs. Walker's injuries consist of cuts and bruises about the face and head. Walker is under arrest at the hospital and is in charge of state police. He will probably be arraigned in the police court tomorrow morning charged with manslaughter. According to the police and staff physicians at the hospital Walker had been drinking but was not drunk.

Bray is survived by his mother of whom the victim was the sole support. Walker was arraigned in chambers in the police court this morning on a non-support charge and his case continued for one week. He has been arrested before charged with reckless driving.

With a Hudson touring car Walker went to the Central Vermont Wharf about 8.30 o'clock and there was joined by Bray and a trip to Mystic and Westerly was started. When passing through Poquonnoc and at the approach of Fort Hill the machine skidded on the slippery highway and before Walker could get the car under control it overturned three times and struck a stone wall. Bray was thrown out and landed against the wall. Passing autoists went to the assistance of Walker and Bray. Medical attendants were summoned and Bray being badly injured was rushed to the Home hospital accompanied by Walker. At the institution Bray soon lapsed into unconsciousness and died two hours after being admitted.

FOOTBALL PLAYER IS ABLE TO LEAVE HOSPITAL

(Special to the Bulletin)

Miss Mary T. Geary was bridesmaid Wednesday at the McCarthy-Mahoney wedding in New London.

Miss Ruth Bartlett of Norwich has been spending a few days with Mrs. Charles E. Davis at Franklin.

Miss Sadie L. Davis of Providence, R. I., is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin V. Rose on Williams street.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bosworth of Mansfield recently entertained Mr. and Mrs. Owen Smith and daughter, Mrs. T. Snowden Thomas of Norwich.

WEDDINGS.

Holdridge—Kinney.

At 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Kinney, 19 Town street, their daughter, Miss Mildred Avery Kinney was united in marriage with Ray Daniel Holdridge, son of Judge and Mrs. Samuel E. Holdridge, of Ledyard.

Under an arch of laurel and variegated autumn foliage with palms to complete the setting, the impressive double ring service was used in the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Gurdon P. Bailey, pastor of the First Congregational church, Norwich Town, of which the bride is a member.

Preceding the ceremony, while the guests, including about 40 relatives and friends, were being ushered in by William E. House, the following programme was rendered by Miss Alice H. Kennedy, pianist, and Theodore Sterry, violinist: Carnations, Fred G. Albert; Sweet Forget-Me-Nots, Walter E. Miles; Moon Glow, John Frederic Barth; Simplicity, Dorothy Lee. The Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin was used as the processional, and for a recessional, Mendelssohn's Wedding March was played by Miss Kennedy and Mr. Sterry, who also played softly during the ceremony, Oh Promise Me. The bridal party formed in the upper hallway and marched down the stairs, the bride walking with her father, who gave her in marriage. She was preceded by her cousin, Mrs. William E. House, as matron of honor. The groom and his brother, S. Archie Holdridge, the best man, met the bridal party at the arch in the front parlor, where the ceremony was performed.

The bride and groom were assisted in receiving by their parents, the matron of honor and best man. Following the reception a luncheon was served. Among the beautiful wedding gifts which included cut glass, silver, china, linen, etc., was an Axminster rug and $100 in gold from the groom's parents, and a dinner set in china, also a set of silver knives and forks from the bride's parents. The bride's gift to the groom was gold cuff links, and to her matron of honor and the pianist she presented silver bar pins with pretty settings. The groom's gift to the bride was a string of pearls and is his best man and the violinist he gave gold cuff links.

Guests present were from Providence, Mystic, Ledyard, New London and Preston City.

Mr. and Mrs. Holdridge left early in the evening for a wedding trip of a week or ten days, visiting relatives in Appanaug and Providence, R. I., also in Mystic.

The bride's going-away gown was tan brocaded silk poplin, with which she wore a dark brown Bolivia coat, with hat to correspond. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Holdridge are to reside on Yerrington avenue, Laurel Hill, where a newly furnished home of their own awaits them.

The bride is a graduate of Norwich Free Academy and the Yale Summer school, 1921, and has been a teacher in the school at Ledyard. The groom has resided in Ledyard for a number of years, and is a member of the Congregational church there. He is employed as a carpenter.

Tarbox-Beebe

Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, at the Congregational parsonage in Lisbon, the pastor, Rev. William J. Reynolds married Edward D. Tarbox of Lisbon and Mrs. Signe Beebe of Norwich. The witnesses were Mr. and Mr. John A. Hagberg of Norwich. Mr. Tarbox is employed as a salesman. The bride is the widow of Harry Beebe and has resided on Lincoln avenue.

WOOLEN MILL WEAVER FOUND DEAD IN CHAIR

Tenants of the American Woolen Mill boarding house in Yantic, on going to their rooms on the upper story shortly after 5.15 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, noticed William J. Devlin slouched forward in a chair in the hall and an investigation disclosed the fact that Mr. Devlin had died suddenly. Dr. Louis T. Cassidy and Medical Examiner Dr. C. C. Gildersleeve were summoned and pronounced death due to kidney trouble.

Mr. Devlin, who was a weaver in the mill at Yantic, had been working there for the past three weeks, but this week had not worked, stating that he did not feel well. Wednesday he was about the boarding house as usual and shortly after 4 o'clock came down stairs to get a drink of water, then returned upstairs where he died shortly afterwards.

He was about 56 years of age and had worked at the mill at various times. The only relatives known to survive him are a sister, Mrs. Paul Batchman of Bennington, Vt., and relatives in Gilbertsville, Mass., and Rockville, Conn.

USED FIRE EXTINGUISHER ON BLAZING AUTOMOBILE

A Peerless touring car with public service registration 0-2603 in the name of Abner Schwartz and operated by Louis Swartsburg, caught fire from a backfire in front of the Bulletin building, Franklin street shortly before 6 o'clock Wednesday evening. A repair man was working on the engine when it backfired. A telephone call was sent in to the fire department, but before they could reach the machine Wm. H. Harrington had the flames out by using a fire extinguisher.

MANCHESTER WOMAN GIVEN DIVORCE FOR CRUELTY

After a short hearing before Judge Maltbie in the Superior Court Tuesday in Hartford, Charlotte A. Faircloth of Manchester was granted a divorce from John E. Faircloth of Willimantic on grounds of intolerable cruelty. They were married in 1905 and Mrs. Faircloth alleged that from 1912 until they separated about ten years later her husband was persistently cruel. She asked for the custody of three children in her complaint but no ruling as to custody was made.

Not Harold Berg Jr. in Accident.

Confusion in names resulted in the report in The Bulletin last Saturday that Harold E. Berg, Jr., of New London was driving an automobile and was injured in an accident at South Windham last Friday afternoon. The injured man was his father, H. E. Berg. The younger man, who is shipping clerk for the New England Carpet Lining Co., was employed there all last Friday afternoon.

MEMORIALS ARE FEATURE IN THIRD DAY OF HOSPITAL DRIVE

Gifts for memorials in the nurse's home at the Backus hospital came into reports at the town hall in the hospi-prominence at the Wednesday night tal campaign for the goal of $200,000. Each team that has not secured a memorial gift was urged to get one before the campaign ends. If any considerable number of the teams are successful this will go a long way toward pushing the campaign over the top and beyond as each memorial of for $1,500 and entitles the donor to have his or her name placed on one of the nurses rooms in the home.

So effectively did the teams put in their time Wednesday that when the reports for the day were all in they showed a day's total of $36,735, which was close to $3,000 more than the preceding day and sent the grand total to $131,639, which is past the half way mark in the campaign.

Announcement of this gratifying result stirred a storm of enthusiasm and applause from the assembled workers and they left the hall with a new determination to make short work of going over the top.

Memorial Gifts

Four memorial gifts were announced Wednesday night. Team 37, captained by Mrs. Walter T. Camp, which was cheered to the echo when it reported the highest total for the evening $4,082, had included in that, one gift of $4,500 in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Brewer for the recreation room and another of $2,000 from the Misses Norton to apply on the general living room.

The third memorial was a $1,500 gift by Rutherford C. Plaut for a nurse's room. This went to the credit of team No. 21. Miss Helena E. Coughlin, captain.

The fourth memorial was an $800 gift for a bath room from Dr. W. R. Tingley which was reported by team No. 26, Mrs. Tingley captain.

Other memorial gifts that have been made in the campaign are $15,000 by Mrs. H. H. Osgood for the class and demonstration room, $3,000 for a nurse's room by the staff of doctor's and three memorial gifts of $1,500 by Mrs. Charles W. Gale, Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Woodard, and Saxton Bros. for nurse's rooms. The $5,000 gift by the Masonic bodies of Norwich will also count in the memorial features.

The singing of a verse of America opened the gathering of the workers Wednesday night and Rev. E. J. Crowdis of the Taftville Congregational church pronounced the invocation. Tyler Stanton was song leader for the evening and easily called on all the members of the Lions to sing and give their roar. Later the Rotarians sang the Rotary song and both organizations were loudly applauded.

Chairman James L. Case drafted Rev. W. A. Keefe of St. Mary's Memorial church to address the workers as the first speaker after the supper hour and Father Keefe responded with his characteristic fine spirit, first calling on the whole crowd to stand up and give three cheers for themselves. They responded and returned the compliment by giving three cheers for the popular pastor.

Everything points to a complete success in the campaign, declared Father Keefe. Norwich will back up the splendid nurses and doctors of the Backus hospital. We get the workers, the cause and the enthusiasm. Norwich is proud of its doctors and I know of no case where they ever refused to give attention whether they were paid or not. We hear of some nonsensical excuses and criticisms and one of them is that old one about pay for ambulance. Why I've known of cases where the ambulance had to be sent to Plainfield and Voluntown and no one asked about where the pay was coming from.

It is not how much we can get out of the hospital, but how much we can give for it that should be the spirit. When this campaign is over let every citizen be able to say "I did the best I could to make the best nurses' home in the best hospital in Connecticut." We have been paying for fire and police protection; now let us pay a little for health protection. Our citizens surely are going to do the best thing for everything that is best for the community.

After the applause for Father Keefe's speech had subsided, Chairman Case introduced Mrs. J. N. Rosenberg, who was given a rousing greeting. She spoke earnestly and in warm praise of work that she had known had been done by the hospital staff in cases of suffering and destitution, and declared that this appeal was not one for charity, but was merely asking the people to do their duty and everyone ought to feel honored for taking part in such a noble work.

Max Hanover, the concluding speaker, roused further enthusiastic applause as he spoke of the importance of hospital service as health insurance which every man and woman in Norwich with civic pride was anxious to assure through this campaign to help the Backus hospital. You must have good nurses to take care of the sick in the hospital, declared Mr. Hanover, and if you want good nurses you must give them proper living accommodations. Therefore a new nurses home must be built. The nurse conscientiously performs all the duties for which she is paid, but she does more, she gives you her warm human love for which you cannot pay. She puts up patiently with all your whims and caprices and even hallucinations and delirium, but when the time comes for rest and relaxation, she needs a suitable place where she can rest. Although I began to study for the medical profession and ended in the talking machine business, I believe that 90 per cent. of the hospital value is good nurses, and you won't have them in Norwich unless you give them a good home. Fellow workers, this is the argument you ought to stress in selling to the people this new health insurance in which we are all so tremendously interested. As Chairman Case says, "we can do it and we will do it."

Before the reports were called for there was one final musical number when the medical staff of the hospital, who were present at supper were called upon to sing. They responded with Three O'Clock in the Morning.

When Abner Schwartz made the report for his team, Chairman Case reminded the workers that the report included the Schwartz Company contribution of part of the receipts of the opening day of the company new store over a year ago.

Team honors for Wednesday went to Captain Edmund W. Perkins' men's team and Mrs. Walter T. Camp's women's team. Chairman Case delegated President Tirrell to present the blue banner to the women and Mayor Waters to present the red banner to the men.

SIMPLE WAY TO TAKE OFF FAT

There can be nothing simpler than taking a convenient little tablet four times each day until your weight is reduced to normal. That's all—just purchase a case of Marmola Prescription Tablets from your druggist for one dollar, the same price the world over. Follow directions—no starvation dieting or tiresome exercising. Eat substantial food—be as lazy as you like and keep on getting slimmer. And the best part of Marmola Prescription Tablets is they are harmless. That is your absolute safeguard. Purchase them from your druggist, or send direct to Marmola Co., 4613 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich.

COUNCIL ADOPTS MEMORIAL FOR DEATH OF EX-MAYOR

Memorial resolutions for Hon. Frederick L. Osgood, ex-mayor of Norwich, whose death occurred Tuesday at his home on Washington street, were adopted by the court of common council at a special meeting in the council chamber Wednesday evening. After the council had been called to order Mayor Milo Waters addressed the alderman and councilmen as follows:

It is my painful duty to announce to the council the loss of a distinguished citizen of our city, the Hon. Frederic L. Osgood, whose death took place yesterday. He was the direct descendant of a founder of our city. His entire life was spent in our midst and he was known to us as a man of the highest ideals, great generosity and a personality that endeared him to all. He served the city as alderman and as chief executive for four years faithfully and well, and during his whole life took a deep interest in civic affairs.

It seems eminently fitting that this special meeting should be called to take such action as may seem wise to place on record our appreciation of the loss to our city and our sympathy with his family.

On motion of Alderman Henry Gebrath the mayor was authorized to appoint a committee of three to draw up suitable resolutions and he appointed as the committee Alderman Henry Gebrath, Alderman Edward Crooks and Corporation Counsel William H. Shields, Jr. The committee retired to the mayor's office to draw up the resolutions which were then submitted to the council and read by City Clerk Weston C. Fullen. The resolutions, unanimously adopted by the council, follows:

His death was sudden and its announcement came as a shock, sending into all parts of the community a thrill of genuine grief at the loss of one who had gained and merited great public admiration and distinction and the friendship and love of all our citizens.

Mr. Osgood was Mayor of our city from 1898 to 1900 and devoted his best efforts and endeavors, then and at all times, for the best interests of our city and the public good.

He will be long remembered for his strength of character, his endeavors for the public good, his great generosity and his great love of all his fellowmen.

Resolved, as a mark of respect for the deceased, that the members of the Court of Common Council will attend the funeral in a body; that the flags of the city be displayed at half-mast; that the offices of the city be closed during the hours of the funeral; that the picture of our late mayor in the Council Chamber be draped for a period of thirty days; and also, that this memorial to our former Mayor be entered upon the records of this Court of Common Council and that a copy of the same, attested by the Clerk, be transmitted to the family of the deceased.

JUDGE KELLY BREAKS HIS LEG IN FALL

Judge Thomas J. Kelly of 39 Maple street is a patient at the Backus hospital with a broken leg. He fell while in his room at his home last Monday night, breaking his leg between the knee and the ankle. After a doctor had been called to give him attention he was taken to the hospital.

Two Chimney Fires.

Two chimney fires on Wednesday morning within an hour resulted in a similar number of calls for the Norwich fire department, both being easily extinguished. The first call was at 8.33 for the home of R. R. Ockery at 382 Franklin street. Six gallons of chemical ended this fire. The house is owned by Richard Tobin.

The second chimney to give trouble was at the house occupied by William Dynon at 29 Dunham street. This call came in at 9.40 o'clock and 12 gallons of chemical were used. The loss in both fires was slight.

At Judge Shumway's Funeral

Judge Gardiner Greene, Judge John M. Thayer, Judge Allyn M. Brown, Clerk George M. Parsons of the superior court; Assistant Clerk John A. Walker, and Attorneys J. J. Desmond, Edwin W. Higgins and Hibbard R. Norman were the Norwich members of the bar who attended the funeral of Judge M. A. Shumway at Danielson on Wednesday.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Applicants For Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview of the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.

Local Druggists Guarantee Rheuma For Rheumatism

What chance does any sufferer take when Rheuma is guaranteed to banish rheumatism, lumbago, gout and kidney ailments, or money back?

Why not investigate this offer? Talk to Lee & Osgood Co. about it. Rheuma must drive rheumatic poison from the system, bring swollen joints back to normal, and relieve all agony, or it costs nothing.

People so crippled with rheumatism that they could not walk have been absolutely freed from the iron grasp of the demon, rheumatism, with the sell it with guarantee of money back Rheuma treatment. A few hours after the first dose Rheuma begins to drive the dangerous poisons that cause stiffness and pain in the joints and muscles from the body through the natural channels.

Everybody can afford Rheuma — it's not expensive, and money back if not entirely satisfied.

BABE RUTH HAS UNIQUE RECORD AGAINST AMERICAN LEAGUE PITCHERS

New York, Oct. 24—(By the A. P.)—An analysis of the batting performance of Babe Ruth this season discloses that the big slugger compiled one of the most remarkable, if not the greatest record in major league history, despite the fact that he failed to lead the American League hitters and was only able to tie Cy Williams, of the Phillies, for the home run leadership, with 41 circuit blows, 18 behind the world's record he set in 1921.

The complete record of the babe, however, together with the story of his versatile greatness—the work that earned him the crown of the most valuable American League player—show him as the big star of the year. And to prove the real merit of his performance, it is not only to compare his work with that of other batsmen lays of the diamond.

The best batting mark now recorded in the baseball books is .492, made by James L. O'Neill while playing with the St. Louis team of the old American Association back in 1887. In compiling that high mark O'Neil was aided by the rules of that year, which provided that bases on balls should be figured as base hits, also that when a batter was hit by a pitched ball he was charged with a time at bat and credited with a base hit. Even with those advantages O'Neill must have been a great hitter. Yet it is certain that many bases on balls figured in the compilation of O'Neill's .492 mark.

Unofficial records for the 1923 season show that Babe Ruth participated in the entire schedule of the Yankees, 153 games, a record in itself for Ruth. These figures also show that he was at bat 530 official times; that he scored 151 runs and made 205 safe hits, giving him a batting average of .394.

In addition to this remarkable average Ruth was passed by American League pitchers 171 times. If these were figured as base hits and counted in his times at bat, as was the case with O'Neill's record, they would give Ruth a total of 891 times at bat and 976 hits for a batting average of .544, or 83 points better than the record of the old St. Louis slugger.

Another phase of Ruth's work as a new major league record was the number major league record was the number of times he reached first base during the 1923 season. In addition to his 205 hits and his 171 passes there were other times when he got on either by forcing a runner, a fielder's choice, by being hit by a pitched ball or through an error. Their total shows that Ruth reached first base a fraction under three times for each of the 152 games during the season.

THE COLUMBIA IN SHAPE TO MEET CANADIAN BOAT

Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 24—The schooner Columbia, American challenger for the International fisherman's trophy, was put overboard from the marine railway here this morning, after completion of repairs to her shoe, and it was announced that she was ready for her trip to Halifax to meet the Canadian defender Bluenose next Monday.

Captain Ben Pine said he hoped to get the Columbia away this afternoon. A heavy fog still hung over the harbor however, and a storm from the southeast was predicted, and the skipper declared he would not start until the weather was clear and there was a fair prospect of good weather.

The U. S. S. Bushnell will leave tonight for Halifax with members of the American and international race committees. Secretary W. A. Reed of the American committee said that no postponement of the race would be asked until the Bushnell reached Halifax.

PROMINENT RACE TRACK OFFICIALS DIES OF WOUNDS

Akron, Ohio, Oct. 24—Fred W. Gerhardy of Detroit, prominent race track official, died in a hospital here tonight from wounds received Saturday when he was shot by Marion Webb, a trainer. His son, Fred W., Jr., and Mrs. Gerhardy were at his bedside.

Gerhardy was 60 years old. He was shot twice, one bullet passing through his breast and the other through the arm. He appeared to be improving until today when his condition suddenly took a turn for the worse. As he continued to sink, oxygen was administered.

An autopsy was held tonight. The body will be taken to Detroit by his widow and son tomorrow. Funeral services will be held there Saturday afternoon.

Deputies at the jail said they would not inform Webb, of the judge's death until tomorrow, when police announced, he will be charged with first degree murder. He is held without bond on a charge of shooting to kill.

Coakley to Remain at Columbia

New York, Oct. 24—Andrew J. Coakley, former major league pitching star today signed a contract to continue as baseball coach at Columbia University for three years. Next season will be Coakley's tenth as diamond coach at Morningside Heights.

BOBBY JONES HAS NEW RECORD FOR NATIONAL GOLF PLAY

New York, Oct. 24—Bobby Jones, youthful Atlanta golf wizard, who shook the jinx that has beset him in title play long enough to bag the national open championship this season at Inwood, is credited with a new record for consistent brilliance in the national event.

Records of the past four open championships show that Jones had compiled a grand average of 74 5-17 strokes per round, leading all rivals, professional and amateur alike, over that span of competition. His nearest rivals are Jim Barnes and Walter Hagen who, over the same stretch, each have averaged 75 1-16 strokes, while Jock Hutchison is next with a mark of 75 1-2.

Jones made his debut in open play in 1920 and finished eighth with 299 strokes. He was tied for fifth in 1921 with 300 and tied for a second in 1922 with 293, a stroke behind Gene Sarazen. This year, the Georgian tied Bobby Cruickshank with 296, defeating the Shackamaxon "pro", 76 to 78, in the 18-hole play-off for the title.

Excluding his play-off round this year, Jones has taken a total of 1,187 strokes in the championship proper, as compared with 1,201 for Hagen and Barnes and 1,208 for Hutchison.

ELKS' CHILDREN'S FUND GETS $19,572 FROM WALKER-JONES GO

Newark, N. J., Oct. 24—The sum of $19,572 today was turned over to the Elks' fund for crippled children of Elizabeth by representatives of the Broad Athletic Club which conducted the match between Mickey Walker, welterweight champion, and Jimmy Jones of Youngstown, Ohio, several weeks ago. The money represented the boxers' share of the "gate" which they forfeited when they were ordered from the ring "for stalling."

Walker was allowed $1,955 and Jones $2,000 for training expenses. In addition Walker drew a six month suspension by the state boxing commission. Thomas E. Collins, chairman of the Elks committee, received the money.

McTIGUE AND TUNNEY POST WEIGHT FORFEITS FOR BOUT

New York, Oct. 24—Mike McTigue and Gene Tunney today posted weight and appearance forfeits for their 15-round match at Madison Square Garden December 18 for the world's light heavyweight title. Under the agreement both are to make the class limit, 175 pounds, at 3 p. m. the day of the bout. Both McTigue, whose title will be at stake, and Tunney, who holds the American light heavyweight crown, are preparing to begin training.

ORIOLES EVEN UP JUNIOR WORLD'S SERIES WITH THE KANSAS CITY BLUES

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 24—(By the A. P.)—Slugging their way to victory over the Kansas City Blues of the American Association here this afternoon, 9 to 5, the Baltimore Internationals climbed to even terms in the junior world series. Each club now has four victories and the ninth and deciding game for the minor league championship will be staged tomorrow.

The Orioles had on their batting clothes and hit three Kansas City pitchers—Wilkinson, Thormahlen and Saladna—at opportune times. Wilkinson, who started for the Blues, was wild and got himself in trouble with bases on balls. Jack Ogden, Oriole right-hander, pitched the entire game for Baltimore, and except for homers by Wright and Brief, which accounted for three runs, was very effective.

The Blues were the first to score, getting two runs in the second inning on one hit. Baltimore tied the score in its half of the second and added two in the third and one in the fourth.

In the sixth the Blues threatened for a minute when they bulled up to within one run of Baltimore by registering twice on a double by Becker and a homer over the left field fence by Brief. The birds came right back in the seventh and Cobb, Baltimore catcher, broke up the game with a homer over the left field fence with Maisel and Sheedy on the bases.

The game was played under weather conditions so damp and disagreeable that the handful of spectators were bundled up in overcoats and wraps and Umpire Chill, of the American association, officiated in overcoat and gloves. The turnstiles registered only 373 admissions and the receipts amounted to $547.

RED SOX TEAM SERVES AS SCHOOL FOR MANAGERS

New York, Oct. 24—The Boston Red Sox, tail-enders this season, have furnished candidates to fill two managerial vacancies in the American League—Chicago and Washington—and one prospective vacancy in the National League, at Boston.

The candidates are Frank Chance and Jimmy Burke, manager and coach respectively of the Red Sox this season, who have been displaced by Lee Fohl, former St. Louis pilot, under the new Boston ownership.

The post which Fohl left at St. Louis and which Jimmy Austin has been filling temporarily will be occupied by George Sisler next season, but as yet the White Sox and Senators have signed no new leaders.

Chance, who himself admits having two big league offers under consideration has been mentioned particularly for the Washington job, vacated by Donnie Bush, but his name also has been coupled with the Chicago berth, where Kid Gleason resigned in discouragement over his club's showing. Eddie Collins, Harry Hooper and Ed Walsh also loom as possible successors to Gleason. And now that Burke who formerly was at the helm for the St. Louis Browns, has been released, he, too, may be in line for either post.

Both candidates enjoy the favor of baseball followers generally and their popularity with Boston fandom gave rise to much comment as to the advisability of the move by which they were allowed to leave that city. Boston baseball experts agreeing they obtained firmo inferior material the best results possible.

There is a further possibility that one or the other may remain in Boston, as Manager of the Braves. Rumors persist that President Christy Mathewson is to make a change where by Manager Fred Mitchell will be released or asked to assume his former role of coach of pitching, capitalizing the Boston popularity of Chance or Burke by engaging the one or the other to assume Mitchell's position. George Burns, veteran Cincinnati outfielder, also has been reported as a prospective Braves manager.

READING CLUB HAS GOOD BASEBALL SEASON

Reading, Pa., Oct. 24—Nearly 23,000 more persons paid admission to see the Reading International League baseball club in action on its home grounds this year than in 1922 according to the report of the treasurer submitted at the annual meeting of the club last night. The report showed that 163,723 spectators witnessed the home games, as against 140,749 last year. The team finished the season in third place.

M. G. Moore was re-elected president of the club and the contract of Spencer A. Abbott as manager was ratified.

COLUMBIA-BLUENOSE RACE TO BE SAILED ON MONDAY

S., Oct. 24—The trustees of the International Fishermen's trophy late today announced that the first race of this year's championship series between the American challenger Columbia and the Canadian defender Bluenose, would be postpond from next Saturday until next Monday at the request of the American race committee.

N. L. Independents Want Game

The New London Independents fast traveling football eleven, would like to hear from at least one Norwich aggregation and if possible also would like to talk business with other teams in the vicinity especially Taftville and Willimantic.

Sunday's 45 to 0 victory over the tricky East Ends of New London proves that the Independents have no slouch of a team and have strengthened some of the most experienced players in Connecticut. The schedule is almost complete and but a few open dates remain, including one for the coming Sunday. For further information, call New London 193. George Gadbois between 8 a. m. and 6 p. m.

Moonlight Golf is Played

St. Luis, Mo., Oct. 24—Moonlight golf is the latest sport innovation here. Several members of the North Hills Country club, who have been playing at night, said the only requirement was to stand still after hitting the ball so as to hear it drop. Midirons are used on all shots. The other night three moonlight players turned in scores of 56, 56 and 58, respectively, for nine holes, and only one ball was lost.

TAFTVILLE

A large crowd attended the Army & Navy carnival given at their clubhouse on Dion street Tuesday evening. The decorations at the hall are most attractive. There was dancing until midnight.

Owing to the bad weather the Backus hospital campaign is not making very rapid progress. Three hundred and six dollars was reported Tuesday, bringing the total of Taftville subscriptions to $1402.

There were no sessions at the Sacred Heart school Tuesday because of the hard rains.

One of the steps of the water wheel at the No. 1 mill of the Ponemah company burned out Wednesday and some of the departments were forced to close for the remainder of the day.

Mrs. George Blood of Montville has been a recent guest of Mrs. John D. Sharples of North Second avenue.

Charles Adams of North Third avenue has purchased a new touring car.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Petka of Terrace avenue have purchased the property of Hormidas Lamoreux on the Canterbury turnpike. Mr. and Mrs. Lamoreux and family are moving to Terrace avenue, and the new owners will occupy the property as a home.

WITNESSES CONTRADICT TESTIMONY FOR STOKES

New York, Oct. 24.—Testimony of four of W. E. D. Stokes' staunchest witnesses was contradicted today by a group of witnesses for Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes at the retrial of the wealthy hotel owner's suit for divorce.

May Corkery, formerly secretary to Mrs. Emma Goodwin in her corset shop in the 35th street apartment house where Edgar T. Wallace, principal co-respondent, lived, denied she had been present with Mrs. Goodwin when Stokes entered the shop to use the telephone.

Mrs. Margaret Pell, who bears a striking resemblance to Mrs. Stokes, asserted she was at Bethel, Conn., home of Thomas W. Brander, manufacturer, about the time witnesses for Mrs. Stokes swore they had seen his wife there with Wallace. Mrs. Pell said her name at that time was Mrs. Wynne, the name a witness for the hotelman had stated was used in introductions at Bethel. Howard Pell, her husband, a member of the New York Stock Exchange, corroborated her testimony. Both said they had never seen Mrs. Stokes at Bethel.

Henry Waugh, an employe of the Interborough Rapid Transit company when Wallace was an engineer for the company, denied ever having seen Mrs. Stokes at the Brander's Bethel home. He failed to find Wallace in a group photograph of a Bethel stag party in which several witnesses had picked a man as the co-respondent.

W. L. Pepperman, also an official of the Interborough, who for a time shared an apartment with Wallace, denied he had ever seen Mrs. Stokes at his Bethel summer home or at their apartment.

Wallace entered the court room to testify for Mrs. Stokes shortly after Clarence McCornick took the stand to deny having been in Bunceton, Mo., in 1904 with Mrs. Stokes, then Miss Elwood, and Wallace. McCornick asserted he was in Europe about that time, in 1904 mentioned by witnesses for the hotelman.

CONTEMPT PROCEEDINGS AGAINST JUDGE LINDSEY

Denver, Colo., Oct. 24.—Contempt of court proceedings against Judge Ben B. Lindsey, Denver's noted juvenile court judge, for alleged failure to reveal to the grand jury the names of women upon whom Denver physicians had performed illegal operations, will be started here by District Attorney Van Cise, if, after receiving a report from the grand jury he believes the juvenile judge's action before the inquisitorial body this morning warrants it. The district attorney announced this afternoon that until he had report from the grand jury room no further action would be taken in the Lindsey case.

Judge Lindsey who was ordered to appear before the grand jury and to present official records of his court showing the names of women and physicians involved in alleged illegal operations, told newspaper men just before answering the summons, that he would not reveal the names of girls and women, but that he would offer to the grand jury a list of names of "the leading abortionists of Denver." He said he would refuse to divulge the names of women and girls on the grounds that they would not be willing to prosecute the physicians and that disclosure of their names would result only in their degradation.

HELD FOR DISAPPEARANCE OF SAN DIEGO REALTY BROKER

San Diego, Calif., Oct. 24.—E. Drew Clark, held in the county jail in connection with the disappearance of George E. Schick, San Diego realty broken, in reality is Robert Henderson, a native of Bowling Green, Ky., a former floor walker in a department store in Los Angeles and arrested on a charge of arson in that city, according to George Pross, detective in charge of the investigation. Pross said today he had received partial information regarding the past of Henderson, alias Clark.

Henderson, according to Pross, has been in the west 25 years, having married in Los Angeles in 1898, under his own name. The wife divorced him and he married again in Seattle under his own name in 1903, and was divorced by the second wife in 1908. The present Mrs. Henderson, or Clark, was a cabaret entertainer in Los Angeles, Pross stated. She was married to Henderson about 14 years ago.

Search for Schick's body, under the presumption that he was slain, was continued today.

SEPARATISTS FROM CREFELD MARCHING ON DUESSELDORF

Brussels, Oct. 24.—(By The A. P.)—Four thousand separatists from Crefeld are marching on Duesseldorf, which they hope to occupy tonight, according to Le Soir.

Crefeld fell into the hands of the separatists at two o'clock this afternoon. They disarmed the police and issued strict orders to prevent disturbances. The orders declared that anyone showing himself at a window would be shot. Mounted separatists are policing the city.

The separatists compelled the newspapers to stop publication. The oberburgomaster of Crefeld surrendered to the Rhinelanders.

THIEVES ENTER COTTAGE AT OCEAN BEACH

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Oct. 24.—Patrolman John Hogan in making his rounds at Ocean Beach this afternoon discovered the cottage at 16 Midway place open, and probably having been visited by thieves. The front door was ajar and was not in that condition yesterday. The owner of the place could not be notified as he is unknown to the police.

John Hickey, alias Fred Hickey, an inmate of the Norwich State Hospital for the Insane, made his escape some time yesterday and last night put in appearance at the E. P. Learned mission. Because of Hickey's queer conduct the attention of supt. Richard Mansfield was called to Hickey and when questioned Hickey revealed that he had escaped from the asylum. Hickey was taken to the police station where he was held until this forenoon when a guard came here and took charge of the fugitive. Hickey's home is in New Britain.

The police received a novel complaint late this afternoon Mrs. Raymond of 27 Sherman street lodging the complaint that Mrs. Eliza Burrows of 16 Lenox street had her angora cat and was keeping the animal confined to the cellar. Captain Pinney sent motorcycle Officer William Babcock to the Burrows house and after an investigation it was determined that Mrs. Raymond was mistaken in her accusation for the cat was not to be found on the Burrows premises.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

A Magic Flying Suit.

One morning as Little Jack Rabbit woke up after spending the night under a shady tree, he couldn't find Dapple Gray. Instead, he saw a little fairy dancing on a rose bush. It was a very tiny fairy and every now and then hid itself in a big rose.

"I wonder what that little fairy is doing," said the bunny boy to himself and running over to the bush, he waited for the little fairy to come out of the rose. But, oh dear me! No little fairy appeared and by and by he grew impatient and spread apart the petals of the rose. And wasn't it too bad? There was no little fairy there.

All of a sudden, a little voice said:

"Shut your eyes and hold out your paw.

And when he had finished and opened his eyes, low and behold! There stood the little fairy.

"Come with me," she said "and I will show you a magic flying suit."

"A flying suit," thought the bunny boy. "Well, that would be nice," and he followed the little fairy to the wood until she came to a tiny house near a brook.

"Tap, tap!" she went with her wand and pretty soon the door opened and a dwarf dressed in a big apron, with a needle and thread in his hand came out.

"What does Your Highness wish?" he asked.

"Little Jack Rabbit would like a flying suit. Have you one that will fit him?" asked the tiny fairy.

"Come in," said the dwarf. "I will show you what I have on hand" and he brought out a box full of flying suits, some green, some yellow and some gray.

"You'll make a fine bird," laughed the dwarf as the bunny boy buttoned up a flying suit of blue and gray which fitted him nicely.

"Now," said the tiny fairy, "will you do me a favor?"

"What is it?" asked Little Jack Rabbit.

"Over in Mother Goose Land where Little Bo-Peep has lost her sheep," answered the fairy, "lives a little crooked man in a little crooked house and in his pocket is a little crooked sixpence. Will you please fly over to Mother Goose Land and ask the little man to give you this crooked sixpence?"

"Will he give it for the asking?"

"Maybe not," answered the fairy, "but here is a ruby. Exchange it for the sixpence and return to me as soon as possible."

So away flew the little rabbit in his new winged suit to get the crooked sixpence, and in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

VALERIAN CLEARS FROM NEW LONDON AFTER A WEEK OF GAYETY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 24.—The British cruiser Valerian left this port this morning at 7 o'clock on the way to Bermuda, after a stay in New London harbor of just a week. It is doubtful whether the officers and crew of his majesty's ship ever put in seven days when they were more hospitably entertained. From the arrival of the ship until her anchor was hauled and she bade good bye to New London the visit of the officers has been a round of pleasure. They were entertained by the officials of the city, by clubs and organizations and in many instances by the people as individuals. The last night ashore was as full of pleasure as was the first. Last evening Mayor Scott was the host to officers of the Valerian, of the coast guard and the state coast guard. He entertained them at the theatre, and later they and the crew were the guests of Clan Cameron and the auxiliary to that Scottish lodge. The programme there was singing and instrumental music, dancing and a feast. When the ship had started from the harbor and was five hours at sea Captain Gardyne sent a wireless to Mayor Scott, expressing the appreciation of the officers and crew for the hospitality shown the Valerian's men.

This was "fish" day for the employes of the water department of the city. Early came complaints that water could not be obtained at places where immense quantities are usually consumed daily. This led to an investigation when it was found that the service pipes in many places were clogged. The way out of that was to open hydrants in various parts of the city. Eels were vomited out by the hydrants—two dozen at the corner of State and Washington streets and nearly as many more at other points. The eels evidently got in through meshes in the strainers that are placed at Lake Konomoc where the water flows into the mains. The fish went in as little fellows for they otherwise could not pass through the wire protection, but they came out as big as shovel handles, in many instances. The trouble was remedied as soon as possible. Among the places where the eels stopped the service pipes were the Mohican building, the Plant building, the Crocker house and Palmer Brothers' mill. It is not an unusual thing for a single eel to be belched from a hydrant at times, but for such a large number of them as came to the streets today is not at all common. The flood of water that flowed into the mains from the lake when the downpour of rain came Tuesday was the cause of the appearance of the eels.

Mrs. Alice Hunt, New London's policewoman, will be off duty indefinitely through compulsion, not desire—for she is now confined to her home at Niantic as a result of injuries she sustained last evening. Mrs. Hunt operated her car to a point on Bank street, just south of Howard street. Alighting from the automobile to get the gasoline tank replenished, she stepped upon a concrete brow, which was slippery from rain, causing her to be thrown. In falling Mrs. Hunt's ankles were severely sprained. After obtaining treatment Mrs. Hunt was driven home to remain for a fortnight or more.

James J. and Lena Gilmartin have sold a building lot on Coleman street to Peter J. and Catherine Moriarty. Mr. and Mrs. Moriarty have also acquired of Annie O'Connor, William E. Redden, Ellen O'Connell and Frederick Redden a parcel of land on Coleman street.

Patrolman Timothy C. Sullivan, who is on his vacation, returned to his home on Williams street last evening, having made a brief visit with New York relatives.

Lake Konomoc, New London's source of water supply, has been the lowest in several years until the rainfall of last night and today. The steady rain increased the lake's capacity over six inches, which amount ordinarily is more than falls in any one month of the year.

All the early morning trains were delayed in arrival from New York and New Haven over two hours, due to two freight wrecks, one being in the Water street yard at New Haven and the other at Saybrook. The wrecker from Midway was brought into service in clearing the latter wreck, which was not wholly cleared away up to this forenoon.

Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Hedden of Waterford of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Beatrice Beryl Hedden, to Private Orville Bruce Lloyd, of Cleveland, Ohio. Private Lloyd is a musician in the United States army band, stationed at Fort H. G. Wright. The wedding will take place in November.

Mrs. William J. O'Brien has returned home, after spending several days with relatives and friends in New Haven, Bridgeport and Meriden.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester W. Bliss, summer residents here, are spending a few days at their winter home in Boston.

Mrs. Charles West of Norwich and Mrs. Lyle Watson of Broad street, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

James H. Sheedy, son of Mrs. Bridget A. Sheedy of 18 Darrow street, and Miss Elsie M. Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luke Martin of 32 Montauk avenue, were married this morning at 9 o'clock, at St. Joseph's church by Rev. William C. Fitzsimons. John W. Sheedy, cousin of the groom, was best man and Miss Marjorie McBride, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. After the ceremony a breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Sheedy later left by automobile for Niagara Falls and Canada. They will reside in an apartment in New London. Mr. Sheedy is a New London letter carrier.

Arthur J. McCarthy and Miss Elizabeth C. Maloney, daughter of Mrs. Annie Maloney of 38 Summer street, were married this morning at 8 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church. The nuptial mass was celebrated by Rev. Timothy M. Crowley, the rector. Jeremiah McCarthy, a brother of the groom, was best man and Miss Mary Geary of Norwich, attended the bride. A breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother after the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. McCarthy left during the forenoon on a trip, which will include a visit to Canada. They will reside in Westerly, where Mr. McCarthy is a salesmanager in the employ of a motor company.

Mrs. James Daniels, of Hamburg, who was injured by a fall at her home a few days ago, was removed yesterday to Rome Memorial hospital.

A closed automobile owned by Robert H. Horton, of Oswegatchie, and operated by Mrs. Horton, overturned on the slippery highway at Station 16, Waterford, this afternoon. Mrs. Horton was alone and escaped injury other than a few minor bruises. A wrecker from New London towed the car to a garage. Mr. Horton and family recently closed their home for the winter and are now residing at the Hotel Mohican.

David Banks of Waterford, complained to the police this morning that some time last night or this morning a thief entered his garage and stole a battery from one of his automobiles.

Mrs. James Kennedy of Willetts avenue, Mrs. Alexander Ross, Westerly, Sergeant Jamieson Hall, stationed at Fort Wright and Mrs. Edwin Keeney and infant son, of Pleasant street, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were able to return to their respective homes today.

During the heighth of the storm last night a section of the fence surrounding the property at the corner of Montauk avenue and Chapel street, was blown over. A washout also occurred in front of the premises, 264 Crystal avenue.

The non-support charge against Cornelius Walker, 14 Blydenberg avenue, who was arrested Monday, was continued to Nov. 1, in the police court this forenoon by Judge Prince upon the recommendation of Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin.

The case of Aksel Winje, stationed at the United States Coast Guard academy, who sustained a knife wound several weeks ago and in a mysterious manner, has been dropped by the government officials, although a court martial was held and a report made to the navy department at Washington. It is understood that Winje claims to have sustained the wound in an "accident."

Herman H. Rosiene and Miss Anna M. Greene, both of Norwich, were married last evening, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Myron E. Genter, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, at the home of the clergyman on Hempstead street. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Lecklan of New London. Mr. and Mrs. Rosiene will continue to make their home in Norwich.

Dr. Hugh Francis Lena of New London is attending the annual convention of the American College of Surgeons of Chicago. He will be made a fellow of the American College of Surgeons on October twenty-sixth in the Chicago Auditorium.

Dr. Lena graduated from Dartmouth College in June 1912, with the degree of Bachelor of Arts. Four years later he was awarded the Doctor of Medicine degree by Johns Hopkins University at Baltimore. Following his graduation of medicine he served as Surgical House Officer at the Boston City Hospital for a period of twenty-one months. He resigned the latter position in March 1918 to enter the naval service during the world war as a junior grade lieutenant. In September of the same year he was promoted to the rank of Lieutenant (medical) United States Navy. He held this commission until his retirement from service in October 1919. Throughout his stay in the navy he was stationed at the New London Base Hospital. Dr. Lena is a member of the Medical Association, the Connecticut State Medical Association, and the New London County Medical Association.

Charles M. Brocksieper, for many years proprietor of dance halls and for several years proprietor of the dancing pavilion at Ocean Beach, has been compelled to abandon activity because of ill health and has relinquished the lease of the upper floor of the Cronin building, State street, of which place Mr. Brocksieper has held a lease about 15 years. Mrs. Brocksieper, who assisted him in the conduct of dances, recently suffered a shock.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Bread Theatre.

"The Silent Command" is the greatest spectacular melodrama of the screen. This is the claim made by William Fox for the picture which is booked at the Bread theatre today, Friday and Saturday.

Directed by J. Gordon Edwards, that master of motion picture production, from a story by Rufus King, the leading members of the cast include Edmund Lowe, Alma Tell, Martha Mansfield, Betty Jewell, Bela Lugosi, Carl Harbaugh, Gordon McEdward, Byron Douglas and Martin Faust.

The story is of exceptional merit and offers a firm foundation upon which to erect a motion picture of the most entertaining quality. This has been done, it is said, every element that enters into the construction of a successful screen drama having been employed.

Among the many spectacular effects is a shipwreck that outdoes everything of this nature that has ever been attempted on the silver sheet.

Broadway Theatre With Keith Vaudeville.

Starting today a completely new show of B. F. Keith vaudeville will be presented at the Broadway theatre for the last half of the week.

The features and main vaudeville attraction is Harmonyland, consisting of five people who offer a melange of music and song and it can easily be said that it is vaudeville's classiest musical offering.

Jack Dillon, who directed Mary Pickford in "Suds," and who has directed many other notable screen plays, directed the filming of "The Self-Made Wife," the Universal all-star attraction now showing at the Broadway theatre.

It presents an unusual domestic situation in that a couple that were absolutely happy while they were poor were unable to see life from the same angle when they had plenty of money. It was just a case of social evolution and the woman couldn't keep pace with her husband until he was forced by circumstances to travel less rapidly.

The play was produced with a strong cast, including some of the best-known players of the screen.

As tense a situation as was ever conceived in a dramatist' brain is that which serves as the finale of "The Rip Tide," a fascinating new Arrow picture which comes to the Strand theatre for a three days' engagement beginning today. It is one which is said to guarantee a thrill to even the most blase theatre-goer, for it is unlike anything which has heretofore been attempted upon the silver sheet.

Aside from the fact that the situation is so entirely different, it is made additionally impressive by the splendid work done by the players. Stuart Holmes, as fine an artist as the screen has ever known, rises to new emotional heights as Count Boris Voronsky, while Rosemary Theby, J. Frank Glendon and Diana Alden are all remarkably good.

Visualize a somberly beautiful room, with rich and luxuriant hangings, panelled walls, and massive furniture — the whole lighted by hundreds of mellow wax candles. Imagine a black-hearted Russian nobleman, who has striven for months to gain his ends with a radiantly lovely East Indian princess. He has finally succeeded in winning the girl's confidence and bringing her to his home, one room of which is described above. Then the situation is complicated by the arrival of a wife whom he had believed safely disposed of, and the ex-fiance of the princess, a muscular and determined young man who carries in his good right hand the trusty sword of his ancestors.

How does it all work out? Does the villainous nobleman come out unscathed or does he pay the price of his infamy? Does the princess suffer any wrong at his hands or does the final curtain show her close held in her lover's arms. These questions the photoplay answers in a logical and convincing manner, and we strongly urge that you pay a visit to the Strand theatre to learn for yourself just what does happen.

"The Rip Tide" was made by Maescher Productions, under the direction of Jack Pratt, and is released by Arrow Film Corporation. The cast includes, besides the players named above, Russell Simpson, George Rigas and Dick Sutherland. It is altogether a most amazing photoplay and one which will afford keen entertainment and delight to every type of theatre-goer.

The New Leather Pusher series of H. C. Witwerer's stories will be seen every Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The Wandering Two is the first one and sure is good. A News completes the bill.

What is Costs to Give Symphony Concert.

There is no doubt but that it costs more each year to maintain a symphony orchestra than the amount of receipts from the sale of tickets to the concerts. In an orchestra like the Philharmonic, where the minimum wage of the player is fixed by agreement with the local federation of musicians, the fifth and sixth rehearsals in each week must be paid for over and above the regular salary. This makes the minimum salary sixty-five dollars per week. And as the stipend of most of the players is based upon individual artistry, the majority of them receive sums in excess of the minimum. Then, too, when the orchestra travels, each man has an allowance of six dollars per day for maintenance in addition to his railway tickets.

Altogether it can be estimated that it requires an annual budget of four hundred and fifty thousand dollars to cover the maintenance of such an orchestra, giving one hundred concerts in a season. Thus the pro rata cost of a single concert is forty-five hundred dollars.

In spite of this, and because the late Joseph Pulitzer recognized the necessity of extending permanent support if such orchestras were to be kept at a high standard of efficiency, bequeathing nearly a million dollars to the Philharmonic, we are able to have them come to New London next Monday evening at prices ranging from three to one dollar per ticket.

The Philharmonic Society pays out over two thousand dollars of its own funds and travels two hundred and fifty miles to give this concert. We can have or-dinner at home and hear the concert for the price of ticket plus a trolley fare.

The Palace Theatre.

For the last three days of the week, the New Palace theatre offers a Thos. H. Ince production, "Her Reputation," starring dainty May McAvoy.

Here is a picture which can be viewed by anyone connected with the newspaper profession without fear of seeing some incongruity, produced by a director who has never seen the inside of a newspaper office and who doesn't even know that hand presses have been abandoned by big dailies. Correct in every detail, tense with dramatic situations—the plot of "Her Reputation" is refreshingly new.

May MacAvoy gives a remarkable portrayal of a young girl who runs away from home on her wedding day, the innocent victim of a newspaper scandal. When she falls in love with the son of the editor of the paper which has ruined her life, the plot develops in rapid strides. Miss McAvoy's Spanish dances are exceptional

Lloyd Hughes plays the part of the cynical son of the newspaper editor who starts investigations concerning the girl. The usual way in which the two young people meet, are parted and brought together again, how each is the embodiment of what the other hates, how through it all their great love sweeps away everything else — make each successive scene in "Her Reputation" more absorbing than the last.

One of the most interesting scenes in the picture is the wedding fiesta scene when Spanish beauties, handsome caballeros, gay old mayores and frolicsome pickinales bring back the warm hospitality and the romantic life of New Orleans of the old days.

"Her Reputation" is one long series of thrills. Two pistol shots punctuate the action. The waters of a flood are scarcely dried from the screen when a police raid, followed by a wild dash to a machine, a wreck on a mountain road—keep the action moving until the climax is reached in a gigantic forest fire.

Making Dieting a Pleasure.

Most of us, who want to reduce or to gain flesh, start out with the best intentions in the world when we face the daily menu. The first thing we do is to write down a list of the things we should not eat, just what it comes to following that diet conscientiously, we weaken. For a few days, probably, we carry out our good resolutions, but nine out of ten of us soon fail by the wayside for one reason of another. The result is that we fail, and we fail chiefly because the diet is not satisfying or palatable or appetizing enough.

Dietitians — experts in prescribing and preparing foods—tell us, however, that it is not necessary to punish ourselves either to gain or lose flesh. There are many good things to eat which reduce or increase weight, things easily prepared, appetizing, nourishing and wholly satisfying. These foods do the trick and make the so-called dieting a real pleasure.

Now, here is an enterprising company that has collected dame experience facts and is publishing them. The company is the F. B. Davis Co., Boston, N. J., well known to you as makers of Davis O. K. Baking Powder. "Through Thick and Thin," is the title of the little booklet issued by the Davis folks. A copy is yours for the asking. You will be surprised to learn that such good things can be included in a "grow fat" or "grow thin" diet.

KIDNEY TROUBLE TROUBLES

"Could not stand nor sit and was forced to cry out from intense pain," writes Henry Wagner, Havre, Montana. "The doctors said I had inflammation of the bladder and an operation was necessary. Tried Foley Kidney Pills and improved at once. Got all my friends about Foley Pills and all have many good sayings and praises for my case. A dangerous operation. Bladder and kidney troubles yield quickly to Foley Kidney Pills. They give quick relief. Sold everywhere. Adv. Foley & Co.

How To Revitalize Wornout Exhausted Nerves

Your nerve power depends on plenty of good, rich, red blood of the kind that organic iron—Nuxated Iron—helps make. Nuxated Iron is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples, while metallic iron is iron just as it comes from the action of strong acids on iron filings. Nuxated Iron does not injure the teeth nor upset the stomach; it is an entirely different thing from ordinary metallic iron. It quickly helps make rich, red blood, revitalize worn-out, exhausted nerves and give you new strength and energy. Over 4,000,000 people annually are using it. Beware of substitutes. Always insist upon having genuine organic iron—Nuxated Iron. Look for the letters N. I. on every tablet. Sold by all druggists in tablets only—never in liquid form.

MARKET WAS QUIET.

New York, Oct. 24.—Except for some sharp recessions in the copper stocks and low priced northwestern railroad carriers, many of which dropped to new low levels for the year, stock prices showed within a restricted trading area in today's relatively quiet market.

Liquidation of the coppers was based on reports that few of the producing companies were able to operate at a profit at the existing price of the red metal. One dozen shares in this group either broke to new bottom prices or duplicated previous ones, among them American Smelting, Anaconda, Kennecott, Utah and Inspiration, the last three averaging about a point each.

St. Paul issues were heavily depressed in speculative expectation of a poor September earnings statement, the common dropping 3 1-8 to 13 1-4 and the preferred 1 1-2 to 23 1-2, each at new lows. Missouri Pacific common and preferred and Chicago and Northwestern also broke through their previous resistance points.

Good buying support was forthcoming for such pivotal stocks as U. S. Steel, American Can, Baldwin and Studebaker, which closed practically unchanged on the day, but operators on the long side of the market showed little disposition to lift them out of the narrow area in which they have been moving.

The Iron Age, in its weekly review of the iron and steel trade, reports "some expansion in automobile manufacture, sustained structural steel activity, and, for Japan, buying and definite inquiries," while in bookings of finished steel the rate so far in October approaches 10 per cent. better than for the same period in September. The Bethlehem Steel corporation in its report for the third quarter calls attention to "a noticeable improvement in new business," particularly with the railroads. October operations are said to be practically 75 per cent. of capacity.

Marked strength was shown today by a number of specialties, particularly Congoleum, which jumped nearly 6 points to a new top on rumors of a $60 per cent. stock dividend in the near future. New peak prices also were established by Tobacco Products A, May Department Stores and West Penn Power 7 per cent. preferred. Fresh weakness cropped out, however, in Famous Players, American Sugar and Coco Cola preferred. Fisher Body sold 30 points below its previous quotation.

Call money opened at 4 1-2 per cent. and then dropped to 4. More time funds were available for 90 day maturities at 5 per cent. but business generally was quiet.

Cable despatches indicated a weakening of the Rhenish separatist movement brought about a slight improvement in the foreign exchanges. Demand sterling advanced about 8-8 of a cent to $4.49, French francs sold around 5.82 cents and German marks, which had been as low as one cent a billion, rallied to 1.3 cents.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Oct. 24.—Reports that several prominent grain traders were to go to Washington to confer with government officials about methods of helping farmers get higher prices led today to increased buying in the wheat market. Largely as a result, values although finishing unsettled were at 1-2 to 3-4c net gain, with December 1.06 3-8 to 1.06 1-2 and May 1.11 to 1.11 1-8. Corn closed unchanged to 3-8c down, oats 1-2@1-4 to 1-4c up, and provisions varying from 12c decline to 7c advance.

New talk of government help gave an advantage to bulls in the wheat market despite denials that a board of trade committee had been appointed for the purpose of conferring at Washington. President Stream of the board of trade said the board had received no invitation to take part in any conferences. The fact, however, that offerings of wheat were light made the market sensitive to buying, and the trade was impressed with the relative strength which the wheat market had displayed of late while corn was undergoing a decline.

Profit-taking sales near the end of the day in the wheat pit brought about only a transient setback, support developing afresh during the final dealings. The late selling was based more or less on indications that winter wheat acreage instead of being reduced this fall will show an actual increase in some parts of Indiana, Illinois and Missouri. It is said also that a very heavy acreage was being seeded in western Kansas and Nebraska.

With fine weather for drying the new corn crop and with 20 cars of new corn in today's receipts here, the corn market eased down notwithstanding the upward tendency of wheat values. Oats, however, responded to wheat strength.

Provisions averaged lower because of lessened cash demand.

BOND MARKET.

New York, Oct. 24.—Buyers and sellers were about evenly divided in today's bond market, with the result that net changes were small and movements somewhat irregular.

The demand for foreign government issues was greatly increased and many of the European bonds recorded moderate advances. Mexican bonds also found better buying, both the 4s and 5s moving upward, the former closing 2 1-4 points higher on the day.

Trading in the Liberty issues of the American government continued active and gains ranged from 1-32 to 8-32 of a point.

There were numerous heavy spots in the railroad and industrial divisions, several issues, including two St. Paul issues, Third Avenue adjustment 5s and the Goodrich 6 1-2s touching new lows during the day. On the other hand, traders found increased orders for many of the railroad issues and reported also a fair demand for some of the industrials and public utility liens.

The sale of new issues continued good, several fair sized offerings being disposed of readily during the day, including the $10,000,000 issue of the Philadelphia Electric Co.

CURB MARKET.

New York, Oct. 24.—Considerable irregularity developed in today's curb market, with prices of most of the active issues, particularly in the oil group, pointing downward.

Park & Tilford was run up to 34 7-8, a new top, on total transactions of nearly 14,000 shares. Disappointment over the lower dividend on Ford Motors of Canada resulted in the liquidation of a few odd lots of that stock, the closing price of 407 representing a net loss of 10 points. Gillette Safety Razor advanced 2 1-4 points to 26¾ 1-4. Southern States Oil and Standard Oil of Indiana, the two most active issues among the oils, closed at small fractional recessions. Prairie Oil and Gas dropped 1 1-2.

A sharp drop of 15 points in Fortuna Consolidated Mining, nearly 125,000 shares of which changed hands, was the only feature of the mining list.

METAL MARKET.

PLAINFIELD

A meeting of the nominating committee for the Hermiad was held on Friday, Oct. 19, at Plainfield High school. Miss Armstrong, Hermiad supervisor, Miss Barnes and Miss Mahoney were also present. This committee was elected for the purpose of nominating two candidates for each position on the Hermiad, the school paper published in January and June. A list of nominees has been posted in each room in the school and it is expected elections will take place shortly. The tickets are as follows: Editor-in-chief, Florence Leach; assistant literary editor, Margaret Fox, George Brown; business manager, Claude Belknap, Herbert Codlin; assistant business manager, James Burns, Albert Deschampe; athletic editor, Earle Butler, Arthur Gallup; school notes editor, Hazel Salisbury, Lillian Bethel; art editor, Madeline Dudkowsky, Lionel Gauthier; joke box, Gladys Riddensdale, Hector Maggia. Miss Ethel Parkhurst, '24, remains in her former position of alumni editor.

Plainfield was defeated Saturday at Moosup by Warwick High. Plainfield line was not holding and Warwick's men went through without any difficulty. On the end runs made by Plainfield there was no interference and Warwick's men held Plainfield for downs with losses. In the first quarter, Warwick on a fumbled ball made a 25-yard run down the field. At the end of the first half no points were scored. In the third quarter, on a fumbled ball, Dorrance made a long run for a touchdown but was brought down by his opponents before reaching the goal. Warwick scored one touchdown in the third quarter but failed to kick the goal. In the last quarter Codlin was put in as quarterback in West's place. The field officials were: Umpire, Joseph Eaton; head linesman, C. R. Butler; timekeeper, William Eaton; referee, Clifford Marston.

The Ladies' Aid society is to hold a meeting this week with Mrs. Irving Smith.

The Friendly Helpers hold their first meeting of the season this week at the Congregational parsonage, Mrs. Arthur Mathewson in charge.

George H. Dawley is one of the last to cut fine dahlias, presenting his neighbors and friends with beautiful blossoms last week, long after the frost had ruined many of the dahlia gardens in Plainfield.

CLARK'S CORNER

Guests at Mrs. Wade's Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bowen and daughter, also Mrs. Albro of Willimantic, and for the week end Mr. and Mrs. Gurdon Watson of New London.

Robert S. Clapp of Worcester was at Modena over the week end.

Mrs. Celia Housley and daughters of Springfield, Mass., visited relatives here over the recent holiday.

Mrs. Nora McCarthy and Miss Marion McCarthy of Willimantic are recent visitors here.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Starkweather of Danielson called on friends here last Wednesday.

Mrs. Charles L. Shaller of North Westchester was in town Monday.

Mrs. Charles L. Strong is the guest of friends in Norwich.

Mrs. Julia Smith returned Monday after two weeks' visit with South Manchester relatives.

Several automobiles passed through the borough Monday en route to Hartford with officers and sailors of the English destroyer Valerian, which is anchored in New London harbor.

NORTH WOODSTOCK

The Social Dames were entertained at the home of Mrs. Lester Starr last Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Starr was assisted by Mrs. George Lyon, Mrs. Harry Townsend and Mrs. William Brown.

Mrs. Calvin Rawson was in Willimantic Friday, visiting the Normal school. She also called at St. Joseph's hospital, where Mrs. Elmer Cortis is a patient, recovering from an operation for appendicitis.

Miss Lovan Dixon, who has been visiting at L. J. Leavitt's, returned Sunday to her home in Sturbridge.

Rev. Mr. Leach of Edgartown, Mass., preached here Sunday. He was entertained by L. J. Leavitt.

Mr. and Mrs. Wachter of Toledo, O., have opened the Bishop place for two weeks' stay.

EKONK

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Tanner, Moses Smith and a lady from Malden, Mass., were visitors over the week end at Hamilton Wilcox's.

An interesting grange meeting was held Friday evening, when Miss Florence Gallup was present and gave a radio concert.

There was a family gathering at George Tanner's Sunday.

Carl Gallup and family and Mrs. A. A. Stanton motored to Attleboro, Mass., Sunday and visited Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Stanton.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Gallup of Auburn, R. I., Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tanner of Southbridge, Mass., and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Gallup and daughters, Florence, Laura and Evelyn, were callers Sunday at E. Byron Gallup's.

Saturday morning all were grieved to hear of the death of Miss Mattie Gibson at the Rhode Island hospital, Providence, where she had gone for treatment. The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at her home on Sterling Hill. She has been the efficient principal of the grammar school in Moosup for many years and has made many friends. She leaves her mother and a brother. Much sympathy is felt for her aged mother. Miss Gibson will also be missed in the church and society.

There was no church service here Sunday, as the pastor, Rev. Truman Childs, was in Springfield, Mass., attending the national convention of Congregational churches.

Mrs. Peters, a missionary from Cuba, spoke very interestingly at the Sterling Hill Baptist church Sunday. From there she went to Packerville and Jewett City churches. She will soon return to Cuba.

JEWETT CITY

Tuesday's excessive down-pour of rain lessened the attendance at Dorcas Circle's 8 p. m. sale, but the articles for sale were disposed of, with the exception of some of the fancy articles. There were several vacancies on the programme, as Mrs. Ella Geer, Frank Meil and Mrs. Ruth Pigeon were unable to be present. The remaining numbers were excellent and were encored in each case.

Misses Arlene and Christine Burdick opened the programme with a piano duet, Janet Wilcox recited How Doth The Little Busy Bee. Two vocal duets were given by Ethelle Parkhurst and Doris Johnson. Irene Stewart played a piano number. Miss Inez Paton of Willimantic, a guest of Miss Grace Olin, had been invited to dine and gave much pleasure with her solos. The last number was a pantomime. Girls of Today, arranged by Miss Irene Warner. Mrs. E. H. Hiscox read the description of each picture as it was shown. The four seasons were, spring represented by Helen Hall; Summer by Miss S. H. Adams, Autumn by Irene Warner and Winter by Ethel Fiske. The graduates Miss Warner and Sadie Thompson, The Athletic Girls, Christine Marshall, Lauretta Alley and Ruth Ballou representing tennis, golf and a horseback rider, respectively. The Lawyer by Mabel Wilcox, The Missionary by Mrs. Howard Stephenson. The Doctor and The Dentist by Bessie and Ethel Thompson. The Flapper by Ruth Ballou and The Housewife by Miss Adams. Some of the properties for the pantomime were loaned by Miss Delphine Beauregard. Dr. Frank Browning, Mrs. C. E. Spicer, Richmond Gardiner and Mrs. O. F. Durfey. Mrs. A. C. Burdick received the money at the door. A real beehive served as the money box. The candy table was in charge of Beatrice Read and Ethel Fiske. The fancy table of Mrs. A. F. Anthony, Mrs. J. H. Tracy and Mrs. J. T. Stewart. Another beehive held the money at this table. The table was decorated with purple bows and a large silver cross was in the rear of the parlor. The food table was decorated with quantities of bitter sweet and displayed room toothpicks quintet. This table was in charge of Mrs. F. B. Cheney, Miss S. K. Adams and Miss Helen Hall. The programme was arranged by Misses Mabel Wilcox and Grace Olin. The leader, Miss M. A. Burdick, was in charge of the sale.

Mrs. R. F. Cheney has gone to Jamaica, Vt., to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wales Cheney, who will observe their sixtieth wedding anniversary Saturday. Mr. Cheney is a Civil War veteran having been in the Battle of the Wilderness, Bull Runn and Gettysburg where he was shot through the knee. He is in his eighty-eighth year, and Mrs. Cheney is in her eighteenth year.

Henry Derusha went to the State Hospital in Springfield, Tuesday. He was accompanied by his father Alphonse Derusha, who was operated upon in the same hospital, by the same doctor, for the same trouble.

A still alarm called out the Hose company Tuesday afternoon, at 1.15 a serious chimney fire in the house owned by Mike Wozniak, corner of Brown avenue and North Main street. This was formerly the Greuler property. The men used one hundred gallons of chemical and worked nearly two hours in the deluge of rain. Recently, they were called two days in succession to the Wheeler property for fires in a shed where papers and rats, or spontaneous combustion, were the cause.

Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, of Norwich, is to hold a regular clinic Friday at 10.30, at the Red Cross room.

The Pachaug Community Club is to meet this (Thursday) evening.

Miss Clara Wells goes to her home in Manchester, Conn., and Miss Irene Warner to Amherst, Mass., today (Thursday) to spend the week-end.

Charles Palmer is having a house built on the site of the house burned September eighth and hopes to occupy it by Thanksgiving. George Palmer has a house on the same farm,

The Bulletin

Norwich, Thursday, Oct. 23, 1924.

THE WEATHER.
Winds.

North of Sandy Hook: Fresh southwest and weather overcast Thursday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Fresh southwest and west and weather fair Thursday.

Conditions.

The Atlantic coast storm has continued to move north, northwestward and its center was over eastern Lake Erie Wednesday night. It has been attended by general rains within the last 24 hours in the upper Ohio valley and the lower lake region and in the Atlantic states from North Carolina northward and by easterly gales along the Atlantic coast, north of Delaware breakwater. The rainfall was excessive, north of Virginia. Snow fell on Wednesday in Colorado and Wyoming and portions of the Dakotas and western Nebraska.

The temperature was somewhat higher Wednesday in the North Atlantic states.

The indications are for generally fair weather Thursday and Friday in the states east of the Mississippi river, except that rain will probably continue Thursday morning in the lower lake region and in portions of northern New England.

Forecast.

For Southern New England: Mostly cloudy Thursday; Friday fair and cooler.

Observations in Norwich.

The Bulletin's observations show the following changes in temperature and the barometric changes Wednesday:

Has He Found a Cure for Asthma?

Simple Prescription Gives Instant Relief. Makes Breathing Easy.

In New England, where bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other diseases of the throat and lungs are so prevalent, remarkably successful results are being reported following the use of a new form of treatment known as Oxidase, a physician's prescription.

Oxidase is a harmless but powerful combination of curative essential oils concentrated and compressed into a small tablet. One of these tablets slowly dissolved before going to bed seems to have the effect of releasing the muscular constriction of the bronchial tubes, opening up the air passages and regulating spasmodic lung action. This enables the patient to breathe easily and naturally while lying down and to get a comfortable night's sleep.

So much interest has been shown that local druggists, including Lee & Osgood Co., have secured a small supply and state that they are authorized to refund the money paid for the first package if in any case this new treatment fails to give relief. Oxidase is pleasant to take, contains no harmful, habit-forming drugs and is not expensive. This makes their test an easy matter.

ASKS COURT TO APPOINT RECEIVERS IN NORWICH AND MYSTIC PARTNERSHIPS

Petitioners for receivership in Norwich and Mystic partnerships are in several new suits for the superior court, returnable in November, which have been filed at the office of the clerk, Judge George E. Parsons.

In the suit of Adelbert E. Lambert against Peter Cecarelli, both of Norwich, who formed an equal share partnership in the garage business on Feb. 1, 1922, which was dissolved by mutual consent on Sept. 24, 1923, Lambert asks for the appointment of a receiver. He alleges that the partners have been unable to agree since the dissolution of the business and that the receiver is needed to straighten out their affairs.

Mystic Partnership in Trouble.

Gustav Haulisch of Mystic who has been in partnership with his wife, Kate F. Haulisch, since 1918, under the firm name of H. & F. Haulisch in buying and selling groceries, vegetables, dry goods, millinery, etc., in Mystic, has brought suit in the superior court for the appointment of a receiver and distribution of the proceeds of the business. The plaintiff alleges that he and his wife are now estranged and living apart so that they cannot properly continue their status as co-partners. The store is on Greenmanville avenue, Mystic, having a garage property attached.

The store and goods and garage have been attached in an action brought by the Humphrey-Cornell Co., of New London and for some time has been in possession of a keeper under the attachment. There are 27 or more unsettled claims and demands against the partnership, amounting to $5,100, more or less.

Divorce Cases.

Other November suits are the following:

Florence Bowen Beebe of New London sues for divorce from Sherman C. Beebe, now of Los Angeles, whom she married Nov. 8, 1917. She alleges intolerable cruelty beginning Jan. 2, 1919, and she asks the custody of three minor children.

Howard P. Oram of New London seeks divorce from Mona Converse Oram, now of parts unknown. They were married May 1, 1910, and she alleges that she deserted him on Feb. 2, 1920.

Stanislava Ustaiceka of New London, who married Adam Ustaiceka March 1, 1908, asks divorce from him on the grounds of desertion since November 1, 1913. He is now of parts unknown.

SURPRISED ON 45TH ANNIVERSARY OF WEDDING

An event of more than ordinary interest took place in Baltic on Tuesday evening when 75 friends of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Stevens surprised them to observe the 45th anniversary of their marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Stevens were married in Orford, N. H., Oct. 23, 1878, by Rev. Francis Knowlton. Mrs. Stevens before her marriage was Miss Isabelle Morse. Previous to coming to Baltic Mr. and Mrs. Stevens resided in Providence, R. I.

The reception began at 8.30 when an address of congratulation was given by Mrs. Charles Perkins of Occum, after which pleasing solos were given by Mrs. William Wyatt of Providence, also instrumental solos by J. Heap of Baltic and Percy Spring of Pawtucket, R. I. At 10 o'clock the guests were invited to the main dining room which was attractively decorated. The flowers and decorations were by Smith, of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevens received a very choice and costly assortment of presents. Guests were present from Baltic, Norwich, Moosup, Wauregan, Providence, R. I., Boston, Stamford and Portchester, N. Y.

WATERFORD DOCTOR BOUND FOR SUPERIOR COURT TRIAL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 24.—Dr. Charles A. Gasson, chromopath, residing at Station 17, Waterford, who was taken into custody Monday night by County Detective William Lewis and Sergeant Clifford Gorgas of the state police on a warrant charging the physician with criminal abortion, was presented at 10 o'clock this morning before Justice of the Peace Thomas F. Morton in Firemen's hall, Waterford. Attorney Thomas E. Troland appeared for the state and Attorney Clayton B. Smith was counsel for Dr. Gasson. Attorney Smith entered a demurrer, which was overruled and Dr. Gasson was held for trial before the next term of the superior court in bonds of $10,000. Mrs. Jessie V. Bradley of 15 Tyler avenue, Eastern Point, and Mrs. Edna Gasson, wife of the accused, and the original sureties on the physician's bond, qualified as such today.

It was anticipated that testimony would be introduced at today's hearing, but no evidence was submitted. It was predicted that the New London young girl upon whom the alleged operation was performed would be on hand when court convened, but the state and defense both decided to withhold testimony until the trial of the accused.

TOTOKETT CO. SUPPLYING OCCUM WITH ENOUGH WATER

An item appearing under the news column of a neighboring village in Tuesdays Bulletin regarding the present water condition in the village of Occum was a trifle misleading. The common with other New England reservoir supplying the village, in cities and villages, is at a low point, a condition of which the Totokett Manufacturing company have taken advantage to enlarge its reservoir to nearly double its present capacity, the work having been given to a Norwich contractor who began work a few days since.

During the new work drinking water is being secured in both quantity and quality from wells in the village whose supply in the years past was supplemented to meet such an emergency as the present. During the past 18 years the company have supplied water for all purposes used by the Occum school free of charge which has been a heavy drain on the village supply.

STORROW WILL ADDRESS MANUFACTURERS ASSOCIATION

E. Kent Hubbard, president of the Manufacturers Association of Connecticut, announced Tuesday that James J. Storrow, chairman of the joint New England committee on railroad consolidation, had been secured by the association to speak at its annual meeting in New Haven on Nov. 13.

Mr. Hubbard, who is chairman of the Connecticut committee on railroad consolidation and a member of the joint New England committee, said that he felt greatly pleased that Mr. Storrow was able to come, in view of the hearings recently held in Boston on the question of railroad consolidation, of such interest to Connecticut manufacturers.

When asked for his opinion of the results of these hearings, Mr. Hubbard said that both he and Mr. Storrow felt not only greatly pleased but impressed at the presentation of testimony by the Connecticut organizations and at the quality of the testimony given.

"In my opinion," he said, "the united stand taken by Connecticut representatives, all of whom were heard early in the hearings, added greatly to the force and dignity of New England's opposition. Their statements were well prepared and were for that reason received with the utmost respect by the interstate commerce commission. What action will be taken by the commission which was represented in Boston by Commissioners Hall, Eastman and Cox," he added, "is of course beyond a forecast at the present time, but we have a consciousness of having presented the case for Connecticut as carefully as lay within our powers. Connecticut representatives were unanimous in believing that whatever differences there might be in the acceptance of the entire report of the Joint New England committee they were definitely in support of it insofar as it protected New England industries in respect to both rates and service, preserved the continuation of all present transportation routes over systems already in existence and maintained the present gateways with the utmost opportunity for competition.

"I think that all members of our Connecticut committee on railroad consolidation have come away from the hearings with a keen realization of the need for New England to stand together and staunchly support our railroads."

NORWICH WAS PERFECT ON PERSONAL TAX COLLECTION

Norwich, Groton, Old Lyme, New London and Saybrook were among the 35 towns reporting all personal taxes collected last year.

Bridgeport and New Haven were responsible for over half a total of $306,379 in uncollected personal taxes reported to the state tax department for the past year, based on the enrollment of 1921, according to tables compiled at the tax department Thursday for inclusion in the annual publication of the assessment and collection of taxes in the state.

In Bridgeport $94,880 remained uncollected at the close of the collection period, while in New Haven the total uncollected stood at $75,900. New Haven fell back into second place in this respect, having led the state with $80,900 uncollected in the previous year when Bridgeport reported $48,604 uncollected.

Hartford had the best record of any of the larger cities last year as for the previous year. It reported $6,466 uncollected on the list of 1921, for which collections were made last year, a slight reduction from the figure $9,764 representing the uncollected amount for the previous year. Waterbury, which had only $5,063 uncollected on the 1920 enrollment, has reported $48,800 uncollected last year on the 1921 enrollment. The figure for Greenwich was $20,800 last year, for Danbury $9,546, for New Britain, $4,944, for Bristol $3,402, for Manchester $3,946, for East Hartford $1,504 and for Meriden $1,978.

Seven Cities' Perfect Record.

Middletown, New London, Ansonia, Shelton, Stamford, Norwalk and Norwich are cities which reported perfect records, with no personal tax left uncollected. Similar reports were received from Cheshire, Middlebury, New Fairfield, Ashford, Canterbury, Sterling, Goshen, Torrington (which has since become a city), Thomaston, Woodbury, Chester, Clinton, Durham, Middlefield, Saybrook, Westbrook, Coventry, Avon, Granby, Marlborough, South Windsor, Wethersfield, Groton, Lisbon, Old Lyme, Bethlehem, New Milford and Salisbury.

The aggregate of uncollected personal taxes for the state $305,379, is an increase of $122,315 over the figures representing such uncollected taxes in the previous year.

With 49,810 names registered, New Haven has the largest personal tax for 1922, upon which collections are being made this year, followed by Hartford with 45,272, Bridgeport with 36,417 and Waterbury with 25,714. The Bridgeport enrollment fell off nearly 1,000 while that of New Haven increased about 3,000, that of Waterbury nearly 1,200 and that of Hartford about 2,500. The 1923 enrollment for the state totals 441,209, an increase of about 21,000 in one year.

Hartford spent $58,265 to cover the cost of collecting its taxes last year, Waterbury $33,905, Bridgeport $28,177.72 and New Haven $17,665.13.

9,062 AUTOS IN STATE ESCAPED TAX LISTS

Local assessors' reports to the state tax department from all the towns and cities in Connecticut disclose that 9,062 motor vehicles of an estimated value of $4,037,182 escaped taxation last year in the towns in which the owners lived and that the municipalities involved were thereby deprived of about $85,000 revenue in the aggregate.

It was also shown that about $27,000 was assessed in penalties against property owners who failed to file their tax lists with the assessors within the period provided by law. Property to the value of $13,044,594, which was not reported for assessment, was added to the state grand list by authority of the law which requires assessors to prepare lists in the case of owners who neglect or refuse to do so themselves. This was an increase of $1,012,436 over the estimated actual value of property thus added to the grand list in the previous year.

Non-residents were found to be the owners of property valued at $251,945,946, or about 12.5 per cent. of the state grand list, and $92,726,713 of that amount was contributed by Fairfield county, in which are located most of the residences of New Yorkers who cross the state line to live in Connecticut. New Haven county has a larger number of non-resident taxpayers, leading the state in this respect, but the aggregate of their holdings is in second place, at $66,164,980, owing to the fact that most of the non-resident owned property in New Haven county is in comparatively small plots at seashore resorts.

While Fairfield county reported 9,491 non-resident taxpayers, New Haven county reported 14,888, and Hartford county came third with 8,314 non-resident owners of property valued at $37,434,804, followed by New London county with $26,338,058 in such property, Litchfield county with $15,525,711, Middlesex county with $5,878,214, Windham county with $5,715,393, and Tolland county with $3,110,883.

The state tax department is urging local assessors to follow up motor vehicle registrations in order to assess all such property within their towns. Under the law, the motor vehicle department is required to furnish town clerks throughout the state with duplicate copies of registrations of all motor vehicles owned in the respective towns. Examination of motor vehicle department records showed that 143,430 motor vehicles had been registered in the aggregate as of the dates when the tax rates were due in the towns and cities. The assessors' reports showed, on the other hand, that only 143,428 motor vehicles were offered in the towns for taxation, a difference of 9,062. The estimated aggregate value of these cars which escaped taxation was computed by multiplying this figure by that of $446, representing the average assessment on motor vehicles throughout the state. The average tax rate for the state is 21.1 mills.

COMPENSATION FOR DEATH OF SON IN ELEVATOR SHAFT

In the workmen's compensation claim arising from the death of Emile Caron, Jr., of Baltic, who was killed by falling down the elevator shaft at the mill of the Baltic Mills Co., on September 18, 1923, Commissioner J. J. Donohue has awarded the father of the young man compensation at the rate of $5 per week for 312 weeks, with $100 for funeral expenses and any reasonable bills for medical attendance.

It is found that young Caron, who was 15 years old, fell down the shaft in some unknown way as there were no witnesses of the accident. He was one of six minor children in the family and had turned in all the earnings towards the support of the family, so that his father, Emile Caron of 148 Main street, Baltic, is found to be a partial dependent and thus entitled to the minimum amount of $5 per week compensation.

SEC'Y HUGHES RESTATES ATTITUDE OF U. S. ON THE ECONOMIC SITUATION IN EUROPE

In Reply to a Communication From Lord Curzon, the Secretary of State Reiterates That the United States Government Desires to Lend Its Assistance in Any Manner That May be Found Feasible—Declares That the United States Government is Willing to Take Part in an Advisory Economic Conference in Which All the European Allies Chiefly Concerned in German Reparation Participate for the purpose of Considering Capacity—Makes It Plain That the United States Has No Desire to See Germany Relieved of Her Responsibility or Just Obligations—That the Question of the Inter-Allied Debt is Entirely Separate From the Question of Reparations.

London, Oct. 25 (By the A. P.)—The British charge at Washington telegraphed to Lord Curzon on October 16 saying that the secretary of state had handed him a memorandum in reply to the communication which the charge had made to him in pursuance of instructions contained in Curzon's telegram of October 12. Following is the text of the memorandum:

"In reply to the communication from his majesty's charge d'affaires on October 13, the secretary of state desires again to express the deep interest of the United States in the economic situation of Europe and its readiness to aid in any practical way to promote recuperation and re-establishment of economic stability.

"The government of the United States has viewed with deep concern the lack, as his majesty's government expresses it, of that unity of thought on the part of the European powers essential to common action. The views of the government of the United States as to the importance of agreement amongst the allies and the relations of the government of the United States to the questions involved were set forth in the statement of the secretary of state to which his majesty's government refers, and these views are still held.

"It is observed that his majesty's government states that Great Britain and Germany made it clear that proferred assistance would be warmly welcomed by them and that his majesty's government has always heartily approved the suggestion then made by the secretary of state, whenever it has been revived, and that his majesty's government is aware that the sole reason why the proposal has not been proceeded with has been lack of unanimity among the interested powers. It believed that present conditions made it imperative that a suitable financial plan should be evolved, to prevent economic disaster in Europe, the consequences of which would be worldwide.

United States Willing.

"It is to be hoped that the existing circumstances are propitious for the consideration of such a plan, inasmuch as abandonment of resistance on the part of the German government will present freer opportunity and an immediate necessity for the establishment of an economic programme. The government of the United States is therefore entirely willing to take part in an economic conference in which all the European allies chiefly concerned in German reparation participate for the purpose of considering questions of the capacity of Germany to make reparations and an appropriate financial plan for securing such payment. It is deemed advisable, however, to emphasize the following points:

Believes Germany Should Pay.

"Firstly—Confirming what was said by the secretary of state in his statement of last December, to which you refer, the government of the United States has no desire to see Germany relieved of her responsibility for the war, or of her just obligations. There should be no ground for the impression that a London conference, if called, should have any such aim, or that resistance to the fulfilment of Germany's obligations has any support. It should be evident that in an effort to obtain the ends in view regard must be had to Germany's capacity to pay and to the fundamental condition of Germany's rehabilitation without which reparation payment is impossible.

Advisory Conference.

"Secondly—Such conference should be advisory; not for the purpose of binding governments who would naturally be unwilling to pledge their acceptance in advance, but to assure appropriate recommendations by a thoroughly informed and impartial body intent upon solving the difficult pending problems upon their merits.

Inter-Allied Debts Not Involved.

"Thirdly—The secretary of state notes the observation in the communication of his majesty's government that the European problem is of direct and vital interest to the United States, 'if, for no other reason, because the question of the inter-allied debt is involved therein.' The government of the United States has consistently maintained the essential difference between the questions of Germany's capacity to pay and of the practicability of methods to secure reparation payments from Germany, and payment by the allies of their debts to the United States, which constitute distinct obligations.

"In the statement of the secretary of state to which his majesty's government refers, it was said: 'The matter is plain enough from our standpoint. Germany's capacity to pay is not at all affected by any indebtedness of any or all the allies to us. That indebtedness does not diminish Germany's capacity, and its removal would not increase her capacity. For example, if France had been able to finance her part in the war without borrowing at all from us, that is, by taxation and internal loans, the problem of what Germany could pay would be exactly the same. Moreover, so far as the debtors to the United States are concerned, they have unsettled credit balances and their condition and capacity to pay cannot be properly determined until the amount that can be realized on these credits for reparations has been determined. The administration must also consider the difficulty arising from the fact that the question of these obligations we hold, and what shall be done with them, is not a question within the province of the executive. Not only may congress deal with public property of this sort, but it has dealt with it. It has created a commission, and, instead of giving that commission broad powers such as the administration proposed, which, quite apart from cancellation, might permit a sound discretion to be exercised in accordance with the facts elicited, Congress has placed definite restrictions upon the power of the commission in providing for the refunding of these debts."

No Desire to Be Oppressive.

"It is hardly necessary to add, as has frequently been stated by the United States government, that while the American people do not favor the cancellation of the allies' debts to the United States, or the transfer to the people of the United States of the burden of Germany's obligations directly or indirectly, the United States has no desire to be oppressive or to refuse to make reasonable settlements as to time and terms of payment, in full consideration of the circumstances of the allied debtors."

The secretary of state added that the establishment of sound economic conditions in Europe, the serious reduction of military outlays and the demonstration of a disposition on the part of the European peoples to work together to achieve the aims of peace and justice will not fail to have their proper influence upon American thought and purpose in connection with such an adjustment.

The memorandum continues: "In further reply to the communication of his majesty's government it may be said that the United States government is not in a position to appoint a member of the reparation commission, inasmuch as such an appointment cannot be made without the consent of congress.

"The secretary of state has no doubts, however, that a competent American citizen would be willing to participate in an economic inquiry for the purposes stated, through an advisory board appointed by the reparation commission to make recommendations, in case that course after further consideration should be deemed preferable. As to the further question whether American cooperation in an inquiry for the purposes desired, in the communication of his majesty's government, could be hoped for in case unanimity of the European powers could not be had, the United States government must again express the view that the question involved cannot finally be settled without the concurrence of the European governments directly concerned.

"Other governments cannot consent for them, and it would manifestly be extremely difficult to formulate financial plans of such importance and complexity without the participation of those whose assent is necessary for their fulfillment.

Reserves Decision.

"In view of the existing exigencies it is hoped that the project of such an inquiry as contemplated, of an advisory nature, might commend itself to all these powers and that the question suggested will not arise. But if it should arise from the lack of unanimity on the part of the European powers, the United States government must reserve decision as to its course of action, in order that the development of such a contingency may be fully considered and that course taken which will give the best promise of ultimate success in securing the desired end of re-establishment of essential conditions of European peace and economic restoration.

"To the attainment of that end it may be repeated that the United States government desires to lend its assistance in any manner that may be found feasible."

RABBI GLAZER CHALLENGES IMPERIAL WIZARD TO DEBATE

Washington, Oct. 25—Replies were issued here today on behalf of the national Catholic welfare conference and the executive committee of the assembly or orthodox rabbis of America to the address delivered at Dallas, Texas, last night by Dr. W. H. Evans, imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, outlining the Klan's attitude toward the Catholics and Jews.

Father John P. Burke, general secretary of the Catholic conference, declared Dr. Evans' statement regarding the Catholics in America had made the issue clear cut, adding that "it is for Americans to decide whether they will stand with their country or with the Klan."

Challenging the Klan to a joint debate, Rabbi Simon Glazer, of the Great Synagogue, of New York, declared the question at issue was whether they must first be converted as Americans.

"The statement reported in today's press as made by W. H. Evans, imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan," said Father Burke's statement, "reveals without further question the klan's intolerance for the negroes, Jews and Catholics. Up to the present, in spite of statement and evidence to the contrary, the klan has denied that it persecuted any of the above named.

"Evans states that the Catholic hierachy of the United States, the president of the United States is subordinate to the priesthood at Rome; that the parochial schools of the country are a proof of 'divided' allegiance on the part of Catholics. He offers no proof of these statements. He cannot offer proof. They are deliberate, malicious miscatements, refuted completely, if refutation were needed, by the official declaration of the American bishops on America's entrance into the war; by the thousands of Catholic dead buried overseas; by the fact that the first American officer killed was educated in a Catholic school, and the last American killed was a Catholic priest.

"The klan, through its official representative, sets at naught the declaration of independence, the constitution of the United States, and the constitution of every state in the Union. According to the klan the foundation on which our country was built, religious and racial tolerance, cannot endure."

TEMPORARILY RECEIVER FOR MANHASSET COMPANY

Willimantic, Oct. 25.—The application of William Metcalf of Providence, R. I., and others, for the appointment of a temporary receiver for the Manhassett Manufacturing company, operating tire and cotton fabric plants in Putnam, Conn., and Taunton, Mass., was granted by Judge L. F. Waldo Marvin in Windham county superior court here this afternoon. Judge Marvin appointed John B. Staugham of the City Manufacturing company of New Bedford, Mass., and Artemas C. Townsend, of Boston, temporary receivers under bonds of $75,000 each.

Attorneys for the Manhassett company admitted the concern was in financial straits as a result of attachments, other litigation and large outstanding notes. It was revealed that promissory notes outstanding against the company total $6,226,725, of which $5,051,248 now is due, or 89 per cent. of the entire indebtedness.

The creditors' committee, which sought the receivership, in addition to Mr. Metcalf, included Benjamin C. Chace, Jr., Pawtucket, R. I.; Raymond B. Cox, Boston; Henry B. Deming, Providence; G. Edwin Gregory, New York, and Florimon N. Howe, Providence.

A hearing on the appointment of the receivers and appraisers will be in Windham county superior court on November 9.

Make Flowers Bloom By Electric Lights

Scientists Put Flowers and Vegetables to Sleep and Awaken Them at Will.

New York, Oct. 25.—(By The A. P.)—Scientists announced today the successful completion of experiments, conduced by the Westinghouse Electric Manufacturing company in collaboration with Columbia university, which demonstrated that with artificial light they could put flowers and vegetables to sleep and awaken them at will, releasing them from the dominance of the sun.

Hereafter there need be no flower famines on national holidays, such as the reported $2,000,00 shortage in the lily crop last Easter day, the experimenters declared; nor a dearth of hothouse vegetables because of continuous sunless days.

The electric company announced its finds at the conclusion of months of tests in electrically lighted hothouses at Columbia university and at Baldwin, Long Island. There, they assert, they have been able, by using electric lights developing an intensity one fourth that of the sun's rays, to make flowers bloom at a pre-determined time, and to mature vegetables in from two to three weeks less time than normally transpires between planting and ripening.

The speeding up of vegetable growth is accomplished by the installation of "overtime" in the hothouses. The plants are permitted to sleep for an hour after sundown, as the experimenters described it. They get an hour's repose; then the electrics are turned on, and the flowers absorb the artificial light and heat as greedily as they do the sun's rays.

For five hours this process of enforced growth goes on, when the lights are dimmed and the plants permitted to snatch a bit of rest before the sun comes out to start them working again.

Carnations, lilies, poppies, dahlias, asters and roses respond to this treatment, the scientists declared. If the sun hides for a day or two, the electrics are substituted. Vegetables, they say, can be transplanted from the seed weeks before the sun usually attains sufficient warmth to keep them alive, and their maturity is correspondingly early.

For example the experimer promised to exhibit tomorrow, when the tests officially end, will be two bean plants, started in life simultaneously from twin seeds. One plant, restricted to the sun's rays is just beginning to blossom. The other, grown under a combination of sun and electric lights, has long pods, well developed. Lettuce, radishes, cabbage and a dozen other vegetables respond to the electric treatment in varying degrees say those in charge of the experiment.

LLOYD GEORGE WARMLY GREETED IN WASHINGTON

Washington, Oct. 25.—(By The A. P.)—David Lloyd George came to Washington today to find a friendly handclasp awaiting him at the official thresholds he crossed. There was almost no ceremony about this first visit of the sturdy little Welshman to the American capital. He spent the day making new acquaintanceships among the men who now guide American destinies and in an hour's fire-side chat with an old friend and colleagues of the trying months at Versailles.

The people of Washington got only a fleeting glimpse of the distinguished visitor as he was whirled here and there on his round of calls in an army automobile, but whenever he was identified there came again the applause and friendly greeting that has met him wherever he has gone in this country.

Even the staid customs of the state department yielded to the popularity of Britain's wartime premier and he entered Secretary Hughes' office on the first visit of the day with the handclapping of a hundred or more clerks ringing in his ears. He was almost compelled to force his way through the crowded corridor and he appreciated the greeting the more because of the contrast of this informality with the ways of Downing street.

Mr. Lloyd George met President Coolidge all the cabinet members and other high officials of the Washington government during the day, during his calls at the White House and the state department and at the White House luncheon he later attended conversation was general in its scope but it could not help but be tinged with the color of world events in which the men with whom he talked are sharing.

When he renewed his acquaintanceship with Woodrow Wilson, which began when the Versailles peace conference was assembled, it was indicated that world conditions of today rather than memories of yesterday were the basis on which the conversation turned.

In company with Mr. Wright and Mr. Chilton, Mr. Lloyd George later went to the state department to call upon Secretary Hughes. After remaining with the secretary for 25 minutes, he went to the White House for a 20 minute call upon President Coolidge, returning then to his hotel to rest for a few minutes before again going to the White House for luncheon.

Present at the luncheon in addition to the president and his entire cabinet were Chief Justice Taft, Mr. Chilton, Admiral Eberle, chief of naval operations; Major General Hines, deputy chief of staff, of the army, and C. Bascom Slemp, secretary to the president.

DOUBLE MURDER AND SUICIDE IN CINCINNATI

Cincinnati, Oct. 25.—What is believed by the police to be a double murder and suicide was discovered today when the bodies of John C. Hersh, 46, a musician and church choir director, his wife, Martha Wilson Hersh, and their son, John, Jr., 13, were found in their apartment here.

All three had been shot through the head. The bodies were lying across a bed. A revolver was clutched in the father's hand. The police believe that Hersh shot his wife and son while they were asleep, and then, lying down at their side, ended his own life. Detectives who investigated the triple killing advance the theory that the father feared a collapse of his son's health. They said that he was wrapped up in the boy, who was an only son. Several days ago the boy contracted a cold, but this was not serious. The youth, however, had aways been in delicate health.

BRITAIN AWAITS ANSWER FROM PREMIER POINCARE

Prime Minister Baldwin Has Asked the French Premier "to Consider, For Us and the World," Before Refusing Invitation to Consider Means of Reparations—Could Not Discuss the Matter Pending a Reply—Declares the Cabinet is Absolutely United in Regard to Great Britain's Foreign Affairs.

Plymouth, England, Oct. 25.—(By The A. P.)—Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, in his address at the Unionist party conference here today, said that the cabinet was absolutely united in regard to Great Britain's foreign affairs and that the ministers were determined to have the voice of England behind them in whatever they were going to do regarding Germa.

Mr. Baldwin said he had asked the French premier, M. Poincare, "to consider for himself, for us and for the world," before he refused the invitation to consider means of reparations. The prime minister declared that he was awaiting a reply before he could discuss the matter further.

The premier asserted that the government had a definite policy regarding reparations, debts, security for the allies, and fulfillment by Germany of her obligations. To secure common action, however, he added, was a much more important matter than policy.

He began his speech at 8.30 o'clock and chose his words carefully from notes. After the meeting he received a delegation of Irish unionists whom he promised reparations for their damages and sufferings.

The government, said the premier, had not followed up its recent note to France because it had been informed that the German resistance in the Ruhr was about to break down, and also because the premiers of the British dominions were on their way to London for the imperial conference. Now the premiers had met, and it was the voice of the united empire that spoke.

Mr. Baldwin declared that the government did not intend to proceed in the direction of currency inflation, and said no such project had been considered.

SHOPS AND POTATO FIELDS PILLAGED IN GERMANY

Berlin, Oct. 25.—Food rioting, the pillaging of shops and potato fields, and the inevitable sanguinary clashes between the hungry mob and police, continue to be the outstanding features of the news published in Germany, today's reports from more than fifty points throughout Germany yield an impressive cross-sectional view of the almost cataclysmic social situation in which all classes of the population are apparently being gradually engulfed.

The recurring dearth of bread and potatoes is the universal source of the rioting, and such relief measures as the government hastily devises invariably founded on the price confusion caused by the rapidly deteriorating currency.

Berlin as today again the scene of boisterous rioting, crowds storming the bakeshops and public markets in various sections of the capital. About a thousand men, women and children this morning invaded the municipal potato fields in the eastern suburbs and, when these were exhausted, proceeded to loot private premises. The police were forced to intervene and in the ensuing disorder a boy of 18 was shot dead and a little girl seriously wounded.

Reports from a half dozen mining centers in the Ruhr indicate that the food situation there is daily becoming more chaotic continually calling for armed intervention by the local authorities to put down the outbreaks. The mid-German, East Prussian and Silesian districts and the harbor cities are also contributing regular quotas of riot news in connection with the food situation, which is invariably complicated by the discrepancy between the current prices and the wages as paid in paper marks.

A loaf of bread which cost 5,000,000 marks two days ago could not be purchased today for less than twice that figure, and only limited supplies were available.

SEPARATISTS NOT MAKING PROGRESS IN RHINELAND

Paris, Oct 25 (By the A. P.)—The separatist movement in the Rhineland does not seem from advices reaching Paris to have made any real progress today.

Some more insignificant towns were reported to have proclaimed the republic, which seemingly means that a body of the separatists arrived at a city hall and took possession without any attempt having been made to prevent the occupation.

At Wiesbaden efforts to recapture buildings held by the separatists met with failure. The shops in Duisburg remain closed. The separatists holding public buildings were forced to take measures to stop pillaging.

Committees were formed at Treves and Bonn to administer the town under separatist rule. The movement in the Bavarian palatinate is described by the French press as an attempt to form a republic under the German government—that is, an attempt to separate the palatinate from the Munich government, but not from Germany.

PRINTERS CAN'T STRIKE; MUST PRINT BANKNOTES

Berlin, Oct. 25 (By the A. P.)—Otto Gessler, minister of defense, has replied to the challenge of the printers that they will continue on strike by issuing a decree through the military commander in Berlin forbidding strikes in works of vital necessity, including those where banknotes are printed, and providing penalties of fine and imprisonment for disobedience. It is believed, therefore, that the present strike will be short lived.

The Reichsbank again today was unable to comply with demands for currency. It will shortly issue notes in denomination of one trillion marks. The public is completely puzzled over the present day currency figures, and it is commonly observed that only astronomers, accustomed to dealing with the infinite, can understand the mass of figures which the Reichsbank issues nowadays.

FORD IS FOR COOLIDGE, IF COOLIDGE IS FOR PROHIBITION

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 25—Henry Ford is "for President Coolidge—strong," if he makes a sincere effort to enforce the prohibition law, according to a copyrighted story published by the Detroit Free Press. Mr Ford said he was sure the incumbent of the White House could dry up the country, if he wanted to, according to the story.

"If he does, I'm for him—strong," Mr. Ford is quoted as saying. "The president knows it is the right thing to do."

Expressing his own policy in regard to the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment, Mr. Ford reiterated his statement of a month ago that he "would order out the army and navy if necessary," to see that the law was enforced.

Referring to the enforcement of the prohibition law, Mr. Ford said:

"The president knows it is the right thing to do. He knows, also, the women of the nation are going to have a lot to say if he doesn't act. Not one women in 1,000—yes, not one in 5,000—wants the old days back."

AWARDED NOBEL PRIZE FOR DISCOVERY OF INSULIN

Stockholm, Oct. 25 (By the A. P.).—The Nobel prize for medicine for 1923 has been awarded to Dr. F. G. Banting and Dr. J. J. R. M. MacLeod of Toronto for their discovery of insulin.

Dr. F. G. Banting, the discoverer of insulin for the treatment of diabetes, is a graduate of the University of Toronto, 1916, and served in France with the Canadian army medical corps. He is about 30 years of age. His experiments, in which he was aided by Dr. J. J. R. MacLeod, head of the department of physiology of the University of Toronto, and Dr. C. H. Best, were carried out in 1922 in the Toronto General hospital and other institutions.

When the inspiration came to Dr. Banting which led to the discovery of insulin, which is based on the action of the secretions of the pancreas in relation to the oxidation of sugar, he was attached to the staff of the Western universityy, London, Ontario. He eventually resigned from this post to return to Toronto university, where he was accorded all assistance and facilities for his experiments.

ELECTIONS IN GREECE DEC. 2, AS SCHEDULED

Washington, Oct. 25.—Elections are expected to be held in Greece as scheduled, on Dec. 2, despite the counter-revolutionary movement, according to a message to the state department from the American legation at Athens transmitting assurances given by the present government authorities there. The legation was informed that the navy had remained loyal to the present government and that disturbances in Macedonia and Thrace had been put down with some bloodshed.

MAY OMIT CONN. WINTER EXPOSITION THIS YEAR

Hartford, Oct. 25.—Unless a trades manager for the Connecticut Winter exposition is secured by the executive committee within a few days there is danger of the annual exhibition not being held this winter. At a meeting of the executive committee today in the capitol, Prof. William F. Kirkpatrick of the Connecticut Agricultural college, who has held the position of manager for the past five years, resigned, saying that his duties with the college and the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment station would not permit him to handle the work again.

The state armory has been reserved for a week in the middle of January this year for the exhibition. At the meeting of the executive committee today there was a strong sentiment expressed to give up the annual affair this year because of Professor Kirkpatrick's resignation. But there was a stronger sentiment that such action would be detrimental to the interests of the state, and a special committee, consisting of Chairman Leonard H. Healey, Treasurer Charles A. Thompson and the trades manager, was appointed to secure a new manager. This committee will report to a meeting of the executive committee next Thursday.

MRS. ROGERS COMMENTS UPON HER REMOVAL

Hartford, Oct. 25.—Mrs Helen Rogers of Hamden, removed by Governor Charles A. Templeton yesterday as a director of the state farm for women, today issued a statement in reply to that action, stating that the governor's conditions as expressed by him were not a surprise to her. She said that she did not believe anyone would question the governor's legal right to remove her, but she thought the public would not agree that he had "the moral right to remove a member of an unpaid board who had loyally served for the best ends of the institution."

Mrs. Rogers again asserted that she had not had a chance to defend herself against specific charge, but had only been confronted with general ones. As in previous statements during the controversy Mrs. Rogers criticised the administration of the institution and claimed the board of directors "lacked stamina" to deal with conditions which existed there.

GREAT INCREASE IN GASOLINE CONSERVAT...

New York, Oct. 25.—A striking increase in gasoline consumption is portrayed in a report issued today by the Mining and Metallurical Society of America.

The report shows that in August this year the consumption was at the rate of 19 billion gallons annually compared with 9 1-2 billion in the corresponding period of 1917.

Thursday's session of the Windham county superior court was not opened until late, due to a conference between interested attorneys and Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin in regard to appointing a receiver for the Manhassett Manufacturing Company, a Massachusetts corporation, located in Putnam, Conn.

Three cases were assigned for Thursday: The first was that of Edgard A. Gooding of Canterbury vs. Frener A. Rice of Chaplin. A settlement was reached Thursday morning by Attorneys Charles L. Torrey for the plaintiff and William A. Kibbe for the defendant. The case was one of long standing, dating back to the summer of 1917 and the trouble arose over wages, the plaintiff claiming that the defendant owed him $135.

The case of Dr. Frederick C. Jackson vs. Frank Rosen was put over for re-assignment. This action was over a small dental bill. The case was tried before Justice of the Peace Curtis Dean several months ago and a decision was handed down for the plaintiff. At the time an appeal was taken to the superior court. Attorney Samuel B. Harvey appeared for the defense and Attorney Frank H. Foss represented Dr. Jackson.

Judge Marvin opened court at 12.47 o'clock and immediately called for a recess until 1 o'clock. When court convened, the case of Herbert L. Switzer vs. Peter and Anthony Turanasky was taken up, with Attorney S. R. Harvey for Switzer and Attorney T. J. Kelley for Turansky brothers. The case is the outcome of a replevin action brought by Dr. Switzer to recover three mole skins which he left with Turansky brothers to be cut and made over into a womans fur coat and two caps. The furs were replevined and in justice court decision was rendered for Switzer, December 30, 1922. An appeal was taken to the higher court. Judge Marvin reserved decision in the case. Adjournment was taken at 3.45 o'clock.

Of the new Horseshoe bridge over the Natchaug river in lower village the structure proper is now complete and was christened Thursday morning by Third Selectman Charles Larrabee of Windham who was the first man to drive his car over the bridge. The work of grading the approaches to the bridge and erecting the guide fences remains to be done and the bridge will not be open to traffic until about the first of November.

The structure is a handsome one and a credit to the town of Windham. Serving as a link between Willimantic and the main highways running through it and Windham Center, from where highways run to Norwich, Scotland and on, the bridge is constructed to afford ample room for heavy traffic and to bear the weight of the heaviest truck without strain. The large steel spans have a concrete flooring and there is a four foot wide sidewalk.

At the home of Byron Potter there was an enjoyable party recently, on the eighty-third birthday of Mrs. Fannie Martin, aunt of Mrs. Potter. Neighbors and friends, numbering eighteen, attended and Mrs. Martin was presented many gifts, including generous sums of money. Mrs. Martin's pastor, Rev. A. Stanley Muirhead was one of the visitors.

At a meeting of the Jewish young people of this city and vicinity, held in the synagogue on Bank street, dues were fixed at 25 cents per month and officers were elected as follows: President, Helen Cohen; vice president, Rubin Gluskin; secretary, Anna Bycel; treasurer, Hyman Chasen. The question of how to properly celebrate this year's Chanukah Festival was taken up and upon the advice of Elias Halm, the Hebrew language and religious instructor of the school, action was postponed until a later meeting.

Joseph Brown, owner of the old Eaton farm, at Mansfield, will take advantage of the city's laxity in not reconstructing its burned-down ice houses this year, if such is the case, by constructing two more houses which will give him a total of five houses in which to store his ice. Last year Brown harvested an ice crop of 7,000 tons but he has set his quota at 12,000 this year. A statement was printed a few days ago that Mr. Brown's ice houses had been cleaned out, but he claims that this is not the case. He has fully one hundred tons in storage at his plant, enough for about twelve weeks. If the new crop is not ready at that time it will be necessary for him to import ice.

Neighbors' Night was held at the Methodist church, Thursday evening, in connection with the 56th anniversary celebration. The weather had cleared and the attendance was even larger than on the previous nights. Delegations were present from the protestant churches in the city and vicinity. The service was held in the auditorium and Bishop Charles Wesley Burns, D. D., of Helena, Mont., preached a most inspiring sermon on "To Serve the Present Age."

The morning service Sunday, the closing day of the anniversary week, will be held at 10.30 instead of 10.45 due to the musical programme to be carried out. Rev. James A. Beebe, dean of Boston University School of Theology, is to preach the sermon.

The second day in which a series of speeches was given here by the Flying Squadron, was attended by a larger audience than on the first day. Thursday afternoon and evening Colonel Alfred D. Maudy, educator and lecturer, a native of Illinois was heard on the subject of Americanization and Education. The engagement is to be brought to a close today (Friday) when Oliver W. Stewart and Rev. Norma Camille Brown will be the speakers. The Flying Squadron Foundation was organized in 1914 and had for its goal the enactment of a national prohibition law. Oliver W. Steward and Ex-Governor Hanley were the leaders of the movement. At the onset of the speaking tour there were nine dry states in the Union and when the first tour was completed there were thirty-three.

At the meeting of Canton Windham, No. 2, P. M. I. O. O. F., this (Friday) evening, preparation will be made for the annual inspection November 9th. Major R. N. Woodworth of New London, will be the inspecting officer.

After the long drought, it has rained and rained heavily, and the residents of the rural districts in this section are happy. Brooks and wells had gone dry and many farmers had to carry water for live stock. The rivers and brooks are now above normal. The supply reservoir at Mansfield, which furnishes water for the use of the city, was practically dry, but the water running over the dam Thursday was over eight inches.

A certificate of incorporation of Dr. Thomas J. Keegan Company, Inc., of Hartford, was filed this week in the office of the secretary of state in Hartford. The authorized capital is $4,000 and the corporation will begin business with $4,000. The incorporators are: Dr. Thomas J. Keegan, Michael P. Driscoll and Mary F. Driscoll, of Willimantic.

A. Bernier has completed the work of dismantling his bar at 836 Main street and intends to establish a pool room and cigar store.

In response to the appeal of the Visiting Nurses' association for funds the sums of $25 was voted at the regular meeting of Natchaug lodge, No. 22, Knights of Pythias.

Invitation cards have been received to the wedding of Earl Lyon Batty and Miss Helen Johnson, to take place November 10.

Dr. Laura H. Hills has been confined to her home in Lebanon with illness.

Rev. Leonard Smith, a member of the Mansfield town school committee, contends that the action taken at the special town meeting of Mansfield this week, in voting to engage a special musical instructor for the schools of the town is illegal. Rev. Mr. Smith was not present at the special town meeting but he refers to Section 556 of the General Statutes which plainly states that such can only be decided upon at the annual town meeting. This difference of opinion has stirred Mansfield to a considerable extent and there is the possibility that the opposition to the movement may take action to block the hiring of the instructor. Rev. Mr. Smith believes that music should be taught by the teachers of the various schools.

Charles H. Caswell of this city has been teaching singing in thirteen grammar schools in Mansfield for the past year at a salary of $600. A portion of the amount is refunded by the state. Mr. Caswell visited the schools once every two weeks but of necessity lost much time going from one to the other as they are a good distance apart. Mansfield is the largest town in the state, in regard to area.

There was some opposition in some quarters to the hiring of a musical instructor, to conform with Section 45 of the General Statutes. In the calls for the Mansfield annual town meeting, a clause was inserted calling for a vote on the matter. Judge George H. Andrews was moderator. That particular clause excited as much, and more interest in some, than the levying of a tax rate.

The vote on the question resulted in a tie, 62-62 and at the suggestion of Sheriff Fred O. Vinton the moderator was asked to cast the deciding ballot.

Judge Andrews voted against the proposition and it was lost, but not for long. The pros got together and filed a petition for a special town meeting. The opinion of Attorney William A. King, counsel for the town of Mansfield, was sought and he declared that the action was legal. At the special meeting the opposition were handed a proper trimming with a vote of 65 for and 36 against. Mr. Caswell was engaged as instructor for the ensuing years.

Rev. Leonard Smith and a substantial following of the opposition party are out to go the favorable party one better and prove that their action was illegal.

The Nathan Hale Donation Fund now amounts to about $15,000, according to an announcement made Thursday by Attorney Curtis Dean treasurer of the board of trustees. The fund was established in 1806 by a will of Mrs. Sarah Hale, widow of Major John Hale. The latter was a brother of Nathan Hale who was shot as a spy by the British during the Revolutionary war. By the terms of the will 1,000 pounds was bequeathed for the establishment of a fund and the following trustees were appointed for the execution of the document: Jonathan Trumbull of Lebanon; Jesse Root of Coventry; Rev. Abiel Abbott of Coventry; Dr. Ebenezer Hunt of Coventry; Rev. Amos Bassett of Hebron; Rev. Solomon Cone of Colchester and Rev. John Sherman of Mansfield.

The amount stated was to be utilized as a fund, which was to be managed and directed so that an income would be derived. The one thousand pounds amounted to $3,333.33 at the time. One-sixth of the income was to be added to the principal yearly. One-tenth of the remaining five-sixths was to be directed to the purchase of volumes for the Hale library, Coventry while the remaining nine-tenths was to be used in assisting deserving young men in procuring instruction for the ministry and missionary work in the Christian religion.

The Hale library has been established and has now from 1,600 to 1,700 volumes in circulation. The library is in South Coventry. Five hundred and fifty young men were given assistance to the amount of $30,000 in securing ministry and missionary instruction. The Hale Donation has since been incorporated and celebrated its centennial in 1904. The present board of trustees comprises: Rev. H. C. McKnight of North Coventry, president; Rev. Charles G. Johnson of South Coventry, Rev. Harris E. Starr, of New Haven, Rev. John G. Talcott, of Talcottville, H. C. Lathrop, Windham Center, Rev. Marshall Dawson of Storrs and Attorney Curtis Dean of South Coventry.

NORWICH TOWN

Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey returned Tuesday evening from Springfield, Mass., where he attended the national council of Congregational churches of America, in session from Tuesday, Oct. 16, to the 24th, inclusive. Meetings were held in the Auditorium, which has a seating capacity of 4,500, and has one of the finest organs in the country; also in the First Congregational church, situated on Court square, opposite the Auditorium.

Rev. Mr. Bailey, who was an official delegate from the New London association of Congregational churches and ministers, spent a full week in Springfield and attended 14 of the devotional periods, 15 business sessions, listened to 61 addresses, and was present at four conferences, covering 56 solid hours. In addition Rev. Mr. Bailey joined the delegation of 500 who took a 75 mile automobile trip Thursday afternoon of that week, visiting Mt. Holyoke, Amherst, Massachusetts Agricultural and Smith colleges. In the evening the delegation were guests of the Holyoke churches at dinner and attended services there.

While in Springfield, Rev. Mr. Bailey was the guest of G. Avery Ray and took an evening off Friday to attend with Mr. Ray the Brotherhood banquet held in Hope church.

Sunday morning the delegates attended the various churches in Springfield, and Rev. Mr. Bailey worshipped with the people of Hope church, where Rev. Ernest Bourne Allen, D. D., of Toledo, preached the sermon. An impressive panorama from world-wide work gave variety to the council program and brought its message through the eye-gate. The Fisk jubilee singers and a double male quartet from South Dakota enriched the program from day to day. The general theme of the council was The Mind of Christ Dominating Life.

The following was the enrollment of delegates: Honorary 282, voting 555, young people 400, associate 1,903, a total of 3,140.

Herbert L. Yerrington, who was in attendance at the national council of Congregational churches in Springfield, was a guest for a few days at the home of G. Avery Ray, formerly of Norwich.

At the church night service of the First Congregational church the theme was The Eternity of God.

The Home Missionary society of the Congregational church is to meet this (Friday) afternoon at the home of Mrs. Dwight L. Underwood. Members have been requested to furnish their own work for the afternoon, to consist of something suitable for a sale. It is planned to send soon a box to Miss Ruth Beebe in Athens, Ala. Clothing, articles for Christmas gifts, and especially pieces of new cloth which she could use in her sewing class, have been suggested, as most of the pupils are not able to furnish their own materials.

Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, pastor of the United Congregational church, is to conduct the Sunday afternoon service at the Sheltering Arms.

Under the auspices of Rainbow circle of the King's Daughters, the musical hour at the Backus hospital on Sunday afternoon is to be in charge of Dr. Charles H. Lamb.

The meeting at Scotland Road hall Sunday afternoon will be in charge of Howard Bushnell. Herbert E. Hicks of Hartford, field secretary of Christian Endeavor for Connecticut, who is conducting meetings in Norwich and surrounding towns for a period of two weeks beginning Tuesday of this week, will have an important part in the meeting, during which he will make special reference to the young people and their C. E. society in that vicinity.

CANTERBURY PLAINS

Eighteen members of Canterbury grange went to Pachaug Thursday night and furnished the program.

Canterbury grange will furnish the literary program at the Ponoma meeting at Brooklyn Saturday, Oct. 27.

Fred and Albert Hicks, also Grace L. Dewley, were in Norwich Saturday.

Charles Moffitt and family were Norwich callers Sunday, bringing home with them Mr. Moffitt's sister, Mrs. Herbert Lees.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Richmond and son of South Windham were callers in town Sunday, as were also Mr. and Mrs. Ingalls.

The W. C. T. U. meeting was held with Mrs. Charles Barstow this week.

John Crofts of Hanover was a caller on Mrs. Emily Bushnell Sunday.

Emma and Lucy Eastlund and Gertie Hansen of Killingly High school were home over the week end.

Mrs. Mary John and family made a business trip to Norwich Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Burdick, who have been on a short wedding trip to Brooklyn, N. Y., and Long Island, where they visited Mr. Burdick's sister and parents, will reside with Mrs. Burdick's parents at present.

NORWICH DIST. CONFERENCE AT ROCKVILLE A SUCCESS

The annual conference of the Norwich District of the Ministerial Association which opened at Rockville Methodist church Monday afternoon, came to a close late Tuesday after a very successful session. The program opened at 2 o'clock Tuesday morning with a large attendance. Rev. W. H. Bath, of Norwich, superintendent of the district was in charge of the meeting.

Among the speakers were Rev. William H. Bath on "Achievements and Goals," Rev. H. L. Wilbur on "The Church and War," Rev. M. E. Gentes on "The Man Power of the Church" Relations," Rev. A. Stanley Muirhead on "The Man Power of the Church" and Rev. W. E. Paxton on "Reconstruction of Religion."

In the colder months, we naturally use a heavier diet than in Summer and this is proper—Foods that produce heat are needed. But these heat supplying foods should be balanced by some green, bulky and succulent materials and for this purpose nothing is as valuable as fresh vegetables.

The list of vegetables offered this week includes Cabbage, Spinach, Celery and Celery Hearts, Beets, Carrots, Turnips, Winter Squash, Pie Pumpkins, Lettuce and Parsley.

These items are locally grown and of first quality.

Vegetables, freely used through the Winter, will go far toward making Spring tonic unnecessary.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Edgar Auger, 22, of Putnam, was bound over to the superior court under bonds of $5,000 Thursday morning after a hearing before Judge W. Penner Woodward of the town court. Probable cause having been found for holding him on a statutory charge preferred against him by Miss Grace Louise Belisle of Dayville, a girl who passed her 14th birthday in April. Auger did not testify in the case, his Attorney, Irving H. Miron, of Putnam, electing to wait his client's presentation in the superior court before disclosing his defense. In addition to the complaint in the case, her sister, Miss Berbice Belisle, and Daniel LaBonte, also of Putnam, testified for the state. Further details relative to the case appear in the Putnam news this morning.

The item that appeared in the column Thursday morning relative to a little newspaper published in Brooklyn, in September 1873, and items from it aroused much more than passing interest. Older residents of Brooklyn and Danielson were particularly interested in it, for it serves to recall to them, as it was news to the younger generation, that Brooklyn in those days was more of a mercantile and industrial center than it is this day, though with the passing years the beautiful village had lost not a whit of its charm or beauty. Not a firm is doing business in Brooklyn today of all those advertisements in the issue quoted, though some of the proprietors are still in the territory or in nearby towns. The years have brought many changes in things and people—a fact that was borne home to those who lived hereabouts in the days when those mentioned in The Reporter published 44 years ago.

There is some satisfaction in recording this morning that no serious accidents occured on Dark Lantern Hill, during the heavy rains of the past few days. One opinion given expression Thursday as the reason for this was that it stormed so hard that none but fure devils would operate a car during such weather only with extreme caution. Which contention strengthens the argument that Dark Lantern Hill is no more dangerous than several other hills on state highways in eastern Connecticut if care are operated upon it with due care. Traffic has been heavy over the hill during the rains, but the drivers were not taking the chances with speed or careless driving anywhere along the road so approached the hill with their machines under control and experienced no difficulty in making the descent in safety, as all drivers who know the hill have done since the new road was opened.

The Bat, a play that has interested hundreds of of thousands of Americans since it was first produced, was presented to a large audience at the Orpheum Theatre Thursday evening. The play, presentey by a cast of exceptional ability, was well received and further established the fact that the new management of the theatre has arranged for the best entertainments possible to obtain for a town the size of Danielson.

Roof water will again be provided for the borough farm, off lower Dyer street, as the result of Warden W. A. Burrows, completing negotiations for the purchase of about 30 square feet of land in which a spring rises and from which water is being piped to the house on the borough farm property. The spring rights have been acquired from Joseph Guilette for $100. Recently, at a special borough meeting, the matter of providing an ample supply of good water for the borough farm was taken up, it being pointed out at the meeting that the supply of water on thefarm had become contaminated and is unfit for use, even cattle refusing to drink it. In view of this condition, the meeting authorized the acquiring of other suitable water supply.

It is believed that the old water supply for the farm has been spoiled as the result of seepage from a pond into which all kinds of refuse had been dumped for several years, this pond across the highway to the borough farm.

While little remained to be done along that line in the town of Killingly such bars as remain must be removed from places where liquor formerly was sold. It is a matter of fairness to Danielson to say that not one bar will have to be taken out within the limits of the borough. The one bar that remained here was taken out nearly a month ago. There is only one other bar in the town of Killingly, and that is in a building not in use for the sale or liquor, and the bar itself has been in disuse for years.

Requests for the removal of bars in towns hereabouts have come from the office of States Attorney Charles E. Searls of Putnam. The requests have been generally complied with, but in instances where they have not been recognized they will be followed by the issuance of positive orders to take out the bars, and if the orders are not obeyed the state will see to it on its own account that they are taken out.

Writing from East Killingly, Judge James N. Tucker says: There continues a gratifying patronage of our branch of the Danielson public library. New books continue to be added, and some weeks the number of books out is nearly 50 per cent. of the total number available. We are willing to wager that, proportionate to population our patronage exceeds the public library patronage in any of the larger cities. And they are good books too: an excellent selection of wholesome fiction, besides works of historical, biographical and scientifical value.

Numbers of Danielson's citizens are now regularly contributing to the funds of the Anti-Saloon league in Connecticut. This organization, operating throughout the state, is engaged in seeking a moreeffective enforcement of the liquor laws and cooperates with the state police in an effort to bring about this end.

On account of the fact that Teachers' conventions are scheduled to be held today in Hartford, New Haven, Norwich and Providence there will be no sessions of the schools here. Members of the faculty have elected to attend conventions in different cities, according to their desires.

No adjustment has been brought in the strike of operatives of 3-ply twisters at the plant of the Connecticut Mills here. The operatives in some instances repeated on Thursday that they felt physically unable to meet the demands that would be made on their strength and validity by operating the number of machines that would be required of them under the proposed arrangement. The mill continued to operate as usual Thursday.

Present indications appear to be that the town hall will not likely figure further in any boxing or athletic events of a professional nature. It was stated Thursday that the bleachers now in the hall will probably be taen out and used in some new location Thus, after much fuss and fuming, and after the town showed by a vote at the annual town meeting that it was not averse to leasing the hall for professional athletic events, the hall may not be used again, for it is believed better places will be available —places free from the possibility of all controversy as to what legitimate uses they are put.

Conrad H. Michaelis has sold his Danielson inn property to Frederick C. Newberry, of Hartford. Mrs. Mary A. Creighton lessee of the inn, will continue her business interests at the property.

Rev. John F. Quinn returned Thursday to his pastorate at Windsor, this state, after visiting for a few days at his home on Maple street.

Henry D. Loomis of Southbridge was a visitor with friends in Danielson Thursday.

PUTNAM

One more automobile was reduced to a condition of wreckage Thursday morning when it crashed into a wall on the state highway between this city and Pomfret while it was being given a try out after an overhauling at a local garage.

As a result of the accident Oliver Godreau of Main street, Goodyear, is a patient at the Day Kimball hospital, and there were indications while he was under observation Thursday afternoon that he has a broken collar-bone and may be internally injured.

Delphis Godreau, owner of the car and brother of the injured man, was a passenger in the machine, which was being driven at the time of the accident by William Ziasa, a mechanic at the garage where the machine had been given attention. Michael Robello of Boys street, Goodyear, was the fourth person in the car.

The evidence is that the car was being driven at high speed, just before the accident, which occurred just after the car came upon two loads of wood being drawn along the state highway. The machine crashed into a stone wall and was so badly damaged that it would be difficult for one to realize that it was a new machine about two months ago. Excepting for the man who is in the hospital, the others in the car were not seriously injured. Officer Stephens from the state police barracks at Danielson made an investigation of the accident.

After a hearing at the town court in Danielson, Thursday morning, Edgar Auger, 23, was found guilty and on probable cause held under bonds of $35,000 for a ppearance at the next term of the Windham county superior court having criminal jurisdiction. Auger is a resident of this city, married, has two children and is known as a former member of the navy.

His arrest was on complaint of Grace Louise Belisle, 14, of Dayville, who testified in court Thursday morning that he assaulted her on the evening of Sunday, October 14, when she left an automobile with him near Alexander's lake. She had been in this city with her sister, Miss Bernice Belisle, 17, also of Dayville, to attend a picture show, after which they accepted an offer of a ride home in an automobile. They entered the machine, a small coupe, with Daniel LaBonte of this city and the accused in the case.

In court at Danielson, Thursday morning, the Misses Belisle and La Bonte all appeared against Auger as witnesses for the state, and on their testimony cause was found for holding Auger for trial at the superior court. Attorney Irving H. Miron of this city, representing Auger, did not offer any testimony in behalf of his client at Thursday's hearing, preferring to await presentation of the case in the superior court.

During Thursday an effort was being made of obtain bonds for Auger, but this had not been accomplished up to late in the afternoon.

Another Putnam young man was first taken into custody to answer to the charges now prefered against Auger, through a case of mistaken identity the the complainant in the case believing, it is understood, that some young man other than Auger was her assailant on the night of the occurrence over which court action has resulted.

Interest was well maintained throughout the auction sale of the machinery and equipment of the Powhattan mill and the Morse mill, which sale was opened Wednesday and continued during Thursday. The buyers of the machinery and equipment have a little more than a month in which to remove their purchases from the plants where they are now installed. The mills were sold Wednesday with the understanding that the buyers of the machinery and other things offered for sale should have free access at reasonable times within the period provided for removing the machinery, which will scattered far and wide because of the sale, for taking away other purchases out of the 1930 lots in which the machinery and equipment was divided for sale purposes.

Deputy Judge Archibald Macdonald presided at Thursday morning's session of the city court, at which cases arising out of a collission of automobiles in the storm of Wednesday evening developed the fact that one car was without proper lights and that the driver of the other machine did not have his registration or operator's license with him. One of the machines, driven by Newell G. Bethel, was from the Marot school at Thompson. This car had defective headlights. The other machine was driven by Edwin S. Adams, who did not happenn to have his papers with him. Both were fined in court and paid. The machines, which crashed while it was raining—out on the route to the children's home—were considerably damaged.

H. Nelson Street, secretary of the Retail Merchants' Division of the Providence Chamber of Commerce, will speak on Credits next Monday evening when the Putnam Chamber of Commerce holds the second of a series of general meetings at the Putnam Inn. A supper is to be a feature of this gathering of the local organization.

Putnam and Pomfret people are interested in the fact that G. Lawrence Perkins was one of the guests Wednesday evening at a banquet at the Hotel Ambassador in New York at a society event about which one of the papers published in that city had the following to say Thursday:

Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons gave a dinner dance last evening at the Ambassador in honor of Miss Emily O'Neill Davies, whose marriage with her son, William H. Vanderbilt, will take place on Thursday, Nov. 1, in Grace church.

Among the guests were the Spanish Ambassador and Mme. de Riano, Lady Cheylmore, the Hon. Mrs. Coventry, Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Polk, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Iselin, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Iselin, Mr. and Mrs. du Lancey Kountze, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth T. Budd, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Whitehouse, Mr. and Mrs. Ogden H. Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver G. Jennings, Mr. and Mrs. Amos T. French, Mr. and Mrs. Philip W. Livermore, Mrs. Frederick Martin Davies, Col. and Mrs. Gilbert Hamilton, Miss Louise Iselin, Grafton Dulany Cushing, Edgar H. Wells, Lawrence S. Butler, George Muirson Woolsey, G. Lawrence Perkins, Charles D. Draper, Archibald B. Thacher, Jr., Henry Whitehouse and members of the bridal party.

Mrs. Silas M. Wheelock, Mrs. George W. Gilpatric, Mrs. Mary B. Bishop, all of this city, and Miss Sarah Grosby of Thompson will motor to Farmington today (Friday) to attend the historical meeting and luncheon of the Founders and Patriots society of America.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Brady, who came here to attend the funeral of Stephen Brady, have returned to New York.

For the time being at least the menace of forest fires due to hunters frequenting the woods has been largely removed as the result of heavy rains that have thoroughly saturated all the country side.

Up to Thursday the moonlight nights on which so many counted for enjoyment have not amounted to much as all have been cloudy or rainy.

The Fool—one of the finest theatrical attractions that Putnam people have been privileged to see here in a long time—drew a capacity audience to the Bradley theatre Thursday evening. The attendance was representative not only of Putnam, but also of all the territory from which Putnam draws trade and theater audiences.

The Quinebaug river continued to rise during Thursday and is now the highest level it has reached in several months. Water from the stream is again ample for power purposes in plants along its course.

NORTH LYME

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Eddy, Miss Elizabeth and Francis Eddy of Pittsfield, Mass., were week end visitors at the home of W. M. Sisson, Jr.

Leslie Rogers and family and H. Conway and family of Old Lyme were visitors at G. H. Strong's Sunday.

Miss Emily Stark and Mrs. J. L. Raymond exhibited antique articles at an exhibit held in the First Baptist church Friday. They were guests of Mrs. G. L. Reynolds over night.

Mrs. William Sisson and Mrs. H. A. Rogers were week end visitors at C. R. Tiffany's in Wallingford.

Mrs. Fred Miner was in Middletown Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lawrence and little daughter Elaine of East Great Plain, Mrs. George E. Pitcher, Elmer and Nancie Pitcher and Miss Green of Norwich were callers Sunday at George R. Babcock's.

Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Babcock and family of Meriden were week end guests at G. K. Babcock's.

JEWETT CITY

In spite of the heavy rain, forty or more Methodists assembled for a church rally at the M. E. church Wednesday evening. The program began with a bean and fishcake supper served by the Ladies' Aid society, and at 7.30 the company went upstairs to hear Dist. Supt. Rev. William H. Bath of Norwich and Rev. L. P. MacLennan of Moosup talk on Church Training Night. There was free discussion of the subject by the congregation, and finally it was voted to give the idea a trial night next week Wednesday evening. The matter was left for the pastor, Rev. H. L. Wilber, to take charge of, and he appointed Mrs. Ruth Thornton and William J. Robertson to assist him. The pastor announced that the program would begin with a study period for two groups at 7.30. He will take charge of the adults and Mrs. Ruth Thornton will take charge of the children. At 8.10 there will be an assembly period for all, with singing, discussion of church night, and organising for it if the people see fit. The final period begins at 8.50 with refreshments and a social program. This is in charge of William J. Robertson.

Church training night is a new but rapidly growing idea. The central feature is instruction, but combined with it is the idea of one big night in the week for the church, instead of many small engagements. Church night is meeting with marked success in many places. It can be summarily described as providing food, faith and fun.

James McCluggage, who was knocked down by an automobile Tuesday night about 9 oclock, is suffering from several cracked ribs and severe bruises. He was going up the hill on East Main street and as he came to the sidewalk, which is not concreted, he stepped into the road to walk, where the going was smoother. An automobile headed up the street came up on the wrong side of the road and struck him, knocking him flat some distance away. The car did not stop. The pouring rain probably caused the accident.

Mrs. S. R. Waters entertained the G. L. P. club at her home Wednesday afternoon. Miss Dorothy Paul was also a guest.

The public schools are closed today on account of the teachers' convention in Norwich.

SOUTH GRISWOLD

NAVY DAY, THE 27TH

Saturday, the 27th, has been set aside as Navy Day on which opportunity is to be given the public to get in closer touch with and to better understand the activities of the navy and the importance it is to the country.

A navy is something that we are certain to have at all times. Conditions and relations with other countries may determine the size and use of it, but it is a protection that can never be abandoned. There are services that it performs that cannot be neglected, and while there is a widespread demand for peace it is also to be realized that one of the powerful influences for peace is a good navy.

This country isn't involved in war very much of the time and yet it is necessary to maintain a navy against the aggression of others. Police forces are not busy every hour of the day and night and yet it is necessary to have them to insure proper respect for the law.

The navy is a police force on the seas. It gives a backing to the laws of this country that could not be obtained in any other way, and it is not merely in enforcing laws, but in rescue work and the assurance of respect for the rights of subjects of this country that it stands out prominently. It not only equips men to be the country's defenders in the very first line of defense but it gives them a training for better service to self as well as country and lifts them to a higher citizenship.

On Navy Day the submarine base on the Thames will be open for inspection. Many have expressed the desire to see beyond the walls of that naval plant. The opportunity is afforded them Saturday. It is well that it should be improved. It is time to know more about this important branch of the navy in which this end of Connecticut is especially interested.

Navy Day might well be set for most any time in the year but it has certainly been most fittingly fixed for the birthday anniversary of Theodore Roosevelt, than whom there has been no more staunch advocate of an adequate navy.

CHANGING IMMIGRATION

As times and condition change there is bound to be demands for alterations in our immigration laws. As the laws that have been enacted are put into operation there are bound to be instances which cry out for amended laws. Injustices are disclosed because of the application of the laws. It doesn't take much in individual cases for sentiment to play an important part in urging the flexibility of certain provisions. And yet little thought is given to what such flexibility might lead to or how easily it could be abused. When laws are such that it is possible to make flesh of one and fowl of another injustice is bound to be dispensed, and yet circumstances which may not be contemplated under the law have repeatedly risen which likewise do an injustice when the law is strictly followed.

The result is that the immigration laws are bound to be undergoing more or less change. It is too much to hope that they will ever be brought up to a condition bordering perfection. What must be aimed at is to profit from the experiences and to make certain when changes are authorized that they are for the better.

Efforts are being made for a still further reduction in the number of aliens admitted to this country. There is also a demand for the greater restriction on others. Because there were so immigrants from countries where legislation are resident in the year whose immigration figures are based the present quotas none from those countries can be admitted here.

Numerous suggestions have been made for the betterment of the immigration laws. Just what changes will be made it is impossible to tell. That there is need of bearing down strongly on the question of desirables ought to be self apparent. It is one way in which we have of protecting the future of this country and bettering the citizenship. Our danger may not rest so much in the number admitted as in the quality of the material that is accepted for the melting pot. Sight must not be lost of the importance resting upon the melting pot product, and that to a large degree depends upon what goes into it.

THE TROUBLE IN GERMANY

The dismemberment of Germany cannot be said to be making excellent progress. The separatists are handicapped in their efforts. They are being successfully opposed in spite of the encouragement they have received, and the outcome seems to be that they will wake up to realize that they have been injuring themselves quite the same as they did after they found it necessary to abandon the policy of passive resistance in the Ruhr.

It may be pointed out that France would like to see a Rhineland republic. Such could be regarded as a buffer state, a protection for those lying on each side of it. But it doesn't appear that through any such breaking up of Germany that there is going to be any progress made in settling the reparation question. If the various states of Germany set up their own government which one, or how many of them, can be looked to to settle Germany's bills.

The fact is that what Germany owes and what Germany has promised to pay rests on the shoulders of all these states. What Germany needs and what the allies require in order to get a settlement is that there should be a unity of those states. Pulling down the German house might give some satisfaction to those who are bitter against that country but it wouldn't insure the payment of the debts about which there is much more concern at the present time.

Let Germany be broken up and it is going to be given the very excuse that it has been seeking for claiming that it cannot pay. Under such circumstances it could certainly urge a commission to determine its capacity. Those within or without Germany who are striving for civil war there are certainly not working to the advantage of the allies and reparation, and it is the failure to get reparation that has continued to keep the European situation in a turmoil.

Instead of hastening relief and getting down to the business of paying, the present trouble in Germany is providing an excuse for dodging its debts.

PROTECTING SCHOOL CHILDREN

When the motor vehicles department notifies the school superintendent who proposed it that it is within the province of the school authorities to take steps which would bring about the assigning of older pupils to traffic duty school houses while children are going to and from school, it recognizes that is out of the province of the department, but indicates that there is merit in it.

It is an old practice in schools for certain pupils to be appointed monitors for the preservation of order. The teachers cannot be everywhere and by assigning the pupils to such duties good results are obtained in the effect upon the general body of pupils while it must of necessity have its training for the pupils selected.

Many children give their whole attention to play as they are coming to school or leaving school for home. Thoughtlessly they dodge into the streets or bound across them without stopping to see whether vehicles are coming. Statistics show that it is after school has closed in the afternoon that the most accidents happen.

If some of the older pupils were detailed to give warning to such children as they are leaving school and to call to account and insist upon pupils protecting themselves there might be some relief from the lamentable accidents into which playing children plunge. The very fact that such monitors were known to be on duty might serve to furnish the necessary reminder about playing in the streets, and that is what seems to be necessary in a great many instances. Children cannot have the importance of contributing to their own safety too strongly impressed upon them.

THE GREEK REVOLT

It would seem that Greece had been experiencing troubles enough without having internal difficulties created at this time. There has been unrest in the country for a considerable period. Old affairs have not been forgotten even though it stands in need of complete unity at home.

Greece has been going through a most trying period. Conditions are by no means ideal but the very fact that it has managed to overcome certain threatening outside difficulties only emphasized the need of preventing a family squabble. Such things are however seldom guided by wisdom. Struggle for supremacy and opposition to those in authority have long been responsible for internal clashes.

The leaders of the new revolt must have reckoned beyond their strength from the manner in which they have been suppressed. After a strong opening they quickly yielded to superior strength and now it remains to be seen whether Greece can pull itself together and devote its energies to constructive efforts.

Having established peace with Turkey, gotten the refugee problem on way to what promises to be a commendable adjustment, ended the possible trouble with Italy there is plenty for Greece to be doing for the welfar of their own country without devoting its efforts to bloodshed and bitter contentions.

Probably no one will insist that the existing government has done all that it might, but it doesn't appear that it would be to the advantage of Greece for it to become involved in a serious fight among its own people. Revolution is however the prevailing method in that part of the world.

NOT TRUE TO FORM.

"Whee! what do you think of that!" ejaculated the young man who looked like the handsome creatures in the clothing ads. "Right here in the art section of the expensive Periwinkle magazine, among the six beautiful girls it prints every month! A picture of little Aloofa Grimes, who is making such a hit in that musical comedy, 'Green Oats!' Why, I went to school with Aloofa and carried her books and took her to high school dances and everything! In fact, I was her steady until she got this career idea——"

"Is the picture taken in profile with her slender neck bent in a curve and her delicate fingers entwined around a tulip or water lily or something?" inquired with considerable interest the man smoking a pipe "I am keeping count of magazine pictures of beauties in that pose!"

"Or maybe it is a full face looking out at you dreamily, the same delicate fingers spread out on the chest holding the fragile draperies from flying away?" inquired the thin young man who was renowned as a cynic. "I suppose if the photographer should suggest that they be taken in a graceful pose darning socks or peeling potatoes there wouldn't be enough left of him for an inquest!"

"Who wants to see 'em peeling potatoes?" argued the handsome young man, turning the picture of little Aloofa to get an angle view. "If you're a beauty not a soul cares about potatoes in any form when you are around. I certainly must go and call on Aloofa when the show hits Chicago!"

"You'd better not!" warned the cynic. "Her heart may have fluttered when she was expecting you to take her to a high school dance and she may have been worried for fear the new girl in the next block might lure you away from her but things have changed since then, my boy! Don't you know that when once a girl gets her picture in the magazine section with a line under it reading 'Fiorella Flapdoodle, the newest stage beauty. She leads the Giggly girls' song in Scrambled Fritters'—or 'Fritzi Peache, noted for her marvelous eyelashes.'

"I don't care who you are nor how many yachts you own, she is just a little beyond and develops blank spots in her memory and temporary blindness when you are around. And invariably she gets a temperament which is just a condensed way of saying that she turns just as selfish as most girls would like to be—only they don't quite dare. Carnations won't do—you have to send in a ton of orchids.

"There is something about a man that relishes being seen in a cafe with a beauteous creature who is dressed in cloth of gold and most of the sparkling product of the African mines and who deals death and disaster to every other woman in sight as she floats by.

"And the man who has brought the destroying lady to dine puffs up and nearly bursts with pride. If he were married and his wife attracted all that attention he would sort of slink around and when they got home he would roar and ask what the deuce she had to wear all that junk for, embarrassing him to death, till she throws something at him and they call quits. But when he knows every one is whispering 'Look, quick, that's Doreen Dumbs who had her picture in a magazine last month,' life can hold no happier moment for him.

"But Doreen handpicks her escorts. I couldn't begin to enumerate all their necessary qualities but there's one little point in which you are lacking. You aren't mild enough looking. Lots of the audience would look at you instead of at the lady and that never would do. No, you'd better respectfully gaze at Aloofa from the second row of the orchestra and take it out in telling people you knew her when—'

"You're wrong!" he said triumphantly. "I had this letter from her yesterday specially inviting me to come see her when she gets in town next week!"

"Well, I just don't understand it!" declared the cynic. "I'll bet she wrote it before that magazine ever came out!"—Exchange.

Just A Real Boy

In the parlor car a three year old boy was sitting on the arm of his father's chair. As the train approached the terminal the porter stopped at the chair with the quarry, 'Brush you off sir?"

The father shook his head, but the little boy, slipping to the floor, said, "Daddy, I want one. What is it?"

Personal Business

After having been absent the boy presented to his teacher a written "excuse" which read:

"please excuse——for being absent as he had to be absent."

The teacher explained that the excuse was meaningless, as it gave no reason for the absence. She demanded the reason.

"Business," he said.

"What kind of business?" she asked.

"Personal business," he said.

At last the teacher despaired and sent the youngster to the principal with a note asking him to get the reason.

After a brief period the boy reappeared with a sealed envelope for the teacher. Opening the message the teacher read:

"He tore his clothing."

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

One of the most interesting of the distinguished foreign visitors now in America is Jean Dupuy, noted French senator and publisher. He is the proprietor of the "Petit Parisien," a paper which has one of the largest circulations in the world, and consequently his influence in France is enormous. The "Petit Parisien" has long been in the hands of the Dupuy family. Curiously enough, though he has held public office on numerous occasions and in various capacities, M. Dupuy is a man of no very pronounced political views, and in personal sense is not so widely known as many men who wield less influence in France. During the war he was a member of the War Council, in which place he rendered inestimable service to his country and to the Allied cause. He possesses great wealth, but riches and position have not made him other than one of the most unassuming of men.

NEW BOOKS

Mr. Podd is a humorous novel that abounds in satire and is brimful of laughs. It is one of those books that entertains with refreshing wit.

When Henry Waddick, retail grocer, wrote Mr. Podd, millionaire president of the Podd Manufacturing company, calling him a jackass he received a Form A letter, thanking him for his splendid cooperation and promising to consider him an applicant for a voyage around the world. Mr. Podd charters a ship, Waddick gets interested and away they go on a voyage around the world to spread Podd's views of the ideal international commonwealth. In the party are his daughter and eight pilgrims who sympathize with Mr. Podd's ideas.

There is a mutiny of the crew, the landing on a deserted island, the island experiences. Of course the Podd party is finally rescued after some highly entertaining days on the island, but not before two astonishing love affairs have developed, which add to the fun of the story. There are real thrills in the tale and much delicious fooling.

The author has conceived a happy story, tells it cleverly and provides some most interesting hours for the readers. It is bound to be relished.

This is another of Elinor Glyn's romantic stories, telling of a beautiful girl's love for her hero and how it remains true and tender against every trial. Adventure is in the story with life in wild places and gayety in cities. And through it all runs the romance of Nadine, thrilling and appealing.

The temperament of Nadine inherited from her Russian mother drives her to protest against the marriage conveniently arranged with her indifferent cousin, Eustace, and keeps her true to a hero she has once seen but never met. In the United States Bayard proves to be the hero whose image she is so faithfully cherishing. Her gypsy instincts betray her into a strange marriage and a still stranger separation from the young American engineer.

Excitement, admiration and the pursuit of pleasure are once more rousing her gypsy recklessness when a daring escapade brings Bayard just in time to rescue her from a second mistake even more dangerous and impulsive than the first.

Mrs. Glyn's knowledge of psychology, her portrayal of American manhood and the persons and places drawn from personal experience make a novel rich in characters and dramatic incidents.

Oh, Doctor! By Harry Leon Wilson. Cloth, 384 pages, illustrated by Henry Raleigh. Published by Cosmopolitan Book Corporation, New York. Price $2.

The author of Ruggles of Red Gap and Merton of the Movies has furnished another volume of good fun in Oh, Doctor! There's plenty of excellent comedy and Mr. Wilson's treatment of his subject is capital.

Rufus Billop thought he was going to die. But he had every reason to live, for fame, a fortune of $750,000 and a girl were waiting for him. That is, he hoped the girl was waiting. But when he found that she was not, he wanted to die. So he took up aviation deep sea diving, automobile racing. He tried the feats of the human fly.

The bankers who had everything at stake tried desperately to keep him alive. So did the girl—for she suddenly found that she, too, had everything at stake. The way she shook down the trio of wily old financiers is delicious in its humor. She gets her husband and incidentally helped herself to the Billop fortune.

Mr. Wilson is at his best in the art of gentle humor, friendly satire and uproarious good fun. It is a book that creates laughs and one that will drive away the blues.

INSTABILITY

They may catch a roving comet by its tail
And reduce it to the hauling of a cart.
They may chain the roaring torrent and the gale,
For the scientists are growing very smart,
They will doubtless train the antelope to drive
In the harness of a buggy or a shay,
But there isn't an inventor now alive
Who has found domestic servants that will stay!

Oh, the flea is rather flighty in his style,
And the butterfly is restless, so to speak,
But the servant has them beaten by a mile
With an errant instability unique,
All the "wander-lust" the poet sings about
Send the clan—miscalled "domestics"—on their way;
They are born of Gypsy blood beyond a doubt,
For you simply cannot find one who will stay.

We have given them the guest room for their own,
We have let them off each afternoon and night;
Though the burden of their wages makes us groan,
We have paid them with a manner all delight:
But the moment that we dreaded has to come
When they don their travel kit and draw their pay
And we hear the fearful words: "I'm leaving, mum,"
For you cannot get a servant who will stay.

Oh, you master minds of science, heed our cry.
Would you mitigate the woes of mortal clay?
Put your brains on something useful, won't you try
To invent a type of servant who will stay?

STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE WHILE WORKING FOR HOSPITAL

Miss Rivy Rosenberg, daughter of Rabbi and Mrs. J. N. Rosenberg of Greene avenue, was struck and knocked down Thursday afternoon about 2 o'clock by a Maxwell coupe, Conn. registration 142,646, operated by Mr. Bortell of 666 Savin avenue, West Hartford.

Miss Rosenberg, with her mother, Miss Jane Bill and Miss Anna Saddlesky were out in Miss Bill's car working on the Backus Hospital drive and had reached a point about opposite the Tuberculosis Sanatorium entrance when a stop was made. Miss Rosenberg crossed the street to look at a map. She was standing in front of the car when it was knocked down and into the sidewalk by the car driven by Mr. Bortell which had swung wide to the right in order to pass the Bill automobile. Miss Rosenberg was picked up and rushed to the sanatorium building where Dr. Hugh Campbell and the hospital staff rendered every possible aid and sent word to the Backus Hospital for the ambulance.

A quick run was made and Miss Rosenberg was rushed to the hospital where Dr. Paul F. Cadle attended her and found her to be suffering simple fractures of both bones of the left leg above the ankle, also minor bruises.

Shortly after this accident a young woman driving an Essex car arrived at the scene of the accident and became unnerved, driving her car into a telegraph pole. She was uninjured and the car not much damaged.

The accident was made to the local police by the West Haven man, but he stopped and offered aid, then left his name with the local people before continuing the trip.

18TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY IS PLEASANTLY CELEBRATED

Mr. and Mrs. A. Edward Brodeur celebrated their tenth wedding anniversary on Monday night at their home, 494 Main street. About forty friends helped to make the evening a very enjoyable one. During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Brodeur were presented a handsome piano lamp, a cut glass vase and a basket of tin articles. A very pleasant surprise was a bouquet of carnations from her mother. During the evening whist was played, the first prizes going to Miss Mae Kearney and Jack Geno, the second prizes going to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coleman and the consolation prizes going to Miss Lafraniere and Fred Healy. A buffet lunch was served by the hostess, friends assisting her.

GOV. TEMPLETON COMING TO SPEAK TO BACKUS HOSPITAL WORKERS

Governor Charles A. Templeton will be the speaker tonight (Friday) when the teams in the Backus hospital campaign make their reports at the supper in the town hall and the workers will bend every energy today to make their returns a regular celebration of his coming, besides giving him 100 per cent attendance of the team members.

Thursday's returns brought in $36,304 more on the drive, sending the total campaign figures to $156,943 that calls for a grand rally on the part of every worker to bring in every possible pledge from now on to the end of the campaign. The women's division continues to set a pace that is too fast for the men, reporting $8,029 Thursday night, while the men reached $4,870 and the executive committee brought in $4,206.

The blue banner for best report in the women's division went to Mrs. Louis A. Wheeler's team which scored with a total of $3,319, which included a $1,500 memorial for Alice Groh Higgins, a registered nurse, given by Dr. Harry E. Higgins. In the men's division the red banner went to Charles L. Stewart's team on its report of $1,033, which included an $800 memorial for a bath room given by Mrs. Mary E. Barber of Norwich Town in memory of Thurston B. Barber. As on Wednesday night the banners were presented to the men's and woman's team respectively by Mayor Waters and President Tirrell.

Another memorial gift was by Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Eldredge in memory of their grandson, Robert E. Montgomery, which was reported through Mrs. W. K. Tingley's team in its total of $1,246. Mrs. Archibald Mitchell, Jr., also reported a memorial gift in the team total of $1,033, of which $799 was from Calvin H. Frisbie to be added to a former subscription for a memorial room to his wife.

Every announcement of a memorial gift was the signal for long applause, and before the evening was over Chairman James L. Case placed before the teams a plan for memorials of $1,500 each to be given by the two divisions, the men and the women. This was heartily accepted by the team workers who will each pledge pro rata the sum as will raise the required amount, which will be $7.50 for each team member.

The supper hour began with the singing of America and the invocation was pronounced by Rev. E. C. Dunbar of the First Baptist church.

Previous to the invocation Chairman Case spoke by request of the unfortunate automobile accident that had happened during the afternoon to Miss Rivy Rosenberg, whose mother, Mrs. J. N. Rosenberg, had addressed the workers on Wednesday night. By request, too, Mr. Case said he had been asked to state that the Backus hospital ambulance had responded in five minutes to the accident call to a point below Thamesville and that there had been no questions asked about who was to pay for the ambulance service.

Later in the evening on motion of Captain Stewart who expressed his great regret at the accident that had befallen Miss Rosenberg, a silver collection was taken up which will provide for the sending of flowers to Miss Rosenberg while she is at the hospital.

Edward T. Connelly was song leader for the evening and kept this department going strong, while other musical numbers were provided by songs by eleven probationer nurses who were guests for the evening, and by Louis A. Wheeler and William G. Park in their Gallagher and Shean song, with its special campaign words on Mr. Tirrell and Mr. Case.

Chairman Case told the workers that "one of the boys," Uncle John T. Clark, was present at the supper and three rousing cheers were given for Mr. Clark.

Rev. Mr. Ricketts Speaks.

Rev. C. H. Ricketts gave the workers an inspiring address in which he referred to the development of hospitals and schools for nurses as two mountain peaks in the progress of humanitarian instincts. He vividly described the inception of the idea of the trained nurse from what Florence Nightingale saw at the battle of Inkerman. He declared that no better nursing work and instruction was being done anywhere than in the Backus hospital and said he knew there was never a bigger or better object for which to give money than for a fund to increase the efficiency of this hospital. In the spirit of cooperation that was animating the workers he predicted complete success for this campaign.

In Memory of Mr. Osgood.

At the suggestion of Chairman Case the workers stood in their places at the tables for a moment of silence in respect to the memory of the late Frederic L. Osgood, who had contributed the flags and yacht pennants which are used in the decoration of the town hall during the campaign.

Donation Suggestion.

Russell A. Clapp, Jr., responded to an invitation from Chairman Case to tell about a suggestion he had to make regarding donations. Mr. Clapp's idea was that team members who were proprietors of stores should get dealers to donate articles which would be required for nurses' home fittings and fixtures. He had tried it with out of town concerns in his line of business and had found such a ready response that all the electric lamps for the nurses' home, fire extinguishers, scissors for the nurses, flashlights, brooms and sanitary hampers would be donated by several out of town concerns.

The suggestion was vigorously applauded and will be taken up, it is expected, in a number of different ways.

VISITORS' WEEK ATTRACTS MANY TO TROY LAUNDRY

In connection with other laundries throughout the country the Troy Steam Laundry of this city has been holding a visitors' week and every day nearly 1100 visitors, most of them women, have enjoyed the privilege of inspecting this modern plant and seeing for themselves how their washings are ably and carefully handled there.

F. Russell Smith, president of the Troy Steam Laundry, has personally conducted visitors through the plant showing them how everything is handled with care to avoid any damage to articles sent to the laundry. Mr. Smith traced the history of the family washing from the time the driver called at the door until the time two days later when the clothes were returned.

The tour of inspection followed the story and people were first shown where the drivers left the clothing with the girls to be sorted and marked, each piece counted. Next the washing room was inspected, showing the process of using nets to prevent wear of clothing. Nothing but pure Swift's White Ribbon soap and water is used in the washing of the clothing and after this is done all are placed in spinning baskets and the water removed. After this is done the pieces to be starched are starched and then all are ironed by 114 women who use electric flat irons for this, all ironing being done by hand, excepting sheets and flat pieces which are ironed on the newest flat ironer which is not a mangle. The finished product is then given to girls who carefully pack all articles and make them ready for delivery to the homes on the following morning.

Several hundred people who made the trip over the plant this week expressed themselves pleased with the methods used at the laundry which is the most modern in Eastern Connecticut. Cleanliness was noted and spoken of by the visitors and it was conceded that the system at the Troy Steam Laundry was the same as the home system only on a larger and better plan.

WOMEN'S AUTO SQUADRON COVERING RURAL ROUTES

The volunteer automobile squadron, arranged for through the chairman of the women's division, Mrs. Allyn L. Brown, got into action in the Backus hospital campaign Thursday to carry workers into the rural routes where subscriptions might be obtained. The women donated the services of their cars, either with chauffeurs or driving themselves and set out from headquarters in Shetucket street with workers with a plentiful list of calls to make. They will follow the same plan today (Friday) and Saturday.

FUTURE NORWICH CITIZENS SHOW PUBLIC SPIRIT

Admiration for the public spirit of the officers of the H. H. Allyn Rubber Co., most of whom have not yet located in Norwich, but are to do so, was freely expressed Thursday when it became known that they had made individual subscriptions that totaled $520 for the Backus hospital campaign.

These were H. H. Allyn, general manager, $150; O. A. Ryfle, vice president and sales manager, $150; Charles F. Hill, treasurer $100; R. R. Kelly and G. A. Helwig, salesmen, $60 each.

EX-SENATOR JOHNSON'S DAUGHTER MARRIED OCT. 1

Announcements have been received in this country from Mrs. Lee Johnson of the marriage of her daughter, Carol Lee, and Signor T. Bruno-Bertuccioli, on Monday, Oct. 1st, at Seaton House, Ickham, North Canterbury, Kent, England.

The young bride is the elder child of former State Senator Frederick Allen Johnson, of Uncasville, and Mrs. Grace Lee Johnson, now residing in England. Their second child is a son, Lee S. Johnson, also of England.

Invited to Hear Governor.

By invitation of the executive committee of the Backus hospital, all graduate nurses have been invited to be present in the town hall at 7.15 this (Friday) evening to hear Governor Templeton speak and to hear the reports in the Backus hospital campaign.

Unique Bridge Club Met.

The Unique Bridge club met Wednesday evening at Miss Julia Prunier's home, on Julian Terrace. Refreshments were served and an enjoyable evening spent.

OBITUARY.
Emil Welte.

Emil Welte, 82 years of age, well known musician and inventor, died Wednesday at his home, 34 East Town street. Mr. Welte was born in Voernbach, Schwarzwald, Germany, April 20, 1841. He attended the elementary school in his native city, and was graduated from the technical school in Furtwagen Baden, Germany. At the age of 21 years, he was appointed by Grand Duke Frederick of Baden to represent the clock and automatic musical instrument industries from the Block Forest section at London, England, exhibition 1862.

He left his home town, Voernbach and sailed from Liverpool, England, on January 21, 1866, on the ship Africa, one of the first side-wheelers built about 1841, arriving in Boston, Feb. 3, 1866, and the following day, Sunday, reached New York city. Mr. Welte came to America for the purpose of installing a very large orchestrion in William Kramer's establishment, No. 50 Bowery, New York city (being the Fifth avenue of the city at that time). This automatic, self-playing organ attracted favorable comment from critics and considering it an opportune time to open an establishment here, Mr. Welte wrote to his father in Voernbach to ship him a number of smaller type of automatic orchestrions.

He opened a store on the northeast corner of Fifth avenue and Twenty-second street, New York city, and later opened another on East Fourteenth street, New York city, diagonally opposite Steinway Hall, then the popular shopping district of the city. The business in New York was conducted under the firm name of M. Welte & Sons, branch of M. Welte & Soehne, Voernbach, Germany, and until May 1, 1914, Emil Welte was its active managing head. He then retired at the age of 73 to his home, No. 34 East Town street, Norwich Town, Conn., but was until recently chairman of the executive board of M. Welte & Soehne, now located at Freiburg in Baden, Germany, that house being manufacturers of automatic musical instruments and the Welte Mignon Autograph Piano.

Mr. Welte was a member of the Masonic order since 1879, affiliated with Anchor lodge, No. 739, Free and Accepted Masons, College Point, Long Island, New York, and a member of Flushing, L. I., Pent Alpha Chapter, No. 306, R. A. M.

Mr. Welte was married to Emma M. Foerstner, June 22, 1871, in the Second Congregational church, Norwich, by Rev. Danna.

In 1887 Mr. Welte improved the then newly invented perforated paper music roll and was the first to use it, with his patented pneumatic action in a large orchestrion built for Theiss' Alhambra court, New York city, an exact duplicate of which he installed a few years later in Adelina Patti's residence, Castle-Craig-Y-Nos, Swansea, Wales.

Mr. Welte is survived by his wife, one son, Carl M. Welte, and a sister, Mrs. Fanny Geiss living in Freiburg, Baden, Germany.

Michael J. Quinlan.

Michael J. Quinlan, a native of Norwich, died Wednesday at the home of his sister, Mrs. Mary Quinlan O'Neil of New Haven. Besides his sister he leaves three nieces, Catherine, Anna and Alice, and one nephew, Raymond Joseph O'Neil. Mr. Quinlan for years was connected with the Barnum & Bailey shows. He was a member of the Holy Name society of Baltimore and was a member of B. P. O. Elks, Lodge No. 688, of Wisconsin, also of the Exhibitors Employees association of New York city.

Mrs. Jeremiah Elliott

After a short illness Johanna Driscoll, widow of Jeremiah Elliott, died at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the home of her son, William H. Elliott, of Central Village aged 89 years.

Mrs. Elliott was born in Ireland in November 1834 the daughter of Timothy and Sarah Collins Driscoll, when a young girl living in Norwich with her parents, sixty-seven years ago this coming November at St. Mary's church in this city she was united in marriage to Jeremiah Elliott and for a half century the couple made their home in Lebanon. Later they moved to Norwich where Mr. Elliott passed away about two years ago. After the death of her husband, Mrs. Elliott left Norwich to make her home with her son William of Central Village. She was the last of her immediate family.

Eight children were born to Mrs. Elliott five of whom survive her; Jeremiah Elliott of Danielson, Mrs. Michael W. Keefe of Putnam, Mrs. James Beswick of Norwich, Mrs. N. E. Sullivan of Central Village, formerly of Norwich, and William H. Elliott of Central Village with whom she lived. Surviving there are also 2 grandchildren and eight great grandchildren.

During her last illness Mrs. Elliott was tenderly cared for by her children, in whom she always took a loving interest. Her loss will be mourned by her children and by her many friends in Central Village and other places where she has lived, and the bereaved family has the sympathy of many friends in their time of sorrow.

Michigan Woman Writes True Story

"This sincere letter," says Peterson, "gave me another happy day and as nearly every mail brings praise for Peterson's Ointment, is it any wonder that I keep cheerful all the time?"

"Dear Sirs: I had a bad leg for 20 years, tried everything and had doctors, but no benefit. I tried Peterson's Ointment and five boxes healed my leg. I can never praise it enough. My leg was so painful at first that I had to put fresh ointment on every two hours, night and day. It stopped the pain at once." Mrs. Mark Richards, Lake Linden, Mich.

Besides running and old sores and ulcers, Peterson's Ointment is just as good for piles, eczema, itching skin, sore feet, prickly heat, sunburn, chafing, cuts, burns, bruises, scalds and scores of other ailments as any druggist anywhere will tell you. 35c, 65c, $1.15, $2.25.

AMERICA'S ATHLETIC PROWESS IS CHALLENGED IN COMING OLYMPIAD

New York, Oct. 26.—Faced with the prospect of the greatest challenge to its athletic prowess in the history of international competition, the executive committee of the American olympic committee today formulated detailed plans for the marshalling of this country's most potent forces for the 1924 Olympics at Paris.

The United States, it was developed at the committee's meeting, will be more completely represented in the various fields of competition than ever before, notably tennis and polo, while in such branches as track and field where American supremacy has been pretty well established in the past, every effort will be made to send the best material available into the lists.

Outstanding among the concrete steps taken by the committee were the selection of Harvard stadium at Boston as the scene for the final olympic track and field tryouts on June 13 and 14 1924, and the defeat of a proposal to change the functions of the olympic committee by clothing it with complete and final jurisdiction over all matters pertaining to this country's participation. Taking away such powers as now are vested in the various athletic governing bodies.

The attempt to alter the committee's status was proposed by Brigadier General Palmer E. Pierce, of New York president of the national collegiate athletic association, in a resolution which would provide that "the American olympic committee of the American olympic association has complete and final jurisdiction over all matters relating to the participation of the United States of America in the olympic games; and that it is the judgment of the American olympic committee that the international olympic committee, likewise should have complete and final jurisdiction over the olympic games."

Presentation of the resolution precipitated a controversy with forces of the amateur athletic union opposed to the newly organized national amateur federation which, through Brig. Gen. Pierce, was understood to have fathered the plan. A. A. U. influence prevailed, however when it was noted to table the resolution thus assuring the retntion of th arrangement under which athletic governing bodies represented in the olympic committee certify officially as to the amateur status and citizenship of competitors subject to the final endorsement of the olympic committee.

Under the proposed change, advocated by Brig. Gen. Pierce and also by Elwood S. Brown, executive officer of the N. A. A. F., the olympic committee alone would pass upon the eligibility of American competitors and take away authority now held by such bodies as the A. A. U. in track and field and other sports, the United States Lawn Tennis Association, the National Rifle Association and similar sport-controlling organizations.

Saints Beat Mt. Pleasant Street

On Thursday afternoon at the Academy Campus the football team representing St. Patrick's school defeated Mt. Pleasant by the score of 6 to 0. Courbois was responsible for the score as his forty-yard run brought the ball into the West Siders territory and Shea took it to the 5 yard line. Mingo carried the ball over for the touchdown.

The defeated team claim they were at a disadvantage owing to what they claimed was unfair coaching from the field. They also claim unfairness on the part of the umpire and players.

HORNSBY MAY BE TRADED TO THE CHICAGO CUBS

Chicago, Oct. 25—Rogers Hornsby of the St. Louis Nationals, 1923 batting champion of the National league, will be traded to the Chicago Cubs in a deal involving the transfer of four players to the Cardinals, according to reports in baseball circles tonight.

The report said that Hornsby, who engaged in a fist fight with Branch Rickey, manager of the Cardinals, last season, had expressed a desire to play with Chicago. The players reported to be considered in the trade for Hornsby are Charley Hollocher, George Grantham, Lawrence Miller, and Virgil Cheeves.

President Veeck of the Cubs could not be reached to confirm the report.

Report is Denied

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 26—Reports in circulation in Chicago that Rogers Hornsby, star second baseman for the St. Louis Nationals, would be traded to the Chicago Cubs, were emphatically denied tonight by officials of the Cardinals.

SARAZEN—HAPPY THOUGHTS RACE TODAY'S FEATURE

Laurel, Md., Oct. 25.—Tom Howe's $15,000 match race between Sarazen and Happy Thoughts, both unbeaten two-year-olds, promises to be one of the outstanding features of the Maryland turf season. The race is at six furlongs. Earl Sande, the country's premier jockey, is scheduled to ride Sarazen, and the veteran Andy Schuttinger will be astride Happy Thoughts. Both horses are said to be in excellent condition, with the track, after the heavy rains in the past several days, in fairly good condition. Sarazen will carry 118 pounds, and Happy Thoughts 115.

"CHICK" EVANS FILES PETITION IN BANKRUPTCY

Chicago, Oct. 25—Charles "Chick" Evans, Jr., the only golfer to win the national open and amateur championships the same year, and who has held a dozen other golf titles, through his attorneys filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in district court here, today, scheduling liabilities of $362,-380.40 and assets of $50,719.86.

The summary of the petition listed the secured claims as $85,135.96, the unsecured claims as $172,869.44 and accommodation paper as $3,325.

Goldberg Wins on Foul

New York, Oct. 25.—After two minutes of fighting, Larry Goldberg, Brooklyn bantamweight, won a decision as the result of a foul blow in the first round of a twelve-round bout with Young Montreal, of Providence, R. I., at the Rink Sporting club in Brooklyn tonight. Montreal caught Goldberg in the groin with a left hook, and, after an examination by a physician the referee awarded the match to Goldberg.

Fund for Veteran Players

Chicago, Oct. 25—The American league has set aside a $50,000 fund for the relief of veteran players in need of assistance, president Ban Johnson announced tonight. The fund will be available to players in broken health.

Lou Griger, a one-time star catcher, who is recovering from tuberculosis, is being cared for from the fund.

BOSTON STORE WINNING DEPARTMENTS CELEBRATE

Through June, July and August the Red and Blue teams comprising 28 various departments of the Boston Store speeded up their sales and each day watched the horse of color forging its way across the continent from Norwich to San Francisco and when the Blue horse guided by Miss Nora Dinsivan outstripped the Red horse guided by Miss Eva Malcolm on August 31st the race was finished and the Reds were forced to provide an entertainment for the winners, the Boston Store providing the banquet. The race was hard fought and both sides boosted the sales of their departments over those of the same months in 1922, the Blues having a larger increase.

Thursday night at Odd Fellows Hall witnessed the banquet and celebration of the victory of the backers of the Blue horse and covers were laid for 110 employes and guests of the company. The address of welcome was delivered by Miss Eva Malcom, head of the losing team after which the following delightful banquet was served by the supper committee of Hope Rebekah lodge, No. 21, I. O. O. F.

Chicken Pie, Mashed Potatoes, Mashed Turnips, Cranberry Sauce, Cabbage Salad, Celery, Rolls, Cake Coffee, Ice Cream.

Seated at the head table as guests of honor was John R. Hughes, president of the Reid & Hughes company, officers and directors of the company and captains of the teams.

During the banquet Nick Spellman's Orchestra favored with several selections and led by Mrs. Maude Baker Crowe many songs were sung.

The feature of the evening arranged by the Red Team was a minstrel show during which time and men engaged in jokes on many of the employes of the store and not a few on the management. About 35 members made up the chorus and the principals were Miss Eva Malcolm, interlocutor; W. R. Stevens and Richard Lewis end men with bones; Miss Gertrude Pendleton and Miss Mary Ryan with Kenneth Hall and Hugh Laird, tambourines. Miss D. Campbell accompanied on the Piano.

The program was as follows: opening chorus, Yes, The Reds Lost the Contest; jokes by end men; Song, Old Black Joe, company; Song Dreamy Melody, Miss Deborah Garvey; jokes by end men; Darkie Stump Speech, Charles Stark; Violin Solo, Miss Anna Stockdale; jokes by end men; Song, Ten, Ten, Tennessee, Miss Marguerite Kilkenny; with chorus by company with gazoos; Song, Parody on Barney Google, referring to contest, Miss Eva Malcom with chorus by company gazoos; jokes by end men; Song, You've Got to see Mama Every Night, duet by Misses Mary Caulfield and Florence Parkhurst; jokes by end men, Song, Wonderful One, Miss Ann Stockdale, Closing number, Swanee River with encore Good Night Ladies, company.

Following the entertainment of the evening a rising vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Crowe for her part in leading the singing also to Charles L. Smith and James Russey for their aid in making the minstrel a success.

Each person found at their plate a boutonniere and during the evening the Blue team presented the losing team of Reds with a large bouquet of chrysanthemums. Richard Lewis was also given a present during the evening, a five gallon jug of something red, the contents not noted.

The hall was most tastefully decorated and over the platform was a shield bearing the inscription "Victory," on either side being draped American flags. One side of the hall was draped in red and shields bearing red horses were set in place, while on the opposite side of the hall the colors were blue with shields bearing blue horses were in place. The work of decorating was done by Morgan Cronin, store decorator, assisted by Hawkins the Florist.

The final entertainment of the evening was dancing which continued until 11 o'clock. It is planned to make these contests a part of the store routine, probably one being held each summer, the losing team to provide entertainment while the company furnishes the banquet.

KANSAS CITY BLUES WIN MINOR LEAGUE BASEBALL CHAMPIONSHIP

Baltimore, Oct. 26—(By the A. P.)—The Kansas City Blues are sitting atop the minor league baseball world tonight. They clubbed their way to victory over the champion Baltimore Internationals in the ninth and deciding game of the little world series at Oriole Park this afternoon. The score was 5 to 2. Two home runs, one by Skiff in the fourth inning with Brandom on second and another by Brief in the ninth inning with Becker on first won the minor league championship for the American Association pennant winners.

Lefty Schupp, hurling for the Blues, mystified the birds with a sweeping curve that stopped all of Baltimore's left hand hitters. Lefty Groves was Baltimore's choice to start the game, but was yanked in the first inning, after he had walked three men and allowed a single. He forced in the first man with a pass and Manager Dunn of the Orioles rushed in Parnham.

The big right-hander was very effective in all except the fourth and ninth innings when the clouts out of the park settled his fate. Walsh, Maisel, Lawry and Sheedy made the hits that figured in Baltimore's runs.

The attendance today 3,103; net receipts $4,156.80.

The total attendance of the nine games was 84,705 and the total net receipts were $106,619.82.

The players, who share in the first five games only, will divide between $55,000 and $60,000. The exact amount it was understood, would be announced tomorrow by commissioners Hickey and Toole.

THE HABIT OF RUSHING AFTER NEW LEGISLATION.

(Written Specially For The Bulletin.)

Did you ever know a back-room consultation at the country store to end up without somebody hazing flatly and dogmatically asserted that "there ought to be a law agin it?"

"It" may mean high railroad freights, or profiteering by the retail dealer, or unconscionable wages asked by haying hands, or the price of sugar, or the sale of Fourth of July fire-crackers, or the smoking of cigarettes by boys and women. No matter what the particular thing is of which the particular grumbler complains, he is sure the millennium will come when there is "a law agin it."

As some wise guy has tersely remarked: "A whole lot of trouble on this earth grows out of someone's attempt to make his conscience your guide."

Now it is just as impossible to make a bad man good by law as it is to make a rotten egg sweet by law. The power of man-made law is exercised only within very narrow limits. Even in such limits it is never fully enforced. When really enforced it is never sure to be just in any particular case. Innocent men have, at times, been sent to jail; and guilty men have, at times, been sent to congress. Considering what a sorry make-shift our laws are, and what a worse than sorry job is made enforcing them, it would seem as if every wise man would be more than a little chary in calling for new ones.

I think really wise men are thus chary. But, apparently, public opinion is not wholly made by wise men, nor governments administered. Most of us are too opinionated, too self-conceited, too short-sighted, and too impatient to be wise, even in our everyday concerns.

And—don't omit this powerful consideration—we're most of us so dum lazy that we want to shift our own responsibilities over on to the shoulders of some vague and impersonal "law," which is to do the job we can't take the pains to pull off ourselves.

Not only do Tom and Dick and Harry want other people forbidden by law to do the things they disapprove, but Algernon and Stuyvesant and Mehitable want people uplifted by law to the lofty places of transcendental thought in which they float.

One set want laws against everything they disapprove; another set want laws to compel the rest of the world to do the things they approve.

One group want to have their fellow-men chained and fettered to the hitching-posts they see fit to erect; another coterie want the same fellow-men flung sky-high into the upper air and required to fly—before their wings have even sprouted.

It is hard to say which are the crankier, the inhibitionists or the uplifters. Both want government to work miracles, which is something thus far beyond the range of governmental powers.

God managed to compress His "Thou shalt's" and "Thou shall not's" into ten commandments on two tablets—ten commandments so clear that the wayfaring man, though a fool, need not err in his understanding of them.

But the self-appointed regulators of the world want laws filling many thousand volumes and so complicated that not even the specially trained judges of the supreme court can often agree unanimously as to what they mean. They want not only that other people shall be controlled by law in their down-sitting and their up-rising, but that they shall also be legally instructed as to what they shall eat and drink and smoke and wherewithal they shall be clothed.

Their idea of Utopia seems to be a land where men are tied into go-carts, started off on grooved tracks, compelled to follow them regardless, and strictly forbidden ever to use their own legs to get them on their own way.

In Charles Kingsley's famous fairy-tale poor little Tom comes during his memorable travels to the island of Polu-prag-mos-y-ne, where "every one knows his neighbor's business better than his own." May I quote a little at length?

"When he got into the middle of the town, they all set on him at once to show him his way; or rather to show him that he didn't know his way: for as to asking him what way he wanted to go, no one ever thought of that.

"But one pulled him hither, and another pointed thither, and a third cried—

"'You mustn't go west, I tell you; it is destruction to go west.'

"'But I am not going west, as you may see,' said Tom.

"'And another; 'The east lies here, my dear; I assure you this is the east.'

"'But I don't want to go east,' said Tom.

"'Well, then, at all events, whichever way you are going you are going wrong,' cried they all with one voice—which was the only thing they ever agreed about; and all pointed at once to all the thirty-and-two points of the compass, till Tom thought all the sign-posts in England had got together and fallen fighting."

Kingsley warned his young readers that his book was "all a fairy-tale, and only fun and pretence."

But, by crikey, if he wasn't a prophet describing to the letter the United States of America in A. D. 1923, then there are no more prophets left!

Here's another wise saying from the pen of a shrewd old newspaper man who has lived long enough to know a hawk from a hand-saw.

"One trouble with the world is too much organization and not enough individuality. Men and women think in clubs and blocs and unions. They eat in groups and dream salad dreams. Indigestion can't cure the world."

You bet it can't! Nor can "salad dreams" light the way to the end of any rainbow. Nor to the sane solution of any problem. Nor to the effectual advancement of a slowly crawling generation that must creep before it can walk, and walk before it can run, and run before it can fly.

I don't know any class of men, except perhaps automobilists, who have had as many laws passed for them or about them as farmers. A collection of the existing laws passed either to protect or foster agriculture would make a bonfire that could be seen from Cape Cod to the Golden Gate.

And, for all the good they are doing or ever have done, that would be about as fit a use as any to put them to!

Every time anything happens to the farmers, their dear friends in legislature and congress, who want their votes next election, pass a new law "to help the farmer." And pretty nearly every farmer, from Maine to Oregon, who has a poor crop when the market is high, or a big crop when the market is down, immediately sets up a fresh howl for more law to cover his misfortune. At least, so it seems to a man up a tree.

One would think that long experience of the sheer futility of such legislation would, in time, lead intelligent men to look elsewhere for relief. But it doesn't.

With the wreck and ruin of the Wilson-McAdoo mal-administration of the railroads fresh in every one's memory, there are still tens of thousands clamoring for the government to take over the railroads again, in order to reduce freight rates.

With the incredible waste and extravagance of government ship building during the war still looming black in the financial sky, there are hundreds of thousands who want government to take possession of the coal-mines and run them, in order to cut down coal prices.

With every home in the country mortgaged to pay back in taxes the millions squandered by government on useless air-planes, there are hordes who want government now to assume control of the markets and the grain elevators and the stock-yards and the street railways and the electric-light companies, etc., etc.

Also, they want easier credits and lower interest rates and a better chance to borrow and a longer time in which to pay.

The day may yet come when they will demand government appropriations to furnish free pap to every head of family who makes affidavit that he has a sore thumb! Such a call would hardly be sillier than some of those actually being uttered.

There was a time when every tub stood on its own bottom and didn't have to be propped up with governmental supports. There was a time when every man stood on his own legs and neither wanted nor asked for governmental crutches. Are we really such weaklings that we can't do it again?

There is something which would be pitiful, if it were not so enraging, in the spectacle of a hundred million more or less physically capable and mentally intelligent people standing on their hind legs and bawling for government to take over their own jobs.

What can more laws do for us farmers, especially? We've got libraries full of them, already, and our last state is manifestly worse than our first, before they were enacted. Who would think of trying to save a drowning man by turning more water upon his sinking head? Why expect more law to relieve us from the evils of too much law, already?

What we want is simply a fair deal, an even chance, and our due share of sunlight. We don't want law to give us special favors,—and more than we want it to give our competitors unfair advantages.—That is, we ought not to want such special favors or any other favors.

Why, then, clamor for them?

Why ask to be cossetted and coddled, as if we were weaklings unable to take care of ourselves?

Above all, why ask a government which can't do well half the things it already undertakes to pick us up, too, and cafry us to some free ice-cream parlor?

If, instead of wasting time making new laws, legislatures and congresses would spend the next half-dozen years repealing existing special laws and reversing inequitable court decisions based upon them, they would probably deserve well of their country.

As to special governmental molly-coddling of farmers, please recall the old story of the hunter who was ambushed by a bear while away from his gun, and his sincere though somewhat unconventional prayer: "Oh, Lord, if you can't help me, don't help the bear, and you'll see the d—dest bear-fight ever was!"

The minute you rub on MUSTARINE for any pain, ache or soreness you'll know that all the misery and agony has started to go. It is very penetrating and won't blister.

Any druggist anywhere will recommend it; praise it; guarantee it. He will tell you that it is better than any liniment, poultice, hot water bottle or ointment.

A 30 cent box of this wonderful discovery will do the work of 50 mustard plasters. In two minutes Earache, Headache, Toothache and Neuralgia vanish.

Tonsilitis, Bronchitis, Pleurisy and deep-seated Coughs go over night. Rheumatic sufferers joyfully praise it for the way it speedily stops the agony and reduces the swollen joints.

After all other remedies have failed thousands have overcome the misery caused by Sore, Burning Feet, Corns, Bunions and Callouses. Ask for MUSTARINE. 30 cents in yellow box.

Comfort

OLD folks, like little ones, require a constant, easily tempered heat—you might almost say a flexible heat is absolutely necessary for their health and comfort.

Yet making a bigger fire in the furnace means over-heating the rest of the house. Even when the particular room is hot enough for Grandpa and Grandma, you can't very conveniently turn the furnace lower, and reduce the heat elsewhere. But a Perfection Oil Heater furnishes portable, yet flexible warmth. It will quickly and economically heat the particular room that you want, and young as well as old will enjoy its genial and comfortable presence.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

On Way To Mother Gooseland

Now, let me see where we left off in the last story. Oh yes, I remember now. Little Jack Rabbit in his flying suit was on the way to Mother Goose Land to get the crooked sixpence from the little crooked man who lived in a little crooked house.

Well, after a while, the bunny boy suddenly thought how worried Lady Love must be at his long absence, so calling to a swallow that was going the other way he asked her to take a message to the dear Old Bramble Patch.

"All right," answered the swallow, "tell me what to say."

"Tell dear mother I've gone to Mother Goose Land on an important errand for the Queen Fairy."

"All right," said the swallow again and she flew away and so did little bunny but the swallow reached the dear Old Bramble Patch before he came to the little crooked house in Mother Goose Land.

By an by, just as the big yellow sun was going down to rest, the bunny boy came to a great castle on a high rock. Flying down to the courtyard, he knocked on the door which was opened presently by a big black giant. Oh dear me, but he was a tremendous great thing, black as ebony with teeth as white as ivory and little tight curls all over his head.

"I beg pardon," gasped Little Jack Rabbit, "I may have made a mistake."

"Perhaps you have," said the big black giant with a kind sort of grin, "what do you want?"

"A bed for the night," answered the little rabbit.

"Well, then, you haven't made a mistake," answered the giant. "We have plenty of beds in the castle. Come in."

So in hopped the little bunny boy, a little bit afraid of this big giant, for although he had often met giants, this was the first black one.

Just then, the giant began to whistle, when in ran a small white goat on his hind legs and said:

"What do you wish, master giant,
The cook has gone out for the day,
But the gingerbread's done and the caramel bun,
Shall I bring them both up on a tray?"

"Yes, and be quick about it," said the big black giant and turning to Little Jack Rabbit he bade him sit down at the table. Pretty soon the white goat returned with the gingerbread and caramel bun, but no sooner were they placed on the table than out hopped two little yellow chicks who began to grow bigger and bigger until they were as large as the rooster that crowed in the morn and woke up the sheep all shaven and shorn and in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

WESTERLY

(Special to the Bulletin)

Before Judge William A. Wilcox, in Stonington Town court, Thursday morning at 9.30 o'clock Matthias Griesar, occupant of the Moss farm, so-called, on the road leading from the Old Mystic road to the New London turnpike was brought to trial for alleged violation of the Connecticut state liquor laws. Griesar was given a hearing October 22 in Town court, on three counts, keeping with intent to sell, keeping a place where it is reputed that spiritous and intoxicating liquors were kept for sale, and with actual sale. At that time the case was continued to Oct. 25th that Prosecuting Attorney George R. McKenna might secure witnesses and as the town solicitor added in court Thursday, that the result of an analysis of the seized beer James A. Newlands of Hartford might be available.

Clerk Albert G. Martin read the writ, in which the following liquors were reported as being found:

Thirty-five one-gallon jugs of beer, 2 1-2 gallon jugs of beer, 5 2-quart bottles of beer, 62-quart bottles of beer, 49-1 pint bottles of beer.

The return was signed by C. Christopher Ledwith.

There were some fifty people assembled in the borough court when Attorney McKenna said the state was ready. In response to the question Griesar said that he had no attorney. Officer Charles J. Ledwith, patrolman and constable of Stonington stated that in the raid of Oct. 20th, he was present at the Moss farm 1 1-2 to 2 hours. He saw a table in the dining room which was burned with cigar and cigarette stubs as well as the table cloth. There was a sideboard in the room with a showcase with cigars and cigarettes. Present at the time was the son and daughter of the accused. While they were there, two automobiles drove up with three people in one and four in the other. Outside in a shed was found cider in one barrel and two more barrels in another shed. Beer was found brewing in bottles. The stuff collected was put in the Stonington lockup. A syrup jug containing some of the beer was identified when produced in court.

Asked by Judge Wilcox, if he had anything to say, Griesar responded, "I sold some beer, that's all."

Officer Charles W. Connors testified that with Officer Ledwith he went inside the house and brought the liquors collected into the kitchen. In a shed outside was found two barrels which looked like mash, and two more barrels which were working. To him the place looked like a barroom with fixtures. Several machines came while they were there but stopped at the gate. As to reputation question, the place appeared as one where intoxicating liquors were sold.

Officer Ledwith being recalled, replied in answer to a reputation question that the place looked like one where intoxicating liquors were sold and you could have a hot time. The defendant Griesar was again asked if he wished any questions of the witness but replied that he had none.

John D. Ripley, apparently an unwilling witness, testified that he resided near the Road church in the Road district, and that the defendant lived on the old Moss place, called "101 Ranch," but he himself did not go there.

In answer to reputation question he said people called at his place asking for 101 Ranch. He could not say for sure, but people said beer was sold there. He did not see people under the influence of liquor there as far as he could observe. Lots of people go there, lots of automobilists who talk about beer being there.

Charles B. McCoart, a constable of the town of Stonington, said it appeared to be a place where people gather to drink, get drink and get beer to drink.

Robert McWilliams, patrolman and constable of Stonington named it as a place where liquor can be bought by reputation and identified Mr. Griesar as the proprietor.

L. C. Gray, said he was a farmer living in North Stonington, a mile north of the Road church and that he was the second selectman and said all he knew was what he had heard that you could get beer there and heard of people going there for beer.

Philip Gray, a farmer of North Stonington, but knew the Moss place, designated as 101 Ranch and that it was the common speech of the neighborhood that people go there and get beer, moonshine or whatever you call it.

Ralph C. Wheeler lived in the Road district, knew Griesar and that it was common speech that you could get different kinds of stuff there. In answer to what "stuff" was witness said "beer possibly more." Saw lots coming from 101 Ranch intoxicated..

William Mitchell lived in North Stonington, had seen Griesar and knew he lived on the Moss place or 101 Ranch. He had heard it said that beer was sold there, nothing else. He had also seen machines going there with the occupants under the influence of liquor.

Allen W. Harvey lived near Griesar who lived on the Moss place, which for the last two seasons he had heard called "101 Ranch." Knew people went there to have a good time, also to drink he knew of nothing stronger than beer there.

Urban C. Whitford, Jr., a constable said that he had seen Griesar, although he was not sure it was him but he knew the Moss place and that he had found out recently that it was called 101 Ranch and he had heard several speak of going there to get beer.

Clark A. Whitford, had lived 45 years in Old Mystic, had lived in Stonington and in Minnesota. He did not know the defendant, and it was only within a week that he knew of the Moss place as 101 Ranch and also learned within a week that beer was sold there.

Officer William Lewis residing in New London county, detective in New London county, went over to 101 Ranch last Saturday night, entered the house by way of the kitchen and went into the front room where there was a piano and saw a jug like the one in court on the floor, seized it and turned it over to State Policeman Palmer, saying that he got it at 101 Ranch.

John K. Palmer, member of the state police from Groton barracks, was not at the Ranch but on a tour of investigation, met officer Lewis at Wilcox dance hall, before he proceeded to the Ranch where there had been several informal complaints that liquor was sold, on his return the jug that was taken from the Ranch was handed him. The jug was placed in his locker and Monday evening and brought to Stonington.

The report of the analysis of the state chemist under date of Oct.22, 1923 to Conn. State Police Dept. was as follows:

Kind of liquor, Beer; for Officer Palmer, received Oct. 22, 1923, taken Oct. 20, 1923, taken at Westerly (amended by Officer Palmer to read Stonington) Showed alcohol by weight 3.05 per cent, alcohol by volume 3.81 per cent.

James A. Newlands, State Chemist.

The jug and analysis report were marked as exhibits.

Here the plaintiff rested.

Judge Wilcox asked Mr. Geisar if he had any defense of witnesses.

The defendant arose and said.

"I want to see the feller that say he got some hot stuff by me. He got to prove it."

Town Attorney George McKenna then made his plea, asking for the infliction of the maximum penalty.

Geisar was sentenced by Judge Wilcox, after he had adjudged defendant guilty as follows: On first count, fine of $200 and costs. Thirty days' imprisonment in New London county jail. Second count, fine of $200 and costs. Fifteen days' imprisonment. The third count was holled. The fine and costs amounted to $486.91. Geisar took an appeal to the superior court and bonds of $4,000 were furnished by R. M. Deigrange.

Mrs. S. J. Doty of Westerly is visiting in Putnam for a short time.

Rev. and Mrs. C. A. Burdick returned to Westerly Wednesday evening from an automobile vacation trip through Massachusetts.

The public schools of Westerly and Pawcatuck were closed Thursday and (Friday) that the Rhode Island teachers may attend the 87th annual meeting of the Rhode Island Institute of Instruction, Arcadia Hall, Providence, and the Connecticut teachers may be present at the Teachers' convention in Hartford or at Norwich.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Barclay Robertson have returned to Westerly from a vacation visit in Pearl River N. Y.

The east bound 7.30 accomodation train on the New Haven road had the appearance of a convention special when it left the Westerly station Thursday morning for Providence, as the train was nearly filled with public school teachers en route to the state institute.

Frank G. Ahorn of Westerly was a business caller in Providence Thursday afternoon.

The Friday morning session of the Third district court which will be held Friday in the district court rooms in the Westerly Town hall, will be busier than the average, as the cases will come to trial which were put over from last Friday morning, partly due to the absence of Town Solicitor John Ferguson Jr. who represented the Westerly Town council at the R. I. Public Utilities commission hearing in Providence. This hearing in which the Shore Line Electric Road asks for permission to substitute busses during the winter for electric cars, was postponed, to permit the Hopkintown council to be represented, and will be held this (Friday) afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

Narragansett Commandery, K. T., officers of Westerly are interested in the group exemplification by Beausesant commandery of Malden, Mass., in the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar of Mass., and R. I., Monday evening, Oct. 29th.

The first in the series of entertainments in the Teachers' course, was presented Wednesday evening in the High School auditorium, by the Zimmer Harp Trio, before a well filled hall.

EAST WOODSTOCK

Twenty-one members of Woodstock League of Women Voters attended the county convention at the home of Mrs. S. B. Overlock Monday. Mrs. F. N. Johnstone of this town presided at the morning and afternoon sessions. A three-course luncheon was served by the hostess to members and guests, numbering about sixty.

The first missionary meeting of the season was held with Mrs. J. S. May Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Charles H. Potter was the leader.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. May, Mrs. Elisabeth Smith and Mrs. Billings of New London spent Sunday with J. S. May and family.

The first church supper and social, held last Friday evening, was attended by nearly 200, it being a union social of the three Congregational churches in this section. The young men of the parish were the hosts. Mrs. F. A. Jordan, Mrs. G. A. Wetherell and Mrs. Arthur Dodge were the efficient supper committee. The supper consisted of cold ham, mashed potato, squash, rolls, pickles, pies, cheese and coffee. The program consisted fo singing by a women's quartet, trio of young girls and piano solos and duets and a monologue by George Hamilton. Games followed.

At the wedding of Miss Marguerite Bosworth and Stuart H. May at the home of the bride's brother, Wendell Bosworth, Oct. 17, in the presence of about sixty, nearly all being relatives, Rev. H. D. Baker performed the ceremony. The rooms were artistically decorated. The bride wore a gown of white satin and georgette, wore a veil and carried a bouquet of carnations. She was attended by her niece, Miss Dorothy Bowen, of Eastford, who wore blue crepe de chine. Her two little nieces, Irene and Mildred Bosworth, were the flower girls. Windsor White was best man. Nelson Frink played the wedding march. A reception followed. Mr. and Mrs. May left by automobile for a wedding trip. They will reside in the house with the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earn May. The bride received many useful and valuable gifts. The bride is the youngest daughter of the late Henry Bosworth and Mrs. Bosworth of Eastford, but for nearly ten years has made her home here with relatives and been the efficient clerk in the local store and postoffice.

STAFFORD

Miss Bertha Denis has gone to Hartford where she is in the office of Brown, Thomson Co.

Rev. I. P. Booth, who has been ill, is much better.

There was a large attendance at the men's and boys' banquet held at the Baptist church last Tuesday evening. The women of the church provided a bountiful supper. After the supper Elmer G. Hardy, county secretary of the Y. M. C. A., gave a very interesting talk on what the Y. M. C. A. is doing for boys in rural communities. Frank's Junior band furnished music which was much enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Bourden is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Parker, of Monson, Mass.

Mrs. Charles Phillips was the guest recently of Mr. and Mrs. Jones of Lowell, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Depeau and family were guests Sunday of relatives in Willington.

Miss Elizabeth Fagan has entered Wesson Memorial hospital for a three years' course as a student nurse.

Mrs. Julia Ensminger is at Springfield City hospital for treatment.

Walter Ida of Piqua, O., has been the guest of his father, G. D. Ide.

GIVEN ANNIVERSARY SURPRISE BY SEDGWICK RELIEF CORPS

Mr. and Mrs. William Munroe of 116 Fourth street were given a surprise Tuesday afternoon when about 25 members of Sedgwick Women's Relief corps gave them a surprise party. The occasion was the 57th anniversary of the wedding of the couple, also the birthday of Mrs. Munroe. The surprise was complete and a most enjoyable afternoon was spent.

The party furnished their refreshments of sandwiches, cake, fruit, and coffee and during the luncheon presented Mrs. Munroe a gold piece, the presentation being made by Mrs. Jayne E. Seed, president of the corps, who spoke of the many years of service to the corps by Mrs. Munroe all of which was deeply appreciated. Mrs. Grace Manning also entertained with several readings.

Mr. Munroe for many years was an employe of the old paper mill but has been retired for some time. Although 84 years of age and not in the best of health his interest in current events has never lagged.

Mr. and Mrs. Munroe were congratulated by the corps on their anniversary and wishes were expressed that they might enjoy many more years of happy married life.

INTIMIDATING POLICE AGENTS IN NEW LONDON MUST BE STOPPED

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Oct. 25.—Marius Johnson of Hartford, and Miss Marion Polley, of Truman street, patients at the Lawrence hospital, were able to return to their homes today.

The funeral of Mrs. Marianna Marino, wife of Michael Marino, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from her residence No. 23 Fourth street. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Joseph D. Garvey and Miss Bertha Henderson, both of Groton, were married this morning at 10 o'clock at Sacred Heart church, Groton, the nuptial mass being celebrated by Rev. William J. Fox the pastor. Anthony Sousa of New London was best man and Miss Catherine Garvey sister of the groom was bridesmaid. Mr. and Mrs. Garvey left at noon on a trip which will include a visit in New York and at Niagara Falls. Upon their return they will reside at 462 Main street. Mr. Garvey is maintenance manager in the employ of the Electric Boat company of Groton.

Mrs. J. G. Colgrove, who sustained injuries as a result of a fall three days ago, is slowly improving at her home, 30 Nameaug avenue, although still unable to walk.

Mrs. Paul Conant and children of Bordell place have returned home after having spent a week as the guests of Mrs. Jay E. Lewis of Westerly.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin E. Smith of Addison street, left this forenoon on an automobile trip through Massachusetts and on Cape Cod. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will be absent from home about two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Dray and daughter, Miss Eleanor are in New York and this week they will witness the graduation of Mr. and Mrs. Dray's son, John, at the New York nautical school.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Chappell of Federal street left this noon by automobile for New York, in which city they will be attendants at the Stevens-Widener wedding Saturday.

Further endeavor to rid the city's water mains of the number of eels that have clogged the pipes for several days preventing many of the buildings on State street, some where water power is used for the operation of elevators, was made early this morning when employes of the water and sewer department caused all the hydrants on lower State street and upper Bank street to be flushed. As a result of the vast volume of water being emptied into the sewers, the great pressure caused many of the eels to be deposited upon the surface of the pavements. It is believed that during the day and night fully 200 eels were removed from the mains by this method. No trouble was reported today by the occupants of the buildings affected yesterday, so it is believed that practically all the eels have been removed from the pipes.

Mrs. Leroy Forsyth of Waterford, Mrs. Harold Smith of Woodbridge street and Joseph Propruk of Bank street, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Horace Phillips, employed by Harrigan Brothers, had a close call from fatal injury this morning, when struck by the locomotive of an east-bound New Haven railroad freight train. In being struck by the bresat-beam of the engine, Phillips was headed for the river, but he landed in a rowboat, moored to a bulkhead receiving stores to go aboard a craft in the harbor. He sustained a lacerated scalp and numerous bruises about the upper part of the body.

Phillips went to the bulkhead between the U. S. Custom house and the pier of the Central Coal company to assist in loading the rowboat. With his back toward the approaching train Phillips was struck a vigorous blow behind the left ear sending him over the edge of the bulkhead. A fellow worker in the boat partially broke the fall and prevented Phillips from going into the river.

Mr. and Mrs. Freeman have returned to New London having spent the summer in Maine.

In the juvenile court late yesterday Judge S. Victor Prince sentenced one youth to the reformatory at Middletown and seven others were given a warning. All were implicated in the theft of $300 worth of fountain pens, pocket knives, air rifles, etc., from the store of J. Solomon last Sunday afternoon.

Two more cottages at Ocean Beach were discovered insecure and in a condition to make entrance to them possible, this forenoon, when Patrolman John Sullivan discovered the front doors open to two cottages owned by Joseph Segal of Hartford, 18 and 22 Board Walk.

Irving B. Smith 18, of Providence arrested in New London shortly after last midnight by Sergeant Patrick Murphy on a charge of being a fugitive from justice, and who attempted to make his escape even after the officer had fired a shot in the air to intimidate the youth, who ran to a cellar of a building two blocks away, made another attempt to gain his liberty this afternoon, and attempted to break from his cell when about to be delivered to the Rhode Island authorities.

Smith was handcuffed to Clarence W. Hill, parole officer of the Sockanosett school for criminal youth at Howard, R. I.

Smith was arrested at the corner of State and Main streets by Sergeant Murphy when the police were notified that two youths, apparently operating a stolen Durant coupe, had passed over the Thames river highway bridge. Murphy was at the corner when the car appeared and jumping to the running board, ordered Smith, who was operating the machine to drive to the police station. At the station house Smith alighted first and made a break for liberty, running through North Bank street. Murphy pulled his revolver and fired a shot in the air, but Smith did not stop, continuing through Atlantic street to Water street where he hid himself in a vacant cellar and where he was pursued by Murphy. After locking Smith in a cell a search was made for Smith's companion, Raymond Little, another escaped youth of the Rhode Island institution, but he was not found having made his escape while Smith was being apprehended. When lodged in the police station Smith denied acquaintance with Little, declaring that he had picked the boy up on the road.

The automobile proved to be the property of Mrs. Harrington, of Warwick and she accompanied the officers to New London. The car was stolen from the garage in Warwick and en route to New London the boys burglarized a country store, stealing a quantity of cigarettes, cigars, chewing gum, candy and soda.

Edward McClue and William Walsh whose services Sergeant Samuel Hick and Patrolman Frank Philopena obtained in order to secure evidence from a trio of negro resitesces where liquor has been sold, the youths making the purchases and testifying against the accused who were fined and jailed in the police court three weeks ago, returned to New London last night. Hardly had the youths appeared on the streets than they declare they were threatened with bodily harm.

The youths were taken to the police station where they were quartered until after midnight, when the officers accompanied them to their homes.

A short time after McClue and Walsh had imparted the information of receiving threats, Sergeant Hicks and Patrolman Philopena visited the Golden street pool room of Harry Houtz suspected of trafficking in liquor a long time. As the officers entered the place a push button sounded in a side room stated to be a store room, and when the officers reached the room they found several players, but there was nothing upon which an arrest could be made as there was no money or chips to indicate gambling in sight. Houtz was in the place, and as the officers had been informed that Houtz was one of those alleged to have intimidated McClue and Walsh. Houtz was taken to the police station, he was not held, but was given a caution by Lieut. Beebe as to what he might expect if he threatened any agents of the police.

This afternoon Captain of Police Charles A. Pinney, caused James Lee, an employe of Houtz to appear at the station and Lee was threatened with revocation of his pool room license because of the side-room existence and the electric push button device. With the understanding that the side room should be abolished and that neither cards nor dice would be allowed in the pool room, Lee was given another chance.

Cornelius Walker, 15 Blydenburg avenue, whose automobile overturned at Foquonoc last night, causing the death two hours later in Home Memorial hospital of William A. Bray, 23, pay clerk in the employ of William Pierce of New York, who was a passenger in the car, sustaining fractured ribs and punctured lungs, was taken into custody this afternoon by state police and presented on a charge of manslaughter before Judge Cornelius C. Costello in the Groton town court. He was held for a hearing there next Monday morning.

Bonds were fixed at $3,000 and Walker furnished a surety.

Helen Hornstein, alias Dolores Dinsmore, alias Helen Mackenez, an employe at the Hotel Mohican, was taken into custody this morning by Sergeant Nelson Smith at the request of the authorities of Newark, N. J., on the charge of the abandonment of her minor child. She is being held until the arrival of an officer from Newark to take her back to that city for trial.

A cycle owned by Morris Rogoff, of Station 5, Watertord, was stolen from in front of the public library and another cycle belonging to Clifford Parks of 200 Connecticut avenue, was stolen while the machine was left a short time along the curb on State street.

Union Chapter, R. A. M., will go to Hartford this (Friday) evening, leaving here by automobile at 5 o'clock. There is to be work at Hartford when a large class will appear.

Police Captain Pinney in receipt of an appreciative letter from City Manager Holt, the same having been submitted to him by the commandants at Fort Wright and the Coast Guard Academy as well as the submarine base. With a large number of sailors and soldiers here most of the year it is only natural that some of them stray from the path of smooth seas and parade grounds and get snarled up with the police. But the officers are very considerate of the offenders and only the most aggravated offense causes the men in uniform to get into courts.

In the suit of Catherine Bell against the city of New London in which damages of $10,000 were sought for injuries sustained by Mrs. Bell when she fell on a sidewalk in Prest street last winter, the jury returned a verdict for the defendant today after having had the testimony under consideration for about 15 minutes.

COTTON MANUFACTURERS PLAN BIG BOSTON MEETING

The National Association of Cotton Manufacturers has completed arrangements and now announces the program for its fall convention, which will be held at the Copley Plaza hotel in Boston on Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 31 and Nov. 1.

The convention will open at 11 a. m. on Oct. 31 with President Robert Amory, of Amory, Browne & Co. of Boston, presiding. The reports of Secretary Harry C. Meserve and Treasurer W. Irving Bullard of Boston will be followed by those of committees, and President Amory will then deliver his address.

The second session will start at 2.30 p. m. on Oct. 31 with a business period at which Mr. Amory will preside. Reports will be made by the committees on constitution and by laws, and on resolutions, and a representative to the National Council will be elected. Nathan Durfee of the American Printing Co. of Fall River will be the chairman the remainder of the afternoon, during which James F. McCrudden of the Aberfoyle Mfg. Co. of Chester, Penn., and H. Gilbert Francke of the Pacific Mills of Lawrence will discuss Practical Industrial Relations, and F. W. Dean of Boston will speak on Pulverized Coal.

The third session, at 7.30 the evening of Oct. 31, will be a cabaret supper and dance managed by a ladies' committee with Mrs. Robert Amory as chairman. The ladies will wear cotton dresses. A fine vaudeville program has been arranged in the way of entertainment.

The fourth session, starting at 10 a. m. on Nov. 1, will have as its general topic, Development of Cotton Fabrics, with A. W. Dimick of Providence, treasurer of the Grosvenor Dale Co., as chairman. The papers and speakers at this session will be as follows: Design, M. D. C. Crawford, editor of Women's Wear, New York; Manufacture, Gilbert T. Thompson, Berkshire Mfg. Co., of Adams; Distribution, Charles Pinnell of the Fred Butterfield Co. of New York.

The fifth session, starting at 2.30 p. m. on Nov. 1, will be of a technical character, with A. E. Jury of the United States Rubber Co. of New York as chairman. The subjects and speakers will be: A Century of Progress in Cotton Manufacture, Prof. Stephen E. Smith, in charge of the cotton manufacturing course at the Lowell Textile School; Artificial Silk and Its Possibilities in the Cotton Industry, Bertrand R. Clarke, vice president of the Tubize Artificial Silk Corporation of New York; Methods of Handling Artificial Silk, Particularly in Winding, Copping, Warping, Sizing and Weaving Operations, W. F. Copper of the Viscose Co., New York.

The sixth and last session will be the banquet, at 7.30 p. m., on Nov. 1, with President Robert Amory as toastmaster. There will be two speakers, one of whom will be B. F. Griffin of the Boston News Bureau. The other will be announced a little later.

In connection with its fall meeting, the national association has now ready for presentation a unique exhibit of modern and ancient cotton fabrics. This will be seen at the International Textile Exposition at the Mechanics building in Boston from Oct. 29 to Nov. 3.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain. How To Treat

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestents are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

THE LIFE OF A HOME

A healthy, happy, contented wife is the life and joy of the home and the greatest inspiration a man can have, yet how many homes in America are blighted by the ill-health and sufferings of the wife and mother. It may be backache, headaches, the tortures of a displacement or some other ailment peculiar to her sex, which makes her irritable, despondent, and her whole life a burden. Every woman in this condition should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made from roots and herbs to restore her to health and happiness, for statistics prove that it benefits 98 out of every 100 women who try it.

Hope Had Flown When Help Came, Says Parker

"I gained ten pounds by taking Tanlac over a year ago and the medicine put me in such fine shape I've felt fine ever since," said James H. Parker, 90 Franklin St., Westfield, Mass.

"For years I suffered from stomach trouble, and as nothing helped me, I gradually lost hope of ever being well again. Some days I could eat a little and some days I couldn't. When I did eat, I suffered from sour stomach, gas, bloating, palpitation so bad I could hardly breathe. My sleep was very broken, I suffered from constipation and headaches and always felt sluggish and weak.

MARKET FLUCTUATED.

New York, Oct. 25.—Price readjustments in today's stock market were largely downward. However, the comparative stability of the customary industrial leaders and the relatively light volume of trading were generally construed as indicating no change in the recent uncertain speculative outlook.

Selling pressure was concentrated principally on the low priced rails, coppers and a select group of specialties, two score of which were depressed to new low levels for the year. Among the stocks to break below their resistance points were such issues as American Smelting, Anaconda, Kennecott, Calument, Hecla, Northern Pacific, St. Paul common and preferred, Great Northern, Pere Marquette preferred, American Sugar common and preferred, Central Leather preferred and U. S. Rubber common and preferred.

Bear operators succeeded in forcing the close out of some weakly margined accounts among the Grangers which were offered on the theory that the contemplated reduction in grain freight rates would materially affect earnings. President Bryan of the St. Paul declared, however, that he could see no reason for the public's change in attitude toward his road. September earnings of which were the best in three years while 1923 earnings to date were running $5,000,000 ahead of last year.

Liquidation of the coppers was in direct reflection of the drop in the price of the red metal to 12 3-5 cents a pound, a new low for the year, with the demand of big consumers limited. Loss of export business by recent developments along the Rhine has been one of the depressing factors in the copper situation.

Statements of E. M. Gary before the American Iron & Steel Institute that the business outlook was good and inquiries for steel and iron unusually large were offset by announcement of a reduction of $1 a ton in the pig iron price at Chicago. The principal steel stocks either closed unchanged or slightly lower.

Famous Players hardened on a denial of reports that the holdings of the principal officers had been materially reduced, but it failed to hold its gain. Declaration of a $00 per cent. stock dividend by Congoleum brought about profit taqking with a consequent reduction in price. Publication of a trade agreement between American Tobacco and Tobacco Products resulted in a sharp recession in the A and B issues of the latter although the preferred established a new top and held its gain.

Call money opened at 4 1-2 per cent. and then dropped to 4 again before the close. The time money market was quiet although a fair amount of business at 60 and 90 days was transacted at 5 per cent., with bankers generally holding out for 5 1-2. The commercial paper market is broad with an easier trend.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Oct. 25.—New upturns in the price of wheat today resulted chiefly from reports of threatened damage by frost in Argentina and from continued gossip that the United States government would take some action likely to enhance grain values. The market closed unsettled, 3-8 to 7-8c. net higher, with December $1.07 to $1.07 1-4 and May $1.11 5-8 to $1.11 3-4. Corn finished 3-8 to 1 1-4c up, oats at 1-8 to 1-8@1-4c gain and provisions varying from five cents decline to 17c advance.

Knowledge that the wheat crop in Argentina is at a critical stage of development gave special emphasis to word of unseasonable cold weather, and bullish sentiment was further increased by the fact that leading commission houses kept their patrons on the alert for Washington news touching expected measures to help grain growers. Regardless of weather some of the proposed plans were considered wise or unwise, the immediate effect in the market here was to restrain speculative shelling and to encourage buying.

For the most part, price gains that the wheat market scored were held during the late dealings, although some reaction was witnessed. Talk of prospective calling of an economic conference to be participated in by the signatories of the Versailles treaty including the United States was construed by some authorities as a bullish factor. On the other hand, renewed uncertainty existed in regard to whether United States vessels would co-operate in hauling Canadian wheat eastward on the Great Lakes. Canadian wheat was reported as being brought into the United States, duty paid.

Unfavorable weather and disappointing husking returns tendered to lift the corn market, and so, to, did sympathy with wheat. Oats showed a little firmness in response to the upturn in other cereals.

Provisions were quiet and displayed no significant change.

CURB MARKET.

New York, Oct. 25.—Stock prices moved irregularly within a narrow trading area in today's curb market. There were few signs of special strength although several oil shares recorded sharp drops.

Trading during the forenoon dragged listlessly with price levels close to opening quotations. Toward noon good buying support for Humble Oil became evident and that stock rose more than a point. Imperial Oil of Canada slid off three points and the Standard Oil issues sagged fractionally.

Industrials were dull without indications either of particular support or selling pressure. Ford Motors of Canada was heavy, losing seven points and most of the motors gave way fractionally. Park & Tilford, Reading Coal Rights, and Mesabi Iron were other shares to recede slightly.

Mining issues moved within narrow limits.

BOND MARKET.

New York, Oct. 25.—Bond traders were kept busy today filling orders for the higher grade railroad mortgages of the 4 per cent. issues. More than a score of these bonds, several of them not listed on the New York Stock Exchange, accordingly advanced from small fractions to nearly 2 points. The buying was reported to have come from Holland where many of the older railroad 4s are also listed.

This greatly increased demand for railroad securities, however, did not extend to the general run of railroad bonds, and there was widespread selling of Misouri Pacific, and St. Paul bonds practically all of which touched new lows for the year.

Buying and selling was about evenly divided in the industrial and public utility groups, the former inclining upward slightly while the latter moved to lower ground. Price movements in the industrials were influenced for the most part by stock prices.

Active United States government bonds continued to be bought in sizable blocks. The tax exempt 3 1-2s moving above par for the first time in two months.

An offering is expected soon of $12,600,000 Pere Marquette first mortgage bonds with a 5 per cent. coupon.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Great interest is centered in the concert appearance of the world famous artist in the Slater Hall Musical course for the season of 1923-24.

The artists will appear as follows:

Miss Gordon made her first appearance in opera with the Creatore Opera company. At an audition she made at the Metropolitan Opera house she was heard by Antonio Scotti, who was so struck with her beautiful voice that he engaged her at once for the Scotti Grand Opera Co. As a member of the Metropolitan Opera Co. Jeanne Gordon's success has been almost sensational. This singer is fast taking the place in the hearts of the New York operatic public relinquished by Mme. Louise Homer. She unites beauty and range of voice, with beauty of face and figure with dramatic instinct and intelligence.

On Friday evening, January 11th, Percy Grainger, the famous Australian pianist and composer.

On Wednesday evening, Feb. 6th, Olive Marshall, the noted soprano and Jean Betetti, 'cellist of the Boston Symphony orchestra.

On Friday evening, March 7th, Erna Rubinstein, the great violinist.

Course tickets $6 for fixe concerts. Tax exempt.

"The Silent Command" at the Breed.

Love, intrigue and the high seas play important parts in "The Silent Command," the William Fox spectacular melodrama, directed by J. Gordon Edwards, which is the feature at the Breed today and Saturday.

There have been screen dramas before in which international complications have had great bearing on the plot. But the author of "The Silent Command" has excelled them all in the skill which he has sustained the interest in the scheming of a set of spies. The keynote to this condition of affairs is sounded in the first scenes in the picture and is carried through with increasing power to the final episode. All this is shown against a constantly varying background, much of which has to do with ships and the open seas. The picture is crowded with big scenic effects, including what is said to be the most realistic sea disaster ever shown on the screen.

A splendid company interprets the long list of characters, Edmund Lowe appears in the leading male role, Captain Richard Decatur, and Alma Tell plays opposite him as his wife. Other important characters have been allotted as follows: Hisston, Bela Lugosi; Menchen, Carl Harbaugh; Cordoba, Martin Faust; Gridley, Gordon McEdward; Admiral Nevins, Byron Douglas; Ambassador Mendisabal, Warren Cook; Pee Williams, Martha Mansfield; Dolores, Betty Jewell; Mrs. Nevins, Kate Blancke.

Ruth Roland in "Haunted Valley," the Pathe News and a Sunshine comedy make up the remainder of the bill.

Strand Theatre.

It has been said—and truly—that "a thing of beauty is a joy forever," and we venture the assertion that this will hold true in the case of "The Rip Tide," the picture which is drawing throngs of local theatregoers to the Strand theatre where it will hold the screen for another two days. We feel safe in predicting for "The Rip Tide" an eminently long and successful career, for it is without a doubt one of the most beautiful productions ever made. Its sets are superlatively lovely and give undeniable evidence of the infinite care, thought, time and expense which went into the making of the picture.

But beauty is not "The Rip Tide's" only claim to greatness. For while it is, as has been said, a superbly lovely thing the fact remains that it also unfolds upon the screen as tense and gripping a drama as has ever been played before the camera's eye. The story, in a series of colorful sequences, shows the soul development of a young Indian prince who renounces the faith of his father for the teachings of the Church of England, to return again to the beliefs and customs of his ancestors when he is caught in the clutch of as unusual a set of circumstances as ever was conceived in a dramatist's brain.

Other attractions included the New Cather Pushers, with Reginald Wewy in "The Wandering Two," and a News Weekly.

Philharmonic Orchestra in New London.

When the Philharmonic orchestra gave its first concert on December 7th, 1842, it may reasonably be surmised that every first class player in New York took part in the concert. At that time there were a number of musicians in the orchestra who would find difficulty in passing today's examination for admission to a symphony orchestra.

In this connection, someone may ask the question, what is a symphony orchestra? And how many players constitute a good one? The answer would be, a group of musicians distributed in three important choirs, strings, wood wind, and brass, with a harp for additional color, and percussion instruments such as drums, cymbals, etc.

The choirs of an orchestra are divided into four parts comparable to a choir of singers, soprano, alto, tenor, first violins, second violins, violas, and violoncellos. The double basses are so called because they double the bass part played by the 'cellos, one octave lower.

The wood wind choir is composed of oboes, flutes, clairinets, and bassoons and sometimes augmented by the piccolo, whose tone is an octave higher than the flute, and the contra bassoon, the tone of which is an octave lower than the bassoon.

A recent letter from William Van Hoogstratem, the new conductor of the Philharmonic orchestra, states that he will bring to New London, October 29th, 18 first violins, 18 second violins; 12 violas, 10 violoncellos, 10 double basses, 4 oboes, 4 flutes, 4 clarinetes, 4 bassoons, 1 piccolo, 1 English horn, 1 contra bassoon, 5 cornets, 4 French horns 3 trombones, 1 tuba, 3 harps, 1 tympanist and a battery of 3 percussion players.

Broadway Theatre.

An all around fine programme of B. F. Keith Supreme vaudeville was presented yesterday at the Broadway theatre.

The feature attraction is Harmonyland, a company of five people presenting one of the finest musical offerings in vaudeville.

Followed Frank Richardson, the joy boy of songs.

Hymans and Evans in third spot furnished plenty of comedy.

Jack Dillon, who directed Mary Pickford in "Suds," and many other notable screen successes, directed the filming of "The Self-Made Wife," the Universal all-star attraction now playing at the Broadway theatre. The screen play was adapted by Albert Kenyon from the Saturday Evening Post story by Elisabeth Alexander. In the cast are Ethel Grey Terry, Craufurd Kent, Phillips Smalley, Dorothy Cummings and Virginia Ainsworth.

Hallowe'en Dance.

Tonight at the State Armory the annual Hallowe'en dance of the First Combat Train will be held. Last year the big drill shed was very pretty in decoration of varied color lights, colored streamers, and balloons. They have this year prepared for a large crowd and have received a large consignment of various novelties and varied hats, horns, etc., with the usual complete and streamer rolls to make this year's event pass their two previous successes.

They plan to release the hundreds of balloons held in the top of the drill shed at 9.45 o'clock and a merry time will take place then. They have secured the Hyperion orchestra of ten pieces for the dance programme and they promise the very best and most popular numbers only. The Veterans of Foreign Wars are this year taking part and promise to make our big event go over even bigger. Be there and be there early.

PRESENT HOSPITAL CAMPAIGN BEFORE NORWICH ROTARIANS

Important facts concerning the Backus Hospital drive for funds for a new nurses home were given at the noonday luncheon of the Norwich Rotary club on Wednesday by Campaign Director Treadwell Cleveland and local Chairman James L. Case. Both speakers laid stress on the importance of bringing before the public the needs of the hospital which is a community institution; also the need of having the right spirit behind the drive and also the subject of memorials. Mr. Cleveland cited several campaigns in towns the size of Norwich where double the amount asked was raised. In Keene, N. H., a place with 11,000 population, the per capita subscription was $19. If each person in Norwich gave $19 the total would be approximately $570,000, more than twice what is asked.

In speaking of memorials Mr. Case said that already there has been a number of those subscribed for by Norwich citizens and he asked the opinion of the Rotary club about taking one in the name of the club. On the motion of Lucius Briggs the matter as referred to President Charles A. Saxton who will appoint a committee to decide on the matter.

President Charles A. Saxton presided at the meeting and E. LaRue Billyen was the song leader. One of the delightful features of the meeting was the singing of Miss Edna Ayers who is appearing at the Palace theater. Miss Ayers rendered in very fine voice four selections which were most heartily appreciated by the members of the club.

For the benefit of the Backus Hospital drive Rotarian Bill Park acted as auctioneer for two fine two-color etchings, the work of Ozias Dodge, local artist. The etchings, one a winter scene and the other an autumn sketch, brought a substantial sum for the hospital.

President Charles A. Saxton made a graceful presentation of the William G. Park Golf Trophy, emblematic of the Rotary Club golf title, to Lucius Briggs who captured the cup in the annual tournament last week. Mr. Briggs accepted the trophy with a few appropriate and very modest remarks.

An announcement was made by Secretary J. Nelson Weymouth to the effect that District Governor George Cooper of Pittsfield, Mass., and his daughter would make an official visitation to the club on the evening of Nov. 14th and that the regular meeting will take place at that time.

TEN TABLES PLAYED AT A. O. H. AUXILIARY WHIST

The Ladies' Auxiliary, A. O. H., Division 18, gave a whist Tuesday evening at Buckingham Memorial 10 tables being played. Prizes were won by the following players, Mrs. Andrew Wholey, a bud vase; Mrs. Margaret Delaney, tea pot; Miss Margaret Monaher, necktie; Mrs. James Connelly, bill fold.

Anniversary Surprise Party

Thirty friends of Mrs. Frank B. Disco surprised her at her home at 25 Boswell avenue Tuesday evening and a most enjoyable evening was spent. Her many friends who had been away during the summer noting that Mrs. Disco celebrated her twelfth wedding anniversary during the summer arranged the party in honor of that occasion. Refreshments were served during the evening and the party wished their hostess many more such happy anniversaries.

SUIT FOR $10,000 FROM AUTO ACCIDENT

Congetta Cafaro of Groton, who lives on the state highway running from Groton to Westerly, has brought suit for $10,000 damages against Lloyd Hall of this city because of injuries she received when struck by an automobile driven by the defendant on June 21, 1923.

The papers in the case have been returned and were filed on Thursday at the office of Judge George E. Parsons, clerk of the superior court.

Mrs. Cafaro claims that she was crossing the highway from the north to the south side to go to her home about 7.30 p. m. and was three feet off the traveled way when she was struck and knocked down by the automobile, receiving internal injuries and serious injuries about the head, shoulders, arms and body. She alleges that Hall failed to have his car under control and failed to give any warning or signal. Because of the injuries she lost $500 in wages, is permanently injured and has spent large sums for medical expenses.

Nacisse Lafontaine of Gales Ferry has brought suit in the superior court for divorce from Agnes Fowler, Lafontaine of Norwich Town on the ground of desertion since Oct. 20, 1920. They were married Sept. 6, 1916.

CHIEF JUSTICE WHEELER REVEALS WHAT HE SAID TO THE JUDGES

Chief Justice George W. Wheeler did not demand or urge that city and town court justices impose jail sentences on all convicted liquor law violators when he addressed the judges of New London county here last month and of other counties at their county seats. Justice Wheeler advocated imposition of such severe penalty for first offenders as a general rule, but left it to individual courts to impose different penalty in exceptional cases.

It will be remembered that Judge Creedon of the Hartford city court strenuously objected to Chief Justice Wheeler's recommendation as imposing jail penalties upon all first offenders. Chief Justice Wheeler refused to commenit upon Judge Creedon's interview or to permit at that time the publication of his address, although urged by the members of the several conferences and by the press to do this. The chief justice went ahead with his program and held the several conferences according to program, and in each instance was supported by every county conference. Now that these are over, the chief justice has yielded to the many requests made to him and Thursday released the address delivered to the New London and other county conferences. The address shows that Judge Creedon was mistaken.

I have taken the liberty of asking you to meet in conference today relative to the problem of law enforcement. I want you to fully understand that I recognize that you are, each one of you, independent officials over whom the law gives me not the slightest control or supervision, nor do I assume such. We are, however, each a part of the law-enforcing machinery of the state and as such we should act in harmony. There ought to be entire co-operation in purpose, spirit and action between the judges of the higher courts and you gentlemen. I am not bringing to you merely my own view; I am bringing to you what I believe to be, at least, in substance, the view of the judges of the higher courts upon the subject of law enforcement.

Prominent Citizens Flaunt Law.

That which has aroused me to action is not alone interest in the cause of prohibition as such. I saw a steadily growing disrespect for the law. If it had been confined to the original classes, or the ignorant or wayward, the officials could have met it and in time conquered it.

But when the men who represent the business and wealth of the country defy and flaunt the constitution and the law and become the patrons of the bootlegger, and when they are joined by a very considerable group of educated men who see in the restriction of this amendment and these laws a restriction upon their right of action, and when these are joined by some of the radicals and the parlor socialists of the country to whom liberty means license to do as they please, the situation becomes a hard one to deal with.

What Can Judges Do?

And now, gentlemen, what can we do practically to help enforce this law? I speak first to those who like myself are a part of the judiciary of the state. What has your contact with this liquor problem taught you? Has it not been made clear to every experienced judge that those who are engaged in this bootlegging traffic are desperate criminals who stop at no crime to accomplish their end? They will murder, rob and assault. They hire gunmen to assassinate our peace officers. They are ready to bribe you if you would permit it. They are corrupting the profession of the law by the payment of huge fees for professional services; they are paying for service which no self-respecting lawyer ought to engage upon. The promise of a man engaged in the liquor traffic, whether made to a court or a citizen, is wholly valueless. When they say they'll stop selling and go out of business, you know and I know that unless you have the most tactive police supervision they won't keep their promise. Every ruse that human ingenuity can concoct they will resort to. And you know, too, that almost all of the liquor they sell is far from pure and doctored to such an extent that it is injurious to health and dangerous to life. It was only a few days ago the federal director of Connecticut told me that in only one case during his term of office had the liquor taken by the officials of the United States analyzed pure, and the superintendent of the state police confirmed this as his experience. The men who are buying of the bootlegger are often being sold, and they are risking their lives and the lives of their friends.

No "First Offenders" Now.

Why, gentlemen of the judiciary, do I draw this picture? So that we may have before us the average criminal, who is trafficking in the illegal trade. Is he in any case entitled to your judicial sympathy? Should he receive at your hands, in any case, mercy? No, at this late day there is no such thing as a first offender. He acted in the full knowledge that he was committing a crime. He did it for money. When you come to the sentence, remember that your act is not alone to punish the guilty, but by its example to deter others who would make money out of the violation of the United States constitution. What is he entitled to? Justice, no more, no less. The law gives to him a fair trial, accords him that. Don't allow yourself to be misled by adroit or unscrupulous advocacy. If he is proven guilty beyond a reasonable doubt or if he plead guilty, what should his sentence be? You will understand I am speaking of the trafficker in liquor, or the transporter of liquor, whether he be the principal or the agent. I am not speaking of the man or woman who is making liquor for his or her own consumption. The two classes of crime stand on a different basis. Then what should be the sentence of the criminal convicted in the ordinary case, not the exceptional case, of the crime of trafficking in liquor, or in transporting it? It is my judgment and, judging by their acts, the judgment of the great majority of judges of the superior court, that justice requires for such a criminal a jail sentence, varying in amount by the character of the crime. And, in the event that it is a serious crime, the accused should be bound over to the higher court

Fine is License to Commit Crime.

It would be my judgment that upon the request of the state attorney's office, that a case be bound over, the court ought to act in accordance with that request. You may be quite certain that such a request will not be made except upon adequate occasion. We shall not permit the powers of the local courts to be improperly usurped, nor on the other hand shall we permit the local courts to prevent a proper administration of the criminal law so long as the superior court has original jurisdiction over this class of crimes. The judgment of the judges of the higher courts has been formed upon their experience and wide knowledge of the course of chime throughout the state. A mere fine in this class of crimes is a mere license to commit this crime. It is no deterrent to the crime. The liquor seller charges it up to overhead expense. There is only one way to deal with this class of criminal, let them feel and suffer the full penalty of their crime.

Suspended Sentence Overworked.

Two things more I must refer to in this connection. Sometimes in the past the fact that a part of the fine went into the treasury of the town or city has been a controlling reason with local courts for imposing a fine instead of a jail sentence. Gentlemen, that is an indefensible judicial consideration. It is not only wrong, it is unmoral. Then it is a frequent practice to impose a jail sentence upon the promise to get out of the business or to dismantle. If the judge uses the power of suspended sentence sparingly, and personally follows up the case to see if the criminal really carries it out, it may sometimes be a wise disposition of the case. But as this kind of sentence now operates throughout the state I am of the opinion that it is greatly overworked. This has formed one of the most frequent causes of complaint made to me in recent months.

Remember, gentlemen, these men and women are deliberate criminals. The issuance of warrants by the court should be more liberal than it has sometimes been. Interpret the law with reason, in the light of your common sense, and interpret it so as to uphold the law rather than to make it difficult or impossible for the prosecutor and the peace officers to enforce it.

May I not ask one other service of you members of the judiciary? You stand in your community as the representative of law and order. We must get public opinion to support it better than it is now doing. Whatever you can do in your several communities to inculcate a better sentiment for law enforcement, I beg that you do it. You ought to be the leaders in this movement.

Duties of Prosecutors.

The prosecutors and grand jurors are charged by our law without especial responsibility. Whether you shall prosecute and how you shall prosecute are questions of supreme importance to individuals, as well as to the state. The law does not want an innocent man prosecuted, neither does it want a probably guilty man to escape prosecution. As prosecutors you ought to be fair and never compromise with duty. In most cases you recommend whether an accused shall be fined, given a jail sentence, bound over or discharged. The state's attorneys are a unit in their opinion that the sellers or transporters of liquor, as a rule, should receive a jail sentence as well as a fine. I commend their judgment to you. May I not ask you to adopt the practice, to recommend in all cases except the exceptional case, of those found guilty of trafficking in or transporting intoxicating liquor, that they be given a jail sentence together with a fine? It is the judgment of the great majority of the officials of the supreme court charged with the enforcement of this law that in no other way can this class of crimes be exterminated. There may be an exceptional case, but they will be very few and far between. You come in close contact with our peace officers, your attitude will have a strong tendency to shape their course. If you are rigidly in favor of a strict enforcement many of them will be. Arouse in them a pride in their work. If you find the peace officers do not and will not enforce this law, do not give up. Go to the state police for help. If you cannot get it, go to the state attorney. And at any time, I shall always be ready to confer with you and to communicate with you, and to do everything in my power to help you to enforce the law. I have confidence that you are as competent as any of the other prosecutors of the state to enforce this law. The beginning rests with you. I know what a responsibility it is. But it goes with your office, and so long as you hold this office you cannot escape its obligations.

I do not know what are the special difficulties which prevent your enforcing the law in your several communities. But I do know that in some of the towns and cities of the county there has been much to be desired in the enforcement of this law. If you gentlemen can't get proper support from your police department or peace officers, I repeat, talk the matter over with the state's attorney's office or with me, and we'll see if we can't find a way to overcome your difficulties.

I hope you understand that you shall have behind you all the help we can give you. We purpose to ultimately have this law enforced. You who will be the active agents in its enforcement will win for yourselves the commendation of all law-respecting and law-obeying citizens, and I know of no work which will do more to build up your character among the people whose good opinion should be the desire of every public official.

Liquor Can Be Eradicated.

The saloon, the bootlegger and the still can be eradicated if you so will. But that isn't all that you should do. You should devise meas to stop the sources of supply, prevent its transportation through or its entrance into your town. If you find it impossible to do this, go to the state's attorney's office for help.

See that liquor taken is confiscated. The state law does not enable you to have the truck or automobile conveying it but the federal law gives such power. Forthwith notify the federal officers and see that the truck or auto is condemned. The still can be held as evidence; if you do not need it as evidence, turn it over to the federal officials who have the power to confiscate it.

It is your duty as prosecutors to follow up all appealed cases from your court, to see that the prosecutor or state attorney has the facts and has before him the judgment of the local court and your own judgment upon the case. It is your right and your duty to do what you can to have justice done in every case appealed from your court.

War Against Criminals.

This is a war, gentlemen, against a strongly intrenched body of criminals who have brains and an evil capacity. Can't you match them in brains and energy and courage? Soon you will feel the help, and if you lag, the pressure of the moral forces of the state. Take my word for it, for I know the facts. Slowly they are being aroused. We officials will soon find them behind us in our effort to support the Constitution and maintain the law. We are not acting alone, we are acting in concert with all law-enforcing officials of the state. And, gentlemen, we shall not fail.

I regret that I have trespassed at such length upon your time. The meeting is intended for a free discussion. I hope you will participate freely and fully and regardless of whether you agree with my views or not, and at the conclusion of the conference when all have had the opportunity to be heard, I trust that out of the discussion shall come a clear-cut statement of purpose and action which shall encourage the law-respecting people of the state in the belief that the law-enforcing officials of New London county can be depended upon to enforce the Eighteenth amendment and the state law in its aid with impartiality, keen intelligence, vigor and courage.

For Burial in New Haven

The body of Henry McKeon who died in this city Tuesday, Oct. 23, in his 60th year was sent by Cummings and Ring to New Haven where burial is to take place. The firm also sent the body of Patrick Monahan to Hartford to relatives. Mr. Monahan died in Preston Monday, Oct. 22 and was 36 years old.

Scouts Going to Yale-Brown Game.

This week Saturday several automobiles will take a troop of Scouts to the Yale-Brown football game at New Haven. St. Patrick's troop and others will start at 10 o'clock for New Haven. Scouts will go in uniform and will be admitted free. Scout Executive Benton has secured reservations for 35 Scouts in the Yale Bowl.

If virtue were not its own reward it would go unrewarded in most cases.

1000 Eggs In Every Hen

New System of Poultry Keeping—Get Dollar A Dozen Eggs—Famous Poultryman TELLS HOW

"The great trouble with the poultry business has always been that the laying life of a hen was too short," says Henry Trafford, International Poultry Expert and Breeder, for nearly eighteen years Editor of Poultry Success.

The average pullet lays 150 eggs. If kept the second year, she may lay 100 more. Then she goes to market. Yet it has been scientifically established that every pullet is born or hatched with over one thousand minute egg germs in her system—and will lay them on a highly profitable basis over a period of four to six years' time if given proper care.

How to work to get 1,000 eggs from every hen; how to get pullets laying early; how to make the old hens lay like pullets; how to keep up heavy egg production all through cold winter months when eggs are highest; triple egg production; make slacker hens hustle; $5.00 profit from every hen in six winter months. These and many other money-making poultry secrets are contained in Mr. Trafford's "1,000 EGG HEN" system of poultry raising, one copy of which will be sent absolutely free to any reader of this paper who keeps six hens or more. Eggs should go to a dollar or more a dozen this winter. This means big profit to the poultry keeper who gets the eggs. Mr. Trafford tells how; if you keep chickens and want them to make money for you, cut out this adv. and send it with your name and address to Henry Trafford, Suite 852-C, Herald Bldg., Binghamton, N. Y., and a free copy of "THE 1,000 EGG HEN" will be sent by return mail.

SACHEM CHAPTER, O. E. S., CELEBRATES 20TH ANNIVERSARY

Over 200 members of Sachem chapter, No. 57, O. E. S., with guests from Charity chapter, No. 61, of Mystic, and chapters in New Bedford, New London and Rockland, Me., met at the chapter rooms in the Odd Fellows' building on Main street Wednesday evening to celebrate the 20th anniversary of the institution of Sachem chapter.

The regular business meeting was held in the main hall upstairs with Worthy Matron Frances A. Geer and Worthy Patron Arad R. Manning presiding. Owing to the occasion little business was transacted and adjournment was taken to the hall downstairs where a delightful entertainment had been prepared. There were solos by Mrs. Maude Baker Crowe, recitations by Miss Isabelle Shearer and selections by an orchestra comprising the Misses Viola Levitsky, Janie Lambert and Miriam Grover, with Arthur Fitch playing the drums. The entertainment was greatly enjoyed and numerous encores were asked of the entertainers. Later in the evening a buffet luncheon was served consisting of tuna fish salad, rolls, cake and coffee.

A special feature of the evening was a brief history of the chapter given by Elmer Kinsman, one of the charter members of the chapter, in which he traced the growth from the date of institution until the present day, naming the officers past and present. Another feature was a large and beautifully decorated chapter birthday cake which was cut into small pieces and distributed among the members as a keepsake.

Guests of honor for the evening were nine of the charter members, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer D. Kinsman, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Stevens, Mrs. Emily Williams, Miss Lottie Williams, Mrs. Mollie G. Tracy, Mrs. Lois W. Durie and Mrs. William R. Stevens. These nine represented the original 24, of whom four have passed away since the institution of the chapter. The deceased charter members are Mrs. Gertrude H. Lippitt, Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Allen and Mrs. Nettie W. Newton.

In honor of the occasion a special collection was taken up during the evening and a substantial amount was realized to go to the Masonic home fund.

Sachem chapter, No. 57, O. E. S., was instituted Oct. 23, 1903, in the Buckingham Memorial by Grand Matron Mrs. Elizabeth C. Sawtell and Grand Patron Edgar M. Baldwin of the grand chapter of Connecticut and their associate officers. For many years the meetings of the chapter were held in the place of its birth, but on June 9, 1917, the original 24 membership had grown to great proportions and it became necessary to change the meeting place to the Chamber of Commerce hall on Main street. Meetings continued in this hall after the block was purchased by the Odd Fellows and lately the membership of 325 has made it necessary to secure larger quarters and the main lodge room upstairs was secured early this year, meetings being held on the second and fourth Wednesdays.

When the chapter was instituted in 1903 the officers installed by the visiting grand officers were as follows: Mrs. Eva Caulkins, worthy matron; Elmer D. Kinsman, worthy patron; Mrs. Minnie Caulkins, associate matron; Robert M. Byles, secretary; Dr. C. E. Caulkins, treasurer; Miss Lottie Williams, conductress; Miss Lois Woodworth, associate conductress; C. C. Caulkins, chaplain; Mrs. Emily Williams, marshal; Mrs. Frances Allen, Adah; Miss Grace Bassett, Ruth; Mrs. Mollie Tracy, Esther; Mrs. Nettie Newton, Martha; Mrs. Gertrude Lippitt, Electa; Mrs. Emma D. Treat, organist; Mrs. Maud Stevens, warden; C. A. Gager, Jr., sentinel.

Since that time the following past matrons have served the chapter: Mrs. Eva W. Caulkins, Mrs. Gertrude H. Lippitt, Miss Lottie E. Williams, Mrs. Lois W. Durie, Mrs. Maude L. # AN ADVISORY CONFERENCE OF EXPERTS ON GERMAN REPARATIONS NOW ASSURED

France, Belgium and Italy Have Accepted the British Proposals—French Acceptance Was Taken With the Understanding That American Economic Experts Participate in the Conference—French Foreign Official Asserts That Premier Poincare's Decision Was Largely Influenced by Secretary Hughes' Approval of the Project—Satisfaction Expressed in German Government Circles.

London, Oct. 26.—America's decision to lend her advice and cooperation in a conference for the settlement of the German reparation muddle seems to have lighted Europe out of the slough of depression.

Secretary Hughes' prompt and decisive response to Marquis Curzon's plea for American assistance has given impetus to a situation which has heretofore been marked by utter inertia, and for the first time today British officials began to see a rift in the mists which have enveloped the problem so long.

America's voice, stressing the imperative need of finding a suitable financial plan toprevent economic disaster in Europe, found prompt echoes in Paris, Brussels, and Rome, for it became known late this afternoon at the British foreign office that France Belgium and Italy had all accepted the principle of an advisory conference of experts.

While the British authorities would have preferred a full conference of ministers to liquidate the reparation troubles, they hope the preliminary conference of experts will lead to a larger council of allied and American statesmen.

France's consent to enter the advisory conference of experts will involve the question of acceptance of the American principle that the interallied debts and German reparations must be divorced, a point upon which Premier Poincare heretofore has differed from Great Britain and the United States.

France will also have to face the question of reducing the amount of indemnity from Germany under the Versailles treaty, which in the past has been fixed at 6,600,000,000 pounds sterling or 132,000,000,000 gold marks. This sum and the question of granting a moratorium to Germany were the points which led to the failure of the last expert bankers' commission of which J. P. Morgan was a member.

If, as the British government anticipates, M. Poincare agrees to these and other conditions, it will then remain only for the nations participating in the conference to appoint their experts and formulate a program of procedure.

British officials seem to favor Berlin as the principal seat of the conference, as this would make Germany's books and records and the German officials themselves more accessible to the experts who are to appraise Germany's assets and her capacity to redeem her indemnity obligations.

PRINTERS UNABLE TO MEET THE DEMAND FOR NOTES

Berlin, Oct. 26.—The proposed general strike of the printers is still in abeyance, as the vote of the proposal in the different printing offices, upon which the printers federation insisted, has not yet been taken. The state printing works therefore are working at full pressure, but they still are powerless to cope with the enormous demand for notes.

Today the Reichsbank was besieged with vehicles from factories and banks waiting to cart money away. Queues of people, with the same object in view, were so long that traffic was obstructed and a special force of police was required to keep order. Many bank messengers took places in the long lines as early as two o'clock this morning.

It is now hoped the new rentenmarks will be ready for issue tomorrow and that this will ease the situation. Each rentenmark note will bear an inscription to the effect that the German rentenbank is bound to exchange rentenmarks on demand for rentenbonds on a gold basis with five per cent. interest. It was announced today that the government next week purposes to begin to pay the wages of state officials and workers next week in stable currency, that is rentenmarks.

WASHINGTON OFFICIALS HOPEFUL OF ADJUSTMENT

Washington, Oct. 26.—The view expressed in official circles here today was that a bridge had been created in the European reparation negotiations of such a nature as might lead eventually to a practical plan of adjustment.

This comment was made after the French conditional acceptance of the British suggestion for a commission of economic experts had been communicated informally to the state department by Paris.

The French position was understood here as contemplating participation of American experts in the advisory commission, to be named subject to the approval of the Washington administration.

American officials are confident that details of the arrangement can be promptly completed and that some sort of a commission will begin at an early date.

The method of appointment is undoubtedly regarded as important both here and abroad, since what is aimed at, as Secretary Hughes pointed out in his New Haven address last December, is that the unbiased judgment of qualified experts be sought as to how much Germany can pay and still retain sufficient economic life and inducement to make any payments at all. Men who could make such a study must be carefully selected, it is pointed out, and their names and qualifications must be known beyond the borders of their own countries if their advance is to have any weight.

GERMAN GOV'T OFFICERS EXPRESSES SATISFACTION

Berlin, Oct. 26.—Much satisfaction was expressed in government circles today over the report that the plan of Secretary of State Hughes for the appointment of an international commission to ascertain Germany's capacity to pay reparations had been accepted as the basis of a proposal for a discussion on the subject. It was pointed out that Germany has been a consistent supporter of the program of Secretary Hughes from the moment it was put forward by him in his speech in New Haven last December.

Notwithstanding what was deemed the caution manifested in the American reply to the British government's "feelers" regarding the conference, official quarters evinced satisfaction over Premier Baldwin's speech at Plymouth Thursday night and what were termed the frank utterances of General Jan Christian Smuts, the South African Premier, in his two recent talks on the subjects of reparations. The speeches of both statesmen were characterized as material contributions to the attempt to revive discussion of the question of Germany's ability to pay reparations.

FRANCE WAS INFLUENCED BY AMERICAN PROPOSAL

Paris, Oct. 26.—The French government has accepted the British proposal for an examination into Germany's capacity to pay reparation. It is regarded in diplomatic circles that Premier Poincare has thus avoided a bad turning in France's international relations, for this morning, when the American note and Prime Minister Baldwin's speech were published here, he appeared to be beset on all sides.

Defied by the German Chancellor in a speech which was regarded as presaging prolongation and intensification of the troubles with the Reich, and summoned by his allied associates to accept the principle of the conference which he had hitherto steadily rejected, the French Premier seemed to have been isolated, if not cornered.

His prompt acceptance of one of the alternate proposals made by the British Prime Minister clears the atmosphere, and while nothing is expected by French officials to come from a reestimate of Germany's capacity, France will have at least avoided the appearance of hanging back on a proposal approved by the American government.

The first impression regarding M. Poincare's reply was that it practically rejected Mr. Baldwin's proposal, since it limited the constitution of the examining commission by putting the nominations up to the reparation commission, which was tantamount to rejecting the idea of a conference of plenipotentiaries named by the various governments.

When it transpired later that there were alternate projects in the British proposal, one for an international conference of plenipotentiaries and the other for a committee to be named by the reparation commission, it was seen that the Premier's reply constituted an acceptance.

A high official of the foreign office tonight declared that M. Poincare's decision was largely influenced by the American approval of the project. France, he added, was particularly happy to welcome and facilitate all she could such participation by the United States in settlement of the European tangle as the American government saw fit to undertake.

It is regarded as possible that the Germans may decide to ask for a hearing by the special commissions of experts instead of pursuing their request that they be heard by the interallied reparation commission.

Valuable time may be gained in any case by the procedure accepted by M. Poincare, it is pointed out in diplomatic circles where there have been grave apprehensions over the crisis in the Franco-German relations. While the commission of experts is at work other developments may modify the situation, such as the eventful success of the Rhinesland republic, which would comprise according to some estimates, forty per cent. of the paying power of Germany.

On the other hand the intimation has reached the Quai D'Orsay that Great Britain would regard the versailles treaty as nullified if the Rhineland separated from the Reich and became an independent republic.

ONE DEAD, TWO INJURED IN DOMESTIC TRAGEDY

La Salle, Colo., Oct. 26.—After a terrific hand to hand struggle with Elmer Nowell in the Nowell home, here, William Bedlien drove to his home, eight miles away and committed suicide by shooting himself, early today. During the fight, in which the participants battled for an hour with pistols, knives and fists, both men were beaten badly and Mrs. Nowell seriously injured. The trouble started, Nowell said, when he discovered Bedlien visiting Mrs. Nowell.

Bedlien, who was sixty years old was manager of the White Ash Mine here, and Nowell, 59, formerly had been employed in a mine in which Bedlien was foreman.

Mrs Nowell is in a hospital and her husband is in jail.

RADIO BROADCAST IN OBSERVING NAVY DAY

Washington, Oct. 26.—The American navy must play a conspicuous part in any hopeful plan to make the world "a brotherhood", the right Rev. James E. Freeman, episcopal bishop of Washington, declared tonight in an address broadcast by radio in connection with the observance of today as Navy day.

"As an avowed advocate of peace, I rejoice in the record of our navy and its achievements at home and abroad," said Dr. Freeman, adding that there is such a thing "as attempting to maintain peace at a cost so low that it ultimately proves the folly of the experiment."

WILL NOT CONSOLIDATE WAR AND NAVY DEPT'S

Washington, Oct. 26.— Consolidation of the war and navy departments into a department of national defense as provided in the government re-organization plan worked out by the commission engaged in a study of that proposal probably will not be approved by President Coolidge.

ONCE WEALTHY BREWER ACCEPTS JOB AS GARDENER

New York, Oct. 26.—Peter Viegen, 78, once a wealthy New Jersey brewer, today entered police court, charged with begging, and left it with a purse of $24 and a job. The contributions of the magistrate and spectators who heard his story.

Viegen, distinguished looking, told the court he was graduated from St. John's college, became a brewer and built a fortune only to see it topple over some years ago. He retained a connection with a brewery until prohibition came and since that time was a gardener, until a few weeks ago when he lost his job. His money ran out yesterday.

His story impressed his hearers and Magistrate Silberman started a subscription to raise money to enable him to get to the home of a sister in Mount Vernon. When $24 had been raised, Dr. Louis J. Fishbeing, of Newark, N. J., a spectator said to Viegen, "I'll give you a job as my gardener if you'll come to Newark."

The aged man gladly accepted.

TALE OF BLUEBEARD IN WEST VIRGINIA MOUNTAINS

Charlestown, W. Va., Oct. 26.—Neighborhood tales of a mountain bluebeard, who enticed girls to his hilltop cabin and then turned them out on the mountains, to die, when he tired of them, were reported to state police headquarters by Sergeant W. G. Brown, investigating the finding of human bones near the head waters of Joe's creek, Boone county, recently.

The sergeant's report did not give the name of the old man, who was said to have died some time ago, but neighbors declared that he had taken several girls mostly from Kentucky to his cabin on a hill between Joe's Creek and Slaughter Creek, kept them for months and turned them out in the hills.

It was about a year after they heard quarreling at the cabin, which led them to believe that he had driven out a young Charleston girl. neighbors said, that the bones of a woman and child were found at the foot of a cliff near Joe's Creek.

Contractor Denies Charges of Graft

Charles B. Hurley Refutes Statement Made by Elias H. Mortimer Before U. S. Senate Committee.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 26.—Any suggestion that a contract to construct the American Lake Veteran hospital near Tacoma has been improperly obtained by the Hurley Mason company, of Tacoma, "was absolutely false and never had any foundation in fact" asserted Charles B. Hurley, president of the company, in a statement published today by the Seattle Times.

Mr. Hurley who was named in testimony given this week by Elias H. Mortimer, of Philadelphia, before a committee of the United States Senate inquiring into the note of Charles R. Forbes while director of the N. S. veterans bureau, said that "we were particularly careful in this case" because Colonel Forbes during the world war was associated with the Hurley Mason company.

HARTFORD LEADING CITY IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS

Hartford, Oct. 26.—Hartford, for every week except one, leading all cities in the state in number of automobile accidents, increased its total for the week ending Oct. 20 to such an appalling figure that all other cities dropped further behind than ever. For the one week there were 76 accidents reported to the motor vehicle department. This is an average of almost 10 per day and is a gain of 50 per cent. over the previous week, when 52 were reported. The total is 15 more than were reported from Waterbury, New London, Meriden and New Britain combined. It is more than two and a half times the number reported from Bridgeport.

New Haven is second on the list and it, too, shows a large increase. For the preceding week 31 were reported and for last week 57, an almost 100 per cent. increase.

GOVERNOR'S ARMISTICE DAY PROCLAMATION

Hartford, Oct. 26.—In his Armistice day proclamation, issued today, Governor Templeton calls upon all the people of Connecticut to make the day "a practical reminder of our obligation and present duty to those nations who fought shoulder to shoulder with us and those men who wore our uniform and still suffer from the unutterable miseries of war."

The governor suggests that the day be "one of rejoicing, and also one of remembrance—of those who gave their all of those who gave much and still live."

The proclamation follows:

STATE OF CONNECTICUT.
By His Excellency,
CHARLES A. TEMPLETON,
Governor,
A Proclamation.

"Five years ago the guns along the western front fell silent, and our nation returned to the pursuits of peace.

"In commemoration of that day, and pursuant to statute, I designate the eleventh day of November next as Armistice day.

"In addition to those exercises which the law requires the public schools to hold on the school day next preceding, I recommend that the occasion be generally observed by the people of the state. I suggest that the observance of the day be one of rejoicing, and also one of remembrance —of those who gave their all, of those who gave much and still live. We cannot really rejoice and yet forget the nations who fought shoulder to shoulder with us before the dawn had begun to break. We cannot really rejoice and yet forget those men who wore our uniform and still suffer from the effects of the unutterable miseries of war. I earnestly recommend that this day be made a practical reminder of our obligation and present duty to them, and of our common duty to the nation in peace as formerly in war.

"Given under my hand and the seal of the state at the capitol in Hartford this twenty-sixth day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three and of the Independence of the United States the one hundred and forty-eighth.

"CHARLES A. TEMPLETON.

"By His Excellency's command:
"FRANCIS A. PALLOTTI,
"Secretary."

FOUR PERSONS DROWNED; AUTO PLUNGED INTO CANAL

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 26.—The bodies of four persons who perished last night when an automobile plunged over a 75-foot embankment into the barge canal near here were recovered today.

The victims are William Arnold, 37; Miss Emma Reinhart, 19, and Miss Ida Anderso, 26, and Mrs. Anna T. Ladd, sister of Miss Anderson.

The four were en route to a dance in Avon when Arnold, mistaking an open space near the canal for a road, turned into it and the car plunged into the canal.

WALTON MUST FACE SENATE COURT OF IMPEACHMENT NOV. 1

Governor of Oklahoma Ordered to Enter a Plea to Charges Presented by the Lower House of the Legislature—A Date for Trial Will be Set at That Time—House Managers Had Presented to the Court a Bill Embodying 22 Charges—21 of the Charges Were Approved by Heavy Majorities.

Oklahoma City, Oct. 26.—Governor J. C. Walton, was ordered late today by the senate court of impeachment to appear before it November 1, and enter a plea to impeachment charges presented by the lower house of the state legislature.

At that time a date will be set for his trial.

Date for the arraignment was set immediately after a board of house managers had presented to the court a bill embodying 22 charges, the entire number drafted by the house committee on investigation and impeachment.

The house completed its bill of impeachment after five days of consideration.

The eight articles approved today charge the governor with issuing state police commissions to large numbers of "irresponsible persons," censoring the press, issuing illegal deficiency certificates on two occasions, falsifying his primary campaign expenses, abuse of the pardon and parole powers, receiving funds from various sources for his personal use and general incompetency.

The entire 22 charges were approved with heavy majorities except article 14, charging that the governor refused to permit capital laws to be carried out. This charge was approved by a vote of 51 to 42. The article charging him with bridging the freedom of the press was sustained. 83 to 7. This was the largest number of votes cast for any article.

Testimony read today related to the charges involving censorship of the press, the issuance of a deficiency certificate for a state home for negro orphans and campaign expenses.

BODY OF DR. CHARLES P. STEINMETZ TO LIE IN STATE

Schenectady, N. Y., Oct. 26.—The body of Dr. Charles Proteus Steinmetz, inventor, scientist, mathematician and "electrical wizard" who died in his home here this morning of heart failure induced by the fatigue of a trip to the Pacific coast, tomorrow will lie in his home in state for public reverence. On Monday afternoon, after private funeral services, the body will be interred in Vale cemetery in the heart of the city, in a plot which the inventor acquire dsome years ago.

Rev. Ernest Caldecott, pastor of All Souls' Unitarian Church of which Dr. Steinmetz was an active member, and Rev. Dr. A. W. Clark, former pastor will officiate at the funeral services. Among the mourners will be Leroy Hayden, one-time secretary and laboratory assistant to the inventor and his son by adoption and Miss Clara Steinmetz of New York City, a half-sister and only relative of Dr. Steinmetz in this country.

The inventor died this morning at a time when his friends had supposed he was well recuperated from a lecture trip which greatly had drained his strength. Dr. Steinmetz some months ago went to the Pacific coast, answering requests to make a few addresses enroute, supposedly to some small gatherings of scientists. When he reached the lecture platform in several of the larger cities, he found audiences numbering into the thousands and he was forced of the limit of his strength to make his voice carry that all might hear. He was not accustomed to addressing large assemblages and the strain of the lectures, combined with the fatigue of the journey, necessitated a complete rest upon his return. His physician had found difficulty in keeping the inventor resting in bed, so anxious was he to be about his work, but it was supposed that Dr. Steinmetz had recuperated strength and by next week would resume his normal course of activities.

PIECE OF CHARTER OAK FOR WASHINGTON MEMORIAL

Hartford, Oct 26.—A unique and interesting memento of Connecticut, as the home of the famous Charter Oak, will be placed in the box to be deposited at the laying of the cornerstone of the George Washington national memorial in Alexandria, Va., November 1.

George A. Kies, of Hartford, grand secretary of the grand lodge of Connecticut, F. and A. M., has received from state librarian George S. Godard, a piece of the Charter Oak tree in which the charter of Connecticut was hidden to keep it out of the possession of Edmund Andros, appointed by King James II to consolidate New England into a colony.

The piece of authentic charter oak wood has been the property of Mr. Godard some twenty years.

The piece of wood is four inches long by six and one fourth inches wide, and two and one fourth inches thick.

Mr. Kies has had affixed to the wood a silver plate bearing this inscription: "Piece of Connecticut's historic charter oak tree contributed to the Washington National memorial by the grand lodge of Connecticut through Brother George S. Godard, state librarian, November 1, 1923.

19 INJURED IN CANADIAN PACIFIC TORONTO EXPRESS

Fort William, Ont., Oct. 26.—Nineteen injured passengers on the Canadian Pacific Toronto express train which was derailed near Savanne, Ont., today arrived here tonight.

Six were taken to a hospital, the others being able to continue their journeys. Four were seriously hurt.

The injured with one exception, were harvesters returning to the east.

Expressions of amazement at their miraculous escapes were frequent among the passengers. One of the seven colonist cars derailed was demolished, the trucks of another coach having been driven beneath it, pushing the floor to within a few feet of the top of the car. A broken rail was hurled through one car, grazing a passenger's head.

MILK PRODUCERS TO INCREASE PRICE

Hartford, Oct. 26.—The Connecticut Milk Producers' association announced an increase of one-quarter of a cent in the price of milk from the producers to the dealers.

This increase should not affect the price of milk sold to consumers, as the dealers increased the price of milk one cent Sept. 1, when the price to them was increased three-quarters of a cent.

215 GREEK INSURGENTS CROSS INTO JUGO-SLAVIA

Belgrade, Jugo Slavia, Oct. 26.—A detachment of Greek insurrectionists headed by Colonel Ziras has crossed the frontier in the region of Guevgeli.

The detachment, which consists of 200 men and 15 officers, sent a message to the king asking for asylum.

FRANK B. KELLOGG TO BE AMBASSADOR TO BRITAIN

Washington Oct. 26.—Frank B. Kellogg, former United States Senator from Minnesota, has been selected by Present Coolidge as American Ambassador to rest Britain, formal announcement is withheld for the present, but the appointment is expected to become effective soon.

News that Mr. Kellogg had been chosen to succeed George Harvey whose resignation recently was accepted, created a stir at the capitol. Senators generally declined to comment on the selection but some of them made little effort to conceal their surprise. Heretofore Mr. Kellogg's name had not been mentioned promiently in connection with the ambassadorship

White house and state department officials declined to discuss the selection, the only comment at the white house being that the president felt the time had not yet come when an announcement of the appointment could be made.

After a service of six years in the senate Mr. Kellogg was a candidate for re-election last November, but was defeated by 80,000 votes in the political upheaval in the northwest which has swept two farmer-labor senators into office from his state and resulted in the election from other states of senators who had been prominent in the non-partisan league. Throughout his political life, Mr. Kellogg has stood those political tendencies.

Unlike Ambassador Harvey, who is regarded as a "bitter ender" in the league of nations controversy, Mr. Kellogg was counted among the "mild reservationists" in the senate fight over the treaty of Versailles. He also was a supporter in the senate and since his retirement of President Harding's proposal for American participation in the world court.

ALASKA IS EXPERIENCING UNUSUALLY MILD WEATHER

Fairbanks, Alaska, Oct. 26.—The temperature here today was 56 and no snow was on the ground—a condition that for the season outdid the imagination of the oldest timer.

The rivers have shown no signs of freezing, but the boats quit running according to the calendar. The roads are too soft for dogs or horses. Transportation is accordingly demoralised.

A Canadian mounted policeman here on his way to Herschell Island, in the Arctic ocean, to hang two Eskimos convicted of murder, has telegraphed to Ottawa for a reprieve. The softness of the country has made it impossible for him to reach the scene of his duty by that date, December 1, set for execution.

A motion picture director and a complete organizer of stampeders for gold waited three weeks for snow to appear on the hills. Today they attempted to enact a rush for the precious metal, using sugar grudgingly to represent snow. Perspiration rolled down the faces of pioneers who had been hired to take part in their fur coats.

TESTIMONY ELIMINATED IN THE SCHLEIFER CASE

New Haven, Oct. 26.—Testimony of approximately fifty witnesses was eliminated from the trial of Ernest Schleifer, labor leader, before a jury in the criminal superior court here today when Judge Newell Jennings made a ruling excluding speeches alleged to have been made by Schleifer in New London, New York, Meadville, Pa., and other places. Schleifer is being tried on a charge of having delivered an inflamitory speech before the striking shopmen of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad here on the morning of November 21, last.

To compel Schleifer to face similar speeches, alleged to have been made in New London, New York and Pennsylvania, would deprive him of a fair trial, in the opinion of Judge Jennings.

EVANGELINE BOOTH HAS UNDERGONE THIRD OPERATION

New York, Oct. 26.—Commander Evangeline Booth, leader of the Salvation Army in the United States, had a third operation today in Booth Memorial hospital after having undergone two others recently for removal of abscesses in the nasal passages. The third operation was for an abscess of the ear.

Physicians reported her condition was not alarming, but said she would not be out of danger for several days.

$5,000 VERDICT FOR STOLEN KISS SET ASIDE BY COURT

New York, Oct. 26.—A verdict of $5,000 for a stolen kiss awarded by a Brooklyn jury last Tuesday to Mrs. Alice Mercer against Louis Goodman, was set aside by supreme court Justice Mitchell today. Justice May said the testimony of Mrs. Mercer and her husband was unworthy of belief, and that the jury had been influenced by the woman's youth and attractiveness. A motion for a new trial was granted.

Assignment of cases and a short calendar session of the Windham county superior court was held in this city Friday forenoon, with Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin on the bench. Judge Marvin announced that the four cases assigned for next week to jury were not all ready and that reassignments would be made at the short calendar session next Friday.

Assignments for next week were made in the following order: Asher B. Holmes vs. DeWitt C. Lockman, first Tuesday, Oct. 30; Elisabeth Rickard vs. John G. Taylor, second Tuesday, Oct. 30; Frederick C. Jackson vs. Frank Rosen, third Tuesday, Oct. 30; George J. Rood vs William P. Maine and Harold S. Maine, first Wednesday, Oct. 31; William aranofski vs. Hyman Israel, second Wednesday, October 31; Herbert L. Switzer vs. Geo. F. Brown, third Wednesday, Oct. 31; Frank A. Phillips vs. James Baker, first Thursday, Nov. 1; Nellie Rood vs. Alfred Rood, second Thursday, November 1; Martineau-Bacon Corp., vs. James DeMarchi, third Thursday, November 1.

The case of William H. Haywood, of Plainfield, vs. Leopold Charland of Killingly, over a bill for $422.35 was taken up at Friday's session. Haywood's attorney read a bill of particulars to the effect that on May 8 and June 12, 1922, the plaintiff sold to the defendant merchandise in the shape of machinery to the amount of $722.25. Of that amount there remained uncollected $422.35. Judgment was given by Judge Marvin by default, Charland not being present or represented in court.

Arguments on the question of alowance and alimony were made by the attorneys in the case of Laura B. Corcoran vs. Thomas J. Corcoran, Jr. The agreement reached was that the plaintiff should have $500 payment down, $40 a week and $50 for attorneys' fees, $25 Friday and $25 at the date of opening of trial. Judge Marvin accepted the agreement. The divorce action is pending. The defendant is at present residing in Monson, Mass., and the plaintiff in Putnam.

Court was adjourned at noon until Tuesday of next week at 11 a. m.

Deice W. Conant, 80, was found dead in bed Friday morning by his wife, at their home, 67 Bellevue street. Mr. Conant had not been feeling well for some time. The cause of death was senility. He was born in Mansfield, January 14, 1843, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Conant. He came to Willimantic and entered the employ of the Holland Silk Manufacturing company January 1, 1876, and retired July 1, 1923, after a service of 47 years. Most of the intervening years were spent as foreman of the winding room of the east mill of the concern. Mr. Conant continued in an advisory capacity after his active retirement in July. He became a member of the local Methodist church by letter from the Gurleyville church shortly after taking up his residence in this city. For many years he was a member of the board of trustees and was active in church work in many ways. He is survived by his wife, Addie Snow Conant, and a cousin is Mrs. Samuel Walter Foss, of Somerville, Mass.

The Epworth League anniversary was observed Friday night as part of the program for the 95th anniversary celebration of the local Methodist church. Professor William G. Chantler of Wesleyan university delivered the address. The choir furnished much of the program with solos, duets and quartet numbers. Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Farwell of Storrs were heard in two song numbers.

Cornelius Walker, of New London, who was presented in the Groton town court on the charge of manslaughter, was arrested in this city shortly after midnight Sunday morning, Aug. 26, by Officers Bombria and Lariviere on the charge of reckless driving and operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. His case was heard Saturday, Sept. 1, in the local court before Judge Frank H. Foss. The officers testified that Walker was intoxicated. He was represented by a New London attorney. The charge of driving while under the influence of liquor was nolled. Walker was found guilty of reckless driving and was fined $25 and costs, amounting to $33.25.

With the celebration of Armistice Day and the completion of the five-mile stretch of state road between the villages of South and North Coventry in view the committee are issuing invitations for Monday, Nov. 12. Dr. William L. Higgins, Ernest H. Woodward and Captain William A. Wolfe have been appointed a committee of arrangements. If the weather permits the celebration will be held in the open and officials and residents of neighboring towns are being invited to participate in those two important events. The invitations read "Armistice Day is everybody's day. The completion of five miles of state road between the two villages of Coventry will afford a particular satisfaction and pleasure to the people of our town, many of whom own summer cottages at our beautiful lake; and to many more who will be glad of a route to Hartford one mile shorter, more scenic and with fewer danger points than the present one."

The new stretch of road is practically completed, extends from a point in front of Wellwood's store in South Coventry to Grange hall, North Coventry, and is of bituminous construction.

John Shanahan of Willimantic, died at St. Joseph's hospital Thursday afternoon as the result of a shock sustained lat Friday. He had been in retirement for several years, having been in the employ of the American Thread company for long period of time. Mr. Shanahan is survived by his wife, Mrs. Catherine Shanahan of this city; daughter, Mrs. M. H. Harrington of Pontiac, Mich.; two sons, Timothy E., of this city, and Daniel J. of Newark; one brother, Timothy, of this city; and by several grandchildren.

The funeral of Mrs. Adeline Burnham was held Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock at her home in Andover. Rev. F. F. Foshay of the local Baptist church conducted the services. Burial was in the Townsend cemetery, Andover. Avery & VanZandt were in charge of the arrangements.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Macfarlane and Mr. and Mrs. John Barstow spent Friday in Hartford.

The fall or semi-annual convention of the Willimantic Christian Endeavor Union, comprising societies in the several towns in this vicinity will be held at the South Willington church today (Saturday). The afternoon session will convene at 3 o'clock. In the evening at 7 o'clock there will be addresses and the awarding of the contest banner now held by the Willimantic society. The officers of the union are: President, Rev. A. W. Clifford of Windham, secretary, Miss Dorris Bowen of Willimantic; treasurer, Eden Cook of Windham.

A bond box owned by Dr. William B. McCormack and containing close to $200 in badly charred bills and valuable papers was found in the ruins of the Dr. Marsh home in Mansfield, destroyed by fire last Sunday. The serial figures on the bills were discernable to some extent. The box and contents were taken to the Windham National bank and from there were sent to the United States treasury department in the hope that the burned bills could be redeemed. A three-carat diamond ring owned by Mrs. McCormack was also lost in the fire.

The officers and board of management of Anne Wood Elderkin Chapter, numbering six, motored to Lebanon Thursday afternoon, on invitation of Jonathan Trumbull chapter, to attend its first birthday party.

At the annual fall meeting of the Connecticut State Teachers' association was held Friday, members of the faculties of the various schools in the town of Windham attended the Norwich session at Norwich Free Academy. Public schools in this city, including the high and normal schools were closed for the day. The grade schools will reopen Tuesday morning.

The sum of $5 was voted to the Visiting Nurses' association fund at a meeting of the Women's Hebrew society held in the synagogue.

The list of pupils whose names appeared on the honor roll at Windham High school for the first marking period, September 5 to Oct. 19, follows:

JEWETT CITY

Anne Brewster Fanning Chapter, D. A. R., gave a whist at the home of Dr and Mrs. G. H. Jennings Thursday night. The hospitality of the host and hostesses is proverbial and everyone enjoyed the evening to the utmost. Mrs. Jennings had decorated the rooms with Hallowe'en owls, moons, black cats and witches, and the Pachaug grange fair prize pumpkin was much admired. J. M. Gilbert who received the prize gave it to Dr. Jennings. Flowers and autumn leaves added the final touch to the decorations. There were nine tables of players. Mrs. Earle E. Gilbert and Earl S. Hiscox were the first prize winners and received Hallowe'en candlesticks. Mrs. E. F. Bullseon received a consolation award of a pitcher, and Wallace H. Payne an ashtray. Orange punch and fancy wafers were served. Mrs. Jennings was assisted by Mrs. Henry Olson and Mrs. J. H. Treacy.

Hundreds of men and women who heretofore have been content with automobiles ranging in price around $1200, are now Single-Six owners.

They asked themselves, "Isn't it sensible to assume that a car as finely built as Packard, will give better satisfaction and cost less for maintenance, than any car which frankly does not assume to be built as finely as Packard is built?"

ASK THE MAN WHO OWNS

"Doesn't it follow that a Packard Single-Six will be far more satisfactory in every way?"

The mechanical simplicity of the car,—its outstanding reliability,—its brilliant performance in every phase of operation,—its distinctive and, we believe, unequaled beauty,—its ease of riding and driving—all combine to create that full measure of satisfaction which Single-Six owners know.

The other key to the marked enthusiasm of Single-Six owners is the car's really remarkably economy—which alone is well worth investigation.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
by DAVID CORY

Beware of Crafty Carl.

Goodness me, how surprised Little Jack Rabbit was when the two little chicks grew into great big roosters and before another minute was over they began to fight.

"Ha ha!" laughed the big black giant pushing his chair back from the table, "now we'll have some sport!" and goodness me, in a little while one of the roosters won the fight and the big black giant got up and said: "Time for bed."

"I did," answered a tiny voice.

No sooner was Little Jack Rabbit in his room than he fell asleep and when morning came he again put on his flying suit and started off for Mother Goose Land to get the crooked sixpence from the little crooked man. But it was still a long, long way off and he had to stop and rest in a wood. And he sat under a big tree, he fell asleep when all of a sudden a little fairy tickled his ear and then of course the bunny boy woke up. Oh my yes, in a big hurry.

"Who tickled my ear, I'd like to know, A little wood mouse or an old black crow?
Oh maybe a wildcat from her lair,
Or a great big funny cinnamon bear?"

"I did," answered a tiny voice and the little fairy began to laugh. "Where are you going?"

"On an errand for the Fairy Queen to get her the crooked sixpence from the little crooked man," answered the surprised little bunny.

"You'd better be careful how you travel over these woods," said the little fairy, "There's a giant named Crafty who robs all who come this way."

"But I shall fly high above the treetops," replied the bunny boy. "How can he harm me way up there?"

"I don't know but I fear he will," replied the fairy, "you'd better be careful."

Well at first, Little Jack Rabbit kept well above the treetops, but by and by as he saw no signs of Crafty Carl, he flew lower, when, all of a sudden. Oh dear me! I just hate to tell it—a big hand was thrust out through the topmost leaves and the little bunny was caught just like a bird.

"I told you to be careful
And not fly so low,
Now Crafty Carl has caught you.
Just as I told you so."

said the little fairy who had followed unnoticed.

"But I will help you," she whispered as the giant pulled his arm down from the treetops with poor Little Jack Rabbit grasped in his fingers.

"Ha ha, I've caught the bunny-bird, said the giant, with a smile,
I guess I'll keep him for a while."

And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

At Connecticut village, five families have been served with summary process notices as a first step in eviction proceedings that will be carried through under due process of law. Representatives of these families are involved in the strike of twisting room operatives inaugurated early this week and which remained unsettled Friday.

Funeral services for Eugene S. Nash, a native of Norwich, were conducted at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Frederick M. Reed, High street, Friday afternoon, with relatives and friends attending. Rev. Albert Jepson, Warehouse Point, formerly rector of St. Alban's church, conducted the service. Burial was in Westfield cemetery. The bearers were Alfred L. Reed, D. Fred Kenworthy, Frederic G. Armington, C. H. Bacon, William J. Craig and John W. Gallup. A. F. Wood was the funeral director. State Department Commander Orrin S. Price of Norwich and a delegation of members of McGregor post, G. A. R., attended the funeral.

At Clayville Friday afternoon a funeral service for Mrs. Amanda S. Taylor, whose husband died the past week, was conducted by Rev. Daniel Bennett of the Maple Root church of Washington, R. I. Burial was in the Clayville cemetery. The bearers were Walter Comstock, Frederick Cahoone, John Rounds and Olson Cole. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Borough officials and representatives of the Chamber of Commerce conferred Friday evening relative to the proposal that the borough give serious consideration to the matter of better lighting of the business section and the territory along Main street as far north as Davis park. The lighting subject is one that has been given more or less consideration for some time past and one in which very general interest has been aroused.

Another matter of which more or less has been heard during the past two years is that of sidewalk improvement, and that subject now seems about to receive serious consideration. Admittedly, sidewalks in many sections of the borough are in deplorable condition. Admittedly also, many property owners will not move to improve their walks until the borough definitely goes on record as to its desires relative to sidewalk construction. These property owners cannot be particularly blamed for this attitude when the borough has failed to express itself officially as to its sidewalk building program.

If, as seems a possibility, the borough's citizens assembled in a regular or special meeting should authorize the financing of a sidewalk building program under an arrangement by which the borough would bear one-half the construction cost, for instance, many citizens would be glad to take advantage of such an agreement. On the other hand, they are not likely to undertake sidewalk construction on their own account and pay the full amount of the cost when the entire sidewalk question is up in the air, as might be said, and without knowledge of how much they might benefit by awaiting a definite decision by the borough as to what it wants to do.

The way to settle the sidewalk question seems to be to settle it. With the borough on record as to its wishes, property owners will know how to proceed and what to expect. It is too late this season to build many sidewalks, but if the matter were brought to a vote and decided, property owners would be in a position to go ahead in the spring with the improvement work desired.

Dancers drawn hither from many sections of eastern Connecticut by the announcement that De Vito's orchestra was to play, gathered at the state armory Friday evening for another of the dances that are being given with such success by the Service battery, 192d Field artillery. As in his past appearances here, De Vito and his orchestra of ten pieces proved a highly popular attraction Friday evening and many were the encores asked for.

A period of three weeks of missions at St. James' church is drawing to a close this week end, as Rev. Charles Kirby, M. S., preaches his final sermon in the course of the religious instructions for the English-speaking members of the parish. The missions have drawn the attendance of the entire membership of the parish and unusual devotion and zeal have been shown. The mission that has continued throughout this week will come to a close Sunday. Late in November another mission will be given for the Polish-speaking members of the parish.

This week's epochal events in and about Coblenz have held the closest attention of several Danielson young men who were in that occupied area of Germany with the American armed forces after the signing of the armistice. To these local soldiers of the army of occupation what the press is telling from day to day of the stirring doings about Coblenz as the separatists strive for the control of the government is news indeed. They are familiar with the locality and have a mental picture of what is transpiring and of the locality in which history is being made.

PUTNAM

Appointment of a temporary receiver for the Manhasset company, as announced Friday morning, came as a blow to this city. The Manhasset company is Putnam's largest industry, and the fact that its financial difficulties have reached a stage sufficiently serious to call for the appointment of a receiver, even temporarily, was depressing news for Putnam.

For two years past the company's financial troubles have been more or less serious and a matter of common knowledge, but it was not generally realized here that the step that has just been taken was impending. Possibly the appointment of a temporary receiver forecasts a general reorganization of the big concern, which is engaged in the manufacture of tire fabrics. This contingency is regarded as probable, it is thought by those in touch with the situation. Hope was expressed, however, that the concern might continue to operate, if only in a limited way, that the city might not be wholly deprived of the benefits of one of its chief industrial assets.

Operation of the plant was made more or less difficult during the past summer through a walkout of operatives, who were dissatisfied with the wage scale offered. These operatives were immediately regarded by the management as being definitely through with the concern, which was put to much expense and difficulty as the result of a strike that was regarded from the first as not likely to be successful in view of the financial condition of the company at the time the strike was inaugurated.

Many thousands of dollars of the money of numerous Putnam men is invested in the Manhasset company, in stock of the concern. What the value of this stock is, in view of the mill company's present financial condition, is a matter of interest, but a serious loss is now indicated for these stockholders, though this loss may be largely averted, it was stated Friday.

Mrs. William Valentine of Pomfret was elected president of the Windham County League of Women Voters at the annual meeting held this week at the home of Mrs. S. B. Overlock, at Pomfret, with an attendance of 33 from numerous places in the county. At the morning session the speaker was Miss Murray of Hartford, and at the afternoon meeting, Mrs. Herbert Knox Smith, president of the State league, was the guest of honor and one of the speakers, the other being Mrs. Beverly Lake of Providence, chairman of the efficiency in government committee of the United League of Women Voters of Rhode Island.

At the morning session there was an attendance of sixty. The formal welcome was extended by Mrs. Overlock. The business was taken up with Mrs. Francis Upton Johnstone of Woodstock, county chairman, presiding. Reports were received from the county league officers as follows: Mrs. Johnstone, chairman Mrs. S. Nikoloff, Putnam, treasurer; Mrs. Nichols, Thompson, secretary. Afterward came the reports from the several leagues in the county, given by the presidents, as follows: Windham, Miss Emma Neale; Willimantic, Mrs. J. B. Fullerton; Pomfret, Mrs. Fred Aan; Woodstock, Mrs. Jordan; Putnam, Mrs. C. D. Arnold. No report was given for the Eastford League, as no representative was in attendance.

It was voted to change the date of the annual meeting of the County League from October to May, when most of the county leagues in the state hold their annual meetings.

It was reported that the county league quota of $750 for 1923 had nearly been raised, and that the deficit had been pledged. The league was asked to raise $350 for 1924, to help out on the state league expenses. It was voted to raise this sum.

Announcement was made by the Woodstock league that plans were going forward for a public meeting at Woodstock Academy Saturday evening, Nov. 24, when Hamilton Holt of Woodstock and New York would give an address.

There are now sixty leagues in the state, with a membership of 4,300.

Sentences of five years in the Vermont state prison have been imposed upon Daniel Hale and John Bourdeau, arrested here by Captain William Jarvis, and held for the police of Burlington. The arrests were made about three weeks ago.

Karl E. Gaskell of Burlington was the owner of the stolen car, which was taken from the Hudson-Essex salesrooms in Burlington, where it had been left to be sold. The storage plant is in the rear of the Hotel Vermont and entrance to it was forced by breaking a lock. A cheap lock was substituted for the one broken and loss of the car had not been discovered up to the time its finding here was reported to the police of Burlington.

Captain Jarvis happened to get in touch with the young men who stole the car when he whistled at them after they failed to observe a traffic rule in this city on the Sunday following the Friday night when the car was stolen. Questioning them, he became suspicious that they were not rightly in possession of the car, and an investigation established this to be true. They were held here for the Burlington officers and eventually taken back to Vermont.

Complying with a request that Captain Jarvis made of him before he left here, Bordeau has written a letter to Captain Jarvis, telling him about the disposal of the case. In the course of this letter Bordeau says: "This is kind of hard, but I will be a little more careful next time." Five years is kind of hard, in fact, decidedly tough, but no medals are awarded anywhere for automobile stealing and car owners here will not weep much over the plight in which Bordeau finds himself.

Residents of this city have a special invitation from Rev. Albert E. Stone, U. S. N. chaplain stationed at the submarine base at New London, to visit there today, which is being observed as Navy day. Opportunity will be given to inspect the property and to go aboard naval vessels, including submarines, that will be at the base especially for the day. Rev. Mr. Stone formerly was pastor of the Baptist church in this city.

Mrs. Sarah Woodward of Woodstock observed her 98th birthday at her home in that place Friday.

A number from this city were at Danielson Friday evening to attend the dance at the state armory, the music by De Vito's orchestra, which has been playing on the Keith circuit in New York recently.

Rev. K. A. Anderson of Woodstock will be in Georgetown, this state, over Sunday.

The state highway repair crew under the direction of K. B. Smith of this city is very busy this fall giving attention to many bits of work requiring their attention.

It was stated Friday that there is a likelihood of the Adams Manufacturing company erecting a number of new houses here for the accommodation of its employes. This concern is now gradually increasing its operating activities and when running full will give employment to about 125 persons.

Supt. Ralph G. Jenkins of Putnam's schools has been notified of the opening of the prize essay contest of the American Chemical society in which students in high and secondary schools of the state have been invited to participate. The awards include scholarships at Yale for the winners or cash prizes totaling $10,000.

At Thompson today (Saturday) the annual reunion of the Howe-Maret school alumnae is to be held, and members of the former students of the schools are expected for the day.

FITCHVILLE

Miss Mary Driscoll of Hartford has returned home after spending the week-end with Misses Nellie and Mary Lynch.

A large limb of one of the elms in front of Robert Adams' house fell with a crash Wednesday noon just as the help were going to dinner, and several had a narrow escape.

Etta McGrath has returned home after spending the week end in Columbia, the guest of Laura Greene.

Miss Margaret Lynch has entered the Backus hospital training school for nurses.

At St. John's church, Fitchville, Sunday prayers were read for Peter Trainor and Martin Murray. As it was the third Sunday of the new rent quarter, attention was called to the fact that this was the last quarter for 1923. Sunday school was conducted after mass. October prayers were recited in honor of the Blessed Virgin Mary, Queen of the Rosary. Everyone was urged to aid in the Backus hospital campaign. The executive committee in charge of the autumn social and entertainment decided to hold the affair in November.

It isn't what a woman doesn't know so much as why she doesn't know it that counts with a man.

CHIEF JUSTICE WHEELER ON LAW ENFORCEMENT.

The address by Chief Justice Wheeler to the judges, justices and prosecutors of the state, as just made public, is one that will receive general commendation throughout the state. It is a plea to those who are responsible for upholding and enforcing law and order to recognize and respond to their duty.

Few are the exceptions that were taken to it as it was presented to the county gatherings. In one instance the claim was made that the chief justice was undertaking to dominate the judges and prevent them from using their judgment in liquor as in other cases. A reading of the address does not bear out any such attitude.

Chief Justice Wheeler points out that he was moved to action by the conditions that were prevailing, the responsibility of the authorities having a vital part in the existence of such conditions. Well does he say that "A mere fine in this class of crimes is a mere license to commit this crime."

When he warned the prosecutors and judges against the disposition to be lenient to the first offenders he properly laid emphasis upon the fact that "at this late day there is no such thing as a first offender." There may be those who have been caught for the first time, but they engaged in the violation of the law in full knowledge of what they were doing and in expectation that they would draw no more than the fine which would be only a small part of the large revenue received from their illicit business.

What the chief justice asked for was to "interpret the law with reason, in the light of your common sense, and interpret it so as to uphold the law rather than make it difficult for the prosecutor and the peace officers to enforce it."

Chief Justice Wheeler asked for no more than he was fully justified in asking. If the judiciary of the state is not interested in maintaining law and order, who can be expected to do it? Not only should it take a firm stand in the situation but it should have the sound backing of all those who believe in respect for law.

SECRETARY HUGHES' REPLY.

From the reply which has been made by Secretary Hughes to the inquiry of Lord Curzon, British secretary of foreign affairs, relative to the attitude of this country concerning the economic situation in Europe, it is set forth that our attitude has not changed. Secretary Hughes points out that the United States is deeply interested in this question, that it is ready to help in whatsoever way it can that is practical and sets forth how this government feels regarding its economic conference.

Clear and explicit is Secretary Hughes in his statement. It doesn't vary from the position that was taken last year. He is careful to let it be known that this country would care to participate in a conference dealing with the European economic situation if all those chiefly concerned took part, and he lets it be known that the United States has no desire to see Germany freed of its responsibility though it believes there should be a determination of its capacity to pay. Likewise it is pointed out that if such a conference is held it can be only advisory, inasmuch as each government must have the opportunity to accept or refuse the recommendations, while it is also pointed out that there is a distinct difference between the capacity of Germany to pay and the methods of getting such reparations and the debts of other countries to the United States. This last point indicates that this government isn't going to enter such a conference with the idea of having it reach a settlement through cancellation of debts by this country.

Should it come to the situation where a conference might be held in which all but France would be willing to participate, Secretary Hughes does not commit this government relative to participation. It is a situation that would have to be judged by conditions leading up to it.

The United States' reply doesn't change our attitude. It indicates the need of a conference and its willingness to do what it can but if such is going to take place much is going to depend upon the attitude of France. France presented it before and whether French sentiment has yielded any remains to be seen.

THE FILIPINOS' DEMANDS.

If there was oppression or if they were being deprived of rights and opportunities there might be reason for sympathizing with the Filipinos on their demand for immediate independence.

They have been told that the ultimate independence of the islands is the purpose of this country, but it has been urged, in view of an understanding of the conditions in the islands, that there should be no further extension of authority there until the Filipinos have had time to absorb [illegible] already in force.

their hands. Every step that reconstruction was made there have been disclosures which show how wise was such a view and what basis there was for making it.

In spite of the conditions these political leaders are now demanding the recall of Governor General Wood, because he is exercising the authority in accord with the Jones act and demanding that there be no governor general other than a Filipino. That is a demand that is entirely outside the Jones act.

The law relative to the control of the Philippines calls for the United States having authority over a native government. It is for the best interests of the Islanders that such should be so, but because Governor General Wood is interpreting the purpose of the law and the desires of this government those who cannot run the islands as they please are going to have it different. They want this country to maintain its protection over the islands in case they get into trouble where they couldn't protect themselves but they expect it to maintain that position without authority and without exercising that control that will keep them out of difficulties.

When they disregard what has been done for them and what is desired to do for their benefit, it only confirms the judgment expressed a few years ago in congress against fixing a certain date for their full independence without insisting that they should measure up to such a capacity.

PROPERLY PLACED.

Some regard for public protection was displayed in the sentencing of a New York fiend to prison for [illegible] less than [illegible] not many [illegible] years.

In this instance the guilty man was determined to beat the insurance company. He was an occupant of a tenement house in which 70 persons lived. He conceived the brilliant idea, or had it handed to him, that he could collect the $2000 insurance if the furniture he owned should be destroyed, and he was willing to cause that destruction, hoping to escape detection.

It was a case of caring nothing for the owner of the building or the other occupants. He was not concerned with such insurance as they might have and apparently didn't care whether they had any or not. He was not even solicitous for the safety of their lives. He was out to get his insurance by the commission of a crime and was willing that others might suffer as conditions allowed.

Those who are so disposed are not entitled to their liberty. Fortunately it was possible to obtain the evidence that would permit of a conviction. Clearly it was a case of putting him where there would be no chance of a repetition of his act. Those who are willing to resort to arson are a menace to any community, even though it only involves starting a fire in their own tenement to collect insurance. There is a disregard for the safety of others in such an act which is not far from the act of deliberate murder. In such individuals the desire of personal gain, regardless of how it is obtained, completely obliterates all sense of self respect and a wanton disregard of the rights of others.

THE NAVAL COURT MARTIAL.

Inquiry by the navy department in connection with the loss of seven destroyers on the Pacific coast has accomplished much the same result as a grand jury in criminal cases. The naval court has recommended that eleven of the naval officers be brought before a court martial. Those represent the officers that were directly connected with this squadron of destroyers and where no particular ones have been on trial up to now the court martial will determine who were responsible and establish the degree of guilt.

There may be circumstances connected with the loss of the destroyers that will not justify the conviction of all those who have been indicted. It is indicated by the calling of the court martial that the idea that the disaster was due to a tidal wave or came about as the result of the seismic disturbance in the Pacific is not sustained.

During the investigation there has been no evidence of an effort to dodge the responsibility connected with the loss of the destroyers. It hasn't appeared that it was gross negligence of the usual type, although it has been indicated that too little credence was placed upon radio bearings, and reliance upon other methods of reckoning in the face of it caused serious errors of judgment resulting in heavy loss of life and property.

If there have been unwarranted methods of navigating in this and other destroyer squadrons it is due for a displosure and correction as the result of what naval officers rightly term the "greatest peace time blow ever sustained by the United States navy."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Navy day. Remember the submarine base is open for your inspection.

Have you begun to prepare that list in anticipation of early Christmas shopping?

Some of the laws are not as absurd as the interpretations that some would give to them.

If bootlegging only becomes hazardous enough the gunman may be attracted to it.

The man on the corner says: It won't seem like the same place with all the taxicabs gone home.

If winter is quarring for an opening, the force of contrary thoughts ought to serve as an automatic stop.

As the Backus hospital campaign nears its end have you made sure that you are identified with the excellent cause?

When Paris reports entirely 44 persons as unemployed, there's no chance it failed to get a check up on the waiters.

In Chicago 3169 persons were killed by the careless operation of autos. Safety isn't getting a fair show in the Windy city.

One of the great troubles with the present day liquor is that while it is attractively labeled no antidote is pointed thereon.

Most the hospital requirements and there'll be something that can be pointed to with pride as a community accomplishment for many years to come.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

During the August vacation, the writer spent one afternoon most delightfully on the golf links in a certain town of Massachusetts. The thing that impressed him most (apart from his own execrable playing) was a father with his eleven-year old boy playing the game. Both were dressed just alike and in up-to-date golf style. The boy was a fine husky lad who was evidently as familiar with golf stunts as he was with golf. But it was neither the clothes nor good golf playing that impressed the writer, but the easy and splendid comradeship that seemed to subsist between father and son. There was a fine intimacy between them that showed fine training and good sense. Why should not fathers and sons be on terms of easy familiarity with each other. All honor to the father who can be a real chum to his boy and still retain his authority and respect! If the home life were better there would be fewer boys going to the bad.

Even a gravestone can tell a story, and sometimes it is a funny story. An elderly man was one day seen walking through one of our cemeteries very slowly and with a sad countenance. A bystander thought very likely he had come to visit the resting place of his wife or some other dear relative. He glanced casually at this and that stone until he came to one very imposing and impressive. As he carefully read what the stone had to say about the departed, he burst out laughing, and turned away saying: "Well, if that doesn't beat the devil!" His difficulty probably lay in trying to connect the life of the departed with what his gravestone said about him. One is inclined to think that many epitaphs are mistaken devices by which people think "they can beat the devil." A sense of refinement demands a change in this direction, and it has begun.

This whole matter of trying to perpetuate the memory of the dead through marble calls for a thorough examination. Why should we try to preserve the warmest and tenderest emotions of the human soul by such an impossible barrier as cold and unfeeling marble? Hawthorne, in his "Twice Told Tales" speaks of this matter. His old Mr. Norton had gained a large fortune by questionable methods, and was by far the richest and most thoroughly despised man in the village. Knowing his unpopularity he selected his great monument and gave himself a good send off just to get the better of the community in death. Hawthorne with his masterly touch treats the matter in these words: "The weight of these heavy marbles, though unfelt by the dead corpse or the enfranchised soul, presses drearily upon the spirit of the survivor and causes him to connect the idea of death with the dungeon-like imprisonment of the tomb, instead of with the freedom of the skies. Every gravestone is the visible symbol of a mistaken system."

Is it not a very wise provision of nature that when the autumnal frosts come, they do not effect all vegetation alike? That is, some forms of vegetable matter have greater resistive power that others. If all trees and shrubs had the appearance of grapevines and Indian corn after a few hard frosts the money loss would be greatly increased. It would also be hard on us to be suddenly robbed of the variegated splendor of hillsides and mountains. We can better adapt ourselves to the drab bleakness of winter by being let down gradually, by losing the beauty of this thing and that one by one, until the last glowing tint is gone. Suppose, again, in the domain of our physical being everybody should be perfectly well for a year, how galling to the doctors to draw on their large holdings of stocks and bonds! On the other hand suppose for a year everybody should be sick, it would be still harder on the rank and file who do not have large holdings of stocks and bonds. It is evident that One infinitely wise and good is back of the world order, and yet we grow!

Sir John Lubbock, who was one of the keenest observers of men and things that the last century produced, has some pointed things to say about the troubles of life. This is what he has to say: "It would be a great thing if people could be brought to realise that they can never add to the sum of their happiness by doing wrong. In the case of children, indeed, we recognise this; we perceive that a spoilt child is not a happy one; that it would have been far better for him to have been punished at first and thus saved from greater suffering in after life." Now Sir John is not looking at this matter from the standpoint of a minister; he is not making any attempt whatever to preach. He is here speaking as the president of a workingman's club, giving to them the results of long and intelligent observation, and what he says is absolutely true. A wrong deed has never yet made anybody happy.

Who is the creator of the world in which a man lives? Can it be any other than the man himself? Let it be granted that some men have very weak wills; that it takes but little outside pressure to change any decisions they are likely to make. All this must be admitted, and yet it must be clear that his willingness to be led is sanctioned by his own will. There are many people who are perfectly willing that the other fellow should do all the work of the thinking, all the planning, and that their only part of the game is to indorse what others do. This is what we call following the "line of the least resistence," and there is a great crowd at the job. Observation will show that if there is hell in a man's life he has had something, at least, in making it such. If it is heaven, then that also is largely of his own creation.

The hunting season is now on in full force which is doubtless arousing all the sportsman spirit that is in one's blood. This quality of sport appeals to all kinds and conditions of men. The lords, and in many instances, the ladies, too, in England make much of hunting. The fever burns just as fiercely in this country as anywhere, and conditions are such here that vastly more people can go to the joy the sport than elsewhere. Much pleasure may be derived from this [illegible] in contact with the animal kingdom. One can thus obtain fresh air and exercise and be led into much varied and beautiful scenery. Still it does my heart good to hear these brave words from a well-known Englishman: "It will probably ere long be recognised that even from a purely selfish point of view, killing animals is not the way to get the most enjoyment from them. How much more interesting would every walk in the country be, if men would but treat other animals with kindness, so that they might approach us without fear."

What really constitutes beautiful scenery? Beautiful faces? Beautiful buildings? Is it something that these things inherently possess, or is it a quality given by the eye of the beholder? To one person a picture in an art gallery is a monstrosity, to another it is the very perfection of art. Both cannot be right. If beauty was in the picture itself, would it not appear to all as such? Of course all do not have the same capacity to see beauty, but there would not be this great difference. Dr. Johnson once said that The Giant's Causeway was worth seeing, but not worth going to see." Yet people will travel half way across Europe to see it. The writer has seen people sail up the Hudson apparently with no interest whatever in the marvelous panorama of hills. It is a scientific fact that with no sunlight there would be no color. Possibly there would be no beauty without the human eye.

AMUNDSEN'S PLANS FOR NORTH POLE FLIGHT.

The announcement that Captain Amundsen intends to fly from Spitsbergen to Alaska over the north pole in an airplane that is somewhat reminiscent of that which carried Admiral Byrd and pard over the north pole, and had an icy grip from which few ships have escaped, is this intrepid explorer's sobering hand, designed by him and named for Norway's queen (nee Maud), Lieut. Hjalmar Johansen, his own assembly physicist; with a father with his eleven-year old boy playing the game. Both were dressed just alike and in up-to-date golf style. The boy was a fine husky lad who was evidently as familiar with golf stunts as he was with golf. But it was neither the clothes nor good golf playing that impressed the writer, but the easy and splendid comradeship that seemed to subsist between father and son. There was a fine intimacy between them that showed fine training and good sense. Why should not fathers and sons be on terms of easy familiarity with each other. All honor to the father who can be a real chum to his boy and still retain his authority and respect! If the home life were better there would be fewer boys going to the bad.

Even a gravestone can tell a story, and sometimes it is a funny story. An elderly man was one day seen walking through one of our cemeteries very slowly and with a sad countenance. A bystander thought very likely he had come to visit the resting place of his wife or some other dear relative. He glanced casually at this and that stone until he came to one very imposing and impressive. As he carefully read what the stone had to say about the departed, he burst out laughing, and turned away saying: "Well, if that doesn't beat the devil!" His difficulty probably lay in trying to connect the life of the departed with what his gravestone said about him. One is inclined to think that many epitaphs are mistaken devices by which people think "they can beat the devil." A sense of refinement demands a change in this direction, and it has begun.

This whole matter of trying to perpetuate the memory of the dead through marble calls for a thorough examination. Why should we try to preserve the warmest and tenderest emotions of the human soul by such an impossible barrier as cold and unfeeling marble? Hawthorne, in his "Twice Told Tales" speaks of this matter. His old Mr. Norton had gained a large fortune by questionable methods, and was by far the richest and most thoroughly despised man in the village. Knowing his unpopularity he selected his great monument and gave himself a good send off just to get the better of the community in death. Hawthorne with his masterly touch treats the matter in these words: "The weight of these heavy marbles, though unfelt by the dead corpse or the enfranchised soul, presses drearily upon the spirit of the survivor and causes him to connect the idea of death with the dungeon-like imprisonment of the tomb, instead of with the freedom of the skies. Every gravestone is the visible symbol of a mistaken system."

Is it not a very wise provision of nature that when the autumnal frosts come, they do not effect all vegetation alike? That is, some forms of vegetable matter have greater resistive power that others. If all trees and shrubs had the appearance of grapevines and Indian corn after a few hard frosts the money loss would be greatly increased. It would also be hard on us to be suddenly robbed of the variegated splendor of hillsides and mountains. We can better adapt ourselves to the drab bleakness of winter by being let down gradually, by losing the beauty of this thing and that one by one, until the last glowing tint is gone. Suppose, again, in the domain of our physical being everybody should be perfectly well for a year, how galling to the doctors to draw on their large holdings of stocks and bonds! On the other hand suppose for a year everybody should be sick, it would be still harder on the rank and file who do not have large holdings of stocks and bonds. It is evident that One infinitely wise and good is back of the world order, and yet we grow!

Sir John Lubbock, who was one of the keenest observers of men and things that the last century produced, has some pointed things to say about the troubles of life. This is what he has to say: "It would be a great thing if people could be brought to realise that they can never add to the sum of their happiness by doing wrong. In the case of children, indeed, we recognise this; we perceive that a spoilt child is not a happy one; that it would have been far better for him to have been punished at first and thus saved from greater suffering in after life." Now Sir John is not looking at this matter from the standpoint of a minister; he is not making any attempt whatever to preach. He is here speaking as the president of a workingman's club, giving to them the results of long and intelligent observation, and what he says is absolutely true. A wrong deed has never yet made anybody happy.

Who is the creator of the world in which a man lives? Can it be any other than the man himself? Let it be granted that some men have very weak wills; that it takes but little outside pressure to change any decisions they are likely to make. All this must be admitted, and yet it must be clear that his willingness to be led is sanctioned by his own will. There are many people who are perfectly willing that the other fellow should do all the work of the thinking, all the planning, and that their only part of the game is to indorse what others do. This is what we call following the "line of the least resistence," and there is a great crowd at the job. Observation will show that if there is hell in a man's life he has had something, at least, in making it such. If it is heaven, then that also is largely of his own creation.

The hunting season is now on in full force which is doubtless arousing all the sportsman spirit that is in one's blood. This quality of sport appeals to all kinds and conditions of men. The lords, and in many instances, the ladies, too, in England make much of hunting. The fever burns just as fiercely in this country as anywhere, and conditions are such here that vastly more people can go to the joy the sport than elsewhere. Much pleasure may be derived from this [illegible] in contact with the animal kingdom. One can thus obtain fresh air and exercise and be led into much varied and beautiful scenery. Still it does my heart good to hear these brave words from a well-known Englishman: "It will probably ere long be recognised that even from a purely selfish point of view, killing animals is not the way to get the most enjoyment from them. How much more interesting would every walk in the country be, if men would but treat other animals with kindness, so that they might approach us without fear."

What really constitutes beautiful scenery? Beautiful faces? Beautiful buildings? Is it something that these things inherently possess, or is it a quality given by the eye of the beholder? To one person a picture in an art gallery is a monstrosity, to another it is the very perfection of art. Both cannot be right. If beauty was in the picture itself, would it not appear to all as such? Of course all do not have the same capacity to see beauty, but there would not be this great difference. Dr. Johnson once said that The Giant's Causeway was worth seeing, but not worth going to see." Yet people will travel half way across Europe to see it. The writer has seen people sail up the Hudson apparently with no interest whatever in the marvelous panorama of hills. It is a scientific fact that with no sunlight there would be no color. Possibly there would be no beauty without the human eye.

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

Christ's Lowliness

We often make the mistake of confounding lowliness with cowardice, and meekness with meanness of spirit. There could not be a greater mistake. Pure humility, sacrifice of self, has nothing cringing cowardly about it. No one ever showed a more dauntless spirit in the presence of danger, or advanced more intrepidly along the line of what He considered His duty than did Christ; yet none was more gentle and so unassuming that in the face of what ever insult or abuse He would not strive.

Christ's lowliness consisted in giving up what men of the world place the greatest value upon and for which they give the loudest praise. It was not that His character omitted and noble element, but that he "made Himself of no reputation." He sought character the qualities which God approves. He ignored reputation the applause of men.

In His life there were two things were ever at strife with each other. For this reason He was despised and rejected of men. Men honor those who heap up riches, but He chose poverty and homelessness. They praise one who is quick to resent and retaliate; but He was smitten without a returning blow, and taught that we should love our enemies. They are pleased with a flatterer, but He told them stern and unwelcome truths. They are soothed by the words of one who tells them that their life and practices are about right; and that what faults they have are due to their ancestors and their surroundings; but He called upon them to repent, thus seeking not to build Himself up but to help others, and He was numbered unto those who sinned. He was despised, smitten and abused. "Forth forever on the scaffold; wrong forever on the throne," has been the often-repeated text of history.

It will be seen that this lowliness is not an object to be sought; but a means to an end. There is no virtue in debasement without a purpose. The hatred of men, fears and blows are not in themselves proof of following in Christ's footsteps. It is the spirit in which these humiliations are suffered that glorifies them.

Others were executed but by Christ alone has the cross become the symbol of sublime self-sacrifice and noble suffering.

Christ's lowliness in man's esteem was eminence in the sight of God. With Him the relative position of men are measured on a different scale. He who makes himself of no reputation for the purpose of helping his fellowmen, not only shall be, but is, exalted by every test of service.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Agrees With Mr. Troland.

Mr. Editor: In reading the other day Mr. Troland's remarks on the revision of the Bible I agreed with him in thinking that the sense was spoiled by trying to make over the scriptures to suit a few narrow minded people who think they are too progressive to believe anything old fashioned. I suppose the next move they will make will be to try to prove that 5 plus 5 is more than 10, and that the multiplication table is out of date, and that 10 times 10 is not 100, that the sun rises in the west and sets in the north, etc.

The fundamental principles in nature and religion are the same today as hundreds of years ago and cannot be changed by education or progressive ideas in any way.

Stories That Recall Others

Scene of the Wolf Hunt

On the way to the metropolis of New England the other day, a diminutive urchin, in company with his mother, asked the inevitable questions about cows, horses and haystacks as the train moved through the country, only to be much impressed with the conductor's cry of "Putnam" as they were getting ready to change trains in that city.

"Oh, mom," shouted the youngster, "is this where they had the big wolf hunt?"

Not Impressed by Beauty.

Those who associate daily with the great are not so deeply impressed, perhaps, as others.

A young man with a message for the head of a large concern was compelled to wait a minute in the outer office. The boss wasn't doing anything, but the messenger knew it. Finally he was admitted and welcomed with a frown.

"Well, sir, what is it? Time is money."

"I have here a card from my boss. He wants you to squander about $6 worth on the golf links this afternoon."

Today's Birthdays

James J. Davis, who holds the labor portfolio in the Coolidge cabinet, born in Wales 60 years ago today.

Hon. Walter Scott, former premier of Saskatchewan, born in County Middlesex, Ont., 56 years ago today.

William E. Knox, of New York City, vice-president of the American Bankers Association, born in Ireland 61 years ago today.

Neil M. Judd, curator of the U. S. National Museum, born at Cedar Rapids, Neb., 36 years ago today.

Charley Ledoux, a noted French pugilist who has done considerable fighting in America, born 31 years ago today.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

James J. Davis, who holds the post of Secretary of Labor in the Coolidge cabinet is in line for congratulations today on reaching his 50th milestone on the journey through life. Born in Wales and brought to America in infancy, the future cabinet officer was through on his own resources at an early age through the loss of his father. At 11 he left school and began his battle of life, as an apprentice in a nail mill in Pennsylvania. Later he found employment in a tinplate mill in Elwood, Ind., where he threw himself with politics and was elected to several local offices. His great turn of fortune came, however, when he was chosen head and reorganizer of the Loyal Order of Moose. Thereafter his rise in fortune was rapid and a few years later found him engaged in the banking business in Pittsburgh. As a mill hand, as a worker for public office, as business man and banker, Mr. Davis has shown himself possessed in a high degree of the qualities that lead to success.

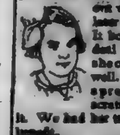
CUTICURA HEALS CHILD'S ECZEMA
Broke Out As Rash, Itched and Kept Spreading.



"When my little girl was two years old her face began to break out with a rash which later turned to eczema. It bothered her a great deal by itching, and she could not sleep very well. The trouble kept spreading and she scratched and tortured it. We had her treated without any benefit.

"I read an advertisement about Cuticura Soap and Ointment and purchased some, and after using four cakes of Cuticura Soap and four boxes of Ointment she was healed." (Signed) Mrs. O. L. Brewer, Box 418, Livermore Falls, Maine.

FALL PAINTING

It is cheaper to paint than not to paint. Repairs are costly and they are usually the result of inadequate painting.

The Fall is the best time to paint. Surfaces are dryer than in the Spring. Rains are less frequent. Winter weather is easier on a new coat of paint than hot weather. Insects and dust do not mar the coat in the Fall. Contractors are not so rushed in the Fall.

TO EXPECTANT MOTHERS

A Letter from Mrs. Ward Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Springfield, Ohio. — "Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound proved a splendid medicine for me before my fourth child was born. With the first three I had been sick and weak, and had sick headaches twice a week. I couldn't keep enough food down to do me any good, and my work was left undone many a time. My sister-in-law told me to take the Vegetable Compound when I began to have the same old dreadful sickness and headaches and was so worn out. Since then I have only had two headaches, had a good appetite and scarcely lost a meal. I have a fine, healthy baby girl who has never had a sick day. The nicest part is that I am healthy, too. It did me a lot of good, and if I should ever have another baby I will take your medicine at once." — Mrs. BESSIE WARD, 1027 Park Avenue, Springfield, Ohio.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent medicine for expectant mothers, and should be taken during the entire period. It has a general effect to strengthen and tone up the entire system.

FINE ORGAN RECITAL WITH CONCERT PROGRAMME

The auditorium of the First German Lutheran church on Franklin street was filled to capacity Friday evening when a grand concert was given by members and out of town talent. The orchestra, led by John Eckstein, played several numbers and was repeatedly called on for encores. The feature of the evening was the group of pleasing organ recitals by Rev. H. Stippich of South Manchester whose execution of the most difficult numbers delighted his large audience. His Mir Als Kind Die Mutter Sang, a baritone solo by Frank Steinke, brought forth applause and for an encore Mr. Steinke rendered in fine voice, In Old Madrid (H. Tratere.

Orchestra, John Eckstein, conductor; Ankunftmarch aus Tannhaeuser, R. Wagner; organ recital, Rev. H. Stippich, South Manchester; (a) Priere-Offertoire, Paul Devred; (b) Cantilene in F Minor, A. W. Marchant; cornet solo, John Eckstein; (a) Paradise of Mine, A. Barron; (b) Serenade, Schubert; orchestra; Ungarisches Lustpiel Overture, Kela-Bela; duet on the piano, Miss Frieda Philipp and Miss Margaret Seidel; (a) La Czarine, Ganne; (b) Silvery Stars, Boehme; violin solo, Miss Josephine Zalinsky, accompanied by Miss Freda Philipp; (a) Traeumerei, Schuman; (b) Minuet in G, L. Weinert, accompanist; Behuet 'dicht Gott, Nessler; duet, Mrs. B. Weinert, Miss O. Zachael, B. Weinert, accompanist; Verlassen, T. Koshchat; Church Choir, (a) Lobe den Herrn, M. L. McPhell; (b) Mach' Dich Aufu, Werde Licht, Charles H. Gabriel; baritone solo, Frank Steinke, Alfred Steinke, accompanist; (a) Was Mir Als Kind Die Mutter Sang, Bohn; (b) In Old Madrid, H. Tratere; Maennerchor; (a) Natchtlager Bei Granada, Kreutzen; (b) Gruss Des Deutschen in der Ferne; finale, organ, Rev. H. Stippich, South Manchester.

Following the concert the audience was invited to the church rooms where light refreshments of frankfurters, rolls, cake and coffee were served. Arrangements for the refreshments were in charge of Mrs. Anna Werth, Mrs. Bertha Schlintz, Mrs. Pauline Budzseck and Mrs. Frederick Hunzinger. The grab bag which afforded entertainment was in charge of Mrs. Mary Zempke and Mrs. Anna Schultz, and the apron counter was in charge of Mrs. Augusta Decker, Mrs. Maria Retkovske and Mrs. Ida Elbeck.

The success of the concert was due to the efforts of the committee comprising Rev. Hermann Hunzinger, John Eckstein and W. R. Gross. The ticket sellers were Miss Olga Grebe and Otto Philipp and the ushers were Ernest and Paul Zache and Harry Weinesky.

DESCRIBES MEDICAL WORK AT MADURA MISSION

Medical work in the Madura Mission was described in an interesting way by Mrs. William Zumbro before the mission department of the United Congregational church, which held its first meeting of the season Friday afternoon at 3.30 at the Community house on Church street.

She was introduced by the chairman, Miss Nancy Lucas, who presided. Mrs. Zumbro described the wonderful results that had been accomplished by the medical work and the great need of this branch of Christian helpfulness especially at the time of the dreadful cholera epidemics. Names which have been connected with honor with this work at Madura are Dr. Steele from 1837 to 1842, Dr. John Scudder 1847-49, Dr. and Mrs. Shelton, Dr. Chester, who gave 43 years of service, Dr. Van Allen from 1858 till his death about two months ago. Dr. Van Allen, Mrs. Zumbro said, had left two memorials, an operating room in the hospital in the hills and the new maternity hospital on which construction was begun this spring.

Twelve girls participated in an impressive dramatization entitled Illustrated Hymns, with Mrs. Charles Tyler Bard singing the hymns. One group of girls represented the Christian message brought through the hymns to the other group who were dressed to represent China, Turkey, Japan and India.

At the close of the meeting tea was served by Mrs. L. M. Young, assisted by Miss Helen P. Browning, Miss Jane Aiken and Mrs. Archibald Mitchell 4th.

Arrested For Worcester Bondsman.

Charles A. Wells of Providence was arrested in this city Friday by Officers Charles Smith and Myron O. Morgan on a charge of being a fugitive from justice. Wells was arrested recently in Worcester in connection with a charge growing out of the sale of automobiles in that city. Attorney Morrison of Worcester went on his bond of $300 and he was released. Friday his bondsman came to Norwich to surrender him to the authorities as it was learned that he was in this city. A warrant charging Wells with being a fugitive from justice was issued by Prosecuting Attorney Lee Roy Robbins.

GOVERNOR OFFERS SILVER CUP; BACKUS HOSPITAL CAMPAIGN AT $192,814

Every cubic inch of the atmosphere in the town hall was packed to the bursting point with enthusiasm Friday night when reports were made at the supper in the Backus hospital campaign and Governor Charles A. Templeton was the guest of honor.

There was scarcely a vacant chair at the tables at 6.30 when Governor Templeton entered the hall as Swahn's band, which had been especially added to the musical force for the evening, struck up "Hail to the Chief." Everyone was standing in a minute and the governor walked to the head of the room, escorted by Mrs. Allyn L. Brown, chairman of the woman's division, Mayor Milo R. Waters and Shepard B. Palmer, amid a storm of applause that was continued for several minutes.

This high water mark of enthusiasm was continued all through the evening and reached another tidal wave point when Earle Wood reported 203 subscriptions from Taftville for a total of $11,735 the largest of the evening.

When the reports were all in, the result of the day of work had put $35,871 more to the campaign figures and brought the grand total to date to $192,814 on the way to the goal of $250,000 and more.

Team honors for largest total in subscriptions went to Team No. 2, Mrs. Simon Mandell, captain, with $1,789, and Team No. 4, Charles L. Stewart, captain, with $728, the second night in succession for this team.

Chairman James L. Case quickly devised special honors for Mrs. Mandell when it was time for the blue banner to be presented to her team, for he summoned her to the front of the room and then called upon Governor Templeton to make the presentation with Mayor Waters as standard bearer. The happy conceit caught the crowd and the group of three was given a veritable ovation as the presentation was completed.

Governor Offers Silver Cup.

Another of the highlights of a night that was full of spotlight moments was when Chairman Case announced near the close of the evening that Governor Templeton had offered a silver cup to the team member who brings in the greatest number of subscriptions between now and the end of the campaign.

'Final Reports Tuesday Noon.

Chairman Case also announced that the executive committee had decided to give the workers increased opportunity to cover the field in a final effort and that the time for final reports had been changed from next Monday night to next Tuesday at 12.30 noon, and that from now on "open territory" would prevail, that is, that any worker is at liberty to see any prospective subscriber, regardless of the card system.

William G. Park and Louis A. Wheeler, song leaders, sprang into action as soon as the workers were seated for supper and they kept the hall filled with music with scarcely a lag up.

Henry La Fontaine, for whom Mrs. Charles A. Saxton was accompanist, was loudly applauded for his rendering of Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses, and after his solo, Chairman Case called on all the commanders to stand up in front and introduce themselves, following this by singing Nelly Kelly, led by the song leaders.

Judge Allyn L. Brown, who was noticed coming into the hall and taking seat with one of the teams, was called upon for a speech, responding briefly with congratulations for the remarkable gathering.

Song leaders Park and Wheeler brought down the house with their topical song to the tune of Gallagher and Shean.

Chairman Case then opened the formal part of the program with the singing of America by the team workers and the invocation by Dr. David A. Pitt of the Central Baptist church.

Mr. Case congratulated the gathering on its nearly 100 per cent. attendance this evening, which had exceeded all other evenings for both men and women.

The famous Farm Song which is often a feature of Rotary meetings was called for and was given with a will by all the Rotarians and the Lions who were asked to join them and the entire group stood at the front of them all to sing. They were joined by governor Templeton, a Waterbury Rotarian.

In return for this number the women's division sang "Smiles" and were loudly applauded.

Thanks for Memorials

Chairman Case thanked the teams for their response to the request to secure memorial gifts and he read off the list of those that had been given. Among these that have not been previously mentioned were $1,500 memorial nurses' room by the Ashland Cotton Co. Aspinook Co. Jacob Muns, the Catholic priests of the parishes in this territory, and one in memory of John Porteous.

Mr. Case said that Dr. Varney had provided funds for their blackboards at the nurses' home.

Incidents in Campaign

In response to the invitation to relate interesting incidents of the campaign one was told of a $1 bill received from a woman who said that she had earned the money over the wash tub. Commander Johnson reported that Ozias Dodge had contributed 12 etchings to be sold for the benefit of the campaign, several had been sold and those wishing to purchase could find the etchings at headquarters.

Herbert B. Cary reported that the report of Captain Edwin Hill's team contained a contribution of $100 from John Underwood, president of the Underwood Co., for the purchase of a typewriter for the nurses home. Mrs. Frank L. Farrell reported the contribution of $10 by the Alpha Gamma Sigma sorority and Mrs. H. L. Stanton reported a contribution of $30 from the Camp Fire Girls.

Another report was of $5 contributed through the pennies of the county home children and supervisor S. Hussey Reed reported that the Bozrah school children about 125 in number in seven schools had contributed $40.50 Each incident was the signal for loud

The team reports were taken up before the speaking program of the evening. In the report of Mrs. Mandell's team was a $1,500 memorial given by the Max Gordon corporation, and in the report of Mrs. Oliver L. Johnson's team was a $1,500 memorial by Mr. and Mrs. Wallace S. Allis. The memorial reported Thursday by Mrs. Tingley's team was given by the families of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Eldredge and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Montgomery in memory of their grandson and son, Robert Eldredge Montgomery.

Three cheers were given for L. M. Crandall and John J. O'Rourke for special work they have done in the campaign and for the Polish women's team under Miss Stella Stecewics, which has worked and reported persistently and consistently every night.

Must Achieve Success.

Chairman Case called upon the workers to keep up the drive without a let-down and go on with the splendid spirit of enthusiasm until the job was done, and done right.

After another solo by Mr. LaFontaine, for which he gave an encore, Chairman Case presented Mayor Waters to introduce Governor Templeton, which His Honor did with a felicitous reference to the governor as a man of integrity, ability, experience, courage and absolute honesty.

Governor Templeton Speaks.

The governor had to wait for several minutes for the applause to subside before he could speak.

He declared that while he had been invited to say something to put pep into this campaign, this meeting was putting pep into him. He referred to his attendance at the convention of governors at Indianapolis and said that the United States was all right with these fine Christian men at the head of the states and he could say for Connecticut that it stood for law enforcement, for obedience to law is liberty and good citizenship. He said that there was a lot of propaganda going about and the people ought to look out for it. It had been said the governor of Connecticut is a drinking man. Holding up a tea cup before the crowd, the Governor said that that cup would hold all the liquor he had drank in the last 52 years. If he were a drinking man he didn't know it.

He acknowledged with thankfulness what the nursing profession had done for his family when his daughter was sick a number of years ago. He advocated church attendance on the part of everyone and told the workers to go on with the drive for the hospital for this is the kind of thing people ought to loosen up for.

Keep on smiling, said the governor, don't get mad. That's why they don't like me at Hartford, because I won't get mad, but keep on smiling. As long as I know I'm right I'm going ahead. Give to the world the best you have and the world will give back to you.

After the nurses, who were guests at the supper had rendered The Long Long Trail, assisted by song leader Park, the gathering came to a close.

The captains are to meet this (Saturday) evening at 6.15 in the Wauregan house dining room.

WEDDING.
Pingree—Krause.

One of the prettiest weddings of the season was held Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Krause, 256 Boswell avenue, when their youngest daughter, Ella Mary, was united in marriage with Harold Pingree, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alberto Pingree of Taftville. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. G. Crowdis of Taftville. The Bridal Chorus from Lhengrin was played by Mrs. Carl Krause, sister-in-law of the bride. The bride and groom were unattended. The bride's gown was of the very latest design. She carried a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums. Mrs. Krause, mother of the bride, was attired in black canton crepe with beaded trimmings and wore a corsage bouquet of roses. Mrs. Pingree, mother of the groom, was attired in black chiffon velvet and wore a corsage bouquet of roses. There were many beautiful and costly gifts consisting of silverware, cut glass, china and linen and several checks. A wedding dinner was served after the ceremony by the bride's mother. Guests were present from Taftville, New York, Massachusetts, and Rhode Island and New Hampshire. The house was tastefully decorated with palms and cut flowers by Geduldig. After spending a honeymoon in New York the couple will be at home after November 20th to their many friends in their newly furnished home at Goodyear, Conn.

COLCHESTER MAN TRIES SUICIDE WITH KNIFE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 26.—Peter Topowich, 64, of Colchester, despondent because of suffering long from Bright's disease, attempted to end his life at his home last night, slashing his throat with a knife. He is now a patient at Lawrence hospital, where his condition is considered fair, although the outcome cannot be foretold, because of the man's age and his weakness brought about by his long illness. Topowich, unknown to the members of his family, late at night became possessed of the idea to commit suicide and, taking his jackknife, he slashed his throat deeply. He was discovered a short time afterward and Dr. C. E. Pendleton of Colchester was summoned. After applying emergency treatment, he had the man taken to the New London institution by Gilbert Murray, a neighbor of the Topowich family. The victim is married and has one son.

CHANCE SELECTED AS MANAGER OF WHITE SOX TO SUCCEED GLEASON

Chicago, Oct. 26.—(By The A. P.)—Frank Chance, manager of the Boston Americans last season, and a former pilot of the Chicago Cubs, tonight was selected to succeed "Kid" Gleason, as manager of the Chicago White Sox.

Chance, famous, as the "Peerless Leader" of the Chicago Cubs some years ago came to terms with Harry Grabiner, business manager of the White Sox, during a long distance telephone conference. Chance at his home in Los Angeles, accepted the contract which will run one year. The contract will be signed when the club owners of the American League convene here in December for the annual meeting.

Chance made his name and fortune in baseball, when he won four pennants and two world championships in five seasons.

In 1906 Chance piloted the Cubs to the National League championship but lost the world's series to the White Sox. In 1907 and 1908 the Cubs defeated the Tigers for the world's championship and in 1910 the famous machine, then going to pieces, won its last National League flag and was out-classed by the Athletics in the world's series. The Athletics won four out of five games that fall, the single Chicago victory being scored by Pitcher King Cole, now deceased.

The new White Sox pilot, a member of that famous combination—Tinker, Evers to Chance—came to the Cubs in 1898 after playing ball at Washington college, California and at Sullivan, Ills. For five years he played in the outfield and behind the bat, and in 1903 went to first base where he remained until the end of his playing days.

In 1905 Frank Selee, resigned as manager and Chance succeeded him. When Charles W. Murphy acquired the club, a few deals were engineered and the Cubs started on their sensational career. Before the season of 1913 closed, Chance and Murphy came to a parting of the way. After a bitter fight, Murphy scored the decisive blow when he sent his once "Peerless Leader" to the Cincinnati club for the waiver price of $1,500. Johnny Evers succeeded Chance but remained only during the 1913 season.

The Cincinnati club had no place for Chance, who obtained his release when offered the management of the New York Yankees. The Yankees signed him for three years at a reported salary of $25,000 a year but before the season of 1914 was over Chance, realizing the hopelessness of his position resigned and retired to his orange grove at Glendora, Calif.

From 1914 until last spring Chance remained out of baseball except for a year with the Los Angeles club. He accepted the management of the Boston Red Sox last winter but was released before the 1923 season was completed. His contract was only for one year, however, and his release was not due to any dissatisfaction over his work. The Red Sox finished last but Chance holds the distinction of winning sixty-one games with the club which is said to be a record number of victories for a last place team.

Kid Gleason resigned as manager of the White Sox after winning the city series this year because, he said, he was discouraged with his attempts to rebuild the team wrecked as a result of the world series scandal of 1919. Gleason was manager of the White Sox six years and was identified with the club as assistant manager and coach under the leadership of Clarence Rowland.

"I think Chance will be a whale of a manager," Grabiner said. "He's popular in Chicago and apparently was very anxious to return. It didn't take us five minutes to come to terms over the telephone."

AMERICA'S PART IN WINTER SPORTS TO BE SETTLED SOON

New York, Oct. 26—Plans for America's participation in the winter sports program, of the Olympic games next January, will be made Saturday and Sunday at Cleveland, where the international skating union and the United States amateur hockey league will hold their annual meetings.

The United States figure skating association will ask the International Skating Union to approve the following team of figure skaters to represent this country in the Olympic figure skating championships at Chamonix, in the French Alps:

Mrs. Charles R. Blanchard, United States women's champion; Miss Beatrix Loughran, runner-up in the championship contest; Sherwin Badger, men's champion of the United States and Nathaniel Niles, who with Mrs. Blanchard, holds the pair championship for this country.

The hockey team of the Boston Athletic association has been recommended as America's representative in the Olympic hockey matches and is said to be practically certain of being the selection of the hockey league. Additional players will be chosen from other prominent teams to accompany the Boston sextet as substitutes.

Plans for the selection of a team of six speed skaters to represent this country include a series of elimination races at Lake Placid, Johnson City, and Newburg, N. Y., entries in the eliminations will include Charles Jewtraw, international champion; Harry Kaskey, national and Canadian champion; William Steinmets, former international champion; Joe Moore, international indoor champion; Roy McWhirter, former national champion, and others.

DARTMOUTH HARRIERS WIN TRIANGULAR MEET

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 26—Dartmouth won a triangular cross-country race over the five mile Cambridge course today, defeating the University of Maine, by three points and Harvard by 23. The score was Dartmouth 33; University of Maine 36; and Harvard 66. Arthur Hillman, of Island Falls, Maine, of the Maine team, was the individual winner, covering the distance in 27 minutes, 23 seconds. Another University of Maine athlete, Horace Raymond, finished second. Bryon Cutcheon, of the Harvard team, finished third.

Of the first nine men to finish, five were Dartmouth men. Francis Osgood, in fourth place, led the green runners across the line. The Dartmouth runners were bunched in the lead for the first two miles, but at the four mile mark Hillman and Raymond had forced well ahead.

Dartmouth Freshmen defeated Harvard freshmen, 21 to 36 in a four-mile cross-country run.

RICKEY FEELS INSULTED OVER HORNSBY REPORT

St. Louis, Oct. 26—Manager Branch Rickey, of the St. Louis Nationals today termed a "grand insult," the report that Rogers Hornsby would be traded to the Chicago Cubs for four players.

He related a recent conversation with Bill Killefer, manager of the Cubs, in which an offer was made for Hornsby and promptly rejected.

Sam Breadon, president of the Cardinals, said Hornsby would not be sold for cash under any consideration, and that the only possible way he would be traded, would be if the trade assured St. Louis a pennant.

"The value I place on Hornsby's services is so great," Mr. Breadon said, "I consider my price, in players, for Hornsby prohibitive."

GARAZEN CROWNED KING OF TWO YEAR OLDS

Laurel, Md., Oct. 26—Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt's unbeaten Sarazen was crowned king of 1923's two year olds this afternoon when he galloped away from Edward F. Simm's previously undefeated filly Happy Thoughts in the $15,000 match race, here. The winner's time for the six furlongs was 1.14.

Earl Sande had Sarazen off first and he was never headed. At the half mile post, with Sarazen two lengths in the lead, Andy Schuttinger rode Happy Thoughts hard, and succeeded in momentarily reducing Sarazen's advantage but Sande gave Sarazen his head, and swinging into the stretch had the gelding four lengths in front. In the stretch Happy Thoughts closed up sore ground but could not threaten seriously and Sarazen finished well in hand. The fractional time was :24 3-5; :48, 1:14.

Sarazen paid $2.60 in the mutuels on a $2.00 ticket. The race marked the ninth consecutive victory for Mrs. Vanderbilt's little star.

In addition to the stake the victory brought Sarazen a silver trophy valued at $500. The event brought forth the biggest crowd of the Laurel meeting, the grounds being packed hours before the scheduled time for the race. Mrs. Vanderbilt and Mr. Sims were on hand to see their charges perform, as well as many other notables and large groups from many eastern cities.

ACADEMY HOT ON TRAIL OF STONINGTON ELEVEN

Although hindered on account of the bad weather condition this week, the Norwich Free Academy football team goes after the scalp of the fast Stonington eleven in the opposition's own camping ground. The local team has been greatly weakened by the loss of Paul McNamara, who will not be able to don football togs again this year on account of an injury sustained in the Chapman Tech game last Saturday.

Coach Brigham of the Academy is far from satisfied with the showing made by the local crew up to date and has been shifting the players around during the last week to find, if possible, a better balanced team. As far as weight goes the local institution is on the top of the heap for the team has outweighed nearly every opponent met so far. The thing to counteract this brute advantage is the fact that practically the whole line is playing its first year together.

The game promises to be a good one in spite of the fact that Norwich previously defeated the Stonington aggregation at the first meeting of these two rivals. Reports from the southern camp indicate that the opposition is out for revenge the former set back and this is probably the truth of the matter. The game is scheduled for 3 p. m.

TIGER SUPPORTERS TO BACK THE VARSITY TEAM

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 26—Moral support for the Princeton football team will not be lacking tomorrow when the Tiger faces the naval academy in Baltimore. This afternoon a general exodus of Orange and Black rooters began and it was estimated that more than half of the under-graduate body will be in the cheering section tomorrow.

The varsity left for Baltimore this morning after a rousing send-off by under-graduates. Tomorrow's game will make the fifteenth with the navy. Princeton has won nine of them, tied three and lost two.

Eastern League Meeting.

Springfield, Mass., Oct. 26.—Refusal of Eastern League directors, at their annual fall meeting here today, to enact legislation forbidding sale, transfer or loaning of players from clubs of equal or higher classification after August 15 each year featured the session. It was announced that Hartford, pennant winners, led the league in attendance figures, playing to about 136,000. Most of the time was spent in clearing up business of the 1923 season.

National Track Championships Today

New York, Oct. 26—Two national track championships, with the title-holders defending their claims in each event, are scheduled tomorrow afternoon at McCombs Dam Park. They are the National A. A. U. ten mile run in which Willie Ritola, the winner last year, will compete against a big field and the National A. A. U. seven mile walk, in which William Plant will defend his title.

Connecticut Cross-Country Run

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 26—The Yale university and freshman cross-country teams will compete in the Connecticut junior championships here tomorrow morning over Yale's three-mile course. The meet will be started at 11 o'clock. More than 50 entries had been received up to tonight.

Driggs and Mabon in Finals

Garden City, N. Y., Oct. 26—Eddie Driggs of Cherry Valley and C. W. Mabon of Garden City today won their way into the finals of the first annual championship of the New York State Golf Association. They will meet tomorrow.

Shade Beats Wells.

New York, Oct. 26.—Dave Shade of California won the judges' decision over Billy Wells, welterweight champion of England after 15 rounds of fighting in Madison Square Garden tonight. Shade weighed 147 pounds and Wells

EASTERN ELEVENS FACE MID-SEASON TESTS WITHOUT MAXIMUM STRENGTH

New York, Oct. 26—(By the A. P.)—With practically all the major elevens unable to muster their full first string strength, chiefly because of an unusually heavy casualty list, eastern college football faces tomorrow its mid-season tests, including several of the keynote engagements of the fall.

Prominent among games holding the center of the eastern gridiron stage are those between Penn state and West Virginia, in the Yankee Stadium; Harvard and Dartmouth, at Cambridge; Princeton and naval academy, at Baltimore; Pennsylvania and Centre, at Philadelphia; Yale and Brown, at New Haven; and Columbia and Williams, at New York.

Five important contests of intersectional character also illuminate the program. Besides the clash between Penn and Centre's "praying colonels," they include the contests between Oberlin and Amherst, at Amherst, Mass., Marquette, of Milwaukee and Boston College at Boston; Washington & Jefferson and Detroit University, at Detroit, and Colgate and Ohio Wesleyan at Hamilton, N. Y. Seldom have the elevens, as a whole, entered such important battles under the handicap they will face tomorrow, according to reports from camps which indicate a long array of injuries and other mishaps.

For instance, Penn State's chances in its clash with West Virginia, a contest likely to have an important bearing on the eastern championship situation, have been seriously impaired by the loss through injury of Mike Palm, star quarterback. Neither team has been defeated this season and West Virginia has not tasted a reverse since 1921. State proved its mettle last Saturday by trouncing the navy while the strong Pittsburgh eleven is among West Virginia's victims so far.

Dartmouth, in its drive for football glory against Harvard, will be without the services of Chuck Calder. Its only worthwhile kicker and best all-around backfield man, and also Roy Kelly, Calder's understudy. The former was declared ineligible and the latter was injured in Thursday's practice.

At Harvard, however, Howe, first string fullback is out of the game, and the physical condition of Charley Eastman and Mal Greenough, veteran linemen, is such that neither may be allowed to play.

Yale's gloomy aspect is due to the loss for the remainder of the season of Charley O'Hearn, the blue's great triple-threat star, and the temporary loss of "Red" Murphy, alternate quarterback.

Princeton will enter the navy game without Frank Rutan, one of the Tiger's bulwarks in a line that appears to need its full complement of strength.

Boston College, about to face Marquette, a team which has tasted defeat but once in three years, will line up without Harold Ward, its powerful fullback, and Arthur McManus, star lineman.

Columbia, ambitious to avenge two successive defeats at the hands of Williams, may not have the services of Captain Walter Koppisch, the team's greatest all-round star.

These upsets to varsity combinations have altered tomorrow's outlook considerably. Penn State, originally at even choice in its struggle with West Virginia, is expected to have difficulty overcoming the mountaineers; Dartmouth's losses have somewhat dimmed the hitherto bright chance of a green victory over Harvard, which was held to a tie by Middlebury and able to defeat Holy Cross by only one touchdown; and Columbia, following recent disappointments, does not appear strong enough to stop Williams.

Yale appears capable of handling any opposition Brown may furnish while Princeton and the navy, both smarting from decisive defeats last week, apparently are evenly matched for a contest which while interesting, will have less bearing on title aspirations than was originally expected.

Play to Soccer Tie

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 26—The Princeton and Cornell soccer teams battled to a 2 to 2 tie here today in the first intercollegiate contest of the season. Two extra five minute periods were played without breaking the deadlock.

Attention Scalpers

Jewett City Speed Boys A. A. juniors have a game Saturday. Why not come to Jewett City Sunday and play us at Slater Park at 2 p. m.

Harvard Wins at Soccer

SPORT NOTES

Six Brown veterans who faced Yale in the Bowl last year will be in the line up Saturday when the Bear meets the Bull Dog.

The longest record time that a man has remained under water is 6 minutes 29 4-5 seconds. He lived to tell it.

Cross-country running had its beginning in England, was introduced into the United States about 1896 by Alfred Schrubb, of the British Isles.

The world's mark for women for 100 yards is 11 2-5 seconds, and is held by Miss B. Meizlikova, of Czecho-Slovakia. She also holds the record broad jump of 17 feet 4.8 inches.

The Austrian Athletic association, by a vote of 17 to 5, recently decided to accept the French Olympic committee's invitation for Austrian athletes to participate in next year's Olympic games.

Montreal and "Young" Luby, Bridgeport boy, are down on the books to have it out in Bridgeport Monday night.

The New York Nationals hold the record of winning the greatest number of consecutive games (26). This record was made in 1916. The greatest number of consecutive games won in the American League was 17. This record was made by the Chicago team in 1906.

Captain Henry Langworthy of Noank, well known fishing-ship master is listed among the crew of the schooner Columbia of Gloucester, which has been chosen to represent the United States in the international fishermen's race Against the Bluenose of Nova Scotia.

Among the contestants for the world's balkline billiard championship this year are: William F. Hoppe, Jake Schaefer, Jr., Roger Conti, the French champion; Edouard Horemand, the Belgian title holder; Welker Cochran, and Eric Hagenlacher, champion of Germany.

Paul Doyle, Boston welterweight, is drawing a tough opponent at the Commonwealth Club, New York, Saturday night. Doyle is scheduled to meet Ed Burnbrook, who recently gained fistic fame by flattening Jimmy Kelley for the count.

The Nutmeg Athletic Club of New Haven is swinging into action again. It is going to be on an indoor show featuring "Chic" Brown and probably Johnny Shugrue on November 3.

STORRS HENS SET MARK FAR PAST FORMER FIGURES

With still one more week to go the hens in the Storrs egg laying contest have already exceeded the best previous year's production back in 1917 by more than 3,000 eggs and they are over 8,000 eggs ahead of the average annual yield for the last eight years. The contestants are entirely satisfied with this excellent performance but the management of the contest is already wondering how it will ever be possible to measure up to this splendid record. The total production for the fifty-first week was 2110 eggs or a yield of a little more than thirty per cent. This is over 600 eggs more than for the corresponding period last year. The outstanding changes among the leading pens occurred in the Reds and Wyandottes. Albert T. Lonzen's pen of White Rocks from North Attleboro, Mass., moved up into fourth place by ousting a pen of Barred Rocks from New York state. Likewise, Obed G. Knight's pen of Wyandottes from Bridgeton, R. I., climbed into fourth place by sidestepping W. E. Moran's pen from Bethany, Conn. A pen of White Leghorns owned by S. G. McLean of South Glastonbury, Conn., was an easy first, for the week with a production of 41 eggs. Edgar Stoughton's Barred Rocks from Wapping, Conn., and a pen of Rhode Island Reds owned by Charles H. Lane, Southboro, Mass., tied for second place with a yield of 35 eggs each. Two pens of Rhode Island Reds owned respectively by Sunnyfields Farm at Wallingford, Conn. and a pen of White Leghorns owned by Hollywood Farm, Hollywood, Wash., were all tied for third place with a total of 35 eggs each. Small's Poultry Farm's White Leghorns from Mt. Carmel, Conn., and a pen of the same breed owned by J. Frank Dubois of Peacham, Vt., tied for fourth place with 34 eggs each.

Plymouth Rocks.

BOY SCOUT LEADERS CONTINUE TRAINING COURSE

The second evening session of the Scout Leaders' Training Course was held Wednesday night at Scout headquarters. The buglar called the meeting to order with assembly. A small but enthusiastic number of men were present. The first part of the evening was taken up with Morse Signalling. Thomas Baldwin, Jr., an expert in this line treated the subject well.

Next on the programme was an address by Principal L. M. Crandall of the Norwich Commercial School, on "Selling the Scout Idea."

Next on the programme was a practical demonstration and talk on Second Class First Aid by Frederick A. Benton, Jr. This was handled in an excellent manner for a young leader. First Aid consists simply of three things: 1 Relieve the patient. 2 Prevent aggravation of the injury. 3 Prepare for the doctor. First Aid means First Aid and that only. Hospital technique should not be taught. It is for emergencies and until the doctor arrives. He handled the subjects of shock, fracture, wounds, transportation of the injured and bandaging, demonstrating each one in a practical way. Common injuries of shock, fractures, and wounds are about the only ones requiring Scout First Aid. Demonstrations of the fireman's lift chair, and arm carry were given. The arresting of bleeding by pressure, blood knot, and tourniquet were shown, and the roller, triangular and head bandage and slings were properly applied to the patient.

Scout Executive F. A. Benton went through the uses of all the office forms used at headquarters including registration of troops, troop records, and all the important uses pertaining to the office requirements. The meeting closed with the Scout Oath. The next meeting of the Leaders will be held at Beach Pond, Saturday, October 27. Leaders will go out in automobiles and spend the night at beach cottages.

PHOTOGRAPHER TESTIFIES IN STOKES DIVORCE SUIT

New York, Oct. 26.—Ira L. Hill, Fifth avenue photographer, testified today at the retrial of W. E. D. Stokes' divorce suit against Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes that a picture of the defendant which negro witnesses for the wife by hotel owner said they had seen on the co-respondent's dresser in 1914, was not taken until April 9, 1918.

Edgar T. Wallace, the co respondent was interrupted in a detailed denial of the misconduct charges of Mr. Stokes' witnesses when Mr. Hill took the stand. Samuel Untermeyer, chief counsel for Mrs. Stokes, was reading the allegations of each witness for the hotel man, and Wallace was contradicting them one by one, when Mr. Untermeyer decided to hear Mr. Hill.

The photographer added that a picture of Mrs. Stokes and her two children which was identified by three negro witnesses for her husband as one similar to a photograph which hung in 1914 in the Bethel, Conn., home of Thomas W. Brander, manufacturer, also was made in 1918.

Eat and Get Thin

This is turning an old phrase face about, but modern methods of reducing fat have made this revision possible.

If you are overfat and also averse to physical exertion; if you are likewise fond of the table and still want to reduce your excess flesh several pounds, do this: Go to your druggist (or write the Marmola Company, 4613 Woodward Avenue, Detroit, Mich.), and give him (or send them) one dollar. For this modest amount of money the druggist will put you in the way of satisfying your ambition for a nice, trim slim figure. He will hand you a case of Marmola Prescription Tablets, compounded in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription, one of which you must take after each meal and at bedtime until you begin to lose your fat steadily and easily. Then continue the treatment until your weight is what you desire. Marmola Prescription Tablets are not only harmless but really beneficial to the general health. You don't need starvation diet or weakening exercises. Just go on eating what you like, leave exercising to the athletes, but take your little tablet faithfully, and without a doubt that flabby flesh will quickly take unto itself wings, leaving behind it your natural self, neatly clothed in firm flesh and trim muscles.

WESTERLY

A well filled court room on Friday morning was evidence of interest taken in the cases to come before the regular weekly session of the Third district court. Clerk M. Walter Flynn read the following docket.

Civil Docket—Philip Goldberg vs. Antonio Antoch, continued two weeks. Thomas Bunali pro amil vs. Louis Alberts alias, continued to next Friday for trial. Angelina J. Guarino vs. Westerly Motors, Inc., ready, later continued one week. Ralph C. Watrous vs. Thomas D. Wright, continued two weeks. Elizabeth A. Beck et al, vs. Fred LaFountain, continued one week. Edna M. Gregory vs. Joseph Stedman, continued one week. Annie E. Gardiner vs. Mary A. Grad, continued two weeks. F. D. Picard vs. F. C. Barber, continued two weeks to Nov. 9th for trial. Michael Juliano vs. Frank Ioano & Co. by agreement of counsel set for trial Nov. 1. Westerly Furniture Co. vs. Annie McCormick, costs to be allowed, continued to next week. Anthony Doll & Co. vs. Albert B. Smith, Jr., continued one week. Standard Computing Scales Co. vs. Anthony Vecca, continued two weeks.

Criminal Docket—State, Chief of Police, Thomas E. Brown, comp't vs. Herbert Farrel, ready. State, Russell L. Slocum, comp't vs. Harry Deutch, (3 cases) ready. State, Chief of Police, Thomas E. Brown comp't vs. Frank Algiers, ready. State vs. Benjamin Fain, ready. State vs. Frank Stella, continued one week. State vs. Helen S. Bromley, ready.

Judge Michael J. Turano then called the case of the State, Thomas E. Brown, comp't vs. Helen S. Bromley in which reckless driving was charged. Chief Brown testified that on the afternoon of October 22nd, at about 5 o'clock he was called into an automobile accident case in which Mrs. Helen S. Bromley of New Britain, driving a Buick sedan ran upon the sidewalk, corner of Elm and Broad streets and struck Frank E. Brown. Investigation showed him by the marks on the highway that the automobile came from Elm street went around the traffic post on the right hand side crossed the highway mounted the curbing to the sidewalk and climbed on to the coping in front of the High school building, passing inside the fire hydrant and wholly on the sidewalk back on to Broad street and diagonally across and striking the Buick car owned by George W. Woodward. The Woodward car was struck with such force that it was turned around with the rear end out in the street, breaking the right hand rear wheel, taking out the spokes and smashing the front end. Sergeant Ferguson took Mr. Brown to the office of Dr. Champlin.

Bert E. Smith testified, as did also Sergeant Donald Ferguson George W. Woodward.

Mrs. Helen S. Bromley, the defendant, testified that she had driven a Ford sedan for 18 months and had traveled many thousand miles. Up to this day she had driven a Buick sedan 50 miles and on October 21 an d22 had driven from New Britain to Unionville and from Unionville to Hartford and most of the way from Hartford to Westerly. A fine of $50 and costs was then imposed.

The funeral of John Grant who died at his home on Spruce street, Tuesday morning was held at his residence on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. There were beautiful floral tributes. Rev. B. U. Hatfield, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiated, mentioning the recent death of his wife, Mrs. Margaret Grant, who died May 26th.

The bearers were Archie Fraser, William Grant, John Scott, Gardiner Eccleston, Frank Boss and Thomas Broadfoot. Burial was in River Bend cemetery.

World War veterans who are members of Franklin Lodge No. 20, F. and A. M., of Westerly have received invitations from Overseas Lodge, No. 40, F. and A. M., of Providence, to be their guests in uniform on Sunday Nov. 11th, Armistice day. A part of the day's observance to include attendance in a body at the morning service at St. Martin's Episcopal church, Orchard avenue, Rev Arthur L. Washburn, rector.

Chief of Police, Thomas E. Brown had an unpleasant experience Friday afternoon, being knocked down by the Cyclone fire pump on Main street while he was holding up traffic as the department was responding to a fire alarm. A fire breaking out on the third floor of the Westerly Textile plant on Main street, the alarm was sounded from box 56 in Dixon House square. The flames were subdued by the mill fire department with small loss before the town apoman arrived.

The most that could be seen from the street was smoke coming from the third floor. When the big pump was backed around on Main street the chief was looking in the other direction and did not know of its proximity until it had knocked him to the street and was backing over him. With great presence of mind the chief reached up and grabbed the tailboard of the apparatus and hanging on kept out from under the big machine. An unenthusiastic bystander said that the chief was merely putting on one of his "daily dozen."

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Snyder and Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Friedn returned to Westerly Thursday from Boston, arriving home from a ten day automobile trip to Maine.

Miss Mabel Cook and Miss Georgia True, of Providence, were visitors in Westerly Thursday.

Sheriff John R. Wilcox and Deputy Sheriff George Phillips, of Kingston were business callers in Westerly on Friday.

Lewis A. Matthews of Westerly is on business in Dover, N. H. this week.

Charles F. Vaughn of the West Side has been a visitor in New York the past week.

Capt. and Mrs. Ezra Dunn of Block Island who have been guests of relatives in Rockville, R. I., and Groton were callers in Westerly Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Grant of Norwich were in Westerly Thursday, in attendance at the funeral of John Grant.

John M. Davis of Lower Pawcatuck was the host Thursday night to a party of 30 or 40 young people at a corn husking and barn dance.

Town Solicitor John Ferguson, Jr., of Westerly was in attendance Friday afternoon at the hearing before the Rhode Island State Board of Public Utilities on the petition of the Shore Line Electric Railway Co. to substitute busses for their electric cars on its winter schedule.

Workmen were engaged in repairing and repainting the wooden jet above the fourth story of the Rhode Island hotel. Not long ago one of the wooden brackets became detached and fell to the piazza. The work is being done from bosun's chairs swung from the roof.

The limestone coarse course with its details is now being set in place on the new Washington Trust company building, corner of Main and Broad streets. A great deal of the interior supporting steel work is already in place.

PLAINFIELD

The Gentlemen's night given by the Woman's club recently at the Community house was a great success, 75 sitting down to the excellent supper. The president, Mrs. Benjamin Dawson, presided and Mrs. Edward King announced the program which followed the supper and consisted of the following: Selections by Plainfield Male quartet, James Royal, Christopher Krauss, Sydney Mathewson, Ray W. Greene, with Miss Helen Gallup, pianist; reading, Maria Frink; solos, Mrs. Violet Baldwin and Miss Jennie Maisden; duet, Mrs. Baldwin and Miss Maisden; address, James Royal, who spoke on his trip abroad.

The music was enthusiastically received. The reading by Miss Frink was greatly enjoyed. The talk by Mr. Royal on his trip to England and Scotland, when Mrs. Royal accompanied him, was very interesting and instructive. The pleasant evening closed by community singing led by James Royal, Mrs. Irving Flagg, accompanist.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Burdick have returned from their honeymoon trip, which was spent with the former's sister, Miss Margaret Burdick, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Johnson at Elmhurst, N. Y. A wedding dinner was served and a reception held, with dancing and music. Later Mr. and Mrs. Burdick visited a friend of the groom, Fred Voss, of Rosedale, L. I.

Miss Joan Kirby has returned from a visit in Washington, after a delightful trip.

A chorus has been organized at the Community house by Miss Neisie Hartwell and is open to all interested in singing. The work is in charge of Chester A. Nielson, assisted by Miss Clara Atwood as accompanist. The chorus meets Thursday evenings.

AN ESCAPED CONVICT ARRESTED IN BROOKLYN

Philadelphia, Oct. 26.—James Roland Brown, one of the six convicts who escaped from the state penitentary here, July 14, was arrested in Brooklyn today, according to Samuel O. Wynne, chief of county detectives. According to the police Brown is now held in the 79th district police station, Brooklyn, pending extradition.

Brown was captured in a house at 338 Schermerhorn street, in the lower end of Brooklyn, county detective Oeschle reported to Chief Wynne He was taken with but little resistance the detective said.

Brown, with five other long-term prisoners, made a sensational escape from the Eastern State penitentiary in this city at 9 a. m. on July 14. The six men overpowered two guards and another convict and climbed over the wall. They escaped from the clay by seising two automobiles.

If women were judged only by other women the angels would every one be men.

CONNECTICUT OLDER BOYS' CONFERENCE ELECTS OFFICERS AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 26.—Leo Bartolucci has brought suit against Auguste Paragreni, claiming $1,500 damages as a result of knife wounds sustained several months ago when the pair engaged in a fight over the alleged insulting of the sister of plaintiff. The case is returnable before the November term of the court of common pleas. On July 9th, 1923, Bartolucci and Paragreni engaged in a fierce fight in front of the Bartolucci home at Fort Neck, Paragreni, it is alleged, drawing a knife and inflicting wounds on Bartolucci's hands and arms.

Frank and Margaret I. Work have sold a house and lot on Huntington street to Katherine E. Williams.

William F. Baker has sold to Bridget Ryan a house and lot on Squire street.

Richard Hancock, of this city, was elected president of the Connecticut Older Boys' Conference of the Y. M. C. A., at the opening session of the 24th annual meeting in the Second Congregational church here this afternoon. Other officers were chosen as follows: Vice president, Norbert House, Manchester; second vice president, Sheldon A. Payne, Milford; secretary, Louis Knox, Reynolds Bridge; assistant secretary, Benjamin Fry, Bridgeport. More than 400 boys attended the dinner in the armory tonight and were welcomed to New London by Mayor Malcolm Scott.

Business sessions and entertainment will comprise tomorrow's program and the conference will be closed Sunday.

Henry Tatro of Montauk avenue and James Perkins of Niantic, patients at Lawrence hospital were discharged today.

The traffic sign and traffic signal at the corner of Main and Williams streets are out of commission.

Helen Hornstein, alias Dolores Dinsmore, alias Helen Mackencz, of Bank street, who has been employed some time at the Hotel Mohican, arrested yesterday for the police of Newark, N. J., who hold a warrant charging the young woman with the abandonment of her child, was taken to Newark this morning by an officer of that place.

Annie Kennedy Erickson, an old offender, who has been in the police court many times for intoxication, was presented in court again this morning for the same charge. Judge S. Victor Prince ordered the woman to get out of New London and stay away from here and upon her promise to do so judgment was suspended for 24 hours. The Erickson woman was taken into custody early this morning when Patrolman Howard Sloan found her asleep in an automobile, owned by George Watzel of 13 School street, Mystic, which was parked on Howard street. The woman informed the court that she hired a taxicab near the Union Station and directed the operator to drive her to the corner of Shaw and Bank streets. When the automobile was passing through Bank street, according to the accused, the driver stopped the car and two men entered it. When the machine reached Howard street the driver directed the woman to get out of the automobile and enter the parked automobile, stating that he would return for her as soon as he had delivered the two male passengers at their destination. The operator failed to return and the Erickson woman fell asleep, where she was found by Officer Sloan. Before the woman was taken into custody Watzel put in an appearance and discovered the strange occupant of his car. Watzel also discovered that his overcoat which he had left on the rear seat of the car was missing. The Erickson woman disclaimed all knowledge of the disappearance of the overcoat and Watzel reported his loss to the police.

Clara Occhialini has instituted an action against Genaro Menghi, alleging slander and petitioning damages in the sum of $5,000. The property of Menghi has been attached and the suit is returnable before the November term of the superior court.

The plaintiff cites in the complaint that on October 18, 1923, Menghi, in the presence of divers persons, vilified the plaintiff's character.

Angelina Tudisco has been made the defendant in a suit for damages brought by Peter Losacano. Slander is alleged and plaintiff seeks to recover damages of $2,000. Property of the defendant has been attached in the sum of $5,000. The case is returnable before the court of common pleas the first Tuesday of November.

The plaintiff was arrested several months ago upon complaint of the defendant, who alleged that Losacano had defrauded her of $100 when she deposited with him as an option fee, $100 to bind a bargain by which she was to purchase property on Bank street, owned by Mrs. Bridget Ryan and of which Losacano represented himself the lawful agent of the owner of the realty. Losacano was given a hearing in the police court, but the evidence was insufficient to warrant a conviction and the accused was discharged. As the result of his arrest and presentation in the police court, Losacano has instituted the action.

Joseph G. Lyons has brought suit for divorce from his wife, Jessie F. Hanaway Lyons, the action being returnable before the November term of the superior court. Besides the decree, Lyons petitions for the custody of his three minor children, Dorothy, aged 3; Harold, 4; and Joseph T. Adultery with William Glynn, of New London( is the basis of the action. The couple were married Feb. 8, 1916.

Mary Shvaych of New London has brought suit for divorce from Simeon Shvaych of Jamesburgh, N. J., alleging cruelty. The case is returnable before the superior court the first Tuesday of November. The plaintiff petitions also to be allowed to resume her maiden name, Mary Nomich. The complaint alleges cruelty. The couple were married in August, 1915.

Col. and Mrs. William A. Mercier have returned to their home on Channing street after having spent a fortnight as the guest of their daughter, Mrs. G. H. R. Gosman of Boston.

Frank R. Walker, manager of the Hotel Mohican, accompanied by Mrs. Walker, left for Maine, where they will remain for a fortnight. En route Mr. and Mrs. Walker will visit Mrs. Walker's mother and sister in Boston.

Mrs. Grint, wife of Rev. Alfred Poole Grint, a former rector of St. James' Episcopal church, returned to Warwick, R. I., yesterday, concluding a two weeks' visit with M. E. Clinton and Arthur S. Winchester of the Hotel Mohican apartments.

The Boy Scouts are to have a club house, just like their big brothers have. It is to be located in the building used as a police station before any of the boys were born, and situated in Potter street in the rear of the present station. The Rotary club has taken upon itself the task of becoming surety for the rent of $25 a month. The property is now owned by Frederick W. Mercer and the Misses Boss. It was long unused and was likely to be used again for commercial purposes when the Rotary club took up the matter. It is expected that the club will be fitted with furniture through contributions from various friends and that good reading will be provided for the lads who congregate there during the evenings and when they have leisure. The club will keep the youths from the street many hours and the home will be a safe and convenient place for them. Scout Leader Burdick is intensely interested in the project.

The Boy Scouts are to have an outing today. More than 275 of them are to be taken to New Haven to witness the Yale-Brown football game in the Yale Bowl. The youngsters will leave this city from a point near the post office about 10 o'clock in automobiles, provided for them free of cost. They will also be admitted to the game without cost as will the chauffeurs who operate the automobiles.

It is expected that the Elks will have their lodge room re-decorated during the coming winter. It is in need of the cleaning that paint and decoration will give it.

The Methodist church people are determined that the youths of the city shall see clean and educational movies when they see any if the youths can be induced to attend the screen showings at the church. Travel scenes and mechanical pictures will have the place of prominence upon the screen and Bible pictures will be shown.

The automobile owned by Vernon J. Faddan of 35 Summer street, a freight conductor in the employ of the Central Vermont railroad, was struck by an automobile owned by Frank Joseph, of 73 Bayonet street, while the former automobile was motionless alongside the curb on Main street, Fadden's automobile was slightly damaged.

The city of New London has instituted suits for damages against several additional property owners, in an endeavor to collect back taxes, city officials having decided to take legal proceedings to secure the money, which, in some cases, is of many years' standing. Among the property owners who have been sued the past few days are Antonio, Vincenzo, Francesca and Orazio Di Maggio, Gaspero Ferrigno, William J. and Maud O. Granna, Marianna Comstock, Mary E. Gard of New London, Christopher G. Newbury of Waterford and Alice May Hinds of Hampton. The largest individual tax is less than $85 and in most cases the delinquent property is mortgaged. In such instance the claim of the mortgagee has subsequent claim. All the cases are returnable before the next term of the court of common pleas. Recently a New London store, located on Bank street, was closed when an attachment for taxes amounting to $300 was levied upon the place. Since that time the owners of the store have filed a petition in bankruptcy.

An automobile, owned and operated by Frederick W. Weld, of 86 School street, professor of music at the Connecticut College, and a machine owned and driven by William Connelly of 9 Central avenue, were in collision on Bank street, north of Tilley street, this evening. Neither car was seriously damaged. The accident occurred when Connelly operated his machine in a southerly direction and upon the rails of the Connecticut company, being prevented from taking the right hand side of the street because of automobiles parked there. Approaching Tilley street a trolley car, en route northedly, came along and to avoid being hit, Connelly operated his machine to the left side of tha highway, just as the machine operated by Weld was about to pass. Both autoists attempted to avoid a collision, but sideswiped each other.

The police were called to a point opposite 223 Vauxhall street this evening because of the annoyance of youths to residents in that vicinity. The boys were gambling beneath an electric light and their conversation was vile and could be heard by occupants of houses and by women passing by.

Nothing warms the congregation like cold facts from the pulpit.

GALES FERRY

Mrs. Nelson Parker and Mrs. Alton Stoddard entertained recently in Mrs. Parker's garage with Hallowe'en games and a "wienie" roast. At the street entrance a ghost stood and silently pointed to the yard, which had been enclosed with shocks of corn, and electric lights had been strung, leading to the garage, the bulbs shaded with yellow, over which drooped red oak leaves. The garage had been transformed into a bower of branches with gorgeous autumn leaves. A Victrola furnished music. In the enclosure directly in front of the garage a large fire burned. Nelson Parker was chairman of the games and stunts, which included bobbing for apples, forfeits, fortunes in flour and many others. Many of the guests were in Hallowe'en costume. The games were followed by roasting frankfurters and toasting marshmallows and popping corn. Rolls and coffee were served by the hostesses. Ghost stories were a feature. Upwards of sixty were entertained.

Rev. Trueman D. Woodward and Miss Mae Congdon of Wapping motored here Sunday afternoon and were guests at the M. E. parsonage. They attended the Hallowe'en party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Parker.

Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham is chairman of the committee at Gales Ferry for the drive in the Backus hospital campaign, Norwich, which covers ten days. The committee appointed by Mrs. Buckingham to assist in the work is Mrs. Stephen H. Norman, Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt, Mrs. Delphina Fish, Rev. Allen S. Buah, D. R. Povey and Nelson Parker.

Rev. W. D. Woodward, pastor of the M. E. church here, assisted in the funeral services for Miss Flora M. Smith at the Methodist church in Niantic Saturday afternoon. Miss Smith, who died in Hartford, was the secretary for the Norwich district, Woman's Home Missionary society, at one time.

Mrs. Charles S. Starr of New London and her daughter, Mrs. James D. Barnes, and young son, Starr Stockman Barnes, of San Diego, Cal., motored here recently and were callers at the home of Mrs. Fanny D. Holthrop.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Satterlee and daughter Rebecca of North Haven motored here and spent the week end with Mr. Satterlee's mother, Mrs. Charles A. Satterlee.

Mrs. Charles A. L. Morgan of Middletown and daughter, Mrs. E. L. McCutcheon, of Hartford, motored here in the latter's car and called on friends of Mrs. Morgan, who is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Latham.

LEDYARD

Rev. and Mrs. G. F. Goodenough and children, Priscilla, Ralph and David, left Friday for ten days vacation to be spent in Winchester and surrounding towns.

Rev. A. E. Kinmouth filled the pulpit of the Congregational church Sunday morning in the absence of Rev. Mr. Goodenough, the pastor.

FEAR PEARL TURNER HAS BEEN KIDNAPPED

Fort Smith, Ark., Oct. 26.—Sheriff Charles Allen today expressed the opinion that Pearl Turner, three year old Montana girl had been kidnapped instead of being lost in the wilds of Scott county, following reports that a barefoot, hatless child had been seen with an unidentified man at Hodges, Okla.

THE motoring public has been emphatic in its approval of the new Ford Four-Door Sedan. In all parts of the country its stylish appearance and inviting interior have brought the car instantly into great demand.

Now, at its reduced price, it presents a more compelling value than ever. Although better looking, roomier, easier riding, it is listed at forty dollars less.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Woolen mills in Norwich were hit by a slump 50 years ago this week, according to the files of The Bulletin. A number of the mills stopped work or were working on short time. The same week a number of young ladies in the Norwich schools were making arrangements for the publication of a monthly school magazine which, it was expected at that time, would make its appearance within a brief period. As a whole, the week in Norwich was quiet and little out of the ordinary was chronicled.

Monday, Oct. 20, 1873.—Friday a man in attempting to pass through the perils of Franklin square was run over by a light buggy. He was assisted to the sidewalk and soon discovered he had sustained no serious injury, and went his way.

A boy named Dwight Austin, while playing on Central wharf on Saturday last, fell into the river and was rescued from a watery grave by the presence of mind of James Wheeler.

Colchester is looking up. One day last week, and at about the same hour, they had a marriage, a funeral and two births, and did not think much of it either, although a few months ago it would have been considered remarkable. This shows the benefit of railroad communication.

Tuesday, Oct. 21, 1873.—The Hampton singers gave their entertainment at Breed hall last evening to a large audience in spite of the rain, a fact we are glad to record. The concert was very satisfactory and entertaining. The charm of the songs of the former slaves made its way to every heart, and it was really worth while.

The Trot—Susie, Commodore Perry and Lady Burnham are in town. A telegram last evening announced that Huntress and Goshen Maid had started from New York for this city, and a host of flyers are expected today. Various entries in addition to those already announced have been made.

Some of the water pipes in Richards' building gave way Sunday night and Hislop, Porteous & Mitchell, who have a store in the building, will be able to offer "wet goods" cheap in consequence.

Wednesday, Oct. 22, 1873.—The rainfall up to Monday morning was 2.56 inches. On account of the gale Monday night the New York boats did not leave New London until Tuesday morning.

A fine photographic view of the new capitol at Hartford has been taken which shows that the building has been immensely improved by the changes since the additional appropriation was made by the last legislature. We acknowledge receipt of one from a member of the commission, J. Halsey, Esq.

The last of the new Nicholson pavement for the West Side bridges was laid yesterday.

The dummy car of the street railway company was taken to Greeneville yesterday.

Thursday, Oct. 24, 1873.—A number of woolen mills in this vicinity have stopped, or will shorten the hours of work. The mills of Yantic, Versailles, Poquot and several on the line of the Northern railroad are reported among the number. This partial stoppage is likely to be of short duration.

Rev. Mr. Kinne of Norwich preached in the Congregational church in Brooklyn, Conn., last Sabbath. His sermons were listened to with much interest, especially the one in the morning on The New Song.

St. James' church, Poquetanuck, was crowded yesterday afternoon on the occasion of the marriage of Benjamin E. Lewis, Jr., of Mystic, formerly of this city, and Miss Phebe E. Brewster, daughter of the Hon. John Brewster, of Ledyard. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John Perves, after which a very pleasant reception took place at the residence of the bride's father.

Friday, Oct. 25, 1873—Wauregan lodge, K. of P., of this city, has raised and forwarded $80 for the yellow fever sufferers of Memphis.

General Humphreys, chief of the government engineer corps, estimates that the improvements in Stonington harbor for the ensuing year will require an appropriation of $30,000.

Harry S. Howe of Haverhill, Mass., has been engaged by the Falls Manufacturing company as their agent. He is a Harvard graduate and a good business man.

The water in the city reservoirs is very low.

Yesterday was another day off in the police court.

Today will be black Friday among the squirrels, and Norwich will be depopulated in consequence.

Saturday, Oct. 26, 1873—The Rev. Mr. Seevey, a converted Jew, and who for several years has been laboring among the Jews at Chicago, will occupy the Rev. Mr. Stanton's pulpit next Sunday morning.

The county commissioners met yesterday and granted two licenses—one to Michael Morgan, whose bondsman was I. W. Harvey and one to C. W. Johnston, bondsmen, Johnston Bros.

A number of nice Brussels carpets, for various apartments in the city hall arrived from New York yesterday. A force of men accompanied the carpets to put them down.

The preliminary arrangements have been made for the publication of a monthly school journal by the young ladies of some of our city schools. Estimates have been furnished the committee having the matter in charge and it is expected that work thereon will be commenced at once. The sheet will be about the size of the Bulletin.

The numerous friends of George W. Denison will be pleased to learn that he has been reappointed on the regular police force.

F. W. Martin has engraved the Lord's prayer on a circular face half an inch in diameter, about the size of a silver three-cent piece. Who can get under that? It is a remarkable piece of engraving.

The Thames and Arctic baseball clubs will play their second game on the Williams park today at 3 p. m.

Too often bad motives are attached to good acts.

POETRY

SHEEP AND SHEPHERDS.

Down the wide street they press and flow
With a rustling, hurrying, gentle sound,
As of crisped, withering leaves that blow
Over a frosty, ringing ground.

With golden, stupid eyes the sheep
Surge by in waves of dirty gray;
The clamorous mongrels snarl and keep
Their going to the middle way.

And as the acrid smell of wool
Stings in my nostrils, once again
The frostbound thoroughfare is full
Of ghosts of vanished shepherd-men:

Gray-eyed philosophers, whose years
Were full of thinkling bells of rams;
Whose deepest thoughts and gravest fears
Were for the little newborn lambs.

That peace to wiser men denied
Was theirs out of a changeless mood,
Where contemplation opened wide
The cloud-wrought gates of solitude.

I never watch the flocks go by
Along the streets of Salisbury Town,
But I hear the sheep-bells far and nigh
Ring peace across a windy down.
—L. M. Priest, in Indianapolis News.

DAYS OF ABSENCE.

Days of absence, sad and dreary,
Clothed in sorrow's dark array;
Days of absence, I am weary,
She I love is far away.
When the heavy sighs be banished?
When this bosom cease to mourn?
Hours of bliss too quickly vanished,
When will aught like you return?

Not till that loved voice can greet me,
Which so oft has charmed mine ear;
Not till those sweet eyes can meet me,
Telling me I still am dear;
Days of absence then will vanish,
Joy will all my pangs repay;
Soon my bosom's idol banish
Gloom but felt when she's away.

All my love is turned to sadness,
Absence pays the tender vow;
Hope that filled the heart with gladness
Memory turns to anguish now;
Love may yet return to greet me,
Hope may take the place of pain;
Antoinette with kisses greet me,
Breathing love and peace again.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

The Honorable Betty—Is it true that you are engaged to Lord Snobbery?

The Honorable Elsie—Yes, isn't it a bore? Everyone takes me for a chorus girl now!—London Mail.

The Man (having surrendered his seat)—I beg pardon!

The Girl—I didn't speak.

The Man—Sorry, I'm sure. I thought you said "Thank you!"—London Bystander.

"Do you know where we can get any alcoholic entertainment?"

"Best I can do is to take you to the Museum of Natural History."

"Hey?"

"There we can observe snakes and other monsters preserved in alcohol."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Mother—What book are you reading? Is it a good book for little girls?

Marjorie (aged 9)—Yes, mother, it's perfectly all right. There's only one murder, and that's committed by a woman.—Answers, London.

Jim—"That tramp was down at the store asking if they would clothe and shoe him for nothing."

Joe—"Did he get what he asked for?"

Jim—"No, but he just missed being collared and cuffed."—Boys' Life.

Two ladies passed a familiar face.

"My old cook," explained one, "That is, I had her for one day in December. She came as a Christmas present."

"I had her one day in February," said the other. "She was my valentine."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"Red" Herring was on leave, having some soup-an-fish with his third-grade teacher.

"How do you like the soup, Mr. Herring?" she asked.

"It certainly smells jake, but I don't know how it's gonna eat!"

"Why, Mr. Herring, where is your grammar?"

"She's dead, ma'am, over a year last May.—Our Navy Magazine.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY.

My Creed.

I count the day as lost
That I have done no loving deed
Nor word of kindness said
While ever near me wherever'er I go
Are sad hearts waiting to be comforted.

May God forbid that e'er my lips
Should dare to judge him
Who in weakness goes astray;
Nay, let me rather with a tender hand
Help him to seek and find the better way.

I hate all selfishness and greed of gain,
So let me strive to make my own life free
From selfish deeds and with my neighbor deal
As I would ask that he should deal with me.

And at the last if only I may feel
That full of helpfulness my life hath been
I will have peace, for this I know is true,
He serves God best who loves his fellowmen.

—Julia M. Carpenter, M. D.

The Three Dearest Words.

There are three words that sweetly blend,
That on the heart are graven,
A precious soothing balm they lend—
They're mother, home and heaven.

They twine a wreath of beauteous flowers,
Which, placed on memory's urn,
Will e'en the fondest, glorious hours
To golden sunlight turn.

They form a chain whose every link
Is free from base alloy
A stream where whosoever drinks
Will find refreshing joy.

They build an altar where each day
Love's offering is renewed;
And peace illumes with genial ray
Life's darkened solitude.

If from our side the first fall fled,
And home is but a name,
Let's strive the narrow path to tread,
That we the like may gain.

The Great Triumph.

I fancy when this life is done,
And all the tales are told,
And all the battles fought and won
And all the young are old,
That we shall see in clearer light
Just what is wrong and what is right.

The shams will little rule us then
And pride not toss her head
To utter scornful things of men
Who different pathways tread.

I fancy rich and poor will find,
Perhaps to their surprise,
That being true and being kind
Is more than being wise;
That what on earth men counted small
Was the great triumph after all.

ANSWERS AND INQUIRIES.

MITTIE: Your name has been added to the Social Corner list.

ANOTHER NEW MEMBER.

Dear Social Corner Editor: I have long read The Bulletin and the Social Corner page was the first I looked for. I enjoyed reading the nice letters and I would like to be a member and would like to take for my pennname MITTIE.

GREETINGS FROM U. C. E.

Dear Corner Sisters: Greetings to all this beautiful autumn day. How I wish we might all take a walk over the hills and have one of our nice picnics. The foliage is so grand on every tree and shrub, one just wants to sit and gaze at it. But duties call us elsewhere, and soon winter will be here and then for the firesides and social gatherings at the Buckingham. Sorry to have missed the first meeting. Hope I shall be with you all more this winter than last.

Lavender: Glad you enjoyed your birthday. Wish you many happy returns!

Bumble Bee: That long ride over the hills was grand.

Golden Glow: Thanks for invitation to visit you.

Silky Sycamore: Glad to hear your voice through the Corner page. Hope we may meet at camp again.

Queen Elizabeth: Your call was short, but sweet.

Snowdrop: The fern is doing well.
U. C. E.

HEARING THANKSGIVING.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: It is some weeks since I wrote to the Corner but like most of us housewives I have been very busy. I have canned a good bit and made peach and grape jelly. How glad and thankful I am that we have the things to keep for winter and also for the strength to do them up.

I see there is a writer who signs herself "Aunt Jerusha." I had a great grandmother by that name who lived in the quiet town of Lebanon, Conn., in the same house where Silver Locks and my sister and myself were born. How beautiful the country is now when nature paints everything with her beautiful colors and yet how sad and lonely it seems to see everything dying, for soon the trees will be bare and look so lonesome. Soon it will be Thanksgiving and many hearts will be glad and happy, getting ready for loved ones and many more will be sad and lonesome to see vacant chairs where last year perhaps they were filled with loved ones.

Last year we had Silver Locks and my brother from New York with us, but this year my sister in Pennsylvania claims them and, truly, I can't blame her for that, but we will miss them, you bet.

My dear mother thinks so much of Thanksgiving. I enjoy doing for her at this time maybe more than any other holiday time because it means so much to her. She was brought up by her grandparents who lived on a farm and cooked by a brick oven and fireplace and I love to have her tell me of these times and the way they did. I visited not long ago at my cousins in an upper town and they said "she looks like her mother." If I am as good a woman as my mother is I shall be very glad.

Old Fashioned Mother: I heard you were keeping house for your brother this week. How do you like your duty?

Silver Locks: Why don't you write one of your nice letters? We miss them. Think I must close now to leave room for some more interesting letters than mine.

Best wishes to all.
YELLOW DAISY.

WRITE BEFORE YOU'RE FORGOTTEN.

Dear Social Corner Friends: The letters seem to be on the thereise. Hope we shall hear from more who write so seldom that we almost forget there ever was such a writer. I enjoy the letters and should feel very sorry not to have our Corner page. The Futtocks is my only excuse.

My friends, have you heard of the town of Tawa, on the banks of the river Blow, where blooms the Waitawhile flower fair, where the Somebymeerother scents the air, and the soft Greasys grow? It lies in the valley of Whatsthename, in the province of Letitelide. That tired feeling is native there, it's the home of the Butbest Idontcare, where the Putitoffa abide."

I've passed a pleasant summer at home among the fewers of which I have a few yet left outside. The time goes too fast for me, but as long as we keep well am very thankful.

Chub's letter reminds me of the following: "'Tis the last fly of summer, left buzzing alone; all his many companions are swatted and gone; no flower of his kindred crawls round on the cake, or dabbles his toes on the hamburger steak. I'll not leave thee, thou lone one, to stay on the job, and dance the Lame Duck on my features and knot. I won't have thee crawling around on my neck; I'll smite thee with vigor, and leave thee a wreck. He circles around me, but when I, with care, endeavor to smash him, he never is there. Ah, what so elusive, when summer has flown, as the last nervous house fly, which busses alone!"

Theeda: My time was all right when I arrived home. Yours must have been standard time.

To all who sent cards on my birthday I say "Thank you."

Calla Lily: If you will put out a sign in the rear of your house, then I shall know when to find you home. Can see your home plainly now the leaves have fallen.

Hope all the sick ones are improving.

Best wishes to all from JOAN.

USES FOR PAPER.

Dear Sisters of the Corner: Cover kitchen tables with newspapers.

Old magazines I find useful to set hot kettles or other blackened cooking utensils on. Wheel soiled tear off a leaf.

Newspapers placed under carpets lengthen their wear, and keep out the moths.

It is well to wrap furs and garments one is putting away in newspapers. Moths dislike printer's ink.

The papers between shredded wheat are fine to put in the bottom of cake tins to prevent scorching.

Plenty paper is useful in polishing lamp chimneys.

The heavy waxed papers that come on bread are excellent for wrapping up cakes and other food.

Newspapers folded and placed over chest and back are a great protection against cold winds when driving.

Newspapers wrapped around a soapstone, then covered with cloth, help to retain much heat.

A newspaper placed under Kitty's dish gathers grease and dirt, and it is quickly disposed of in the fire.

Newspapers placed between mattress and springs, often keep the former from taking on rust spots in damp rooms.

Yours in interest.
NEIGHBOR EVERREADY.

GREETINGS FROM I. J. E.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Where are Aunty No. 1 and Bonie?

Adelle: I am making you a mat like the one you wanted the pattern. Will bring it to the Buckingham at the next meeting. Will you please bring the pattern of the butterfly like the one Chocolate was making. I think you said you had the pattern.

Deborah: Glad to hear you were having a wonderful fall up the Hudson.

Jean: I wonder what you think of me for not coming or answering your card? I only had your pennant so could not answer your card. I had a bad fall and haven't gotten over it yet. Could you bring the plant to the next meeting?

Cady: Very sorry to hear you have been sick.

Francena: Glad to hear you are coming to Norwich for the winter.

Calla Lily: I do hope you will get your book again.

I. J. E.

OF INTEREST TO THINKING WOMEN.

Dear Sisters: Do women want to vote? A good many women want to vote and are not backward in saying so. Then there are also others who declare just as emphatically that they do not now and never will and the woman's place is the home anyway—which last assertion no fair-minded man or woman denies. I used to think the latter, but do you know I have come to the conclusion that if a mother does her duty and takes good care of her home and children there is no more reason why a woman's mental horizon should be bounded—north, south, east and west by a dwelling any more than her husband's by the details of his office.

I mean a woman whose intelligence is aroused, who thinks on all the great questions of the day, humanitarian and political—and the latter often has a vital influence over the former—is certainly a finer human being, a better and more intelligent home maker and more inspiring companion for man than an empty-headed doll or a dull, stupid drudge.

Of course then there is that large army of women who have been forced out into the world to make their own living, not as the harping critics assure us because they long for a career of their own, but in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred from stern necessity.

"It is all well to talk of home duties for women," said one of the brightest of these workers, the other day, "but the sad fact is there do not seem to be enough homes to go round." The result is that a number of bright and pretty women find they must go out into the world and seek other callings than that of housewife—in short, take up cheerfully and bravely what to them is "second best" of life because for various excellent reasons they cannot or will not gain the highest and best. Woman is out in the commercial struggle to stay. Has she become a recognized factor in the business world? Is she getting as square a deal as a man does?

We all know it takes brains to do these things and if a woman has the brains, why shouldn't she be recognized.

Perhaps you remember the old story about a famous English artist being asked by a student with what he mixed his colors to get such wonderful effects; he scowled and went on daubing the paint on the palette. At last he scowled out "With brains, sir, with brains." I don't remember the artist's name. I know it wasn't Turner, but he was the most celebrated artist of his time. I know Hale, Corot and Millet were men of genius, but what is genius in any direction but sterilized brains? We cannot all be great artists, certainly, but we can all of us use our brains more than we do, me especially.

EASY WAY TO MAKE GRAPE JUICE.

Dear Editor and Sisters of The Corner: As I didn't write last week, thought I would write a line this week to keep up The Corner. Glad to see a few more letters and am in hopes to see the page pretty well filled up this week. The days are getting rather short, so it keeps anyone busy with the housework, so I can't seem to get much time for other things. But we want to remember each time we write that our letters, if but short ones, help to fill a corner in the page.

The sister who was inquiring where Sterling Hill was had better keep on a little farther, south when she gets at Sterling Hill and take a drive across Brook hill and view the pretty scenery and a much noted spot.

Will send a good and very easy way to make grape juice: Take one cup of grapes, one cup of sugar and put in a quart jar and turn boiling water over them until the jar is full, and seal in about three weeks it is ready to use.

Good luck to all.

RURAL AUNTY.

THE EXPERIENCE OF WOMEN IN BUSINESS.

Dear Corner Sisters: I have been asked to write how I made a success in business. The question "What makes a successful saleswoman?" is a most difficult one to answer. There is perhaps no prerequisite for women in which personal charm counts at once for as much and so little.

Where personality is unaccompanied by poise and judgment, its value is as nothing, whereas a combination of these attributes is sure to lead a woman to as high a position as she cares to occupy in her chosen business.

I know many a girl supposes that it is the easiest thing in the world to stand behind a counter, table and dispose of the merchandise displayed thereon, since, she reasons, the goods are there to see, and her part is merely to make out a check and receive the shopper's money. No greater mistake than this was ever made by the department store novice. The girl behind the counter must feel some interest, at least in what she is trying to sell; must endeavor in some half way to [illegible] the customer has arrived. This does not mean that she needs to grab or grow conversational, as so many saleswomen do, but it does mean that she should not assume that "I am far above you and this position and you should be flattered that I wait on you" air with which many are afflicted.

Courtesy—always unfailing, under every condition, is so important that it seems as if every woman whose lot in life made it necessary for her to serve the needs of others in any capacity whatsoever would scarcely need to be reminded of the need for it, and yet how pitifully little of it do we see in the salespeople employed in the large stores. How quickly women grow to know the saleswoman in their favorite stores, who are intelligent and obliging. Have you not yourself said, or heard others say, I always wait for Miss X to wait on me. She seems to know just what I want.

The girl who wishes to sell goods should know all there is to be known about what she is going to sell. How disappointing it is to be served by a girl who cannot answer even the simplest question put to her. How indefinitely satisfactory is she who can tell you all you may wish to know about your purchase.

My own experience was in selling trimmings, corsets, underwear, waists. I think trimming the most difficult to sell as you were obliged to tell exactly what they would want. I needed every ounce of understanding and patience I possessed at times.

I can truly say that I endeavored to give all my concentrated interest to every customer whoever came to me, whether for a dollar or a hundred dollar purchase and to this and this only I attribute the success that made me popular with my customers. I always tried to remember that money itself the easiest thing in the world for some of them to get and that the most difficult customer is, perhaps, the one who has to get the most for what she spends, because she cannot spend often. Think of this sometimes when you are almost at the end of your reasoning with someone whom it seems impossible to please, and you will end by really wanting to help her instead of growing tired of bringing out your stock to look over.

There is one thing you have to do if you really desire to be a saleswoman. You are obliged to feel a personal interest in strangers. You must learn to sink your personality into that of a customer, you are serving without making of herself a mere automaton wielding a pencil and delivering a parcel. If you can learn that you, as Miss X is absolutely no interest to the purchasing world, but that as Miss-X, the saleswoman, dispenses of necessities, unit in the machinery of the corporation, which gives her daily bread, she is of great personal importance, she has mastered the hardest condition of her calling and is in a fair way to achieve success.

VACATION TRIPS.

Dear Sisters: While there is a call for more letters it may be the right time to send in one, as I have not written in some time. The excuse is that of many others of time passing so swiftly we do not accomplish all that we plan.

In the Social Corner many are speaking of vacation trips enjoyed. I have had a number of nice rides. I also spent a few days at different beaches, was at Ocean Beach, the day of the Social Corner gathering there and met a few old acquaintances and some new ones and enjoyed the day. Have entertained company from six different states so have been busy at home some of the time.

Perhaps it would interest some to hear about how trips were taken in the "long ago"—not in comfort or by auto as now and not as often but enjoyed just the same, I expect. Among papers of a great aunt of mine were found these notes: Left Canterbury Conn., Sept. 15, 1830, on Wednesday. Arrived at Norwich and set sail on the sloop Splendid at four o'clock in the afternoon for Mt. Pleasant, Penn. As wind and tide were against us we dropped anchor a short distance out did not arrive in New London until 11 o'clock that night. Then from there to Faulkland Island, passing Milford, Stratford, Bridgeport, etc. Arrived at New York at five o'clock Friday afternoon. Saturday morning took steamboat Chief Justice Marshall for Newburg, took stage from there at about two o'clock Sabbath morning and arrived at Mt. Pleasant about five o'clock Monday morning, six days taken for trip. Here are some of the expenses of the trip: To William for supper and breakfast, 94 cents trunk from wharf to tavern, 12 1-2c; lodging at Risley's, 12 1-2c; dinner at St. John's, 25c. The whole amount of trip to go and return was $17.15, including all incidentals.

I have as account of her brother visiting his mother in Canterbury in December 1825, taking eight days to return to Mt. Pleasant, Penn. He came with horses and family with him, encountered snow and cold weather, but will not go into details about that as editor and readers may say "I have read enough."

It is just as good a time now for May B— as it is for a March Breeze. Hope to meet with Corner sometime.

BREEZE.

HAPPINESS.

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: How are you all? We have had a lovely mild September and October, but the air is now cool and the leaves have fallen so we realize that November is at hand.

I have been thinking lately of life, and of what we make of it, and of the happiness of some people, while others, who have much of earthly goods, lack much happiness.

What is happiness, and how is it obtained? It is not obtained by the pessimistic persons, who can always see the dark side, and believe that most everything done will prove unsatisfactory, not the loud and clamorous persons and not all the prosperous and successful ones. Those who seem to the looker-on to have nearly every wish granted them, and the ones we often call lucky and fortunate lack much happiness.

True happiness springs from within. Infants are happy cuddled in mother's arms. Small children are happy when amused and later when pleasures are given and wishes are granted them. As we grow older we realize that happiness comes from ourselves, within, that we must learn to live right and to make the best of the little, or the much that we have.

Have we learned the rules that govern the heart and soul and that help to develop our character. Without the experiences that we encounter we would not learn them for if there were no troubles or perplexities to rise above we would fail to catch the rays of light along the troubled way and fail to grasp true happiness. We should not make of ourselves what we ought if there were no sickness or sadness, for we would not know how to minister to others and to feel kindly and lovingly toward those who suffer. By so doing we learn patience and forbearance, and if we suffer ourselves we learn to be patient, sympathetic, hopeful and trustful.

A happy person is full of sympathy, is hopeful and trustful, makes home a delightful, cheerful place, makes oneself and those around them bright and cheery, sharing with others by aiding and doing bits of kindness. And in this way they are constantly applying the golden rule.

We very are prone here in this world to despise riches, prosperity and success often for they do not always bring happiness. But do we make our lives an influence for good and to diffuse happiness everywhere. In this way our trust and faith will grow and in this hereafter we will know that our Heavenly Father knew best and that "all is well."

Best wishes to all and be let us all the Corner page each week.

DIANA.

SOME IDEAS FOR PLANTS.

Dear Corner Editor and Sisters: As I haven't much on my mind to write about just now am going to begin by asking a question. Yes, will make it two and see if I can get the "other fellows" to say something. Will the sister who has me guessing "who is who" tell me if she had written before the picnic at Wildwood?

We have a cactus which we would like to have some one tell us the name of. The branches on it are three cornered and of various sizes and lengths and the blossoms which come on them are very large, double and a beautiful scarlet. Last Easter it was a beauty with its fourteen blossoms and several buds. At this time it has three buds and am looking for more to come. Have also discovered that the Thanksgiving cactus is budded.

While on the subject of plants will pass on a few ideas which may be of benefit to some of you later on.

If house ferns are set in a pan of hot water once a week and well steamed, new shoots will soon appear.

Washing the leaves of a palm with milk and water has a wonderful way of preserving them and preventing the appearance of the brown spots which are so disfiguring.

Always use remnants of coffee, quite warm on the geraniums and stir the soil frequently. Lilies and begonias don't crave a drink of this kind, however.

To destroy worms in the pots, wet the plants with water in which tobacco has been steeped, strong soap suds or lime water, also place charcoal in the bottom of the pots. Per lice and flies have found tobacco dust and Black Flag the best yet.

Short-stemmed flowers may be easily arranged in a tall vase if a tonic bottle or some other tall bottle be placed inside the vase to be used as a receptacle.

In arranging stemmed flowers, a number of bottle corks thrown into the water will keep them up and keep them in position.

One or two sprouting onions planted in a flower pot will provide seasoning or a little green for salad if the young shoots are clipped when needed. Plant parsely seed in the spring and have a nice pot ful through the winter.

In a large size soup plate put some pieces of charcoal, and from eight carrots cut the tops about one and one-half inches in thickness. Place these on the plate, cut side down and fill the spaces around and over them with thin, dark green moss which may be obtained at a florists or gathered from decayed stumps or logs. Place the plate in a sunny window and keep it partly filled with water. Watch the tops grow and see what a pretty mound you soon will have. Another which is also lovely for a hanging arrangement, is to suspend the large half of a good sized carrot top underneath by cords run through the cut sides, first removing enough from the inside of carrot to form a small cup, which is to be kept full of water. If not allowed to dry up the carrot will soon be covered with a green growth.

Planting sun flowers in the early springtime by a drain makes the spot a place of beauty, and the moisture is effectually absorbed by the roots.

Leaky water pails from which the bales have been removed, prove to be attractive plant containers when painted a gray color, filled with a good, rich loam and placed in the corners outside the house. A pretty plant for these is the Portulaca as it seeds itself and needs little cultivation.

It sure was good to see a letter from Old Timer and this was one time when I was not so smart, for the cleaning is not finished yet.

Whirlwind: I hope to see you at the Buckingham in November and I think any kind of a yellow bow will be the pass to give you a day of much pleasure.

Guess you are all glad by this time that I did not have a whole lot on my mind to write about when I started.

There is one thing more, no one has claimed the platter yet.

Best wishes to all from TWICE TWENTY.

OLD MEMORIES OF HAMPTON.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: It certainly does seem as though most of us, including myself, have been strangely remiss in writing for the Corner this summer and fall. Maybe there was something in the air not conducive to letter writing. It seemed to affect me that way about all my correspondence. But when I read Aunt Jerusha's letter last week it aroused old memories of Hampton and the days of when I lived in Westminster on the road leading to Hampton, and from our north windows had a view of Hampton hill with the church steeple and some of the houses silhouetted sharply against the skyline. It was about a five or six-mile drive. We used to go there occasionally and the main street is very pretty and pleasant in summer. I have been to church service there once or twice in bygone days, and remember the church well. There probably are but very few in Hampton now whom I ever knew. Like all the other country towns the population has changed so in the last 25 years, and even less time than that, so we hardly know anyone. But I do wonder if I ever knew or knew of Aunt Jerusha. She seems to know people I have known, or known about, at least.

The people of Hampton, Howard Valley, which is a part of Hampton, and Scotland used to be quite familiar to me but many of them have gone away to the other land, which reminds me that I have long intended to ask if any of the sisters have the poem that begins, "I cannot say, and will not say, that she is dead; she is just away." I know fragments of it and would like to have the whole if someone would kindly send it in for the poetry column.

Theeda's description of the sunset on the water is most realistic and I have seen it like that myself and admired it in my several months of living close by the shore. But although the water is beautiful on a clear, brilliant day; or a moonlight night, I can't say that I love it. There is something sad and mysterious about it and I keep remembering that in spite of its beauty it is cruel and treacherous and the moaning and pounding of the waves on the beach in a high wind or storm remind me of Tennyson's "Break, break, break on thy cold gray crags, oh sea."

I like the mountains better. They are steadfast and unchanging and at this time of year are beautiful in the changing hues of foliage. And the mists rise up from the valleys below and vanish against them in the morning sunlight. But there is beauty in most places at certain seasons and times and some of us love one thing best and some another. It would be a strange world if we all liked the same things.

Best wishes to all.
IOLA.

ALWAYS BEST TO BE HOPEFUL.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: So much has been said and written about the lovely weather and the beautiful colorings of the trees and shrubbery, these autumn days, but, alas! the change has come, for today is a very stormy and chilly day. We enjoy the sunshine, and the warmth of the atmosphere, as it comes, but I believe if we had all sunshine and never a rainy day we would not appreciate it so much. And so on every page of life, as we look it over, the good and happy events, are mingled with the less favorable conditions. We can only enjoy one day at a time, and make the best of the alternative. I often think of the advice my physician gave me one time during an illness. I was telling him how miserable I felt and discouraged and he said, "Yes, I realize your condition but now you just try to forget how you feel today and look forward when you are going to be better and can enjoy health and pleasures again. I will do my part to help you and you must do your part." We accept this in the general trend of life's journey with many exceptions, where the long road does not turn, till we reach the last milestone. Mowear, it is always best to be hopeful, which stimulates the heart, from day to day. Otherwise we would faint by the wayside. Although today is very stormy a good illustration of many unhappy conditions, yet the sun will shine again as it has before according to laws of nature, and we shall enjoy the golden light, the brightness of the skies which will penetrate every cloud, and dispel the mist. Faith and hope sustain, where discouragement depresses.

JENNIE.

GREATLY ENJOYED PICNIC.

Dear Sisters: Meant to write last week and tell you all how glad I was to meet you and how much I enjoyed Tunxis Ann's picnic. I did have such a good time.

Glad to see H. M. L. once more and hear from Diamond and her family.

Chub: Your Ode to the Fly is very fitting.

Diamond: Expected to make you a surprise call last week but at the last minute was unable to go.

Today's rain will be very welcome to everyone, I guess. Our wells are very low.

I am doing quinces today, the last of my canning except a little more apple jelly.

Wonder how many sisters have read Bruce Barton's recent article in the American, "How You Can Do More and Be More."

Best wishes to all.
NEIGHBOR EVERREADY'S SISTER.

NICE TO BE MISSED.

Dear Social Corner Friends: At last the spirit moves me to write a few lines. Have been silent for a long time but not for lack of interest for I watch for the letters each week.

Chelsea: Received your letter today O. K. You are quite welcome, I'm sure. The pleasure was all mine. You must be kept busy.

I want to thank all the friends who inquired for me through the Corner page. It certainly gives one a thrill to know they are missed. My mother used to sing a song sometimes "Do they miss me at home, do they miss me? It would be an assurance most dear, to know if some loved one were saying, 'Oh! how I do wish she were here.'"

Have been thinking all day of the beautiful verse Ella Wheeler Wilcox wrote on Creeds:

So many gods, so many creeds,
So many paths that wind and wind
While just the art of being kind
Is all this sad world needs.

Best wishes to all from HORTENSE.

HELP WANTED ON PRESERVING CITRON.

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: As I haven't written for a long time I will try and help out a bit this week.

I have had such good times at the picnics, this summer, that I feel in duty bound to keep up my end in the Corner.

The canning and preserving season is nearly over and I guess now that we will all do better, about writing.

I have a citron to preserve and I cannot remember how I do it, as it has been a long time since I did one. I wonder if some good sister will please help me out.

There will be busy times with us all now, as housecleaning season has arrived, and then comes Thanksgiving time, and we all know what that means.

I expect that "Red Rose" is on the move. When she gets where she intends to stop for the winter we will be pleased to hear from her.

FELIX.

INDIAN SUMMER.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: As it is a rainy day and time of year for looking over things, found this little item and thought perhaps it might interest some of the readers:

Indian Summer—In North America Indian summer is a period of mild, balmy weather—usually occurring in November—characterized by a clear sky and a hazy atmosphere, especially near the horizon. The name is said to be derived from the custom among the Indians of using their corn. According to one of their traditions "they always had a second summer of nine days just before the winter set in." Indian summer corresponds to a similar season prevailing during the late autumn in England and the Mediterranean countries called "St. Martin's" summer, from St. Martin's festival which falls on Nov. 21.

Hope the kind editor does not think this too lengthy.

Maoris Prize Shoe Lips.

Among the Maoris, of Province of New Zealand, the women do not tattoo any part of their face except the lips, which they become blue, for it is considered a disgrace for a woman to have red lips.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

SLUMP IN MARKET.

New York, Oct. 26.—Stock prices continued to melt away in today's quiet stock market with the average of 20 leading industrials sinking to a new low level for the year. The so-called pivotal stocks such as U. S. Steel, Baldwin, Studebaker and American Can, again held relatively firm, but sporadic selling pressure broke out in the Tobacco, Sugar and Rubbers and certain specialties, many of which broke through their previous low prices of the year.

Congoleum and Woolworth broke through to new peak prices, the day's net gains being 3 and 4 1-4 points respectively, Pressed Steel Car was another strong spot, closing more than 1 points higher.

Commission houses again reported that the major actility was in the hands of professional interests although buying by so-called "bargain hunters" has substantially increased in the last few days. 6

Call money opened at 4 1-4 per cent and advanced to 5 in the last hour. The time money market was dull with maturities up to four months available at 5 per cent. and 5 1-4 being asked for the longer dates. The bulk of prime commercial paper continues to move at 5 1-4 per cent.

BOND MARAKET.

New York, Oct. 26.—After opening higher in reflection of the improved sentiment which followed publication of the Hughes-Curzon exchanges on the submject of reparations, bond prices slumped in later trading in today's market.

Buying of U. S. government bonds continued but advances were moderate and the tax exempt 3 1-2s and treasury 4 1-4s fell off slightly.

Traders reported fair sized orders for a wide assortment of railroad mortgages, mostly the secondary issues. Tobacco Products 7s moved up more than a point on buying influenced by the merger with American Tobacco Company, while extensive selling of U. S. Rubber 7 1-2s carried that issue down 1 3-8 to a new low for the year.

Both the Pere Marquette issue of $12,500,000 first mortgage 5s and the $3,990,000 Missouri Pacific 5 1-2 per cent. equipment trusts were readily disposed of during the day, the offering syndicates announced.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Oct. 26.—Despite a more hopeful outlook for an agreement as to German reparations, and notwithstanding interest shown at Washington regarding proposed plans for government financing of wheat and flour exports to Germany, the wheat market weakened today after a brief bulge in prices at the outset. Profit-taking sales as well as other selling here against purchases at Winnipeg had a bearish effect. The close was unsettled, 1-8 to 5-8@3-4c net lower; December $1.06 3-4@7-8 to $1.06 7-8 and May $1.11 3-8 to $1.11 3-8@1-2. Corn gained 3-8 to 5-8c, oats 1-8 to 1-4c and provisions 5 to 50 cents.

In corn, the prevailing big discount for future deliveries as compared with immediate delivery tended to restrict selling. Oats reflected firmness of corn.

Better demand gave a lift to purovisions.

CURB MARKET.

New York, Oct. 26.—Speculative interest returned to the oil shares in today's curb market, most of the price readjustments in which were downward.

Standard Oil of Indiana, Southern States Oil and Mutual Oil, voting trust certificates, the three most active issues in the oil group, either closed unchanged or fractionally higher but most of the others sold off. Standard Oil of Kansas dropping 1 1-8 and Magnolia Petroleum, 2.

Less interest was displayed in Fark & Tilford, which closed fractionally lower at 33 1-2. Beechnut Packing came back to the curb temporarily when 126,000 shares of the new $20 par common were admitted to trading on a "when issued" basis, opening at 47, dropping to 45 5-8 and rallying to 46.

International Match Corporation 6 1-2 per cent. convertible bonds of 1942 were admitted to the bond list.

MONEY.

New York, Oct. 26.—Call money, firm; high 5; low 4 1-2; ruling rate 4 1-2; closing bid 5; offered at 5 1-4; last loan 5; call loans against acceptances 4½-5.

COTTON.

New York, Oct. 26.—Spot cotton steady; middling 31.75.

Millinery Classes Scheduled.

Miss Mildred C. Annan, millinery specialist of the Connecticut Agricultural college, is to hold two millinery classes in New London county next week. On Tuesday, October 30th, she will be at Franklin and on Wednesday, October 30th she will be at Franklin and on Wednesday, October 31st, she will be at Oakdale. Both of these are all day meetings. Anyone interested in these meetings should get in touch with the leaders, Mrs. George Kahn in Franklin and Mrs. H. G. Dart, Oakdale.

The Palace.

The splendor of plantation life—a "circumstantial evidence" murder-suicide—a raging river flood—atmosphere of a cheap San Francisco cafe and a big daily newspaper—police raid—a knife flung by a Spanish dancer—a motor racing over dangerous mountain roads—a gigantic forest fire.

These are only a few of the big "punches" which Thomas H. Ince has included in Her Reputation, his latest film production dealing with the power of the press. The story, an adaptation from the novel, The Dear One, by Bradley King and Talbot Mundy, is that of a southern beauty who, on her wedding day, becomes involved in a sensational scandal. Her adventures, when she runs away from home, have been screened with spectacular effect.

Her Reputation is now running at the Palace theatre.

Broadway Theatre.

The Norwich theatregoers have been getting the best possible in Keith vaudeville being shown at the Broadway theatre and the show scheduled for the first half of next week will be no exception.

The Current of Fun is the feature attraction, presenting Mlle. Burnell, the scientific enigma, in something new to vaudeville.

Karl Gress, the unusual artist, offers a series of landscapes in oil and transparent paintings.

Harry Clifford and Sam Bailey, two dark spots of joy, offer "The Man With the Talking Toes."

Viola Rudell and Edward Dunigan appear in Musical Comedy Revuettes.

Bryant Washburn, Mabel Forrest, Wheeler Oakman, Charlotte Stevens, Kate Lester, Laura La Varnie, Pat and Mickey Moore, Peaches Jackson, and many others appear in the cast of Mine to Keep, Ben Wilson production, which will be the attraction at the Broadway theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. This is a list of names to conjure with. Seldom has there been a more representative list—even in so-called all-star productions and each is fitted to his or her role most admirably.

The Strand.

The passing of the old west into oblivion was made evident when David Smith, the noted Vitagraph director, began seeking sites for the action in his new production, Pioneer Trails, which will be shown at the Strand theatre on Monday.

As Pioneer Trails is a dramatic story of the days following the gold rush of 1849, Director Smith required locations typical of those existent during that period.

Just when Director Smith was beginning to despair of finding a locale suitable for the production, one of his scouts reported that the recesses of Chatsworth Mountains, seventy miles from a railroad, were suitable. It was only by accident that this location was found.

An entire town was constructed by this site to reproduce accurately one of the more historic towns that boomed during the gold rush. The town of Burnt Boot was set up with cottages, general store, saloon, sheriff's office, all constructed of logs and rough hewn pine boards.

Alice Calhoun and Cullen Landis, two of the most popular stars, will be seen in the leading roles in this unusual photodrama of the early west. In the supporting cast are Otis Harlan, Bertram Grassby, Virginia True Boardman and Aggie Herring and other notable players.

A number of short subjects will also be screened.

Slater Avenue Property Sold.

Archa W. Colt has sold to Helen T. Quinlan for James W. Semple, conservator, the Morrisey property, No. 19 Slater avenue. The house has nine rooms and bath and all modern improvements. The interior was recently newly decorated throughout and all floors are of selected quartered oak. The house lot is large and there is a new two car garage. The new owner plans to occupy the property for her residence.

Bread Theatre.

That there is a special providence protecting the daring motion picture player is demonstrated again in The Eleventh Hour, Bernard Durning's production of Lincoln J. Carter's exciting melodrama, in which Shirley Mason and Charles Jones co-star.

This sensational William Fox feature, which comes to the Breed theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, is studded with hair-raising thrills that unfold in breathless succession.

In one of the daring scenes, Charles Jones swings head foremost from a ladder suspended from a flying hydroplane and catches Shirley Mason up in his arms from a motor boat as he speeds by her. Not satisfied with this stunt, you get a semi-closeup of Shirley and Jones climbing the swaying ladder until they reach the safety—if such it can be called—of the plane.

As an added feature the famous international race between Papyrus and Zev will be shown. This race was held last Saturday at Belmont Park. This is not a news reel. Topics of the Day will complete this banner bill.

Today's bill consists of The Silent Command, with an all star cast; Ruth Roland in Haunted Valley; the Pathe News and a Sunshine comedy. Continuous show today from 1.30 to 10.15.

BISHOP BURNS TO SPEAK AT Y. M. C. A. SUNDAY

By special invitation of the local Young Men's Christian Association, Bishop Charles Wesley Burns of Montana, will deliver his great message to the men of Norwich and vicinity tomorrow (Sunday) at 4 o'clock. On account of the unusual impression made by Bishop Burns on the large audience at the Southern New England Conference last spring, the "Y" management immediately asked for a date and the presence of the bishop here tomorrow is the result. There will probably be a large audience of men present at the association tomorrow to hear this distinguished leader of a great denomination, who is in very great demand all over the country. At this meeting Swahn's orchestra will play and Hugh Kinder will sing. All men are cordially invited.

SCHWARTZ BROS. ANNOUNCE SENSATIONAL BED SALE

Schwartz Bros. announce the opportunity of a lifetime in their sensational bed sale which begins this morning at 9 o'clock at their store 76-82 Main street. Money-saving values will be placed before its patrons on beds of every kind, because a whole trainload of beds, cribs and springs is to be sold at less than manufacturer's cost. This is the entire stock of the Royal Bed Company of Brooklyn, N. Y., which includes beds in white and ivory enamel, oak, walnut, mahogany, birdseye maple and Circassian walnut—every bed sold guaranteed to be of the finest quality and perfect. See their adv.

OPENING MUSICAL SERVICE AT CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH

The first of the special monthly musical services to be given at the Central Baptist church during the winter will take place tomorrow evening. The selections to be given are as follows:

Anthem, Savior [illegible] Night
Involves the [illegible] Shelley
Solo, soprano, [illegible]ford, Most Holy, Abt
Duet, tenor and baritone, Watchman, What of the Night? Sergeant
Contralto solo, In Thee, O God
Do I Put My Trust, Sticker
Anthem, Light of the World, Starnes

The new Gale memorial organ which has just been installed is now practically finished and is a delight to all. The quartet comprises Mrs. James A. Bidwell, soprano; Mrs. Olive Adams Potter, contralto; Frederick J. Maples, tenor; Charles D. Geer, baritone. Miss Louise Fuller is organist.

Next Week at United Congregational Church.

Members of the parish are invited to the semi-annual meeting of the New London Association of Congregational Churches and Ministers to be held at half past ten and at two o'clock, and luncheon and an hour of fellowship at half past twelve.

The Cabinet of the Women's Guild will meet Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock, at the home of Mrs. Charles T. Bard, 28 Lincoln avenue. It is suggested that members bring their work and come prepared to spend the afternoon.

The Charitable Circle of King's Daughters meet Tuesday evening.

Mid-week worship, Thursday evening at 7.45.

The Woman's Guild meets on Friday, at three o'clock, at the Community house. Mrs. John M. Cratty, of Philadelphia, a most unusual speaker with a message for the whole community, is to give an address on "The Best Book—Are We Majoring In It." This will be an open meeting to which the women of Norwich are most cordially invited.

The Camp Fire will hold its regular bi-monthly supper at six o'clock, Friday evening.

[illegible] Symphony Orchestra Is Conducted.

When Conductor Van Hoogstraten raises his baton at the beginning of the concert at the New London State armory next Monday night, it may be a matter of wonder to the layman to know just how he is aware of the entrance of each new instrument into the ensemble, how he keeps such accurate tabs on the entire orchestra that he can control all its members at once. The secret of this power is to be found in the conductor's score.

The score contains all the parts of the orchestra, the part for each instrument inscribed bar for bar in vertical sequence. These parts are arranged with the wood-winds at the top, parts for the brass instruments in the middle, while those of the string choir are at the bottom of the page. It is necessary for the conductor to be able to read from twenty-four to thirty lines of music at once, and it is even advisable to be able, as Mr. Van Hoogstraten is, to transpose the music as he reads it at the piano, in order to work out the ensemble effects before a rehearsal begins.

Great conductors have their individual interpretations of master pieces of music just as truly as do violinists and pianists, and play upon their orchestras as do the latter upon their instruments.

Van Hoogstraten is bringing the complete Philharmonic orchestra of over 100 artist musicians with him for this concert. The program comprises the most popular of great masterpieces of music in symphonic forms, and is entirely new to this public. When these facts are considered, it will be seen that a treat is in store for all who attend the concert, the like of which has never before been obtained in New London.

PROMINENT EDUCATORS SPEAK TO TEACHERS AT NORWICH MEETING

The moral training question was stressed at length by many of the speakers at the fall meeting of the Connecticut State Teachers association held in this city Friday, and plans for advancing the opportunities of teachers along these vital lines were laid out for study to be applied later in class rooms.

The sessions which were held in the Norwich Free Academy building and Slater Hall were attended by over 500 teachers throughout the day and the speakers received careful attention and the forums resulted in many general discussions of every day problems of the teacher, and how to meet them.

The sessions opened at 9.30 in the morning by chairman, Edward J. Graham, superintendent of Norwich schools, following which the Academy orchestra rendered several selections under the direction of Frederick H. Cranston. An interesting and educational report on High Spots of the National Education meetings of 1923 was delivered by Edward B. Sellew, superintendent of schools of Middletown, after which the principal address was delivered by Olive M. Jones, president of the National Education association, New York City.

While this session was on, there were several sectional meetings, the High School Section being led by Fred S. Hitchcock, principal of Vocational High School, New London. This meeting devoted its time to reports of the state committee on the teaching of English and Social Studies in the secondary schools.

The department of mathematics and science was lead by Rodney W. Hewitt, Windham High School, and there were talks of teaching mathematics and the place of general science in secondary schools, delivered by Ralph M. Johnson, Plainfield High School and William O. Brooks, assistant principal, Windham High School.

The departments of modern language and Latin held morning sessions only and were led by Miss M. Stella LaFrance, Williams Memorial Institute, and Henry A. Tirrell, principal Norwich Free Academy.

In the Junior High school section led by William C. French, principal of Central Junior High school, New Britain, the problems of a junior high school teacher were discussed at length by Dr. George S. Counts, associate professor of secondary education, graduate school of education, Yale university.

Sessions at the elementary school section were led by Katherine T. Harty, Normal School, New Haven, and the principal speaker was Arthur B. Morrill, principal of the New Haven Normal school. In his address Mr. Morrill pleaded for the proposition that the needs of the child should be allowed to determine largely what should be done. That which should be done is what is best for the child and teachers should be given the freedom and have the opportunity to determine the course of action. Teachers should be allowed to express their opinion and it should govern future action in that classroom.

At the afternoon session Mr. Morrill outlined work in the oral language course classifying his subject into parts dealing with utterance of the language, getting rid of wrong forms, vocabulary work, usefulness of parts of sentences, phrases or clauses, ending with the composition work. He informed his audience that oral language appeals simply to the ear and emphasis and inflection, imitation and long continued practice are essential factors in putting the lesson across.

In the teaching of history Mr. Morrill stressed the value of reading and study, stating that reading was a builder of background. In studying, the youth is taught the value of history, the story of what an American citizen should know, what he should learn of his home city government, state government and national government. This is taught in history and hundreds of subjects present themselves.

In closing Mr. Morrill spoke of silent reading and its purpose which he said is four fold. First, reading is for guidance. Good reading from which high ideas may be obtained should be cultivated among the children. It broadens them, and may teach them a vocation, the world's business and lastly, how to get on. Secondly, there is that reading which teaches the child the duty of knowing what every citizen ought to know, this is gained from reading history, the constitution, newspapers, speeches of famous patriotic men. In the third place, reading appeals to the feeling, the character of the child and works that reach these finer qualities of the child make them unselfish, kind, helpful and willing to give up for others. Lastly, there is that need of reading simply for a change of mood, to get one away from routine, from study or business and good stories, narratives or biographies aid in this form of recreation.

In the kindergarten and primary school section Katherine M. Langtry of New Haven was chairman and the address on The Making and Keeping of a Kindergarten program was discussed by Helen S. Hutchinson of Bristol, and in the afternoon Sarah M. Marble, director of kindergartens, Worcester, Mass., spoke on Advantages and Difficulties of the Project Method.

In the village and rural section led by A. Wilson Greer, supervisor of rural schools, Willimantic, the Use of Local Background formed a most interesting subject when discussed by Anna M. Fuda, State Supervising Agent, Meriden. Miss Fuda said that a more thorough knowledge of local geography, history and government was the greatest aid in bringing an appreciation of the home town back to the children at school. Her talk was followed by illustration practical means for applying the policy of local background work given by Floyd Tiffany and Miss Elizabeth Duerr.

The afternoon address was delivered by Florence M. Hale, state department of Education, Maine, who spoke on the value of the teacher to the community, her compensation and her accomplishments. More than ever before, said Miss Hale, is the public learning the value of the teachers of their children, and although the compensation in dollars and cents is none too great the teacher receives today compensation in the form of recognition of her value, which to her is even greater than the money received for the actual teaching.

The closing address of the session was by Herbert S. Weet, superintendent of school, Rochester, N. Y., whose subject was The Public Schools and Character building. Mr. Weet laid emphasis on the value of moral training placing it far above physical instruction. Moral training develops in the child the feeling for doing that which is right, to be just and loyal. We appeal to their initiative, intellect, feeling, reason, imagination and physical nature but above all we must appeal to the moral side of the child and this is done by moral education by precept, more important than this, the teaching of obedience by appealing to the human side of the child, not by coercion and corporal punishment, and last and most important through the boys and girls clubs, the school paper, athletics and all other things which effect the moral life of the child.

The attendance at the sessions which was over 500 showed the growth of the organization and problems were presented which showed the necessity of larger appropriations for educational work, if the advanced ideas were to be carried out and the child be built up by an approach not only to the intellect but by an appeal to the moral and physical nature which governs all actions of the child.

SUES GROTON SCHOOL DISTRICT FOR HIS SON'S DEATH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 26.—John Lebou of Groton, administrator of the estate of his son, John Kenneth Lebou, 6, has brought suit for damages in the sum of $7,500 against the Fifth school district of the town of Groton, and in the action Walter H. Lathrop, Louis M. Allen and A. W. George, members of the school board, are made co-defendants. The action, which is returnable before the November term of the superior court, is brought as a result of the death of Master Lebou on Nov. 7, 1922.

The school board maintained a parcel of ground as a playground for the children and adjoining the plot designed for the place of amusement for the children was a large boulder which had been surrounded by a fence so as to prevent children from ascending the boulder and falling to the ground. The fence became damaged and partially collapsed and it is claimed that while in that condition the Lebou child managed to climb to the top of the boulder, only to fall to the ground and sustain injuries which resulted in his death. Property of the defendants has been attached in the sum of $10,000. The defendants are charged with carelessness and negligence through which they were the sole and proximate cause of the child's death.

EXAMINATIONS OF TEACHERS FOR STATE CERTIFICATES

Examinatins for teachers for state certificates are to be held in Norwich Willimantic, Putnam and New London and eight other cities in the state on the first three Saturdays in November. Teachers required to take examinations for state certificates are required to report on one of these days. The official notice that has been sent to school superintendent E. J. Graham is as follows:

"Dear Sir—You are respectfully requested to call the attention of the teachers under your supervision to the fact that the examinations for certificates will be held on the first three Saturdays of November in accordance with the schedule of examinations and places found in the second edition of the rules and regulations concerning state teachers' certificates, pages 55-58.

"It would be well to speak of this several times and to impress upon teachers who have examinations to take (and this means all teachers who have been notified to the contrary) that the responsibility for taking the right examinations rests with the teacher.

"The rules are specific and may be taken literally.

"It is impossible for this office to assume the responsibility of telling each individual teacher before-hand just what is to be done and when—the Connecticut school document No. 4 does that.

"Prompt service by the Bureau of certification may be had if it is relieved of the necessity of anticipating each teacher's particular requirement.

"Further, if each executive officer will make it his business to check up the requirements with those teachers who are securing state certificates, it will take only a little time, and this office will be able to serve you more promptly. You may be interested to know that during the year ending June 30, 1923, 7,843 state certificates were issued. This involves a great deal of correspondence.

"Respectfully yours,
"A. B. Meredith,
"Commissioner of Education"

The following is the letter received relative to the teachers of abnormal children.

WOMAN FOUND DEAD IN GAS-FILLED ROOM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 26.—Mrs. Lizzie Fleury, about 60, was found dead in her rooms at 46 Golden street, where she has resided alone a long time. The house is the property of the John Goos estate and Mr. Goos was notified as soon as the body was discovered by Mike Jellerine, a night worker for the railroad company. Medical Examiner Heyer when he had learned the facts declared that the woman's death was by accident. When Jellerine arrived home this morning about 5 o'clock he got a strong odor of gas, but paid little attention to it, believing that gas had been used and that some of it had escaped into the building. He retired, but awoke at 8.30 and, noting the gas odor as strong as ever, he investigated. Going to the rear of the house he observed that the window shades in the rooms of Mrs. Fleury were drawn, as if she was still sleeping. He traced the odor to her rooms. He found the door closed, but unlocked, and went in, to find Mrs. Fleury dead and a gas jet from a chandelier wide open. Later the body was removed to the rooms of a local undertaker.

Mrs. Fleury was occupied much of the time as a pie baker for a local lunch counter. She had a daughter, Mrs. Louis Gingrass of 12 Lewis street, who is employed at Connecticut college.

Coroner J. J. Desmond was in New York when the body was discovered and could not be communicated with and there was no one to represent him as deputy coroner, so his return tonight will be awaited before a verdict as to the cause of death is reached.

TAFTVILLE

A small fire occurred in one of the supply rooms of the Ponemah mills Thursday evening shortly after 5 o'clock, but it was quickly extinguished and not much damage was done.

Miss Agnes Graham of Lisbon is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Leo Glenn Yeagley of Hartford.

There were no school sessions at the Wequonnoc school Friday, as the teachers were attending a convention.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wight and family of Lisbon are moving to Norwich, where they will make their home.

Mrs. William Shaw of Brockton, Mass., is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Kinder, of North Third avenue.

Miss Mathilde Stapfer of the Ponemah house is spending the week end in Hartford.

Mrs. Neil Finlyason entertained a number of friends at her home on Francis place, Norwich, Friday evening, many Taftville people attending.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lambert of North B street are in Natick, R. I., where they are attending the funeral of Edward Peltier, Mrs. Lambert's father, who passed away at the age of 92 years. Mr. Peltier had been a familiar figure in Natick for many years, where he was known as the "grand old man of Natick." He was one of the few men to live to see his daughter's golden wedding and his grandson's silver wedding. He was a frequent visitor to Taftville.

The Thursday evening basketry class met Thursday evening in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building.

M. J. Hatten of Providence was a business caller in the village Friday.

The Ocawasin Camp Fire Girls gave a Hallowe'en party in the lecture rooms of the Taftville Congregational church for the members of the church school Friday evening. The home department also held their annual meeting at this social. The rooms were decorated with black cats, witches and orange and black crepe paper. Refreshments were served and games were played by the many guests, who voted the Camp Fire Girls capital entertainers.

Over $11,700 was collected and pledged in the Backus hospital campaign Thursday, bringing the Taftville total up to almost $15,000. The workers are putting forth every effort to bring the campaign to a successful conclusion, and there is still one team to hear from. It is believed that the village will respond generously to the appeal and that the total sum from Taftville will be far in excess of $15,000.

FRANCE WILL NOT AGREE TO REDUCTION OF GERMAN DEBT

Official Communique Issued by Premier Poincare Reiterates the French Government's Determination to Refuse to Make Any Concessions—Will Hold to the Debt as Fixed by the London Conference in May, 1921—Would Welcome American Representation on Committee, But Declares the Committee Must Remain Within the Terms Laid Down by the Versailles Treaty.

Paris, Oct. 28.—(By The A. P.)—An official communique written by Premier Poincare and issued at the French foreign office this evening reiterates the French government's determination to refuse to agree to any reduction of the German debt as fixed by the London conference in May, 1921.

The communique insists that a committee of experts organized within the scope of the reparation commission, to investigate Germany's capacity for payment, has no authority to make any reduction in Germany's debt. It says it considers that such a committee will be practically a mere addition to the present staff of experts of the reparation commission.

Quoting the Versailles treaty, the communique says the reparation commission itself has no power to grant any reduction in reparations and the treaty stipulating such of measure musth be decided by the unanimous vote of the nations interested.

The text of the communique follows:

"The French government in its reply to the British government concerning the creation of a committee of experts, bases its authority upon paragraph 7, annex 2, to part 8 of the treaty of Versailles, permitting the constitution of such committees.

"This paragraph empowers the commission to nominate all functionaries, agents and employes necessary to the execution of its functions, to create committees, the members of which are not necessarily chosen from the commission, and to give such functionaries, agents and committees full powers and authority.

"Thus the reparation commission, acting within the limits of its powers, may designate such experts, the help of which appears necessary in order to obtain the information it requires.

"Thus this in no way implicates on the part of the commission any abandonment of its powers, which it retains integrally; the information, advice and recommendations it would receive from such a committee would have no other object than to enlighten it, as in the case of the experts now employed by the commission, which has the authority to increase their number."

"On the other hand, paragraph 7, annex 2, to part 8 of the treaty, permits the commission to hear all arguments and testimonials presented by Germany upon any question relating to the latter's capacity for payment. The above paragraph interprets that part of Article 234 in which it is said that the commission must study from time to time the resources of Germany, and, after having given the representatives of that country equitable facilities to be heard has full powers to extend the period or modify the methods of payment fixed by Article 233.

"Thus Germany, represented upon the committee of experts, may be heard by them and present all arguments and evidence, the latter not necessarily from Germany, but also neutral and even allied sources. The experts, or a group of experts, can in no case infringe upon the powers of the commission, which are fixed by Article 234, which specifically states that the commission alone can extend delays and modify the mode of payments to be made in conformity with Article 233.

"Article 233 itself stipulates that in the event Germany should fail to meet her obligations and payments as scheduled by the commission, all the balance remaining unpaid must be carried forward to payments to be received in following years, according to decisions of the commission. But with this the powers of the commission end. It can agree to no further decrease without special authorization from the various governments represented on the commission.

"Furthermore, according to Article 248, the allied and associate governments may even intervene in the settlement of the yearly balances remaining unpaid, and, although the commission has the authority to carry such balances to following years it cannot cancel such debts, such action being determined by the allied and associated governments.

"The net results of the interpretations of the above text are that although the commission may determine the method of payment of German debts, extend the periods and modify the methods of such payments, it cannot make any reduction whatsoever, such reductions only being granted by the unanimity of the creditor nations.

"Thus France will not accept that a committee of experts make any changes in the amount of the debt as fixed and will give its consent to no reduction whatsoever in the amount of the obligations of Germany as determined by the reparations commission in May, 1921."

The above document was written entirely by M. Poincare in his own hand and turned over to the foreign office before his departure for Sampigny, where he delivered his address today. It was intended as a definite and final statement concerning the French government's position with regard to the forthcoming meeting of the committee of experts, and it is said there is certain to be no alterations in it as long as the present cabinet remains in charge of France's foreign policy.

London, Oct. 28.—(By The A. P.)—M. Poincare's speech at Sampigny today and the semi-official explanations of the French government's attitude, which reached London tonight, seems to show the intention of that government to circumscribe the proposed investigation into Germany's capacity to pay reparations under the aegis of the reparation commission to the greatest possible extent by taking advantage of every technical clause in the treaty, more particularly the French premier voices the greatest objection to Germany being represented on the proposed commission of experts, and one Paris paper insinuates that the experts will need to be challenged by France on the ground that they have enormous holdings of German marks and hre therefore interested in the rehabilitation of German currency.

It is understood that Premier Baldwin will preside at the cabinet council tomorrow to consider the points raised by M. Poincare today and in his acceptance of Mr. Baldwin's invitation to a conference. Occasion will also be taken to consider further the question of the effect produced on the country by the prime minister's tentative advocacy of protection as a remedy for unemployment.

FRENCH STATEMENT NO BARRIER TO CONFERENCE

Washington, Oct. 28—(By the A. P.)—On the face of Premier Poincare's remarks today or the official communique issued by the French foreign office, it does not appear that the limitations France insists must be placed upon the scope of the proposed inquiry by experts into Germany's capacity to pay reparations necessarily impedes participation of American economic authorities in the undertaking. It has been emphasized repeatedly by spokesmen of the Washington government that such a commission ought not to have power to bind any of the governments on any point.

Presumably the allied powers will feel that they cannot commit themselves in advance to acceptance of recommendations made by expert advisors to the reparations commission. It has been stated on authority here that the chief hope of success in solving the reparations problem by means of an advisory commission would lie not in the method by which its recommendations were arrived at but in the soundness of its conclusions.

PREMIER POINCARE SPEAKS ON GERMAN REPARATIONS

Sampigny, France, Oct. 28.—(By the A. P.)—Premier Poincare in a speech here today, declared that France would refuse to allow the reparation commission to be divested of its functions or replaced by some other body. He said that France could not agree to any reduction in the German debt.

The premier asserted that he welcomed American representation on a committee charged by the reparation commission to investigate Germany's capacity to pay, but that every act of the committee must remain within the the terms laid down by the Versailles treaty.

The premier, ho delivered a long speech at the unveiling of a monument to the war dead of the village in which his country residence is situated, said:

"We constantly are being asked to proceed to a fresh estimate of Germany's capacity to pay. What does that mean? If it means by a roundabout way to reach a miminution of the German debt, that is a combination we are resolute not to favor.

"If it means an estimate of what Germany can pay tomorrow and in the near future, nothing is more necessary than such an examination.

"The commission on reparations is charged by the treaty with such a task, and there are no grounds to take one of its most important functions from it."

M. Poincare said the commission was above suspicion; it had shown itself competent and impartial; it was obliged to give Germany with each decision a fair opportunity to present her observations.

"It has the good fortune," the premier continued, "to have at each meeting a semi-official representative of the United States, who is a man of the highest sense of justice and absolute integrity, its British, Italian and Belgian delegates are most distinguished men, and its president none could say lacked intelligence or experience.

"Germany has just resumed contact with the commission," said M. Poincare, "and the reich delegates will undoubtedly soon be heard by it. Let it work and fulfill its mandate."

Having thus stated what he considered the position and value of the reparation ocommission, M. Poincare took up the "invitation and supplication" addressed to him by Stanley Baldwin, the British prime minister —"a courteous invitation to an international conference or a commission of experts placed under the commission on reparations and a friendly supplication to reflect thrice before refusing these propositions."

"As Mr. Baldwin's speech dates over thrice twenty-eight hours," M. Poincare continued, "I have taken time to mediate it—more than thrice." M. Poincare's first thought was that there was agreement on the essential point as to the necessity for a settlement of the reparations question and concerted action by the allies to insure payment.

"We also, like Mr. Balwin," said M. Poincare, "hope that the United States consents not to keep itself completely dissociated from the affairs of Europe. We believe the stronger the economic financial and moral solidarity is between the old and new continents the better will the cause of humanity be served.

"But what would such an international conference discuss? How would it be composed? What relations of collaboration or dependence would it have as regards governments or the commission on reparations? What would be its powers?

"All these problems passed through my mind during the first stage of mediation without me being able to solve them. Much fun has been made in England over my Sunday discourses; but what daily contradictory and useless discourses would an international conference mean while you my friends, still were waiting for stones and tiles to rebuild your homes?

"It, in truth, the British government is not thinking of asking us to make Germany come and sit at the conference of which it speaks; if it has simply, like ourselves, a desire for obtaining the cooperation of the United States, it is easy for us to reach an understanding on the idea already considered at Paris, as at Washington, Brussels and Rome.

"The commission on reparations is there. It makes investigations; experts make inquiries daily; it can, without the slightest innovation, ask the semi-official delegate of the United States to nominate American experts to examine with the French, English and Belgians the present capacity for payment by Germany, and to demand that the reich draw up a program of financial restoration and a detailed plan of reparations without going outside the treaty."

Here the premier seemed to have reached the point he desired to emphasize.

"We cannot," he said, "accept that the commission be dispossessed of its functions or replaced by an organism in which our share of influence, already inferior to our interests, would be still further reduced. We have reached the limit of our concessions. We shall not go further."

M. Poincare began his speech by pointing out that he, unhappily, had proved himself right in advising caution when "the German government noisily announced the cessation of passive resistance and when he warned France that intrigues and evasions had not yet ended. He then denied that France had been instrumental in arousing internal troubles in Germany.

"We have always scrupulously remained outside the internal affairs of Germany," declared the premier, "and the allegations of the German government, scandalously spread in Europe and the new world, will not obscure the truth from impartial spectators. Whatever Germany's future constitution may be: Whatever be the relations between the states composing it, we shall never think of violating the conscience of the population. We nourish no plan of annexation, but we shall never renounce our claims to permanent guarantees for security."

M. Poincare then dealt with Germany's war preparations in aviation and other ways, saying France would not sacrifice her rights to reparations any more than her claims to security. He defended the occupation of the Ruhr, saying that without that Germany today would be able to refuse payments and continue to enrich herself through her factories and the use of Ruhr coal, whereas it now was to her interest to pay her creditors at the earliest possible time in order to hasten the evacuation of the Ruhr.

"All we ask of our allies," said M. Poincare, "is observation of the treaty they signed, as well as we. The schedule of May 5, 1921, is definite, and it cannot be modified without our consent. The treaty lays down no reduction that can be granted Germany without unanimity on the part of the creditors, and France is too much tried to adhere to a reduction."

The premier ended his discourse with words of gratitude to the allies, recognizing that fraternity of arms had assured success to the French efforts.

"But," he declared, "each of us, struggling for the others, struggled also, and shows all, for himself. We have given as much as we have received, and we can claim equal to that we owe our friends. . . . We will no longer remain exposed to fresh aggressions on our eastern frontier, which President Wilson one day very justly called the frontier of liberty."

Celebrations in Paris.

Paris, Oct. 28.—The celebrations in Paris of the centenary anniversary of the death of Abraham Louis Breguet were concluded Saturday. His inventions connected with clocks, watches, navigation instruments, astronomical and marine chronometers left so little room for improvement that they cannot be said to have been superseded even 100 years after his death.

TWO MEN DROWNED IN SOUND OFF SAVIN ROCK

New Haven, Oct. 28.—George Barth, of West Haven and Bernard Simmons of Mount Pleasant, N. Y., were drowned when their boat overturned in Long Island sound off Savin Rock, near here, last night. Their bodies had not been recovered up to tonight despite a search bgun soon after the double fatality. In the boat with the two men at the time was Jessie Simmons, of West Haven, a distant relative of Bernard Simmons.

Jessie Simmons said that the boat overturned when Bernard to climb back into it after he had leaned over one side and fallen into the water. He said Barth encouraged his companions to hold onto the boat, but Bernard swam beyond their view and that was the last seen of him.

Michael Cain, of West Haven, hearing the cries of the two men, went to the overturned boat in a craft in which, besides himself, were two other men. They found Jessie holding on to the prow of the boat, which was turned bottom upward, and Barth hanging over the center of it. It is believed that Barth volunteered to hang on until Jessie had been taken ashore, as there was room for only one man in Cain's boat.

Several searching parties then attempted to seek the overturned boat and Barth without succes. The boat finally was found this morning.

George Barth was said to be an expert swimmer.

TENEMENTS SEARCHED FOR MISSING BOY

New York, Oct. 28—On the theory that a demented person had kidnapped four-year-old Irving Pickelny, who disappeared last Friday from his home in Grand street, the police today searched all the tenement houses in the vicinity. They ran down several fruitless clues and called on authorities in neighboring cities for assistance in the search.

The parents have kept a constant vigil at the nearest police station, awaiting word of their missing child.

SEVEN PRISONERS ESCAPED FROM ERIE COUNTY JAIL

Erie, Pa., Oct. 28—Seven prisoners awaiting trial, escaped from the Erie County Jail early Sunday morning by sawing two bars from a cell window in the fifth floor and sliding to the ground by means of knotted blankets. Other prisoners reported the escape.

Police through the territory were notified to watch for the fugitives whose names were given as Lawrence W. Clippinger, of Kalamazoo, Mich.; Peter Flury and Walter Rose, of Cleveland, Edward Harrison, of Philadelphia, and Charles Starks, John McLeod and Frank Ralston, all of Erie.

RECOGNIZED BODY AS THAT OF HIS MOTHER

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 28.—The body of a woman, found in a creek in St. Louis county yesterday, was identified today by William Renard, a farmer, as that of his mother, Mrs. Katherine Renard, 81, of Cincinnati, whom he had not heard from since Oct. 17 when she left Cincinnati to visit him. Authorities expressed the belief that the woman may have been murdered.

Saxon Ministry Has Declined to Resign

Premier Zeigner Has So Notified the Central Government at Berlin—Disregards Ultimatum.

Dresden, Germany, Oct. 28 (By the A. P.)—Premier Zeigner tonight notified the central government at Berlin that the Saxon ministry had voted to disregard Chancellor Stresemann's ultimatum calling for its immediate resignation.

The Saxon government's reply sets forth that the Berlin government's procedure is wholly without foundation in law and not warranted by the political situation. It declares that the Saxon diet is the sole tribunal to determine the issue, which is now to be put up to it. Its findings will then be communicated to the Berlin government.

PLUNDERING HAS BECOME GENERAL IN THE RUHR

Duesseldorf, Oct. 28 (By the A. P.)—Plundering any violence have suddenly become so general and menacing throughout the Ruhr that both the French and German authorities are beginning to realise that something drastic must be done to remove the economic causes immediately.

The pillaging of stores continued last night in the suburbs regardless of the curfew law, and the mobs were so rampant today that the Duesseldorf police who have been disarmed, dare not enter the district to face the looters, who carry modern rifles, pistols and hand grenades.

Several were killed or wounded overnight. The plunderers emptied a large liquor store in Koelnerstrasse in the night, and dawn found dozens of men, women and children scattered along the streets, apparently dead. An examinations disclosed that all of them were suffering from a severe form of alcoholism.

The systematic pillaging of a large sugar plant in the suburb of Flingern began about noon. Early this morning several hundred men broke into the jail at Gereshelm, another suburb, and released fourteen criminals. Similar instances of lawlessness are reported in almost every town in the Ruhr.

STATISTICS OF OPERATION OF ELECTRIC RAILWAYS

Washington, Oct. 28.—The department of commerce presents preliminary figures relating to the operation of electric railways in the states of Connecticut and Rhode Island during 1922, as compared with the year 1917.

The miles of track operated in these states in 1922 show a decrease of 6.4 per cent. as compared with 1917, this decrease being divided about equally between abandoned and idle trackage. The number of passengers carried decreased 5.2 per cent, but owing to fare increases gross railway operating revenues increased 22.4 per cent., aggregating $24,105,500 in 1922 as compared with $18,207,428 in 1917. Operating expenses increased 37.5 per cent. during the 5-year period and net income aggregated $1,745,472 in 1922 as compared with a deficit of $91,070 in 1917.

The current generated by electric railways in 1922 aggregated 146,963,624 kilowatt hours and in addition purchased current was used to the amount of 44,135,448 kilowatt hours. Of this current 10,522,404 kilowatt hours were sold for electric light and power purposes, for which revenue to the amount of $555,577 was received.

UNREASONABLE PRICES FOR ANTHRACITE AT MINE

Washington, Oct. 28.—Anthracite is being sold by some Pennsylvania mine operators the federal trade commission declared today "at prices which are neither reasonable nor necessary."

This conclusion was announced in the second of a series of weekly reports on the anthracite price situation as it has developed since the short strike last month. It was grounded on the finding that while 6.7 per cent. of anthracite is sold by the operators to wholesalers at $9.50 to $9.99 per ton, 45.5 per cent. is sold at $10 to $10.99, another 13 per cent. at $11 and $11.99 and the remainder amounting to 34.8 per cent. at $12 to $13 and more.

"Such wide difference in prices in the present period of normal operations," the commission observed, "are neither reasonable nor necessary and often become the cause, but still more often the excuse, for the excessive prices now being extensively charged to the consumer."

SLIGHT EARTH TREMORS FELT IN ARK. AND MISS.

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 28.—Slight but distinct earth tremors were felt in Memphis and over a large part of Arkansas and Mississippi at 11.14 a. m., today. Windows were rattled in this city and newspapers were deluged with telephone inquiries from Pine Bluff, Ark., Tunica and Tupelo, Miss., and numerous other towns.

Several chimneys were shaken down and large windows in a bank building were broken at Marked Tree, Arkansas. No official information is available here as to the nature of the tremors or their extent, although no damage of any consequence has been reported.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 28.—The body of a woman, found in a creek in St. Louis county yesterday, was identified today by William Renard, a farmer, as that of his mother, Mrs. Katherine Renard, 81, of Cincinnati, whom he had not heard from since Oct. 17 when she left Cincinnati to visit him. Authorities expressed the belief that the woman may have been murdered.

Statistics of Income And Profit Taxes

Total of $1,420,962,438 Collected From 7,018,573 Individuals for Calendar Year 1921.

Washington, Oct. 28.—The treasury collected income and profit taxes from 7,018,573 individuals and firms for the calendar year 1921, receipts from this source totalling $1,420,962,438.

A statistical report made public today by the bureau of internal revenue, shows that such revenue decreased approximately $1,250,000,000 from 1920 while there was a reduction of about 600,000 in the number of persons and firms making returns.

Of the total number of returns filed, 6,663,176 were by individuals.

Reductions in the amount of taxes paid and the number of returns filed as compared with 1920 extend all along the line from the persons paying taxes on income of $1,000 to the maximum class of one million dollars or more. There were only twenty-one in the latter class in 1921 while in 1920 the records show, thirty-three persons admitted having incomes in the clas of "one million dollars and over."

Detailed figures disclosed that twelve of the twenty-one paid taxes on incomes between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000, and none reported incomes between a million and a half and two million. Three individuals paid taxes on net incomes between two million and three million and five on incomes between three million and four million, while one shared with the government an income "in excess of five million dollars."

The total number of individual taxpayers for 1921 was divided by the bureau's records into the following tax classes:

Incomes of $1,000 to $2,000, 2,446,544; $2,000 to $3,000, 2,222,031; $3,000 to $4,000, 793,991; $4,000 to $5,000, 369,155; $5,000 to $10,000, 353,247; $10,000 to $15,000, 80 014; $15,000 to $20,000, 34,230; $20,000 to $25,000, 15,106; $25,000 to $20,000, 10,848; $30,000 to $40,000, 13,047; $40,000 to $50,000 6,051; $50,000 to $100,000, 8,1717; $100,000 to $150,000, 1,367; $150,000 to $200,000, 450; $200,000 to $250,000, 205; $250,000 to $300,000, 84; $300,000 to $400,000 93; $400,000 to $500,000, 64; $500,000 to $1,000,000, 63; $1,000,000 and over, 21. A total of 401,849 persons filed returns on income of less than $1,000.

The net income upon which the 6,662,176 individuals paid taxes was recorded by the bureau as $19,577,213,576, while for 1920, the net income was reported at nearly $24,000,000,000. Corporation income for 1921 aggregated $4,336,047,813, a decrease from the preceding year of about $3,600,000,000. Personal and corporate exemptions saved thousands of individuals and several score corporations from tax payments but the figures were not segregated.

New York and Pennsylvania ranked first and second respectively in the list of returns filed both by individuals and corporations and held the same respective standing in taxes paid.

New York's total reported net income was $4,754,130,543 of which $3,617,757,104 was personal. Aggregate taxes paid by New York were $397,848,890, or almost 27 per cent. of the total received by the treasury from income and profit taxes for the year.

Pennsylvania's net income was recorded at $2,869,092,064 and close following was Illinois with $2,216,064,889. Taxes paid by Pennsylvania were $157,784,887, and by Illinois $139,882,929.

A DEARTH OF MEN FOR HIGH SALARIED POSITIONS

New York, Oct. 28.—Mass production and labor saving devices have so shifted the ratio between the number of workers and of executives employed in America that 200,000 positions of responsibility and high salary will go begging in industry by 1930 unless something is done to train more men for such jobs, the National Industrial Conference Board announced today.

A committee of manufacturers and industrial educators had just concluded a series of conferences dealing with Technical schools of the nation' average an annual enrollment of 50,000 the committee reported. The enrollment of prospective engineers and executives in the schools was said to have increased by only 382 in three years despite the great expansion of industry which has been due partly to this country determination to engage more actively in world trade.

CONTROVERSYY OVER WHO "INVENTED" THE DACHSHUND

Berlin, Oct. 28.—German dog fanciers are much incensed over the allegations of British dog breeders, that the Germans really did not "invent" the dachshund. A bitter controversy arose during the recent bench show in London as to where the dachshund originated, and a British Egyptologist wiped out German claims with one stroke when he declared a drawing of dachshunds have been discovered on Egyptian tablets and monuments antedating Christ by 4500 years.

THREE FIREMEN INJURED AT BLAZE IN BROOKLYN

New York, Oct. 28.—Three firemen were seriously injured, one probably fatally and 18 others slightly hurt by smoke and burns today when fire destroyed a six story brick warehouse in Brooklyn. The hero of the blaze was Ambulance Surgeon Mortan Herts, who braved the flames and smoke, entered the fifth floor of the building and revived five firemen who had been overcome by smoke. The fire did $75,000 damage.

TO FLY FROM CANAL ZONE TO GUATEMALA

Washington, Oct. 28.—Army air service pilots have been authorised by Major General Patrick, chief of that service, to make a flight from France Field, Canal Zone, to Guatemala City, Guatemala, and other Central American capitals "for the purpose of establishing closer aeronautical relations between the United States and the Central American republics." The flight is scheduled to take place about the middle of December after preliminary surveys of the route have been completed and suitable landing fields selected.

General Patrick believes that the contemplated flight will demonstrate the practicability of carrying express, mail and passengers between the various cities of Central America and the Canal Zone.

BOY HANGED HIMSELF WHEN REFUSED MONEY FOR SHOW

Oswego, N. Y., Oct. 28—In a burst of anger because his mother refused to give him money to go to a picture show, Carl Sherman, eleven years old, rushed to his bedroom. When he did not appear for the evening meal his mother went to the room and found the lad dead, the body hanging from the post of his bed.

U. S. SUBMARINE O-5 SUNK; FIVE OF CREW ARE MISSING

Went Down in Limon Bay, Canal Zone, After Collision With United Fruit Ship Agangarez—Report of the Disaster Received in Washington Failed to Give the Cause—Was of a Class Considered Practically Obsolete—Fruit Vessel Was Not Damaged.

Washington, Oct. 28.—The United States submarine O-5 was sunk in Limon bay, Canal Zone, after a collision early today with the United Fruit company's vessel Abangarez, the navy department has been notified by radio. Five members of the submarine's crew were reported missing.

The Abangarez was undamaged.

In the belief that the five men missing went down with the submarine, divers immediately began efforts to recover their bodies.

Those reported missing were:

Lawrence Brown, chief electrician's mate, Tyngsboro, Mass.

Clyde E. Hughes, motor machinists' mate, first class, Manito, Illinois.

Henry Dreault, torpedoman, second class, Grand Isle, Vt.

The commanding officer of the submarine, according to navy records was Lieutenant Harrison Avery, of Pennsylvania. Only one other officer was listed as attached to the vessel, Lieutenant A. H. Bamberger. The collision occurred at 6.25 a. m., off buoy 3, in Limon Bay, which is at the eastern terminus of the Panama Canal.

The official dispatch to the department announcing the accident was the only one received up to a late hour today and in the absence of further details, officials here said they were unable to suggest the cause. The opinion was expressed, however, that contributory factors of weather, incorrect courses, or inaccurate interpretation of navigating signals would be found.

At the time of the accident, officers familiar with operations in canal waters said the tropical sun would have been well up and it was improbable that a collision could have occurred in the perfectly charted bay under ordinary conditions. If the O-5 was running submerged or "awash" regulations require that extreme caution be taken in selection of the place of submarine maneuvers in order that other craft may be avoided.

The O-5, although launched during the World war, was one of a class already considered practically obsolete and restricted to coast and harbor defence. Built at the Fore River shipbuilding company's plant at Quincy, Mass., in 1917. The submarine displaced slightly more than 520 tons and measured 176 feet in length with 18 feet beam. Her motive plant gave 14 knots on the surface and 10.5 submerged. Four torpedo tubes and a 3-inch gun comprised the offensive armament.

The crew, if complete at the time of the disaster, would have included three officers, three warrant officers and 34 men.

MULTITUDES PAY HOMAGE TO DR. C. P. STEINMETZ

Schenectady, N. Y., Oct. 28—For four hours this afternoon an unbroken line of people filed past the body of Dr. Charles Proteus Steinmetz, genius of electricity, as it lay in state in the flower-filled sitting room of his Schenectady home. Delegations from the city government, the college, the schools, the industries, and groups of children came to pay final homage.

It was only last Wednesday that Dr. Steinmetz' personal physician, hoping to keep the inventor quiet in bed that he might fully recuperate from the strain of a trip to the Pacific coast, told him that on Sunday afternoon he might "go down stairs." It was just this Sunday afternoon that Dr. Steinmetz did indeed "go down stairs" clad in the grey which has composed his habit for years and appearing in death quite as if he were only continuing his rest.

The room in which the casket was placed was filled with flowers, chiefly chrysanthemums. Conspicuous among them were orchids from Leroy Hayden and his family, the adopted "children" of the inventor. Another tribute of orchids came from a group of children in whom the inventor had been interested. A ribbon bore the inscription "To Daddy".

Private funeral services will be held in the home tomorrow afternoon and then the body will be borne to Vale cemetery for burial.

KLAN PARADE STOPPED; 244 PARADERS ARRESTED

Portsmouth, Ohio, Oct. 28.—The edict of Mayor William N. Gableman, against the Ku Klux Klan was enforced here this afternoon when police stopped a parade at alleged klansmen and arrested 244 of the paraders. Of this number 187 were fully garbed in klan regalia.

The paraders assembled in a local park and were marching to a church where they were to take part in the laying of a cornerstone when Chief of Police Joseph Distel with a squad of patrolmen, placed them under arrest and marched the entire procession to the police station. They were charged with having obstructed traffic and ordered to report for hearing in municipal court tomorrow. Most of the marchers were residents of nearby towns and villages.

While a crowd estimated at 10,000 gathered about the police station, someone set up a burning cross on adjoining school property.

Klan leaders had been denied permission yesterday to parade in regalia, according to Mayor Gableman, and fifty special police were sworn in.

Two youths, one of whom told police he was a member of the klan, were arrested tonight after police say they burned a fiery cross in the heart of the business district. Later, they were released to appear later in juvenile court.

MYSTERIOUS RIDE ENDED IN DEATH OF TWO MEN

Vineyard Havne, Mass., Oct. 28—Two men lying unconscious in the United States marine hospital here tonight hold the secret of a strange ride which ended when the trim 40 foot motor launch Vitesse, running wild, with one man unconscious at the wheel and another insensible in the engine room, beached itself on the north shore of Martha's Vineyard early today.

The launch, with its bow fast in the sand, near the estate of William M. Butler at West Tisbury, was discovered by Normal G. Benson, and companions today. Benson launched a boat and hailed the craft but received no response. He boarded her and discovered two men, one prostrate under the steering wheel where he had apparently collapsed; the other lying beside the engine in the engine room.

An address found in the clothing of the man under the wheel read: "Robert W. White, 2948 Washington street, Roxbury." A receipt was also found made out by the D. N. Kelley Company, Fair Haven, Mass., on October 3, last, to the launch Alpatha. The other man, who was elderly, bore no address or clue to his identity.

ELDERLY COUPLE WERE ASPHYXIATED IN PROVIDENCE

Providence, R. I., Oct. 28—The lifeless bodies of James J. Leanon, 78, and his wife, Mary, 76, were discovered in the sitting room of their tenement today with illuminating gas escaping freely from a tube which had become disconnected from a heater. The electric lights in the room were still burning. The medical examiner pronounced death due to accidental asphyxiation.

RELIGION OF RHYTHM FOUNDED IN NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 28—Dedicated to the religion of Rhythm, the church of the artists came into being today amid the colorful surroundings of a studio in Carnegie Hall.

Ultra modern dance movements accompanied the reading of the twenty-third psalm, by John Bovington, psychologist and musician who led the services, and who said his interpretation was inspired by the rhythmic mood. Music suggestive of the beat of a tom-tom was played, and the shoulders of the listeners swayed to the rythm and codenced words as a woman members of the congregation read a a sonnet to the sun.

"The object of the art church," Mr. Bovington told the handful of self-styled artists who attended the services, "is to express devotion and worship through the technique of art and to create in the participants the mastery of creative moods. In the service that will spring from this idea all the arts will be used—music, painting, dancing, acting. The result to be attained is a spiritual discipline that will give control of creative moods and organize this teachnique into disciplinary rythmic ritual."

Every artist interested in the psychology of moods was invited to attend the services by Mr. Bovington, who asserted that only the latest knowledge of psychology could provide the proper spiritual technique.

LINER LEVIATHAN IS BRINGING 1,140 IMMIGRANTS

Southampton, England, Oct. 28.—The transatlantic liner Leviathan, 24 hours after her arrival here, sailed again for New York in order to land 1,140 immigrants in time to bring them to American waters before the expiration of the November quota for their nationalities.

In turning about in this time for the westbound voyage, the Leviathan accomplished a feat never previously accomplished here. British steamship officials had declared it was not possible.

From the time of the arrival of the Leviathan to the hour of her departure, 1,500 men and women worked continually. They discharged 342 tons of cargo, 936 tons of water, 4,137 bags of mail and 682 passenger trunks, and took on board for the return voyage, 4,4939 tons of oil, 3,211 tons of fresh water, 22 tons of stores and 4,000 trunks of passengers. During a period of 24 hours 4300 pieces of linen were washed, dride and froned.

The Leviathan has on board 134 first class, 482 second class, and 3,140 third class passengers.

PINCHOT BLAMES MELLON FOR OUTPUT OF BREWERIES

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 28.—Governor Pinchot in a letter tonight to Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, placed the blame for what he termed the "breakdown of federal prohibition enforcement in Pennsylvania, upon the federal permit system. He declared Mr. Mellon, as secretary of the treasury has the power, by control of these permits, to make violations "substantially impossible."

The governor listed the names of several breweries in Pennsylvania, which he said violated the law prior to 1923 and which were granted permits to operate this year and of others whose federal permits he said have not been cancelled although they were caught this year by the state police.

TWO MEN WERE DROWNED WHEN BOAT CAPTSIZED

Mamaroneck, N. Y., Oct. 28.—Two men lost their lives today when a fishing boat capsized three miles off Mamaroneck Harbor. Charles Rowe, White Plains blacksmith, heavily dressed in oilskins, was drowned before help could reach him from a nearby motorboat. Ernest Balson, unable to swim, died from the effects of immersion, although Emanuel Mabane, a third member of the party, succeded in getting him to the motorboat.

RAILWAY COMMUNICATION TO BE RESUMED IN GREECE

Miss Mary Gorman, 56 Lawlor street, New Britain, was injured and many other occupants of an Overland six-cylinder touring car were badly shaken and cut by flying glass, when the machine overturned on the concrete pavement on Main street here, about 11:30 o'clock Sunday morning, after figuring in a collision with a Hudson coach driven by the owner, Louis Bonhermez of Union street, this city, at the junction of Main and Walnut streets.

The New Britain machine was being driven by Theodore Brondeau of that place and the other occupants were Miss Mary Gorman, Joseph M. Gorman, daughter and son respectively of the injured woman, and Stephen Baledys, all of New Britain. Broadbeau was severely cut about the head and face. Mrs. Gorman was taken into the Jordan Buick Co. garage and examined and from there she and Broadbeau were rushed to St. Joseph's hospital. Mrs. Gorman was found to have a broken nose, besides severe lacerations. Mr. Desormes had his two young sons and two other boys as passengers. All escaped injury.

Desormes was driving out of Walnut street and had crossed to the right of the main thoroughfare, headed east. The New Britain party was one of a score of automobile parties passing through this city en route to Providence, R. I., to witness the New Britain-Rather Makers' football game in that city, Sunday. The left of the Overland crashed with the right of the Hudson and the first car toppled over on its right side, coming to rest against the rear fender of a Buick sport touring car owned by C. R. Gregg of 121 Bridge street, this city, which was parked near the curbing. The Overland top, windshield and right fenders were demolished. The right front fender on the Hudson car was caved in. The rear fender on the Buick was bent to some extent. Desormes said that his machine was run into by the other party and they in turn contended that their car had been struck by that owned by the local man. A Willimantic woman and a man friend were witnesses of the accident and they placed the blame on Desormes. Chief of Police Allan MacArthur and Officer Edward Leahy investigated the affair and as no agreement could be reached, those concerned were notified to appear in the local police court this (Monday) morning. It is expected that Mrs. Gorman will be able to leave the hospital in a few days.

Fire of unknown origin broke out about 11 o'clock, Saturday night, in a summer house situated on the premises at the home of Mrs. D. A. Robinson, in North Windham. Neighbors were called and assisted in extinguishing the blaze. The cottage had not been occupied since Septem. The fire seemed to have started on or under the floor near the rear door and considerable damage was done to one room and the furniture, before the flames were got under control. The furniture was insured.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Jenkins of [illegible] Road, entertained friends and relatives Saturday evening at the [illegible] Taberin. Music was furnished by a three-piece orchestra, Clarence Vegiard, pianist; Ralph Brown, violinist, and F. Johnson, drummer. Sandwiches, coffee and punch was served by the hostess and round and square dances and games were enjoyed. The guests received Hallowe'en favors. The musical numbers were supplemented by a fine vocal solo by John Downes of Waterbury, and singing numbers by the orchestra and Albert J. Piche. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Downes, Waterbury; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Jenkins, Webster, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lasch, Jr., and Mrs. Henry Lasch, Dr. and Mrs. Henry Lasch, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Mullins and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Curtin, New Britain; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mullin, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Sullivan, Mrs. James J. Tighe, all of this city; Mrs. Charles M. Beecher, New Britain, and Misses Mabel E. Jenkins, Duxbury, Mass.; Gertrude J. Downes, Central Falls, R. I.; Mary Jenkins, Webster; Eleanor B. Moriarty, Miss Cathleen Colgan, Veronica Jenkins, Winifred C. Hewins, Alice G. Sweeney, Estelle Jenkins, Elizabeth Jenkins, Marie Adele Jenkins, Nora Booth, of New Britain; also Messrs. Ernest Post of Hyde, Thomas Mullin, Jr., G. Raymond Lowe, Gerard E. Leisel, Frank Herrin, of Willimantic; William E. Hughes, Putnam, and Harvey E. Taylor, Pawtucket, R. I.

With about $20,000 in appropriations to be voted upon, the special city meeting at the town hall Tuesday evening promises to be one of vital interest. The sum of $14,000 will be asked for to rebuild the municipal ice house which were destroyed by fire, August 27 last. The amount is to also cover the equipping of the house. The question of having the city handle ice through a municipal ice plant has been under discussion since the matter was first brought before the people of Willimantic Sept. 16, 1907.

Dorcas circle of the King's Daughters celebrated the birthday of its leader, Miss M. A. Burdick, with a surprise Hallowe'en social at the home of Mrs. J. M. Tracy Friday evening. The house was resplendent in orange and black decorations, while all manner of grotesque figures were placed about the rooms. The lights were screened in yellow and red. The members were met at the door by a terrifying witch, and as they came to the darkened hall above, a ghost stole out of the shadows and greeted them with a clammy handshake. This same ghost appeared to a man on the sidewalk and warned him within an inch of his life, he reported later, for he thought one of the Ku Klux Klan had come to get him. Another witch helped her sister witch tell fortunes and presided over a gypsy kettle. This kettle proved a source of great amusement as each member purchased an inexpensive surprise package, the proceeds in a wee gypsy kettle being given Miss Burdick as a part of the recent B sale receipts. Mrs. Ella Geer read a humorous story and a nut game tazed the wits of the members. Mrs. N. B. Parkhurst and Miss S. E. Adams were tied in cracking the most nuts, and Miss Burdick and Ethel Burdick in the smallest number. As the answers were vocal not written, a number guessed none. In the midst of the fun the ghost appeared, looking for the Queen B, while all the Busy Bs buzzed vigorously. She deposited in Miss Burdick's lap a box which contained a handsome bathrobe. Then each one read a birthday card, also others from absent members, showering the cards upon their beloved leader, whose words of thanks only half expressed her appreciation, she said. Then she led the party to the dining room, where pumpkin pie, doughnuts, cheese and coffee were served. The leader cut a birthday cake, Mrs. R. W. Robertson finding a ring, Miss Burdick a thimble, Mrs. A. W. Harris a button and Mrs. C. E. Spicer a coin. The witches, who were Misses Grace Olin and Mabel Wilcox, arranged this novel and delightful party, Mrs. Tracy assisting them. Mrs. W. R. Burdick and Miss Ethel Burdick of Mystic and Miss Clara Wood of Haverhill, Mass., were among the guests.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE-AWAKES

"FREE AS A BIRD."

"Free as a bird"! Would you like to be
Free as a bird on a blossoming tree?
Oh, well, you'd only have to work
Long hours, and not a moment shirk,
To get enough of food to keep Yourself in trim—their food's not cheap!
And when they have a house to build,
They're their own builders, tireless, skilled.
And how they hunt, at best top speed,
for the materials that they need!
Then, with a family calling, calling—
In fact, you well might term it squalling!—
They've overtime—no extra pay!—
From early dawn to close of day,
And get so shockingly thin themselves
They're smaller than their babes—poor elves!
And when in Autumn they're off and away,
'Tis an ancient law that they obey
Which speeds them on far journeying,
And will send them back again, next Spring.
"Free as a bird"! They're only free
To work, and love—like you and me!
—M. L. Upton.

IN A BYWAY.

In a byway, off the highway,
'Neath the woodland's leafy bowers,
Kissed by sun and wet by showers—
Fresh and green in pleasant May—
Holy hours, 'mid the flowers
In communion there with God.

In a byway, off the highway,
In a garden hand untrod—
Where the sweetest flowers open—
And the gayest songs resound
From the merry throated songsters
That in wooded realms abound.

For a byway, off the highway,
Where the noisy multitude
And the turmoil and dissension
Do not trouble or intrude,
Oft discloses sweet wild roses,
Or the pretty dogwood bloom,
And the fair arbutus trailing
O'er the cool and mossy ground—
Where the daisies border woodland,
And above, the sky and stars—
In a byway, off the highway,
In the great broad "out-of-doors."
—Ralph Richards King.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE-AWAKES.

To most boys and girls this earth we live on is about the largest thing imaginable but many of the heavenly bodies we see in the skies every clear night are a great deal larger than our earth. This seems hard to believe at first glance because, owing to their great distance from our earth they appear as tiny specks.

The sun, which is the source of all life and beauty on the earth, is really a star. It seems small to us as it passes through the heavens from east to west each day, but it is in reality a million times as large as our earth. Most of you no doubt know that the distance through the earth, or in other words, the diameter of the earth, is about 8,000 miles. Compared with the diameter of the sun the diameter of the earth is pretty small, as the diameter of the sun is about 865,000 miles. Our earth would look tiny if it were placed alongside the sun.

Sometimes under certain conditions gigantic red flames, large enough to shrivel up our earth if it were not so far away, can be seen shooting from the sun. As a matter of fact a mighty fire is blazing continually, day and night on the sun, and some of the flames that go dashing out into space measure more than 50,000 miles in length.

Were it not for the sun we would not be able to live on the earth. It gives us day and the heat to keep the earth warm and the light whereby we can see and appreciate the wonders of nature.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE-AWAKES.

A Silver Half Dollar.

Dear Uncle Jed: Out of the mint I came ready for the trip of life. To a bank I first went and was placed with many brothers and sisters. My happiness was short, for not long after I was taken by a merchant who came for money at the bank.

He roughly threw me in the till to be removed soon after and be deposited in an old shabby picketbook. Click went the purse and I found myself in darkness.

I started to take my first sleep when not many hours after I was dumped head over heels on a soverless table. I could not regain my balance and rolled off the table into a crack of the floor, but did not fall in very deep. I was picked up and turned over and over in a dirty hand.

To a poor woman I belonged. Soon she exchanged me in place of food, but my rest was not long, for bang went the money drawer and my companions were being taken out and others coming in continually. Soon my turn came. Into different hands I passed and was dropped in a pocket with other coins. The man kept walking as we knew because we were being knocked against each other until we were sore all over.

This ended after a while. The man put his hand into his pocket and drew out a handful of coins, I amongst them. He picked me out and gave me to his little boy, who dropped me in his bank. But as fate should have it, I was taken out to exchange owners once more. The boy held me in his hand as he entered. But out of his hand I flew and under the counter I rolled. They looked for me but I could not be found. Into a cosy corner I laid myself and dropped into an uninterrupted sleep to dream of bygone days.

ARTHUR J. MARCHESSEAULT,
Moosup. Age 14.

Disobeyed His Father

Dear Uncle Jed: Bobby stood by the unlit fire waiting for his father to return to light it. His first thought was, "I am four years old, and why can't I light it myself. What is there so harmful that I should not touch a match Paul lit one the other day and he is only five and nothing happened. So why shouldn't I?"

At last he made up his mind that he would and took a match from a box which his father had left nearby, thinking that Bobby would obey the warning he had given him.

Bobby struck the match on a stone. At first it nearly went out but soon it gave a clear bright light. He laid it near the paper and it began to burn. A spark, blown by the wind, caught on to his coat and began to burn it. After five minutes he began to feel warm and uncomfortable. His body seemed to be burning and he looked at his coat and saw a flame of fire coming from it. He gave a sharp cry and called for his father.

Coming back with some food and water, Bobby's father was nearly there when he heard Bobby's cry of fright and began to run, getting there just in time to pull his coat off and wrap it around his son.

Bobby was not seriously burned but he had learned a lesson which he never would forget. After this he was never disobedient to his father again.

Thought They Saw a Bear.

Dear Uncle Jed: Once I knew a man who said he was not afraid of any thing. One night he was at my house. It was very cold and the ice was about eight inches thick. He asked two boys, Jim and Tom who were living at my house to go skating. Grandpa told them that they might see a bear if they went. That man said he was not afraid of bears or anything. My uncle thought he would have a little fun and see if the man was afraid. He took a white sheep skin and put it around him and over his head. When they all got their skates on and were on the ice my uncle appeared in the bushes near the pond. The man and boys didn't stop to see what it was. They all left the pond and ran to the house with their skates on. When they got there they could hardly speak. They said they had seen a bear. We could not get one of them to go skating again that winter.

EARL M. KINMONTH, Age 10,
Norwich.

Caught Butterflies

Dear Uncle Jed: One afternoon I was invited up to my friend's house. We were sitting on the steps thinking how we were to spend our time. Just then a black and yellow butterfly flitted by. When we saw it lighting on a wild flower, we tried to catch it, but it flew and flew with us in pursuit. Finally it led us to a large meadow where there were a number of other various butterflies. We chased them all around until my friend had nine and I had seven. We kept them in a box planning to put alcohol on their wings to make them die. We were going to use alcohol on them because it doesn't make them suffer. We had them already to be killed, when we thought how cruel it was to kill them when they could be flying around from flower to flower. So we let them go.

BEATRICE KLINGMAN, Age 12.
Norwich.

A Story My Mother Told Me.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is a little story my mother tells me which the Wide-Awake children might like to read. Once there was a little boy who was awfully muddy. He threw his books on the floor, put his muddy shoes on the table and smeared his face with jam. There really was no end to his untidiness.

One day his tidy angel appeared to him and was shocked at his disorder. "This will never do. You must go out and stay with your brother."

"I have no brother," said the child.

"Yes, you have," said the angel. "You may not know him, but he will know you."

As he stepped out he met a squirrel. "Are you my brother?" said the child.

"Well, I should hope not," he said. "My fur is neat and smooth and my nest is well made. Why do you insult me by asking such a question?"

Then a bird came hopping by. "Are you my brother?"

"No, indeed. I am the tidiest person in the garden. Not a feather is out of place and my eggs are the wonder of all for smoothness and beauty," and he hopped away.

Presently a pig came trotting along. The child did not wish to ask the pig if he were his brother, but the pig did not wait to be asked.

"Hello, brother," he grunted.

"I'm not your brother."

"Yes, you are. Come, let's go and roll in the mud."

The child began to cry and ran home and promised he would be tidy and put his things away.

JOAN ROUSSEAU, Age 11.
Jewett City.

Pet and Her Kittens.

Dear Uncle Jed: I have a pet cat at home. Her name is Pet. One night when we were eating supper we had some string beans. She came to the table and Dora, my little sister, told mother she wanted some string beans. Mother took some string beans in her hand and put them down near the floor. Pet began eating the string beans.

Dora said: "Mother, let us name her Pet." Mother said "All right." Now one Saturday we were all away except papa. He was at home. When we arrived back Alice went up and saw Pet. Then in a minute she was back again. She asked mother why she didn't go up and see Pet. So mother and I went up to see her. Mother looked in the box and saw three little kittens. Mother went to the top of the stairs and called to Dora. She said, "Dora, come quick. I want to show you something." Dora said "What is it?" Mother said, "Come up and see." Dora said, "Kittens?" Mother said, "Yes, Dora."

Now they climb out of the box and play. One is all black and one is a pansy cat. We chloreformed the third one. They are fat. They can hardly walk. Their names are Beauty and Pansy.

GENEVA OLSSON, Age 8.
Danielson.

A Tire Swing.

Dear Uncle Jed: I wonder how many of the Wide-Awakes have a swing like mine. Mine consists of a long piece of rope tied around the outside of a tire which I think is called a shoe, although I don't know much about tires.

As a rule the ordinary swing goes one way, but mine goes up and down, round and round and back an forth.

I wear old clothes when I swing in it, because it gets your clothes all black, and I was given strict orders, that if I got my dress dirty I'd wash it myself.

Every once in a while the swing comes down (that is because I put it up myself), and I land on the hard planks, but I don't mind that.

I have a cardboard sign near it which I made myself. It says, "This swing not reliable. Swing at your own risk." There wasn't any need of my putting that sign up, because nobody swings on it anyway.

My friends all know where to find me, if I'm not coasting down the hill on my brother's wagon.

Next week I am going to remove my tire-swing into the cellar, because it is warm there.

DOROTHY HANSEN, Age 11.
Norwich.

Two Weeks at Beach Pond.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am only 9 years old and in the third grade. We have three rabbits, two white ones and a brown one, and three black cats. So we think we have enough animals.

I would like to write a letter to you and tell you of the nice time my brothers and I had at Beach pond this summer. It is a big pond and almost surrounded by woods and rocks. There is a very bad road from Voluntown over to the cottage. We took a walk one day over to Tippecan pond and a man that was spending the day with us got lost and wandered around for hours before he found the house, and he was used to hunting and the woods, too. We didn't get far away from home after that, as we were afraid. We had lots of fun in swimming. Father fixed two old tubes for us and we had more fun with them as we could all get on and they wouldn't sink. I nearly learned to swim by using one of these tubes.

We were two weeks at Beach pond, and I hope we can go again next summer. We didn't have to be dressed up and it was fun to play all day long and throw stones and go fishing, but we didn't catch many fish.

JAMES EDMUND INGALLS, Age 8.
Danielson.

Won Attendance Banner

Dear Uncle Jed: I am a pupil in the fourth grade of graded school. Last month we tried hard to come every day and we won the banner. Our teacher, Miss Woodworth, has been bringing our grade records to learn. These are the names of the records: Trovatore, written by Verdi; Sextette from Lucia, written by Donizetti; Humoresque, written by Dvorak; Spring Song, written by Mendelssohn. We colored a piece of wood-bine and we drew very nicely.

We have been trying to learn about famous people. We have been making posters of good health rules, and they are hung up in the room.

MILDRED SMITH, Age 9.
Danielson.

Visited Her Aunt

Dear Uncle Jed: I am a pupil in the Danielson school in the fourth grade. One Sunday I went to my aunt's house. We started in the morning and took our dinner with us. Before we got there we ate it. When we got there we had our pictures taken. Then we had our supper and fed the horse. After that I picked some flowers and then we went home.

EDNA ETHRIDGE, Age 9.
Danielson.

In Earlier Days.

Dear Uncle Jed: In early days people did not live as we do now. Their houses were built of limbs of trees, talls grasses and thick bark. They had no stoves, tables, beds or chairs and for a light they had only a rude fire on the dirt floor. The clothing was also different from ours, for it was made of skins and furs in winter and braided grass in summer. Instead of clothing being made by a steel needle it was made by a sharpened bone and the sinews of the deer were used for thread. When they needed food they went to the forest and gathered nuts, fruits and also meats. Wild animals were killed by bow and arrow.

Their meat was broiled over the fire or baked in a hole with live coals, but most of the time they ate it raw. These people we know are not civilized and there are many of them still living in different parts of the world.

FRED WHITEHEAD.
Baltic.

A Story Told by a Barn

Dear Uncle Jed: I am an old, old barn, and my end will soon come," said the barn to the hen. "Now I will tell you of my life. I was built on a hot day in June. After I was built I was filled with hay. Horses and cows were [illegible] of me. One day (it was summer) the tramp came [illegible] the night. The next day he brought his son and horse in. He stayed two or three days. Before he left he dropped a match which he had lit. Then he went away.

A flame sprang up and caught the hay. Before anyone knew it, I was burned to the ground. But my last words were: "I am glad the horses and cows escaped. This is the end of my life in being a barn."

FRANCIS SITKIN, Age 9.
Columbia.

My Kitten.

Dear Uncle Jed: I had a little kitten; it was as black as jet, not a colored spot on her. As she grew up we all became very fond of her. I had to cross a river by a rowboat to go to school. The kitten would follow me everywhere I went.

A friend liked her very much and offered me a nice big dog in exchange for her. So we exchanged. I would play tag and hide and go seek with him and he would find me. But one day I went out where I was afraid he would get hurt and when he started to follow me I told him to go home, and he was sensitive and went to his old home. Then I didn't have the dog or the kitten.

MELBA MONTY, Age 12.
Taftville.

Had Good Attendance Record.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am a little girl and I am in the fourth grade of the grammar school. We've had to move upstairs because the first grade was rather crowded.

Last month we had splendid attendance and won the banner. If we do not have as good attendance this month we will be very sorry to lose the banner.

Miss Woodworth, our teacher, has been bringing us good records to play on the Victrola. We are hearing these records to learn to appreciate good music.

We have been making posters for health and cleanliness.

JANE TYRRELL, Age 9.
Danielson.

A Story Told by a Squirrel.

Dear Uncle Jed: When I was small I stayed in the nest. When I grew bigger I went away. I went to look for nuts. I found some nuts. While I was picking nuts I heard a noise. I went as quickly as I could. I hid in a tall green tree. It was a big white cat after me. Later I went to look for nuts again and made a storehouse. When winter came a big gray squirrel came and tried to take the nuts away from me. I began to fight with him. We were just about to stop when a cat came and caught the gray squirrel because he was bigger and fatter than I. I never went to fight with any other squirrel. I had enough nuts for the winter. I was caught by a hunter. That was the end of me.

OTTO GERMON, Age 9.
Columbia.

Given Bible at Sunday School

Dear Uncle Jed: Last Sunday I got a Bible with the Lord's Prayer in it. It has a book mark, too. We are in fourth grade in Sunday school now. I got my diploma. We have to paste pictures in a book. I have a sister who is in the second grade in Sunday school.

ALBERT NYSTROM, Age 6.
Danielson.

Is Training Kitten.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am a pupil in the fourth grade of the graded school. I have a kitten named Tabby. He has short hair. When we feed him he sits upon his hind feet. He chases his tail. I am teaching him tricks. He is quite a smart cat now.

GEORGE SEAVER, Age 8.
Danielson.

Frightened by a Tree.

Dear Uncle Jed: One day I was walking in the woods and picking nuts. All of a sudden it grew dark. I intended to go right home. On my way home I caught sight of a tree which looked just like a man. It had two eyes and a long pointed nose and a very wide mouth. It also had two long hands ready to grab me. When I saw this I grew frightened and started to run home. When I came home I told my parents about the frightful looking man. My mother told me not to be so silly because it was only a tree. I could hardly eat my supper and when I went to bed I saw how foolish I had been, and at night I dreamed about it.

SYLVIA COHEN, Age 8.
Norwich.

Adventure of a Deer.

Dear Uncle Jed: Once there was a little deer. He went out all by himself. He was in the woods. He saw a hunter with a gun. He ran as fast as he could. He stopped and looked to see if he could see the hunter. The hunter was near him. So the little deer ran into a cave. There he saw a wolf. He ran as fast as he could. He ran until he got home. His mother asked him what he had been running for. He told his mother all about it. His mother told him he should not go out alone. If he did, he would be killed.

He said he did not care, so he went out. He was walking along grazing. Soon he heard a noise. He looked around but he could see nothing, so he began eating again. Soon the hunter killed him, and that was the end of the little deer.

MABEL PORTER.
Columbia.

A Trip to Mt. Tom.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am a pupil in the fourth grade of the graded school. I am going to tell you about my trip to Mount Tom. One pleasant day our party of ten got in an auto and rode to Mount Tom. After we had ridden for a long time we saw in the distance the building on Mount Tom. Very soon we came to the foot of the mountain, where we parked our cars. Then we walked over to where the trolleys started.

We got on the trolley and in about five minutes were at the top. As we walked along the board walk we looked down and saw a very pretty view. We looked around until noon. Then we went in the dining room and had dinner. After dinner we looked around some more. Then we took the trolley and went to the bottom of the mountain. We went a different way home. When we got home I said that it was the best trip I had ever had.

CHARLOTTE C. BACON, Age 8.
Danielson.

At the Fair.

Dear Uncle Jed: Friday my father took me to Manchester fair. I saw the merry-go-round. I saw two little ponies—one was black and the other was brown. I liked the black one the best.

There was a big wheel. There were seats on it. People could sit on the seats and the wheel would go around.

I had two hot dogs. I saw some Indians in the parade. The Indians sold baskets that the Indian women made. They were very pretty.

The Cat I Like.

Dear Uncle Jed: I had such a good time this summer that I forgot all about writing to you. I suppose you were very busy during the summer and had not a bit of time to go away. I have a beautiful cat. Its name is Beauty and it is very fond of outdoors and in. It is now getting very old and he always slipping off the chairs when it wants to lay down. It will find a chair where it is soft and warm. It is about one foot high and its length I could not exactly tell, but it is very wide. It was two years old last Dec. 30th. We had it two years this Christmas coming, and it never got away.

My Dog

Dear Uncle Jed: I have a dog and it is very nice. I trained it. I make it stand on its back legs. It is very big. It is black and yellow and white; it is very beautiful. It has big black shining eyes. I loved it until one day when we let it free it ran away and was lost. I was very sorry but my papa told me not to be sorry, that he would buy me another one.

I hope the Wideawakes will like my story.

Has Cat Named Snowball.

Dear Uncle Jed: At home I have a cat whose name is Snowball. We had two the same age.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Eggs—des oeufs—as they say on the shipping board vessels when they want to collect an extra heavy charge for an ordinary article of food—are getting into the luxury class out here in the country. They are 80 cents a dozen right in the coops, these late October days, and not so plentiful that an \argument will help any way in getting a lower price. You can take them at that price or leave them—with the prospect that they may hit 90 cents before the moon is full again. Eggs are eggs these days, and while the situation has not become so critical yet that one has to get a prescription from a physician in order to obtain a dozen legally, they are almost as scarce as hen's teeth and fully as difficult to find. This applies to strictly fresh eggs, not the kind that have spent a season in cold storage, or have been nursed along in water glass or by some other preservative method for half a season. The hens are not laying just now. That accounts for the high prices. It seems that hens have more than the two weeks' vacation arranged for the average human being each year and that when they are on their holiday they pay little attention to egg production. All of which may teach the average person that there are advantages in being an old hen, all the ravilling to the contrary notwithstanding.

The warden and his court of burgesses and some members of a committee from the Chamber of Commerce had a meeting at the week end and talked over the matter of better lighting arrangements for the business section. There was a free exchange of opinion on the proposal that would make Main street in the business section and adjoining parts of that thoroughfare a miniature white way. The net result of the conference appears to be an expression on the part of the borough officials that they are willing to have the voters pass upon the matter at a special borough meeting, if the borough officials are presented with a petition asking for such a meeting, which will be promptly called when the petition with the proper number of signatures is presented.

As has been previously pointed out in this column, the main stumbling block between the proposal of the Chamber of Commerce for better lighting in the business section and adjoining territory and realization of the project is the cost. More lights will mean more money for that street lighting service. The borough is now paying annually something in excess of $4,200 for its street lighting service. The proposed extra illumination will add, it is understood, between $900 and $1,000 yearly to this cost. Will the voters of the borough vote to expend this additional sum that Danielson as one of the important trading and industrial centers of this part of the state may look like a beacon light at night to those of all the countryside who would like to come here to do shopping and enjoy the borough's attractions? Only a test of voting can determine that. It was said in the annual town meeting recently, in the discussion of another proposal, that denying it would mean only ten cents per thousand dollars of assessed valuation of property, as measured in taxes, to those financially interested. The meeting finally rejected the speaker and voted not to use the money. The cost for the additional lights proposed might not be proportionally larger per thousand dollars of assessed valuation than in the other project, but one may not predict what the voters will do with it when it comes before them, no more than could be predicted in the case sighted. Likely, however, they will have their chance to vote in the near future and at the same time their opportunity to pass upon the matter of traffic regulations at the same meeting.

Preaching to a congregation in which the interest had increased, rather than diminished, during a week of special services, Rev. Charles Kirby, M. S., brought to a close at St. James' church Sunday evening one of the most successful missions held in years in St. James' church for the English-speaking members of the parish. The period was one of unusual devotion, religious inspiration and unusual opportunities of grace. It came directly after two weeks of exceptionally successful missions for the French-speaking congregations of the parish. Sunday afternoon many children were at the church with their parents to receive the blessing of the missionary. This (Monday) morning at 5.25 Father Kirby will be celebrant of a solemn high mass of requiem that will be celebrated for all the deceased members of the parish. Announcements at the church Sunday included the statement that next Thursday, the feast of All Saints, is a holy day of obligation and that there will be special masses. Friday, All Souls' day there also will be masses in which the dead of the parish will be remembered.

An additional item of expense above those that might have figured in the trip was assessed against Karl Humphrey, of Providence, when he was presented in the town court at the week end to answer to a charge of speeding while on his way in his car to see the Yale-Brown football game at New Haven. Humphrey was stepping on the gas over on the South Killingly road and en route for Danielson when State Officer Stephens apprehended him and ordered him into court. Humphrey paid a fine of $25 and costs, a total of $26.74. He was a good sport about it and merely remarked that it was lucky that he had gone to the bank for a roll before starting out on his trip.

Humphrey was one of scores of drivers of machines who came through Danielson en route for the game at New Haven. Many of them evidently were in a hurry and were driving too fast to be safe in the operation of their machines, but only one of them happened to be arrested, and it is presumed that all had a good time, or at least one may hope so.

Members of the Danielson Girls' club who were guests, with members of the Willimantic Girls' club, of the Girls' club at Rockville on a week end party had an unusually enjoyable time. The Rockville club entertained at a Hallowe'en social in honor of the Danielson and Willimantic clubs. The rooms were prettily decorated, witches and black cats figuring in the arrangements in hordes, and hgosts greeted the visitors as they registered. Hallowe'en stunts were featured in the delightful entertainment programme of the evening, a feature of which was dancing. A special surprise was the appearance of Mrs. A. F. S. Taylor, state president of Girls' clubs, and Miss E. S. Cain, the state secretary, "Daddy" Taylor, husband of Mrs. Taylor, also was present as a specially bidden guest. Mrs. Taylor addressed the girls during the coffee, doughnuts, cheese and apples were served. Members of the Danielson club who were in attendance were Miss Annie Gates, Miss Antoinette LaBonte, Miss Katherine Burns, Mrs. Hugh J. Garragher and Mrs. L. S. Ingalls.

PUTNAM

A new book from the pen of Frances Lester Warner (Mrs. Mayo D. Hersey) daughter of Judge and Mrs. Edgar M. Warner, South Main street, is about to go to the publishers. Mrs. Hersey, who, since her marriage, has lived in Pittsburgh, Pa., is the author of several books including "Endicot and I, Life's Minor Collisions, and others, written in collaboration with her sister, Miss Gertrude Warner of Putnam. She has also been a contributor to some of the leading periodicals of the country. Mrs. Hersey's new book is "Grouse and Couples."

An advance notice of the new book sent out by the publishers reads: "A collection of clever, delicate essays, alive with humor and rich with understanding, and through all are interspersed bits of narrative that hold together the varying adventures. As is Miss Warner's two earlier books of essays, the adventures are all within the intimacy of the family group, but here the sketches are drawn from the first year of married life. "Phineas" and certain delightful "in-laws" are most successful additions and complications to the charming circle in which we have been accustomed to watch this piquant young essayist disport herself.

"We go swimming, and alas sink; sail the boat that does not sail, struggle with guests and vices of the responsible, and life is very varied and very amusing and intensely worthwhile. A few of the titles will suggest the encounters: Family Laws and By-Laws, Supervised Suicide, Fire in the Eye, the Happy Clam, the Pittsburgh Owl, and Groups and Couples."

Frank Brogan, who gave his residence as Ballouville, for some years head canvas man of the Barnum and Bailey biggest shows on earth, left the little hill village, Friday afternoon with $50 in his jeans. He met a man near the railroad bridge in Putnam and traded a five spot for a bottle of liquor. He came to in the police station without a cent in his pockets. This was in substance the man's story in court, Saturday morning. Brogan was found taking a noonday siesta on the sidewalk on Front street. The noontime crowd saw the man peacefully sleeping and passed by. The police removed him to a cot in an iron cell in the municipal building where he remained until once more transported at the expense of the city, this time to the county jail at Brooklyn, for a period of 30 days.

Brogan, who is 63, said it was a hard to get a job. He agreed with the court that it might be the best thing for him to be locked up until he could straighten out.

The first moving picture service in a Putnam church was that of Sunday evening in the Congregational church, The Stream of Life, was the picture shown and the audience was much interested in the story, unfolding pathos, humor, and real life. No admission fee was charged but a collection was taken. The showing of the picture was the first in a series. The committee has been working for some time on a plan to hold such services and have quietly provided the motion picture machine and the paraphernalia necessary to a complete showing of the pictures to be booked. The machine is a type 3 motor-driven Simplex of the latest make. The booth is of heavy asbestos and meets the law's requirements. The screen is a "Dayite" screen with a silver service. The pictures to be shown are of a religious nature and include such as The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come, The Unfoldment, The Man Who Played God, The Power Within, The Passing if the Third Floor Back, and The Sky Pilot. Hymns, scripture and prayer were thrown upon the screen. The best community and patriotic songs are used for congregational singing. A talk is given by the minister in which salient point of the picture are brought out.

Never since the aboriginal Indians inhabited this section have the wilds of North Ashford been so alive with humans as they were Saturday night and well into the Sabbath morning. It was the annual back to nature night of the members of the Arcanum club. Counting real coon hunters, dogs and the club janitor the party numbered well toward 75, one hundred per cent. live ones. But as the members of the hunt drifted back to the city some of the effervescence and pep of the night before was missing, left behind in the big woods and swamps through miles of which the trailing members fought their way.

But, the details of the hunt will serve for a topic of discussion until next October rolls arsund and the anticipation of a coon supper is now the feature with those who made the venture.

Members met at the club rooms on South Main street at seven o'clock. At least this was the official hour set by Doc who picked the night and made arrangements to have the weather fine and the moon hanging cloudless in the sky. He carried out this part to the nth degree. The sky was there and so was the moon and the clouds were absent. Under this stage setting the party finally got away in ten or more automobiles, shortly after the appointed hour.

The car containing the commissary department bulged with food and drink. The machines with the dogs resounded with noise as the blooded animals were alive to the situation and knew what the night held in store. In the other cars there were thoughts of a hard night ahead and the more timid were evidencing a bravery they did not feel.

While members of the commissary department went to Zeke's where they were to prepare the midnight supper for those who were to follow the dogs, the real and the amateur hunters disembarked near Louis. It was only a few steps to the nearby woods and soon the hunt was on.

The hounds started off closely followed by the masters of the pack. Anonymities trailed in the rear. Farther and farther ahead sped the dogs. Off in the distance, it seemed as far as San Francisco to some of those who were getting their initiation in passing through woods and tangled underground by the light of the moon, a dog began to bark. Others of the pack picked up the yelp of their mate but on a different key. The hills echoed and re-echoed the sound. A member of the old coon hunter party was heard to say, "they have picked up a scent." Off went the party in pursuit. On and on they went and then the real work of procuring a coon supper became evident to the uninitiated. Stumbling and falling at times the tenderfoot pushed on wondering if the coon would stop when he reached the Pacific ocean. After what seemed days and days of travel over miles upon miles of ground the sound of the barking grew nearer. "They have treed him," said the real hunters. New life came to every member of the party at the thought of being in at the killing. The scratching undergrowth passed by unnoticed. The trickle of blood from scratches born anew was not felt. It was in at the death or die in the attempt!

In a clearing stood a sturdy oak. Under and about the veteran trunk pranced the several dogs, keeping up their everlasting yelping. "There he is" said an old coon hunter. Part of the amateurs looked aloft and could see a pair of glistening eyes. Others looked but saw not, but nevertheless admitted that they did. Some timid hunter asked if he had got to help chop the tree down. He knew that if he was relied upon to do his with an axe the coon was as safe as he would be tucked away beneath the ground.

Out stepped one of the younger old timers. He stripped off his coat and with revolver tucked in holster held in place by a leather belt, he gave one look at the tree and began to climb. Up and up he went until he reached the limb where the animal of delicate flesh and valuable fur was perched. Out he sprawled on the limb almost invisible at that great height. Breathlessly and with open mouths the amateurs waited beneath not knowing just what was to happen.

Up towards the sky the revolver barked; it barked again; down through the limbs came an object. It seemed minutes before it fell on the soft earth with a thud. No sooner had it struck the earth than the dogs were upon it. It had no chance. No more was that old coon to roam the wilds of North Ashford. He was doomed for the roasting pan and from there to beneath the belts of those gathered around. The first of the tragedy to the coon family was over. Nearly all were ready to return back to the traveled pathways. But off went the dogs again on another chase and there was nothing to do but for weary legs to follow as none but the old timers knew the way out and they had no thought of going that way with but one coon.

Meanhile over at Zeke's house the commissary department was setting the table. There was steaming hot coffee in the urn. The hands of the clock were both pointing upward and this was the time for the return of the hunters.

Off in the distance came a shout. "They are coming." In trooped the hunters. Some just dragged themselves through the door and dropped down unable to take another step. Some were snoring within the sixty seconds tick of the old fashioned clock. The old timers stripped off sweaters and outer garments. Their only criticism was that the hunt ended too early.

When the tables were spread His was renewed. All were refreshed and revigorated by the hot drink and the sandwiches et ceters. When the food disappeared, pipes, cigars and cigarettes were lighted. The hunt was discussed from all angles. One by one the automobiles started homeward but it was nearly daylight before the last members of the party rolled into the city and into bed.

HARRY HAVER, EX-ACTOR, DEAD FROM DRINK AND DOPE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, Oct. 28.—Missing since last Friday night, Harry Haver, 67, was found dead Sunday night when the door of his tenement in the Stone village at Grosvenordale, was broken in and an effort was made to locate him. Dr. E. I. Paine, medical examiner, viewed the body which was later removed to an undertaking room in this city.

Indications are that Haver died sometime during Friday night. Haver had been drinking heavily of late and taking ether and narcotics. For many years he was an actor, playing under the name of Harry DeMoming. He had been in and about North Grosvenordale for a number of years, for the greater part of that time on a farm near the village. His wife, from whom it was said he had separated about six months ago, was located at 9 Pearl street, Webster. Haver was a native of Marietta, Penn.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Bread Theatre.

Running the gamut of melodramatic thrills, The Eleventh Hour, adapted by William Fox from Lincoln J. Carter's stage success, will be the feature attraction at the Breed theatre today and Tuesday. This exciting production stars Charles Jones and Shirley Mason. In the supporting cast are June Elvidge and Alan Hale.

From every standpoint the screen version surpasses the legitimate presentation. The limitless expanse of development possessed by the screen gave Lincoln J. Carter new inspiration for more startling thrill-stunts.

One of the most striking and breath abating stunts effected in this production is the shooting of Charles Jones and Shirley Mason through the torpedo tubes of a submerged submarine. Equally amusing is Jones' battle with lions. There is much excitement provided by the daring of Miss Mason. She hangs over a huge vat of liquid iron to escape the unwelcome attentions of the prince. Her dive into the ocean from a high precipice is another hair-raiser.

Other pictures on the bill include the famous international race pictures between Papyrus and Zev and the Pathe news.

Palace Theatre.

Heading the programme at the Palace theatre this week will be an exceptionally clever act called Juvenile Follies. This act comes direct from New York city having played all the leading houses and is considered the cleverest juvenile act in vaudeville. There are eight people in the company. Clever singing, and dancing being part of their repertoire. In fact, it might be considered a miniature musical comedy company. This act comes highly recommended and we are very sure the Palace theatre patrons will be well pleased.

Another act on the bill is Al Noda, who styles himself as the one man vaudeville show. This act is full of humor and is put over in a clevey way.

The feature picture will be that famous stage success, Zaza, featuring Gloria Swanson.

When "Zaza," the great French play was produced in Paris some twenty-five years ago, and which was the starring vehicle for Madame Rejane, it was believed by many critics that it would be impossible for any American actress to portray that arduous role as artistically as the actress named, but these critics were in error as the evidence showed. The play was for many years a reigning success on the American stage with many notable actresses in the title role.

The picturisation of this charming play by Paramount with beautiful Gloria Swanson in the title role is said by many to be a far more powerful characterization than has ever been seen on the American stage or screen. In this splendid picturization, which will be shown at the Palace theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Miss Swanson relies entirely upon the power of pantomimic art in which the French always have been adepts, but those who have seen the great screen artist in her wonderful emotional interpretations, in which she has appeared for several years, will be the first to declare that Miss Swanson is the only American screen star who vests the role of "Zaza" with a power never heretofore witnessed in silent drama production.

A most amusing comedy and the Palace theatre news completes one of the best offerings of the season.

WILLEM VAN HOOGSTRATEN, who will conduct the Philharmonic Orchestra in the New London State Armory Tonight.

Pioneer Trails Feature at Strand.

An Indian attack on a prairie caravan is one of the big scenes in Pioneer Trails, a Vitagraph special production which will be shown at the Strand theatre today. David Smith, director of the picture, has reproduced in this sequence one of the more famous Indian massacres, preserving carefully every historical detail.

To insure that the attack be historically correct, Mr. Smith availed himself of the services of an old Indian scout, "Pop" King. King, who is 90 years old, is the sole survivor of a group that started to California in the gold rush of 1849. All the others were killed off during an Indian attack in which King, thought dead, was scalped. He was rescued later and brought back to health.

King made the trip when he was 17 years old. According to his story, the vanguard of the train hurried back to the main body when the Indians were discovered, evidently on the warpath. The defense was speedily formed by drawing up the carts into a circle. Boxes, trunks, bedding and other baggage were packed into the openings between wagons.

Hardly had the barricade been completed when they were surrounded by the fast riding, yelling Indians. After several hours' battle, practically every member of the party was either killed or wounded. The Indians broke through the ring.

King proved quite helpful in the making of the caravan scenes in Pioneer Trails. His knowledge and experience helped Mr. Smith in correctly portraying an Indian attack, which forms one of the most thrilling sequences ever made.

The old rifle used by King figures in the photoplay. King loaned it to Vitagraph. It is six feet two and one-quarter inches in length. It is a smooth bore, muzzle loading affair, taking a slug seven-sixteenths of an inch in diamater.

A new Monty Banks comedy, Paging Love, and a news weekly are the short subjects.

Vaudeville at the Broadway Theatre.

The Current of Fun, presenting Mlle. Burnell, the scientific enigma, is the feature B. F. Keith vaudeville attraction at the Broadway theatre the first half of this week, starting today. It is an act full of fun and a comprehensive scenic investiture lends appropriate atmosphere and enhances the the effect of this distinctly new departure in vaudeville.

Other acts are composed of Karl Gress, the unusual artist, in a series of landscapes in oil and transparent paintings.

Viola Rudell and Edward Dunigan in Musical Comedy Revuettes.

Harry Clifford and Sam Bailey, two dark spots of joy, offer the man with the talking feet.

Two young people are married. The man becomes insanely jealous of his wife and declares she is his to keep, that he will not share even her smiles with anyone else. This leads to endless complications, and the other man, a former suitor, comes into the story. How the husband receives a terrible lesson and wins back the almost lost love of his wife forms a compelling story—the story of Mine to Keep, a Ben Wilson production, coming to the Broadway theatre today, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Mr. Wilson personally directed this picture, which is presented by Samuel V. Grand. It is a story of rare quality, with plenty of thrills and a strong vein of comedy. But most of all it is human and vital and natural. There have been few pictures of domestic life more acute in their appeal than this one.

Bryant Washburn and Mabel Forrest have the leads; Wheeler Oakman is the heavy and there's a real all-star cast supporting. The settings are exceptionally good. Evelyn Campbell wrote and Arthur Statter adapted the picture.

Slater Hall Musical Course.

Jeanne Gordon, the leading contralto of the Metropolitan Opera company, will appear for the opening concert of the Slater hall musical course for 1923-24 in Slater hall on Friday evening, Nov. 2d.

George Roberts, the accompanying pianist, will be her exclusive accompanist. Tickets for this concert will be on sale at the Cranston Co., Broadway, on Tuesday, Oct. 30th. Tickets $2.50, tax exempt.

MAKE HOSPITAL CAMPAIGN A SUCCESS.

Norwich has now reached the closing day of the campaign in behalf of the "$50,000 and more" for the Backus hospital nurses' home and endowment fund. Likewise it is a critical point in the campaign if the goal is to be reached.

When the executive committee states that it is holding back no large subscriptions, that it has no surprises up its sleeve, that it is in need of $40,000 to be raised, or pledged, today to send the fund over the top, it means that there remains a considerable sum to be raised, but it should likewise mean that the people of Norwich and vicinity are unwilling that failure in any way should be attached to such an excellent cause.

Whatever is worth doing is worth doing well. Most certainly Norwich and the surrounding towns need the advantages of an up-to-date and efficient hospital.

It has been pointed out through the financial statement of the institution that most commendable endeavors have been made to maintain a 100 per cent hospital service upon revenue that amounts to little more than 50 per cent of the requirements.

It has also been conclusively shown that the hospital is lacking in proper accommodations for the nurses, upon whom great responsibility rests, not only in efficient nursing at the institution but in the homes of Norwich and vicinity. The demand for nurses is frequently greater than the supply and it is to the hospital training school that we must look for the supply. Inadequate accommodations place a serious handicap upon the training and turning out of nurses.

Norwich as a community is vitally interested in maintaining the Backus hospital so that it can render the service expected of it.

Surrounding towns must realize the dependence which is placed upon the efficient hospital near at home.

The way is now open to make certain of that great community need through a generous contributions, through memorials and through pledges.

Norwich has an enviable record in doing big things. Make this campaign close with SUCCESS rather than failure.

Remember it is one great big humanitarian effort that concerns all.

EXTENDING THE LIMIT.

There's many a slip twixt the cup and the lip and such may prove to be the case in connection with the twelve-mile limit arrangement between this country and Great Britain. Nevertheless progress that was believed to be impossible is being made.

There were those who were positive that an amendment in behalf of prohibition could not be attached to the Constitution of this country. There was an embarrassing awakening for such, and the same may be true relative to the agreement concerning the twelve-mile limit for the search of vessels for liquor by this country in connection with the enforcement of the dry law.

Reliance had been placed upon the belief that Great Britain would never agree to any change of the three-mile limit. It was not asked to except in regard to search for liquor, and even then there was a counter proposition that meant much to the British steamship lines. Unable to bring liquor into the ports of this country for use on the return trip of the British and other foreign ships, the foreign ships have experienced a handicap in catering to the passengers who desire liquor in waters where they have a perfect right to sell it. The only alternate is to violate the laws of this country, unless there can be some understanding whereby each country gets an advantage—the United States in fighting the smugglers of liquor and the British in selling liquor on their ships.

Apparently the British have been convinced of the wisdom of such an agreement. That it will be completed in treaty form seems probable, though that must await action of congress is indicated. For some time the need of checking the large amount of liquor smuggling has been recognized. Likewise the handicaps in such a direction have not been unobserved. Whether the twelve-mile limit will put an end to it, or make it possible to fight it more successfully, remains to be seen. It is nevertheless a step in that direction that has been taken though its completion and the result of the move may yet encounter plenty of obstacles.

FRANCE ACCEPTS.

When Secretary Hughes replied to Lord Curzon he reiterated his previous proposal concerning the appointment of an international commission for the purpose of studying the conditions in Germany and its capacity to pay. He stressed the point that the United States was willing to participate if there was unanimous agreement to the idea.

In view of what had happened before it was clearly a case of putting the possibilities of getting such a commission squarely up to France, for assault on France has balked at the idea before. Much water has gone over the dam since Poincare refused to participate when the Hughes plan was put forward. France has had its experience in the Ruhr and the reparations situation remains practically the same. Conditions in Germany have been going from bad to worse through German encouragement, and Germany of course continues to maintain that it is unable to pay.

Premier Poincare thus views the situation through different eyes. He isn't willing to admit that the German debts should be cut. Naturally he hasn't changed his views concerning that country and the fact that it should pay. He is, however, willing to give the proposed commission a chance to see what it can do and if it can disclose anything that will hasten an adjustment. France thus consents to the naming of an international commission by the reparations commission to serve in an advisory capacity, and the fact that the United States is willing to participate has unquestionably had its good effect.

In the several communications it may appear that there is a difference in what France has consented to and an economic conference, thought that may be no serious obstacle. No one knows what the experts favored by France will advise. That such a commission will be selected indicates an effort to get together among the allied nations that is in itself a good sign. It isn't pledged that its advice will be accepted. No one knows what it will find or what it will report, and judgment on the result must wait until there is something on which to base an opinion as to the future view of any of the countries.

For the present the fact that France accepts is important.

KELLOGG FOR AMBASSADOR.

The post of ambassador to the court of St. James is an important one. It calls for a person who is thoroughly in touch with the administration, well versed in international law and thoroughly informed in foreign affairs.

In the naming of ex-Senator Frank B. Kellogg of Minnesota to that position these matters have been taken into consideration. It is not to be regarded as a political move, any more than it would have been had the reported choice of ex-Senator Elihu Root been correct. Perhaps it would have been possible to have avoided political opposition from those who refused to return Senator Kellogg to his seat from Minnesota had someone else been named.

It was the man who was being selected, rather than the political effect that was uppermost. A man of ability, a distinguished lawyer, his service on the foreign relations committee in the upper house of congress all served to emphasize his fitness as the representative of this government and this administration. He inspired the utmost confidence in the late chief executive and the one now at the helm is faithfully devoting his efforts to sound principles if in selecting the former senator from Minnesota, he is carrying out what is believed would have been done had President Harding lived.

In keeping with others who have rendered signal service at London the next diplomatic representative can be relied upon to measure up to his responsibilities.

CHARLES P. STEINMETZ.

Not only has the great electrical concern of which he was consulting engineer lost a great man, the like of whom it will probably never obtain, but electrical science in general has lost the services of a leader in the death of Charles P. Steinmetz.

Steinmetz was a worker. That was his life. He was happiest when plugging away in his laboratory upon some intricate problem. Valuable though he was it was not the pay envelope that was constantly in his mind. He derived his recompense to a great degree from such success as he was able to attain. It may be a revelation to those who did not know him when it is declared that he left nothing. To those who were close in touch with him and those who knew that he drew upon his employers only such funds as he actually needed has there come the real appreciation of what the services of such a man meant.

Steinmetz was a student from boyhood. Coming to this country under adverse conditions he struggled along persistently but nevertheless out of sight until he became associated with those who could give range to his genius. Few have experienced much poorer physical equipment, fewer have had less auspicious beginnings and yet there are few who have risen to greater heights in scientific endeavor. His life is the great example of what can be done by persistency and of how handicaps can be surmounted if there is real merit. Steinmetz has made his mark and Steinmetz will be greatly missed.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

For dishcloths a soft spongy, rough weave material is best.

Painted floors should be wiped up with clear soapless water.

Curtains of gold or silver meshed marquisettes and voiles are very popular at this time.

Furnace heat can be softened by hanging a wet sponge in front of the register.

Scraps of soap dissolved in a jar of water makes a solution that is better than cake soap for dishwashing.

It is economy to buy a carving knife bread knife and small vegetable knife of good steel that will take a good edge.

Label the drawers that hold your miscellaneous articles so that instead of rummaging through them, you may consult your index.

A good duster is made by wringing a soft cloth out of very hot water, and shaking it out to steam before using it. It should be wrung as dry as possible.

The can opener, cleaver, egg beater and bread knife should always be hung within reach of the kitchen table or the cabinet, if you use that to prepare your food on.

The kitchen, where a woman must spend so much of her time, should be cheerful and attractive, and hence light tones of green, tan or blue make the most attractive woodwork.

Before chopping suet, melt it in the oven, strain and let it get cold. It is more easily chopped and waste is prevented.

Lacquered ware may be washed with a soft cloth or sponge that has been wrung nearly dry out of warm soap suds. It should be rinsed with cold water and polished with a dry cloth.

SOFT-WOOD FLOORS

Stained soft wood floors which show worn places should be touched up with the same stain and the whole should then be varnished with some first-class wood varnish. The varnish should be renewed at intervals in the places subjected to most wear, but if the floor had been so long neglected that not only the varnish, but also the stain, is worn through and must be patched a fresh coat of varnish over the whole floor will do something to hide the junction of the new and old stain and add to its appearance and durability.

CARE OF INK STAINS

If ink is spilled on a carpet or rug run for the salt bag and put on salt, renewing it as fast as the ink is absorbed. Where this is done promptly and plenty of fresh salt is used it is frequently so effective that no ink spot whatever remains.

Ink stains on leather may be removed by several applications of a weak solution of oxalic acid. This should be painted over the stain and, after a few minutes be wiped off. When thoroughly dry repeat the process.

WILL CLEAN SAUCEPAN

Never put soda and water into an enameled saucepan that has been burned. This will remove the burn, but it will also make the saucepan likely to burn again the next time it is used. Use salt instead of soda. Fill the pan with cold water, leave till the next day, then slowly bring to a boil. The pan will be quite clean and there will be no bad effects.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Mix together one gill of lime water and one gill of sweet oil and keep it in the kitchen to apply for burns.

Lavender water, or, indeed, a few drops of any good strong perfume give a more strongly scented bath than ordinary bath salts. Pine is perhaps one of the most invigorating fragrances for this purpose.

Oatmeal in muslin bags, squeezed into the water, is very good for the bath.

If a chill is feared and a warm bath prescribed as a preliminary to bed with hot drinks and water bottles, the shower should of course, be dispensed with, and warmed bath towels for the rub down substituted

If you want a real sea bath salt, and can't buy the bags of sea salt, buy the following—sulphate of potassium half a drachm, sulphate of sodium, one and one-half ounces, sulphate of magnesium, one ounce, Chloride of magnesium, three drachms, chloride of calcium, one ounce, chloride of sodium, half a pound. Sounds complicated, doesn't it, but it isn't. This is enough for two baths and its cleansing, stimulating and healing to tender spots on the skin.

PROTEIN FOODS

Each day it is necessary to furnish in the diet protein in sufficient amount and of the right kind to build and repair the muscular tissue of the body. Meat, poultry, game fish and other seafoods, eggs, milk and cheese, peanuts, and soy beans are represented of the foods that furnish sufficient protein. With two quarts of milk a day, not more than two pounds of these other protein foods are needed daily by the average family.

FOR BABY'S CARRIAGE

When baby is taken out for the daily airing a carriage clamp is quite an indispensable accessory and, if attractively made of pink or blue satin ribbon, will be just as decorative as it is useful. A piece of elastic about one and a half inches wide, covered with shirred ribbon and finished at either end with bows, will serve admirably as a carriage clamp. Rattles, rubber balls or any other toys the baby likes to play with may be attached to the elastic by loops of narrower ribbon. Likewise a pretty carriage strap may be created effectively with the use of ribbon three-quarters of an inch wide on the outside of the strap and plain shirred ribbon on the inside with bows and streamers at both ends, will make a delightful addition to the most exquisite layette.

TO REMOVE CINDER FROM EYES

How many vacations have been spoiled by an annoying piece of grit or cinder that somehow or other finds its way into the eye. Two plans for dealing with the trouble should be widely known. In most cases the speck can be removed by lifting the upper eyelid and brushing the fringe of hairs on the lower lid upward. If this process is repeated several times the irritating substance nearly always disappears. Should this means fail, however, and a second person can be called in to help, try the following method: Place a lead pencil on the eyelid, and by rolling it round the under side of the lid is brought into view. Then the small speck is seen and can be removed by a handkerchief. You can perform this operation alone in front of a mirror. After removing the cinder or other grit the eye will still feel uncomfortable. To remedy this bathe the eye with a little milk and water.

DICTATES OF FASHION

When cooler weather sets in, twills will gain in favor—especially in simple tailored designs.

A new embroidery combines silk cross-stitching with steel beads. The design is edged with beads.

Black and navy will be called for generally, this coming season, while brown will be a favorite color with many.

A fichu of tinted lace and a train that may be looped up at the side characterizes one of the new hostess gowns.

The new sport coats are of polo cloth and fleeces. The color is usually gray or tan, with stripes or plaids in a darker tone, or in a contrasting color.

Dark satins for immediate street wear are in demand nowadays. The models are generally simple, the only embellishments being pleats, flounces or tiers on the skirts.

One of the novel treatments of the popular skirt is to place them on the skirt in crescent fashion. One point is at the girdle, the other sweeps round to the hem.

Carpets and shawls are very popular for evening wear. Besides the colorful embroidered Spanish shawls are those of lace and brocaded fabric or of plain colors with long fringes.

A gown of bright tomato red chiffon is closely pleated and trimmed with white bands of ecru lace which form the front panel, collars and cuffs.

A band of blue or rose velvet, trimmed all round with tiny rosebuds of silver picoted ribbon is charming as a neckband for an afternoon frock.

Mother of pearl is a lovely, old-fashioned thing coming back again into style. It is met most frequently today in the form of spangles, with which various costumes are decorated. It makes beautiful bracelets also.

A BRIDESMAID GOWN

The problem of the bridesmaid frock is often rather a serious one. A frock that is a "one time only" affair is for most girls an extravagance, and the thoughtful bride will plan the gowns of her bridesmaids so that they may be worn afterwards either as afternoon dresses or for evening.

The fashions for young girls are so picturesque at the moment that it is not a difficult matter to choose a model that may later serve for a dancing frock. Wide-skirted frocks of faille or taffeta make lovely evening dresses, while the youthful charm of a frock of shaded chiffon is undeniable.

Once more net has a place in the list of fashionable fabrics and frocks recently designed for the attendants of a prominent society bride could easily be copied either for bridesmaid dresses or for dance frocks.

A NOVELTY SET

A collar and cuff set is made of orange faille ribbon having a picot chiffon edge. The ribbon is merely laid in pleats in a straight row and finished in the center front with the modish long, black ribbon ties for the collar. The cuffs are treated in the same manner. These are detachable and may be used on any appropriate costume.

FOR UTILITY BAG

Women used to spend hours embroidering designs on laundry bags, shopping bags and the many other utility bags that need a design to dress them up. It takes less time and the result is more effective if a cut-out from cretonne or silk is attached to the bag with a drop of liquid glue. Raw edges may be covered with narrow ribbon.

LAUNDRY HINTS

Use bluing that dissolves in the water and it will not leave streaks on your clothing.

Bran may be used in place of soap for washing cretonnes.

A little borax should be added to the water in which sateen or any other cotton material with a glossy finish is rinsed it will help to retain the shiny surface.

Never use yellow soap for washing flannels because it contains resin that is hard on wool. Rubbing flannel thickens and hardens it. The temperature for rinsing and washing should be the same.

Starch rots lace curtains and should not be used. Use gum arabic instead. Dissolve one ounce of gum arabic in one-half pint of boiling water, strain and bottle, keeping it well corked. When using add a dessertspoonful to a pint of cold water.

FINE CLEANING HINTS

Finger-marks on painted doors should be removed with a soft flannel wrung out in water in which a few drops of ammonia have been mixed and then rubbed with soap. Having removed the stains the paint should be washed with clean water and thoroughly dried.

Try oatmeal for cleaning white paint. Dip a damp cloth in the oatmeal and rub the paint well over with this. Then wipe with a clean damp cloth and polish with a clean duster. Oatmeal is especially effective for removing finger marks from doors.

To whiten wooden floors add two tablespoons of kerosene to the hot soapy water used for the purpose. It will cleanse the boards, and will also destroy any insects that may be lurking in the cracks of the wood.

CLEANING VARNISHED PAINT

It is a great mistake to attempt to clean varnished paint or enamel with soap or with soda and water. This makes the varnish dull, and it may even cause it to peel away from the wood. A far better plan is to use a solution prepared with tea leaves. Collect the leaves for several days and then put them in a pan. Pour hot water over them and allow them to soak for ten minutes. Use the liquid cold for washing over the varnished surface. Finally dry and polish with a soft cloth.

A BOUDOIR ACCESSORY

A dainty powder box and puff, which also forms the lid to the box, may be made of orchid taffeta and green satin ribbons, employing the baby ribbon for the shirred motifs. The powder puff should be covered with taffeta, and edged with green ruffle and deborated with ribbon flowers. A handle may be made by wrapping a pencil with a ribbon, attaching it to the puff with liquid glue. Ribbons put on with glue or china cement ornament an old round cardboard box, which holds the powder.

FOR THE LINEN CLOSET

Dainty little sachet bags for the linen closet or bureau drawer can be quickly made by taking a Japanese napkin or any crinkly paper, wrapping it round a small roll of batting scented with lavender, orris root, or any scent desired, then tying it up at the ends with ribbon, leaving the fluffy ends sticking out.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Nine States have women State superintendents of education.

Pennsylvania has more women in its Legislature than any other of the States.

Mrs. A. A. Loach of Atlanta, is the proprietor and active head of a large concern devoted to the manufacture of sawmill machinery

The Florida State College for Women at Tallahasse owns 369 acres of land and has buildings valued at more than $1,000,000.

American and British manufacturers export large quantities of rubber hot-water bottles to Northern China, where the Chinese women use them during the cold winter months to keep their hands warm when out of doors.

Miss Caroline Nunder of New York has the distinction of being one of the most widely known designers in America. At the age of 20 she is said to enjoy an income of, nearly $50,000 a year from her work.

TO PRESERVE RUBBER

Articles of rubber should be kept in a cool, dark place. Where two surfaces of rubber are likely to stick together they should be wiped dry and dusted with talcum powder.

PROTECTS BRASS

Wipe brass bedsteads and gilt chandeliers with lemon oil or some other very thin oil. It will prevent the shellac from hardening and cracking.

RECIPES

Oyster Kabobs:—Put into a stewpan one small chopped onion and one tablespoonful of butter. Cook the onion until it is yellow. Add one tablespoonful of flour, a few chopped mushrooms, one teaspoonful of chopped parsley, and enough of the yolk of eggs to make the mixture stick to the oysters when they are rolled in it. Put half a dozen oysters on a skewer. Dip the skewer first into the egg mixture, then into fine bread crumbs, and then into the egg mixture again, until the oysters are well covered; then fry in deep fat. Serve half a dozen oysters to each person.

Green Tomato Sauce:—Slice four pounds of green tomatoes, place in a deep dish and sprinkle each layer with salt and a very little water. Leave for two days. Drain and scald in boiling water. Place in an enameled saucepan, with just enough water added to keep from burning, and simmer gently for one hour. Take enough vinegar to cover the tomatoes and for each pint required allow one-fourth ounce each of powdered allspice, cloves and mace, two ounces of moist sugar, one teaspoonful of mustard seed and a small onion sliced. Mix these with the tomatoes and boil for five minutes longer. Pour into jars and when cold seal and cover securely.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Where Attention is Needed.

Mr. Editor: Will you kindly grant me a little space in your valuable morning paper? The item appearing in your paper Saturday morning, Oct. 27, in regard to the suit brought against the Groton school district, prompts me to remark on the condition of the little plot of ground and the fence (?) bordering on Chestnut street, directly back of the Broadway school building. This fence right in the heart of the city (if it is on Chestnut street) seems to me, is not only a roseburg on "The Rose of New England," but is extremely dangerous as well. Although not set aside for a playground, it is nevertheless used as a playground by various boys, mostly outside of school hours. A few dollars spent in cleaning up underbrush and building a new fence would not only make Chestnut street look much nicer, but might possibly save a much greater expense, through preventing some accident which might occur through the existing neglected condition.

I am particularly interested in this fence (?) and its immediate background, because I live right along side of it, and am as fond of seeing things look good, as I would be if I lived on Broadway.

Hoping the proper authorities will do something to beautify this place, a thing easily done, I am in all sincerity.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Henry S. Graves, who has been named provost of Yale university, is dean of the Forestry school at that institution, and a former chief of the forestry service of the United States. He is an Ohioan, with a Yale A. B., who studied forestry at Harvard university and at the University of Munich. In 1900, after completing his professional training, he was appointed to take charge of the forestry department at Yale. Ten years later he was chosen by President Taft to succeed Gifford Pinchot as chief forester of the United States. During the war he was commissioned a major in the corps of engineers and was sent to France to direct the work of the forestry troops. In 1920 he resigned as chief of the forestry service and two years later resumed the position of dean of the Yale School of Forestry. In the course of his professional career many honors and responsible duties have come to him from European as well as from American organizations specializing in forestry and in conservation of natural resources.

Stories That Recall Others

Thought It a Funeral.

Helen is a little girl from a small town. Waiting at the corner for a chance to get across the street when the traffic was the heaviest, she was impressed with the large number of automobiles passing.

"My goodness, mother," she said, "there must be a funeral in town today."

How it Appeared to the Neighbor.

A householder was disturbed recently at night by a noise in the areaway between his home and that of his neighbor. His revolver had been so effectively hidden away from the children that he could not find it, so he obtained a broom handle and started to investigate.

As he neared the rear of the house he could barely discern the outlines of a man. Carefully maneuvering, he approached the figure and let the broom handle come down with full force. The blow aroused the prowler to an unbelievable capacity for speed and he vanished down a dark street.

A few minutes later the householder and his wife were standing on the front porch considering the advisability of calling the police, when to their amazement, their next door neighbor joined them, considerably out of breath.

"I heard a noise in the areaway," puffed the neighbor, "and I went to see what it was. A burglar hit me with a piece of iron pipe and I made a grab for him, but he got away. I just came from chasing him down the street."

CHILD TRAINING

Teaching Our Boys and Girls How to Accept Responsibility.

By Helen Gregg Green.

"I don't understand Aileen! She is positively lazy about the house," complained Aileen's mother. "She'd let me wait on her hand and foot, if I'd do it. And I guess I nearly do."

"My dear," spluttered Aunt Emmy Lou, "I can explain the case. You started wrong with Aileen. When she was a wee girl you were always doing things for her. 'Wait dear, it's raining. Let mother get your overshoes and umbrella. If you asked her to dry the dishes, and she wanted to play instead, you would say, 'Run along, dear, mother will do them!' Yes, you were Aileen's servant. There's no doubt about that."

The mother winced. "Oh, surely—"

"Yes, it's true!" Aunt Emmy Lou interrupted. "I believe in being a child's aid, friend and mother, but never his servant. No wonder Aileen is lazy now. You've taught her to be, encouraged it!"

"Oh, Aunt Emmy Lou, don't be cross with me," Virginia smiled. "But I guess you're right. I never thought of her laziness being my fault before. Why does it take us so long to wake up? From now on, I'll have a different system with my little girl."

But she was just twelve years too late beginning the proper "system."

It's not a kindness to a child to do the hundred and one little things that he should be taught to do for himself. We must teach our children initiative, and to this they must have little responsibilities of their own. As they grow older these may be increased so that they will gradually become more efficient and better able to face the responsibilities of life.

One of the most unhappy girls I know is one who had a great deal of responsibility thrust upon her when she was wholly unprepared for it. Of course she was not equal to it. Her parents had shielded her all her life from the responsibilities she should have had. Even very small children should be given a small amount of responsibility; first in homeopathic doses, to be increased as the child grows older. Then in time he will be able to accept all that comes his way in a capable, experienced manner.

It's a wise woman who knows just when to stop talking and turn on the flow of briny tears.

A Heaping Measure of Pleasure—with the Gulbransen

PICTURE a beautiful Gulbransen in your home, and you playing it!

Picture yourself playing, through the pedals, with the "touch" of a musician!

Picture the keys being pressed down, as in hand playing!

Pressed down, not knocked down. There's one of the secrets of Gulbransen superiority. It removes all suggestion of the mechanical and gives you real, intimate, personally-produced music, full of genuine expression.

Because the Gulbransen is a Registering Piano, registering your exact touch and expression—because it is different from any player-piano you have ever known—because it is so remarkably easy to pedal—your first delight will develop into continued, year-after-year interest.

End Corns

The simplest way to end a corn is Blue-jay. Stops the pain instantly. Then the corn loosens and comes out. Made in clear liquid and in thin plasters. The action is the same.

TROLLEY JUMPS TRACKS AT OCCUM
DOZEN PASSENGERS SLIGHTLY HURT

A dozen passengers, most of them Taftville and Norwich people, were badly shaken up about 6.15 o'clock Sunday evening when the Willimantic trolley car which left Occum at 5.10, southbound, jumped the tracks at Occum flats. Dr. George Thompson of Taftville and Dr. John W. Callahan of this city responded to a hurry call for medical assistance. Practically all of those reported injured suffered only a bad shaking up and shock.

Among those reported injured were Mr. and Mrs. Barberich of Norwich, Jay Ricketta of Prospect street, slight cut on hand, Mrs. Gogang of Merchants' avenue, Taftville, Leon Meilleur and Mrs. David O'Brien of Taftville.

The car, No. 103, which was in charge of Conductor W. J. Cote and Moterman John Ames, was just pulling out of Occum and was making the sharp turn at the southern end of the village when all wheels left the slippery rails. The car plowed through the soft roadbed and after knocking down a pole came to a stop with the front end headed for the ditch. The car tilted considerably and might have turned over on its side had it not been for the pole, which was an old one and not in use. There were 23 passengers on the car. One of the windows was smashed by an excited passenger. No damage was done to the rails or ties.

The track was blocked for the remainder of the night and passengers were transferred around the wrecked car. A wrecking crew was soon on the job, but it was well into the morning before the line was cleared up.

WOMAN'S LEG BROKEN IN TAFTVILLE COLLISION

The Buick roadster driven by R. J. Holm of 11 Huntington avenue, Norwich was run into head-on at the trolley cross-over at Taftville Sunday night about 7 o'clock by a Ford truck driven by Albert H. Labarre, and Mrs. Eliza Barry of 89 Durfey street received a broken thigh bone when she was thrown off the seat of the truck.

State police officers who investigated the accident took up Labarre's driver's license, charging him with reckless driving. Officers Nielson and Schoffen arrived soon after the accident and took the statements of the drivers.

Holm was driving toward the city and Labarre was going in the opposite direction, toward his home on Hunter's avenue. As Holm came to the cross-over and had cleared the southbound trolley track, the Labarre truck crashed into his car as it reached the northbound track. The machines came to a dead stop on the trolley track with their forward ends meshed together, headlight to headlight. They blocked that line of track for several hours until they were moved off by wreckers.

Dr. E. J. Brophy, who was called, had Mrs. Barry taken to the Backus hospital in the ambulance and treated another woman passenger in the truck who was bruised and cut.

The Labarre truck was said to have been traveling fast and, according to Mr. Holm's statement, was wobbling over the road before it hit his car.

One front wheel on the truck was crushed, the running gear and axles twisted and bent, the radiator was jammed back against the engine, the steering wheel and windshield broken. Mr. Holm's machine had both front axles bent, but apparently was not much damaged otherwise.

MRS. B. P. BISHOP TO RECEIVE AT MAYFLOWER MEETING

Miss Ellenor Richardson Cook of Hartford will give several English songs in costume of the Mayflower period.

The reception committee comprises Miss Addie F. Arnold, chairman; Mrs. B. P. Bishop, Norwich; Mrs. J. M. Bailey, Middletown; Mrs. Herbert L. Crandall, New London; Mrs. John L. Buel, Litchfield; Mrs. Charles S. P. Wilson, Hartford; Mrs. Ebenezer Bishop, Putnam; Mrs. Clarence B. Bolmer, Mrs. Frank A. Cerbin, New Haven; Mrs. Normand F. Allen, Hartford; Mrs. Howard H. Garmony, Farmington; Miss Betsy Larrabee, Groton; Miss Jennie Loomis, Windsor; Miss Sarah P. Rodgers, New Britain.

TESTIMONY OF SALES BRINGS LIQUOR FINES

On the charge of violation of the liquor law at the store, 157 Franklin street, where it is said he has been running a club room for a few weeks, Matthew Guastamacchio was found guilty on two counts in the city court Thursday morning. Two sales of drinks at different times were testified to by John Taylor and Israel Bonin, of this city and by a New London man named Joyner.

Guastamacchio was fined $300 and costs on each count and sentenced to 30 days in jail on each count. He took an appeal and furnished a bond of $1,000. His attorney was R. M. Douglass.

Taylor was before the court on Wednesday morning on the charge of stealing a gold watch from Bonin. The police recovered the watch when Taylor pawned it. The accused man was ordered to pay $30 by the court.

NORWICH GRANGE VOTED $25 TO HOSPITAL DRIVE

Norwich grange, No. 172, Patrons of Husbandry, held their regular meeting Wednesday evening at Steiner's hall with the worthy master, Mrs. John O. Pecham, presiding. The grange voted a contribution of $25 to the Backus hospital financial campaign.

The first and second degrees were worked in full form on five candidates. The third and fourth degrees will be worked at the next meeting. The grange accepted an invitation to go to Groton November 9th when the members of Norwich grange will work the third and fourth degrees for the Groton grange. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the social committee.

Mrs. Biskie received many beautiful gifts, including silver, cut glass, aluminum ware, towels, dishes, and many other household articles. Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Esther Smith, and Mrs. Helen Kenneth. Games and music were enjoyed.

MUSICIANS ENGAGE ATTORNEY FOR POSSIBLE NEGOTIATIONS

The local musicians' union at a meeting in their rooms Sunday morning took steps towards the settlement of the $40,000 damage action brought against them by Abe Davidson, proprietor of the Broadway theatre, by appointing William H. Shields as their counsel to represent them in possible negotiations. It is understood that a conference will be held some time today which may lead to a settlement.

Delegates to Convention

Mrs. Charles A. Levitsky and daughter, Miss Viola Levitsky, were delegates from the Greeneville Congregational church attending an "Older Girls" conference held at New Haven the latter part of the week.

CONNECTICUT IS MODEL IN AUTOMOBILE REGULATION

Connecticut, Massachusetts and Maryland are singled out as model states in the matter of motor vehicle supervision, in the current issue of "Best's Insurance News." In a discussion of the progress of accident-prevention work throughout the country, the publication says.

"The type of supervision exercised, for example, by Connecticut, Maryland and Massachusetts, should be the universal rule because of the results which have been achieved in these states under their present motor vehicle laws. Since 1919, automobile registration in these states has increased 58 per cent, but automobile fatalities have actually fallen off 2 per cent. Had this latter percentage been attained throughout the country at large there would have been 9,700 automobile deaths in 1922 instead of 14,000 deaths."

Connecticut motor vehicle accidents contributed 22% toward the total of deaths charged up to motor vehicles throughout the country last year. This was six less than Connecticut's total for the previous year, only two more than the 1920 total and five more than the 1919 total. The credit is largely due to enforcement work of local and state police, according to the motor vehicle department, but it is felt that there is still room for considerable improvement in the accident situation and that the encouraging nature of last year's record should spur all enforcement agencies on to greater efforts in this direction to keep pace with the constantly increasing number of automobiles registered in the state.

All three of the states cited as good examples are members of the Eastern Conference of Motor Vehicle Administrators, which also comprises seven other states.

GIRL'S ANKLE BROKEN WHEN MOTORCYCLE SKIDS

As the result of the skidding and overturning of a sidecar motorcycle on the New London road just below the tuberculosis sanatorium shortly after two o'clock Sunday afternoon, Dora Isaacson, 17, of 14 Aqueduct street, is a patient at the Backus hospital with a badly fractured ankle. The driver of the motorcycle, Joseph Grillo of this city was cut and bruised quite badly about the face and hands.

According to what could be learned of the accident Grillo's motorcycle was traveling so fast that it skidded and overturned while he was trying to make a curve. One witness said the machine was racing another motorcycle. Passing autoists picked up the injured girl and she was taken to the Backus hospital in Timothy C. Murphy's automobile and the fracture was reduced by Dr. William T. Driscoll. Another young girl who was riding on the Grillo motorcycle escaped with slight injuries and a shaking up. The motorcycle suffered little damage.

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE FOR COLCHESTER AUTO ACCIDENT

Two counts, one manslaughter, and the other taking an automobile truck without permission, were entered against Meyer Dobin of Hartford in the Colchester town court, before Justice Fred Baker in Grange hall, Colchester, at 7 Thursday evening. Dobin was bound over to the next term of the superior court on both counts. Bond on the manslaughter count was fixed at $3,500 and a bond of $500 was fixed on the charge of taking the truck without permission.

The case arose out of an accident some months ago when the truck, which Dobin had taken from the garage of Lotterman & Smith, Hartford, without permission, upset on the Hartford turnpike on the steep hill just above the Air line railroad crossing. One of the occupants of the truck, a Hartford resident, was killed.

PUNCH BOARDS SEIZED IN PAWCATUCK RAIDS

(Special to The Bulletin)

Westerly, Oct. 28.—John Galia, well known proprietor of a Main street restaurant, was taken suddenly ill tonight at his residence on Chestnut street. He was taken to the Home Memorial hospital in New London for an operation.

Saturday evening five places of business in Pawcatuck were raided by the state police from the Groton barracks and in each case punch boards were seized, in some cases prizes were also taken. Places were visited and proprietors received summons to appear in the Stonington town court on Wednesday morning and answer to charges of keeping places resorted to for gaming, brought by Prosecuting Attorney George R. McKenna. $100 bonds with the surety required for their appearance in court. The list follows: Majestic Bowling Alley, Harry Treese; Greek-American Fruit Co., Charles Varilious; Shea and Butler, Sebastian Shea; White House Cafe, Chris Serraro; Chapman's Barber Shop, Alfred Chapman.

On Sunday evening while a temperance lecture was being given in the First Baptist church on Broad street an individual who had imbibed too freely of moonshine lurched against the vestry door falling into the church hallway. # ACADEMY ELEVEN WALKS ROUGH-SHOD OVER THE STONINGTON TEAM, 22 TO 0

Playing once again with the old-time spirit, and aided by several breaks of the game, the Norwich Free Academy football eleven took the measure of their rivals from Stonington Saturday afternoon at Stonington, this time by the score of 22-0. The game started off with a rush and Stonington seemed to have improved greatly over the time of the last meeting of these two rivals in Norwich about a month ago. This proved to be only a spurt and Norwich slowly but surely proved that it had the better team.

Norwich started the game by kicking off and Stonington did her part by getting two first downs in succession. Failing to make the necessary yardage, Stonington punted and the local team followed its example. Stonington made another first down but then followed this by losing the ball on downs. Norwich made a first down and then punted. Kelb, the Stonington center, then helped Norwich to the extent of two points by heaving the ball over the head of Duke, who was waiting to punt. The best Duke could do was to fall on the ball, which had rolled behind the goal line, for a safety and prevent Norwich from getting a touchdown on the play. The first quarter ended shortly after this with Stonington's ball on its own 30 yard line.

In the second period Norwich seemed to be getting warmed up, for, after receiving a punt from the toe of Duke, the local team began a march up the field on line plays aided by a neat 15 yard pass which Captain McNamara threw to Scott. Covey scored a touchdown off tackle and finished this performance off by kicking goal. The sensation of the game occurred in this quarter when Hinricks intercepted a forward pass and ran over 50 yards, only to be tackled a few yards on the wrong side of the goal line. The Stonington line stiffened considerably at this point and Norwich was forced to resort to a forward pass which Scott gathered in from among a throng of the enemy. This ended the scoring in this half of the contest.

In the third quarter Norwich again uncovered an attack which Stonington was powerless to resist and ended up when Hinricks took the pigskin over for what proved to be the last touchdown of the game. Covey succeeded in kicking goal. Stonington rallied its shattered forces in the last few minutes of play and gained considerable ground with Barrett carrying the ball most of the time. The attempt was a very weak one, however, and never seriously threatened the Norwich goal line. Scott was the shining light in the local line and was supplemented by some fine work by Covey, Hinricks and Captain McNamara in the backfield. Barrett and Duke were the players who bore the brunt of the Stonington defense and attack.

EXPERTS FAVOR HOPPE TO RETAIN HIS TITLE

New York, Oct. 28 (By the A. P.).—New record runs and averages are expected to be established during the third annual tournament for the world's 18.2 balkline billiard championship starting tomorrow night in Hotel Pennsylvania with William F. Hoppe, the present champion, and five other leading billiardists as competitors.

Hoppe, in fine stroke, is generally favored to retain his title, but the exhibition play of the other players in preparation for the title tournament has been little less than marvelous, indicating competition the sort of which a championship has never known. Hoppe will have the honor of opening the play with Erich Hagenlacher, the German champion, as his opponent.

The tournament will consist of 15 games, a round robin of matches at 500 points each, continuing to Monday, Dec. 5. Besides Hoppe and Hagenlacher, the contestants are Jake Schaefer, Jr., who won the title two years ago and lost it to Hoppe again last year, Welker Cochran, youngest of the Americans, Roger Conti, champion of France, and Edouard "High Run" Horemans of Belgium.

Hoppe has fully recovered from the muscle hitch that affected his masse work last year, his perpendicular stroking now being at its best. His averages in practice have been unusually high and his judgment of speed excellent.

Schaefer, considered Hoppe's greatest rival for world billiard laurels, is reported to have perfected a new system of close nursing that may, if worked to advantage in the tournament, provide a surprise for Hoppe and result in some sort of a ruling to enlarge the anchor blocks. It will be recalled in connection with this report that it was Jake's father, the grand old man of the game, now departed, whose wizardry with the ivories caused the balkline game to be adopted. The anchor block was invented to prevent old Jake from making countless billiards, by grouping the balls in the space now known as "anchor."

Of the Europeans, Conti, the youngest, is the finest tournament player. His game last year won the admiration of the experts. He has an easy, graceful style and a splendid billiard disposition. His judgment of speed and control are so excellent he makes the game appear ridiculously simple. In an exhibition match several days ago he had an unfinished run of 103, counted at the upper end of the table, with but five or six position drives to the lower end. Through his deft manipulation of the balls he kept them always in perfect position, never once having to make a difficult cushion shot, or masse.

Horemans is an enigma. In exhibitions he has had more high runs than all the others put together, but in competition in this country he never has been able to make an impressive showing. He declares that it is the common fault of all men seeking a title—thinking of the champion's game instead of playing their own—and that he is making some progress in breaking himself of it. Horemans has one high run of 761 to his credit. In Philadelphia last week he ran 500 from spot.

Hagenlacher made his first appearance in quest of the title last year, and despite the fact that he was then new to America and its customs and ignorant of the language, he made a splendid showing. He is a very slow and deliberate player, but a fine shotmaker. He has been engaged in exhibition work throughout the states since last year.

Cochran, perhaps, is the most spectacular of the six contestants. His is generally an open, driving game, with high runs made through the execution of seemingly impossible cushion shots and drives. Cochran holds the world's high run record in competition, a 684 string, counted two years ago in the world's championship at Chicago.

Cutler of New York will referee the matches. Cutler formerly was the Class B champion at 18.2 balkline but lost the title last winter in a series of matches with Charles Peterson of St. Louis, the noted trick shooter.

SKATERS PICKED TO COMPETE IN OLYMPICS

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 28.—Skaters who will represent America at the Olympic games at Chamonix, in the French Alps next February, were selected by the International Skating Union of America, at the closing session of its seventeenth annual convention here today. These selections will be forwarded to the American Olympic executive committee for approval.

The speed skaters selected are Charles Jewtraw, Lake Placid, international outdoor champion; Harry Kaskey, Chicago, national and Canadian outdoor champion; Joe Moore, New York, international indoor champion in 1922 and runner up this year, and William Steinmetz, Chicago, last year's international outdoor title holder.

Richard Donovan, of Johnson City, N. Y., and Valentine Bialis, Lake Placid, N. Y., were chosen alternates.

Proceeds from races to be held at Saranac Lake, Lake Placid, New York city, Boston and Newburgh, N. Y., will be used in financing the trip. Dates for these exhibitions will be set by the board of control of the international union, with the exception of at Newburgh, where they will be held January 1.

SUB BASE ELEVEN WALKS THROUGH ARKANSAS TEAM

The heavy Submarine base team literally walked all over the football eleven from the U. S. S. Arkansas and won an easy victory, 37 to 7, Saturday afternoon at the Submarine base field. The Base outweighed the Arkies on the line and in the backfield which gave them tremendous hitting power and it was almost a steady march down the field when they had the ball.

The Arkies did not show any brilliant football until the closing minutes of the game when a series of forward passes and a long run netted them their only touch down. The boys from the ship for three-quarters hammered against the stonewall defense of the Sub Base and during that time made only three first downs. When the game was hopelessly lost they opened up the line and started an aerial attack which resulted in the score. One of the touch downs made by the Base was a freak one. The Arkies were forced to punt from behind their own goal and the kicker raised the ball directly over his head and into the waiting arms of a Sub Base player. The Base played exceptionally good football.

PENN STATE MATMEN HAVE HARD SCHEDULE

State College, Pa., Oct. 28.—The Penn State wrestling schedule made public today shows the Nittany grapplers must face their stiffest assignment in years. It includes six meets in addition to the inter-collegiate championships at Yale, the schedule follows:

February 9, Syracuse at home; February 16, Princeton at home; February 23, Navy at home; March 1, Lehigh away; March 8, Cornell at home; March 15, Pennsylvania, away; March 21, 22, intercollegiates at Yale.

FIFTEEN TEAMS START GRIND FOR BIKE TITLE

Chicago, Oct. 28.—Fifteen teams, comprising the strongest field that has ever appeared here, wheeled away tonight at the Coliseum in the start of the eighth international six-day bicycle race which will end at 11 o'clock next Saturday night after 146 hours of pedaling.

Maurice Brocco, of Italy, and Willie Coburn, of New Jersey, the team that stepped out and lapped the field twice the first hour in the last New York race, and maintained their advantage throughout the week, were popular favorites.

Thirteen other racers, all international famous, are making their first appearance in Chicago. Peter Van Kempen and Peter Moeskops, of Holland, the latter the world's champion, are being watched closely in the belief that they may try to gain an early advantage. Alfred Granda with Alex MacBeth of Australia and this combination also has many backers.

Three times each day at 3 p. m., 10 p. m., and 3 a. m. there will be ten two mile sprints for points.

The list of teams follows:

Peter Moeskops and Peter van Kempen, Holland; Alfred Grenda, Tasmania and Alex McBeith, Australia; Ernest Kockler and Carl Stockholm, Chicago.

Alex Tognie and Ferrario Ruggero, Italy.

Fritz Bauers and Henry Tietz, Germany.

Harry Kaiser, New York, and Fred Suender, Plainfield, N. J., Maurice De Wolfe and Harry Stokelynch, Belgium. Maurice Brocco, Italy and Willie Coburn, Kearney, N. J., Reggie McNamara, Australia, and Herry Horan, Newark N. J., William Hanley, San Francisco, and Eddie Madden, New York, Francesco Verri, Italy and Caesar Debatets, Belgium, Jean Charron, France and Ali Nefatti, Senegan. Maurice DeClerk, Chicago and Anthony Beckman, Secaucus, N. J., Lucien Louet, France and John Patrick, Newark, N. J., Percy Lawrence, San Francisco and Os Kopsky, Bohemia.

DARTSMOUTH'S VICTORY OVER HARVARD IS WEEK-END FOOTBALL SENSATION

New York, Oct. 28.—(By The A. P.)—The name of Jesse Hawley, Dartmouth coach, received prominent mention wherever football was discussed today for among the many noteworthy gridiron happenings of Saturday that which stands out as most sensational was the 10 to 0 defeat of Harvard's stalwart eleven by the green-clad warriors from the hills of Hanover, N. H.

There was a crisp decisiveness about Dartmouth's triumph which left no room for alibis. Two touchdowns clearly earned and a 40-yard placement goal from the field plus a point following a touchdown gave Dartmouth its winning margin and that fact that Dartmouth held its goalline inviolate and piled up a total gain in rushes and passes and the record in first downs that far exceeded the record of the Crimson, testified to the unquestionable superiority of the Hanoverians.

But the accomplishment is considered the more remarkable because Harvard boasted a decided advantage in weight and in playing experience for when Hawley took over the Dartmouth coaching assignment this year he found but four first string veterans available, and but one newcomer of reputed strength and skill, while only three days before the Harvard game, Chuck Calder, his best kicker and triple-treat back, was declared ineligible.

Yet with his combination of the four veterans, five recruits from last season's freshman eleven and two substitutes of last year's varsity, Coach Hawley succeeded in wrecking Harvard's far-famed attack and overcoming Harvard's unusually sturdy defense, thereby placing the green in football's forefront as one of the four more important eastern elevens boasting victories over all teams thus far encountered.

The contest marked Dartmouth's third triumph over the Crimson in the 13 games played since the Green dedicated Harvard Stadium with an 11 to 6 victory in 1903.

But that was one of many noteworthy occurrences in Saturday's football play.

The defeat of Pittsburgh by its next door neighbor Carnegie Tech, was one of the biggest upsets.

Slightly underranking the Dartmouth, Harvard and Pittsburgh, Carnegie games were Pennsylvania's victory over Center of Kentucky 34 to 0, Williams third successive triumph over Columbia, 10 to 0 and the bitterly waged tie contests between Penn State and West Virginia, Princeton and Navy and Rutgers and Lafayette. The respective scores of which were 13-13, 3-3 and 6-6.

Captain Hamer, of Pennsylvania, was the outstanding star in his eleven's victory over Centre. The southern attack could get nowhere, although its defense was good in the first quarter.

The defeat of the Haughton coached Columbia eleven by Williams came largely through the work of Fischer, Williams end, who received the pass that gave the Purple its touchdown, who kicked the point following touchdown and later in the game tallied with a goal from the field.

Ragged football marked the play of both elevens in the Penn State-West Virginia game, a majority of the scoring following fumbles or mispiays. In the Princeton-Navy game each eleven displayed ability to gain ground up to the shadow of the goal posts, but failed there. Princeton had the advantage in the early portion of the game and through a field goal held the lead until the final moments of the game, when Navy which repeatedly had been threatening the Tiger goal line, evened the score.

From an intersectional viewpoint the east scored a slight advantage over rival sections, with Pennsylvania's victory over Centre, Washington and Jefferson's 6 to 0 win over Detroit and Colgate's 27 to 0 triumph over Ohio Wesleyan counting for the east against Marquette's 7 to 6 victory over Boston College and Oberlin's 14 to 7 win over Amherst.

Of the latter group the most spectacular and stubbornly-fought fray was that between Boston College and Marquette. The westerners had not been defeated since 1921 and Boston College had visions of wrecking that record when in the third period Darling, Boston captain, whirled through the Marquette defense for a touchdown. Boston failed to make the point after touchdown and the score remained in their favor until late in the final quarter a Boston back fumbled on his own three yard line and Marquette was enabled to score the tying touchdown. Then Marquette called into the game "Red" Dunn, who had broken his arm early in the fray, and who with his arm strapped to his side kicked the winning point from placement.

Big Three prestige suffered considerably through the Harvard defeat and the Princeton tie. At present Yale is the lone member of the three with a clean slate. Ellis had less trouble than was expected against Brown, scoring 21 points.

Easterners who had witnessed Notre Dame's thrilling play against Army and Princeton, followed with interest the game between the South Bend eleven and Georgia Tech, won by Notre Dame 35 to 7.

Six of the games on eastern gridirons attracted 220,000 spectators. The greatest crowd, 53,000, watched Dartmouth and Harvard; 50,000 were at the Yale-Brown game; 42,000 at Pennsylvania-Centre; 40,000 at Baltimore watching Princeton and the Navy; 35,000 at West Virginia-Penn State and 10,000 at the Columbia-Williams game.

THE BULLDOG HUMBLES THE MIGHTY BEAR

New Haven, Oct. 28—One of the greatest Yale elevens of recent years—a team with a wealth of power on attack and defense that was well-nigh impregnable except for a brief period in the final quarter—defeated Brown in the annual gridiron struggle here Saturday afternoon before a crowd unofficially estimated at 35,000 spectators. The score was 21 to 0.

Three times the blue-jerseyed sons of old Eli crossed the goal line for touchdowns and three times Brown's sturdy fighting men foiled the attempts to score the extra points from drop kicks, twice by blocking and once by so hurrying the kicker that the effort went for naught. Yale's other three points were made when Stevens booted the ball over the crossbar on a drop kick from the 25 yard line.

Yale's first touchdown came halfway through the opening quarter, the eleven being placed in a scoring position as the result of a brilliant runback of 38 yards of a punt by Stevens, one of the outstanding stars of the Eli constellation. The run gave Yale a first down on Brown's 28 yard line.

Three plunges into the line by Stevens and Pond drove the Brunonians to a point eight yards from their goal. Rallying to the defense with the dogged determination that has always characterized the play of Brown teams here, Captain Spellman's forwards stopped Stevens without a gain, and on the next drive hit Pond so hard that he fumbled, but recovered on the 10 yard line.

Switching the attack from the old line battering game to aerial football, Yale advanced the five yard line on a forward pass from Stevens to Pond. Three assaults had gained but five yards.

On the fourth down Pond circled right end on a wide run, and with Stiffer, guardian of this wing, completely smothered by Millstead, the elusive Yale back crossed the goal line to be buried under a mass of tacklers. Pond was about six inches over the line when Referee Crowley untangled the pile, but it was sufficient unto the day.

Throughout the balance of the quarter and in the second period Yale fought fiercely to launch another winning offensive, but Brown was breaking ground so stubbornly against the attacks of Captain Mallory, Stevens, Pond, Murphy and Richeson that the goal was never endangered on straight rushing.

Gets Broken Collarbone.

New Haven, Oct. 28.—William Welmits, 23, a member of the Torrington football team which played the New Haven eleven here today, suffered a broken collar bone during a scrimmage in the game. Following an operation in a local hospital, it was said he would recover.

SPORT NOTES

The University of Pennsylvania defeated Yale at soccer Saturday by a score of 6 to 1.

Lee Moore of New York, lightweight boxer and formerly one of Jack Dempsey's sparring partners, was struck and severely injured by an automobile.

Purdue and Chicago runners tied in their annual three miles cross country run Saturday, 28 to 28. Abbott of Purdue finished first. Time 15.43.

Commissioner Loft of the New York state racing board will send a report to the next legislature to the effect that racing in that state is not being conducted properly. He will ask the legislature to look into the matter and remedy the evils that exist.

Columbia is bound to have a fine football eleven in a season or two, a team that will threaten every opponent on her schedule. The answer is her coach, Percy D. Haughton.

Luis Firpo, the Argentine heavyweight, is leaving for a ranch near Lima, where he will go into training in preparation for an exhibition match to be staged Nov. 4.

The famous Center college football team, in its fourth invasion of the east, met with a disastrous defeat at the hands of the University of Pennsylvania Saturday by the score of 34 to 0. More than 40,000 persons saw the Quakers score three touchdowns with the extra points and a field goal against the "Praying Colonels."

"Red" Dunn, captain and quarterback of the Marquette university football team, had his arm broken in the first period of Saturday's game with Boston college, played the game throughout and was responsible for the winning point when he kicked the goal after Leichtfuss' touchdown in the final period.

Greentree Stables' Rialto won the $25,000 Washington handicap, the big feature of gelaway day at Laurel, Md., Saturday, by four lengths. J. S. Cosden's Dunlin was second, two lengths in front of Fred Mumante's My Dear, which was three lengths in front of A. C. Bostwick's Spot Cash. The time for the mile and a quarter was 2.04.

Eddie Driggs of Cherry Valley became the first state champion of New York Saturday when in the final 36 hole match in the first annual championship tournament of the New York State Golf association he defeated F. S. Mabon of Garden City 6 and 7.

Owner A. J. Shean of the Hampdens held a long conference Saturday with Patsy Donovan before the latter left for his home in Andover. Donovan's contract with the Springfield owner is now up and he is a free agent to do business with whom he pleases. Reports have it that Patsy will soon hook on as manager of the Bridgeport club.

West Virginia and Penn State, two of the foremost contenders for 1923 eastern gridiron laurels, battled desperately but indecisively Saturday before a crowd of close to 25,000 at the Yankee stadium. The game ended in a 13-13 tie when Penn State, coming from behind at the close, smashed its way to a touchdown, only to miss the try for the extra point that offered a path to victory.

Wesleyan defeated Massachusetts Agricultural college in cross country running. Saturday afternoon by the close score of 25 to 29. The runners covered a five mile course and after reaching the football field during the interval between halves twice circled the track for the finish.

Notre Dame, conqueror of Army and Princeton, scored its third intersectional victory within three weeks Saturday by defeating Georgia Tech 35 to 7 before a crowd of 20,000 spectators that jammed every inch of Cartier field. The southerners fought a stubborn battle but fell before superiority and a superbly executed brand of football.

FIRPO OR WILLS TO MEET RENAULT-JOHNSON WINNER

New York, Oct. 28.—Luis Angel Firpo or Harry Wills, the dusky aspirant for Dempsey's crown, may meet the winner of the match between Jack Renault, Canada's heavyweight champion, and Floyd Johnson, the Iowa cornhusker, scheduled for next Friday night at Madison Square Garden, Tex Rickard indicated tonight.

The promoter promised to do his best to have the victor in Friday night's clash meet either Firpo, when he returns to this country, or Wills. Remains who is confident he will polish off Johnson, is especially anxious to meet Firpo. Chances of a bout between either Johnson or Renault and Wills are problematical. Paddy Mullins, Wills' manager, is reported to have said he would not let his man fight for Rickard, but if such a battle would lead to a chance at Dempsey, it is expected Mullins may relent.

Amateurs Beat Pros.

New York, Oct. 28.—Amateur golfdom was upheld today by Bobby Jones and Jesse Sweetser, who defeated Gene Sarazen and Walter Hagen one up in a 36 hole match played for the benefit to New York's crippled children at the Winged Foot Golf club.

The contest, held under winter rules, was featured in the afternoon by Jones' playing. He turned in a 38-35 for a 73 after playing under very adverse conditions. His driving was good and at the 16th he sank a 15 foot putt for a birdie four.

Fletcher Post Auxiliary Whist.

The Woman's Auxiliary of Fletcher Post, No. 4, American Legion, held a successful whist Friday evening at Buckingham Memorial. The prizes were awarded as follows: Ladies—First, Mrs. H. J. Clements; second, Mrs. Charles Prodell; third, Mrs. Minnie Amburn; consolation, Mrs. Harry Hill. Gentlemen—First, William Farrall; second, P. H. Wilson; consolation, Mrs. William L. Fletcher.

Mrs. William E. Denison was general chairman of the committee and was assisted by Mrs. Frank N. Kimball and Mrs. Lucille Spalding.

WESTERLY

Sunday morning two automobiles collided near the Sterling garage on the Watch Hill Road, in which damages amounting to $50 or more were reported. Another accident occurred Sunday in which two machines came together on the Ashaway road, at the turn near the farm of Dr. William Thompson. Sunday afternoon two automobiles, Connecticut registration reported slight damages, when bumped by a New York touring car operated by a young woman. On complaint to Patrolman Michael J. Burke the injured parties went to the Westerly police station where they told their stories. Inasmuch as no material damage was done, a Connecticut driver said that he was satisfied when apology was given him for abusive language which he received. The apology was given and the parties allowed to proceed.

Sunday afternoon, about three o'clock, near the Sprague farm on the Post Road, a Dodge touring car of William H. Crandall of Gales Ferry, with him his wife and two young ladies, and the Buick runabout of Angier Burdick of Oaklawn, R. I., who was accompanied only by his wife, collided. While rounding the curve, the Burdick automobile, which was proceeding toward Westerly in cutting in got over to the left of the white markings on the road bed when the collision took place. The resulting damage to the Dodge car was a broken axle, left rear mud guard, smashed running board and broken wheel. The Buick sustained a bokeent left forward fender, a demolished mud guard and running board. Mr. Burdick admitted his responsibility and agreed to pay for the damage done. The occupants received slight injuries. The automobiles were towed to Westerly for repairs.

Saturday night on West Broad street the Dodge sedan of John Smith sustained a broken wheel in a collision with a touring car belonging to C. E. Barlow of Canal street.

Herbert W. Rathbun of Westerly was in Springfield, Mass., Saturday, attended the funeral of his cousin.

Edward J. Penejon, Jr., of Yonkers, N. Y., arrived in Westerly Saturday by automobile for a short visit.

The football game between the Westerly eleven and the New London Colonials, which took place at Riverside Park Sunday afternoon proved a one-sided game for New London. The contest was marked by hard playing and at least one free-for-all fight which was settled and the game proceeded. The final score was Colonials 20, Westerly 0.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Pawcatuck Seventh Day Baptist Church gave a tea to Mrs. Eugene Davis, who talked interestingly for an hour about the missions and hospitals in Shanghai, China also the customs and early training of the Chinese in the missions.

Resulting from the automobile accident in which Mrs. Helen S. Bromley of New Britain, on last Monday night drove upon the sidewalk on Broad street and knocked down Frank E. Brown, the latter through his attorney, Herbert W. Rathbun has brought two civil suits of $10,000 each. Papers were served by Sheriff John R. Wilcox on Mrs. Harriet M. Greene, owner of the Buick sedan and property on the West Side belonging to Mrs. Bromley was attached by Deputy Sheriff William H. Casey.

Some twenty-five or thirty members of Palmer Chapter, No. 28 R. A. M. were in Hartford Friday evening where they attended the exemplification of Most Excellent Master Degree, under the direction of High Priest Edward W. Jarvis and associate officers of Pythagoras chapter, Hartford. At the exemplification were two hundred and four candidates from forty-two of the forty-four subordinate chapters. Palmer Chapter had nine candidates, Benevolence of Mystic, three and among the candidates from New London was a former Westerly young man, who now makes his home on Fishers' Island. The trip was made by automobile and the Westerly visitors to Hartford arrived back home about two o'clock Saturday morning.

Isaac G. Smith of Westerly was a business called in Wickford, Saturday.

Ulic Burke of Carolina was in Westerly Sundya morning enroute to New London.

Miss Ethel Matilda Wilson returned Sunday evening from a visit with her parents in Boston.

The death of Edward C. McNeily, which occurred at his home, 14 Summer street, Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock, on his 38th birthday, after a week's illness, was caused by an accidental overdose of triple bromide.

Arthur N. Nash left Westerly Sunday for Washington, D. C., to be in attendance at the cornerstone laying of the George Washington Masonic Memorial at Alexandria, Va., Thursday. Tuesday Major Nash will be at the Aberdeen Proving grounds, below Baltimore, Md., at which time an all day program will be carried out by the United States government, to demonstrate the various types of artillery both on land and in the air.

Frank L. Hourer, of Providence spent the week end at the home of his wife and mother-in-law, Mrs. Annie Frasier, 65 Main street.

ASHAWAY-WATCH HILL BUSES ALLOWED FOR THE WINTER

(Special to the Bulletin)

Westerly, R. I., Oct. 28.—The postponed hearing by the Rhode Island Public Utilities commission took place Friday afternoon in their room in the state house in Providence. Present at the hearing to represent the various interests were Received Robert W. Perkins of Norwich and Supt. W. Lester O'Brien of Westerly for the Shore Line Co., Town Solicitor John Ferguson, Jr., for the Westerly town council, Town Councilman S. R. Avery of Hope Valley, for the Hopkinton town council, and Ralph M. Briggs for the Ashaway Woolen Co. The commission hearing was on the petition of the Shore Line Co., to discontinue its electric car service for the winter and introduce a bus service, the electrics cars to be restored for summer service on both the Ashaway and Watch the first to give testimony before the commission.

After a two-hour hearing the commission announced that the matter would be taken under advisement and the decision announced Saturday. Saturday an order was entered by the Rhode Island Public Utilities commission granting the petition of Receiver Perkins to substitute buses for the electric cars. By the arrangement, buses will be placed in operation by the Shore Line Co., as soon as plans can be perfected. A special fare is to be granted to school children and a special bus arrangement is to be used to carry the help from Westerly on one trip to the Ashaway Woolen Co., and on the next to the Pawcatuck Woolen Co., at Potter Hill. On the Watch Hill trips, special runs will probably be made to the cemetery on East Avenue, instead of way through to Watch Hill. The biggest problem which confronts the Shore line company is the handling of the heavy traffic of the early evening. The establishment of the buses is but an experiment by the electric car company to see if the transportation business can be made a paying proposition, as the operation of the electric cars in the winter has proved a loss.

POETRY

SPEAK TO THE EARTH.

(Speak to the Earth, and it shall teach thee.—Job. 12: 8.)

Speak to the Earth and the Earth shall teach thee.
Thou shalt see the glory of thy God
Made manifest through life, life born in death.
The seed that was precursor of the tree.
The flaming rose that springs from out the sod,
The grasses green that sway with every breath,
All teach of God.

Speak to the Earth and the Earth shall teach thee,
The tumbled rocks that mark the Eon's urge,
The cataracts that wash the mountain's side,
Yea, the darkened caverns of the sea.
The mighty billows with their restless surge,
The untamed hells that in earth's bowels hide,
All teach of God.

Speak to the Earth and the Earth shall teach thee,
The mole, that sightless, burrows deep and far,
The troubled beasts who homing go to caves,
The insect life and animalcule free
Whose worldly gates but miscroscopes unbar,
The fish that swim beneath the glassy wave,
All teach of God.

O, foolish man, thou brother to the clod,
Born of the Earth and by its bounties blest,
How canst thou in thy petty soul deny
The evidence on earth of Him, our God?
For Life is but His final thought expressed,
And men of mortal clay—yea, you and I,
All teach of God.

—Charles L. H. Wagner, in Boston Transcript.

IN A COPY OF OMAR KHAYYAM.

These pearls of thought in Persian gulfs were bred,
Each softly lucent as a rounded moon;
The diver Omar plucked them from their bed,
Fitzgerald strung them on an English thread.

Fit rosary for a queen, in shape and hue,
When Contemplation tells her pensive beads
Or mortal thoughts, forever old and new,
Fit for a queen? Why, surely then for you!

The moral? Where Doubt's eddies toss and twirl
Faith's slender shallop till her footing reels,
Plunge, if you find not peace beneath the whirl,
Groping, you may like Omar grasp a pearl.

—James Russell Lowell.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Wife—Oh, Richard; baby swallowed a quarter today.

Hub—Can't you give him a less expensive diet?—Boston Transcript.

"I don't see where we can put up this lecturer for the night."

"Don't worry—he always brings his own bunk."—Tiger.

"I want a book for a high school boy."

"How about Fielding?"

"I dunno. Got anything on base running."—Kansas City Journal.

Guest—May I have a morsel more chicken to finish my delicious salad with?

Small Boy—May I have a bit more of everything to finish my delicious salt with?—Washington Star.

Clergyman—The couple I just married are deaf and dumb.

Reporter—Ah, then I'll say it was a quiet wedding.—Boston Transcript.

Blinks—It says here that a blowfish can inflate itself to twice its natural size.

Jinks—Well, haven't you ever seen a lot of two-legged fish do the same thing?—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Mrs. Upstairs—Did you hear what the Giggins did to their garage?

Mr. Upstairs—Did they sell it?

Mrs. Upstairs—No, papered the walls with copies of the mortgages on the car.—Los Angeles Times.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

SATURDAY'S MARKET.

New York, Oct. 27.—Stock prices were again unsettled in today's quiet trading, 16 issues breaking through to new low records for the year.

Selling pressure, which recently has been concentrated largely in the rubber, sugar, copper and leather groups, spread over a somewhat broader list, suggesting the selling out of some weakened marginal accounts. The thin market for a few ordinarily inactive issues resulted in breaks of 3 to 7 points when they were pressed for sale.

The customary industrial leaders yielded slightly, if at all. Among those to sing to new lows, however, were such issues as American Sugar common and preferred, Famous Players common and preferred, American Woolen common and preferred, International Harvester common, Kennecott Copper, Texas Gulf Sulphur, Coco Cola, Central Leather, Producers and Refiners, American Smelting and the Market Street railway issues. Some of these recovered all or part of their losses in a sporadic short covering that took place just before the close.

Most of the high grade rails were relatively firm, although Atchison yielded fractionally to a new 1923 minimum price, as did Frisco common.

Selling of the American Tobacco and Tobacco Products issues, based on reports of a department of justice inquiry into the trade agreement recently announced by the companies. The brisk recovery in Famous Players was based on a more favorable interpretation of its recent decision to temporarily suspend the production of pictures. The General Motors corporation announced today that the Olds Motor works of Lansing, Mich., has entered into a contract with Kelly-Springfield for the purchase of a portion of its requirements, but that the contract does not include all the original tire equipment for the Oldsmobile and other General Motors units as previously reported.

Foreign exchanges held relatively steady, demand sterling being quoted at $4.49 6-8, French francs around 5.75 cents and German marks at 1.8 cents of a billion.

The weekly clearing house statement showed an increase of $9,342,000 in loans, discounts and investments and $929,000 in cash in its vaults. Reserve of member banks in the federal reserve bank decreased $10,382,000, net demand deposits decreased $9,281,000 and time deposits $1,106,000. Aggregate reserve totaled $610,249,000, leaving excess reserve of $21,991,970, a decrease of $20,160,710 below a week ago.

NORWICH TOWN

Stephen Burdick of Seekonk, Mass., was the guest Friday of his niece, Mrs. Edwin C. Gay, of Julian Terrace. Mr. Burdick, who with his wife has been visiting relatives in Glastonbury, Hartford and vicinity, for some time, had not visited Norwich before, in over twenty-five years. Mr. Burdick was somewhat surprised in looking over the town, particularly in the section of Bliss place, which formerly was an open lot. Now there are many fine dwellings there, as well as on Julian street and Julian terrace. Mr. and Mrs. Burdick are soon to leave for Daytona, Florida, to pass the winter.

Mrs. Stanley Gay, draughtsman for the Gen Sled company, of West Myatt, was a visitor over the week-end, at his home on Julian terrace.

Mrs. Charles Morgan Williams with her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Julian L. Williams, of Washington street, also Mrs. Mary W. Allen, who is spending some time at her cousin's home, motored to Hartford Friday.

Officers and committees of Norwich Town Congregational Christian Endeavor society, installed by Herbert E. Hicks at Norwich Town, Sunday, Oct. 21, for the next year, are as follows: President, Arthur W. Avery; vice president, Martha B. Jopson; recording secretary, Burton Jopson; corresponding secretary, Jessie E. Hyde; treasurer, Robert M. Avery; junior superintendent, Susan C. Hyde; prayer meeting committee, Ida M. Beebe, chairman, Rev. G. F. Bailey, Mrs. Helen L. Holm; lookout committee, Jessie E. Hyde, chairman, Marjorie Merry, Mabel Corrigeux, Ralph H. Marsh; missionary committee, Gertrude S. # GREAT BOOST NEEDED TODAY TO BRING VICTORY IN BACKUS HOSPITAL DRIVE

Nothing but a great lift all together today (Monday) will bring victory in the Backus hospital campaign, according to a statement issued Sunday night by the executive committee.

The original plan of having the final supper and reports this (Monday) evening at the town hall is to be abandoned to instead of changing the time to noon on Tuesday, as had been announced last Friday night.

Executive Committee's Statement.

The Backus hospital campaign executive committee issued the following statement last evening:

"Today is the last day of the Backus hospital community appeal.

"When the teams report tonight at town hall—and not till then—the people of this city and neighborhood will know whether complete success has crowned the tireless efforts of the past ten days.

"The situation is critical. We face an emergency. We shall attain our goal only upon the following conditions:

"First—provided that those who can afford to pledge more than they pledged at first increase their gifts to the limit—today.

"Second—provided that those who have not given at all, give all they possibly can—today.

"For the convenience of those who have not subscribed thus far, a pledge coupon is printed in today's issue of The Bulletin. This should be filled in, signed and delivered at campaign headquarters, 34 Shetucket street, by 1 o'clock—today.

"A generous friend of the hospital has telegraphed a pledge of $5,000, with a proviso that should put the entire working force upon its mettle and bring from the community an equally generous response. This gift can not be counted unless the fund first reaches $345,000. It is the last $5,000 or nothing.

"The executive committee has no secrets or surprises.

"You alone, by your pledges, can win.

"Let us dedicate ourselves to victory—today."

Announcement was made Sunday that on Tuesday the school children of Norwich and vicinity will be given an opportunity to make contributions in their schools toward a memorial at Backus hospital in connection with the Backus hospital financial campaign. Speaking of the plan for the school children's memorial one of the campaign leaders said Sunday evening:

When our children reach the age of full understanding and maturity they will be proud that this was one of their first acts of good citizenship and they will be happy in the thought that they have helped to establish on a firm foundation one of the best and most needed institutions in our city.

The active organizations in charge of the hospital drive, consisting of about 500 men and women are tremendously in earnest to raise the $250,000. Norwich never failed in a worthy cause and every man, woman and child in our community ought to put forth their most earnest effort.

CRIPPLE AT SILOAM'S POOL CITED IN PRIEST'S SERMON

Preaching at the 9 o'clock (children's) mass Sunday to a congregation which filled St. Patrick's church, the rector, Rev. M. H. May, directed attention to the great feasts to be commemorated the coming week—All Saints' Day, All Souls' Day and the devotion Friday to the Sacred Heart of Jesus. Especially did the preacher dwell on the Roman Catholic doctrine of the communion of saints—the belief that this world is not all; that there is the world of the spirit, so that when death, the death of those most dear, leaves a weight of grief upon the heart, there is the consoling belief that those take away still live in the Lord. The coming week is the especial period during which those among the dead who are delayed in seeing their Creator face to face, while they are expiating some blemish of omission, or some slight taint of venal sin, are to be most in the thought of their friends. It is Catholicity, Christianity, humanity, pity, mercy, to remember them with prayers and good works. Father May recalled the incident of the cripple beside the pool of Siloam, who for eight and thirty years had waited to be cured when the angel should trouble the waters, yet had never found one pitying mortal to aid him into the pool. Humanity should make every person tender toward the suffering souls in purgatory during this coming month of November—mindful, not alone of Him, but of all those who cry out for aid from those still in life, that they may be released from their probation.

The day was the 23rd Sunday after Pentecost, the epistle read being Philippians 3, 17-21, and the gospel Matt. 9, 18-26. Rev. Myles P. Galvin, who read the low mass, was assisted in giving holy communion by Rev. Rocco J. Guerriero.

CASE AGAINST WELLS CONTINUED TWO WEEKS

In the city court Saturday morning the case against Charles A. Wells of Providence, charged with being a fugitive from justice, was continued two weeks under bonds of $800 pending extradition to Worcester, Mass., where he is facing a charge in connection with the sale of automobiles. He was arrested here Friday at the instigation of his bondsmen, Attorney Morrison of Worcester, who surrendered him.

One man paid $13.50 on an intoxication charge. Theft charges against four seventeen year old boys were continued a year and they were warned to keep out of trouble.

Albert Ainsworth was fined $50 and costs in connection with a breach of the peace charge resulting from a fight in a local lunch room.

Golf Club Closes November First

The board of governors of the Norwich Golf club have announced that the club house will be officially closed November 1st. The restaurant service will be closed the same day. William M. Skelly, greenkeeper, will be in charge of the club house to admit any members desiring to play golf or tennis.

PROFESSOR FARRELL HEARS ENGLISH WOMAN PIANIST

Prof. Frank L. Farrell has returned from a business trip to New York, where last Wednesday evening he attended the piano recital by Myra Hess, the English pianist, given in Aeolian hall. Mr. Farrell was a guest at the recital of Alexander Silloti, famous Liszt student, and the attendance included many notable pianists, among whom were Harold Bauer, Katherine Goodson, Andrew Boliti and others. In the opinion of Mr. Farrell, Miss Hess is one of the finest women pianists of the day.

Professor Farrell is to give a recital in New York, but before then is to be heard in this city on a date in November, which will be the first time he will be heard by a Norwich audience since he gave a recital four years ago. This will be pleasing news to Norwich music lovers, many of whom do not realize that Mr. Farrell is given a place by the New York press as a notable pianist, holding a place in the front rak of American performers.

PAPER BY CHIEF STANTON READ AT RICHMOND

At the fire chiefs' convention which is being held this week in Richmond, Va., a highly instructive and interesting paper on the inch and a half hose in fighting fires, prepared by Chief Howard L. Stanton of this city was read Thursday. Chief Stanton is one of the six fire chiefs in the country asked to prepare papers for the convention. Chief Stanton was unable to attend the convention this year but his paper was forwarded and read at the convention. The chief's paper follows:

To the International Association of Fire Engineers:

Gentlemen:—

The subject assigned me under the title of "The Advantages of 1 1-2 inch hose for Fire Department use", is a subject that to those who have never given the matter any consideration, and who have only used 2 1-2 inch hose, may have some doubts as to its advantages, if any.

It will be the aim of the writer to give personal experience covering the past ten years. 2 1-2 inch hose has been the standard for upwards of seventy-five years or as far back as the days of hand drawn reels and hand pumping engines. Why the American fire service did not adopt two inch hose for hand drawn apparatus of seventy-five years ago has been a question among many interested men in the service.

The difference of friction between 2 1-2 inch and 1 1-2 inch hose is considered, and some may protest on that score alone, but the advantage is still with 1 1-2 inch hose under most conditions. The first service of the country is, as this is responding to alarms of fire so quickly with motor apparatus over horse drawn apparatus, that seventy-five per cent. of all fires that are not held with chemical lines or hand chemical extinguishers, can be extinguished with 1 1-2 inch hose with a 1-2 or 5-8 inch nozzle tip, thus saving much property from water damage.

It is not the intent of the writer to advocate 1 1-2 nich hose for fires that require three inch pumping lines reduced to 2 1-2 inch size in order to handle, but to try and present some of the advantages of 1 1-2 inch hose.

Many companies respond to fires with four men or less and with a chemical line working on the inside with one man handling the streams the balance of the crew can handle the 1 1-2 inch water line with ease as compared with handling a 2 1-2 inch line.

Most fires occur in dwellings and the loss from water, in many cases, exceeds that of the fire on account of the use fo 2 1-2 inch hose with 1 1-8 or 1 1-4 nozzle tips. It is conceded that to get the best results from its use that a quick alarm is necessary whether it is over the fire alarm system, telephone or otherwise.

Many departments first used 1 1-2 inch hose for wetting down fires, &c, as many in the service call it, chasing sparks, but it was soon evident with a quick response that 1 1-2 inch hoses would handle the entire job. The writer does not advocate all lines of hose laid at a fire to be of 1 1-2 inch size but with three companies responding on a first alarm one line should be 1 1-2 inch size with the expectation that it would handle any interior fire following a chemical line. If not, lines of 2 1-2 inch hose from the other companies responding would be available.

All chiefs of departments have had their troubles getting to work with a small crew of three or four men and 2 1-2 inch hose to handle, but with 1 1-2 inch hose for inside fires in dwellings, attics, basements and roof fires, it is far superior to trying to handle larger hose. It can be moved from one room to another with nearly as much ease as a chemical line and by one man. In residential sections with wide lawns it is most valuable and can be taken to the roof of a building with ease as compared with a 2 1-2 inch line with water flowing.

Departments responding to telephone or oral alarms where only one company responds and are dependent on hydrant streams where the pressure is inadequate, a 2 1-2 inch line from a hydrant reduced to 1 1-2 inch with 1-2 inch nozzle tip is more efficient than with large hose and 1 1-8 inch nozzle tips. The writer has one company that carries only 1 1-2 inch hose for water lines in addition to one 50 gallon tank and two hand extinguishers. Seventy-five per cent. of all fires are handled by this company without aid from other companies responding. All apparatus carries 1 1-2 inch hose, even pumping engines, and all pumping engines have a 1 1-2 inch coutlet or attachment as well as being equipped with reducers for 1 1-2 inch line work.

If the fire service of the country is to assist in trying to reduce the water damage at dwelling house fires I am of the opinion that the use of 1 1-2 inch hose with 1-2 inch tips will accomplish the purpose. It is not the volume of water required to handle most fires, but rather the getting the water in the right place, and getting it there in quick time.

As to the lay out of 1 1-2 inch lines. Some chiefs lay out from the nozzle tip of 2 1-2 inch lines, others from a Y and many from an adapter or reducer from hydrant or pump. My experience is not to use a nozzle tip larger than 5-8 inch and much prefer 1-2 inch tips. I am of the opinion that each chief should adopt what appears to be suitable for his particular city or district, as much depends on what he is called upon to protect whether it is all residences, and small shop keepers, with small or large industries. The thing to keep in mind is that you are not expected to handle a conflagration with 1 1-2 inch lines, and that it does not require any more judgment to know how and when to use 1 1-2 inch water lines than it does to use alameded 2 1-2 inch lines with 1 1-2 inch nozzle tips for large fires.

Much can be written about how to carry 1 1-2 inch hose on apparatus in addition to 2 1-2 and 3 inch hose. As already stated I have the greatest success with one piece of apparatus carrying not less than one hundred feet rolled up and strapped on the apparatus.

I learn that some chiefs have a real back of chemical hose basket on which it is wound and have good success carrying it in that manner, but I do not think I would care to do it that way. By all means use a shut-off nozzle. The shut-off can be threaded to take the 1 1-8 inch hose and the tip carried to the end of the small hose and reduced.

The writer has been able to hold many fires outside of the city limits where aid was requested by sending only one company of firemen and using the 1 1-2 inch line on the interior with the 2 1-2 inch line on outside by setting in a Y near the property and reducing to 1 1-2 inch.

As to the size of hose couplings for 1 1-2 inch hose. The writer for the want of a standard for small hose couplings that has since been adopted, used iron pipe thread standard 11 1-2 threads. While it has worked all right it is too fine and the standard approved by the National Fire Protection Association of nine threads is preferable and should be adopted by all those who contemplate the use of 1 1-2 inch hose.

The outside diameter of the male end of 1 1-2 inch hose couplings as adopted by several associations at interest is 1.9900 and 7 pitch. This size is far better than pipe standard as it gives more strength to the coupling as the amount of metal between the root of thread and water way is 1 1-2 inch pipe standard is too small for safety.

Much can be said in favor of 1 1-2 inch hose for fire department use, and much can be said in favor of the same size for certain types of institutions for stand pipe service over 2 1-2 inch size attached with 150 foot length with perhaps two women to handle the lines.

What the writer has presented in this paper is from an experience of many years and trust it may be of some benefit to those who may be considering its adoption even in a small way. I recommend that the International Association of Fire Engineers assembled in Richmond, Virginia, October 23-26, 1923, adopt the standard threads for small hose couplings as prepared by the National Fire Protection Association and others, to the end that the International Association of Fire Engineers may furnish information to its members in relation to 1 1-2 inch hose coupling standard, as well as the 2 1-2 inch standard in which this association had a prominent part in bringing its adoption to a successful conclusion.

Respectfully submitted,
HOWARD L. STANTON,
Chief of Fire Department,
Norwich, Connecticut.

BISHOP BURNS CALLED FOR FIGHTING SPIRIT IN CHURCH

For the soft shall not inherit the kingdom of God, was the message brought to the people of Norwich assembled at Trinity Methodist Episcopal church Sunday evening by Bishop Charles Wesley Burns of Montana, who kept the close attention of his congregation throughout his inspiring address.

To be a Christian in the 20th century, said Bishop Burns, one cannot be soft, but must be strong, heroic, firm and courageous, and it takes the finest men of Christ to fight the battle of the frontier today. Yesterday it was a battle of creed, but today the fight is being waged to the very citadel of life, a fight against the conflicting and contending philosophy of life.

Through marriage I had four grandfathers, all preachers of parts, one a Methodist, one a Baptist, the third a Presbyterian and the fourth a Lutheran, and everyone of them regarded the religion of the other as the work of the devil against God's kingdom and died so believing. Yet I honor them for their belief and only wish that people of today could believe in something so strongly that they would be willing to die for it as these men did. The soft shall not inherit the kingdom of God. This was the message of that Paul, that wonderful man of God, to the weak church, the message of a man who was every inch a battler. We knew that murderers, thieves, defamers of women and such like cannot enter the kingdom of God, but Paul places as even worse, those who are soft.

In King James' version we find the word effeminate used instead of the word soft and we believe that the timid men, for they must have been timid, wrote the word effeminate out of the Greek translation. St. Paul spoke bitterly in those days of women with bobbed hair, he spoke many things against women, and it is my belief that Paul was a married man, for when Paul asked God to remove the thorn in his flesh God answered no, she shall not be taken away but grace shall be shown unto you. Then we read that Paul started out to preach and never returned. Perhaps these men knowing Paul's dislike of women, wrote in effeminate, but somebody else who dared to translate correctly wrote in the word soft and I believe this is what Paul meant.

The soft shall not inherit the kingdom of God. This word soft is used several times in the Bible. Jesus, when the disciples and others called John the Baptist a hard man, said to them, "What came ye here to see, a reed that is easily shaken by the wind, did you come here to see a softling?" Again, when he saw the farmer who had left a furrow unfinished, he turned to his disciples, who were beginning to weaken and said, "He that putteth his hand to the plow and turneth soft is not fit for the kingdom of heaven."

Again when Paul was bound to go to Jerusalem, this mighty man grew angry and demanded to be let free than turning to the disciples said, "What mean you by breaking my heart. I know I may die and am ready, what mean you trying to make my heart soft?"

Softness cancers life, it weakens courage, saps your strength, and defeats the kingdom of God. Softness is the answer to the reason God's kingdom is so long in coming. What delays the kingdom of God, delays reforms, allows sin to be rampant, accounts for the world upheaval, makes the money of a strong nation worthless? It is softness, softness which robs a nation of everything it has. What protects the bootlegger and law violator? Nothing but softness. When we won part of our fight then we became soft and now we finish lawlessness on the increase.

History of great nations is written from hardships, privations, heroism. This nation was founded on the Bible, school and printing press, and hardships were many among those Puritan settlers. New England, with that inspiring background of Plymouth Rock, should find it easy to be good. You should rise up against offenders and law breakers. New England should be great because of her ideals, but softness will never make her great.

Softness never won the fight when our boys of New York and Carolina broke the Hindenburg line, the blow that won victory after French and English troops could not break through. Our boys were not soft—they were heroes all.

The challenge is made to you. Make Norwich a city of Christ, your state for Christ, the nation, then the world, all for Christ, The Son of God goes forth to war—who follow in his train —the soft shall not inherit the kingdom of God.

Rev. W. H. Bath, district superintendent, introduced Bishop Hughes, and the Men's club of the Baltic church sang two selections during the service.

MACHINE CLIMBS BANK, UPSET AT NORTH WINDHAM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, Oct. 28.—Two young people were injured and three others shaken up in an automobile accident shortly after ten o'clock Saturday night near the railroad underpass at North Windham. The machine, a Jewett touring, was damaged. Miss Sophie Sysdsek, of Mansfield, sustained a broken collar bone and bruises about the body and John Farrell of Baltic a bad scalp wound. Both were treated at St. Joseph's hospital. The other passengers in the car were Clifford Coady, Philip Olmquist, of Baltic, and a girl said to reside on Union street, this city. The party had been attending a dance and had not been on the road a minute before they rounded a treacherous curve and the machine climbed the bank and overturned. The state police barracks at Danielson and the local police were notified.

MAYOR WATERS RECEIVES APPEAL FROM COWBOYS

Mayor Milo R. Waters has received an appeal from the Fraternal Order of Cow Punchers with headquarters in Seattle, Wash., whose members are anxious to get in touch with girls, women, men and boys who are interested in outdoor life. The letter received by the mayor follows:

This is a personal appeal. Humanity calls from the wilderness. Will you answer?

As the largest organization of cowboys in the world, we are taking the liberty of writing you as we have been requested by a number of our members who live in lonely remote places.

These boys, fearless hunters of the mountain and desert, wild riders of the plains, who spend many lonesome hours on the range, have the idea that you, as chief executive of your city can place them in touch with moncrable girls, women, men and boys of your community, who would be interested in outdoor life, for an exchange of correspondence, to lighten life along the long, long trail.

Trusting that we shall receive a message from you for the boys, by letter or through your local press, we remain,

Very respectfully,
Fraternal Order of Cow Punchers.
CHARLES CHENOWETH,
Supreme Protective Cowboy.

WILLIMANTIC MAN ESCAPES FROM BROOKLYN JAIL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, Oct. 28.—A report was received here late Saturday by the local police that Eugene Levesque, arrested here last June 26, at 7 p. m. by Lieutenant Frank McLean of the police force and Officer Fred T. Carron of the state police on the charge of passing a worthless check, had escaped from Brooklyn jail, where he has been serving a sentence of three months, imposed at the September term of the Windham county superior court here. Levesque is also wanted in Greenfield, Mass., by Chief of Police Thomas Manning, on the charges of larceny and bastardy. Assistant Jailer Parker informed a Bulletin reported Sunday that Levesque was a trusty at the jail and about 5:30 o'clock Saturday evening he was sent out to the grocery store to make a purchase and did not return. Up to late Sunday afternoon the convict was still at large. He had 33 days more of his three months' sentence to serve.

SUNKEN SUBMARINE WAS AT BASE DURING WAR

The United States submarine O-5 which was sunk Sunday in a collision in Limin Bay, Canal zone, was one of the boats that was stationed at the submarine base at Groton during the world war.

Many of the Norwich young men who were on duty at the base were familiar with the O-5 and other submarines of her type.

NEW LONDON POLICE LOCK UP DEALER AND DRINKER, AFTER RAID

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Oct. 28.—The home of John Marquis, of 325 Main street, long been suspected as a place where liquor was sold contrary to law, was raided this afternoon by Sergeant Samuel Hick and Patrolman Frank Philopena and Patrolman William Graham and Thomas Lyden. A remnant of a still was found, together with two jugs containing mash and coloring for whiskey. The raid was the result of the vigilance of Patrolmen Graham and Lyden, who had watched the place several weeks and Saturday night imparted their suspicions to Sergeant Hick. About 2:30 o'clock the quartet of officers were watching the place when Lance Thomas of 115 Main street, was observed to enter the house. After remaining there about 30 minutes Thomas emerged with his pockets bulging. The officers held up Thomas and found seven bottles of liquor of the home-made brand as Thomas had in his possession two pints of whiskey, two quarts of gin and three pints of gin. Thomas admitted making the purchase of Marquis and as a result both Thomas and Marquis were taken into custody. In default of a bondsman both were locked up and will be given a hearing in the police court tomorrow morning.

Believing that additional liquor was stored in the Marquis house, the officers returned to the place with a search warrant and were rewarded by locating the mash and remnant of the still and whiskey coloring.

John Murphy, 287 Bank street, formerly of Voluntown, a patient at Lawrence hospital, admitted to the institution last August for injuries sustained when he was run over by an automobile on Durfee Hill, Waterford, sustaining an injury to his spine that resulted in paralysis of the limbs, will be arrested undoubtedly, as soon as his condition permits, for a complaint has been lodged with the state police that Murphy appropriated money of the state to his own use. The authorities are unable to act in the matter at the present time because of Murphy's condition. The man is still paralyzed and indications are that he will be in that condition the remainder of his days. It is alleged that Murphy, who was a foreman in the employ of the state highway department, carried a supposed employe by the name of "M. Falvey" on the pay roll, when in reality there never was anyone by that name under his supervision. The money drawn on pay-rool in Falvey's name amounted to several hundreds of dollars, and it is alleged that Murphy appropriated the money to his own use. The discovery of the fraudulent scheme developed when Murphy became incapacitated and another employe was sent to pay off the men. When Falvey did not call for his pay and none of the employes ever knew of any such employe, an investigation resulted in the fraudulent methods alleged to have been perpetrated by Murphy being laid bare.

The automobile owned and driven by Lester Perry, of Waterford, and a machine owned and operated by Ernest Rowland of Salem Ferry, were in collision on Bank street Saturday afternoon. Both cars were damaged.

A motorcycle owned and operated by Frederick Zepp, of 25 Williams street skidded at the corner of Huntington and Church street Saturday afternoon, the machines being wrecked and Zepp, who was thrown to the highway sustained numerous cuts and bruises.

There is no change in the condition of Edmund Condon, a former resident of New London, seriously ill in a hospital at Portland, Ore., suffering from an acute attack of kidney trouble.

Lieut. Preston Marshall, U. S. N., stationed at the submarine base reported to the police this afternoon that some time Saturday afternoon a gold class ring was stolen from his quarters at the base. The ring bore the inscription on the inside band, "Preston Marshall, United States Navy."

Mrs. Annie Peckham of Brooklyn, N. Y., has returned home after having spent several days as the guest of Mrs. Mary J. Rogers.

Miss Theresa Peters and Miss Mary McCue are spending a few days with New York relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Bathgate have returned from their wedding journey and have taken up their residence on Montauk avenue.

Postmaster Bryan F. Mahan is a patient at Lawrence hospital, having been admitted to the institution a few days ago. Mr. Mahan has been in ill health about two years his physical condition having showed a perceptible decline for a long time. At the institution today his condition was reported as comfortable, although the outcome cannot be foretold. Mr. Mahan was under treatment at a private hospital a year ago.

The property 632 Bank street, owned by the Neilan estate and comprising a two family house and a tract of land, the latter about 50x130, was sold at public auction Saturday afternoon. The purchaser was Samuel Santinelli of 44 Shaw street, who purchased the property for $7,050.

The funeral of William A. Bray, 23, former clerk in the employ of the William Pierce company of New York handlers of the freight business of the marine department of the Central Vermont railroad, who sustained fatal injuries several nights ago when thrown from an automobile owned and operated by Cornelius Walker, of 14 Blydenburg avenue, was held Saturday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock at the home of Mr. Bray's mother, Mrs. Ethel Burnett, 816 Jefferson avenue. The services were conducted by Rev. Chester H. Howe, pastor of the First Baptist church. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Mrs. Katherine Clinton of Montauk avenue and Mrs. John Murphy of Mountain avenue, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged Saturday.

Fred H. McGlaflin, 17 Center street and Miss Minnie E. Smith were married Saturday evening at o'clock by Rev. Joseph R. Elder, pastor of Huntington Street Baptist church, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Greene, 28, Spring street. Mr. and Mrs. Greene were the attendants. Mr. and Mrs. McGlaflin left for a tour of New England. Upon their return they will reside at 17 Center street. The wedding also marked the thirteenth anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Green. Mr. MacGlaflin is a former employe of the Connecticut company and is now a musician in a local dance orchestra.

Coroner Jeremiah J. Desmond, of Norwich, was in New London Saturday afternoon investigating the circumstances attending the sudden death Friday morning of Mrs. Lizzie Fleury, 58, who was found asphyxiated at her home, 43 Golden street as a result of a cock from an illuminating gas jet being turned on. When the body of Mrs. Fleury was discovered the police visited the place and found two empty Jamaica ginger vials and a bottle partially filled with wine, but there was no evidence of criminality disclosed in the woman's death, Coroner Desmond finding that she died as a result of accidental gas poisoning.

Mrs. Charlotte Dorsey, wife of Thomas F. Dorsey of Ocean Beach, who is under treatment at Home Memorial hospital for acute indigestion, is reported as being much improved.

A. Hoyle of Bristol, Conn., reported to the police last Friday night that while his automobile was parked on State street a British-French cat was stolen from the car, the cat having been left in the machine while Hoyle and his family dined at a nearby restaurant.

The police were informed by the crew of an Ocean Beach bound trolley car this afternoon that a man was ill at the corner of Glenwood and lower Boulevard, lying on the ground near the trolley tracks and refusing aid. The patrol was dispatched there, but upon its arrival no trace of the man could be found.

Amos T. Baker, superintendent of the Reformatory for Women at Bedford Hills, N. Y., Saturday made request of the New London police for information regarding Helen Martin, formerly a resident of New London. Supt. Baker stated that the woman was the mother of two children, one 18 months old and the other eight months old and that she claimed to have worked for Mrs. C. C. Parmelee of 183 Broad street. The woman is an inmate at the reformatory. The police have no record of Helen Martin, although they have a record of Rose Martin, the latter being the correct name of the Martin woman. The woman was employed by Mrs. Parmelee nearly two years ago and her father and brother reside at 37 Bayonet street.

A youth, 16, residing on Grand street was arrested Saturday forenoon by Motor cycle Officer William Babcock, charged with the theft of $3 from the store of Isaac Tanenbaum, 146 State street. The youth denies his guilt, although he admits being in the store at the time the money was stolen. According to Tanenbaum, the youth, accompanied by a companion, entered the store about 10.45 o'clock and while Mr. Tanenbaum was preparing a deposit at one of the banks. Just after the boys reached the store, Mr. Tanenbaum was called to the telephone and while he answered the call the boys and the money disappeared. He complained to the police and Officer Babcock quickly located the suspected youth and placed him under arrest. The youth revealed the name of his companion, but the latter could not be located.

Acting Detective Edward Daniels Saturday forenoon recovered the overcoat owned by George Watzel of 13 Broad street, Mystic, reported to the police early Saturday morning as having been stolen from his machine while the car was parked on Howard street. Annie Kennedy Eriekson, a local character was suspected of the theft when the woman was found asleep in Watzel's car. The coat had been in the possession of companions of the Kennedy woman, who caused the return of the garment to be made when they realized that they had committed theft and their arrest might result. The coat is now at the police station awaiting Watzel's claim.

C. R. Smith of Evergreen avenue has acquired from Abraham J. Agranovitch a house and lot at 12 Fowler court.

The police this evening arrested two youthful culprits, one 13 and the other 10. They were taken into custody by Motorcycle Officer William Babcock and were turned over to Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield. The boys last Thursday night stole a bicycle belonging to Morris Rogoff from in front of the public library, also purloined the wheel of Clifford Parks of 200 Connecticut avenue from State street. The bicycle of Rogoff is now at the police station and the wheel owned by Parks was located in a Bank street repair shop.

Joseph Bixby, formerly of New London, now employed in New Haven, spent today with friends in town.

Schooner Blossom, which has been in port several weeks, being fitted out at the municipal wharf for a two years' cruise in search of wild animals in South Africa, is scheduled to leave port tomorrow for her sea voyage of two years. The trip is being financed by a Cleveland, Ohio, museum, and officers of the museum arrived in New London last evening to be on hand when the craft starts down the harbor.

Mrs. Robert Munn of Holyoke, Mass., is being entertained by her sister, Miss Jane Ryley.

The continued case of Robert Rasmussen, proprietor of the ideal rooming house, Bank street, which was raided two weeks ago and Rasmussen arrested, charged with violation of the liquor law, when two quarts of whiskey were found in the room of a female employe of the place, is scheduled to be tried in the police court tomorrow morning. The case was continued from the 20th inst., in order to permit a witness in the employ of the prohibition forces and who, it is claimed recently purchased liquor at the place, to come to New London and produce his testimony. There are those who believe that the desired witness will not be on hand tomorrow.

Captain of Police Charles A. Finney, Motorcycle Officer William Babcock and Station Housekeeper Frank Corcoran will begin their vacation of two weeks Thursday next. The party will spend the greater part of their pleasure trip on an automobile tour of Canada.

LAWYERS IN STOKES DIVORCE TRIAL REBUKED BY THE COURT

Outbursts Between Steuer and Untermyer Have Exhausted the Patience of Justice Mahoney—Called the Lawyers to th Bench to Reprimand Them Publicly—Informs Them That Further Action Will be Taken to Uphold the Dignity of the Court at Conclusion of the Case—Theft of a Secret U. S. Diplomatic Code Figured in the Hearing.

New York, Oct. 29.—Theft of a secret United States diplomatic code in Bucharest fifteen years ago was recalled in the Stokes divorce retrial today during an attack on the testimony of Horace G. Knowles, former American minister to Balkan and Latin American nations.

Mr. Knowles said the code was offered to the Japanese government for $40,000, but asserted he had never heard it was bought later for $20,000 by Secretary of State Elihu Root. He denied he had been dismissed after the incident.

The former diplomat, regarded by attorneys on both sides as the strongest witness remaining among those who testified for W. E. D. Stokes, wealthy hotel owner, swore earlier in the retrial that he had seen Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes in the apartment of Edgar T. Wallace, principal co-respondent, while waiting for a friend, Dr. L. M. Benson. Dr. Benson denied in a deposition from Los Angeles that he had ever seen Mr. Knowles in the apartment.

Mr. Knowles, subpoenaed for re-examination by Samuel Untermyer, chief counsel for Mrs. Stokes, admitted the code had disappeared while it was entrusted to his care. He said the brief was a messenger in the legation whose name he could not remember. Denying he had ever heard of Secretary Root's stating that he was not a fit person to represent the United States anywhere, Mr. Knowles asked to be permitted to give his version of the incident.

The code, he said, was kept in an unlocked drawer when he arrived at Bucharest, as there was no safe in the legation. He said he slept with it under his matress for two weeks and then it disappeared shortly before the messenger left the place. He said it next appeared at the United States embassy in St. Petersburg, where officials refused to buy it, after which it was offered to members of the staff at the Japanese embassy in the Russian capital. The Japanese, he asserted, had it turned over to the United States without reading it.

"How much was paid to get it back?" asked Mr. Untermyer.

"I didn't know of anything being paid for it," answered Mr. Knowles.

"That is not my information," shouted Mrs. Stokes' attorney.

Max D. Steuer, counsel for Mr. Stokes, leaped to his feet.

"You lied ——," he began.

"This blackguard here ——" interrupted Mr. Untermyer.

The court was in an uproar. Supreme Court Justice Mahoney, vainly rapping for order, finally forced the two lawyers to take their seats, although he gave no hint of the reprimand to be administered after the jury had withdrawn for the day.

Mr. Steuer demanded that Mr. Untermyer take the stand and testify to the source of his information. Mr. Untermyer at first demurred angrily, but finally was sworn. He said he got the advice in a letter from a member of his associated law firm in Washington.

Under examination by Mr. Steuer, Mr. Knowles denied he had ever been blamed or admonished by the state department for the code's disappearance. He said Secretary Root had him transferred soon afterward to a much more important and delicate post in Nicaragua.

Questioned by Mr. Untermyer, Mr. Knowles said he was introduced to Mr. Stokes by Henry Woodhouse, who was then interested in the Chester concession in the Near East. He admitted being interested in a similar grant, but asserted he did not know Mr. Stokes claimed 10 per cent. interest in the Chester Development project.

"If you did not know that, why did you sign this paper?" asked Mr. Untermyer, handing the witness a big document.

Mr. Knowles said he had not read it, but had merely signed it as a witness to Mr. Stokes' signature.

After the jury had retired, Justice Mahoney, angered at the recurrence outbursts between Mr. Steuer and Mr. Untermyer, called the two lawyers to the bench and reprimanded them publicly and informed them that the record would be searched after the trial for their frequent "characterizations" when such action as he thought necessary to uphold the dignity of the court would be taken. He indicated that he had refrained from taking contempt of court action thus far because of a desire not to influence the jury against either attorney.

Wallace, on the stand most of the forenoon, denied in detail the accusations against Mrs. Stokes although he became slightly confused on dates. He admitted having torn up a picture of Mrs. Stokes when he decided to close their acquaintance, which he testified was only casual.

Wallace admitted having let Mrs. Stokes a $1,000 diamond ring in 1917, but said he got it back after three or four months when he decided to close the acquaintance. He said he meant he had seen her at the Waldorf hotel when he testified at the previous trial he had been "out with her a few times." He added he stopped speaking to her because he "didn't want to be bothered with her any more," and tore up a picture he had of her.

Shown a photograph album of Mrs. Stokes' Wallace found five pictures of himself taken on a western trip. But said he couldn't remember having sent them to her. William J. Schoenhorn, a Brooklyn photographer late took the stand to testify Mr. Stokes had given him the album to make duplicate of the pictures. He asserted the pictures of Wallace were not in the album when he saw it.

FURTHER CHARGES MADE AGAINST CHARLES R. FORBES

Washington, Oct. 29.—Charges that Charles R. Forbes while director of the Veterans Bureau still was seeking as late as September, 1923, to surreptitiously remove large stocks of narcotics and liquors from the government hospital at Perryville, Md., were made today at the continuation of the senate investigation of the Veterans' Bureau.

James M. Williams, a Philadelphia dairyman, was the witness, his testimony being designed to support in part the sensational story told the committee last week by Elias H. Mortimer, also of Philadelphia, about his alleged relations with Forbes at a time when he was seeking contracts for hospitals from the director.

Williams testified that aside from proposing removal of the narcotics and liquors, Forbes with a man named Bieber had sought to obtain from Mrs. Mortimer certain papers belonging to Mortimer and also to "embitter" Mrs. Mortimer against her husband. This was at a time after Mortimer, according to his testimony, had "broken" with Forbes and when, Williams understood, Mrs. Mortimer was contemplating a divorce from her husband.

The witness also told of remarks by Forbes that $80,000 "was coming to Mortimer, but that he would see that Mrs. Mortimer got it." Williams explained that from what he could gather from the conversation Mortimer was "arranging contracts" with the bureau. The witness also said Forbes had stated that Mortimer was to be arrested and that the reason the former director thought his papers was that he did not want them in Mrs. Mortimer's possession at the time of the arrest.

SPECIAL COUNCIL HELD BY THE BRITISH CABINET

London, Oct. 29 (By the A. P.)—A special cabinet council was held this afternoon, at which consideration was given to the French reply to Great Britain's invitation for participation in a conference on Germany's capacity for the payment of reparations. It is understood, however, that the cabinet decided to await the views of Washington on M. Poincare's Sampigny speech and French reservations before taking any new step in the direction of answering the conference.

It was the general view of the ministers that everything possible should be done to prevent the breakdown of the present pourparlers and to get the conference going no matter how limited its scope.

AN APPEAL FOR AID FOR RHINELANDERS

Duesseldorf, Oct. 29. — Cardinal Schulte, archbishop at Cologne, has issued to the Catholic world an appeal for aid for Rhinelanders, who, he says, "are suffering from hunger and cold."

The cardinal has asked the occupation authorities to facilitate railroad transportation of food, coal and clothing that may be sent.

FUNERAL OF DR. CHARLES P. STEINMETZ WAS SIMPLE

Schenectady, N. Y., Oct. 29.—The simplicity which characterized the daily life of Dr. Charles Proteus Steinmetz, genius of the electrical world, who died of myocarditis in his home here Friday morning, surrounded his burial this afternoon.

His half-sister, Miss Clara Steinmetz, of New York city, and his adopted son, Leroy Hayden, and family, with a few intimate friends alone attended the half-hour service in the Steinmetz home, although without the house 800 gathered to pay last reverence. Rev. Ernest Caldecott, pastor of All Souls' Unitarian church, officiated, assisted by Rev. A. W. Clark, former pastor of the church.

A modest cortege followed the plain coffin to Vale cemetery, but a crowd of 1,500 gathered about the grave tended to make more extensive and impressive the final ceremonies. Dr. Clark read the prayer and the coffin was lowered into the grave. Then flowers were spread about and the burial service was ended.

At 3 o'clock, the funeral hour, the city maintained five minutes of silence. The city schools and Union College were closed all day.

Dr. Steinmetz's will, it is expected, will be read in the presence of his half-sister and the Hayden family at the home tomorrow.

SENSATIONAL ESCAPE FROM AUBURN PRISON

Auburn, N. Y., Oct. 29.—Posse of police, state troopers and Auburn prison guards scoured surrounding country tonight for Jacob Miller, 25, serving a fifteen year sentence for robbery in New York city, who late today made a sensational escape after binding and gagging a keeper.

The convict, a blacksmith, was fixing an anchorage for a fire escape in the attic of the women's prison at twilight, and Keeper James Fedigan was close by and alone. Miller suddenly leaped to the guard's throat and using a rope bound and gagged the keeper. He took Fedigan's pistol and escaped through the yard of the women's prison before an alarm could be sounded. The guard believes he had another pistol.

Miller had been transferred from Sing Sing and would have won his freedom in 1927 by good behavior.

MANY CATTLE DYING OF DISEASE IN COSTA RICA

San Jose, Costa Rica, Oct. 29.—Thousands of cattle are dying of disease in the province of Gwanacasta. The situation has become so alarming that the cattlemen have appealed to the government for aid. The belief prevails that the germ of the disease was imported into the country.

TURKISH ASSEMBLY VOTES TO ESTABLISH A REPUBLIC

Missionaries Released

Shanghai, Oct. 29.—(By the A. P.)—Miss Mary Darsch and Miss Mary R. Sharp, British missionaries captured by bandits last month, have been released, according to a message received here today by the China inland mission from the mission's superintendent of Honan province. The message gave no details, merely saying: "Ladies released."

RUM-RUNNING SECRETS RELATED BY A SEAMAN

New Haven, Oct. 29.—Details of the rum-running traffic along the New York and New England shore were bared by Sanford E. Butman, of Island Pond, Maine, a seaman for many years, who was the principal witness for the government in proceedings for condemnation of two barges for nonpayment of custom taxes, in United States court here this afternoon.

The barges, City of Boston and City of Malden, owned by Eben Thatcher, an insurance man of Boston, are alleged to have been used in the rum-running business previous to their seizure in March, 1923.

Captain Butman testified that he had been employed on one of the barges and that it had been towed out of Boston and down the coast by a tug. He described the trip out to the high seas to a point off Newport and then past Point Judith and along Narragansett Bay. The crew, Butman said, was on the lookout for a steamship by name Corona, and when she was sighted at a place not far from what he called Dutch Island, a part of the Corona's cargo consisting of 100 drums of liquor, was placed on the barge. The witness stated that at that time he did not know the nature of the cargo.

The government alleges that the Corona took aboard the liquor in New York for export shipment and then with the proper permits and papers necessary for a foreign voyage merely went down the harbor, steamed up along the outer coast of Long Island and then unloaded her cargo to the waiting barges. These are said to have brought the liquor up again, landing some at New London, Conn., and the rest at Newtown Creek, and Brooklyn, N. Y.

Assistant District Attorney George Cohen is in charge of the case for the government. At the conclusion of the hearing this afternoon an dwith all evidence having been presented court was dismissed until tomorrow afternoon when arguments will be heard.

The case is said to be one of the most important heard in the federal court for the district of Connecticut for the decision will call for a construction of the prohibition and customs laws relating to the three mile limit.

Deputy United States Marshal John B. Doherty, of Waterbury, who was the first witness, told of serving the libel writs and taking possession of the barges.

CAMPAIGN AGAINST "SOFT DRINKS" PLACES IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Oct. 29.—First fruits of President Coolidge's law enforcement conference with the governors of the several states were seen here today in the action of Federal Judge Adam C. Cliffe in setting aside this whole week for the hearing of injunction suits against violators of the Volstead act. More than 200 petitions for permanent injunctions sealing for one year the property used in dispensing illegal "soft drinks" were placed on the special docket.

In line with the suggestion of Attorney-General Harry M. Daugherty before the White House meeting of October 20, C. W. Middlekauff, special assistant attorney-general has taken charge of the injunction proceedings.

Disposing of the cases almost with the rapidity of police court actions, Judge Cliffe today closed more than a score of rum shops in Chicago and suburbs. In every case the decree enjoined use of the property for any purpose whatever for one year.

A large number of the places which the government seeks to close are the roadhouses located beyond the jurisdiction of Mayor William E. Dever's sweeping police campaign.

MOTHER HEARD LOZADO TELL OF STRANGLING GIRL

New York, Oct. 29.—Blossom Martin's mother and sister, here from Troy, N. Y., pushed past protesting court officials today and heard Eulogia Yozado, Filipino houseman, testify at his trial for murder that he strangled Blossom to death in the home of Dr. George B. McAuliffe last spring in self defense.

The Filipino had called the girl a "bum" he testified, and told her he was going to inform Dr. McAuliffe of their clandestine love affair. She tore at him with a knife; he locked his fingers around her throat in self defense, said Losado. Suddenly her struggles ceased and she fell at his feet dead.

Mrs. Martin and her daughter Marjorie would not heed the court attendants who wished to spare them the ordeal.

"Don't worry," said the mother. "I won't be shocked at anything Lozado may say about Blossom, because I know it won't be true."

200 JEWISH FAMILIES EXPELLED FROM BAVARIA

Munich, Bavaria, Oct. 29 (Jewish Telegraph Agency).—Two hundred Jewish families have been expelled from Bavaria and as many more are awaiting deportation. The expulsions were by order of Dr. Von Kahr, the dictator, an dwere made on the ground of inability to establish the right of domicile. Among those expelled were many old residents who, while not subjects of the Bavarian state, are citizens of the reich. Many of them saw service during the war in Bavarian regiments.

The houses owned by those deported have been requisitioned for the alleged purpose of housing refugees from the Ruhr. The Bavarian Jewry is in panic.

MAN KILLED WHEN TANK CAR OF GASOLINE EXPLODED

Titusville, Pa., Oct. 29.—One man is known to have been killed and several persons, including two women, one of them the wife of Chief of Police H. S. Edwards, were seriously injured late today when a tank car of gasoline exploded at the American Oil works. The large barrel house of the plant took fire following the blast and was still burning tonight.

Situation in Saxony In Critical Stage

It Will be Several Days Before Its Full Significance is Revealed.

Berlin, Oct. 29 (By the A. P.).—Chancellor Stresemann's punitive expedition into "red" Saxony is still in the initial stages, and it will be several days before its further progress reveals whether it is intended as something transcending the mere limits of a controversy with a federated state over the question of constitutional prerogatives.

The chancellor of the reich has appointed Dr. Carl Heinze as commissioner representing the reich in Saxony. Dr. Heinze immediately demanded the resignation of the Saxon cabinet, and the ministers complied with this demand, withdrawing from office at the time set by the commissioner, 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

General Von Mueller, who commands the reichswehr in Saxony, prohibited the diet from meeting. What further steps are to be taken by the central government has not developed. The central government obviously holds the whip hand over Dr. Zeigner and his radical administration, in that it has literally honeycombed Saxony with reichswehr detachments.

Both the political and social situation in Saxony had reached such a critical stage that President Ebert became convinced that it called for a strong show of authority by the central government, as Saxony was rapidly developing into an incubator for German bolshevism. The Berlin authorities were also impressed with the urgent need of giving the Saxon industrialists very necessary protection against communists terrorising, in order to halt the economic collapse with which the nation's most prolific industrial and commercial sector was being threatened.

Dr. Stresemann, who for nearly a score of years has been chairman of the Saxon Industrialists' league, was more concerned with the task of restoring order there than the other members of the government the past week during which he was freely appealed to by delegations of Saxon industrialists for official intervention.

As much of the communist agitation which has kept middle Germany in a turmoil during the past few years, radiates from Saxony, it is plain that President Ebert believed the present situation there warranted dictatorial procedure, and while the socialist party and the labor federation are outwardly viewing his armed invasion of Saxony with a show of impatience it is believed that both champions of labor are secretly not altogether opposed to his peremptory removal from office of Zeigner and his radical allies.

The united socialists and officials of the various labor federations will discuss the situation tomorrow, and on the outcome of these deliberations will depend the socialists' future relations to the Stresemann coalition government.

GERMANS ARE ADJUSTING AFFAIRS WITH ALLIES

Duesseldorf, Oct. 29.—Baron Krupp von Bohlen, in an agreement signed with the interallied mission, agrees to pay the coal taxes in arrears, half immediately and the remainder in installments, and to reserve one-fifth of his coal output for the allies, it is semi-officially announced.

He was also a director of the National Bank of Norwalk and the Norwalk Lock company.

Four Stock Swindlers Had "Sucker" Lists

Fact Disclosed by Arrests in New York—Said to Have Operated Six Months.

New York, Oct. 29.—One hundred persons in various parts of the country, whose names appeared on a "sucker list" police located today in connection with the arrest of four alleged stock swindlers, have been asked to come here in an effort to identify the men and describe their dealings with them. Police say documents seized indicate the quartette may have cleaned up at least $40,000 during the six months they are said to have operated.

Opposite the names on the sucker list were notations such as "he owns a gold mine," "lots of money and two failures but still interested," "wants to make 500 bucks quick time," "wants to make $1,000 quick turnover," "has $1,100," "has $2,000 to invest," "has $10,000." The last notation was opposite the name of an individual living in South Bend, Ind., other notations were "call on none" or "send telegram."

ROTHSTEIN THREATENED WITH CONTEMPT CHARGE

New York, Oct. 29.—Arnol Rothstein, who is alleged to have won $385,000 in bets from members of the defunct E. M. Fuller & Co., today was threatened with contempt of court proceedings when he failed to produce at the Fuller bucket-shop bankruptcy hearing records of his dealings with that company.

The creditors of the bankrupt brokers recently announced they would endeavor to recover the money alleged to have been given Rothstein by the firm as a result of gambling transactions. Rothstein failed to produce the records sought at a previous hearing and today said he had been unable to find them.

Attorneys for the creditors and trustees said they would begin contempt proceedings within 24 hours unless the documents were produced.

Thomas F. Foley, a Tammany leader, and Charles A. Stoneham, owner of the New York Giants, appeared at the hearing today and signed testimony they previously had given.

A copy of a letter obtained by police from files of the brokerage concern, addressed to a physician at Woodcliff, N. J., informed him that 1,000 shares of stock at $1 a share were being forwarded him. Police say they have reason to believe the man had little stock to sell and that there was little if any value to what they did possess.

William F. Ellison alleged brains of the group, was arrested early today on information said to have been furnished by one of the three other men taken into custody on Saturday. They are Albert Green, law student, David Tannenbaum and Alex Gottesfeld. All four were held under $1,500 bail each pending a hearing Thursday. They are charged with attempted grand larceny.

Ellison, police say, learned the routine of the brokerage business by working in brokers' offices. The arrests followed information given the police by Mrs. Anna Henderson, of Brooklyn, a widow, whose suspicions were aroused when one of the men visited her in reference to stock.

The alleged sucker list named persons living in Chicago, St. Louis, Miami, Fla., Lock Haven and Albermarle, Pa., Stamford, Conn., Nyack, Montgomery Suffern, Canadaigua and Port Chester N. Y., and other places.

ESCAPED CONVICT SHOT IN FIGHT WITH BOOTLEGGER

New York, Oct. 29.—The second member of the band of six convicts who escaped last July from the Pennsylvania state penitentiary in Philadelphia today fell dramatically into the hands of the New York police.

He was Thomas ("Eggie") Gillen, of Philadelphia, shot down this morning in a pistol battle in the Hotel Langwell on West 44th street by Joseph F. McLean, of Brooklyn, who gave his occupation as bootlegger, actor and jockey. The police think McLean tracked down Gillen in the belief that he had given detectives information that led to the arrest in Brooklyn last week of James Brown, another fugitive felon.

Tonight Gillen lay near death in Bellevue hospital, two cots away by McLean, also bearing three bullet wounds, screaming at his fellow patient, denouncing him as a rat and squealer and epressing in lurid language the wish he would die.

The duel, breaking with startling suddenness into the sleep of 300 hotel guests, jangled the jaded nerves of the roaring "Forties."

WRITERS OF LYRICS IN THE "SUCKER" CLASS

Chicago, Oct. 29.—Writers of lyrics continued to tell their stories on the witness stand today in Federal Judge Lindley's court were W. L. Needham, manager of the "Musician's Selfmaker Company" is on trial, charged with using the mails to defraud most of the witnesses thus far have told of sending lyrics and money to Needham, who, they claim, promised to supply the music and publish the songs.

Mrs. Anna Skillman, Kalamazoo, Mich., said she sent in a lyric with $3 but that Needham requested an additional $15 fee but that her song never was published.

Herman H. Gets, a real estate broker, of Bridgeport, Conn., sent Needham $15, he said.

Chief Electrician Lawrence Brown and Torpedoman Henry Breault were rescued alive from the hulk and taken to the Colon hospital. No trace was found of the three other missing men. It is thought Brown and Breault may recover.

ROCKWELL LOSES MANY POINTS IN HIS $3,000,000 SUIT

Hartford, Oct. 29.—Albert F. Rockwell, of Bristol, has lost all but one of the many points of his $3,000,000 suit against the New Departure Manufacturing company.

That Rockwell voluntarily left the employ of the New Departure Manufacturing company on or about March 1, 1917, and was not in fact discharged by the company, and that he as plaintiff had no claim to royalties on single roller bearings manufactured by the company, were two important factors in the decision filed with the clerk of the superior court by Judge William M. Maltbie.

The case was heard several months ago and took several weeks in the hearing. In deciding the points at issue, Judge Maltbie has prepared a memorandum of decision of fifty-five pages.

The court found one point at issue in favor of Mr. Rockwell in that he was entitled to royalties on domestic licenses, this being one of the three points seriously disputed by the contestants. Because of the many points involved in the action it would be difficult, if not impossible, to estimate in dollars the far-reaching effect of the decision, but it had been estimated that the claims of the plaintiff, if allowed by the court, would have totaled well toward $3,000,000, while the claim that was allowed, with interest, will probably be in the neighborhood of $30,000.

The case had been in litigation since early in 1917, the original complaint having been for a reformation of contract which it was alleged had been broken with the deposition of the plaintiff as general manager of the company. The contract was dated July 1, 1903, and the demotion charged as of January 1, 1914.

1,973,505 PERSONS IN THE EMPLOY OF RAIROADS

Washington, Oct. 29.—Railroads during August had 1,973,505 persons on their payrolls, and paid out $270,187,582 to them in wages.

The interstate commerce commission, which reported these figures today, said the number of employes was 18,815 greater than the total for July, and 379,481 more than were employed during August, a year ago when the shopmen's strike was in progress.

Actual average earnings during August were shown to be a trifle greater than during August, 1922. Trainmen last August earned an average of $192 apiece, while a year ago their average pay was $192. Cranks and general employes averaged $179 this year against $175 last, while maintenance of way workers got $239 this year and $237 last.

There was a slight drop in average pay for maintenance of equipment forces, largely because of the strike last year with its consequent overtime payments. Earnings of shop workers in August, 1923, averaged $251, while this year they averaged $245.

CHARGES AGAINST ERWIN R. BERGDOLL DROPPED

Philadelphia, Oct. 29. — Conspiracy and draft evading charges against Erwin R. Bergdoll, brother of Grover C. Bergdoll, notorious army deserter who fled to Germany, were dropped by the government today.

Federal Judge Dickinson permitted the nolle prossing of the charges on a request of Assistant U. S. District Attorney Robert V. Bolger, who has had charge of the case since Erwin's release on parole from Leavenworth prison. Mr. Bolger explained that the army desertion charge on which Erwin was sentenced to four years by a military court was virtually the same as those in the indictment pending here against him. He recommended to the department of justice that the civil charges against Erwin be dropped, and the nolle pros was with the sanction of the Washington authorities.

FUGITIVE FROM JUSTICE ARRESTED IN JERSEY CITY

New York, Oct. 29.—Frederick Taub of Jersey City was arrested today as a fugitive from justice from Cleveland, where he was said to be under indictment for defrauding the Merchants Loan & Storage company out of $11,500 worth of diamonds in 1921.

Taub was arrested through the efforts of Isaac Miller, a Cleveland diamond dealer, who purchased a false mustache and shell spectacles and came to this city to hunt for Taub after having been told that he had been seen recently on the Bowery.

HAD FALLEN ASLEEP AND DIED IN BATH TUB

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Oct. 29.—Richard J. Morrison, 62, employe of the J. G. White Management company, manager for the Poughkeepsie and Wappingers Falls railway, was found dead in the bath tub in his apartment here tonight. He had fallen asleep and succumbed when a gas coil on a heater exhausted the oxygen in the room.

CRASHED INTO CAR LOADED WITH 50,000 POUNDS DYNAMITE

Joplin, Mo., Oct. 29.—A St. Louis and San Francisco train late today crashed into a box car loaded with 50,000 pounds of dynamite northwest of the city. The passenger train was not derailed. The car containing the explosives was set on fire and an explosion was feared.

MELLON WRITES PINCHOT OF UNJUSTIFIED CRITICISM

Washington, Oct. 29.—Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania is advised in a letter sent him tonight by Secretary Mellon that the treasury is invoking every available means for prohibition enforcement and that statements to the contrary by the governor, in as letter addressed yesterday to Mr. Mellon, are "gratuitious and not founded on fact."

Mr. Mellon's reply, which took up in detail the points raised by the Pennsylvania governor, suggested in conclusion that it would be better to expend energy in ascertaining facts and actually enforcing the law than in the promotion of "unjustified criticism." He informed the governor further that "it ought to be clear to you that I could not be less desirous" that the prohibition laws be enforced in Pennsylvania than in any other state or section of the nation.

"Before any question had been raised by you," the letter continues, "I had already directed that a reserve of breweries and of the allowances of alcohol for non-beverage purposes be made in the state to Pennsylvania, and you may be assured that it is my purpose to do all that I can to enforce the law and faithfully co-operate with you in that undertaking in the state of Pennsylvania. But I am, with great respect, constrained to say that it would stand all concerned in better stead if energies were expended in a sincere effort, in the first place, to find what the real facts are as to those who are charged with the duty of enforcement, and next to enforce the law as best we can, and, at the same time, to recognize the futility of unjustified criticism based upon imperfect understanding of the facts."

Governor Pinchot's inquiry whether Secretary Mellon would authorize state enforcement officers in Pennsylvania to make inspections of distilleries and breweries was answered in the affirmative by the treasury head, who assured the governor that he desired to employ every means of bringing about closer co-operation between the federal and state forces.

THREE MEN ELECTROCUTED WHILE LOWERING IRON PIPE

Parkersburg, W. Va., Oct. 29.—Three men were killed when an iron pipe they were lowering into a well came in contact with a high tension electric wire late today. The three men Worthy M. Johnson, Earl Poe and Opal Lightner, were knocked to the ground and died a few minutes later.

The three victims, employed at a local steel mill, had been laid off for a few days and were installing a pump at Johnson's home on the first off day. Another man, passing by the Johnson home, assisted in lowering the pipe. He was knocked to the ground but escaped injury.

The contact between the pipe and the electric wire lasted but a few minutes, the pipe sliding off the wire. As the contact was broken, the men were released from the pipe and were carried into the Johnson home where they died.

INTERNATIONAL LABOR CONFERENCE HAS ADJOURNED

Geneva, Oct. 29.—The International Labor conference brought its 1924 meeting to a close today after adopting a number of resolutions and calling the next conference for June 14, 1924, in this city.

The resolutions include one introduced by the Swiss workers' delegate asking the council of the labor bureau to inquire among the governments and labor technical organizations to learn if an international accord is desirable regarding the use of automatic brakes on railroad cars.

Another asks the council to consider the desirability of discussing with the council and secretaris: of the league of nations the possibility of meeting the demands of the local labor bodies in the Sarre valley.

OVERPOWERED BY BANDITS AND ROBBED OF $11,265

New York, Oct. 29.—Two men tonight overpowered Frederick Vandervoort, a superintendent for the Sheffield Farms Dairy company, and escaped with $11,265 of the firm's money which he was carrying. A patrolman a block away saw the struggle, which occurred in the Bronx, but was unable to reach the spot before the bandits had gone.

Frederick Wine, a clerk, was with Vandervoort when the robbers appeared and both men were badly beaten with blackjacks. The bandits leaped into an automobile and sped away, carrying the money, which was the week's receipts of 75 milk wagon drivers.

GOV. W. S. FLYNN OF R. I. FIGURES IN A CIVIL SUIT

Providence, R. I., Oct. 29.—A petition for a preliminary injunction to restrain Gov. William S. Flynn of Rhode Island, his sister, Helen C. Flynn and his brother, Edmund F. Flynn, from transferring or conveying property at Edgewood, R. I., was heard today in superior court here. The complainant, Robert McLaughlin, who owned the property before it was sold in by Edmund W. Flynn at a foreclosure sale, alleges that an agreement was made, before the foreclosure of the mortgage, that he was to have the right to negotiate sale of the property and that the proceeds above the encumbrances should go to him.

In the police court Monday Judge Frank E. Foss on the bench, Joseph Sears was charged with intoxication and pleaded guilty. A fine of $5 and cost was imposed, amounting to $13.16. Joseph Jordan also pleaded guilty to a charge of intoxication and he was also assessed $5 and costs.

Daniel Brennan, charged with intoxication and theft of a silver watch from John Ellison, pleaded guilty to the charge of intoxication but not guilty to theft. Ellison testified that about 11 o'clock Sunday night he was standing in front of a store on Jackson street and Brennan stepped up to him and asked him what time it was. Ellison took the timepiece from his pocket and Brennan grabbed it, breaking the chain and ran. Witness complained to Officer Arthur M. Hurley, and the latter with Motorcycle Officer Grant Bombria, searched the streets for a man answering the description given by Ellison. Brennan was soon rounded up by Officer Hurley. Ellison said that about fifteen minutes after the alleged theft, Brennan came to his rooms and returned the watch, but he did not like the manner in which he was relieved of it.

Brennan said that Ellison dropped his watch to the sidewalk and he picked it up but did not return it to the owner because Ellison was intoxicated. Later he returned the timepiece.

Judge Foss fined Brennan $10 and costs for intoxication and imposed a suspended 90-day jail sentence that will stand for six months, on a charge of assault, a modification of the theft charge.

Louis Delorme of this city and Thomas Brondeau of Linwood street, New Britain, the drivers of two cars which crashed together on Main street here Sunday forenoon, were charged with reckless driving in the police court Monday morning. The accident was one in which an Overland touring car overturned and Mrs. Mary Gorman of 38 Lawlor street, New Britain was injured. The New Britain and the local machine were both damaged. Attorney King for Delorme entered a demurrer which was overruled by Judge Foss. Brohdeau's attorney stating that he wished to have his side of the case heard. Louis N. Dondero, Frank Fancher and Joseph Giracca, all local men, testified.

Dondero placed the blame entirely on the New Britain driver, stating that he was just behind the Delorme machine and that the New Britain car came down Main street at a fast rate of speed and after striking the local car turned over on its side. Dondero said that he stopped his car at the junction of Walnut and Main streets on account of the high rate of speed at which the New Britain car was being driven. A several cross-examination failed to shake his story.

Frank Fancher gave testimony that he saw the accident, as he was standing but a short distance away. Fancher said that Delorme had turned out of Walnut street and was headed down Main street when the other machine came along. He believed that the New Britain driver attempted to avoid striking a Buick car which was parked alongside the curbing and then struck Delorme's machine, striking the right front fender and causing the machine to turn over on its side. Witnesses said that Delorme was traveling slowly at the time.

Joseph Giracca saw the New Britain machine coming down Main street from the west at a fast rate of speed. He heard the crash and turned just in time to see the New Britain car hurled into the air and land on its side.

Practically opposite testimony was given by witnesses for the New Britain party. Clarence Naffziger and Mrs. Naffziger testified that Delorme swung out of Walnut street into Main at a fast rate of speed. They stated that the New Britain car was ahead of the local man's and that Dealorme's car struck the Overland, pulling it along and tipping it some. The New Britain car then struck the Buick car parked near the curbing and overturned.

Thomas F. Lloyd testified that the distance from the silent policeman at the street junction to the overturned car was about 40 or 50 feet.

Thomas Brondeau, the driver of the New Britain car, Joseph Gorman and Miss Mary Gorman, occupants, testified in their own behalf. Their attorney contended that the testimony of the three witnesses of Deslorme was "manufactured." He did not believe that the New Britain car could tip over unless run into by the other machine.

Judge Foss arrived at the conclusion that both parties were guilty and he imposed a fine of $25 and costs on both Deslorme and Brondeau. Both sides took an appeal to the superior court. Bonds were named at $200 which were furnished. E. E. Hickey went surety for Deslorme and the car of the New Britain party was accepted as temporary surety for the other side.

The K. of C. State Athletic association held a meeting in New Haven Sunday at which the various officers of the association were established. Plans were inaugurated for the organization of bowling teams in Putnam, Danielson, Jewett City, Norwich, Willimantic and New London in the eastern part of the state. Elimination matches are to be played, the winning team to be awarded a gold loving cup. The question of basketball games was also taken up.

At a Hallowe'en surprise party tendered Mrs. Clara G. Bartlett, Sunday evening at her home on Whiting street, those present were: Miss Catherine Byrne, of Cambridge, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Harold T. Robinson of Norwich, Mrs. Mary Keeney of New York, Mr. and Mrs. John Hargreaves, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur T. Kelley, Misses Rae Hevrin, Evelyn Thompson, Mary Twomey, Mary and Florence Hevrin, Cecelia Morin, May Cheney and Antoinette Girard, Dr. T. J. Keegan, Luke Hevrin, Harry S. Gaucher, Francis J. Mahoney, J. Frank Keon, and Mr. and Mrs. George A. Bartlett.

Miss Frances Crane entertained at a Hallowe'en party at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Crane of Bellevue street Saturday night, in honor of Miss Crane's guest, Miss Elaine Neuter, of Columbia. Other guests were:—Misses Bunny Thompson and Miriam Muirhead, Philip Dodge of Storrs, Dudley Burr of Baltic, Peter Derieux of Eagleville and Henry Spencer of this city.

What is believed to be a state record for the winning of prizes in drumming and fifing contests was hung up Saturday afternoon, at Southington, by the Odell M. Chapman Continental Fife and Drum corps of this city at a field day contest arranged by the Imperial Drum corps of that place. The local corps won six first prizes and one second prize. The prizes were first playing in a field of eight ancient class; first for appearance, first for longest distance. Frank Fancher won the snare drumming contest, Joseph Nolan the bass drumming and Arthur Caisse first for fifing. Theodore Burt took second prize for fifing.

Miss Bernice Arlene Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Adams of 120 Ardmore street, New Haven, formerly of this city and Warren Chandler Tenney, son of Dr. and Mrs. John Arthur Tenney, of Bramford were married at the home of the bride's parents Saturday afternoon by Rev. Mr. Piper. Among those from Willimantic who attended the wedding and reception were Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Adams and family, Mrs. Ruel M. Hyde and Mrs. Clifton Adams.

Funeral services for John Shanahan were held at St. Joseph's church at two o'clock Sunday afternoon, Rev. O. S. Beaumister officiating. Mrs. Edmund R. Portelance was at the organ. Miss Monica McKeon sang Nearer, My God to Thee, and Face to Face. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery. Rev. Felix J. O'Neill of Stafford Springs and Rev. Father O. S. Beaumister conducted committal services at the grave. The bearers were Jehemiah Shanahan of Bridgeport, John Shanahan of Waterbury, John Shanahan of Springfield, Mass., John Shanahan of this city and Daniel Shanahan of Newark, N. J. Killourey Brothers were in charge of the arrangements.

The funeral of Delos W. Conant was held Monday afternoon at one o'clock at his home, 57 Bellevue street, Rev. A. Stanley Huirhead officiated at the services. Burial took place in the Gurleyville cemetery. The bearers were John C. Tracy, Edgar E. Hass, J. Lelocaine Conant and Frank Bradway. The J. C. Lincoln Company were in charge of the arrangements.

The United States Civil Service commission has announced an examination to be held at Willimantic on November 24, 1923, to fill the position of rural carrier at North Windham and vacancies that may occur on rural routes from that post office. The salary of a rural carrier on a standard daily wagon route of 24 miles is $1,800, with an additional $30 per mile per annum for each mile or major fraction thereof in excess of 24 miles. The salary on motor routes ranges from $2,450 to $2,600 per annum according to length.

An automobile, owned by Alfred Johnson, of Gurleyville, went down an embankment Sunday evening at the foot of the hill near the Park Spring. The owner of the machine paid for the damage caused to a fence, abutting the road.

According to the records on file at the office of Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton there were eleven deaths in the town of Windham during September, as follows:

1—Henrik Henriksen, 7, valvular heart disease.
2—Joseph Holgraki, 30, septic meningitis.
3—Margaret Louise Murphy, 60, chronic enteric colitis.
8—Edward William Kelley, 18 months and one day, acute enteritis.
10—Mrs. Emile Albina Breault, 32, eclampsia.
11—James Turansky, 3 days, enteritis.
13—Josephine Mangano Kemp, 42, bronchial pneumonia.
18—Beatrice Adeline Mathieu, ten hours, premature birth.
18—Ladislaus Cielusniak, 7 months, acute enteritis.
20—Helena Maino, 72, pulmonary oedema.

JEWETT CITY

Local pupils who began several months ago to keep records of flowers to be found in Griswold were able Sunday to add the very last blossom of the season to the herbarium lists. Witch hazel, with its queer yellow flowers, is in bloom at the few familiar hillsides around Tadpole where it is to be found. Some are telling of the extreme difficulty with which they were able to classify only a few of Griswold's most common goldenrods and asters. It is to be noted that the solidago, like the aster, belongs to the composite family, and as local flower lovers have found out, the beginner who identifies many of the 80 or more goldenrods and over 300 asters in going some. A half dozen different asters are to be found growing within the borough limits, and the many goldenrods not far away. The black leaved variety, with sharp leaves and the blossoms in a flat topped cluster, have been located in one place on Stone Hill, while the multiflora aster blossoms this year in some backyards on Main street. The witch hazel found Sunday certainly takes the booby prize when it comes to the exhibit of the beautiful flowers of Griswold. It used to be quite common here but it is not met with often now. Some years ago people who own a witch hazel mill somewhere to the south came here and carried away several large rack loads of the bushes. The Indians long ago discovered the value of its bark for medicinal purposes. There are not a few in this section, as well as in many other places, who believe in the mysterious power of its forked branches as divining rods. Even when Pachaug grange needed a well on the new fair grounds the past summer, a man adept in such matters was sent for and he came with a witch hazel rod and determined with much skill where the bore should be made.

The 10.44 a. m. train connects now at New London with the Colonial express leaving at 11.40, arriving in New York at the Pennsylvania station at 2.05.

A visitor in Jewett City last week was heard to remark on the many changes here in a short time. Different people seem to notice the transformation and even the disappearance of varied objects. This man couldn't help but notice the passing of the blacksmith shops. When he was here there were four, where stood all day did his forge the village smithy, brawny of arm and mighty of muscle, as was he of the poet's fancy. Today there is only one. Another man didn't think of such a common thing as the important blacksmith but with critical eye he did note the alterations and additions which have been made at the once popular hostelry, famous in all this section as the Button tavern. Mr. Blanchard, in making the recent improvements, removed intact the grand old doorway, with its columns and carvings done in another age.

A grand 'coon supper was served at Camp Morro Thursday evening. This camp is one of those that go to make up the summer colony on the upper Aspinook. The 'coon, a ten-pounder, was furnished by Mr. Brand, the cream collector, the same week, he "knocked one down" for Norwich parties that weighed 14 pounds.

The Morro 'coon was roasted by Mrs. H. E. Paul, and taken to the camp where all the delicacies and vegetable accompaniments were added with great care and success by "Bobbie" Olsen late of the Central House, Bethlehem, N. H. Apple and lemon meringue pie, made a top-off to suit the queen's taste. Notable among the party was Captain William S. Christopher, the famous navigator of the "House on Wheels," that made the recent trip to Florida. He called into requisition his ablest poems to entertain and all present declare favorably as to his capability. Those who enjoyed the feast were B. C. Bliss, W. S. Christopher, A. B. Read, Robert Olsen, Eudore LeClaire, William McCluggage, Walter Benjamin, George Bennett, John Davis and Jack McElligott.

Miss Jean Burleson will be in New York for a week, also will be the guest of her sister, Miss Hallie Burleson of East Orange, N. J.

Miss M. A. Burdick has a remarkable collection of Daboll's almanacs. The first date being 1809. From then to 1847 a few issues have been lost. The series is complete for the last sixty-five years.

LYME

Mr. and Mrs. Jared Daniels, Jr., and son have started for Florida, where they expect to spend the winter.

Rev. Leroy Partch of Wisconsin was calling on friends here the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Tiffany were in Hartford last Sunday.

A teachers' meeting was held at the Sterling City schoolhouse last week Thursday.

Lyman Harding was in Essex on business last Monday.

Miss Edith Miller is assisting Mrs. Edward LaPlace after her recent illness.

Egbert Bull and family of Wethersfield spent Sunday of last week at Hillside farm, Sterling City.

Calvin Whipples of New Britain has been in town recently.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

John Kalasch was sentenced to four months in jail by Deputy Judge Ernest K. Taft, Monday, on a charge of assault and battery and breach of the peace. Mr. Kalasch said that Levi Rabideau, a neighbor, owed him $3. He met him on the road Monday morning and demanded his money and when Rabideau would not pay him he became excited and threatened to do violence to him but denied striking him. Rabideau testified that Kalasch threatened to kill him, saying that it would be the last trip that he (Rabideau) would travel that road and that Kalasch then grabbed him and proceeded to beat him, but that his brother, John Rabideau, who was present and who corroborated Levis' testimony in court, stepped in and prevented further violence.

The town school committee held a meeting at the library Monday evening.

Miss Florence Uncles, teacher in the commercial department of the high school, spent the week-end with Boston relatives.

Edwin Goodell has sold his property in Staffordville and is preparing to go to Springfield for the winter.

STONINGTON

Eighteen members of the Stonington Boy Scouts with Assistant Scout Masters B. B. Fairbrother and F. L. Cushman attended the Yale-Brown football game at New Haven Saturday.

The civil service commission at Washington has requested citizens of this district to give knowledge on the following candidates for postmaster at Stonington: Joseph F. Leary, John N. Lewis, Frank D. Stanton and Matthew T. Leahy.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Miss Mollie Garvey has returned to her former position with the Manhattan ladies' department, where she will be pleased to welcome all her friends and former patrons.

BAZAAR OF NATIONS AT CENTRAL BAPTIST

Alice in her wonderful trips to Wonderland never had the opportunity to gaze upon a more beautiful scene than awaits the view of the citizens of Norwich when they attend the Bazaar of Nations to be given today (Tuesday) and Wednesday at the Community House by the Women's League of the Central Baptist church.

Every decoration within the hall has been carefully planned to appeal to the love of beauty and each "booth nation" seems to have been constructed with a view to add to the attractiveness of an already perfect picture.

The Bazaar of Nations has been well named, for practically every large nation in the world has its place in the sun of the Central Baptist bazaar, each nation having for sale tempting bits of articles that will appeal to everyone.

Soon after leaving Norwich on entering the building a stop may be made at the British Isles, England, Scotland and Ireland, all with their offerings for those in search of articles for home use, or best suited for keeping to remember a relative or friend on Christmas. Continuing the trip around the world, one comes to Switzerland, perhaps the most beautiful booth in the hall, a real Swiss cabin filled with hundreds of dolls, clothed in the costumes of all nations. Many articles of clothing for dolls are offered for sale also. All other nations have their offerings of clothing, potted plants, flowers, canned goods, fancy work, aprons, baskets, cakes, candies, cookies, magazines, music rolls or Victor records. Last but not least, at the booth of Young America is found everything to delight the mother, everything being here for the baby from little booties with warm pink toes to bonnets for the baby's head.

Another feature is Japan where tables are set and light refreshments of the famous Japanese Garden are for sale.

One popular part of the bazaar in Paris where each evening, at 6.30 o'clock a real Parisien supper is to be served. The night life of Paris has always had an appeal for the tourist and already every seat has been sold out for the two suppers.

The bazaar is in the general charge of Mrs. Helena M. T. Church and will be conducted Tuesday and Wednesday opening at 10 o'clock in the morning and continuing until 10 o'clock each evening. The hundreds of beautiful gifts for sale are certain to attract patrons and it is expected that banner tourist parties will visit the "booth nations" during the two days of the bazaar.

At the Palace.

A capacity audience witnessed the performance at the Palace theatre last night and were well repaid, for the excellent program offered was of a most entertaining nature. Heading the program was the Juvenile Follies, ten of the cleverest kiddies ever seen in Norwich taking part. Their specialties and ensemble numbers met with unstinted applause. The act is well named, as it truly is a miniature musical comedy, and a very entertaining half hour was enjoyed.

Another on the bill was Al Noda, who styles himself as the One Man Vaudeville Show, and who offers a most amusing contribution to the rest of the bill.

The feature picture is Gloria Swanson in Zaza. Zaza is the star at The Odeon, a cafe chantant at St. Etienne near Paris. The cast includes Gloria Swanson, H. B. Warner, Ferdinand Gottschalk, Lucille LaVerne, Mary Thurman, Yvonne Hughes, Riley Hatch, Roger Lytton, Ivan Linow!

The usual high class comedy and Palace Theatre News rounds out a very well balanced program.

What Did Old King Tut Eat?

The recent archaeological discoveries in the Valley of the Nile have given on the world facts about the ancient Egyptians which were hitherto unknown or guessed at. Most of the facts brought to light had to do with art and craftsmanship, but little pertained to the foodstuffs comprising the food supply of this great nation of the past.

We do know something, however, of the foods eaten by the inhabitants of Egypt from the accounts of writers among the ancients. For instance, leavened bread was made in Egypt over 4,000 years ago and it is not unlikely that it was known and used at a far earlier period in human history. If we could obtain a sample of one of these crude cakes of bread today and compare it with one of thewhite, flaky biscuits as they come from our kitchen, we would instantly recognize that there is a wonderful story connecting the two.

The housewife of today is fortunate in having available a leavening agent which operates quickly. That is, an agent that enables her to make "quick breads" such as biscuits, popovers, griddle cakes, waffles, muffins, shortcakes and other palatable and appetizing dishes. Baking powder is this leavening agent—something that even the housewife of fifty years ago did not possess. Davis O. K. Baking Powder, known for forty-five years to homemakers of this country, is one of the more popular leavening agents.

An attractive and interesting little booklet entitled "Yum!" and containing a number of tasty recipes for "quick breads" is being distributed by the R. B. Davis Co., Hoboken, N. J. A copy is yours for the asking.

Dancing School.

The Vestoff-Serova Dancing school, in its eight years of existence in New York city, has forged its way ahead to the fore and has won the recognition of the profession, besides that of a large and select private following.

Mr. Veronine Vestoff, director, is a dancer and teacher of note, having been with the Russian Imperial Academy of Arts, with Pavlowa, Mordkin Co., the Metropolitan, and with many other important organizations. The high repute in which he is held is an estimate of his artistic merit. He is unflinching and exacting in promoting the cause of the best in dancing and nothing can sway him from his purpose.

Every movement of his is made with the avowed purpose of adding to the beneficial power of dance. Every pupil receives his personal attention at every stage of his development. Rigid discipline, on the one hand, is inculcated, and freedom of expression sought after principles have been learned; salutary habits are impressed in his mind.

Vestoff-Serova teaches the Russian method, which is said to combine the best in all the European methods, thus forming a method of its own, joining technique of unsurpassed brilliancy with exquisite grace of body; and by the careful study of anatomy, eliminating many exercises prevalent in other schools which merely tended to an over-development of muscle, spoiling the lines and beauty of many dancers. It is his firm belief that "the perfection of the dance lies in the graceful whole, the turn of the head, the soft finish of wrist work, the head of the body."

D. Alvin Quirk, who will have direction of the ballroom dancing, is New York's authority in his line.

At the Bread.

Colorful, thrill-a-minute, mile-a-minute melodrama holds forth at the Brode theatre today. The Eleventh Hour is the celluloid reproduction of Lincoln J. Carter's highly successful melodrama of the same name. Produced by William Fox with Charles Jones, Shirley Mason, June Elvidge and Alan Hale in the cast, this thrilling production comes to this city with a path of broken records behind it. Audiences everywhere, of the older generation, have declared this William Fox Super-Special superior in every phase to the stage production which Lincoln J. Carter presented some years ago. The director of The Eleventh Hour is Bernard J. Durning.

As an added feature the great $100,000 International race picture between Papyrus and Zev will be shown and the Pathe News will complete the bill.

Broadway Theatre.

One of the finest programs of the season was presented yesterday at the Broadway theatre to a very enthusiastic audience. The same show will be seen today and Wednesday.

The bill opened with Karl Green, the unusual artist, in a series of landscapes in oil and transparent paintings. This was a decided novelty and pleased all.

Clifford & Bailey, two dark spots of joy, held second place to perfection with their humor, songs and exceptional dances.

Rudell & Dunigan in Musical Comedy Revouettes are exponents of fun and song which took very well.

The Current of Fun, the feature attraction, presented Mlle. Burnell, the scientific enigma and her company in a very funny and novel offering.

Should a wife refrain from dancing with other men if her husband is inclined to be jealous? This point is brought up very pertinently in Mine to Keep, a Ben Wilson production now at the Broadway theatre. The result in this story is—chaos. But it ends rightly and proves that there is a limit in both directions and that marriage is largely a game of give and take, bear and forebear, give and forgive.

At the Strand.

Cullen Landis, who will be seen in a romantic role in Pioneer Trails, Vitagraph special production at the Strand theatre today, is considered an authority on early Indian history. Landis, who is an outdoor enthusiast, owes his unusual knowledge of the red man to the fact that he spent many years of his childhood and youth in South Dakota where he was thrown in constant contact with the Sioux Indians.

All of the Indians on the various government reservations are under the direct care of government agents, who supervise their lives and manage their business affairs as the United States still looks upon the red man as wards. Numerous reservations in the country in addition to those in Oklahoma.

During the filming of Pioneer Trails Landis was given ample opportunity to make use of his knowledge of Indian life and lore. The picture called for an Indian massacre of members of the prairie train for one of its pulsating sequences. Landis proved himself a great aid to David Smith, the director of this picture, in handling the Cree Indians who appeared in the action. It was a difficult task to teach these Indians what was demanded of them in the picture, but Landis was able to get them to do the necessary action.

Several short subjects will also be screened.

Watch the prettier teeth that come when you combat the film

Here is a test which has brought to millions a new conception of clean teeth. Whatever you look upon see the results. Teeth glisten as they never did before.

If you don't know this method, you should find it out. You owe that to yourself.

Film is dingy

You feel on your teeth a viscous film. No ordinary tooth paste effectively combats it. So much of it clings and stays, becomes discolored, and then forms dingy coats. That is how teeth lose their beauty.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Under old methods, these film-spawned troubles became almost universal.

So dental science sought and found two effective film combatants. One disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Other uses a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never was a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

Pepsodent

The New-Day Dentifrice

use removes it without harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods by many careful tests. Then a new-type tooth paste was created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent. Now careful people of some 50 nations employ it, largely by dental advice.

Other new effects

Pepsodent also multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. Also its starch digestant. These are Nature's agents for combatting acid and starch deposits. Every use of Pepsodent gives them manifold power.

So this creation has brought to millions new beauty, new cleanliness, new protection.

It will delight

Pepsodent will bring to you a delightful revelation. The results are quick and apparent.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

Then you will realize why you and your family should ever use this method. Cut out coupon now.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY.

Getting the Crooked Sixpence.

"Poo, Pooh!" said Crafty Carl to the little fairy. "Im not afraid of a fairy charm. Look out or I'll pinch you."

But no sooner were the words out of his mouth than the little fairy blew on a silver whistle and in less than five hundred short seconds that ugly giant was surrounded by maybe a thousand fairies who ran sharp pointed ping and needles into his body.

Where did You get Your wings?

"Goodness me!" he cried out:

"Oh, let me be, I'll be so good And harm no one within this wood."

When the fairies heard that they flew away, leaving the big giant to go home and tell his wife he was going to be a good man from that day.

Now, as soon as Little Jack Rabbit was high above the treetops, he started off for Mother Goose Land as fast as he could go, and by and by, after a while, he came to the River dee, which flows between Fairy Land and Mother Goose Country, you know. There stood the Jolly Miller in the doorway of the old mill.

"How are you today, Mr. Jolly Miller?" asked the bunny boy.

When the little rabbit had explained how the Fairy Queen had given him the flying suit that he might get the crooked sixpence from the little crooked man, the Jolly Miller asked what the Queen wanted with the crooked sixpense.

"I'm sure I don't knew," replied Little Jack Rabbit. "But I must be going. How far from here is the little crooked house?"

"About a mile as the crow flies," answered the Jolly Miller, and away went the little bunny and after a while, he saw the little crooked house. In answer to his knock, the little crooked man himself opened the door.

"Bless my stars," he said, "if it isn't Little Jack Rabbit with wings," and he began to laugh for I guess it was the first time he'd ever seen a flying bunny.

"What do you want?" he asked, leading the way into his sitting room, where a little crooked cat lay on the rug and a little crooked canary sang in a gilt cage.

"I hardly know how to begin," answered the bunny boy, "but to come to the point, the Fary Queen wants your crooked sixpence!"

"You don't say so!" exclaimed the little crooked man. "But that's all the money I have!"

"I'll give you a ruby for it," said the bunny boy, taking the beautiful red stone from his pocket. "This is worth more than a sixpence."

"Very well, here is the sixpence," answered the little man and in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

The number of new building permits issued by Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton for the past week still holds up to the normal average for the month and there is the prospect that October this year will exceed previous years, as there are many applications for permits being filed with the fire marshal. Good progress has been made on local building operations throughout the city during the past week, although the bad weather held up exterior work to some extent.

The building permits issued during the past week carry a total valuation as placed by the owners at about $10,000. The permits issued are as follows:

To Robert Goldstein, to build a frame addition to his present house on Maple street. The addition will be 10x30 feet and two stories high. The foundation will be concrete.

To Boleshaw Nawrocki, to add to barn and build shed on Russell road. The addition will be 16x38 feet and the shed will be 21x43 feet.

To Arthur Lamoureux, to erect a frame building at 25 Ore street for Ralph Valentine, to be used as a store. The building will be 16x16 feet. The foundation will be of stone and the exterior finish will be of composition shingles and novelty siding.

Luther G. Andrews, to erect a frame garage at 448 Main street. The garage will be 8x8 feet.

To George W. Allen, to erect a two-story house on Potter Manor for George Shaw. The house is to be 22x30 feet and of the balloon frame type. The foundation will be of stone and cement. The exterior finish will be in clapboards and shingles, with asphalt shingles on the roof.

To Gertrude T. Ahearn, to erect a frame bungalow on Sumner street. The foundation will be of stone and cement. The exterior will be of shingles and clapboards. The interior will be in cypress.

To James C. Macpherson, to erect a frame garage on Stetson street. The garage will be 12x20 feet.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were 14 sales of real estate as compared to 19 sales for the corresponding week in 1922. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $24,535 and $55,050.

There were 17 sales of real estate in New London last week, three more than for the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans were $133,717 as compared to $44,375 for the same week in 1922.

THE STATE SITUATION.

Due to the granting of a permit to the city of New Haven for its new high school, the record of permits issued in the larger centers of the state in the past week has gone to unusual proportions, says the Commercial Record. While this added nearly a million dollars to the total, a large number of small projects have been started, so that the aggregate number of permits for the week was 403, the new construction costing $1,805,594, against 276 permits in the same week of the previous year, for buildings costing $644,716, and 241 in 1921, for buildings costing $941,985.

NEW LONDON.

L. Sharaf, of the Sharaf Furniture company, Hank street, has awarded the contract for the erection of a two-family dwelling on Sharaf street to Otto Holm. As prepared by Architect L. Eugene Conway, the plans call for a Boston style house 28x30 feet, with furnace heat and hardwood trim. The cost is estimated at $7,500.

Work has been started on the frame dwelling which H. R. Griswold is to build for himself on Lincoln avenue. The house will be 26x41, arranged for two families. Steam heat, hardwood floors and other improvements will be provided. The cost will be about $6,500.

The permit has been issued to Leonore Leary for a frame dwelling to be erected at 224 Colman street. It will be 26x30 feet, and will contain five rooms. There will be hardwood floors and other conveniences.

Work is well under way on the erection of a frame shed on Eastern avenue by the Thames River Lumber company. The building will be 22x72 feet and will cost about $1,200. It will be used for the storage of lumber.

The permit has been issued to Guiseppe Gargano for the erection of a dwelling on Vauxhall street, 22x21 feet, with an ell 11x14 feet. The house will be built by the owner.

Applications for Building Permits.

Guiseppe Gargano, dwelling, Vauxhall street, $600.

H. R. Griswold, dwelling, Lincoln avenue, $6,500.

James M. Shea, addition, 115 Winthrop street, $300.

E. Deshefy, garage, Riverview heights, $200.

L. Sharaf, dwelling, Sharaf street, $7,500.

Thames River Lumber Co., shed, Eastern avenue, $1,200.

Leonore M. Leary, dwelling, 224 Colman street, $4,000.

Number of permits issued for the week, 11; estimated cost of buildings, $20,675.

WHAT OTHER CITIES DO

Richmond, Va., has found that "mushroom" traffic lights and zone markers are very effective in regulating traffic and have materially lessened the number of accidents.

Knoxville, Tenn., has voted to adopt a city manager form of government.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

F. R. WHEELWRIGHT KILLED, ON DARK LANTERN HILL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Danielson, Oct. 29.—Death stalked again on Dark Lantern hill during the first few minutes of Monday morning when a Pierce-Arrow sport car skidded, turned over and pinned its four occupants underneath. F. Richmond Wheelwright, 21, a son of Frank R. Wheelwright of 306 Bowen street, was fatally injured and probably died almost as soon as he was removed from the wrecked car, although he was hurried to Providence and taken to the Rhode Island hospital in the belief that he was merely unconscious. Marsden J. Perry, Jr., owner and driver of the car and a son of one of the best known families in Providence, is a patient at the Jane Brown Memorial hospital, in Providence, and King Collins, who was riding in the rear seat of the machine, is a patient at the Rhode Island hospital. Perry and Collins are painfully, but not fatally hurt, and it is expected they will be able to leave the hospitals in about two or three weeks. Edwin A. Cole, Jr., 25, whose home is in Houghatonic, Mass., was the only one of the four Brown university students who made up the party in the car to escape injury.

Testifying at an inquest conducted here Monday afternoon by Coroner Arthur G. Bill, Cole said that the party in the car left Wallingford at about 9 o'clock Sunday night for Providence, via Hartford, in which city one member of the party left to go to his home. The students had been at New Haven Saturday for the Yale-Brown football game. Neither Cole nor Collins made the trip out from Providence to New Haven and Cole testified that he had never met Perry until Sunday, in Wallingford, when he was introduced and invited to ride back to Providence. The trip to Danielson and out onto Dark Lantern hill, about four miles east of here, was without incident. The progress of the party was slow, Cole said, because fog interfered and the machine was proceeding, he estimated, at between 20 and 25 miles an hour when the up grade from South Killingly was cleared and the machine passed over the crest of the climb and started down dread Dark Lantern hill. Part way down the hill a fog bank obscured the road, Cole said, and Perry applied the brakes. Instantly the car swerved, turned around completely, then plunged head-on into the embankment at the north side of the highway.

The impact caused the car to turn over, and it landed with the wheels up and then slid along the surface of the road for several feet. The four young men were pinned beneath the heavy machine.

Cole, riding in the rear seat with Collins, was the first to extricate himself and a minute later Perry managed to crawl from beneath the car. The two who were free were unable to release Collins, across whose body the side of the car was resting, or Wheelwright, who lay across the car in the foot space between the front seat, and the cowl, his body tangled with the shift lever and emergency brake lever.

Perry and Cole were helpless until another machine driven by James S. Orr of Providence came along. Cole waved his arms to Orr to stop as the Orr car came over the top of the hill and started down the grade, and as Orr applied his brakes, his car skidded, turned around twice and slid across the highway into the embankment. It was not wrecked, however. Orr and his two companions helped Perry and Cole free the two men under the car and Wheelwright was placed in the Orr car and hurried to Providence. Mr. Orr said at the inquest Monday afternoon that he felt Wheelwright's body just over the heart after the unconscious young man had been taken from the wrecked machine and felt it beating slightly, but Wheelwright never revived and it is believed he died almost as soon as taken from the overturned machine. His skull was fractured and he was injured internally.

There was a delay of more than an hour and a half in reporting the accident to the state police here and in the meantime the wrecked car was the cause of another accident. Edward Z. Mutter of 483 High street, Central Falls, driving a Durant roadster and with Joseph Procaccini of 214 Winchendon street, Providence, as the seat beside him, came over the brow of the hill on route to Providence. His first impression when he saw the shadowy outline of the overturned Pierce Arrow in the highway, partly obscured by fog, that he was about to be held up and with that in his mind made a desperate dash up the side of the embankment to circle the wrecked machine. This move was disastrous for his own car was overturned and wrecked. Mutter and his companion were cut, shaken up and bruised, but not seriously injured. The top and windshield of their car crumpled up when it overturned and the machine was otherwise damaged. These men were taken into Providence by a car that happened along.

State Officers Stephens and Bigelow from the local barracks were at the wreck and were instrumental in tipping in the bud an attempt to steal the suit cases and bags from the wrecked Pierce Arrow.

It is believed that Vincenzo Zalendo of 59 Knight street, Providence, and his companion, Mike Norati, also of Providence, overheard King Collins insisting that his suit case be taken from the wreck and placed in the car that was to convey him to Providence, but Collins was prevailed upon to go along without it. In any event, the officers discovered a few minutes later that two suit cases and a traveling bag that had been in the Pierce Arrow were missing, as were also Zalendo and Norati, who had come along from Danielson on their way to Providence and stopped at the wreck. Officer Bigelow pursued the fleeing men and overtaking them, regained possession of the suit cases. They said that Collins had told them to bring the baggage into Providence, but this statement was checked up and found to be untrue during Monday, when warrants were issued for the arrest of the two men, who were taken into custody by the Providence police and likely will appear in the town court of Killingly, today, as soon as arrangements can be completed to bring them back to Connecticut.

The wrecked Pierce Arrow was towed to a local garage early Monday morning and during the day was viewed by hundreds of people. It is a nearly new machine, run only 1907 miles, was specially built and elaborately equipped. It is badly damaged. It is cleaned of windshield and top, fenders crumpled up, doors broken, steering wheel smashed and has many dents. The car was spattered with blood.

Coroner Bill said Monday afternoon that he will have Perry, the driver of the car, appear before him as soon as possible after the young man leaves the hospital.

Weldey LaValles, 52, dropped dead in the kitchen at his home on Franklin street, just before 7 o'clock, Monday morning. Mr. LaValles has been ill for some time. He had just dressed and gone into the kitchen when the end came unexpectedly. He was a native of Canada, but had lived here the greater part of his life. He leaves his wife.

Julian Benac, 68, was almost instantly killed at the junction of Reynolds and Stearns street, shortly after 3 o'clock Monday afternoon when run down by a five-ton truck loaded with furniture. Ralph A. Denoyelle, 89 South street, Providence, the driver of the truck, was arrested by the state police and lodged without bail in the police station here. Denoyelle will be charged in court this morning with operating a motor vehicle while he was under the influence of liquor and with reckless driving.

The upper section of Reynolds street is being resurfaced by the state highway department at the present time and while some traffic is allowed to move through it, this traffic passes at its own risk and flagmen are stationed at Reynolds and Broad streets and at Reynolds at Stearns street. Mr. Benac, for years an employe with repair crews of the state highway department here, was acting as flagman at Reynolds and Stearns street. According to eyewitnesses, the truck that Denoyelle was driving came rolling down the state highway from Providence at a good clip and Mr. Benac, standing at his post where a barrier with a warning as to traffic conditions partly blocked Reynolds street, flagged Denoyelle and routed him through Stearns street. It is said that Denoyelle headed the truck as though to go down Stearns street and then suddenly swung his wheel sharp, sharp over and headed for Reynolds. Mr. Benac was in the path of the oncoming truck and when it struck him he was thrown a considerable distance and collapsed, his neck broken. He lived only a minute or two, being unconscious from the time he was hit. The truck plunged over the road and was overturned in the soft dirt at the side of the state highway.

It was recalled after the accident that Mr. Benac narrowly escaped death in much the same manner a few years ago, on the day that his foreman, Millard F. Jordan, was killed in an accident similar to the one in which Mr. Benac died. Mostly, that accident at Dayville. In that instance Mr. Benac was chosen Mr. Jordan when a motor vehicle struck him and killed him.

Mr. Benac was a native of St. Alexandre, P. Q., and had been a resident of Danielson for 19 years and, with his family, lived at Blackstone before coming to Danielson. He was a faithful worker and a dependable man and his death shocked not only his family, but all who knew him. He leaves his wife and nine children—Julian, Peter, Mrs. Louise Dubrey, Miss Rose Benac, all of Danielson, Mrs. Lauretta Kol, Springfield, Mrs. Sarah Johnson, Moosup, Joseph and Henri of New Bedford and Delor of Putnam.

Dr. W. R. Judson and Dr. Warren A. Thurber were called to give aid to Mr. Benac, but his case was hopeless. Later the body was examined by Dr. George M. Burroughs, medical examiner. He gave permission for its removal to the undertaking rooms of L. E. Kennedy and then to Mr. Benac's home.

The truck that figured in the accident was owned by C. B. Deignan of 434 Broad street, Providence. Riding with Denoyelle, the driver, were Wilfred Gaboury of 39 West Friendship street, Providence, and Thomas Loomis of 1069 Westminster street, Providence. Gaboury and Loomis did not figure in the responsibility for the accident, being employes riding on the truck, bound from Providence to Willimantic with a load of furniture. Mr. Deignan was notified and during the early evening sent out another driver to take the truck to its destination.

This (Tuesday) afternoon Mrs. Esther Jacobs will have the members of the W. C. T. U. at her home for a meeting.

A Sunday school social—a get-together social—is to be held this (Tuesday) evening at the Baptist church. Features of the program of entertainment that has been arranged will be talk on his recent trip to the Holy Land by Dr. Nathaniel Hibbard and numbers by a male quartet. Refreshments are to be served.

A large number attended the early mass Monday morning in memory of departed members of St. James' parish. Rev. Charles Kirby, M. S., was celebrant, Rev. John Roux, M. S., deacon and Rev. Francis X. Richards, M. S., sub-deacon.

Post cards received here tell of the progress of Henry Babson and A. Gingras, who have been motoring south in Florida, with Winter Haven as their destination.

Miss Gertrude Collins of Providence has been the guest of Miss Susie Collins.

Mrs. Russell Torrance of Norwich is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Martin Wolfe of Main street.

George A. Garber of Hartford was the visitor with friends in Danielson on Monday.

A touring car, in endeavoring to avoid an accident early Monday evening, shot out of Academy street, directly across Broad and into the lawn at St. Alban's church.

Many were at St. James' church at 8 o'clock Monday to attend an anniversary high mass of requiem for Mrs. Margaret Dermott.

Miss Beatrice Geer, an operator at the Norwich central telephone office, visited at her home here Sunday.

Mrs. Anna Reynolds, Miss Elizabeth Dunn, Jacob McNally and Frank McGarty of the Danielson division were in Hartford Monday, attending a meeting of the Telephone Employes' association.

PUTNAM

Monday evening at eight o'clock the October meeting of the Putnam chamber of commerce was held. It was an unusual meeting and took the form of a dinner at the Putnam Inn, with the business of the session following. The committee in charge of the affair, Ralph C. Jenkins, chairman, Thomas De Cenders and Omer L. Miller, provided as a special feature a speaker of authority on "Credits" a subject of interest of every business man. The speaker, H. Nelson Street of the Providence Chamber of Commerce, spoke for an hour and held the close attention of the members. He analyzed his subject in detail and offered some good advice to the business men of the city. There were informal remarks by others present.

Rev. C. J. Merriman, formerly pastor of St. Philip's church, and also for a time secretary of the chamber of commerce in this city, has received a call to a church in Philadelphia. Mr. Merriman left Putnam to become assistant rector of a church in Providence.

Officer Earnest Chandler was on duty in the business section Monday relieving Patrolman Eugene Gibney who had his day off duty.

The foundation of the new Savings Bank building is practically completed and Monday large iron girders were being put in place. The Stromberg block is well along and soon actual work will begin on the new Cedar block. Early in the spring Putnam will have three new business blocks on Main street.

A Ford automobile transformed into a home on wheels was parked in Union square Monday. The outfit belonged to Fred Babbitt of East Putnam who is taking his family overland to Florida.

During the past week $118 has been added to the Nurses' Home Fund of the Day Kimball hospital. One unit, $50, was contributed by Putnam grange; a second unit of $50 from Miss Katherine Byrne for the Byrne family; a third of $15 from one who is always interested in her home town.

Henry Pautsun, locally known as Joe Bock, was before the city court Monday morning for the fourth time since May. Twice in May, once in June, and now again in October. Joe had nothing to say except to admit he was drunk. Deputy Judge Macdonald, who was occupying the bench, imposed a sentence of 10 days on the count for intoxication and an additional 60 days for being a common drunkard.

A petition in bankruptcy has been filed in the United States District Court at Hartford by Ovid St. Onge of Putnam. Assets are approximately $100 and consist in stock in trade and fixtures and the liabilities are approximately $3,000, consisting mostly of current bills. For the past five years or more Mr. St. Onge has conducted a store at the corner of Marshall and Providence street selling candy, fruit, ice cream, pipes and tobacco. An attempt was made to reach a compromise with creditors but this proved unsuccessful.

Members of the Putnam Country club will hold a Hallowe'en party and dance in the club house, Wednesday evening.

Superintendent of Streets Frank Dumas and his men in the department are giving the city streets their fall cleaning, removing leaves and dirt from the gutters.

A crew of between thirty and forty laborers on the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. are engaged in changing the rails in the north end of the Putnam railroad yard. When completed new cross overs will result. The trains on the New London to Worcester and Hartford to Boston, one arriving on tracks on the east side of the right of way and the other on the west side, cross at this point and leave Putnam on the sides opposite from which they enter the city. The large gang of men is rushed in the work so as not to retard the running of regular trains.

Mrs. Douglas Fenwick of New York, sister of the late John G. Johnson, is a guest at the Putnam inn. She is in the city transacting business relative to her brother's estate.

It is understood that boys responsible for placing obstructions on the railroad tracks a week ago will be brought into court today (Tuesday.)

John Jarvis, known to everyone in Putnam as one of the few old time horse traders, is to take his family to St. Petersburg, Fla. They will leave Putnam next week. Ever since the horse business has been superceded by the automobile Mr. Jarvis has been lonesome and has longed for the smell of the stable. In the southland he believes there is an opportunity to do a little trading in mules and he is going down to look the field over with this in view. "The 'hoss' game," says John, "is dead. Of course you can sell an animal or two once in a while but there is no hoss trading like there was ten years ago. The last trade I made, the hoss I traded had the hearse and when the feller came back and told me about it I told him that the man that sold it to me didn't tell me and so I thought it was a secret." So Jarvis is going to the Peninsular state to see what the mule game has to offer and it is a ten to one shot that if there is anything in it he will find it.

WESTERLY

Many relatives and friends of Edward C. McNally were present Monday morning at 9.30 in the Church of the Immaculate Conception at the solemn requiem mass offered for the repose of his soul. Rev. Daniel F. Sullivan, S. M., was the celebrant, Rev. Thomas J. Larkin, S. M., was deacon and Rev. Henry Brune, S. M., sub-deacon. Thomas V. R. Clancy sang "Absent" following the mass, and Nearer, My God to Thee was rendered by the choir. The bearers were Charles Leo Higgins, Raymond Garity, William Reardon, Edwin Higgins, Dr. Harold Doyle and Joseph Keohan. Burial was in St. Michael's new cemetery, with Rev. Father Larkin reading the committal service. Delegations were present from Westerly lodge, No. 673, B. P. O. E., and Narragansett lodge, No. 21, K. of C.

Edward Charles McNally, 38, a well known pharmacist of Westerly for several years, died at his home, 76 Summer street Friday afternoon from pneumonia, after an illness of 10 days' duration. The news of his death saddened the entire community.

Mr. McNally was the son of the late Frank and Julia (Garity) McNally, and was born in Westerly, October 26, 1885. He was a member of Narragansett council, No. 21, K. of C., and Westerly lodge, No. 673, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. He is survived by two sisters, Miss Mary F. and Miss Anna M. McNally, and also by his aunt and uncle with whom he made his home.

Elmer E. Babcock returned to Westerly Sunday morning from Cincinnati, Ohio, and other places in the west, where he has been on a several months' trip in the interests of the C. B. Cottrell & Sons Co.

Frank Robertson has had several days' vacation in Westerly from his school duties at the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia.

Thomas B. Vaughn of South Norwalk has been the guest for several days of his mother, Mrs. Emma F. Vaughn.

Miss Marguerite Poore, formerly a teacher in Westerly High school, now dietition instructress in the public schools of Providence, was a visitor in Westerly Saturday en route from a week end visit to her cottage at Lord's Point.

In the United Baptist church, Providence, Sunday, Rev. Arthur E. Tarbell, assistant superintendent of the Rhode Island Anti-Saloon League and Mr. Earnest V. Claypool, superintendent of the league, in the Baptist church at Summit, made bitter attacks upon Judge Michael J. Turano of the third district court in Westerly.

Charles F. Vaughn has returned to his home on the West Side after a week's visit in New York.

Miss Rebecca George of Danvers, Mass., has returned to her duties in Pawtucket, after a week end visit in Providence.

A dinner for the men of the congregation and their friends in honor of Rev. H. Eugene Davis, missionary to China for the Seventh-Day Baptist Missionary society, was served by the Women's Aid society Monday evening, in the vestry of the Pawcatuck Seventh-Day Baptist church, Main street, with nearly 150 in attendance.

In Stonington town court Wednesday morning, the 31st, before Judge William A. Wilcox the five Pawcatuck parties who received summonses from state policemen, on Saturday evening to answer charges of keeping places resorted to for gaming, have been warned by notice from Prosecuting Attorney George R. McKenna on Aug. 9th to remove at once punch boards, slot machines and other gambling apparatus from their stores, will be brought for trial. There will also be presented an Old Mystic case where an arrest was made by Constable William Hill of a man found hunting without first securing a license.

A parade of 1,000 American citizens of Italian antecedents, held in Providence, Sunday, the opening day of the Supreme Convention of the Order of Sons of Italy in America, and among the aids on the staffs were Joseph S. Grilli, Michael D. G. Papalia, Joseph Gervasini and Stephen Farago. Monday night there was held a banquet at which were present Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Grilli and Michael G. Papalia and daughter. The closing day of the convention will be today (Tuesday) and a ball at Rhodes will conclude the observance. Many Italian citizens of Westerly have been in attendance at this convention of the order.

On this (Tuesday) night at the armory of the 240th Co., R. I. C. A. C., on Dixon street will be held the regular weekly drill of the company. It is expected that a full company will answer the roll call, the added inducement for attendance being that the company pay checks will be ready and issued to the members. Last Tuesday evening began the team competition in small arm practice which is held on the rifle range in the basement. The team lead by First Lieutenant John Dalson led in the contest of a week ago, which will be continued tonight. Much interest is shown in the matches played by the basketball team of the company which are followed by dancing. As far as known no preparations have been made for an Armistice Day parade, in which the presence of the company might be required.

The burglary of stores of Laqis Tuscano and Patsy Salimeno on Pleasant street was reported Monday morning to Sergeant Donald Ferguson. Early in the morning lights were reported as seen in the store of Patsy Salimeno by neighbors who also heard the sound of an automobile being driven away. In his investigation Sergeant Ferguson reported that entrance had apparently been gained by forcing a rear window at the Salimeno store where packages of cigarettes and a number of cigars were missing. At the Tuscano store there was nothing to show how admittance had been gained. From this store were found missing eight one-gallon cans of olive oil, eight boxes of cigars, some cigarettes and a 35-pound cheese.

Frank Moran of Hallville was presented before Clerk M. Walter Flynn Monday morning in a special session of the Third district court, having been arrested Sunday evening on Broad street by Police Officer Michael Curtin charged with intoxication. On his plea of guilty he was fined $3 and costs amounting to $4.80 which he paid.

Harold D. Campbell and Miss Ethel M. Wilson of Westerly were the attendants at the Campbell-Semple wedding in Norwich Monday evening, making the trip to Norwich by automobile Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elisha C. Burdick left Westerly Monday morning for Stamford, being called there by the death of Mr. Burdick's brother, Oscar L. Burdick, after six days' illness.

MYSTIC

While George W. Wallace and men were working on the outside of the Methodist church Thursday a board was taken off the southeast corner of the building and on looking at the large stone underneath they found the box that had been placed there in 1867, at the laying of the cornerstone of the church. Mr. Wallace notified the pastor, Rev. J. Garfield Sallis, and Harry B. MacKenzie, who investigated and found valuable documents. The box contained the church papers, Zion's Herald and the Christian Advocate, the Methodist almanac, Daboll's almanac, the proclamation of Abraham Lincoln, the Bible, a Methodist hymnal, the book containing the officers of the church and those who gave to the building, with other valuable papers. All of the contents of this box will be preserved by the pastor and with other valuable documents and articles will be placed in a box by Bishop Edward Hughes when he comes to rededicate the church, it is hoped by the last of November. The carpenter work is nearly done, the plasterers have nearly completed their work and a new chimney has been built in the west of the church. Two new windows have been added and two memorial windows are to be placed in the west side of the building in memory of Mrs. Isabella MacKenzie and Mrs. Otis Abell. There is an addition of three class rooms, a fine belfry room and an up-to-date kitchen. The improvements have added greatly to the appearance of the church, and money for them is coming in steadily. The pastor and the treasurer, C. C. Potter, are receiving any and all subscriptions. The parsonage has also a new heating plant and has been painted. The articles found at the church are to be on exhibition at the Methodist church services held in Odd Fellows' hall Sunday.

The officers of Father Murphy council, Knights of Columbus, were installed Sunday afternoon by State Deputy Day, assisted by State Advocate Jeremiah J. Collins and Warden James Sullivan of New London. The ceremonies were witnessed by over 40 of the members. Reports showed that the local council in a flourishing condition financially and numerically. Remarks were made by the visiting officers after which a social hour was enjoyed.

The new officers are: Grand knight, James P. Galvin; deputy grand knight, Henry Morin; financial secretary, John Whittle; chancellor, Sylvan Radicioni; warden, Rosario Nigrelli; lecturer, George R. McKenna; inside guardian, Thomas Riley; outside guardian, Joseph Donch; trustees, E. Longboe, G. F. Costello, J. F. Galvin; chaplain, Rev. W. J. Fitzgeral.

William Ed. Backus has returned from a week-end stay in South Windham.

Everett Barber and E. A. Morgan have bee non a hunting trip in Sterling.

Dr. L. M. Allyn has returned from Yarmouth, N. S., where he has been hunting.

PENDLETON HILL

The New England supper which the Ladies' Aid society served at the parsonage was largely attended. People from Westerly, Ashaway, Canonchet, North Stonington and Laurel Glen were present.

Rev. Mr. Mathewson on Sunday morning of last week gave an account of the 100th celebration of the Baptist state convention which he attended in Hartford the past week. The Hill church was one of 17 in the state to go over the top in its apportionment of money to be raised. Over double the amount called for was sent.

Capt. and Mrs. Byron Dawley, who have been spending the past two months with Mrs. James M. Cook, have left for their home in Pensacola, Fla. Mrs. Cook accompanied them for a stay of several months.

Miss Alice Chapman spent the week with Mrs. William Hiscox in Jewett City.

Arthur E. Story, assistant treasurer of the Norwich Savings society, and Mrs. Story called upon Miss Sarah T. Palmer recently.

Miss Carrie Ryder entertained Mrs. James M. Cook, Capt. and Mrs. Byron Dawley and C. Russell Cook, wife and daughter on Friday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Johnson, and child of Poquonoc Bridge were recent guests of their brother, Henry D. Johnson.

WILD DRIVING.

Five deaths by drowning of automobilists, who were submerged when the machines in which they were riding were forced off the highway into deep water through speed, figured in the week-end fatality records in Maine and Rhode Island. In one instance the responsibility rested with the driver of the car, while in the other it was a case of being forced off the road by two other speeding machines. But in each accident it meant the loss of human life through the disregard of proper control and the rights of others.

Speed figures heavily in the toll of life that is exacted by automobiles. There is the driver who pays little or no attention to the sharp turns and grades, as in the Maine case where the machine crashed through the guard rail of a bridge because the car was going so fast that the driver was unable to handle his car with safety, and there is the driver who is determined not to slacken his speed, even though he sees that part of the highway that belongs to others, even though he cuts in to the menace of others and even though he forces others off the road to avoid a collision, and as in the Rhode Island case that act of self protection which one driver was forced into caused a double drowning.

There are straight stretches of road where fast driving may do little harm if the driver can handle a car and is disposed to stick to his side of the road, but when it comes to speeding around curves, racing, hogging the road, crowding others off that portion of the highway to which they are entitled it is highly dangerous and the surprise is that there are not more such fatalities as those in Maine and Rhode Island. Many drivers can tell of the narrow squeezes they have had because of the recklessness of others under similar circumstances, while those who have escaped the penalty of their own folly have excellent reason for being numbered henceforth among the safe and sane. Good roads were not built that the highways should become speedways or that the wild drivers should terrify the law abiding.

SENSIBLE HOLLAND.

Efforts to have Holland build up a much stronger navy has received a setback. It is true that it was by a narrow margin but the Dutch chamber has declared against the large appropriation that was sought for naval protection for its colonies. It is significant in view of the restrictions which the leading powers have placed upon themselves for the prevention of such unwarranted expenditures.

Just why there should be a demand for a big navy has not been satisfactorily explained. Clearly it is shown that sentiment does not support it and hasn't been convinced that it is required. It has not been shown that the colonies of Holland, of which it has reason to be proud and careful, are endangered by others. That being the case there was certainly no good ground for Holland pouring its millions into naval construction just for the sake of spending money and arousing the suspicion of others.

When, however, the ministry sought to get its funds by announcing that unless the project was favored it would mean the resignation of the ministry, it seemingly expected to get the necessary vote. Now that it has failed it must be prepared to do its part and keep its promise.

Holland has indicated by the vote in the chamber that it sees no reason for any such naval development as has been urged. Certainly with other countries, which have gone through the experience of naval competition, placing a check thereon there is much to commend in the sensible conclusion reached by the Dutch chamber. Evidently the legislators of that country felt that Holland could better afford to sacrifice the ministry than it could to enter onto the programme of naval development that was planned.

It means that Holland is going to be saved a huge expenditure of money, but it also means that the Dutch have notified the rest of the world that it is not in sympathy with any militaristic undertakings.

THE NOBEL MEDICINE PRIZE.

Hearty endorsement will be given to the action taken in awarding the Nobel prize in medicine this year to Dr. Banting, the discoverer of insulin, and loudly applauded will be the decision of Dr. Banting in declaring that his co-worker, Dr. MacLeod of Toronto university, is equally entitled to the honor and the prize.

Though they are young men they have engaged in a series of research which has already produced splendid results, but upon a beginning with the profound years before them given promise of still greater attainments.

Those who have suffered from diabetes have had little or no promise of a cure in the past. It isn't claimed even now that all cases can be relieved or cured. Insulin is a palliative which has its limits. It nevertheless means much help for the sufferers. It practically strengthens the fight against the disease. It replaces deposits with hope, it gives assurance of a prolongation of life and it reduces the great amount of self denial that has hitherto been required of those suffering with the disease. There is no disposition to claim for it more than it will do, but its meaning to suffering humanity is like lifting a great, immovable cloud of depression.

These research workers have devoted their efforts to fighting disease. That they have succeeded as soon may surprise, but they are in every way entitled to such reward as the prize carriers. It will serve to spur on their activities in this direction and give promise that they will add more feathers to their cap of achievement.

What might be done with such a discovery through unwarranted promises of cures can be readily understood. Others have gotten rich off of claims that would have no basis of comparison, and yet it is in the service of humanity rather than in bleeding it that these codiscoverers have elected to remain. The prize award has thus been admirably made.

PAY FOR RADIO ARTISTS.

Radio caught on like wildfire after it was understood. Many are the homes that are equipped with it. Small sets have led to larger ones, and large ones are being increased. Some have even gone in for sending stations. There is a fascination about radio that grips and there is an interest in the entertainments that it provides. Perfection hasn't been obtained by all but it is undergoing steady improvement.

But from the time it was introduced and the interesting programmes were put forth there has been a quandary as to how it was possible to provide such high class artists in their respective fields and continue to furnish such entertainments, lectures, talks and instructions without expense, even though there has been plenty of which little can be said.

This all seems to be disclosed by the demands which have now been made upon the broadcasting stations that all those participating in the programmes shall henceforth be paid for their services. It is shown that in the past the entertainers have been contributing their work. They got nothing for what they did and the great big listening public paid nothing.

That the demand for pay in the future will not bother the large stations can be appreciated. It will hit the smaller ones the hardest, and even that may insure less interference and a higher grade of radio entertainment from fewer points. There's no chance of putting a tax on those who listen in, but evidently there is a feeling that if such services as radio entertainers have been giving are worth broadcasting they ought to be paid for.

IN VULNERABLE POSITION.

Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania continues to urge the checking of dry violations by others. It may be that some good will come of his efforts for there's a possibility that he will call attention to conditions which will get more attention.

But while he is pointing his finger at others because of alleged laxness in regard to prohibition enforcement, it is interesting to note that 75,000 members of West Philadelphia churches are planning to petition Governor Pinchot to "padlock" the saloons in their vicinity as the next step in the fight on lawlessness being waged in that city.

This indicates that while the governor is turning his efforts to forces outside of the state he is ignoring the conditions that are existing at home and against which there doesn't appear to be any opposition on the part of the state authorities. The demand that the evil doers be put out of business is no more than should be expected. It is to be realized that there should be cooperation on the part of federal and state authorities in upholding the law of the land, but when the church people of Pennsylvania point to conditions which are being tolerated and encouraged through lack of opposition in the Keystone state it would seem that the governor is dodging his responsibility at home in the hope of having attention fastened upon others. If Pennsylvania had been cleaned up the situation would be completely altered. The governor seems to be trying to get others to do what he is himself ignoring. His stand in the situation naturally invites attack.

MYSTERY HOUSE

"I am ever so sorry to trouble you," said the woman at the door politely. "But I do want so much to go through your house. It is very hard to find a place to live nowadays and when I saw that this house was for sale I wondered if you would be so kind as to show me through."

"Why, certainly," said the tenant, trying to be cordial. "I hope you will excuse the way it looks, though, as we are all torn up. My son is coming to make us a visit."

"I'm sure it looks very nice," said the applicant as she looked around. "Oh, you have one of those new porch pillows, haven't you, only you use it in the living room?"

"We have no real porch here," the tenant explained. "This is the only dark room in the house, the porch roof on the next house makes it so."

"Well, that makes it very convenient for you," said the applicant. "As I see you feel you don't have to keep this room as clean as most rooms because it doesn't show. Is that a picture of your son?"

"No, that is a cousin," said the tenant coldly. "We use this room as a library and it is a very pleasant room in winter."

"Funny how people called a room like this a library," mused the applicant. "It used to be that a room wasn't a library unless it had a lot of books in it. Your books are most fancy ones and not sets, but I suppose one has to be up to date in such things as well as in others. I see you have several of one author, but I can't see who."

"Those are books of anthologies," said the tenant. "My husband likes them."

"I never read any by her," said the applicant with interest. "I will ask for some next time I'm downtown."

"And this," said the tenant "is what we call the children's room or second bedroom."

"It must be very sad for you," said the applicant sympathetically, "I should think you'd want to move with all their toys and things to remind you, don't you know. You see, I have heard about the separation and how the children are gone to the folks. Those things are so sad aren't they?"

"The children are out on my uncle's ranch," said the tenant. "And my husband is abroad on business. This is the third bedroom and beyond it are two others that we are too mixed up to show you."

"What's up here, the attic?" asked the applicant.

"Two unfinished rooms," said the tenant wearily. "Not worth seeing, of course."

"I'll run up though," said the applicant. "You are so modest about it all. I want to see everything."

"We just store things there," said the tenant as the other woman came down. "That is all."

"I don't wonder you stuck those things away," said the applicant. "Of all the old-fashioned stuff. Whatever will you do with all that junk in a small apartment?"

"It happens we are going to a home in the east," said the tenant in self-defense, "that has thirty rooms. It was my grandmother's and it is on the Hudson river."

"Oh we were wondering," said the applicant. "I said to Mary this morning I wondered where you were going and she said she didn't know, but if as they said your husband had gone off and left you, it must be a small apartment. She'll be glad to hear otherwise."

"I have shown you all the rooms," said the tenant with a sigh. "So as the man is waiting for me I will have to ask to be excused. We leave a month from today and the agent will have charge of all renting or any sale. Of course we prefer to sell."

"So you own it, do you?" asked the applicant. "I was saying to Mary this morning I wondered if you did and she said she didn't know. You needn't bother to give me the name of the agent, though, as we ain't going to move. It was just curious to see the inside of it and stopped on the way to market. Good morning."—Chicago News.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

That lack of schooling is no insurmountable bar to success is shown by the achievement of a postman in Shakespeare's town of Stratford-on-Avon, F. G. Savage by name. Mr. Savage has just published an interesting and authoritative treatise on "The Flora and Folklore of Shakespeare," in which he has skilfully classified the whole of the plant life referred to in Shakespeare's works, except the more common examples found in fields and by the wayside. A self-taught botanist, the young author acquired most of his knowledge at evening classes conducted by the village parson, and by diligent reading in his spare hours. Since he took up the study he has collected more than 700 volumes on botany and kindred subjects. Much of his learning, he says, has been gained during his rounds as a postman.

Stories That Recall Others

On Last Legs.

How children apply some of the things they hear said is often highly entertaining.

Lois, aged four, was asked to run an errand for her mother and replied:

"Oh, mother, I just can't! My feet are on their last legs!"

Seeing, Hearing, Believing.

"Speaking of juries," said a lawyer, "they always require speed, and cannot be expected to be posted on oriental rugs."

"There was one contest over a will," he continued, "in which oriental rugs were concerned and in which one witness was placing a high value. Attorney for the defense asked her whether the rugs were not old and worn, and she answered that they were.

"Then the rugs were not worth much" the lawyer asked her.

"Yes, the fact that they were old and worn made them worth more," she replied.

"Do you mean to tell the jury that the older the rugs are the more worn out they are, the more they are worth?"

"Yes, sir," the witness replied.

"Well, that pleased the jury made up largely of farmers. They could not restrain their amusement, and one juror rubbed his hands together in his glee. Antique rugs meant nothing in their lives."

That Terrible Fear of Getting Fat!

IT is discouraging to see the scales record more weight every week, but it's also possible to reduce—and without "taking the joy out of life," too.

Make these light popovers and this tasty pudding, yourself, so that you will be sure to have only a small number of calories. These foods are delicious—but not fattening.

These tempting foods will help you reduce:

Popovers

1 c. flour — 1 egg
¼ t. salt — 1 c. milk
2 t. Davis Baking Powder

Sift salt, flour and Davis Baking Powder into bowl. Beat egg and add milk to it; stir gradually into flour mixture, making a smooth batter. Beat with Dover Beater until full of bubbles. Fill hot greased muffin pans ⅔ full and bake in very hot oven 30 to 40 minutes or until full and brown.

Bran Steamed Pudding

1 c. bran
1 c. whole wheat flour
2 t. Davis Baking Powder
½ t. salt
1 c. skimmed milk
½ c. corn syrup
1 t. melted fat
1 c. chopped apples

Mix in order given, turn into buttered moulds, steam 1 hour, serve with a lemon sauce. (Raisins may be added to the recipe if desired.)

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

MONTERREY.

Monterey, Mexico, where several thousand federal troops have been sent to keep peace between two rival state legislatures, each claiming to have legal authority, is the subject of the following bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"Starting nearly 400 years ago as a frontier post of the conquering Spaniards, the city that now is Monterey has grown to have a population of more than 100,000. It is devoid of skyscrapers and elevated tramways and lake boulevards, but in many ways it deserves to be called 'The Chicago of Mexico.' It is the largest inland city in the northern part of the Mexican republic, and the railway, commercial, financial, and manufacturing center of that great region.

"Less than 300 miles from the southern border of Texas, the city has felt the hand of the 'Americans' in many ways. American stores, American goods, American automobiles, and potently, perhaps American movies, are on every hand. The American visitor finds, too, that his language is understood generally.

"A disappointment to the traveler who likes to leave the things of home behind him when he goes abroad, or who at least does not relish poorly done imitations, is that most of the hotels seek to serve American food. But if he is persevering the visitor may find tucked away in some Monterey streets cafes serving the hottest of Mexico's peppery dishes; and others, truly continental in atmosphere and cuisine, where glasses of chianti and port and champagne may tinkle loudly and legally.

"While there is a superficial Americanization of the city, the charm of the strikingly different is by no means lacking. From shops in which one is expected to haggle like a Turk to little theaters featuring actors from Spain and collecting fees after each act, an unmistakable exotic note is struck. This effect is heightened in the streets by peripatetic hayracks, which one eventually finds are laden donkey; and squads of barefoot soldiers led by impeccably accoutred officers, pattering down the street.

"Monterey is far from picturesque as a whole. It is laid out in humdrum rectangular streets, faced, for the most part with squat, flat-roofed buildings. But the plazas are like bases in this rather depressing architectural desert. Each is a little park with trees and flowers, and about a number of them are beautiful buildings—government palaces, houses of justice, casinos and the picturesque and time-stained old cathedral.

"The city fares better in the matter of its setting. It lies in a sort of a semi-circular plain with mountains drawn half around it. They are distinctive mountains: steep, rocky ridges, more or less fantastically eroded, that spring into the sky almost a half a mile and seem to hang over the town. The most characteristic of the peaks is Monte de la Silla—Saddle Mountain—whose perfectly formed pommel and cantle cut the skyline from any vantage point in the city.

"Monterey has had a hand in shaping the history of the United States. When the flourishing modern cities of Dallas, Fort Worth and Houston were patches of wilderness and San Antonio was merely a missionary station, Monterey was a center from which soldiers and civil authority flowed north for the struggling colonies of Americans in the then Mexican territory of Texas. During the Mexican War in 1846, General Zachary Taylor marched on Monterey and captured it after a four-day siege which constituted one of the most decisive battles of the conflict."

WEDDINGS.

Campbell—Semple.

Monday evening at 7 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Semple, 133 Prospect street, their daughter, Flora Stewart Semple, was united in marriage with Robert James Campbell, son of Mrs. Minnie Campbell of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Charles H. Rickette, pastor of the Greeneville Congregational church, and the double ring service was used.

The bridal chorus from Lohengrin was played by Kirk Richetts. The bride was gowned in white canton crepe and Spanish silk lace and wore a coronet veil with pearl trimmings. Her shower bouquet was of bridal roses and lilies of the valley. Her bridesmaid was Miss Mary Carey, her cousin, who wore a gown of blue pussy willow moire and carried pink rosebuds. The best man was Harold Campbell, brother of the groom.

The bride received many beautiful and costly gifts of linen, cut glass and silverware, and also received several checks. Palms, ferns and cut flowers comprised the house decorations, which were in charge of Geoluldis.

During the evening the bride and groom left for an automobile tour of New York state and on their return will be at home to their many friends in a newly furnished home on Fowler avenue. Mr. Campbell is head clerk at Sisk's drug store on Franklin square. Both bride and groom are well known and popular with their many friends, who extend them best wishes in their married life.

WAS LEADING WOOLEN MANUFACTURER IN WORCESTER

Frank Smith, for many years Worcester's most prominent woolen manufacturer, died at his home at Tatnuck, Mass., on Thursday evening at the age of 73 years. His death came after an illness of over two years.

Half a century ago Mr. Smith established the business of satinet manufacturing at the Tatnuck mill. He leased the property for a number of years and then bought it outright. He remained the active head of the concern until six years ago, when failing health compelled him to turn it over to his son, Fred R. Smith, who was associated with the Kaplan family here in Norwich in the business of the Yantic Woolen company.

He was born in Blackstone, the son of Channing Smith, a millman and boss dyer before the introduction of aniline dyes. The boy entered the mill at 14 and at 21 leased the mill at Tatnuck. In his long business career he built up a reputation for integrity, business capacity and friendliness.

Mr. Smith was prominent in republican politics for many years, but always refused to accept public office for himself.

He was the youngest of 13 children and the last of them to pass away.

Mr. Smith leaves two sons, Frank C. Smith, Jr., and Fred R. Smith.

HOSPITAL DRIVE GOES OVER THE TOP TO $267,902; $75,088 ON LAST DAY

Coming into the home stretch with close to $40,000 to go on the last day on the Backus Hospital campaign for $250,000, the workers scored a glorious victory Monday and went booming over the top to a total of $267,902.

The grand total of $75,088, a greater sum than any other day of campaign, was raised on the final day and the celebration that followed this announcement fairly shook the solid walls of the town hall, where the workers gathered for their final supper and report. Cheer after cheer was given for every one who has figured prominently in the hard work of the ten day campaign, there were the award of prizes and the presentation of gifts to some of the leaders, and the most remarkable demonstration of community cooperation that Norwich has seen in many a day closed with the singing of Auld Lang Syne.

Practically every seat at the supper tables was taken by the team members when Chairman James L. Case rapped for order at 6.30 and after singing of America the invocation was pronounced by Rev. J. Harlow Graham, of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church.

Song leaders William G. Park and Louis A. Wheeler kept this department going at full speed during the supper hour and by special direction of Chairman Case led the team workers in the singing of The Farm Song for the benefit of President H. A. Tirrell of the hospital, who was absent when it was sung last Friday night with his name put into the verses. He told the workers that there must be something in telepathy for his heart gave a flop about 7.25 last Friday evening in New Haven and now he understood what the reason was.

Chairman Case expressed on behalf of the campaign director, the chairman and the members of the executive board the very sincere thanks they felt for all who had labored during the strenuous campaign. It was the end of a perfect week he said, in spite of the labor and everybody had enjoyed it.

He read a note of thanks from Miss Rivy Rosenberg for the flowers that had been sent her at the hospital. She enclosed her own pledge for the campaign, for which she was given three cheers. Mrs. Alex Pasnik, a team captain, who has been ill, also sent thanks for flowers sent to her.

Greetings to Treasurer Gibbs

Campaign Treasurer W. A. Gibbs, who was present for the first time Monday night at supper was given a rousing greeting when he was called on to speak by Chairman Case. He said the returns made by the team captains had been remarkably accurate and he asked that all pledgers make their instalment payments without notice which would save the hospital much expense.

A vote of thanks was given to Mr Gibbs and there were three cheers for George D. Fillmore, the auditor, when he was called to the front by Mr. Case.

Reports Are Made.

The climax of the evening came with the reports by the teams. The women's division was first called for and responded with $12,401. This was a promising start and there was more encouragement when the total reported by neighboring towns was $17,882, the two together making just about half of what was needed to go over the top.

To this the men's division report added $10,850 and the executive committee put on $8,656. Then followed the pledges from former residents, which were reported by Grosvenor Ely, chairman, amounting to $6,781, which sent the total beyond the $250,000 mark, and the report of the industries committee, given through Chairman Oliver L. Johnson, completed the victory by adding $17,913 and bringing the campaign to $267,902.

There are more reports to be made yet and one of those was given after the meeting Monday night when William C. Park stated that he had $75 from Bozrah which had not been included in the reports at the meeting.

Special Contributions.

As the reports were made for the teams, the captains reported special contributions as follows:

Miss Helena E. Coughlin—$200.50 for sale of 16 stchings contributed by Osiaa Dodge.

Mrs. Thomas J. O'Rourke—Reading lamp by Hourigan Bros.

Mrs. Frederick P. Shenk—$10 from Rho Alpha Mu fraternity.

Mrs. W. K. Tingley—$1,500 memorial for Dr. John S. [illegible], given by his wife and mother.

Mrs. L. A. Wheeler—$684 from C. B. Carpenter and employes, $100 from Norwich Teachers' league and $10 from Charitable circle, K. D.

Miss Hannah M. Crowell—$500 to be added to a previous pledge of $1,500 from the Misses Nancy and Mary Lucas in memory of their parents.

Mrs. Frank L. Farrell—Thermos pots for the nurses' rooms promised by the president of the American Thermos Bottle company.

Mrs. Frank R. McLaughlin—$100 from Mome chapter, King's Daughters.

Miss Stella Stocewicz—$25 from the Polish Citizens' club and $10 from another club.

Angus Park of Hanover has contributed a $4,000 memorial in honor of Dr. W. K. Tingley.

Twenty-four blankets from a Central Village mill, and the proceeds of a moving picture show to be given by Mr. Fontaine of Plainfield.

Palmer Bros. have given $10,000, of which $3,500 is to be credited to Montville and $7,500 to Bozrah.

A worker from Plainfield reported that there is to be a further contribution from the Rock mill.

In the Poquetanuck report is included a memorial to George and Benjamin Hall.

Won Women's Banner.

The women's banner was won by Mrs. Tingley's team and was presented to her by Mr. Tirrell, Mayor Waters and Mr. Johnson.

Captain Frank Welch, whose team took the men's banner for the night, had in its total a $1,500 memorial from the Eastern Connecticut Power company for the late John H. Humphrey.

Captain George D. Finn reported that Nathan Gilman, a volunteer on his team, had secured 75 individual subscriptions since Friday, breaking an axle of his machine, but finishing the work on foot."

Captain Weston G. Pullen included in his report $16.19 from the children of Park church Sunday school, and Captain John M. Lee had $100 from a shop collection at the Richmond Radiator company from men who had not been solicited in any other way. Captain Abner Schwartz reported that Alex Pasnik of his team was to provide salt shakers for the nurses' home and the hospital.

Captain George Crooker was reported to have given $50 and three French clocks for the nurses' home.

Memorial to Bulletin Editor.

Chairman Case announced that the owners of The Bulletin had made a second pledge of $500 for a nurses' room for a memorial to the late A. Walton Pearson, long the editor of The Bulletin.

Mr. Case also announced that a former Norwich boy, Charles F. Noyes, now the leading real estate man in New York, had pledged $1,500 for a nurses' room in honor of his mother.

It was also reported that Mr. and Mrs. James Hubbard had pledged $1,500 for a nurses' room in honor of Mrs. Charles L. Hubbard.

Memorial From Teams.

Chairman Case announced that the pledges by the teams, with the executive officers of the campaign, had provided over $3,000, which would provide a memorial.

The Norwich Rotary club has also taken a $1,500 memorial room and President Charles A. Saxton spoke of the interest the club takes in all things for the good of Norwich.

Chairman Case spoke with great appreciation of the work of Grosvenor Ely as chairman of the committee on former residents to Mrs. Timothy Blackstone of Chicago had telegraphed her offer to give $5,000 if the campaign reached $245,000.

Campaign Director Treadwell Cleveland was delegated to take the banner to Captain Welch's team for the evening and after cheers had been given for Oliver L. Johnson of industries committee, Mr. Case formally reported to President Tirrell the success of the campaign.

President Tirrell Speaks.

President Tirrell responded by saying that this was a memorable day in the history of Norwich and that everybody who had worked or responded to the campaign appeal could say that he had taken part in at least one generous effort to help his community. This is one of the best things you have ever done in your lives, he told the workers, along fine, public, patriotic and religious lines because it is for the benefit of your fellow man. He thanked every worker and then turned to Chairman Case who he said was a human dynamo, without whom the campaign would have despaired of success. He presented Mr. Case two volumes of the letters of Walter Page, an American who tried to serve his country his level best.

Mr. Case responded feelingly with appreciation for the gift and spoke warmly of his affection for Norwich and the friends he knew here who make life worth living. For as long as life lasts, he said, he pledged the best he could give to Norwich and its institutions.

Three ringing cheers shook the hall as Mr. Case finished speaking and Mr. Tirrell then had Chairman Philip A. Johnson of the men's division bring Mrs. Allyn L. Brown, chairman of the women's division, to the front of the hall where Mr. Tirrell presented her a handsome basket of chrysanthemums. Mrs. Brown responded briefly.

Mayor Waters Speaks.

Mayor Waters was called upon. He spoke of the spirit of comradeship that had prevailed and said he had been sure Norwich would put the campaign over. Now the the rest can get on the band wagon after we've done the job.

Banners to Winning Teams.

The banner for getting the largest amount in subscriptions was presented to Mrs. Walter T. Camp's team on $11,200 and the men's banner went to Charles L. Stewart's team on $4,600.

Mrs. Camp's team was directed to march around the hall with the banner and Mr. Stewart's team was called to the front and obliged to sing Mary Had a Little Lamb. Both performances raised a bedlam of applause.

Silver Cups Presented.

The silver cup offered by Mayor Waters to the team captain whose team should bring in the largest number of subscriptions was awarded to

GETTING TOO FAT? TRY THIS—REDUCE

People who don't crave too fat are the fortunate exception. But if you find the fat accumulating, or already cumbersome, you will be wise to follow this suggestion, which is endorsed by thousands of People who know. Ask your druggist for Marmola Prescription Tablets and follow directions. One dollar is the price the world over. Get them from your own druggist or send price direct to Marmola Co., 4612 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. By doing this you will be safe from harmful drugs and be able to reduce steadily and easily, without starvation diet or tiresome exercise.

Miss Stocewicz for 250 subscriptions. His Honor made the presentation and Miss Stocewicz responded briefly.

The cup offered last Friday by Governor Templeton for the most subscriptions since then went to Mrs. James J. Donohue. She secured 14, but was close pressed by Nathan Gilman of Bozrah who had 13. He led the assemblage in three cheers for Mrs. Donohue.

Captain Johnson of the men's division and Mrs. Allyn L. Brown of the women's division, who had promised to give a dance in case the campaign went over the top Monday night, kept their pledge by appearing in Hallowe'en hoods for a short dance.

Miss Kathleen M. Dowd, matron of the hospital, expressed the thanks of the nurses for all time and Supt. F. Leon Hutchins expressed his deep appreciation of what had been done in the campaign and said he thought some misunderstandings had been straightened out as she said the hospital would welcome constructive criticism and he would be glad to work with those who brought such criticism to headquarters.

Campaign Director Cleveland expressed the thought that the hospital now had 4,000 friends in the community as indicated by the responses that had been made and that it was now in truth a people's memorial. He spoke of the great support in all ways that had been given the work and urged tha tthe people make the hospital a living part of their own lives.

Father Keefe Speaks.

Chairman Case called on Rev. W. A. Keefe of St. Mary's Memorial church to speak, saying that he was one man who seemed to come close to the people and have the right word of inspiration to say on many different occasions.

When men are rent asunder by all sorts of differences, it is inspiring, said Father Keefe to see the loyalty and love of 4,000 citizens brought together as in this campaign. By putting our hearts, our cooperative effort, and our generosity into every civic undertaking we will make our city the happiest, the most progressive and the best home to live in. This is the kind of cooperation which we will serve each other and work together for all that is best for our community, our state and our glorious country.

Prayer by Rev. Mr. Graham and the singing of Auld Lang Syne closed the campaign meeting.

MRS. EDWARD E. CURTIS FOUND DEAD IN BED

New Haven, Oct. 29.—Retiring last night apparently in excellent health, Mrs. Edward E. Curtis, wife of a history professor at Wellesley college, Newton, Mass., was found dead in her bed at the home of her mother-in-law, Mrs. E. L. Curtis, in Linden street, today. Mrs. Curtis had come here on a visit. Death was ascribed to accident from illuminating gas inhalation.

Mrs. Curtis was the daughter of the late Edward A. Ankstell, for many years clerk of the superior court here.

Mrs. Curtis was the only daughter of Edward A. Ankstell and Elizabeth Plant, and has two brothers. Her mother and Mrs. Timothy P. Norton of Norwich were sisters. Her cousins are Mrs. Edward D. Fuller, William A. Norton and Henry A. Norton of Norwich.

ASSESSORS' OFFICE OPEN ON TWO EVENINGS

In order to accommodate those who have not yet filed their property valuation lists, the board of assessors announced Monday that their office in the courthouse building will be open Wednesday and Thursday evenings. As the month is drawing to a close, there is a rush on the part of property owners to get their lists in on time. The evening hours for the assessors' office will be from 7 until 9 o'clock. The limit for filing lists is 9 o'clock Thursday night.

All lists should be filed with the assessors before the first of the month, as after that date late comers will have an additional 10 per cent. added to their tax bills.

Second Birthday Party.

A number of little friends of Master Edward W. Turner attended a party at his home at 78 Fourth street Monday afternoon in honor of his second birthday. The house was prettily decorated with Hallowe'en effects and Hallowe'en games were played after which refreshments were served by Mrs. Albert J. Turner, assisted by Mrs. G. Hoelk, Mrs. William Supa and Mrs. Luella Pfeiffer.

Dermatologist Gives Complexion Secret

The great secret of keeping the face young is to keep off the dead cuticle, according to a noted English dermatologist. It is well known that the surface skin is constantly dying, falling off in imperceptible particles, except in some diseased conditions, when the same appear like dandruff. But the particles do not drop off immediately they die, being held for a while by the live skin.

To have the dermatological surgeon peel off the entire cuticle at one time is a painful and expensive process. The same result is obtained by applying ordinary mercolized wax, as you would cold cream. This is both painless and inexpensive. The wax, procurable at any drug store (one ounce usually sufficed), hastens the natural shedding process. It gradually absorbs the dead and half-dead skin, revealing the new, healthy, youthful skin beneath.

Important to All Women Readers of This Paper

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer pain in the back, headache and loss of ambition.

Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be despondent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine will do for them. By enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., you may receive sample size bottle by Parcel Post. You can purchase medium and large size bottles at all drug stores.

BLUENOSE WINS FIRST LEG FROM COLUMBIA IN FISHERMEN'S RACE

Halifax, October 29—The schooner Bluenose of Lunenburg, Canadian defender of the International fishermen's trophy, today defeated the American challenger Columbia of Gloucester in the first race of the series leading the challenger by one minute twenty seconds over a forty mile course off Halifax harbor. It was pronounced one of the most spectacular races in the history of the trophy, and the result was a surprise, for the Bluenose won in what was generally conceded to be Columbia weather, light, variable winds.

With the breeze making six knots at the start, increasing to 17 later, and veering from due west to southwest, the cumbersome Bluenose once more proved the truth of the fishermen's motto, that all things being equal the bigger boat is the better boat. The defender appeared to have the edge on the challenger on all points of sailing under the conditions obtaining, but she was considerably lighter in ballast than when she defeated the Henry Ford off Gloucester last year and seemed to handle better.

Boat to boat the Bluenose carried off the honors. Skipper to skipper, Captain Ben Pine who handled the Columbia, was awarded the general verdict over Captain Angus Walters, of the Canadian fisherman. Walters drew first blood at the start, besting the Columbia over the line by 30 seconds. The Nova Scotian might have increased this advantage to a minute had he not proved himself "gun shy" by running down the line to leeward of his opponent. Later, when he had established a lead of 3 minutes 17 seconds on the two reaches to the second mark, and when he had the race well in hand for the third leg, a threash to windward, Walters threw his advantage overboard by overstanding the third mark, disregarding the fundamental law of racing—"keep the mark between yourself and your opponent."

Canny Ben Pine of Gloucester, was not making mistakes, when the Bluenose came about for the mark the Columbia came about too, and at the buoy the official timers decided that it was a dead heat as between the two schooners. Pine by that maneuever had taken up all Walters's advantage and the race was on even terms again.

Then came a fight for the weather berth, and the battle royal of the day. The struggle was limited only by the rugged rocks of Chebucto Head jutting out to weather of the maneuvering schooners. With every sail filling and the boats racing neck and neck Pine kept edging Walters' up to weather. Try as he might the Lunenburger could not shake off his rival.

The schooners drew along, the bulwarks not more than a biscuit toss from the Three Sisters the most dreaded shoals on the coat. They neared Bell Rock buoy, marking another shoal. But Pine was obdurate. He all but "scraped the whiskers off the buoy," members of his crew said later, forcing Walter through the green water inside the mark. Then, according to the Canadian skipper, the pilot aboard the Bluenose shouted to the helmsman, Captain Albert Himmelman, to bear away.

"Bear away and we strike him," Himmelman shouted back.

"Strike, or strike the rocks," the pilot answered.

The Bluenose bore away with Pine still trying to luff. Walters doused his skysail and swung his foresail wing and wing. He blanketed the Gloucesterman. Next his main boom touched the main shrouds of the Columbia. Still Pine tried to luff. The Canadian's main boom swept the forestays of the Columbia, doubling up the sheer rod. Finally it caught in the downhaul of the Gloucesterman's jib and for nearly a minute the defender towed the challenger. Then the Lunenburger cleared and opened up a gap. She raced for the finish line and the result was never in doubt again.

The incident on that fourth leg of the race was the subject tonight of the controversy which seems to be inseparably connected with schooner racing.

Fishermen gathered in knots to discuss the alleged fouling of the Columbia by the Bluenose, and rumors of a protest were heard on all sides. Captain Ben Pine made no mention of a possible protest and had lodged none with the sailing committee up to a late hour tonight. Members of the American race committee freely stated that there would be no protest.

OUTSTANDING FACTS IN FISHERMEN'S RACE

Starting gun fired at 9 o'clock, Halifax time; 8 o'clock Boston time. If conditions are not right, half hour delays are signalled up to 11 o'clock (10 o'clock Boston time) the time limit for the start. Second race tomorrow, starting at 9 a. m.. Third race, if necessary, Wenesday, starting at same hour.

Race must be finished in 8i hours or "no contest" will be declared.

Two races must be won to secure the prize.

The course is 38 miles.

In addition to the Halifx Herald trophy, there are two prizes, $3,000 for the winning vessel and $2,000 for the loser.

The American challenger was favorite early today at odds of 10 to 7.

The Columbia is the smaller boat and is two feet shorter on the water line than the Bluenose. Here is a comparison of the main dimensions of the challenger and defender.

Displacement—Columbia 264 long tons; Bluenose 280 long tons.

Water line—Columbia 109 feet; Bluenose 111 feet.

Sail area—Columbia 9,500 feet; Bluenose 9,993 square feet.

Beam—Columbia 35 feet 7 inches; Bluenose 27 feet.

Overall—Columbia 138 feet; Bluenose 141 feet, 10 inches.

Depth—Columbia 15 feet 4 inches; Bluenose 15 feet 9 inches.

The sailing committee found that Columbia had 50 feet to spare in the measurement of her canvass. In every other detail she was within the law and acceptable. (This was also true of the Bluenose.

TO RELIEVE PAIN AND BACKACHE

Women May Depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I had heard so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that when I realized I needed to take something to relieve my pains and backache, and to help build me up I began to take that. I had been sick off and on for years and barely weighed a hundred pounds, but now I have had such good results that I am recommending the Vegetable Compound to every one."—Mrs. J. J. BUHAN, 3933 19th Ave. South, Minneapolis, Minn.

Finds a True Friend

"Every woman who values her health should be proud to have a true friend like the Vegetable Compound," says Mrs. W. E. Shaw, 2227 Walnut Street, Chicago, Illinois. "I had female weakness so badly that I could not stand on my feet. Half of my time was spent in bed and I had pains in my back which were unbearable. I tried everything I could think of to help myself, and when a friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I began taking it at once. I recommend it without hesitation."

FRANCE FAVORS MAKING MRS. MALLORY ELIGIBLE

Paris, Oct. 29—France favors making Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory eligible to represent the United States in the 1924 Olympic games despite a recent ruling by the International Olympic committee at Lausanne that she was ineligible. The French Olympic committee today informed the American Olympic committee that should the latter followed a special request to the international Olympic committee asking that an exception to the rule be made in favor of Mrs. Mallory they would warmly support it.

The international committee in its ruling held that Mrs. Mallory having once represented Norway in the Olympic games, must play for Norway next year or, refrain from competition.

The viewpoint of the French committee previous to that ruling was that the regulation governing naturalization of contestants in the games should not be applied in the case of Mrs. Mallory. The Marquis De Polignac pointed out today that the rule was intended to prevent "rapid fire naturalization" and that it was hardly likely a woman would marry a citizen of another country merely for the purpose of representing her husband's country in the Olympic games.

TAFTVILLE SOCCER TEAM HAS BEEN ORGANIZED

At a meeting of the Taftville soccer team on Monday evening in the Taftville Social and Football club rooms plans for the coming season were made and officers elected. The officers of the team are: Fred Knowles, manager; Harold Tarbuck, secretary; J. Garvie, treasurer. It was decided to start the season on Saturday, Nov. 10th, against some fast soccer combination. The Taftville team this season will be the strongest in many seasons, the lineup including a number of the veterans players of the team and several recent additions of players from England and Scotland, the home of the soccer game.

The local team is very anxious to complete its schedule for the season and any soccer teams desiring games should communicate with the secretary, Harold Tarbuck, P. O. Box 640, Taftville.

UHLE IS LEADING PITCHER OF THE AMERICAN LEAGUE

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 29.—George Uhle, Cleveland American league pitching ace, not only won more games than any other pitcher in the league in 1923, but also pitched more games and more innings than any other pitcher in the league. He appeared in the box for the Indians no less than fifty times. Eight times the game was won or lost by some other pitcher. Of the other 42 games, 26 went to Uhle's credit as victories an 16 were charged to him as defeats.

All told, Uhle pitched 359 1-3 innings during which his opponents made 378 safe hits. He gave 99 bases on balls and struck out 109 batters. He made two wild pitches and hit seven batters, by winning 26 of 42 games his percentage of victories is .619.

AMERICAN COMMITTEE TO TAKE NO FURTHER ACTION

New York, Oct. 29.—The American Olympic committee probably will take no further steps to establish the eligibility of Mrs. Molla Mallory former national women's tennis champion, to represent the United States in the 1924 Olympics, despite France's desire to have her compete, it was indicated tonight by F. W. Rubien, secretary of the American committee.

The rejection of our appeal by the executive committee of the international committee," said Mr. Rubien, "apparently closes Mrs. Mallory's case, so far as we are concerned, and I anticipate no further action."

HOPPE BEATS HAGENLACHER IN FIRST MATCH FOR WORLD'S BILLIARD HONORS

New York, Oct. 30—William F. Hoppe, defending title holder, defeated Erich Hagenlacher of Germany, 1000 points to 454 tonight in the first match of the tournamenpt for the world's 18.2 balkline billiard championship. The match went 26 innings and was one of the slowest ever played on a title tournament, requiring 2 hours and 42 minutes to play.

Hoppe was not playing in his usual form. His game almost entirely was one of cushion caroms. He had high runs of 106 and 101. Hagenlacher, brilliant in spots, was a bit careless and threw away a dozen chances to win. He had high runs of 121 and 91.

The innings:

Hoppe—0, 1, 12, 106, 10, 16, 1, 57, 15, 10, 10, 47, 0, 1, 0, 31, 76, 0, 1, 0, 1, 16, 2, 20, 1, 50—506. Average 19 6-26; high run 106.

Hagenlacher—8, 1, 28, 3, 121, 8, 18, 2, 1, 60, 0, 26, 61, 0, 91, 8, 0, 3, 0, 0, 17, 7, 17, 1—454. Average 16 14-26. High run 121.

The Detailed Play.

Hoppe won the break chose the white ball and missed the first shot. Hagenlacher counted six in his first inning.

Each counted but once in the second inning. Hoppe made 12 on cushion caroms in the third inning, missing a three cushion shot for position. Hagenlacher missed the same shot after running 28. Hoppe counted 106 in his fourth inning, a fine exhibition of masse work and daring cushion work. Hagenlacher made three out of a bad leave and missed a two cushion bank.

The champion gathered 19 in his fifth inning, then missed a bank shot around the lower end of the table, excellent judgment of speed and control was displayed by Hagenlacher in his fifth.

Gathering the balls at the foot of the table he counted to 121, missing a long masse on the side rail. The score at the end of the fifth inning then was Hagenlacher 189, hoppe 136.

Hoppe got 13 in his sixth inning and one in his seventh. Hagenlacher counted eight in his sixth, ten in the seventh. Both were having poor luck through "lineups". Hoppe clicked 57 in the eighth inning and miscued. His opponent missed a 2 cushion shot at the foot of the table after counting twice. Hoppe's ninth inning brought him 16 and Hagenlacher made one and missed a difficult masse shot in an upper corner. Score: Hoppe 226; Hagenlacher 189.

Hagenlacher made 59 in the tenth inning and Hoppe counted 10. Hagenlacher was playing a beautiful game but carelessness with easy shots. Hoppe took a substantial lead in his eleventh inning, counting 101 before missing a three cushion shot. He left Hagenlacher an almost impossible bank and the German champion missed by a hair. Score: Hoppe 336; Hagenlacher 289.

On his 47th counter in the 12th inning, Hoppe made a loppy shot, getting out of balk and missed an easy cushion attempt. Hagenlacher in a close line nurse ran 20 and miscued, bumping the balls wide apart. Hoppe missed Hagenlacher, with delicate stroking and the exhibition of a variety of fancy shots collected 91 in his 12th. He missed an apparently easy cushion shot. Hoppe made one in his 14th and Hagenlacher missed. In the 15th Hoppe failed to hit either object ball. His opponent made one. Score end 15th inning: Hoppe 354; Hagenlacher 351.

Hoppe gathered 21 in the sixteenth inning, Hagenlacher 19. Hoppe could get but five in the 17th while Hagenlacher counted eight and missed a long masse. Each missed three cushion shots in the 18th without counting. Hoppe got one out of a safe leave in the 19th. Hagenlacher counted 9. They were playing safely in the 20th both failed again. Hoppe made one in the 21st and left the balls so that Hagenlacher missed a four cushion shot by a yard. The score then Hoppe 422; Hagenlacher 387.

Hoppe added 18 in his 22nd inning. He missed a four-cushion shot, smashed after a center table lineup. Hagenlacher counted 17.

Hoppe made 3 his opponent 7 in the twenty third. Score then: Hoppe 443; Hagenlacher 406.

After a count of twenty in the 24th Hoppe missed a difficult masse on the upper rail. Hagenlacher ran 17 and left the champion a two-rail left handed shot. Hoppe made it but missed another just like it. Hagenlacher made one and missed a one cushion shot. Score then was Hoppe 464; Hagenlacher 424.

Hoppe ran 36 in the twenty sixth inning defeating Hagenlacher 500 to 424.

NO CHANGE IN PLAYING CODE OF HOCKEY LEAGUE

Cleveland, O., Oct 29.—There will be no change in the playing code of the United States Amateur Hockey league during the coming season. At the closing session of its annual convention today, the association voted down every proposed change submitted. William H. Haddock, president, and Roy D. Schooley, secretary-treasurer, both of Pittsburgh, were unanimously re-elected.

A discussion over the proposed regrouping of the league occupied most of today's session. Because of long trips involved in participating in games in the northwest, Pittsburgh and Cleveland representatives asked that their teams be transferred from the western to the eastern group. Boston representatives opposed that saying it would work an equal hardship on them to travel to Cleveland, the question was referred to President Haddock for decision, which he said would be handed down in several days.

The constitution was amended giving local associations control over hockey in districts prescribed by the national organization. These associations will have no jurisdiction over teams entered in national cup competition, and no team entered in national cup competition may play in association matches except for city championships.

President Haddock appointed Thomas J. Kanaly, Boston, chairman of an eastern committee, and Roy Schooley, chairman of a western committee to draft schedules. These committees were instructed to submit the proposed schedules to President Haddock by November 15. The season will open in the early part of December.

The team which will represent the league at the Olympic games at Chamonix, in the French Alps, will be chosen from the following players: Lecroix, goal; Small, defense; McCarthy, right wing; Geran, center, and Rice, left wing, all members of the Boston A. A. club; Owen, the Harvard star; Gohsen, and Abel St. Paul; "Chink" Johnson, Minneapolis, and Drury and Bombie, Pittsburgh.

There still is a possibility that Milwaukee will remain in the league President Haddock said. The team was represented at today's session by proxy. New members admitted today were the Maple A. A. of Boston and Minneapolis.

Other officers elected were: W. Gordon Hegarth, Duluth, vice president; Thomas J. Kanaly, Boston; Tim Shea, Eveleth, Minn.; Frank Weiss, Bronxer, St. Paul; E. A. Binns, Cleveland; E. S. Von Gerneb, New York, and Edward Fitzgerald, St. Paul, members of the executive committee.

All except Von Barnuth and Fitzgerald, who were appointed by the president, were elected by ballot.

The rink advisory committee elected is composed of George V. Brown, Boston, Mass.; Harry Shanlon, Cleveland, and Paul Quaithrough, Pittsburgh.

PLESTINA AND ZBYSZKO WRESTLED TO A DRAW

New York, Oct. 29—Marin Plestina and Wladek Zbyszko wrestled to a draw decision before a crowd of six thousand fans at the 71st Regiment armory tonight. The match went two hours and a half.

Going to the mat at 10 o'clock the two strong men struggled until 12:30 with neither able to pin his opponent's back to the floor. The two appeared evenly matched in strength and skill although Plestina, starting out with a rush, was on top the Pole three times in the first ten minutes, winning a round of cheers for his aggressiveness.

Failing to hold Zbyszko's shoulders to the mat, however, he soon tired, but always was able to squirm out of the other's holds. Plestina weighed 208 pounds to 215 for Zbyszko.

The match was Plestina's first appearance with one of the acknowledged leaders in the game. It attracted wide interest because of the reports that the winners probably would be given an opportunity to wrestle "Strangler" Lewis for the championship crown.

BATTERY B WINS CLOSE GAME FROM VELVETMEN

Battery B in a practice game Monday evening with the indoor baseball team representing the J. B. Martin team won by the slight margin of two runs, the score being 7 to 5 in the soldiers' favor. The game was close from start to finish, the Battery delivering a heavy punch in the last two innings and coming from behind nosed out the velvetmakers. George Malcolm acted as umpire, and is getting into practice for his duties as official arbitrator of the indoor league which opens next week.

Zev Has Final Workout

New York, Oct. 29.—Zev, victor in the international race over Papyrus, the English derby winner, today had his last stiff workout in preparation for his appearance Saturday in the Latonia championship stakes in which My Own is also entered.

Zev will be shipped to Latonia Wednesday.

Earle Sande, who rode him against Papyrus, will be up on Zev Saturday.

Another Exhibition Tour

Chicago, Oct. 29.—The New York Giants and the Chicago White Sox plan to engage in another exhibition tour preliminary to the opening of the 1924 season, Harry Grabiner, secretary of the White Sox left tonight for New York to complete the arrangements.

Montreal Outpoints Luby

Bridgeport, Oct. 29—Young Montreal, of Providence, outpointed Young Luby of Bridgeport in a 12-round bout here tonight. Montreal won 8 of the 12 rounds, two others being even.

Steve Smith of Bridgeport and Willie Angelo of Stamford fought 10 fast rounds to a draw in the semi-final.

Indoor League Meeting Thursday.

On Thursday evening there will be a meeting of the managers of the four teams of the newly organized indoor baseball league. The meeting will be held at the armory immediately after the drill of the Combat Train. At this meeting a schedule will be drawn up and minor details of the league decided.

West Ends Win Another.

The West Ends on Sunday afternoon defeated the Falls team 24 to 6 in a one sided game at the Stedman field. Rutchuk was the shining light for the West Ends, while Couture was the star for the Falls.

Jimmy Ryan Is Dead

Chicago, Oct. 29—Jimmy Ryan, sixty, one of the few survivors of Anson's famous old Chicago White Stockings died here today.

Ryan, who had been enjoying apparent good health, died of heart disease at his home. Funeral services will be held Wednesday.

Villa to Meet Tremaine.

New York, Oct. 29—Sabastio Villa, holder of the world's flyweight title and Carl Tremaine, Cleveland bantamweight who aspires to annex the bantamweight crown, are matched to meet here November 29 promoter Tex Rickard announced tonight. The contest will not be for the title.

SPORT NOTES

Women will be admitted and there will be no age limit in the winter Olympic games at Chamoix, France, the committee in charge has decided.

The southern branch of the A. A. U. has decreed that there shall be no long distance swimming for girls under 14 years of age.

Butch Schmidt, who played first base on the Boston Braves in 1914, when they won the world's championship, is now a stockholder in the Baltimore International league club.

Jockeys Earl Sande, Clarence Kummer, A. Collins, Tommy and J. McTaggert and F. Goldfrigt acted as pallbearers at the funeral of their late companion Jockey Ted Rice, who was killed in a race at Jamaica. Among the many floral pieces was a beautiful horseshoe sent by the jockeys at Jamaica.

Skating, hockey, curling, bobsleigh and skiing events on the slopes of Mount Blanc will mark the opening of the 1924 Olympic games, beginning on January 25.

Bouts cannot be advertised, nor tickets placed on sale, in Massachusetts unless the club or corporation promoting them has first received a license, the state commission has decided and violation will mean the refusal of the license.

If a city can be found, to take one week of Lexington's two week card at the end of the Grand Circuit season, the Kentucky Trots will be curtailed next year. Harness horsemen are looking toward Chicago as a possible substitute, but doubt whether arrangements can be made for next year.

Purses running as high as $5,000 have been hung up by fairs outside of the Grand Circuit this season, allowing a number of the free-for-all performers to earn more than they could on the big ring. Single G. Margaret Dillon, Sir Roche and John R. Braden are among the harness horses who have been showing the way at these fairs.

Jockeys Harry Lunsford, who used to ride for the Audley Farm stable and J. Dreyer, have joined the ranks of trainers. Jimmy Rutwell, another veteran saddle artist, intends to give up the fight to make weight after putting in another season of riding at New Orleans.

J. S. Cosden's Martingale, second in the Kentucky Derby and winner of the Miller Stakes, his only two claims to greatness as a three-year-old, will be turned into a steeplechaser. Golden Rule, Bigheart, and several others of the Cosden lot will be schooled through the field this winter by Billy Garth.

The Imperial race track at Imperial, Findley township, has been sold to William M. Craig for $50,000. The property contains about 35 acres of land, grandstand, stables and paddock. The new owner has not announced whether he will continue it as a race track.

GRIDIRON GOSSIP.

Pennsylvania gained 13 first downs to Center's six and three of the westerners came in the opening period.

The defeat the Kentuckians were handed was the most decisive they have received since the "Praying Colonels" came into prominence five or six years ago.

With Eddie Tryon back in the lineup the Colgate eleven looked like an entirely different team Saturday against Ohio Wesleyan. The former Suffield star ripped off many substantial gains around the Wesleyan ends and through the line.

Frank Cavanaugh's Boston College eleven stepped out of the ranks of the unbeaten teams by losing to Marquette 7 to 6. The result of this game was one of the upsets of Saturday's campaigning.

The Hobart eleven, which drubbed Trinity two weeks ago 27 to 6, was held to a 7 to 0 score by Joe Neville's C. C. N. Y. team. This performance speaks well for the mimions of the former Yale star.

Washington and Jefferson's line was of real Gibraltar strength in the game with University of Detroit. Detroit was able to chalk up only one first down against the Washington, Penn. representatives and that didn't come until the very last rush of the game on a forward pass.

Statistics reveal that Penn State outplayed West Virginia in Saturday's stubborn battle at the Yankee stadium. The Nittany Lions recorded seven more first downs than their southern opponents, getting nine in West Virginia's two. Bezdek's men also gained 106 yards more than West Virginia on rushing.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET CLOSED STRONG.

New York, Oct. 29.—Stock prices started for higher ground late today after an early period of heaviness, which was generally attributed to selling based on speculative disappointment over France's refusal to consider a reduction in her reparation claims against Germany. Short covering operations inspired by a bullish demonstration in Dupont and a good investment demand for some of the rails were largely responsible for the rally.

When the market opened there was a fair sized accumulation of week end selling orders, the execution of which gave the market a discretionary appearance. Studebaker and American Can were rather sharply depressed, but the other pivotal stocks held relatively firm. Trading was quiet on the decline but around the noon hour a covering movement set in and was accelerated by the receipts of cables indicating a more cheerful interpretation abroad of the latest developments in the reparations situation. Priced made a good response to this buying with special strength displayed by the shippings, Chain Stores and merchandising issues and a few selected rails.

Brokers' loans on stock collateral were estimated today at $4,825,000,000 a drop of $50,000,000 in the last month at $875,000,000 below the high mark reached last February.

The first 35 railroads to report their September earnings show a combined net operating income of $61,295,000 as against $55,986,000 in August and $27,424,000 in September of last year. The figures of some of the eastern carriers, which were affected by the two weeks' shut-down in the hard coal fields, last month, are included in the total. Northwestern carriers made further recovery from recent heaviness today on publication of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific statements, which showed a substantial increase in earnings in September over the month before and the corresponding month a year ago.

Strength of the merchandising and mail order issues was predicated on reports of large current earnings. Woolworth touching another new 1923 top at 234 but slipping to 233 1-2 later on profit-taking. Buying of Dupont, which advanced 3 1-2 points, apparently was based on speculative expectation of an early increase in the dividend rate and the benefits likely to be derived by the sale of a large block of its General Motors stock to the newly organized Managers Securities Corporation.

Marine preferred was again heavily bought on the belief that the shipping industry had "turned the corner," the stock closing 3 3-8 points higher. Acquisition of Producers & Refiners by Prairie Oil & Gas resulted in a 7 point jump in Producers & Refiners preferred but the common stock lost ground.

Foreign exchanges turned heavy on the announcement of the French attitude on reparations. Demand sterling dropped more than a cent to $4.48 3-8, French francs were off about 7 points at 5.45 cents and Belgian francs were down 7 1-2 points at 5.04 cents.

Call money opened at 4 1-2 per cent., and then advanced to 5. The time money market was dull, a new loans on mixed collateral being made at 5 per cent., for maturities up to four months. The ruling rate for prime commercial paper continues at 5 1-4 per cent.

WINDHAM

L. H. Keeney of New York spent Sunday of last week with his mother, Mrs. George Keeney.

Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Clifford, Rev. W. M. Brown and H. C. Lathrop attended some of the meetings of the national council in Springfield, Mass.

Mrs. J. Alden Weir and Miss Dorothy Weir of New York, who have been traveling abroad for three months, have sailed for home and will reopen their summer home here.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Potter, their son Earl and his cousin, Arthur Potter, motored to Pittsfield recently and went over the Mohawk trail.

Mrs. E. J. Stalker has been entertaining her cousin, Miss Lenille, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

The Windham Girl Scouts' Cooking club was formally organized at their second meeting last week. The president is Grace Palmer; vice president, Marian Bailey; secretary, Margaret Oehrig; treasurer and cooking teacher, Mrs. L. P. Oehrig. The class is under the supervision of Miss Hall of Storrs college, who was present at the meeting and gave a talk on club work. The lesson last week was on cream soups.

There was an attendance of 14 at the meeting of the Woman's Missionary society held with Miss Dorothy Brown, with the president, Mrs. F. E. Guild, in charge. Five dollars was voted to the Eastern Connecticut branch, W. B. F. M. At a meeting last spring it was decided to adopt the talent-money method suggested by the Congregational H. M. U. and as the week of the 12th was chosen by the union for collecting that money, the members of the local society brought their contributions to the meeting and the amount was $30.14. Each one told how her money was raised, cooking, giving music lessons, quilting, selling old books and magazines, etc. The chapter from Creative Forces in Japan was given by Mrs. A. W. Clifford. During the social hour, while tea and cookies were enjoyed, the current events roll call was held.

CHESTNUT HILL

Mrs. S. A. Rice of Malden, Mass., was the guest of her cousin, W. W. Palmer, for a few days recently.

STATE ROADWORK COSTS INCREASE 150 PER CENT. IN PAST TEN YEARS

An increase of approximately 150 per cent. in the average cost of road construction in Connecticut in the last ten years is shown by a statement made public Monday by the state highway department in response to requests concerning costs of the work done by the department.

Whereas the cost of constructing a mile of bituminous concrete roadway in 1914 was approximately $13,000, the same work today cannot be done for less than $45,000. The costs of the various types of highway have all greatly increased, as the following table will show:

| | 1914 | 1923 |
|---|---|---|
| Gravel | $ 9,000 | $10,000 |
| Macadam | 12,000 | 28,000 |
| Bit. Macadam | 14,000 | 30,000 |
| Concrete | 17,000 | 40,000 |
| Bit. Concrete | 13,000 | 45,000 |

During the last ten years the highway department has constructed a total of 873.17 miles of roadway of which 531.25 miles were new construction and 341.90 were reconstruction. The following table shows the various types of construction that have been followed:

Graded, .73; gravel, 4.87; stone surface, 6.46; macadam, 24.68; bituminous macadam, 13.06; bituminous concrete, 76.58; concrete, .76; brick, .43.

During later years, with the increased accommodations made necessary by the growth of automobile traffic, it has been necessary to construct roads of a greater width than formerly. Originally roads were seldom more than sixteen feet, many, however, being only fourteen feet in width. At present the department is constructing roads as wide as twenty feet, with the majority, however, being eighteen.

A total mileage of 1,775.95 is the existing aggregate of roadways in Connecticut, the statement shows. Of this number 1,114.31 are trunk line highways, and 661.67 are state aid roads. The distribution of types shows that macadam is the leading surface now in use in Connecticut.

The following is a table showing the various types of highway now in existence here:

| | Trunk Line | State Aid |
|---|---|---|
| Graded | 66.68 | 32.88 |
| Gravel | 315.18 | 189.85 |
| Stone surface | 45.57 | 86.80 |
| Macadam | 411.68 | 276.59 |
| Bit. Macadam | 93.90 | 67.16 |
| Bit Concrete | 111.78 | 8.94 |
| Concrete | 148.71 | 48.70 |
| Brick | .81 | .75 |
| Total | 1114.31 | 661.67 |

Construction work actually completed and accepted during the last year totaled 91.58, divided as follows:

Gravel, 1.55; macadam, 29.30; bituminous macadam, 19.63; bituminous concrete, 2.51; concrete, 38.69.

This total, however, does not include a number of large contracts, where work remained undone at the end of the fiscal period. In such cases, the work is not considered accepted unless the department has made its final payment under the contract.

BIG RUSH TO OBTAIN PERMITS FOR WINE

That at least 7,000 cellars in Connecticut will be legally stocked with a supply of beverage made from fruit juices this fall was disclosed at the Hartford office of the U. S. internal revenue bureau Saturday by Collector Robert O. Eaton when it was announced that certificates of intention had poured into the office so fast that the supply of forms has been exhausted. When the bureau sent for more blanks from Washington it was learned that national headquarters had also depleted its supply on account of the vast amount of requests coming in from all over the country.

The internal revenue office is the only agency provided for giving out the certificate forms and more than 6,000 have already been filed at the Hartford office. On account of the shortage of forms, a waiting list of about 1,000 names is being kept at the office and blanks are to be sent out as fast as they come in.

Anyone desiring to make non-intoxicating wine for home consumption from grapes and fruits must notify the bureau on the forms provided and is allowed to make only 200 gallons. Upon meeting the requirement that notice of intent be filed with the revenue office, only heads of families may legally produce the non-intoxicating fruit juices.

1 1-2 TONS OF FOOD PER MAN ON SCHOONER BLOSSOM

When the three-masted schooner Blossom sailed Monday from New London, on her hazardous two-year expedition to the South Atlantic and Indian Oceans it was assured that each of the sixteen men in her crew would have no qualms concerning the likelihood of appeasing their appetites, for deep down in the hold of this staunch, copper-bottomed sealer is approximately one and one-half tons of food for each man. There are more than 400 cases and crates, consisting of everything imaginable, from 1923 digestible hardtack to premium hams and bacon. Aside from large quantities of coffee, tea and cocoa, casks in the Blossom's hold contain 4500 gallons of fresh water.

This expedition would not be possible only for the generosity of Mrs. Elizabeth Bingham Blossom of Cleveland, who is giving every cent to be used in financing the sail to the 42 islands of which only a scant half dozen are inhabited. The expedition was planned principally to collect specimens of bird and animal life for the Cleveland and New York Museums of Natural History.

More than 500 men applied for a berth on the Blossom before she sailed. Most of these men gave as their qualifications to sail on the expedition their university degrees in pure science or medicine. They were willing to go before the mast or aft and at any pay in order to get the experience. Capt. George Finlay Simmons is in charge of both scientific and navigating groups of the expedition. He was born in Texas and at one time was an instructor in zoology in the University of Texas at Austin. At the behest of Gov. Neff he reorganized the game fish and oyster commission for the Lone Star state and dropped this work only when the Cleveland Museum of National History asked him to command the two year cruise.

The aid of some of the best stewards in the east was asked in compiling an adequate list of food supplies. Remembering the satisfaction attending the outfitting of meat products for Donald MacMillan's Arctic exploration voyage Capt. Simmons placed in the hands of L. A. Nash of Swift & Company of New London, the entire responsibility of supplying food for the expedition. Here are some of the products which will serve to keep the minds of expeditionists from dwelling long on the hardships which lie before them: 320 pounds of butter, 864 pounds of bacon, 288 pounds chipped beef, 1440 pounds of corned beef, 180 pounds of cheese, 936 pounds of ham, 1260 pounds of lard, two half-barrels of salt pork fat, 384 pounds of Vienna sausage, seventy cases of luncheon tongues, potted tongues, chicken, ham, assorted soups, potted eggs, 6000 pounds of wheat flour, 200 pounds of evaporated apples, 1368 pounds of navy beans, 1400 pounds of coffee, 80 pounds of cocoa, two pounds of lemon extract, 540 pounds of prunes, 260 pounds of salt pork, 100 pounds of yeast and 3000 pounds of sugar.

MANY APPLY FOR MOTOR REGISTRATIONS

Over $27,000 in fees for registration of motor vehicles for 1924 had been received by the state motor vehicle department up to the close of business Saturday. This amount represented the payments on about 1,000 cars, most of them high-class machines whose owners availed themselves of the opportunity extended the public to secure the same registration numbers that have been carried on their cars this year.

"The department will endeavor to reserve for applicants the number issued them in 1923, either for January 1, 1924, or April 1, 1924, provided their completed 1924 application, accompanied by the necessary fee and a written request for that particular number is received at the office of the commissioner on or before December 1, 1923," says a circular enclosed with application blanks that have been mailed to all holding registrations this year.

To obviate unnecessary long number plates, the department has adopted a system of letter prefixes to be used on all but 99,999 of the number plates for passenger cars next year.

Number plates for passenger motor vehicles will be assigned to Main Office at Hartford and branch offices as follows:

Hartford: 1 to 99-999 without prefixed letter; P-1 to P-9999; E-1 to E-999.

New Haven: A-1 to A-9999; E-1 to E-9999; K-1 to K-9999.

Bridgeport: F-1 to F-9999; H-1 to H-9999; S-1 to S-9999.

Waterbury: K-1 to K-9999; W-1 to W-999.

New London: M-1 to M-9999; L-1 to L-999.

In issuing number plates 1 to 99,999, without prefixed letter the department will try to reserve for any applicant (either for January 1st, 1924, or April, 1924) the same number held in 1923, provided a special request to that effect and the accompanying application and fee for registry are received at the office of the commissioner on or before December 1st, 1923. After these specific reservations have been made other applications accompanied by correct fee received on or before December 1st will be given prefixed series numbers, as far as possible, by means of an impartial drawing to be made early in December.

After this drawing is completed, plates will be issued in sequence suiting the convenience of the department.

INDEPENDENT NORWICH LODGE VOTES MONEY FOR HOSPITAL

The Independent Norwich Lodge, No. 869, I. O. B. A., held its regular meeting Sunday afternoon at the Hebrew Institute, the meeting was opened by the president, Moses Jennes and the minutes of the last meeting was read by their secretary, B. Cohen. Ex-President Meyer Blumenthal give a report of the financial condition of the lodge, and it showed from the report of the ex-president that in less than eighteen months the lodge saved over $500 after paying all the sick benefits. Meyer Blumenthal made an appeal for the Backus hospital, and the members voted that the lodge shall donate $10, and it was also voted that the lodge should hold an entertainment for the committee of the cemetery. President Moses Jennes appointed a committee of five members to have full charge as follows: Meyer Blumenthal, Jacob Grobiafski, Israel Hankin, Joseph Resnik, Moses Jennes.

SUPERIOR COURT SESSION WILL BE DEFERRED

Judge Charles Jennings, who is scheduled to preside at the November term of court in Norwich which opens Nov. 2, has notified Clerk George E. Parsons that he will be kept busy in the criminal term in New Haven so that he will be unable to hold a short calendar session on the 3rd. He has directed that court is to be opened on the 6th and adjourned to the 13th. If a further adjournment is necessary then he will arrange to hold a short calendar some time during the week of the 13th in order to forward the business of the court here.

NORWICH TOWN

Mr. and Mrs. Howard La Field and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Curtiss, all of Plainville, motored to Norwich Town Sunday and were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin R. Scott and Miss Maybelle Scott, of Town street. Miss Scott returned to Jewett City this (Tuesday) morning to resume teaching, after spending the week end at her home here. While in Norwich Miss Scott attended the State Teachers' convention at Slater Hall Friday and Monday, accompanied by three other teachers, visited school in Westerly.

Mrs. George S. Beebe of Scotland Road was an over night guest recently of her daughter, Miss Gladys Bell Beebe, student nurse at Hartford hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Peck had as dinner guests Sunday, Mr. Peck's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore C. Peck of Westchester, also Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cross and children, Dorothy and Cedric Cross, of Moodus.

At the older Girls' conference held under the auspices of the Connecticut Sunday school association and Y. W. C. A., over the week end in New Haven those from the First Congregational church were—Elizabeth Avery, Doris Browning Ethel Whaley, Louise Avery, Dorothea Buskey and Esther Durr. The party, which had for its leader Miss Gertrude S. Avery, left Friday morning and returned Sunday evening. Miss Marion Geer of Poquetanuck accompanied this party.

The conference had very interesting speakers, among them Professor Henry Hallem Tweedy of Yale divinity school, and Miss Margaret Slattery of Boston, who recently spoke at the Central Baptist Church.

Miss Slattery also addressed the Older Boys' Conference held over the week end in New London. Representatives from Norwich Town included in the attendance were Millard Manning from the Methodist church, and Robert Avery from the Congregational church, with the pastor of the latter church, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, as leader. With this party was John Dodge, from Park church.

STR. BLOSSOM LEAVES NEW LONDON AFTER TWO LIBELS ARE SATISFIED

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Oct. 30—The court of common pleas will convene in criminal session in New London, Thursday. There are several liquor cases on the docket, and it is believed that these cases will occupy the greater part of the time that the court is in session.

In making his rounds through Bank street shortly after 8 o'clock this morning, Patrolman Howard Egan discovered two horses astray. The animals were taken to a barn in Summer street, where they were claimed by their owner. The animals reached the highway because of the door of their barn being left open.

Lieut. Stoggswell, U. S. N., stationed at the submarine base, reported to the police this afternoon that an automatic revolver, the property of the government, had been stolen from his apartment at the base.

Joseph Buscha, of 99 Smith street, a fisherman, was taken into custody this afternoon by Acting Detective Edward Daniels, charged with violation of a city ordinance in giving short weight. He was held in bonds of $50 for his appearance in the police court tomorrow morning and provided a surety on the bond, in Antone Menghi.

Busch, who sells fish from one of a number of boats at the municipal pier, is alleged to have sold mackerel to Mrs. Mary Cabral of Waterford this afternoon, the woman claiming that she tendered Buscha payment for three pounds of mackerel. After she left the pier, Mrs. Cabral to assure herself that she had received proper weight, took the fish to a store where they were weighed and her purchase weighed but a trifle over two and one-half pounds. Mrs. Cabral then lodged complaint with the police. Detective Daniels was sent to the wharf and taking Buscha's scales it was determined that Mrs. Cabral was justified in making her complaint as the scales were about three ounces on the represented purchase. Busch was taken into custody and the scales and fish were taken as evidence against the accused. Buscha admitted that he had not had the scales tested by the sealer of weights and measures, professing ignorance of the law compelling him to do so.

There is no perceptible change today in the condition of Postmaster Bryan R. Mahan, who is a patient at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, suffering from a general decline in health.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Sadie Kennedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kennedy of Old Mystic to Howard Simpson of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Sims of Orlando, Fla. No date has been set for the wedding.

Mrs. Catherine Shea is spending a week with friends in New York.

The funeral of Mrs. Lizzie Fleury, 58, was held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at undertaking rooms on Washington street. The services were conducted by Rev. Chester H. Howe. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Mrs. Thomas Howard and infant daughter of Howard street, Miss Marie Nostrand of Huntington street and Tony Gusoski of the submarine base, were patients discharged at Lawrence hospital today.

The case of Cornelius Walker of 16 Blydenburg avenue, charged with manslaughter in causing the death of William Bray, did not come to trial in the Groton town court today as was scheduled, because Judge Cornelius C. Costello was in attendance at a funeral in Mystic. The case was continued until next Monday morning at 10 o'clock, Walker furnishing the same surety, his grandmother, Mrs. Annie Leary, of New London, on his bond of $2000 for appearance at that time.

Robert Rasmussen and Nora Young, his clerk and housekeeper at the Ideal rooming house, were in the police court this morning charged with violation of the liquor laws. Their attorney said they were anxious for a trial, but that could not be held as there are witnesses for the state who could not be got into court today, because they are ill.

The case went over to the 6th of November and the parties accused gave a bond each for appearance. The trial is to be contested all the way evidently, if it comes to the taking of testimony, for both the accused parties declare that the state has not a leg to stand on.

George LaPiere was in the police court today for making false statements to the motor vehicle department when he sought a license. He had been the operator of a private car and he told the representatives of the motor department that he was concerned in any violation of the motor ty of a violation of a municipal ordicle laws, whereas he had been guilty of a violation of a municipal ordinance at Westerly. The court found him guilty and sentenced him to 30 days in jail, but then the execution of judgment was suspended.

John Marquis, a Portuguese resident of 325 Main street, has been suspected of dealing in intoxicating liquor and a watch has been kept on his home and himself. Police Officers Graham and Lavden, in the vicinity of the Marquis home early Sunday morning, saw Lance Thomas come away manifestly carrying concealed upon his person bottles of booze. Lance had seven bottles of assorted knockout, white and red. Some of it had the odor of anise, more of it was scented with caraway seed and still more had the smell of juniper. One bottle was a sort of grand dad among the rest, for it held two quarts of what was supposed to be gin. Today Marquis was presented in the police court. His attorney demurred to two counts in the complaint one alleging keeping for sale and the other charging that the Marquis house has the reputation of being a place where liquor was sold. The demurrer was overruled and Marquis was fined $300 and sent to jail for ten days. He was disposed to appeal but was advised by his lawyer not to attempt that.

Mrs. Albina Frechette, 68, dropped dead of heart trouble, at her home, 11 Tilley street, this afternoon. Mrs. Frechette decided not to hang clothes just washed upon a line in the yard because it was raining and instead started to hang them in the attic. Ascending the stairs, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Marie L. Fournier, with whom Mrs. Frechette had made her home for a long time, the latter had hardly reached the uppermost step when she complained of feeling ill and in a few seconds she collapsed, falling to the floor. Medical Examiner Harold H. Heyer stated that the woman had died of chronic heart trouble.

In the police court this morning Judge S. Victor Prince granted the motion of Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin that the charge of manslaughter of the state against Enrico Ferri of 78 Wolbach street be nolled. Ferri was arrested August 29th, following a fire at his home, his little daughter, Elizabeth, 13, succumbing at Home Memorial hospital the following day to burns she received. It was claimed that the fire was due to the handling of alcohol in the manufacture of whiskey or gin, for a considerable quantity of alcohol was found in the place where the fire originated. Ferri claimed that the girl, accompanied by an older sister, went to the upper part of the house, which was occupied by another family to perform household duties and that while engaged at the work, a lamp exploded. Ferri has been at liberty on $2,000 bonds since the fire and death of the child.

Miss Eva Shchurma, of Stamford, a teacher, formerly a teacher at Chapman Technical High school, New London, spent Sunday as the guest of Mrs. Wallace H. Stebbins.

Notice has been served on the Edwin Bloom company, silk manufacturers on Garfield avenue, by the city of New London, through Director of Law Frank L. McGuire, not to cause any structure to be erected or to occupy any portion of the strip of land between the company's two main buildings as the city claims that said strip is part of Elm street, one of the city's highways. An overhead bridge connecting the two buildings spans the strip. It is understood that the Bloom company had knowledge at the time it acquired the property from the Edward Prest estate that the city claimed the right of way there and has refrained from causing a building to be erected upon the land. Notice is served on the Bloom company so that the question of ownership of the land would be understood and to prevent any legal proceedings against trespass being made necessary. The city became possessed of the land originally from the Rogers estate and since then the section in question has become a continuation of Elm street, now used for residential purposes and with an accepted street to it.

Walter D. May, son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. May has re-entered the Catholic University of America at Washington, D. C., as a graduate student.

At St. Mary's Star of the Sea church at 11 o'clock this morning, Miss Teresa Lombardi, daughter of Luciano Lombardi, of Elm street, became the bride of Leo Rocco of New York, formerly of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Alexander C. Wollschlager.

Patrick J. Ryan has returned home after spending three weeks in New York. Mr. Ryan was a delegate at a meeting of the Connecticut-New York convention of the United Workmen of America.

While visiting his daughter, Mrs. Barney Greenblatt, of Montauk avenue, Jacob King, 90, of New Haven, died suddenly of heart trouble, Sunday afternoon. Mr. King is survived by seven children, Mrs. Max Walden of Sag Harbor, N. Y.; Simon King of Troy, N. Y. Isaac King, New York; Dr. Louis King, Bridgeport; Benjamin King, London, England; Miss Rose King, New Haven, and Mosey King, boxing instructor at Yale university. Mr. King was formerly a resident of New London, moving to New Haven about 20 years ago. The funeral was held Sunday afternoon with burial in the Hebrew cemetery, in Jordan.

Mrs. Helen M. Frere, 88, who died Sunday afternoon at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Nathaniel Hillyer of Crescent Beach, was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., and was the widow of Thomas Frere, whose death occurred about 13 years ago. Besides Mrs. Hillyer, Mrs. Frere is survived by another daughter, Mrs. F. H. McGrayne of Rutherford, N. J., two sons, Walter Frere of West Orange, N. J., and Eugene Frere, of Brooklyn, and by 11 grandchildren.

Walter Martin of Riverside Heights and Mrs. Samuel Monette of Mystic, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were able to return to their respective homes today.

Schooner Blossom, Capt. George Findlay Simmons, of Cleveland, Ohio, which has been in port a number of weeks being fitted out for a two and one-half years' cruise to South Africa and the Antartic, left New London harbor at 3.30 o'clock this afternoon. Tugs Alert and Guardsmen of the fleet of tugs of the Merritt-Chapman Wrecking company made fast to the schooner shortly before 3.30 and towing the schooner to mid-stream, her sails were set and the start made down the harbor and at 4 o'clock the craft was in Long Island sound, headed for the ocean. The Blossom is being financed by Mrs. Dudley S. Blossom, of Cleveland, for whom the schooner is named and is in search of wild animals for exhibits for the Cleveland museum. Mrs. Blossom was at the pier when the schooner started on her long voyage. Just before the Blossom was ready to sail Deputy Sheriff Manuel J. Martin placed libels on the craft, one for $5,000 for provisions furnished by Abraham Godon and the other for $1,000 levied by Thomas Esteban for supplying and equipping the craft with radio installation. The claims were paid almost instantly and a half hour later the Blossom was headed for the Sound. The master of the vessel, Captain George Finlay Simmons, has been on scientific expeditions, both as a navigator and as a scientist.

At the rate that coal is coming through the Sound there bids fair to be a supply for all commercial and household purposes, by the time cold weather sets in. Tugboat men say there has rarely been a season when coal was going through the Island sound in such quantities as just now.

Mitchell court, off Montauk avenue, is likely to be in shape for travel by man and vehicles before cold weather sets in though work has been going on there in the way of improvements since the early summer. The court was set and water stood in the street as well as in the cellars of the houses in past years. Then condemnation procedings were begun and the laying of sewers, gutters and sidewalks and the macadamizing of the court followed. The work has been expensive as ledge was encountered almost from the beginning of the work, which is now nearing completion. The property is owned by a few persons and mostly in three or four families.

There was a large attendance this evening at the concert by the Philharmonic orchestra of New York at the state armory. The concert was given under the auspices of the Connecticut college, the proceeds to go to the college music department and for the furtherance of the work of that department in the college.

The Belgian block pavement on Bank street has been relaid during the past month so that all the hollows have been removed.

The city council this evening appropriated the sum of $1,000 to defray the expenses of the celebration of Armistice day, the 12th of November, by the war veterans and the American Legion. The veterans and the legion is to raise another $1,000, so that New London will have a fine celebration of the day.

The council also voted to put astop to encroachments by private property owners upon city streets. Among the encroachments that will be removed will be the taxi stand at the south end of the railway station. Elm street, where the Bloom company is located, is another instance of encroachment on the street and the property of the city. This matter may be adjusted amicably, but it will necessitate some changes in the building of the Bloom company. All over the city there are encroachments reported. They have been listed and will be the subject of litigation unless the city property is returned to the owner. In Fourth street in East New London the Standard Oil company has a lease of land from the Central Vermont Railroad company which it is claimed by the city's law representative and the city manager the company had no right to make.

A report was made to the council that the school buildings on Alger street will be ready to be turned over to the city Nov. 15.

Under the auspices of the Diocesan Bureau of Social Welfare, 45 Jay street, a choral society will be formed at the Knights of Columbus home Wednesday evening.

POLITICAL SITUATION IN SAXONY LESS THREATENING

Socialists Who Have Threatened to Resign From the Stresemann Cabinet Have Changed Their Attitude—A Decisive Vote is to be Taken Today on the Party's Stand Toward the Central Government—Berlin Regards Collapse of Strike Movement in Saxony a Favorable Omen.

Berlin, Oct. 30—(By the A. P.)—The general political situation with respect to the Saxon conflict is viewed tonight in official quarters as having showed marked improvement. The united socialists, who yesterday threatened to secede from Chancellor Stresemann's coalition government, appeared less intransigeant today, having deferred a decisive vote on the party's attitude toward the central government's procedure in Saxony until tomorrow.

The attitude of the radicals is explained on the ground that the party, as such, is in neither a strategic nor tactical position to offer strong opposition, and also because its withdrawal from the present coalition under the present circumstances would constitute a pronounced concession to the communists in Saxony and elsewhere.

Any comercial measures the socialists may adopt for the purpose of administering a rebuke to the central government, it is asserted, will be dictated by tactical considerations and solely for the purpose of conserving the party's prestige with its followers.

Reports from Dresden indicate that Dr. Heinze, the reich commissioner in Saxony, is having success in reestablishing a parliamentary regime here to succeed the deposed Zeigner ministry and that the Saxon socialists have definitely jettisoned further intentions of allying themselves with the communists. Berlin officials also view the collapse of the general strike movement throughout Saxony as an auspicious omen and believe that the withdrawal of Dr. Heinze, as promised, and curtailment of the federal military occupancy there, will make it possible for conditions to assume a normal aspect at an early date.

The situation with respect to Bavaria is less clarified, as Premier Von Knilling has not yet replied officially to Chancellor Stresemann's request that the federal military authority be restored completely.

Political circles cite the refusal of the labor federation to come to the rescue of the ultra-Reds in connection with efforts to proclaim a general strike in Saxony and throughout Germany in order to frustrate the Berlin government's attempt to establish a lawful government in Saxony.

The fact that the chancellor is making headway with his reform measures has also served as a deterrent to socialistic antagonism in the present critical situation and if the party thus far has declined to assume a hostile attitude it is due to the moderate leaders who have been persuading their wavering following that the government must be spared parliamentary opposition because of the problems confronting it at home and abroad.

In certain quarters it was believed that the coalition government would find difficulty in saving itself in the various crisis but conditions began to shape themselves more satisfactorily during the early hours of the evening.

Some of the leading socialists severely criticize the government's action toward Saxony.

Vorwaerts remarks that events in Dresden, where reichswehr troops have taken control of public buildings, and Dr. Karl Heinze, commissioner of the reich, has informed the diet that it is his mission to form a new cabinet to replace the deposed ministry under Dr. Zeigner, strengthen the impression that the forces at work are acting progressively with an obvious intention.

"Does not the chancellor see it?" asked Vorwaerts, "that only the strongest hold on the steering gear, in fact, only a miracle, can save him from an abyss?"

The situation will be definitely decided tomorrow at a conference of the executive council of the socialist party and reichstag members.

A story of nationalist military preparations in Bavaria was furnished today by the "Socialist Parliamentary Service," which asserts that large forces of fully armed nationalists, supplied with heavy guns, have been distributed along the Saxon and Bavarian frontiers with Bamberg as their base. It was said that at Bamberg they have supplies, vehicles, artillery, machine guns and also airplanes bearing the swastika emblems of Captain Ehrhardt of Kapp Putsch fame, against whom a warrant for arrest is still out. Ehrhardt is said to be playing a prominent part in training these illegal forces. The government is investigating the truth of the socialist allegations.

Late tonight it was stated that the three socialist ministers of the reich cabinet already had notified the executive council of the socialist party of their intention to resign but that the council asked them to postpone such a step pending tomorrow's conference. One reason for the requested postponement was a desire on the part of the socialist leaders to await developments in Saxony.

BRITAIN ACCEPTS FRENCH PREMIER'S RESERVATIONS

London, Oct. 30 (By the A. P.)—Europe is to make another effort to unravel the everlasting reparation tangle. The British government today decided to accept the French premier's reservations and the British charge d'affaires at Washington was instructed by cable tonight to inform Secretary Hughes of the decision of the powers to enter a conference of experts such as Mr. Hughes suggested in his reply to Foreign Secretary Curzon's plea for American participation.

If all goes well, this commission of inquiry will be started before the overseas premiers leave London, and it is hoped that in spite of France's severe restrictions it may lead to a larger plenary conference on the whole European situation, at Washington or elsewhere, in which the powerful neutral nations like the United States may make their voices heard.

Sir John Bradbury, the British reparation delegate, whose opinion on France's terms for the experts' conference was sought, informed the British government today that while some of the conditions would sharply limit the scope of the conference, he felt that Great Britain could not take the responsibility of uttering a peremptory "No" to France and risk the loss of America's participation.

There is a strong desire among British government officials that the experts' committee shall have an American chairman, whose neutrality and disinterestedness they feel would insure a greater measure of impartiality and justice in the committee's decision. They would welcome as the American member, it is said, a financier of such inetrnational standing as J. P. Morton or a lawyer of such repute and foreign experience as Roland W. Boyden or Paul Cravath.

Japan will be invited to join in the discussions of the expert committee. The British believe that Japan's detachment from the immediate affairs of Europe will enable the Japanese member also to take an objective, unbiased view of the reparation problems and, with the American delegate, exercise a moderating or even mediating influence upon the discussions of his more interested colleagues.

It is understood that General J. C. Smuts, premier of South Africa, and some of the other more progressive delegates to the imperial conference were opposed to acceptance of the French restrictions, favoring a larger, full-dress conference, even without France, but the opinion of the more moderate and calmer counsels within the cabinet prevailed, and it was decided to make a start at least with the smaller conference.

ACTION DEFERRED BY REPARATION COMMISSION

Paris, Oct. 30 (By the A. P.)—The inter-allied reparation commission today unanimously voted to postpone consideration of the German application for a hearing on Germany's capacity for payment until further information is received on the negotiations between the allied governments for the creation of an experts' committee to investigate the subject.

Some of the delegates at first favored proceeding regardless of the proposed experts conference but they abandoned their attitude upon the explanation of the British delegate, Sir John Bradbury, that the commission in so acting might forestall or interfere with the plans for the international conference. An official communique given out after the meeting of the commission reads:

"In view of the negotiations actually in progress between the allied governments the reparation commission decided to adjourn examination of the note presented on October 24 by the Kriegslastenkommission (German war burdens commission)."

SOCIALISTS OF SAXONY TO FORM MINORITY GOV'T

Dresden, Saxony, Oct. 30 (By the A. P.).—The socialist parliamentary party has decided to form a socialist minority government, Dr. A. Fellisch, who prior to the setting up of the deposed socialist-communist government was minister of economics, has announced his intention to undertake the formation of such a cabinet. The democrats have agreed to support a socialist government, which would thus command an adequate majority in the diet.

It is expected that Dr. Fellisch will present the names of his ministers shortly.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS HAS NOT QUARRELED WITH WIFE

Los Angeles, Oct. 30.—Douglas Fairbanks, motion picture actor, and his wife, Mary Pickford, announced tonight that they had telegraphed instructions to their attorneys in New York to file a libel suit immediately against an eastern film magazine which recently printed a report that "America's sweetheart and her famous husband had quarreled over another woman."

Evelyn Brent, formerly leading lady in Fairbanks company, whose name was said to have been involved in the alleged libelous article, will join Miss Pickford and Fairbanks in the libel suit, according to her husband, B. P. Fineman.

"THE UNKNOWN LADY" AN OBJECTIONABLE SKETCH

New York, Oct. 30.—"The Unknown Lady," a vaudeville sketch dealing satirically with the divorce laws of New York state in which Mme. Nazimova played a woman of the streets, was withdrawn today from the programme at the Palace theatre as objectionable. The action was taken at request of officials of the B. F. Keith organization.

The sketch was written by George Middleton, prominent American playwright.

THREE AMERICAN SAILORS ARRESTED IN CONSTANTINOPLE

Constantinople, Oct. 30.—Three American sailors were arrested today by the Turkish police for wearing their navy uniforms ashore after five o'clock in the afternoon. Seamen attached to foreign warships in the Bosphorous are not permitted on the streets of Constantinople at night except in civilian clothes under the new Turkish regime.

18 INJURED WHEN FIRE TRUCK HIT POLICE CAR

STRIKERS CLASH WITH TROOPS IN PORTUGAL

Oporto, Portugal, Oct. 30.—There were several casualties today during clashes between strikers and troops in disorders following the calling of a general strike.

Steps have been taken to protect bakeries in which work is proceeding tonight.

Throat Cancer Fatal To Andrew Bonar Law

Former British Prime Minister Had Lived Under a Cloud of Misfortunes the Past Year.

London, Oct. 30—(By the A) P.—Andrew Bonar Law, who was one of the strong wartime statesmen of Great Britain and its only prime minister of Colonial birth, died at his London home at three o'clock this morning. The last year of his sixty-five years was lived under a cloud of heavy misfortunes.

Only a little more than a year ago he reluctantly accepted the highest political office in the empire, telling his supporters that he was doubtful his health would long bear the strain of the duties, and promising to give up the work when he was no longer equal to the burden. Then followed seven months in office—months harassed by pain; whereupon he fulfilled his promise.

"The verdict of the doctors has left me no choice," he wrote to his Glasgow constituents, in announcing his decision to retire.

The next five months were divided between continental resorts and the English seaside in pursuit of relief from suffering. There were a few weeks when he seemed to be improving, and his friends hoped against fate that he might regain his strength.

With the chill of the autumn days came his final breakdown, and ten days ago he was brought back from Brighton to his London home for the inevitable end. There he died. His daughter, Lady Sykes and his two surviving sons, Anthony and Richard, were with him. Two sons, James and Charles, lost their lives in the war. Those blows aged him beyond his years.

Like General Grant and the German Emperor Frederick III, the late prime minister died from cancer of the throat. There was a parallel between his last days and those of Frederick III's, in that both came into brief power with the sentence of death pronounced upon them.

The last phase and deciding factor of Mr. Bonar Law's illness was an attack of pneumonia, which his enfeebled frame had not the vitality to resist. The approaching end was revealed to only the few who were able to read last night's bulletin, which was issued after the evening papers were published. To the general public the news this morning was unexpectedly sudden.

Premier Baldwin, the friend and political legatee of Mr. Bonar Law, spoke the kindest thoughts of all his friends in saying: "For him I am thankful he has been spared further suffering."

The short speech Mr. Bonar Law made at the Unionist party conference which decided to withdraw from the Lloyd George coalition a year ago, was uttered with difficulty. His voice almost failed on occasions during his last appearance in the house of commons, and it was evident then that he was a broken man, making a fight against pain.

No effect upon British politics or policies from Mr. Bonar Law's death can be foreseen. His successor, like President Coolidge, has appeared to regard himself as trustee of the former leader's estate. The country had become regretfully reconciled to the belief that Mr. Bonar Law had disappeared frm public life, without the possibility of returning. It is too early for British commentators to appraise the value of his services or the exact weight he pulled in the government boat during the war.

Mr. Bonar Law was credited with being one of the inner circle who arranged the substitution of Mr. Lloyd George's coalition for Herbert H. Asquith's; his word was the decisive one for the return to the old-fashioned party government when the Unionists determined that coalitions had run their course. The people welcomed his promise of "tranquility," although, as is the way in politics, there are already complaints that the new regime has no ideait strongly enough with foreign and domestic troubles.

The newspapers and men of all parties affirm that no one knew the lost leader except to be friends. Flags were half-masted today, and Major General Sir Frederick Sykes, his son-in-law, was summoned to Buckingham Palace this afternoon, where the king and queen expressed their condolences.

EIGHT INDICTMENTS FOR LOOTING OF OIL COMPANY

New York, Oct. 30.—Eight indictments charging grand larceny have been returned against three men in connection with the laleged looting of the Emerich Oil company of Delaware with offices here and in Wichita Falls, Texas, it was learned tonight. Those named are J. Ben Ross, Los Angeles; Edward D. Davenport, believed to be in New York, and John F. Emerich, president of the company, who now is in Los Angeles.

Former Governor Haskell of Oklahoma was a witness before the grand jury that indicted the men, it was said, his testimony dealing with a plan whereby he was to have purchased a controlling interest in the company from Emerich. Emerich, it was charged, changed his mind and partly reimbursed Haskell for sums he already had paid with money from the treasury of the company.

GOV. PARKER'S OPINION OF THE KU KLUX KLAN

Baton Rouge, La., Oct. 30.—"The Associated Press wires from Atlanta only confirm information we had as to the presence of a large number of klan investigators doing their utmost to balk justice," Governor John M. Parker said today in commenting on the deposition or S. N. Littlejohn offered in Atlanta in connection with the Rittenhouse receivership suit against the Ku Klux Klan. "And this was from an organization which had the audacity to claim itself 100 per cent American and to insist on the enforcement of the law. Further comment is unnecessary."

Rush of Immigrants For November Quota

Sixteen Liners With Approximately 18,000 Alien Passengers Will be Ready for Race at Midnight.

New York, Oct. 30.—Sixteen liners, with approximately 18,000 alien passengers, will have raced to their anchorages below Quarantine by tomorrow night, when the November immigration quota will open.

Special interest is attached to the November rush as quota allotments of some nations will be exhausted until next July 1, as special permission had been given some steamship companies to land 20 per cent. of the entire national quota monthly since last July.

Because of the congestion here, several other liners with 10,000 additional immigrants have been diverted to other ports. The number of alien passengers to be received here is so great that it may be a week, immigration officials said, before the last could be examined. Meanwhile, under the law, they must be accommodated on the ships which brought them here, as Ellis Island will be taxed to the utmost.

The Greek line steamship Byron, fined $200,000 by the government for entering port a few minutes before the September immigration quota became effective, arrived today in Gravesend bay with 1,600 immigrants in advance of the incoming fleet. The official arrival times will be clocked by immigration officials as the vessels pass Ambrose light outside the harbor, to avoid the danger of collision which government officials feared in past races in the Narrows for official timing off Quarantine.

Other liners nearing this port and bearing large quotas of immigrants from virtually all countries are the Majestic, Celtic, Conte Rosso, Cleveland, Orca, Lituania, Suffern, Volendam, Martha Washington, Patria, Columbia, President Arthur, Albania, Ebro, and Fort Victoria.

Diverted to Boston for landing of immigrants will be the Franconia, Tuscania, Caronia, President Polk and the Baltic; to Providence, the Madonna and Asia; to Portland, Me., the Seydlits, and to Philadelphia, the Stavangerfjord.

LLOYD GEORGE DELIVERED ADDRESS IN PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, Oct. 30.—(By the A. P.)—Belief that the people of America and Great Britain "will stand behind democratic institutions whatever may befall in any other land" was expressed in an address here today by David Lloyd George, emphasizing the advantages of a democratic government over an autocracy, the former British premier declared that he was "glad to be here where the greatest democracy on earth made its start."

The address was delivered in the Academy of Music before the Philadelphia Forum. Mr. Lloyd George warned that democracy is imperilled in the face of a reaction in Europe reflected in the establishment of autocratic governments in Russia, Italy, Spain "and for the moment, Germany."

"Believe me," the former premier said, "democracy is on trial; maybe not here. You will stand by it, but there are other nations that have given it up; there are nations that have attempted to give it up, and unless the nations that have tried and have been brought through many trials, stand by it, democracy in the world may disappear.

"We have three great democracies in the world at the present moment to stand by these principles—your great land, France and Britain."

E. C. CONVERSE ESTATE MORE THAN $20,000,000

New York, Oct. 30.—A copy of the will of Edmund C. Converse, of Greenwich, Conn., who died in Pasadena, Calif., in April, 1921, was filed today to enable the executors to administer real and personal property in this state. The will originally was filed in Connecticut. The estate in Greenwich is valued at $1,000,000, while its total value in Connecticut and elsewhere, is placed at "not more than $20,000,000."

Among the beneficiaries in New York state are the Metropolitan Museum of Art, United Hospital Fund, St. Thomas' church, and American Boy Scouts. The museum was bequeathed a Van Dyck painting and a collection of Japanese, Chinese, Persian and Italian ceramics.

HANGED HIMSELF IN THE NEW HAVEN COUNTY JAIL

New Haven, Oct. 30.—George Wood, a farm laborer, arrested at Seymour last Wednesday night, charged with assault upon a young boy and bound over under $10,000 bonds to the next term of the superior court, hanged himself in his cell in the New Haven county jail during last night. He had used his belt which he attached to the electric light fixture as a means of ending his life. Wood formerly lived in Bangor, Me.

NEW CHIEF EXAMINER FOR SECOND RESERVE DISTRICT

Washington, Oct. 30.—Comptroller Dawes of the currency tonight announced the appointment of Owen T. Roreback, formerly attached to the comptroller's office here, as chief examiner for the Fifth Reserve district, with headquarters here.

TRAIN DERAILED BY GRADE CROSSING COLLISION

Porter, Ind., Oct. 30.—Frank Landis, Gary, Ind., driver of a motor truck, was injured and the engine and three cars of east-bound Michigan-Central passenger train No. 14 were derailed at a crossing three miles west of Porter about 4.15 o'clock this afternoon when the train collided with the truck. The engineer and firemen were slightly hurt. Landis' leg was fractured. No passengers on the train were injured.

16 MEN ABOARD DRIFTING BARGES IN HEAVY SEA

Ashtabula, Ohio, Oct. 30.—Sixteen men, aboard four barges which broke loose from the tug Dixie, of New York and floundered in the heavy seas of Lake Erie today were taken off by coast guardsmen tonight and landed in this port.

RAILROAD MAGNATES DRAFT REPLY ON FREIGHT RATES

Unfavorable to President Coolidge's Proposal for Revision of Rates on Shipments of Grain and Coal Destined for Export—Reply is Based on Belief That Lowering Rates Would Not Create an Increased Market in Europe—Text of the Document is Withheld Pending Wishes of President Coolidge.

New York, Oct. 30—Presidents and other executives of every grain or coal hauling railroad in the country today drafted what was unofficially reported to have been an unfavorable reply to President Coolidge's recent proposal for revision of rail freight rates on shipments of those two commodities which were destined for export.

A committee of the presidents was named to submit the drafted reply to the president at Washington by Thursday, or earlier if they could be received at the White House.

While the contents of the draft were withheld to await the wishes of President Coolidge in regard to publication, several of the executives who helped draw it up said it was based on a conviction that lowering rates on grain for export would not create an increased market for wheat in Europe, and therefore would not help lift the American farmer out of the slough of over-production.

The rail executives were chary about revealing their attitude toward the president's reported proposal that the freight rates on coal for export be raised to more nearly the level of rates on coal for home consumption. When the conference opened, however, it was generally agreed that the traffic vice-presidents of the biggest eastern roads had stated the case in session a week ago, when they declared that coal freight rates had been as nearly equalized as was plausible.

The president's suggestions, made to Samuel Rea, president of the Pennsylvania railroad during a recent interview at the White House, were believed to have been aimed at stimulation of the foreign grain trade to the benefit of the wheat farmer. Elimination of wide differentials on coal rates were presumed to have been intended as a check on the foreign demand for American fuel, which would result in a more bountiful supply for local consumers.

Mr. Rea called the conference today, which was by invitation to individual roads and not an official session of any of the recognized national railway associations. Fifty executives were in attendance, most of them from roads east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio rivers. Far-western and southern roads were represented by group chiefs of the association of railway executives.

MOTHER OF MRS. STOKES ON THE WITNESS STAND

New York, Oct. 30—Attorneys and process servers continued, this afternoon their search for three witnesses wanted for further cross-examination in the retrial of the divorce suit of W. E. D. Stokes, wealthy hotel owner, against Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes.

Supreme Court Justice Mahoney instructed counsel for both sides to help bring the witnesses into court Thursday, after the trial was recessed over this afternoon and tomorrow because of the death of a juror's father. Edgar T. Wallace, principal co-respondent and defense witness, was wanted for further questioning by Max D. Steuer, counsel for Mr. Stokes, and Agricola Byers and Mrs. Nell Rose Miller, negress witnesses for Mr. Stokes, were sought by Samuel Untermyer, attorney for Mrs. Stokes. Mr. Untermyer complained one of his process servers was thrown out of a house and injured in his search for Miss Byers.

Mrs. Emma Elwood Miller, mother of Mrs. Stokes, had the stand all morning. While she became somewhat confused on dates and wasn't sure of the year of her daughter's birth, Mrs. Miller's story of Mrs. Stokes' early life formed a detailed denial of testimony of several witnesses for Mr. Stokes. She said she allowed her daughter, then Miss Elwood, to wear the diamond ring lent her by Wallace because, as a doting mother, she thought Wallace had proposed. She admitted under cross examination her daughter had run away from a school near Chicago several times, "because she didn't like it." She refused to mention several dates, and wiped her eyes with a handkerchief when pressed by Mr. Steuer. Several dates mentioned by Mrs. Miller conflicted with those given y other witnesses for her daughter. She was expected to resume the stand Thursday.

COMMITTEE INVESTIGATION OF THE VETERANS' BUREAU

Washington, Oct. 30.—Congressional influence was brought to bear to block a plan of the veterans' bureau to abandon the projected tuberculosis hospital at Excelsior Springs, Missouri, the senate investigating committee was told today by E. L. Morse, prominent in republican politics in Missouri and manager in that state of the Lowden campaign for the republican presidential nomination in 1920. Morse subsequently sold the plant to the government for $116,010.

The property consisted of the Morse homestead and ten additional acres and was leased to the governmentu nder an agreement which it has been charged before the committee was rushed through by Ewing Laporte, then assistant secretary of the treasury, on the last day of the Wilson administration despite recommendations from the public health service that the place was not suitable for a hospital. Further adverse reports were made by medical men, the evidence showed, and in June, 1922, the veterans' bureau decided to abandon the project.

Morse testified that when he was notified of this decision he came to Washington to use his influence with senators and representatives who protested to the bureau. He said he saw fifteen senators and that one of them, Senator Bursum, republican, New Mexico, took the matter to the White House. Later the sale was consummated.

NO "PETTING" PARTIES IN PITTSBURGH HIGH SCHOOLS

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 30.—Dr. William M. Davidson, superintendent of Pittsburgh schools, in a statement today termed "absolutely untrue" the statement made in an address last night by David J. Terry, secretary of the Children's Service Bureau, that "spooning and petting parties" had reached "scandalous proportions" in the Pittsburgh high schools.

"While some boy or girl in high school may slip a little," Dr. Davidson said, "Terry is romancing when he draws attention to an occasional derelict and attempts to give the impression all high schools reek with this sort of thing."

"Spooning" about any of the high school buildings is prohibited, Dr. Davidson's statement said, and it is especially guarded against by principals, teachers and "school mothers" assigned to each building.

WANDA HAWLEY GRANTED INTERLOCUTORY DIVORCE

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 30.—Wanda Hawley, motion picture actress, was granted an interlocutory divorce from Allen B. Hawley in superior court today on the grounds of non-support and extreme cruelty. The film star brought the action under the name of Selma Hawley.

CONVENTION OF AMERICAN MANAGEMENT ASSOCIATION

New York, Oct. 30.—If the United States would embark whole-heartedly on a policy of "dollar diplomacy," the future would be brighter for all the 1,700,000,000 inhabitants of the earth, John Hays Hammond, chairman of the federal coal commission and internationally known developer of the resources of backward nations, told the American Management association at tonight's session of its annual convention.

An American commission of financial experts would do more than any mixed group of international envoys to determine what reparations Germany could pay; would start Europe working to recoup the losses of the World war, and would lay the foundations for perpetual world peace, said Mr. Hammond.

"The trade follows a nation's dollar as surely as it follows its flag," he said. "What has been stigmatized as the 'missionary gum gunboat' is happily passed. Dollar diplomacy attended to that."

His proposal, covered in fourteen points, started with a suggestion that an international high court of equity be established to rule on controversies arising through "dollar diplomacy," with its decisions "published throughout the world, to constitute a powerful deterrent to dishonest practices."

UNIFORM STATE LAWS ADVOCATED BY BANKERS

Washington, Oct. 30.—Uniformity of state laws regulating public utilities was advocated in a report submitted to the Investment Bankers' Association of America today by its committee on public securities.

The committee's report, which was one of several considered at today's session of the organization's annual convention, also urged that all state commissions be vested with authority over the valuation, rates, services and capitalization of privately owned utility plants, and that they be required to publish full financial reports of their operations.

"When administered with the broadest powers and in a judicial manner," the report said, "state-wide regulation of public utilities has been conclusively proved in the opinion of the committee to afford the best guarantees which investors can have in this country for a maintenance of that integrity of investment necessary for a ready flow of money into the business."

CRIME OF MER ROUGE AGAIN TO FOREFRONT

New Orleans, Oct. 30.—The two mutilated bodies found in Lake La Fourche last December and identified as those of Watt Daniel and T. F. Richard of Mer Rouge, who were kidnapped by hooded men near Bastrop four months earlier, could not have been in the water more than forty-eight hours, if that long, Dr. Charles W. Duval, the pathologist who conducted the autopsies, told the Times-Picayune tonight, according to a story that newspaper will publish tomorrow.

MILK PRICE CUT IN PHILA., RAISED IN NEW ENGLAND

Philadelphia, Oct. 30.—The price of milk in Philadelphia and vicinity will be reduced one cent on Thursday, Nov. 1, making the retail price twelve cents.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 30.—An increase of one cent a quart in the wholesale price of milk, effective November 1, was announced today by the New England Milk Producers Association. The advance, from 9 1-2 cents to 9 1-2 cents a quart from farm to dealers affects Greater Boston.

OBITUARY.

W. G. Warnock.

New Haven, Oct. 30.—W. G. Warnock, a former newspaperman and latterly a broker in New York city, died at Grace hospital today after a short illness. He was on a visit to Meriden, being a half-brother of Thomas H. Warnock, editor of the Meriden Morning Record, when taken ill, and was brought to this city for treatment.

Mr. Warnock was born in Meriden, was about 47 years of age, and was a member of the Springfield Republican and later was a bureau correspondent for a press association service in Syracuse, N. Y. Afterward he entered the brokerage business.

Mr. Warnock is survived by his wife and a daughter, Mildred.

William F. Wendt.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 30.—William F. Wendt, millionaire manufacturer and founder of the Buffalo Forge company, died at his home here today. He was 68 years old.

Mayor Charles A. Gates has issued a proclamation designating Saturday, November 10, as Forget-Me-Not-Day, in honor of the soldiers who fought so bravely under the Stars and Stripes during the World war. The proclamation reads in part:

"As mayor of our city, I request your whole-souled co-operation in making this day most memorable in honor of those who offered all that they had to their country. Let us remember the anxiety and strain of the four years' struggle, the pain and suffering endured by our heroes and the sacrifices made by those who gave their lives that the world might be made safe for democracy. Then remember the joy with which we received the glad news of the Armistice of November 11th, 1918, and with those remembrances quickened in our hearts, let us do our utmost as "Forget-Me-Not-Day" of this year and succeeding years, to show our reverance for those who fell during the war, and our sympathy and gratitude to those wounded and disabled veterans who are still with us.

"Forget-Me-Not-Day" must mean that what they did, so bravely and unselfishly, will never fade from our memories but will abide with us and with those who come after us, through all the ages to come."

The following committee has been appointed to make arrangements for the observance of Forget-Me-Not Day in this city: Rev. Harry S. McReady, Rev. John E. Clark, Rev. Frederick C. Williams, Rev. J. J. Papilion, Rev. A. S. Stanley Muirhead, Rev. Basil Koshel, Rev. David R. Overton, Egbert A. Case, George H. Shafer, James L. D'Arreau, Herbert D. Pollard, Charles H. Caswell, Hormisdas Dion, James J. Lee, Charles W. Hill, Roy W. Downer, Michael E. Sullivan, Joseph E. Morrison, Wolf Rosen, Otto B. Robinson, John A. Keeffe, Fred A. Sanderson, Charles W. Alpaugh, Frank P. Lombardo, Joseph Haddad, Joseph Giraca, Andrew Ogoralek, Mrs. John Reilly, Mrs. Nellie A. Gager, Mrs. Joseph M. Berard, Mrs. Minnie Wilson, Mrs. Allan McArthur, Mrs. Rose Shea, Mrs. Bertha Thompson, Mrs. William A. Dawson, Mrs. Charles H. Webster.

In the town of Windham during September there were thirteen marriages as recorded at the office of Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton. Three of the number were performed by Rev. Harry S. McCready; two each by Rev. D. S. Beaumister and Justice of the Peace Thomas J. Kelley; and one each by Rev. E. A. Mathieu, Rev. F. P. Foshay and Rev. Basil Koshel. The list follows:

1—Ernest W. Collins (Columbia) and Mildred Harroun, by Rev. Harry S. McCready.

1—Walter Francis Hauschild and Olga Rose Stibr (Gurleyville, Mansfield), by Rev. Harry S. McCready.

3—Leo Joseph McMahon and Anna Bess Wood (Danielson), by Rev. H. S. McCready.

3—Antini Bibik (Montville) and Katerzyna Karpis, by Rev. O. S. Beaumister.

3—Henry J. Adams (Taftville) and Rose Anne Vertefeuille, by Rev. E. A. Mathieu.

4—Eben Bass (Scotland) and Helen Woodman (Scotland), by Rev. W. M. Brown.

22—Harold Bowden and Ida May Tanner, by Rev. F. C. Williams.

23—Steve J. Harelis (Westerly, R. I.), and Mary Caris, by Rev. Philotheo Kondyliskas.

29—Leon E. Michaud and Helen George, by Rev. F. F. Foshay.

30—John Derkacs (New Britain), and Nelli Lingnas, by Rev. Basil Koshel.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Wade gave a Hallowe'en party at their home on North street, Monday evening for their children, Mary and Stanley Wade. Others present were Mary and Ruth Cudworth, Winifred and Beatrice Andrews, Clayton Andrews, Raymond Brown, Arthur Meigle and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dickie.

The regular meeting of Willimantic Rotary club designated as the annual Business Methods meeting was held Tuesday noon with practically a full attendance. Papers on business practices in regard to the Rotary code of ethics were read by James B. Fullerton, "How Each Rotarian Can Better Serve. His Craft Association;" Frank H. Foss, "Business Relations in Connection With the Rotary Code of Ethics;" Valentine L. Murphy, "How the Rotary Code of Ethics Was Applied in My Own Business and the Results Attained by So Doing;" and Charles W. Hill, "Present Day Business Methods."

Guests at the meeting were C. A. Gager, Norwich, Senator John Ash of Pomfret, Charles Pryor of Hartford and A. F. Brown of the local Y. M. C. A. A discussion on theatricals took place. President James P. Mustard was in charge of the meeting. The programme was arranged by Lou A. Kingsbury.

Tuesday morning at 11.50 o'clock the session of the Windham county superior court opened with Judge L. F. Waldo Marvin on the bench. One case was heard before a recess was taken at one o'clock, Asher B. Holmes against DeWitt C. Lockman of Windham, for a bill of $34.10 alleged to have been contracted October 30, 1920. The cause came up on an appeal from a decision in a local justice court which was in favor of the defendant.

Witnesses for Holmes Tuesday were Everett D. Hopkins and Paul S. Hopkins, of Windham. In October, 1920, Hopkins had a contract to do some painting at the Lockman house in Windham. He ran out of stock and notified Lockman, according to his testimony, that more paint was needed and they discussed where to secure the additional supply. Hopkins called up Mr. Holmes' store in Willimantic and ordered the paint. Holmes was told to charge it to Mr. Lockman.

Holmes sent the bills repeatedly to Lockman but received no payment.

Lockman said that it was true that paint had been ordered but he supposed that Hopkins was the one to furnish the paint for the work. He denied giving anyone permission to purchase paint under his name.

Paul Hopkins testified to securing the paint supply. Mrs. Jessie T. Dipples, bookkeeper, testified to the conversation between Lockman and Everett R. Hopkins.

Brief arguments were made by the attorneys. Judge Marvin gave a decision in favor of the plaintiff, holding he was entitled to $40.26.

There was no session of court in the afternoon, due to the fact that a settlement was reached in the case of Elizabeth Ricard vs. John G. Taylor which was over a bill for hospital care and physicians' attendance for a child. The terms of settlement were not made known. Court adjourned at 2.10 p. m. until this (Wednesday) morning at 11 o'clock.

An issue of the New England Farmer, dated April 23, 1859, is in the possession of Timothy H. Day, 45 Valley street, janitor of the Willimantic Trust Company. The New England Farmer was a Boston paper published as an independent family journal, devoted to agricultural and general intelligence. It throws considerable light on the methods used by farmers back in '59. Mr. Day found the paper while engaged in doing work in the Charles Young home on Windham road and it is fresh and well preserved.

The Main street end of the footbridge in Railroad street is to be jacked up with timbers and one of the large abuttment stones, which has worked out of position and protrudes about six inches, will be replaced. The stone is 40 by 30 and 8 inches and weighs several hundred pounds.

Registrations at the evening school which is being held at the high school building, are still on the increase. Twelve more pupils have registered this week, in the various courses. Principal William O. Brooks announced Tuesday that a few more registrations will be necessary before the course in general mathematics and practical electricity can be started. Through the increase in the registration it is hoped to start two classes where there is now one.

William Phillips, a cotton weaver, in Eagleville, was charged with intoxication in the police court Tuesday morning. Phillips was arrested by Chief of Police Allan MacArthur late Monday afternoon on Main street. He was in such a condition that his name could not be learned. The man was given a fifteen day suspended jail sentence in the local court about a month ago. Judge Foss imposed a thirty day jail sentence for Monday's offense.

In order to avoid the charge of ten per cent. imposed on all delinquents who fail to file their lists of taxable property with the board of assessors those who have not done so must appear at the town building within the next two days. The limit expires at 5 p. m. November 1. Chairman John R. Pickett of the board stated Tuesday that about two-thirds of the lists have been filed.

A dog roast was held at Samuel Chesebro's cottage at Columbia Lake Tuesday evening by members of the woman's department of the Y. M. C. A. The trip to the lake was made in automobiles.

A telegram was received Tuesday morning by Phillippe Roy chief editor of Le Reveil of this city, informing him that his brother, Wilfred Roy, 37, had died at his home in Lauzon, Canada, after a few days' illness with typhoid fever. He was one of the best known residents in Levis and Quebec and was a prominent organizer of the liberal party in the Province of Quebec. He was president and secretary of many social and fraternal organizations there. He is survived by five brothers, Phillippe of this city, J. Albert, manager of Le Reveil, Emile of Montreal, Eugene of Norfolk, Virgina and Alexandre of Sudbury, Ontario; two sisters, Rev. Sister St. Emerentienne of Bon Pasteur Convent, at Laval Des Rapides, Canada and Mrs. Arthur Lord of Montreal; his father, Joseph Roy, of Montreal, his wife, Mrs. Sphora Veuilleux Roy and eight children. Phillippe Roy left Tuesday morning to attend the funeral.

The question of rebuilding and equiping the municipal ice plant at Mansfield destroyed by fire last summer, was the main issue at a special city meeting held Tuesday evening at the town hall and an appropriation of $14,000 was voted for this purpose. The voting was by acclamation. The hall was filled. Mayor Charles A. Gates called the meeting to order at 8 o'clock and City Clerk John P. Edgarton read the warning. Other appropriations asked for were voted down in quick order, upon the acceptance of motions made by Corporation Counsel William A. King. It was voted to appropriate $3,000 for the use of the fire department, $500 for the maintenance of sewers, $269.86 for sewer construction and $5,000 for sidewalk construction. $4,539.86 was voted for the use of the ice department. $1,700 of that amount has been used to erect temporary protection for the ice remaining after the plant had been destroyed by fire. The remainder was for various debts incurred and M. E. Lincoln arose and reprimanded the common council for overdrawing on the appropriation. Hundreds of voters attended the meeting principally to vote on the ice question and when it was brought up the champions of the pros and cons lost no time in manifesting their sentiments, supplemented with figures. M. E. Lincoln occupied the floor for several minutes. He openly charged that since the municipal ice plant was established in 1913 the public had been kept in the dark as to the profits and losses from the operation of the plant. The first open report was made in 1913, the plant at that time representing $24,000, it was being operated at a loss. In 1919 Merrill H. Jones was awarded the contract for the city ice and that year the city gained by about $6,000. According to Mr. Lincoln, the average loss for the next consecutive four years was nearly $3,500 per annum. City Engineer Robert E. Mitchell was called up and he stated that $14,000 would rebuild and equip icehouses of a capacity of 6,000 tons. John Regan though it best to give the independent dealers a chance to show their wares for one year. Lyman Maine and Amos Fowler talked in favor of the movement. Adjournment was taken at 2.45 o'clock.

Henry Kelley, truck driver for Louis Ives, went to his home on Mansfield avenue this city late Tuesday afternoon gave his wife a severe beating and then drove the truck to his employer's house on West Main street and after getting out of the machine fell to the ground in an unconscious state of intoxication. The police department was notified and Kelley was arrested. He will be given a hearing this (Wednesday) morning. It is thought that an additional charge of driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor will be entered against the man.

John Smith, a weaver in Eagleville, was arrested on Main street here Tuesday night while in an intoxicated state. Smith will appear in police court this (Wednesday) morning. He was in court recently on the same charge.

JEWETT CITY

Monday evening, one hundred women of the Catholic church met in the assembly room of St. Mary's church and organized a Council of Catholic Women, in connection with the Diocesan Bureau of Social Service. Two speakers were present—Miss Delia Moroney, secretary of the New London Bureau of Social Service, and Miss Marguerite Boylan, of Hartford. They explained the social service work accomplished by the order, and the benefit it will be to the people of the parish. Rev. J. J. McCabe and Rev. J. J. Tyler spoke along the same lines and of the need of such an organization in the parish.

The officers elected were: Miss Margaret E. Driscoll, president; Mrs. Helen Medick, vice president; Miss Alice Barnett, secretary; Miss Margery Leyden, treasurer. The standing committees are: Mrs. Helen Walsh on membership; Mrs. M. E. Shea on education; Mrs. John McKenna on garments; Mrs. D. F. Finn, Jr., on immigration and citizenship; Mrs. Prentice Chase on community centers, clubs, entertainments, etc.; Mrs. T. A. Rioux on institutions. Ex-officio members are the presidents of the various societies of the church—Mrs. Redmond Walsh, president of the Rosary society, Mrs. T. A. Rioux of St. Anne society, Miss Mary R. Driscoll of the Children of Mary, Mrs. Kolbuc of the Polish Rosary society, and Miss Josephine Attenski of the Polish Children of Mary. An entertainment programme was given which was very pleasing. Miss Edna Sharkey sang, the Misses Dugas gave a selection on the piano and violin, Miss Leona Cyr sang and the Misses Cadieux, Harpin and Casavant gave a violin, mandolin and piano number. Sandwiches, coffee and cake were served and the meeting closed by singing America.

The annual meeting of Jewett City Chapter of the American Red Cross was held Monday evening in the chapter room. The chapter chairman, Miss M. A. Burdick, presided. The secretary, Mrs. J. H. Tracy, read the annual report. Six meetings have been held during the last year, with an average attendance of eight, a good number of meetings and good attendance, considering that many chapters in the state are resting upon their laurels, while this chapter is periodically being solicited and promptly answering calls for help of various kinds from headquarters. The national society must consider this chapter in good working trim! Mrs. E. H. Hiscox, the chairman of nursing service, has reported eight clinics held in the Red Cross room by Dr. Hugh B. Campbell of the Norwich state sanatorium. Forty-three people have availed themselves of the opportunity to consult the specialists on tubercular diseases. The chapter contributed five hundred dollars toward the support of a town district nurse, and has voted to be responsible for the same sum next year. Food and clothing have been furnished regularly through Mrs. T. A. Rioux, for a family of four, the husband and father being an ex-service man, who left his family in destitute circumstnaces. The national society sent this chapter a quota of garments to make for children in the Canal Zone. It was allowable to send the amount of money necessary for material instead, and twenty-five dollars was forwarded, to be used for this work in the Canal Zone and Dominican relief work. The chapter was asked to make twenty Christmas bags to be sent to American soldiers in the Canal zone. This work was assigned to the Junior Red Cross, of which Miss May Driscoll is superintendent. A request for one sleeping bag, to be sent to the U. S. Veterans' hospital in New Haven was received and the bag was made and sent by Mrs. F. I. Ray, production committee. When the call for Japanese relief funds came, Alex McNicol consented to take the drive in charge. $709.91 was the result—a fine showing for the chapter.

Miss Burdick, the chapter chairman, was elected delegate to the national conference held in Washington. The annual report of the treasurer, Miss Rosanna DeaJardines, follows: Balance on hand Oct. 26, 1922, $1052.63; roll call $558; contributions, $7.95; Japanese relief, $709.91; dividends, $14.50. Total $2,342.99.

Amount paid out—Home service work, $168.14; express, transportation, stamps, etc., $7.23; material, money to Virgin Islands, $92.92; Japanese relief, $709.91; A. R. C., 50 per cent of roll call, $279; district nurse, $500; delegate's expense, $32.80; renewal of bond, $3.75. Total $1720.24.

Balance on hand, $622.75.

The annual report of the home service section, Dr. G. H. Jennings, chairman, and Miss Catherine Barnett, secretary, was read. Eleven letters have been written, and two telegrams sent for ex-service men in regard to sickness and death of an ex-service man, and in locating relatives for an ex-service man; also the care of the family of an ex-service man. The amount expended by this committee was $168.14.

The election of the executive board followed. They are Mrs. E. H. Hiscox, Dr. G. H. Jennings, Mrs. F. I. Ray, Miss Ida I. Foster, Misses Margaret E. Driscoll, Catherine Barnett, Bertha E. Lewis, Mrs. Alice H. Anthony, Miss Margery Leyden, Mrs. R. F. Cheney and Miss May Driscoll, Junior Red Cross superintendent.

Miss Burdick gave a splendid report of the national conference in Washington, for which she received a vote of thanks, she in turn, thanking the chapter for sending her as its delegate.

The seventh annual roll call begins Armistice Day, Nov. 11.

The above report indicates a most worthy and helpful organization to which anyone should be proud to belong. When the canvassers make their rounds later, no one will refuse them a dollar, that this good work may continue.

Otis Littlefield has returned from Rochester, N. Y., where he has been for several months.

Homer Gagnon has returned from Backus hospital, much improved in health.

Tonight (Wednesday) the Methodists of Jewett City are to try Church Training Night for the first time. The evening is to be divided into three periods of forty minutes each, beginning with a study period at 7.30. The pastor will lecture to the adults on child psychology. Mrs. Ruth Thornton will take charge of the children. There will be an assembly period at 8.10, and a social period at 8.50. Those who cannot attend all three periods have been asked to attend one or two of them.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Roode are away on an automobile trip to North Adams where they will be guests of Mr. Roode's nices, Mrs. Clara McCluggage and Mrs. Edith McArthur. During their absence Miss M. A. Burdick will be the guest of Miss Ethel Roode.

It is with much regret that Jewett City people learn of the illness of John N. Lewis of Voluntown, who has been confined to his bed for two weeks, ill with grip.

A heavy fog settled down over all this section early Monday evening. The mercury rose a few degrees which served to hold the thick blanket all night. Automobile drivers reported being obliged to proceed with caution.

The bowling match Monday evening between the Textile Five and the Pan Handlers, proved of unusual interest. Only one in the 10 contestants fell below 100. The Rio Granders are going into private training at once, and propose to reverse the score with the Color Slingers.

A copy of the Connecticut Gazette and Commercial Advertiser, printed in New London, May 27, 1801, the property of Miss M. A. Burdick, contains an executor's notice, the reading of which served to cause the relation of an interesting tale. The notice, which probates the estate of Simon Brewster, is signed by Simon Brewster, son of the deceased, Charles Fanning and Elias Brewster, once prominent men of the town of Griswold. The Simon Brewster, who died early in 1801, was a great-great-grandfather of the present Simon Brewster. At the time of his death a wide and long slab of stone was provided, duly inscribed, and laid flat upon his last resting place, in what was then the Lawes Yard, in Jewett City. The next generation, not being in sympathy with the idea of the gravestone lying flat, forthwith caused its removal to the attic of the Brewster homestead, a little below the village. Soon a new stone was cut and erected in accordance with the wishes of a later Simon Brewster. Fifty years passed on; new generations of Brewsters were born, while others died, and were laid to rest among their kin. Not far from sixty years ago, the Brewster, then master of the house, conceived the idea of building a smoke house in the old attic, at the homestead, connecting the flue with the great stone chimney. This he did, and casting about for a suitable stone for the top, he hit upon the gravestone of his long departed ancester. It made a good cover, and he tapered the upper layers of the oven, so that it would fit, and used it. There, in a radically changed line of duty, it served its purpose well; for close to a half century. Meanwhile the present Simon Brewster came into his legacies, and his son, Simon Jr., who lives at home, was born. Many progressive policies, suggested by the requirements of a modern farmer were adopted. The old attic smokehouse was torn away. Their surprise is to be imagined, when, as they remarked upon the singular circumstance of finding a slab so regular, large and flat. It was discovered to be the grave stone of a long departed ancestor. Now, after 120 years, the ancient marker still stands in the Brewster attic, to reflect upon the vicissitudes of even a well spent life.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

Jack Completes His Errand

Now, Little Jack Rabbit was very glad to get the crooked sixpence from the little crooked man, but of course, he didn't know why the fairy wanted a crooked sixpence, and neither do you and neither do I, but I'll know pretty soon for little Robin Redbreast will tell me tomorrow morning, when he comes tiptapping on my window pane.

Slipping the crooked sixpence in his pocket and buttoning up his flying suit, the bunny boy started back to Fairy Land, across the river Dee, over hilltops and forests, until, by and by, he came to the glen where the Fairy Queen lived.

"You have done very well," she said when he handed her the sixpence. "Here is a little gold ring. Place it on your finger, and if ever you are in danger, turn it around and say:

"Little ring, little ring,
Help to me, I pray you bring."

"Thank you," answered little Jack Rabbit.

"Now, come with me," said the Fairy Queen, "you must return your flying suit to the little man in the wood."

Pretty soon they came to the magic tailor's hut and after the bunny boy had taken off his flying suit, he said goodbye and set out for the Dear Old Bramble Patch where he found Lady Love waiting for him on the front porch; and she was mighty glad to see her bunny boy again, let me tell you although she had received the message from the swallow.

Well, the next morning, he and Uncle Lucky set out in the Luckymobile. At first they didn't know just where to go for Little Miss Mousie had asked them to bring home some dandelions.

"Where shall we go?" asked Little Jack Rabbit, but before the old gentlemen rabbit had time to answer, a little voice from a tree nearby said:

"In the meadow by the brook,
The dandelion grows.
And you'll find many if you look, and Robin Redvest clapped his wings, and said: "Follow me," and away he flew to the meadow.
In pretty yellow rows."

By and by, pretty soon, he dropped to the ground and the two little bunnies jumped out of the Luckymobile.

Sure enough, there were hundreds of dandelions growing everywhere and after they had picked two big bouquets they jumped into the Luckymobile and turned back home where Little Miss Mousie was waiting for them. And now I'll tell you why she wanted all those pretty dandelions. It was to make a beautiful flower anchor for Uncle Lucky's birthday, who was sixty-one years old that very day.

And while he and his bunny nephew were putting up the Luckymobile in the garage, that clever lady mouse made the dandelion flower anchor and hung it up in the sitting room, over the mantel-piece and in the next story you shall hear what the old gentleman said when he saw it.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Charged with manslaughter and unable at least for the time being, to get bail in the sum of $1,000, Ralph A. Denoyelle of 89 South Street, Providence, was bound over to the superior court and was committed to the county jail at Brooklyn. Attorney Charles L. Torrey, as counsel for Denoyelle, demurred to the complaint, but the demurer was over-ruled and probable cause found for holding the accused.

Denoyelle is the young man who was driving the five-ton motor truck that struck and killed Julian Benac, at the head of Reynolds and Stearns street, Monday afternoon. The inquest that Coroner Arthur G. Bill conducted developed the fact that Denoyelle and his companions who were riding on the truck as helpers bought a bottle of what the coroner described as moonshine before they left Providence for the trip into Connecticut and drank on the way to Danielson.

William Gabourdy and Thomas Loomis, who were on the truck with Denoyelle at the time of the accident, were questioned separately by Coroner Bill, prior to his examination of Denoyelle at the inquest. Both admitted the purchase of a ginger bottle full of moonshine before leaving Providence and that it was disposed of by drinking on the trip to Connecticut. Their stories did not agree in every particular but they did not deny having had liquor and said that Denoyelle partook of it.

Gabourdy and Loomis were not held by the authorities, only that they might be presented before Coroner Bill for examination at the inquest.

The wreck of the classy Pierce-Arrow that figured in the fatal accident on Dark Lantern hill, while its owner, Marsden J. Perry, Jr., of Providence was driving it Monday, was taken from the garage where it has been stored here since the accident and towed to Providence, late Tuesday afternoon. Estimates are that the cost of repairing the car will amount to several hundred dollars.

Over where the accidents occurred, a heavy stone setting in the embankment at the north side of the highway has been moved several inches, and it is believed this is the stone against which the car plunged headon, after completing its first circular skid and just prior to the machine overturning.

It has developed since the accident that the suit case of Edwin A. Cole, Jr., one of the young men in the wrecked machine, was stolen at about the same time, probably, as the two other suit cases and hand bag that later were recovered were taken out, placed in a car that came along and taken away toward Providence. Cole says his suit case was at his feet when the crash came, but it has not since been seen by anyone hereabouts and in all probability was taken by some of the parties that came along in machines after the accident occurred.

In the town court Tuesday morning, Judge W. Feaner Woodward continued the case of Arthur Charland until December 27, on Charland's promise of maintaining good behavior during that period.

Charland's appearance in court followed his arrest here late Monday night for taking a light motor truck of Peter Chabot of Wauregan, by whom he has been employed for a time, and driving it without permission. He also was charged in the complaint against him with operating a motor vehicle without having a license to do so.

Charland took the truck Monday night while his employer was attending church and came into the town of Killingly with the machine. It was missed about 9 o'clock and word sent here of the fact by Mr. Chabot. About 11 p. m. Officer Christopher Andrews saw Charland and a party of young men with the truck and placed him under arrest.

Prior to disposal of the case Tuesday Mr. Chabot entered a plea of leniency for Charland and agreed to re-employ him. Under this arrangement and Charland's promise to conduct himself properly, the case was continued until late in December.

Once again as in other recent years—the people of Danielson will have an opportunity Saturday to express in substantial and generous manner their appreciation of the work being done by the Civic federation. Saturday has been selected as the day for the annual Tag day effort to raise funds for the organization.

In view of the Civic Federation's splendid record of achievement in the interest of afflicted humanity, it is almost superfluous to stress the importance of aiding it to keep up its great work. It may suffice here to enumerate—that memories may be refreshed—some facts from the last annual report of the federation, these facts pointing out in an impressive, if merely statistical, way the scope and variety of accomplishments of a year of work among fellow citizens who have been deeply appreciative, thoroughly grateful and, were they in a position to do so, would give lavishly to further the work and ambition of the Civic Federation to render even greater service to this community.

The last annual report of the federation shows that the number of patients treated was 454. The visiting nurse, representative of the federation, made a total of 1810 visits to the sick 454 ailing. Of the total number of patients cared for 357 were free patients. There were 185 patients in the tuberculosis clinic and the majority of these were greatly benefited thereby and the treatment prescribed for them. Of the children attending school 878 were examined and that 261 of them were reported as need certain attention in the interest of their health and well being.

Included in the relief work was the giving of 215 garments, 41 pairs of shoes and rubbers, 8 hats and 8 blankets. From the store closet of the federation 90 articles required in cases of illness and not owned in the average family were loaned. The visiting nurse has kept in constant touch with cases coming to her attention.

Her ministrations have relieved much misery, brought comfort, good health and happiness into many homes where facing the problems of the world was difficult. In detail of the work of the nurse and the federation could be made known to the public at large, few would have to be urged to give and give liberally when the Tag day opportunity presents itself next Saturday, for a dollar given in such a work of mercy as a sum stored in heaven.

The federation hopes to raise $500 next Saturday. Danielson will make that possible, if Danielson is at all appreciative or cares anything for the welfare of the afflicted poor, for a humanitarian project that cannot be allowed to be handicapped by lack of funds. Give until it makes you happy next Saturday in the plea of the collectors, for there is a real chance of experiencing happiness in giving to the poor and unfortunate and in maintaining a service through which each and everyone may benefit, if the occasion arises.

Chief John McFarland let it be known Tuesday that he is not opposed to young people having a grand and glorious time in their annual observance of Hallowe'en and that he will be glad to see them in happy mood this evening as they conduct their parade of the streets and indulge themselves in the various innocent pranks usually attendant upon this annual celebration, but—

Warning is herewith duly given, at the request of the chief, that none of the rough stuff, nor destructive tactics that marked last year's Hallowe'en observance will be tolerated in Danielson this year. Removing gates, now becoming temptingly scarce in the borough, moving vehicles from one place to another, forcing entrance to buildings to ring and bells and other such unseemly conduct will bring down the hands of the police on the offenders and a day in court will await them. The chief is convinced that everyone can have a good time without becoming nuisances. Those who insist in coming late conflict with this may expect goblins in the form of borough police to appear to them.

This last day of October calls to mind that tomorrow (Thursday) is the last day of grace for those property owners of Killingly who have not filed their lists with the assessors, and that those who fail to get their lists in tomorrow will be subjected to a 10 per cent. increase, which will be made by the assessors. There is no option in this for the assessors. The law obligates them to assess the 10 per cent. as a penalty on the delinquents, and pleading with them about the matter will do no good.

Members of all the societies of St. James' church have been invited by the pastor, Rev. John Roux, M. S., to be present this morning at the funeral services for Wolder Lavallee, who died suddenly at his home on Franklin street early Monday morning.

Mr. Lavallee was a trustees of the church for several years and as such special honor will be shown him by the parish.

Tax Collector James R. Walsh has purchased the dwelling of N. A. Jordan, School street. Mr. Jordan will continue to occupy the premises until April, when he will move to the Rawson farm at Elmville, where an auction was held by Royal Rawson Tuesday. Mr. Jordan retains his stockhouse in the rear of his dwelling and near the town hall building.

W. Clarence Bacon has a letter, dated at Galveston, from Will Stone, who as captain of the shipping board vessel Janelew is now at sea en route to Bremenhaven. At her launching the Janelew was named by Mrs. Woodrow Wilson. The vessel is of 10,930 tons and one of the finest of the frigaiters in the shipping board service.

The upper end of Stearns street, now carrying heavy traffic on account of the Reynolds street detour, is badly cut up and in urgent need of attention. Now the chief artery for carrying traffic onto and off the Providence route it is in such poor condition in some short stretches as to be dangerous to travel and several cars have mired there this week.

The talk of the town this week includes discussion of an alleged plan to run a pipe line from Putnam to Danielson for supplying the borough with gas. Both the Danielson and Putnam lighting companies are owned by the Eastern Connecticut Power company, which is now erecting a large gas container at Putnam.

Another storm of clamor for warning signs that will be adequate both by night and day has followed the accidents that have occurred on Dark Lantern hill this week and many are the inquiries as to the delay in getting these warnings into position. The road has been open more than a year, and hardly a week has gone by during all that time that one or more accidents, a considerable number of them serious, have occurred on this hill, now thoroughly feared by hundreds of drivers.

PUTNAM

Another step in the court procedure relative to the affairs of the Manhasset Manufacturing Company of this city and Taunton, Mass., was taken Tuesday, when John E. Strongman of New Bedford, and Artemas C. Townsend, of Boston, qualified as temporary receivers and filed the necessary bond of $75,000 with Judge L. G. Waldo Marvin, of the superior court, in Willimantic.

Messrs. Strongman and Townsend, as temporary receivers, are immediately to take possession of all the books, papers, evidences of debt and property of the Manhasset company, will collect all moneys due the corporation and will take all lawful steps within their power to secure and preserve its assets.

The temporary receivers are empowered at their discretion to carry on in such manner as they may deem judicious the business of the Manhasset company and operate its properties until otherwise ordered, but at a period not longer than one month from the date of approval of the court appointment given them. To that end they are authorized to make such contracts and to sell such goods and materials on hand as in their judgment may be necessary and proper.

It has been ordered by the court that no inventory need be filed until after the confirmation of the temporary receivers or their permanent appointment, but that the receivers forthwith file an inventory of bank deposits, cash, bills receivable and an estimate of the quantity of merchandise on hand.

A hearing on the confirmation of the appointment of the temporary receivers and for the appointment of two appraisers is scheduled to be held before Judge Marvin in the superior court at Willimantic on November 9, at 11 o'clock a. m., the court having already ordered that the temporary receivers give notice of their appointment and of the hearing on November 9, to all parties concerned. The temporary receivers also are required under the court order to mail a copy of their notices to each stockholder of record and to each known creditor, on or before Thursday of this week.

Juvenile business occupied the attention of the city court, Judge M. H. Fleimier presiding, at Tuesday morning's session. Two boys from the Windham County Temporary Home for Children, in the Sawyer district of this town, were ordered committed to the state school for boys at Meriden, on the ground that they are incorrigible. Neither boy, one 14, the other 9 years of age, looked the part, but there was ample testimony that it has been mighty difficult to manage them at the county home and that they were deserving to transfer to an institution where they will be subject to stronger regulations than it is the custom to apply at the county home, where the great majority of the children do willingly all that is required of them.

Other juveniles whose cases were considered at Tuesday's session of the city court are charged with an attempt to wreck two trains of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. company near White's crossing, about two miles south of the city, two weeks ago last Saturday.

It was found, under a supreme court ruling, that the Putnam court has no jurisdiction in these cases, which will be turned over to the town court of Killingly, in which the accused boys are resident. While the attempts at train wrecking were made within the limits of the town of Putnam, the accused, being juveniles and residents of the neighboring town, are held, under the ruling of the supreme court referred to, to be liable in a civil rather than in a criminal proceeding, and in civil matters the Putnam city court has no jurisdiction over matters pertaining to the town of Killingly, or any other town.

Delayed considerably by the storms of the past two weeks, the contractor building the concrete highway through Killingly avenue from the easterly end of Grove street into the town of Killingly is making hay while the sun shines this week, if laying concrete at high speed may be described as making hay. Only two weeks remain for this season's work on this long stretch of new highway, as the state highway department will not permit the laying of concrete after November 15. The task of the contractor, therefore, is to get the stretch of road that has been torn up completely within the next two weeks. The intention of the department is to have this road open for the heavy travel that normally passes over it during the late fall and winter season. At present traffic is being detoured by varying routes, and the delay occasioned thereby, as well as the inconvenience, is very considerable.

It is of interest to Putnam people to note that the Chepachet route to Providence, subject to detour routing all through the summer and early fall while rebuilding work was underway over a long stretch of the highway in Rhode Island between Putnam and Chepachet, is now open to travel, though the work being done on it is not completed, and will not be for several weeks.

Putnam is in the midst of a "dry" spell, and this is more or less of a well established fact, the recent heavy rains notwithstanding. The drive against illicit dealing in intoxicants dealt a real wallop in the solar plexus in September, when bench warrants brought more than a dozen local men into the superior court and resulted in their receiving jail sentences. Getting a drink of real liquor in Putnam since that affair has been more or less of a difficult undertaking excepting for those in the know. There are no more open bars. The speakeasies have their lights out and the hip pocket dealer is proceeding with extreme caution. A stranger has little or no chance to get his potion, and if he gets anything at all it may not be to his liking—as to quality. The majesty of the law has been established, and if the sense of discretion remains as conservative as it has been for the past month in this city, Putnam will rate much more dry for some time to come than it did for three years prior to September.

Men who are interested in framing the strategy of their political campaign for the ward caucuses that are to come later this week are beginning to feel that if they hold conferences to discuss their plans they will have to post guards outside the conference rooms to keep away spies on their movements. A little conference being held in a private house in the north section of the city Monday evening was listened in on by an eavesdropper who sneaked up on the veranda of the house and had his ear glued to a window when the approach of one of the members of the household who had been out drove him away. It later was ascertained that he came back after the first interruption and was gliding off like a wraith through the fog as the men who were in the conference came out, after its completion. From this it may be gathered there is more than ordinary interest in the ward caucuses this year, and that the nominations made by them may determine many things as to city administration, if plans work out well election day. Those plans call for important changes in appointments to certain city offices [illegible]

WESTERLY

In the drive of Grace Methodist Episcopal church to secure a $50,000 building fund for an addition to the front and side of the present church edifice at the junction of High street and Grove avenue, the first meeting of the team captains was held in the church Monday evening. Twenty-six of the active campaign workers were present and at the end of the meeting pledges amounting to $8,100 had been secured from 18 of the workers. Chairman Paul W. Munsell of the campaign committee stated that it was planned to take out the present tower at the front of the church and carry the front of the building nearer to the street for a new entrance. To obtain funds for improvements, canvassers began Monday to secure three-year pledges with quarterly installment payments. In proportion to the amount raised it is planned to have the enlargements include a chapel, ladies' parlor, man's room, with recreational room for the younger church members which will have all the facilities of a well equipped club rooms. This drive was planned some time ago but was held up temporarily in favor of the Westerly hospital project. Active building arrangements will be begun when the subscribed amount reaches $10,000.

In reply to criticism of his having been engaged in the liquor business by Superintendent Claypool and Assistant Superintendent Tarbell of the Rhode Island Anti-Saloon league, Judge Michael J. Turano of the Third district court, Westerly, is reported as saying: "With respect to the statement that I was at one time in the liquor business, I will say it is true. I was in the liquor business before I became a lawyer, and I made enough money in the liquor business to become a lawyer. There was nothing illegal in my being in the liquor business at that time."

This reply of the Westerly judge is to liquor business charges made by the anti-saloon men; just what reply will be made to other accusations Judge Turnao is said not to have determined until his friends are consulted.

Arthur Dubrelle and William Tetten returned to Westerly Tuesday afternoon from an automobile trip to Detroit, Mich., which they began over the week end. Their return was hastened by the illness of John Gallo, who is recovering from an operation for appendicitis which he underwent in New London Sunday night.

Mrs. Louis S. Case has returned to her home in Westerly after a visit with her son Bowman and family in Newark, N. J.

Frank F. Dodge of Stonington was in Westerly Tuesday morning en route to Boston.

Rev. H. Eugene Davis and family left Westerly Tuesday evening for Plainfield, N. J., from which place Mr. Davis will make a trip through New York state in the interests of the Seventh Day Baptist Missionary society's work in China.

Loren C. McLaren left Westerly Tuesday afternoon for a business trip to New York.

L. S. Coppleman of Providence was a business caller in Westerly Tuesday.

Richard Randall was in Westerly Monday on route from Hadlyme to visit in Boston.

John F. Nye has entered the employ of the Westinghouse Electric Co. and will be located in Springfield, Mass.

Joseph Newall, formerly of Westerly, now of New York, is visiting friends in town for a few days.

The date for the banquet of the Interstate Amateur Baseball league, after many postponements, has now been set for Thursday evening, Nov. 8th, at the Elm Tree inn.

Carloads of bituminite coal continue to arrive at the Westerly freight station of the New Haven road for local coal dealers. No time is lost in unloading it into auto trucks, but this is a slow process compared with the unloading of coal barges in the Pawcatuck river.

Workmen are engaged in placing the limestone blocks on the Main street side of the new Washington Trust building for the top story.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Keller, Jr., of Westerly, were in Providence Monday.

BOLTON

Bolton seems very popular with sportsmen, judging from the number seen in town in the past week. Birds are reported to be very wild; one could expect nothing else the way they are pursued by men and dogs.

Mrs. Frederick C. Taylor, Mrs. Samuel M. Alvord, Mrs. R. K. Jones, Miss Annie Alvord and Miss Adelia N. Loomis were in Rockville last week Thursday to attend a meeting of the Women's Missionary society.

Miss Annie M. Alvord entertained the Ladies' Aid society of the Congregational church last Friday afternoon.

Boys from the State Trade school in South Manchester are wiring Bolton hall for electric lights.

Mrs. Frank L. Loomis is recovering from illness.

Elmer J. Finley has been entertaining guests during the hunting season at his summer home, Shady Nook.

Miss Elizabeth M. Daly of Manchester and Miss Margaret H. Daly of East Hartford spent the week end at their home in South Bolton.

The board of assessors, William B. Williams, Milton W. Haling and Frederick D. Finley, has been the rounds in town the past week, calling on all local property holders.

Some of the Bolton schools were closed Friday to enable the teachers to attend the state convention of teachers.

EKONK

Miss Amy Gallup, who has been spending several weeks with her sister, Mrs. A. A. Stanton, and her brother, E. Byron Gallup, returned Friday to her home in South Voluntown.

John E. Tanner, Edwin S. Gallup and Alvin Carey were assessing the property in Sterling last week.

The Finnish people held a social and dance in Grange hall Saturday evening.

Mrs. Walker and daughter Jennie spent Saturday in Providence.

Schools were closed Friday to allow the teachers to attend a state teachers' convention.

E. B. Gallup is ill with bronchitis.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Tanner spent Saturday night with him.

The younger boys and girls are getting ready for Hallowe'en frolics.

Rev. Mr. Nightingale gave a very interesting account of the Connecticut Baptist state convention which he attended in Hartford last week.

Miss Amy Potter attended the state teachers' convention in Hartford Friday, and spent Sunday with her parents in Brooklyn.

Charles Olson spent Friday in Providence.

Mrs. Edwin B. Bailey entertained all her brothers Sunday.

COLCHESTER

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Nutter of Whitinsville, Mass., and Mrs. Fred Hatten and daughter of East Haddam were guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Roper on Amston avenue over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron R. Abell were visiting relatives in Glastenbury over Sunday.

William O'Brien of Naugatuck was in town the past week, called here by the illness and death of his brother, Patrick O'Brien.

The high school students gave a Hallowe'en social in Academy hall Saturday evening. The high school orchestra furnished music.

Thomas F. Kinney was a business caller in New Jersey the past week.

Edward Soltze of New London was the guest over Sunday of his uncle, Joseph Agranovitch.

About 50 members of Oliver Woodhouse lodge, No. 51, went to Salem Monday evening to attend the institution of a lodge of the order in that place. The name of the new lodge is Woodbridge lodge, No. 90. The lodge starts off with 24 charter members. The grand lodge offices and members from New London and other surrounding towns attended. A banquet was served in the town hall. The new lodge will hold meetings in Grange hall in that place.

The case of the state vs. James Rand for intoxication was tried before Justice Baker Saturday afternoon. He pleaded guilty and was fined $7 and costs of $28.25. He was unable to pay the fine and Officer Riley took him to Norwich jail.

The chairman of the Colchester division for the new nurses' home for Backus hospital wishes to express the thanks and appreciation of the division for the generous support received during the recent campaign. —Adv.

Wooster chapter, Order Eastern Star, held a hallowe'en social in the assembly room in the academy and was largely attended.

Mrs. Martha Snyder, grand chief of the Pythian Sisters, and Mrs. George E. Wright, both of Hartford, attended the banquet of Woodbridge lodge, K. P., in Salem Monday evening.

An alarm of fire was rung about 4 o'clock Tuesday morning for a small fire in the shed back of Strick's bakery. The fire was put out before the engine arrived.

NORTH WOODSTOCK

The teachers of schools in town attended the convention in Norwich Friday.

Mrs. N. D. Skinner has gone to Hartford to spend the winter with her sister, Mrs. Clark.

Mrs. Morgan and children have returned from a visit in Worcester and Pittsfield, Mass.

Mrs. George Lyon is engaged to sing in the Methodist church, Webster, Mass., the coming year.

In returning from a Hallowe'en party at Woodstock academy Friday evening the horse driven by Kenneth Hicks was struck by an automobile and so seriously injured that it had to be killed. The men in the automobile were from Southbridge and were returning from a supper given in Providence.

Mrs. Elmer Corttis, who is in St. Joseph's hospital, Willimantic, after a serious operation, is recovering rapidly.

Allison Potter, who is engaged in state road work in Massachusetts, was a guest Sunday at the home of his uncle, Cyrus Potter.

Rev. John Chandler missionary from India preached here Sunday, giving an interesting talk on his work there.

NORTH STERLING

Mrs. Elsie Gauthier of Danielson spent the week end with her uncle, William Barber.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Smith entertained guests from Canterbury Sunday.

Assessors Gallup and Covey were here the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Swan are spending two weeks in Fall River, Mass.

UNITED EFFORT

In sixty mills, more than 35,000 skilled workers are making a united effort to produce woolen and worsted fabrics of dependable value for the millions who need them.

And through that unity—the elimination of waste, the use of efficient machines and the co-operation which only fairly-treated employees can give—the American Woolen Company is annually producing millions of yards of fabric which enables the people to buy good clothing at fair prices.

WELL DONE.

Norwich is to be congratulated upon the successful outcome of the appeal for funds for the Backus hospital. It indicates how thoroughly in sympathy the people of this and surrounding towns are with the importance of having a well equipped hospital in their midst in order to take care of the many demands that are certain to be made upon it in caring for the sick and injured and in supplying that necessary force of trained nurses for home as well as hospital service.

The success of the appeal can be attributed to several things. It was in the first place a matter of general interest. A good hospital is a necessary community requirement. Norwich gave in realization of the fact that its dollars would be reflected in bigger and better service.

It was favored with an excellent organization without which success is always handicapped, and to any and all of those who made up that organization great credit is due.

It was also an appeal that was of deep concern to the towns and villages outside of Norwich which are dependent to a large extent upon the service which the Backus hospital affords. There was a generous response therefrom which aided materially in the effort and thereby better facilities and better protection are assured to those living within a wide radius of Norwich.

Not to be forgotten are the laudable responses that were made by former residents who not only retain a keen interest in their former home but were anxious to show it with their dollars.

Those who have made large or small gifts, those who have wanted to but were unable to render financial aid, have stood loyally in behalf of a great community asset. Norwich and the surrounding towns have not fallen down when it came to meeting responsibilities and providing protection. It is another demonstration of what is to be and what can be expected of a progressive community.

The goal of "$250,000 and more" has been realized. Norwich has reason to be proud of it, and Norwich is proud of what it has accomplished with the aid of its good neighbors.

THE VANISHING GAME.

William T. Hornaday of the permanent wild life protective organization is backing a movement for the reduction of the amount of game killing by half. He draws attention to the number of ducks, geese, deer, and other wild life that it is lawful to kill in a season, lays emphasis upon the fact that "the deadly automobile has added 50 per cent to the perils of the game," and insists that the only way to prevent the wiping out of the game birds and animals is to reduce the number that can now be bagged under the law.

He doesn't think that it would do much good to make such an appeal to the hunters, for they cannot be expected to curtail their pleasure, but he believes the duty rests upon those who do not kill game to meet the situation before the time comes when extinction is faced and it is too late to prevent it.

It is an effort no doubt in which many will be interested. It is aimed at the pothunters, those who kill regardless of what inroads are made in the supply of game birds and those who pay little attention to the restrictions of the law so long as they have their fun. It is a matter in which many hunters will be interested and to which they will give their hearty support. It is in keeping with the sentiment of many, though perhaps not all. There will be those who will insist that inasmuch as they encourage the propagation of game they should be permitted to kill it. They fail to realize that they cannot wipe out the game and still look forward to hunting in seasons to come.

At this season of the year with the hunting season in full swing game wardens and hunters have a big responsibility in seeing that the number of birds and animals that can be shot is respected. If there was no exceeding the limit there would be much done in behalf of conservation, and it cannot fail to be recognized that the wholesale slaughter of game is going to hasten the day of reduced limits, and no hunting, like nothing else.

AN ADVISORY COMMISSION.

Whether the advisory commission of experts which has been agreed to by the allied nations will be able to get anywhere is one of the big uncertainties today. The purpose of this commission is to act impartially with the idea of arriving at a decision as to what Germany's capacity to pay actually is at the present time. It may not be that it will be able to give the reparations commission any new facts or tell it anything that it doesn't know. On the other hand it may be possible for it to throw some new light on the situation that will serve to change opinions, one way or the other. It is not so certain but what it may be able to show Germany that its troubles are manufactured and that it can if it will come much nearer to meeting the promises than it has believed. The fact that Germany hasn't wanted to pay has made it easier for it to pile obstacles in its own path.

If the commission of experts can furnish facts and figures that will make it possible for both sides to see the reparations question in a different light it will have accomplished something. If it is able to alter the fixed views that have been taken by either side it will not have labored in vain. If, after its work is done and its recommendations have been made the situation remains the same no great harm will have been done. It will indicate an effort to bring about an understanding that is commendable even though it gets nowhere.

It is clearly set forth that the experts are going to act only in an advisory capacity. Should it be their opinion that reparations should be cut it does not mean that such a cut must be accepted. It will simply establish the fact that an impartial body has set in judgment and offered its views in an endeavor to get an adjustment, while the very existence of such advice from such a source cannot fail to provide food for thought even for those who are more vitally concerned than others. No one can tell whether it will mean a settlement or not.

GOLDEN ADVICE.

A feature of the convention of the investment bankers of America at Washington was the address made to them by President Coolidge from the portico of the White house. It was then that he took occasion to impress upon them the importance of the position they occupy in the country and the reliance which is placed on them by the public.

In calling attention to their responsibilities the president took occasion to impress upon the investment bankers the importance of doing business under conditions that will inspire the greatest confidence and under policies that will mean honest dealings. To that end he gave them some golden advice when he told them that while the country was more and more relying upon the investment bankers for such services as they could render, it was nevertheless incumbent upon them to realize that the country "must depend upon your assistance and help to weed out those who are not desirable by reason of not maintaining a high standard of ability and honesty."

That means that the investment bankers should regard it a duty to protect their good name and their business by aiding in the elimination of those who are not only striving to swindle the public but who are at the same time undermining the confidence placed in those dealing in investment opportunities. It is in the end a question of self protection. There should be no desire to cover up those who are working harm to the investor and injury to those who are engaged in an honest business and using only honest methods. The weeding out of undesirables is important in any line of effort.

SOME DISTANCE TO GO.

That the British have agreed "in principle" to the proposal for a twelve-mile limit doesn't necessarily mean that a treaty is going to be negotiated and put into operation immediately and it doesn't mean, if it was, that the rum-running would be instantly checked.

The significance of the British attitude is that progress is being made which may result in a treaty establishing the twelve-mile limit for the search of British vessels for liquor, in return for which British vessels will be allowed to bring liquor cargoes into our ports under seal. Legislative action will be necessary to grant that privilege inasmuch as it violates the present dry law which would have to be changed.

But even with a treaty secured it can be expected that the rum runners will be flying another flag. That would necessitate treaties with other countries and even that seems no more difficult than in the case of Great Britain for there is an advantage for both sides. But it is action that is going to take time, so much so that any help from a twelve-mile limit seems to be quite a way off.

Whether any understanding can be reached between the nations that will not necessitate a treaty remains to be seen, but nothing seems likely to develop even an agreement on the part of the British that we can search for liquor within the twelve-mile limit until a modification of the dry law of this country is obtained. And even after a treaty or an agreement is obtained there are big responsibilities resting upon the enforcement authorities to make the changed limit dry up the rum smugglers.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The man on the Corner says: Well, what's the next campaign?

Are the separatists by their actions trying to take the germ out of Germany?

Where many join hands and labor together great things can be accomplished.

Hallowe'en is one of those dates which youngsters, and some older ones, never fail to remember and celebrate.

When Governor Walton of Oklahoma says that he will continue to fight such a remark from him seems entirely unnecessary.

Holland doesn't intend that it shall be said that by its naval appropriations it drove other nations to prepare for and start a war.

It was not a job for the few but the many, and many are those whose contributions helped to put the Backus hospital appeal through.

Even though a way of effecting a settlement in Europe has been provided, there's no certainty that it will be carried through to a successful conclusion.

The crop reporting service shows that the apple crop has shrunk a little. According to some other reports and some evidence, it has also been squeezed a little.

Amundsen hasn't abandoned the idea of crossing the pole in an airplane. He might carry an excursion party if he could lease one of the dirigibles.

If the idea of erecting markers at points where auto fatalities have occurred was followed on Dark Lantern hill in Killingly it would take on the appearance of quite a graveyard.

TROUT AND FISH

Richard had brought her a huge box of candy, several of the latest magazines and a flashlight. So when he held her hand in parting, just before the train drew out of the station, Alicia smiled at him with gratitude that perhaps he mistook for tenderness. He gave her little pink fingers an added pressure before jumping from the platform of her car.

"You won't forget your promise to write often, will you" he called as she waved to him and she shook her head reassuringly. She really meant to write the very first morning at Brookside, but her Uncle William took her for a walk over the old farm, and in the afternoon she napped in a hammock. Her father had sent her to the country for a rest and fresh air, and she felt it was due to him to stay outdoors and sleep rather than to shut herself in her room and write letters. Alicia is a conscientious young person.

"Jed Burdick's coming home," remarked Uncle William at supper, "and I told his mother I'd drive over to Wince's Corners and fetch him from the train. Want to go Alicia?"

"Who is Jed Burdick?" inquired Alicia.

"Don't you remember Jeremiah Burdick?" asked her aunt. "He used to take you fishing in the brook when you were 5 years old."

"And I called him Jetty. I do remember faintly. What does he do now?" asked Alicia.

"Oh he's stuck to agriculture," answered her uncle, and Alicia's slight interest waned.

But when she saw the tall, well-groomed young man step off the train she began to take notice.

"This is little Alicia whom you took fishing, Jed, when she was 5 and you were 10," remarked Uncle William by way of introduction. "You both changed some in the last nineteen years."

They all laughed, and Jed asked if he might have the pleasure of taking his old friend fishing again.

"Our brook has been well stocked since those good old days. Perhaps you would enjoy whipping the stream a bit," he said.

"Indeed I should," responded Alicia. "Then if I may I'll call for you tomorrow morning early. I always put in most of my vacation fishing."

"Vacation? I thought you were a farmer."

"I am sort of a farmer. You see I do a few chores around the agricultural department at Washington, but I come back here for my holidays. It's jolly finding my little pal here."

"Thank you," said Alicia sweetly, and from that time the days simply flew.

She was busy with trout fishing most of the daylight hours, and every evening there was mah jong, for Jed had brought a set of the Chinese game to amuse his mother and the neighbors. She thought gratefully of her father's wisdom in sending her to the country for quiet and rest. "Dad is usually right," she said to herself.

She had been at Brookside ten days when she was startled at 8 o'clock one morning by a violent knocking at the front door. Throwing a wrap around her she ran to the head of the stairs and looked down while Uncle William unfastened the bolts.

"What's all the row?" he asked of the man on the doorstep.

"It's a telegram. Nobody couldn't get you on the phone, so I just brought it over in my machine."

"A telegram, bless my soul!" exclaimed Uncle William. "I do hope there isn't anything wrong anywhere."

"It ain't for you. It's for the girl that's staying with you."

"Mercy on us, I hope your father hasn't had one of those sinking spells," said her aunt anxiously, as Alicia ran downstairs.

"No, it's—it's all right. It's just from a friend who wants to know something," explained Alicia lamely, and when she regained her own room she spread out the missive and by the gleam of Richard's flashlight read it again:

"Alicia, why don't you write to me? Dick."

"Poor old Dick," she murmured, and then she began to wonder whether she should wear her golf skirt or her knickerbockers for fishing in the morning.—Exchange.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Showing Regard For Country.

Mr. Editor: In time of war, there are two ways of showing patriotism. There are two classes of persons among us at war times who claim to be true patriots, and warmly attached to the Constitution and the Union, but they show their regard for the country in very different ways.

The first class are influenced by reason and religion. They have deliberately made up their minds that our government is a good one, and that it is our solemn duty to do all in our power to perpetuate and transmit it unimpaired to coming generations. This class of persons are cool, deliberate and firm, but kind. They do not make any violent denunciatory speeches, nor write any inflammatory articles for the press. Perhaps they or their sons have been soldiers and if there should be war their property, time and influence are at the disposal of the government.

The second class are very jealous, noisy, blustering and tumultuous. On all occasions they are ready to make bitter and denunciatory speeches, write inflammatory articles for the press, or preach warlike sentiment. They denounce the chief executive, and the cabinet and all who don't agree with them; as tardy in their movements, vacillating and timid in their policy. They seek to establish their own patriotism by denouncing the loyalty of others. Pretty much all they do for their country is done with their tongue or with the pen. But they are very far from being the best friends of the country, on whom she can rely with the greatest confidence in the time of danger.

F. MORGAN.

Gales Ferry, Oct. 27, 1923.

Steps Also Delapidated and Dangerous.

Mr. Editor: Will you kindly allow me to add a few statements to Mr. Hayden's sensible and timely letter in Monday's Bulletin?

Not only is the school fence (?) bordering upon Chestnut street in a most disreputable condition, but the steps connecting the Broadway school grounds with Chestnut street are in so dilapidated a state that serious accidents are liable to occur at any time.

These steps have sustained the wear and tear of many feet for years until the supports, the treads, and the railings have become decayed and positively unsafe. During the past year the front half of one tread has been broken off and the rear half of another. Both rails have given way, and the lowest step is too far from the ground. The manual training teacher has made such repairs as he has been able with the materials at hand, viz., old fence pickets; but he is not employed to do such work, and is not provided with the lumber necessary for it. The fence at the head of the steps is weak, and may give way any day under the pressure of a crowd of boys. When a number of children come rushing down the steep incline at noon or night, what will be the result if the fence crashed to the ground, or a child catches his foot in a broken step?

If in some way the proper authorities can be prevailed upon to repair the fence and the steps, and to clear up the lower yard, many will be grateful.

F. E. FELLOWS.

Norwich, Oct. 30, 1923.

Stories That Recall Others

Under the Family Tree.

The elder members of the family were discussing relationships. There was much talk as to how so and so was the sister of this one and a cousin of that and how another was mother-in-law to blank who was an uncle of the husband of the aunt of someone else, etc., when a small boy, who evidently had been trying to follow the intricacies of the relationships, said:

"The days of real sport! Listening to relations talk."

All Looked Alike.

Jimmy attended the theater the other night when many others were doing the same. He parked his conveyance at the first convenient spot.

After the show was over he escorted his two guests out to the car. He thought he had marked mentally just where he had left it. But hundreds of cars had come in since he parked, and of these hundreds have proved that about one in every seven was a brother to his. Round and round they went, peering at the relatives. But Jimmy's licensed number Henry could not be found.

"I might as well own up, fellows," Jimmy answered. "I can't find my car among all this family gathering. The only thing I can do is to wait until everybody else is gone, and then the car that's left belongs to me."

"Oh, yes, there was one left."

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Sixty years old today is William G. McAdoo, who has been a prominent figure in the public eye ever since he entered the Wilson cabinet ten years ago. As secretary of the treasury and as director-general of railroads during the war Mr. McAdoo became a national figure. Since his retirement from the cabinet gave birth to rumors that he aspired to the democratic presidential nomination, every move that he made has furnished food for conjecture. But before he was generally thought of as a possible factor in matters of politics and government, Mr. McAdoo had by his achievements stamped himself as a man of action and a man of large affairs. Born of a Tennessee family which had been impoverished in the war, he gained his education native ability and plucked. Choosing law as a profession, in course of time he formed important connection with banking and railroad institutions, bought and managed traction lines, and crowned his success by building the great tunnels under the Hudson and North rivers between Manhattan Island and New Jersey.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

The Orontes

"The Orontes river, in northern Syria, which citizens of Mecca claim as the northern boundary of the island of the Arabs, the native name for Arabia, has always played an important role in the theatre of Asia where East meets West," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"Juvenal, the great Roman satirist, uttered what may seem like a geographic untruth when he said that 'the waters of the Orontes overflowed into the Tiber,' but many historians have claimed that the river is an important factor in bringing about the downfall of the Roman Empire. Along this path made by Nature between the Mediterranean and the lands to the east the superstitions and corruption of Asia came to Rome, brought home by the Roman legions, and Greek art and civilization, together with Roman law, flowed to the rising sun.

"It has been said that the river derived its name from a man who built a bridge over it. After one of the great earthquake in Roman times had changed the course of the river, the oracle declared that the bones of a man of colossal size found in the old river bed were those of Orontes, and on the ancient coins of Antioch, the most famous city which ever existed along its banks, the river is personified as a youth swimming at the feet of the female figure representing the city. The old name of the river was Typhon after that terrible mythological dragon buried under the mountains around Antioch whose frequent writhings and twistings were believed to be the cause of the numerous earthquakes along the river valley.

"The giant under the earth still turns and tosses and mutters and makes the earth tremble in the vicinity of Antioch. It is one of the few non-volcanic regions of the earth in which earthquakes occur.

"According to the Syrians, the Orontes also is peopled by water spirits, which are believed to be the authors of fertility. When the water of the river which has been diverted into irrigation ditches, again is allowed to flow across the river bed, childless Syrian women wade out into the channel hoping for the embrace of the water-spirit in the oncoming rush of the stream.

"Rising down in the great spring of the inter-Lebanon district, near the ancient city of Baalbek, the great river flows northward almost parallel to the Mediterranean coast, falling 2,000 feet through a rocky gorge. The great depression which the river flows, traversing Syria from Taurus mountains to the Sinai desert, has few outstanding physical features. It is made up mostly of broad plateaus of steppe land, rock and debris. The river widens out at Hamah into a rich district, containing the sites of the ancient towns of Apamea and Larissa. At Jisr-al-Hadid, the river turns westward around the great plain of Antioch.

"Though in the main the river is unnavigable, its valley has for ages been a convenient highway for traffic from north to south. Roads from the north and northeast, from Damascus and Coele-Syria converge at Antioch, and along the depression and across the Sinai Peninsula have passed Armies bound to and from Egypt for hundreds of generations. Today the fleet-footed Arabian and the rocking camel are fast giving place to the invincible automobile and the motor lorry.

"No two cities in the world have had more romantic histories than those at its source and near its mouth Baalbek, the ancient city of Baal, the sun-god, with its famous ruins of a temple made of veritable megaliths, stirrs the imagination as does Antioch, which in its glorious days saw the horses of Ben Hur crash past the chariot of the proud Roman, saw mighty Trojan, with fragments of his Roman army which he was to lead against the Parthians sheltering in its huge circus in the midst of the severe earthquake of 115 A. D. and watched with careless eye the lolling of the Roman legions in its beautiful grove of Daphne.

"When the hot, malaria-breathing winds from the east blow across the plateaus where the climate is especially agreeable. For most of them it is convenient to do so, for excellent pasturage is found in various areas, and it is never difficult for these Bedouins to take up their tents and move all their household effects to pleasanter surroundings. No reliable statistics are obtainable upon the cattle in Syria, but handbooks say that the number in the Orontes valley is considerable. Apamea in the days of Antioch's glory was the home of the great national stud which boasted 30,000 mares and 300 stallions.

"A good many of the inhabitants have been lured by American dollars into digging licorice root on plantations where great wooden waterwheels have been lifting the Orontes into irrigation ditches in order that cough-syrup and plug tobacco manufactures may supply our demands."

Throw a man down and he falls against his inclination.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.

BODIES NEED OVERHAULING SAYS HEALTH DEPARTMENT

It is customary at least annually to examine and give an overhauling to good machines and many poor ones also are renovated, to an extent that they are able to run "as good as new," says the state department of health in its weekly statement.

The extent to which an overhauling reveals wear and tear and cogs missing is occasionally a surprise to the owner of a machine or of an automobile.

Sometimes the owner wishes he had let the "old thing" run without turning it in. This is done by many persons, who when the accident happens—the machine reaches the breaking point at some wornout point—exclaims, ? ! ! ! that car, there must have been a flaw in it, and the owner proceeds to say things, that would never have been needed if th "annual overhauling had been done.

The human body is not unlike an automobile. When one realizes the human "transmission and engine," the heart, lungs, kidneys, liver, pancreas, intestines, brain, eyes, ears and other organs or "parts" necessary for the human engine to function properly, it is not surprising that we get wear and tear and suffer from accidents that mar the perfect running of what we call ourselves.

We enjoy saying, "Oh, I am all right, I have not had a doctor for —— years." The humor of such a saying is met in the daily paper where we read, Mr. —— dropped dead, or died suddenly. Many of such cases could be avoided and enjoy their families years longer if they but knew the condition of their "Engine." The annual physical examination can furnish this information. The annual physical examination is for the person who thinks he is well, but does not know.

Those who feel well should have their physicians give them an annual overhauling to ascertain the wornparts and if necessary advise them as to what will and what will not be of benefit to them.

"Agti-rattle" remedies in the shape of certain patent medicines merely remove the symptoms in many cases without curing the cause that produced the symptom.

An auto will run on a flat tire, but ultimately there is a wreck if the average speed is kept up, unless a complete repair is made.

Similarly if there is a weak part of the body, it can run for a time possibly—more damage being done daily —but in the end disaster, breakdown, or collapse comes, and unfortunately if delayed too long there is nothing that can be done.

Your physician can give you an inventory of your parts. Have your annual physical condition checked up now. Have a health examination on your birthday.

MOHICAN CO. MASQUERADE HELD AT GALES FERRY

Between 40 and 50 employes of the Mohican company held a Hallowe'en masquerade Tuesday evening at Red Top, Gales Ferry. They met in front of the Mohican store on Main street and made the trip to Gales Ferry by auto bus leaving about 7:30 o'clock. Among those present as guests were Elmer Priest of New York, official auditor of the Mohican company, and John O'Neil, a local boy, auditor of the New Haven branch. Many of those present appeared in unique costumes. Refreshments were served during the evening.

The arrangements for the masquerade were made by a committee comprising Miss Mollie Courtney, chairman, Joseph O'Neil and Albert Illinger.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. David Balfour.

After a long period of illness, due to the infirmities of age, Mrs. Frances Elizabeth Balfour died Tuesday morning at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Peter Ashe, of the Fog Plain road, Waterford. Mrs. Balfour, who was the widow of David Balfour of Fifeshire, Scotland, was 81 years of age. She was born in Greeneville, the daughter of Giles Batty and Adelaide Sharp.

Mrs. Balfour had been active for her years and one who was wrapped up in her children and grandchildren. She was a member of the Congregational church of Greeneville and upon removing to Norwich became affiliated with the Spiritualist society. For some 15 years she had been a resident of New London and of late years had made her home with her daughter in Waterford. Mrs. Balfour was held in high esteem by all with whom she came in contact and was loved for her kindly nature and broadness of spirit.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Robert Breckenridge of Norwich and Mrs. Peter Ashe of Waterford; by one brother, Horace Batty of Norwich, by three grandchildren, Ruth, Ione and Rose Breckenridge of Norwich and Mrs. Beatrice Ashe Maher of Waterford; also by two great-grandchildren, James and David Maher of New London.

WEDDING

Johnson—Riordan

Only relatives and friends were present at St. Patrick's rectory Monday evening when Miss Rosalie Helen Riordan of this city was united in marriage with Charles Hjalmar Johnson of South Manchester, the ceremony being conducted by Rev. Michael H. May. The bride was attended by Miss Clara Johnson of South Manchester, sister of the groom, and the attendant of the groom was Dr. Michael D. Riordan of Willimantic.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Milan B. Riordan of 120 Orchard street and was educated here For some time she has been teaching in local public schools. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Johnson of South Manchester and is in charge of the office ssey department of Cheney Brothers mills of that place.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, after spending their honeymoon in Bermuda, are to make their home at 45 Bigelow street South Manchester.

ENUMERATORS COUNT 265 MORE SCHOOL CHILDREN THAN YEAR AGO

The work of counting the school children in the town of Norwich between the ages of 4 and 16 has just been completed by the numerators, Tyler D. Guy and Cornelius J. Downes disclosing the fact that there has been the substantial gain of 265 over the year 1922. In the 1923 enumeration the total was 8,989. For 1922 it is 7,169.

The gains were found for the most part in the larger sections where the enumerators found many new families who have moved here during the past year. The work was performed in the usual careful and conscientious way by Messrs. Guy and Downes, who have done this work from year to year and whom the people of Norwich know so well by this time that they willingly and courteously give all the information necessary.

Figuring the population of a town in relation to its children of school age, on the usual ratio of between four and five of population to each child of school age, it would appear that Norwich, at the present time, should show a population of about $3,500, according to the figures of the enumerators.

| District. | 1922. | 1923. |
|---|---|---|
| Central | 1,676 | 1,764 |
| West Chelsea | 1,518 | 1,551 |
| Greeneville | 1,136 | 1,203 |
| Taftville | 1,011 | 1,029 |
| Falls | 317 | 326 |
| Bridge | 277 | 284 |
| Town Street | 253 | 267 |
| Long Society | 301 | 300 |
| Occum | 164 | 170 |
| West Town | 128 | 130 |
| East Great Plain | 107 | 99 |
| Yantic | 93 | 125 |
| Wauwecus Hill | 20 | 16 |
| Plain Hill | 14 | 11 |
| Scotland Road | 14 | 18 |
| Totals | 6,924 | 7,189 |

STATE SECRETARY SPEAKER AT BAPTIST C. E. SOCIAL

The Christian Endeavor society of the First Baptist church held a delightful Hallowe'en social at the church Tuesday evening. As the young people arrived they were blindfolded and put through a number of Hallowe'en stunts. The president of the society, Miss Marie Stamm, was the toastmaster at the banquet table and said grace. The menu was as follows: Escalloped potatoes, cold meats, pickles, rolls, coffee and pumpkin pie. At the close of the supper Miss Stamm presented as the speaker State Secretary Hicks of the Connecticut C. E. Union, of Hartford, who gave a very interesting talk on the Worth-Whileness of Christian Endeavor. The pastor of the church, Rev. E. C. Dunbar, closed the after-dinner programme with brief remarks.

The remainder of the evening was devoted to popular Hallowe'en games and stunts. The church hall was prettily decorated in autumn colors. Those in charge of the arrangements for the evening were Miss Lillian Sandberg, Miss Lillian Crumb, Mrs. William Amburn, Mrs. Alfred Pineault, Miss Edna Jones and Mrs. George Hollingsworth.

HALLOWE'EN SOCIAL FOR GREENEVILLE SUNDAY SCHOOL

The Greeneville Congregational Sunday school held its annual Hallowe'en social Monday evening at the church house, the entire entertainment being arranged by the officers and teachers of the school.

The entertainment of the evening was provided by Herbert L. Clarke of the White Entertainment bureau of Boston, whose character impersonations were complete and brought forth much applause. Besides being a clever impersonator, Mr. Clarke was a fine musician and delighted his audience with a varied program. He closed his entertainment with a dash of humor, during which several local hits were made, much to the enjoyment of the school. Other entertainers were John Egan, who was recalled several times for encores after his pleasing piano selections, and Henry Branan of Norwich, whose delightful violin selections called for more. Mrs. Harry Stebbins accompanied the artists on the piano.

At the close of the entertainment refreshments were served by the women teachers of the school and a social time was enjoyed.

NEW BRITAIN AUTOMOBILE STRUCK ON TROLLEY TRACK

About 9.30 o'clock Tuesday evening a Norwich bound trolley car crashed into a Packard touring car, registration No. 135-527 driven by Frank Largess of Farmington avenue, New Britain, on the curve at the foot of the Trading Cove hill. The trolley car which was in charge of Conductor Foley and Motorman Charles Roessler and which was due in Franklin square at 9.45 o'clock, was making the curve when the touring car, either parked or stalled directly on the trolley tracks came into view. One of the six persons in the touring car, three men and three girls, was slightly injured. The name of the injured girl was given as Sophie Bloom of 122 Roath street.

The damage sustained by the touring car consisted of a broken front axle, bent mudguard and bent radiator. A wrecker from a local garage towed the machine to Norwich for repairs.

LEADERS HOLD PLACES IN LADIES' PINOCHLE CLUB

There were few changes among the leaders in the Norwich Ladies' Pinochle club as a result of the play Tuesday evening at the office of Dr. Marie Boynton. Mrs. Wyant with high score for the evening went from ninth to fifth place and Dr. Boynton moved from eleventh to eighth place.

The scores of the evening follow: Dr. Boynton, 7150; Mrs. Bradlaw, 6,-930; Mrs. Crowell, 6515; Miss Crumb, 6230; Mrs. Houston, 7205; Mrs. Kromer, 6355; Miss A. Maples, 6685; Mrs. L. Maples, 6360; Mrs. Standish, 6805; Mrs. Stevens, 4975; Mrs. Washburn, 6315; Mrs. Wyant, 7390.

Standings to date are as follows: Mrs. Houston 23,205; Mrs. Bradlaw 20,475; Mrs. Standish 20,130; Mrs. Kromer 19,805; Mrs. Wyant 19,595; Miss A. Maples 19,500; Miss Crumb 19,180; Dr. Boynton 19,095; Mrs. Crowell 18,940; Mrs. Washburn 18,-380; Mrs. L. Maples 17,515; Mrs. Stevens 17,195.

FINED FOR DRIVING MACHINE WHILE INTOXICATED

In the city police court Monday morning Raymond Roberts of Jewett City, charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, was fined $200 and costs and given a jail sentence of 30 days, the jail sentence being suspended.

Roberts was notified to appear in court after he had driven his automobile into another machine then into a wall near No. 1 mill in Taftville Saturday.

Two men charged with breach of the peace and several drunks made up the remainder of the docket.

The case of state vs Joseph Socko, charged with violating the prohibition laws went over to Saturday under bonds.

SILVER WEDDING ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED AT BALTIC

About thirty relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Fremont Firth gathered at their home, 103 Main street, Baltic, Saturday evening, to celebrate their twenty-fifth anniversary. The dining room was beautifully decorated in pink and white. In the center of the table was a large wedding cake with twenty-five candles included in the decoration of the cake. A very pleasant evening was spent in playing various games, piano solos, vocal duets, etc.

Guests were present from Taftville, Oakdale, Providence, Pawtucket and Baltic. Mr. and Mrs. Firth received many beautiful gifts.

BAPTIST WOMEN PRESENT BIG BAZAAR OF NATIONS

People attending the Bazaar of Nations during the first day of its run at the Community house on Church street under the supervision of the Women's league of the Central Baptist church were unanimous in their opinion that the bazaar offered one of the most attractive pictures of its kind ever seen in this city and that the decorations for the "booth nations" could not have been more artistically fashioned. Indeed, from the time the bazaar opened to the public at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning until the doors were closed to tourists at 10 o'clock in the evening hundreds of people enjoyed the pleasure of making purchases of all kinds of articles amid scenes typical of many nations.

There was no charge for attending the bazaar but practically everyone attending could not resist the tempting bits of fancy work, aprons, candies, and the sale of these with the many other articles such as flowers, potted plants, canned goods, dolls, music rolls, Victor records and clothing for babies was almost continuous at every booth and not a few booths had disposed of their stock for the opening day long before the closing time in the evening.

For the tired tourist the Japanese Tea Gardens offered a welcome place for rest and comfort, and waited upon by Japanese girls light luncheon and tea was enjoyed by many during the day.

As evening came on the appeal of Paris and a real Parisian meal drew nearly 300 tourists and the night life of Paris was at its best from 6.30 o'clock until after 8 o'clock. At gaily decorated tables an appetising dinner was served, during which a delightful entertainment comprising orchestral selections, quartet numbers, solos and duets was rendered, making the dinner a success both from the view of those seeking delicious food and others seeking to get away for a time from the ordinary happenings of the life of a tourist.

The program of the evening opened with a selection by Swahn's orchestra, The March of the Daughters of the Revolution, which was executed in perfect time by the orchestra led by John M. Swahn. A quartet number, The Garden of Your Heart, sung by Mrs. William Crowe, Jr., soprano, Mrs. Henry E. Church, contralto, Lyle Fillmore, tenor, William Rush, bass, met instant approval, and an encore was insisted upon. Swahn's orchestra again favored with a selection, Popular Airs, and responded with encores. The next number was a feature of the program when six little flower girls, the Misses Elizabeth Noyes, Catherine Adams, Doris Racine, Doris Brown and Dorothy and Mary Stewart sang Buy My Flowers, after which they passed among the dinner guests and rapidly disposed of every flower held in their dainty baskets. While the flowers were being sold the orchestra again favored with Honolulu Blues, after which Mrs. Reuben P. Potter rendered a contralto solo, Sing On (by Denzer) and was called upon for an encore which she rendered in fine voice. Another selection by the orchestra, Harry Lauder's Medley, was followed by another pleasing quartet number, When My Ships Come Sailing Home, and to an insistent demand for more the quartet rendered Keep 'im Hoppin'. Another selection, Carry Me Back to My Carolina Home, by the orchestra, was followed by a tenor solo, Good Bye (Tosti), sung in clear voice by George Turner. Another selection by the orchestra was followed by a quartet number, We'll Keep Old Glory Flying, and the concert closed with the playing of the selection Dreams of India, by the orchestra. Miss Olive Linton at the piano proved a fine accompanist for the vocal numbers.

The entire bazaar and supper in Paris is to be repeated again today (Wednesday) all day and it is expected that many who were unable to attend the opening day will be present to take advantage of the exceptional offerings of the "booth nations" and the enjoyable evening in Paris, when another fine concert program will be rendered.

ARMY PILOT FROM MINEOLA FLIES TO LEBANON HOME

Residents of Lebanon may have an opportunity of taking an airplane joyride for the next few days, since John J. Vezulanes, former army pilot, arrived Tuesday afternoon at the home of his father, Apolnury Vezulanes, from Mineola, L. I., in a Curtis J-N two passenger plane.

The pilot left Curtis Field, Mineola, at 3.30 Tuesday afternoon, coming by way of Greenport to New London, and having a stiff 60-mile southwest breeze to waft him up the river. He made the more than 90 miles in about an hour, reaching his father's farm at 2-30, having come at an altitude of 10,000 feet. He has been at Mineola for about two years and was a pilot in the First Aero Corps, U. S. A., through the war. He gave his relatives a surprise, landing easily and without damage to the plane in a field back of the farm house. The farm is the former Fred Hoxie place, at Lebanon.

SCHAEFER WINS SLOW GAME FROM HOREMANS; COCHRAN BEATS CONTI

New York, Oct. 30 (By the A. P.)—Jake Schaefer of San Francisco won the slowest played game in the history of 18.2 balkline championship history tonight from Edouard Horemans of Belgium 500 points to 451.

The game went 19 innings and four hours and five minutes. In the afternoon match today Welker Cochran of Los Angeles defeated Roger Conti, of France, 500 to 457.

Horemans was in fine stroke tonight and took a lead in the fourth inning with a run of 99. He held the lead until the 11th inning, when Schaefer with a run of 82 forged to the front. Horemans became nervous and unstrung then and threatened only once with a collection of 65 in the sixteenth frame.

All three of the American players now have won matches from the trio of Europeans in the tournament. Willie Hoppe won from Erich Hagenacher, of Germany, Monday night.

The score of tonight's match:

Schaefer—30 14 5 32 3 63 74 10 17 29 83 2 82 3 4 0 24 0 15—500. Average 26 6-19. High run 99.

Horemans—29 0 37 99 3 19 49 17 63 13 2 26 16 6 4 65 3 0 0—457. Average run 23 14-19. High run 99.

The Detailed Play.

The Belgian won the bank, chose the white ball and ran 29, missing a six-inch draw.

After counting 30 Schaefer missed a four cushion shot. Horemans could not count on a bad leave. Schaefer collected 14 and failed on a pinch shot in a lower corner. The Belgian in a nurse at the foot of the table counted 37, then missed an easy draw. Schaefer after clicking off five and making his total 49 missed a 3-cushion shot. Horemans in a superb exhibition of the Masse and delicate stroking, clicked off 99 at the head of the table in his fourth inning, bringing his string to 165. Horemans got a kiss on his 100th shot and missed by a hair.

Schaefer made 32 in his fourth inning, three in the fifth, Horemans had a count of three in the fifth and nineteen in the sixth, making his string 187. Schaefer ran his string to 152 with 68 in his sixth turn at the table. Schaefer was having trouble in controlling his drives for position. Horemans added 49 in the seventh frame. His last three shots were masse.

Schaefer ran 74 at the head of the table, then split them and missed a one-cushion shot. Score was then: Horemans 236; Schaefer 226.

The Belgian then stretched his string to 316 with a run of 63. Schaefer made seventeen counts trying to get the balls together, then missed a five-cushion shot. His total was 283. Horemans was playing a beautiful close game but seemed a bit unnerved on the open shots.

In his tenth inning Horemans counted 13 and was left a masse shot in an upper corner. He diddled over it for several minutes, then rested and tried it but missed. He appeared very nervous, despite the fact that he was maintaining a good lead. Schaefer ran 29. Horemans' nervousness prevented him from making an easy draw after counting two in his eleventh inning. Schaefer then ran 88 and took the lead for the first time since the second inning. Score end 11th inning: Schaefer 370; Horemans 331.

Horemans made 26 spectacular shots in his 12th inning, then failed on a masse to get the balls out of balk. Schaefer counted twice and missed a four cushion shot. Horemans made 16, failing on a three cushion shot. Schaefer ran 82 in a fine display of fine nursing. Score end 12th, inning: Schaefer 454; Horemans 373.

Horemans with a bad leave made 16 in the 14th. Schaefer counted three. Each made four in the 15th. Horemans ran 65. Schaefer then had his first scoreless inning, missing a long two railer. Score end 16th inning: Schaefer 461; Horemans 448.

Horemans counted three in the 17th inning. Schaefer 94. Hoysmans failed to count in the 18th but played safe and Schaefer also missed. Horemans did not count in the 19th but Schaefer collected 15 to win the match 500 points to 451.

Cochran Beats Conti.

Welker Cochran of Los Angeles defeated Roger Conti, of France, 500 points to 457, in the second match for the world's 18.2 balkline billiard championship during the afternoon.

The match went 26 innings and was raggedly played.

Score:

Cochran—16 5 4 86 4 1 1 65 8 0 28 40 0 3 4 34 0 23 11 71 18 1 59 12 12—500.

High run 86; average 20.

Conti—1 3 1 41 4 6 0 57 2 2 10 72 3 0 0 1 6 47 0 13 44 19 5 61 23—457.

High run 72; average 18 7-25.

CAPT PINE CONFIDENT COLUMBIA WILL WIN TODAY

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 30.—Captain Ben Pine and his crew of fishing skippers who man the American schooner Columbia, challenger for the international fishermen's trophy, expressed confidence tonight that their vessel would win tomorrow's race from the defender Bluenose. Postponement of today's race owing to fog and lack of wind gave opportunity for the Americans to overhaul their vessel and readjust her ballast. She will be a faster boat, according to Pine, than the Columbia that lost to the Canadian vessel Monday.

Captain Pine claimed to have found the reason for his confidence in the performance of the Columbia today on a trial spin under her improved trimming. She pointed higher in windward work, was quicker in stays, and general showed more championship class, the skipper said.

SOCCER POPULARITY INCREASING FAST

Soccer is gradually coming into its own. There is no more interesting game in the category of sport. It calls into play all the skill, quick thinking and endurance of the American football game. It is no mollycoddle sport. Along with cricket, it is the Englishman's national game.

International soccer matches between America and England, and drawing crowds, as the big international matches do over in England, are possible in the future.

NOTRE DAME TO PLAY TIGERS AGAIN IN 1924

New York, Oct. 30.—College football schedule makers already are laying plans for the 1924 season.

Prominent among the prospective games is a return engagement between Princeton and Notre Dame. The Hoosiers were still dressing in the field house at Princeton after their 25 to 3 victory over the Tigers when Bill Roper, Nassau coach, came in to congratulate the westerners.

"How about another game next year?" Roper asked Knute Rockne, Notre Dame mentor.

"It's O. K. with me," answered Rockne.

"We'll make it a week later" suggested Roper, as he jotted the date in a notebook.

Centre college, which was defeated by Pennsylvania last Saturday, probably will invade the east again in 1924, as the "Praying Colonels" are understood to have an option on a date at the Polo grounds in October. Their opponent has not been picked.

The Army-Navy classic, to be held this year at the Polo grounds, may return to the same battleground next fall, as there are reports that the midshipmen, who have the choice of the 1924 site, are favorable to New York.

The Army, in line with its practice of booking as many intersectional opponents as possible, has already agreed to meet St. Louis university at West Point on Oct. 4, 1924.

DAN IV EASILY WINS $10,000 STEEPLECHASE

Pimlico Race Track, Baltimore, Md., Oct. 30.—J. S. Cosden's Dan IV. easily won the $10,000 Manly Memorial steeplechase, big feature of the Opening day of the fall race meeting at Old Hill Top. W. G. Wilson's Lieutenant Seas was second, the Greentree Stables Letterman third and Quincy Stables Double Tip fourth. The time for the two and one half miles was 4.55 4-5.

It was a fine race through the field. Musty and Dan IV. started out to make the pace and in this way they ran the first two turns of the field. Duettiste and Lieutenant Seas were close up and on the back stretch the last time around Lieutenant Seas challenged. The battle began turning for home. Musty broke down but Dan IV., standing off Lieutenant Seas' challenge came on to win handily.

Going to the last jump Duettiste, which had got up to second position fell and Lieutenant Seas coming on got the place from Letterman which closed fast at the end. Damask and Red Clover fell.

ATHLETES ABROAD MAY ENTER THE OLYMPICS

New York, Oct. 30.—America may draw upon some of its athletic talent abroad in the quest for Olympic honors at Paris next year, especially for the winter sports, which begin in January at Chamonix, in the French Alps. Among several requests received by the American Olympic committee from Americans desiring to represent this country in competition is one from H. C. Martin of New York, formerly of St. Paul's school, Concord, N. H. Martin, a resident of Paris, desires to enter his bob sleigh "Stars and Stripes" in the international contest.

Martin won second place in the grand national in 1914 at St. Moritz, Switzerland, where he plans to compete in races beginning this December. His application will be passed upon by the Olympic committee at its next meeting.

ZEV ENTERED IN AUTUMN STAKES AT EMPIRE TRACK

New York, Oct. 30.—Zev, international three year old champion, has been entered in the $5,000 autumn championship stakes, fourth race of the final day's card at Empire City track tomorrow. This was revealed late today when an entry list of five horses was announced for this feature, which is for all ages at a mile. Zev is coupled with Bracadale as the Rancocas stable entry.

Sam Hildreth, trainer of Zev, did not announce his plans, but it was indicated that he would ship the colt either shortly after the race or Thursday morning to Latonia, where the Rancocas stable is slated to meet My Own in the $50,000 championship next Saturday. Other entries in the autumn stakes are Tryster, Cyclops and Ladkin.

Cornell Basketball.

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 30.—The Cornell basketball schedule of 17 games, including ten league and seven non-league contests, was made public today.

The schedule includes games with Yale and New Haven on Jan. 19th and Yale at Ithaca on March 1st.

NEW YORK COMMISSION MAKES NEW RULING GOVERNING TITLE BOUTS

New York, Oct. 30.—Boxing champions must defend their titles in bonafide championship bouts at least once every six months, under a new championship ruling adopted today by the New York State Athletic Commission.

Failure to do so will result in indefinite suspension for the champion and the forfeiture of his title, while any boxer who engages a suspended champion, in New York or elsewhere will suffer, in turn, indefinite suspension, or the refusal of a license to box in New York.

By adopting this rule, the commission did away with its custom of arbitrarily declaring forfeited the titles of champions who refused to accept challenges, and, in most cases, elevating challengers to the championship. Forfeiture of titles, it was explained, would apply chiefly to cases where a champion is unable to make his class weight, or is adjudged otherwise unable or unfit to defend his crown.

The new rule, it is expected, will be made retroactive by the commission, in which case Joe Lynch and Mickey Walker, bantamweight and welterweight titleholders, will be restored to title recognition, though remaining under suspension until they fulfill the requirements of the commission.

Henceforth, in case of forfeited titles, the commission will conduct a tournament open to all contenders and award the title to the winner.

The new rule, in part, reads:

"The commission will suspend the license of any boxer engaging in any contest within the state of New York or elsewhere with a champion under suspension for refusing to accept a challenge, and if such boxer has not received a license from the state of New York, such engagement will be ground for refusing a license if subsequently applied for.

"In addition to disciplining the holder of the championship title, or should the champion for any reason be unable to qualify, the commission may declare the title forfeited and hold a tournament open to all contenders and award the title to the successful boxer taking part in such tournament."

LANDIS CALLS MEETING OF LEAGUES FOR DEC. 12

Chicago, Oct. 30.—Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball commissioner, tonight issued a call for a joint meeting of the club owners of the American and National leagues to be held here Dec. 12, for the purpose of setting their house in order for the 1924 season.

As this also is the date for the annual meeting of the American League, President Johnson may advance the meeting of his club owners so as to prepare themselves for the joint session.

The question of umpires' pay for officiating the world's series may come up at the joint meeting. At the world's series the umpires appealed to Commissioner Landis for a bigger slice of the gate receipts. The commissioner curtly told them that, in his opinion, they were not entitled to any more than $1,000 apiece.

BRANSFIELD APPOINTED MANAGER OF BRASSCOS

Waterbury, Oct. 30.—William (Kitty) Bransfield, scout for the Chicago Cubs during the past two seasons, today announced his appointment as manager of the Waterbury Eastern League club for next season. Bransfield was appointed several weeks ago but, because he was under contract to the Cubs until December 1, he asked that the appointment be kept secret. Today he received a release of contract from the Cubs so he is free now to start upon his new duties at once. Manager Bransfield's first act as manager was to forward assignments for two Class B League players, Shortstop Hood of the Virginia League and Second Baseman Benton of the Sally League.

INDIANS PLAYED MANY CLOSE GAMES IN 1923

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 30.—A perusal of the Cleveland American league team's record shows the Indians took part in 44 games in 1923 that were decided in the final inning, winning 20 and losing 24. The Indians also lost 24 games by one run and won 21 by the same margin.

The local club was shut out in only three games during the season, Philadelphia, St. Louis and Detroit applying the whitewash once each. On the other hand, the Indians blanked Philadelphia, New York, Detroit and Boston each twice, and Washington and Chicago once each.

NEW LONDON COLONIALS LOOKING FOR GAMES

The Colonial A. C. of New London has put a fast team into the field this season and now is looking for games with teams in this section of the state. The Colonials already have games booked with the Naval Torpedo Station of Newport, 103th Infantry of Hartford, Indians of Meriden, Clay Hills of Hartford and also games pending with the Sub Base and West Ends of Hartford. The Colonials line up at 140 pounds on the average and are anxious to meet a Norwich team on the gridiron either in Norwich or in New London. Write Manager John J. Snow, 101 Bayonet street, New London. Tel. 2112-2.

JOCKEY FATOR CHARGED WITH 2ND DEGREE MANSLAUGHTER

New York, Oct. 30.—An incident charging second degree manslaughter was returned today against Lester M. Fator, well known jockey riding for Harry F. Sinclair, by a grand jury after several witnesses had declared he was the driver of a motor car which mortally injured Hugh M. Keon, last July 15. A bench warrant was issued for his arrest.

Earlier in the day Fator was sued by Mrs. Margaret Keon, widow of the motor accident victim, for $50,000 damages. Fator denied the charges. He was absolved of responsibility in a magistrate's court hearing shortly after the accident.

GAME IN BOWL TO START AT 2 O'CLOCK

The football game Saturday between the Army and Yale elevens in the Bowl will start at 2 o'clock.

The contest will be preceded by a drill by the Cadet Corps of the United States Military Academy, starting at 2 o'clock.

THIS MAKES JOHNNY BETTER THAN JACK

Who is the greatest fighter in the world?

Jack Dempsey?

Nope.

Johnny Dundee!

Aw, quit your kidding.

Well, just listen: Dundee whipped Joe Shugrue. Joe Shugrue stopped Benny Leonard. Benny Leonard whipped Ted Lewis. Ted Lewis whipped Soldier Bartfield. Soldier Bartfield whipped Harry Greb. Harry Greb whipped Tommy Gibbons. Tommy Gibbons whipped Billy Miske. Billy Miske stopped Fred Fulton. Fred Fulton stopped Sam Langford. Sam Langford stopped Jim Flynn, and Jim Flynn knocked out Jack Dempsey in one round.

If that doesn't make Johnny Dundee the greatest fighter in the world what does?

MOTOR SPEEDWAY BADLY DAMAGED BY FIRE

Beverly Hills, Calif., Oct. 30.—The Beverly Hills Speedway, midway between Los Angeles and Santa Monica and scene of national automobile races, was damaged by fire today when flames destroyed more than one-eighth of a mile of the wooden saucer track.

The track will be reconstructed immediately.

Academy Juniors Challenge

The Academy Junior eleven started practice last week under competent coaching with a small but ambitious squad. The prospects look very good for the class of '27 and it is hoped that the team will equal the record made by last year's team. The Juniors challenge any grammar school team or any amateur team averaging 125 pounds. Games to be played weekday afternoon. Answer through this paper.

Well Known Football Star Dead

Cape Girardeau, Mo., Oct. 30.—C. W. Hookenberger, 32, wealthy lumberman of Rochester, N. Y., and former all-American football tackle, died here today from peritonitis. He came here to open up a mill he was constructing. His widow and four children are en route here, but do not know he is dead. He died following an operation.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

The gentleman who claims there is no such thing as a perfect cow probably has never seen Zybesko in action.

Johns Hopkins is playing night football under flood lights so brilliant as to make the field as bright as at noonday.

Jeff Smith, veteran eastern middleweight, is after a decision match with Harry Greb, the champion. Smith claims to have several referee's decisions over Greb.

The British Olympic Association is headed by King George as patron, with the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York and Prince Henry vice patrons.

Pal Moran, who recently eliminated the veteran Charley White from the lightweight picture, has signed to meet Eddie "Kid" Wagner in an eight-rounder at Philadelphia in November.

In the American League, Philadelphia has been in five world's series, Boston in four, Chicago in three Detroit in three, New York in three, and Cleveland in one. St. Louis and Washington are the two cities in the league which have never had a world's series.

Red McLaughlin, Saginaw welterweight who held Young Stribling to a draw verdict in Macon, Ga., during the summer months, is starting his winter campaign. He is ready to meet any of the leading men in his division.

Though Miller Huggins' contract as manager of the Yankees is but a one-year affair, President Jacob Ruppert says that doesn't mean anything and that Huggins can manage the Yankees as long as he lives. Huggins started in with the Yanks at $12,000 a year. He'll get $25,000 or thereabouts next season and probably a bonus arrangement.

The Olympic Club of San Francisco and Stanford University will join forces in an effort to secure A. A. U. sanctions for the national water polo and relay swimming championships of 1924, that the events may be decided in the Pacific district.

Abe oldstein, the eastern bantam, has become a drawing card overnight as a result of his decisive victory over Joe Burman. Abie was a last minute substitute for Joe Lynch, the champion, but he came through just the same. As a result of the defeat Burman has fired his managers, Nate Lewis and Tommy Walsh.

James Davies, former Stanford University basketball captain, who played for the Pacific Coast college in lawn tennis the last three years, is a student at Harvard's Business school. He will greatly strengthen the Crimson tennis squad if he takes up the sport in the spring.

Two young Australian swimmers, virtually unknown in this country, Frank and Chas. Stuart, are reported to have developed into championship contenders and Olympic possibilities. We should hear more about them in the near future, for the antipodean season will be launched shortly.

"Tox" Hamer, captain of the University of Pennsylvania football eleven, joined the immortals by catching a kick-off and running 95 yards for a touchdown against Columbia in their recent game in Philadelphia. It's somewhat similar to a homer with the bases full.

BACKUS HOSPITAL FUND GOES TO OVER $700,000

Additional reports made Tuesday of pledges and contributions in the Backus hospital community appeal have raised the total from $667,803 to over $676,000.

An additional pledge of $1,500 by a mill was reported through the industries committee of which Oliver L. Johnson is chairman.

Judge and Mrs. Gardiner Green have increased their pledge and are joined in so doing by Mrs. William H. Palmer with an increased pledge of the same amount, so that the joint pledges of all are brought to the sum of $1500, which is contributed toward the endowment fund of the hospital, in memory of Mrs. Henry L. Reynolds, mother of Mrs. Greene and Mrs. Palmer.

The Aspinook Company of Jewett City reported Tuesday that the total pledges made by its employees have been raised from $551.50, as last reported to $588. This will be paid by the employees weekly, and the company will be responsible for the collection of the fund, which will be turned in to the treasurer, Nathan A. Gibbs of the Thames National Bank.

Other additional subscriptions were the following: from the Norwich branch of the American Woolen Co., employes $167 in addition to some already turned in; $69 from the employes of the Saxton Woolen Co.; $725 from the former Norwich residents, reported by Grosvenor Ely, chairman of this committee; $225 from Lebanon.

In the reports of Monday night was a $500 subscription from the Nurses Alumnae Association for a memorial for a reference library, shelf and books.

In the final report of Mrs. W. K. Tingley's team was a $150 pledge from a former patient in honor of her three graduate nurses, which is to be applied to equipping the reference library. Another pledge of $75 was given to Mrs. Tingley in honor of a local nurse, but this card was turned over to the neighborhood division as the donor lives in Bozrah. The money is to be applied to equipment for the reference library.

HALLOWE'EN MASQUERADE BY LADIES AUXILIARY, A. O. H.

A. O. H. Hall was a scene of gaiety Tuesday evening when members of the Ladies Auxiliary, No. 54, Ancient Order of Hibernians held their annual masquerade and dance. Over 75 couples were present dressed in costumes of many lands. India, China, Spain, Russia, Ireland, America and other nations being represented. The hall was tastefully decorated for the occasion in Hallowe'en bunting. A feature of the evening was the grand march which was led by Miss Catherine Coughlin and Mrs. Frances Williams. Dancing was enjoyed until a late hour, music being furnished by the Royal String Orchestra directed by Clarence Brewer. Refreshments of doughnuts and coffee were served by the entertainment committe comprising Mrs. Annie Bellows, Mrs. Margaret Coughlin, Mrs. Julia Brock, and Mrs. Mary Cox.

SUES OSWEGATCHIE MAN FOR $86 SHOE BILL

Judge C. B. Waller took the papers and reserved decision in the common pleas court in New London Monday after hearing trial of the suit of Daniel J. Lucy of New London against Robert Wheeler of Oswegatchie.

The suit was to recover a bill of $86 for shoes and money loaned extending over a period from April, 1911, to April, 1917. The defendant denied the account.

On Probation for a Year.

Four 17 year old Greenville, Conn., youths, Stephen Shea, Daniel Barry, James Perry and Patrick McNerny, were before the city court Monday morning and were put on probation for a year because of a recent escapade which placed a theft charge against them. They were accused of having reached in through a window at the Atlantic Carton company factory and of having taken $15 from the pockets of a pair of trousers that were hanging there. Later the group was seen together by an officer who scattered them. They became scared and threw the money back through the window. The court gave them a sharp lecture before pronouncing sentence.

One Diptheria Case in Norwich.

Last week, according to the weekly morbidity report issued by the state department of health, one case of diphtheria was reported from Norwich. Communicable diseases reported from towns in eastern Connecticut for the week follow:

Diphtheria—Norwich, 1; Stonington, 4; Stafford Springs, 1.

Scarlet fever—Waterford, 1.

Measles—Griswold, 4; Jewett City, 28; New London, 1; Stonington, 3; Stafford, 1.

Enjoyed Hallowe'en Party

About 50 friends of Mrs. William Denkar of 116 Otrobando avenue enjoyed a Hallowe'en party at her home Saturday evening. Games were played and several musical numbers provided additional entertainment. The house was prettily decorated in streamers and bunting suggestive of the season. Cake, cookies, oranges, sandwiches and fruit were served by the hostess.

Motored to New Haven.

Miss Alma Golkowske and Theodore Golkowske of Pratt street, recently motored to New Haven and were guests over the week-end at the home of their brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Golkowske, of Whitneyville, former Norwich residents.

Automobile Hit Express Wagon.

An American Express wagon driven by Samuel Jennes was hit by an automobile driven by Ovilla Dugas of Palmer avenue, Jewett City, Tuesday afternoon about 3.15 on North Main street near the trolley carbarn. Both vehicles suffered minor damages.

POETRY

A COUNTRY HALLOWE'EN.

A city-sponsored Hallowe'en
May make a weird, fantastic scene,
With festive gowns, converting clowns
And duchesses with spotted crowns.
But as for me, I long to be
Where witches dance around a tree,
Or at a well where girls can spy
A shadow-born affinity.

A country Hallowe'en affair
Brings beaux and belles from everywhere
The country 'round—a jovial crew
In Queen October's retinue.
They joy because the harvest's done.
They make it partner in the fun,
With pumpkins, squashes, apples red
And leaf-festoonings overhead.

Each beau and belle makes a happy quest
For red ears in the corn—a test
Of love full-blossomed—for a kiss.
Each red ear brings a red-cheeked miss.
They bob for apples—ancient game—
Peer through the candle's doubtful flame
To see if in the shadowed light
Reflected love is found tonight.

A country Hallowe'en! Ah, me,
The songs they sing, the revelry!
The fragrant odors wafting by
Of kitchen-conjured "punkin" pie.
It lies in quarters on the plate,
Too tempting to be held in wait.
All table-ethics now are banned:
"Yes, ma'am, I'll eat mine in my hand."
—William Herschell, in Indianapolis News.

THE KING OF DREAMS.

Some must delve when the dawn is nigh;
Some must toil when the noonday beams;
But, when night comes and the west winds sigh,
Every man is a King of Dreams!

One must plod while another must play
At plow of loom till the sunset streams,
But when night comes, and the moon rides high,
Every man is a King of Dreams!

One is a slave to a master's cry,
Another serf to a despot seems,
But when night comes, and the discords die,
Every man is a King of Dreams!

This you may sell and that may buy,
And this you may barter for gold that gleams,
But there's one domain that is fixed for aye,—
Every man is a King of Dreams!
—Clinton Scollard.

INACCURATE SCALES MEAN $35 FINE FOR NEW LONDON FISH DEALER

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 31.—The condition of Postmaster Bryan F. Mahan, ill at Lawrence hospital due to a general physical breakdown, is reported practically unchanged today, although if anything, it was stated, that the patient is slightly improved. However, Postmaster Mahan's most intimate acquaintances do not hold out much hope for a sufficient improvement to permit his resuming his official duties.

The apparatus of the Thomas Home company is again out of commission and will be for a number of days or until such time as repairs can be made. It would appear that the machine has outlived its usefulness as it becomes disabled about once every year. The apparatus was not a new machine when it was originally acquired by the city and has been located in the Thomas Home company's house 11 years.

Mrs. Marianne Delmonte of Shaw street, Timothy Sullivan, Main street, Mrs. Nicholas Dean and infant, West Mystic, Miss Nellie Beckwith, Willetts avenue extension, Waterford, and Christian Funk of the United States Coast Guard Academy, were patients discharged at Lawrence hospital today.

The New London police have been on the lookout a number of months for Albert Aldrich, alias Albert Aldridge, colored, whom the Massachusetts authorities have desired to locate because of his having escaped from the prison camp in Boston. Aldrich formerly resided in New London and it was believed, that he might return to New London. He can do so now with fear of being hindered, for the Massachusetts police today informed the New London authorities that Aldrich was no longer sought by the former authorities.

Charles R. Tinker, one of New London's ardent hunters of big game, returned today after spending a fortnight in Maine. He brought with him his prize capture, a buck that weighed 200 pounds.

Frank H. Isham, of Los Angeles, formerly located in New London and owner of the Colonnade hotel on Pequot avenue, has returned to this city for an indefinite stay. Mr. Isham, after disposing of his hotel ownings, will probably return to California, where he reports business booming.

James Welsh of Providence, located in New London many years ago, at that time being employed at the Crocker House, is spending a few days in town.

Miss Mary M. Riley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Riley, 19 Broad street, will shortly become the bride of Lester Perry of Broad street, announcement of the engagement having been made this week. Mr. Perry is a mason by occupation.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Boothe and granddaughter, Gladys Fitzgerald of 73 Montauk avenue, have returned home, having spent a week motoring throughout New England.

Miss Anna Donohue has returned home, having spent a fortnight as the guest of her sister, Mrs. Frank T. Casey, of Providence.

Walter Miner, formerly of New London, has returned to Cleveland, O., after spending a week in this city. Mr. Miner is now engaged in the real estate business in Cleveland.

Miss Laura Comi, of Groton, stenographer in the office of Assistant Superintendent Robert N. Smith of the New Haven railroad in this city, has resumed her duties, having spent a fortnight with friends in St. Paul, Minn.

James M. Graves has acquired the two-family dwelling at 17 Borodell place from Ethel M. Tarley.

Joseph Bucco, a fisherman, residing in Smith street, was charged in the police court this morning with selling fish by determining their weight on scales as incorrect as they well could be. When put to plea he shrugged his shoulders and said, "Me guilty. I did it!" He meant that he sold the fish short weight, but he fervently declared that he did so in ignorance. He said the scales he used had been in service a long time and that he got them from the man he hired his boat from. He did not know whether the scales were accurate for he took what was given to him and they had previously been used for the same purpose. Under the laws of the state the scales should have been tested within a year, but those that Bucco had never passed inspection by the sealer. They showed a deviation of four ounces in three pounds and in four pounds they were short in weight six ounces. That experience cost Bucco $35 and it also brought some half a dozen other fish pedlars to the city hall, that their scales might be tested and corrected.

E. H. Taylor rolled in to North Bank street last night with a load he could not carry. He had looked upon the booze cup and had quaffed its contents till he was thick in speech and thicker in understanding. So Police Sergeant Howard gathered him in, just as Father Time will some day. Taylor was presented in the police court this morning and when charged with intoxication he admitted that the charge was a proper one to be made against him. He was drunk when arrested. As Taylor was in the court for the same offense ten days ago and then he pleaded to be allowed his freedom on promise that he would get out of town he was allowed to go. This morning while he admitted that he left town, he said he had just come back. "You go to jail for six months!" said Judge Prince. And Taylor went there as soon as a mittimus could be prepared and Court Officer George Lebeau could make the journey to Franklin street with him.

Frank N. Isham has returned from Los Angeles where he took up his residence a few years ago. His stay here will be limited to the time it requires for him to transact business he came east to attend to.

Dr. and Mrs. Albert Hart returned yesterday from a long automobile trip that carried them to Massachusetts, Vermont and New Hampshire.

The weatherwise declare that the coming winter will bring an unusual quantity of snow to this section, basing their opinion on the fact that there was little rain during the summer and that as a certain average of moisture comes to the earth every year the earth will get in the winter what it failed to receive during the warm weather.

Mrs. Thomas Murphy and infant, of Harrison street, Mrs. John Andriola, Groton, Mrs. Lyman Lester Watrous and infant of Ocean avenue, Mrs. Harold Stanton and infant, Mercer street and Mrs. Theodore Noble and infant of West Pleasant street, were patients discharged today at Home Memorial hospital.

The residence of James Manning, 36 Colman street, was threatened with serious damage by fire shortly after last midnight, when lighted tobacco dropped by a smoker fell on the covering of a bed occupied by children. The blaze was discovered quickly and the children removed. By that time the mattress was ablaze and was thrown from a window. A still alarm was sent to the Niagara Engine Company's house. With the arrival of the firemen efforts were devoted to extinguish a small section of the wooden trimming of the room, which had become ignited the fire being subdued by the application of chemicals and with but slight damage.

Lieut. Commander J. A. Crutchfield, U. S. N., commander of the S-50 has communicated with the New London police, the undersea commander being desirous of such information as can be obtained relative to the arrest and conviction of one of his crew, Harry Elmer French, of the charge of attempted rape. French is a prisoner at the New London county jail serving a sentence of one year for attempting to rape Catherine Shea, a 12 year old girl, in her home on Broad street two months ago, when French went to the house under the pretense of securing lodging.

At the annual meeting of the Society of Mayflower Descendants at Hartford today, Percy Coe Eggleston of New London was re-elected captain.

The success of the Armistice Day parade, is assured and another meeting of the general committee was held this evening in the state armory when final plans were formulated. The meeting was attended by a large throng of members of the various patriotic organizations. It is now planned that over 5,000 soldiers, sailors and marines and national guardsmen will be in line, besides numerous civic bodies in patriotic attire, the latter to include several hundred girls whose costumes will permit the forming of a figure representing the American flag as the girls march through the street, red white and blue. At the meeting of the city council last evening the appropriation of $1,000 to defray a portion of the expenses attached to conducting the celebration was assured.

At a meeting of Brainard lodge, No. 162, A. F. & A. M., held in the temple this evening, Major Malcolm Scott, a past master of the order, officiated as master in raising his son, Henkle Scott, to the master mason degree.

Street, is in need of repair, for the on Green street, just south of Peak street, is in need of repair, for the guard became insecure and now occupies such a part of the highway that a vehicle is liable to collide with the obstruction. The police tonight removed the guard so as to prevent the city from possible damage actions.

B. R. Ferrand, a roomer at the Y. M. C. A., complained to the police this evening that his room had been entered and that a Gladstone bag, containing articles of apparel, an overcoat and a suit of clothes had been stolen. The bag was left in the room by Ferrand at 6 o'clock this forenoon and when he returned this evening he discovered his loss. It is believed that the thief entered the room by means of a duplicate key.

The Crowley club observed its second anniversary Monday evening by holding a banquet at the Mohican hotel. Covers were laid for 150. The tables were decorated with yellow chrysanthemums tied with blue ribbon, the club's colors.

The guests of honor were the Rev. Dr. Timothy M. Crowley, pastor of St. Mary's Star of the Sea church; Rev. Alexander C. Wollschlaeger; Rev. W. C. Fitzsimons, pastor of St. Joseph's church; Rev. John McGrath of St. Mary's; Miss Florence Lennon of Hartford, who was secretary of the Crowley club summer house at Crescent Beach this past season; Miss Delia Maroney, general secretary of the Diocesan Bureau of Social Service and Mrs. Evelyn Toby, a director of the Carroll club, New York city, and a professor at Columbia university.

NORWICH TOWN

At the Norwich Town M. E. church Sunday morning, Rev. J. E. Aldrich gave a very helpful sermon from Matt 4:19. "Follow me and I will make you fishers of men." Jesus always expressed great truths with simple, plain, practical language. In this chapter fishermen were addressed, and in language easily understood by them. We are great fishers in the kingdom of God. The minds of men differ, so different methods must be planned to attract people to the fold. The business of the church is to draw to itself through social and spiritual means. "Believe in the Lord Jesus Christ" and "follow me" are His precepts. As fishermen we must live a life to uphold Jesus. This is the standard by which we must bring men to the Living God. He has called each one to be a worker not an idler.

There was no service in the Norwich Town M. E. church Sunday evening, so that all could avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing Bishop Charles Wesley Burns of the Helena district, Montana, at Trinity M. E. church. About 25 went from the Norwich Town M. E. church. Invitations to the C. E. rally at this church are in circulation. It is to be held Thursday evening when Field Secretary H. W. Hicks will give the address.

The special services at the Methodist church, arranged by Rev. Mr. Aldrich, which covered a period of two weeks, were concluded Friday evening. Tuesday evening was assigned to Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., pastor of the Central Baptist church; but owing to the severe rain storm that evening, the service was omitted. Wednesday evening Rev. J. Harlow Graham, pastor of Trinity Methodist church, gave an address on Visiting Evangelization; Thursday evening, Rev. Chauncey W. Ruoff, of Baltic, addressed those present on Life's Investments; and Friday evening, Rev. H. L. Wilbur of Jewett City, spoke from Mark 8:18. "Having eyes, see ye not? and having ears, hear ye not?

At the Sheltering Arms service Sunday afternoon, when Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, pastor of the United Congregational church, was the officiating clergyman, Rev. Mr. Abbott sang three solos, playing his own accompaniments, the choir from this church being unable to be present.

John Dodge was the delegate from Troop No. 30, Boy Scouts of Norwich town, to the Older Boys' conference in New London.

During the hour for worship at the First Congregational church Sunday morning, the pastor, Rev. Gurdon P. Bailey used for his theme, "The Mind of Christ, in the Life of Today." This was the general theme used at the National Council of Congregational Church of America at Springfield, Mass., to which Rev. Mr. Bailey was a delegate, he having referred to the doings of the council in his sermon. Miss Ida Beebe was the leader of the Young People's Christian Endeavor service in the evening. The topic was—How Can We Answer Those Who Say Prohibition Cannot Prohibit? Hab 2:1-14.

Representatives from the Norwich Town Congregational church, in attendance at the semi-annual meeting of the New London Association of Congregational Church and Ministers, Rev. Gurdon P. Bailey, Deacon Henry held Tuesday in Hanover included T. Frazier, Thomas H. Bachelor, and Miss J. G. Bonney. During the conference Rev. Mr. Bailey read the registrar's report, also the report of the treasurer, as well as giving a report of the National Council of Congregational Church of America. Besides Mr. Bailey, the other delegates from this association were Rev. J. Beveridge Lee, D. D., pastor of the Second Congregational church of New London, and Mrs. Lee, who also gave their report of the council.

The New Edison Phonograph

THE UNEMBELLISHED FACTS CONCERNING THE MUSICAL MIRACLE WHICH THOMAS A. EDISON HAS PERFORMED

Thomas A. Edison's favorite invention is the phonograph. The achievement of which he is proudest is his perfection of the Edison Phonograph to a point where its reproduction of music cannot be detected from the original music. The reality of this achievement has been established beyond all doubt or question by public tests before more than five million people. Fifty great artists have participated in these tests. The tests are exceedingly simple. An artist stands beside the NEW EDISON and sings—or plays. Suddenly and without warning the artist ceases and the NEW EDISON continues alone. The test is whether the audience, with eyes closed, can tell when the living artist has ceased to sing—or play.

Mr. Edison's wonderful invention has never failed to sustain this astonishing comparison with entire success. The marvelous realism of the NEW EDISON caused the NEW YORK GLOBE to refer to it as "the phonograph with a soul," and the NEW YORK TRIBUNE to announce that "Edison scares the soul of music."

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

EELWORM DISEASE MENACE TO ALFALFA IN AMERICA

The alfalfa eelworm disease, caused by the alfalfa nematode, a parasitic eelworm, is causing considerable damage to alfalfa fields in America, and consequently serious losses. This pest is proving itself to be extremely dangerous and one that deserves prompt and aggressive measures to check it before it becomes more widespread. The pest has been under observation by the United States department of agriculture in a few isolated locations in this country for the last two years, but it is feared that the present distribution may be greater than is now known.

Department circular 237, The Eel-Worm Disease a Menace to Alfalfa in America, is a recent publication issued by the United States department of agriculture to acquaint the public with the nature of the disease and to enlist aid in determining definitely its presence or absence in all alfalfa-growing sections. The disease is responsible for serious loss where it occurs elsewhere in the world, but in America it has not been under observation long enough to permit its full capabilities of doing damage to become known. Where it has been observed, however, it is serious enough to cause general alarm. In one section a field only three years old was almost completely destroyed by the disease. In another section portions of fields of various ages were reduced to a distinctly unprofitable condition within a year or two, and in addition the disease has spread alarmingly from original points of infestation.

The circular describes the disease as appearing in "sick spots" in the field caused by a thinning out of the plants, leaving a poor stand of drawfed, yellowed, and distorted plants. Stems are swollen at the base and brown in color. They are often brittle and easily broken off at the base; in fact, this brittleness is one of the means of easy diagnosis. The spring of the year is the best time to look for the disease, although the typical symptoms can be recognized at any time. Much of the spread of the disease appears to take place in the fall, winter, and early spring.

The organisms are spread in various ways—by irrigation water, infested hay, farm implements, wind and birds. Prevention of the spread in any way possible is to be urged and is worth infinitely more than "a ton of cure." Eradication of the disease by plowing up infected fields and turning into other crops for a period of three years is the safest way.

A further reason for prompt and aggressive action in dealing with this disease is the fact that the organism may pass over and affect other crops.

IMPORTANCE OF VARIETY IN A RATION

There is a distinct advantage in feeding hens a variety of feeds. Because of the great hue and cry about variety in feeding at various times, some persons might imagine that hens fed on only one grain might actually starve to death. While this is an extreme point of view still variety is important and should be carefully considered.

Unquestionably, the appetite of fowls is sharpened and their digestion improved by a variety of grain and other food. The system usually revolts against the continual use of one food. After a time the food becomes unpalatable and in this way nature asserts herself and demands a varied diet.

Almost every locality furnishes many kinds of food suitable for poultry, and from these foods it is nearly always possible to select a wholesome diet. Consequently, it is seldom necessary to send a great distance for poultry feed.

In one section a mixture of corn, wheat, meat scraps and cocoanut oil cake meal is favored. In another section where kaffir corn is abundant this grain, together with a small quantity of cottonseed meal, linseed and ground alfalfa, may make a satisfactory feed. Rations made up of these feeds may be planned to meet the demands for egg production, growth and market meat.

In fact, hens may be satisfactorily raised on only one grain such as corn, provided they get a certain variety of other feeds, especially if meat scraps, milk and plenty of green stuff are used.

On general farms, where there is an abundance of green stuff and odds and ends to pick up, only one grain, such as corn or wheat, may be satisfactorily used.

When chickens are confined in a small place, however, and do not get the advantage of picking green stuff from a liberal range, better results are usually obtained by feeding a variety of foods.

Although some foods or grains are enthusiastically backed by various persons as the only kind of food that may promote health, vigor and egg production, it can be said that no one kind of food is vastly superior to all others.

Although corn, wheat, oats, barley and their by-products are highly favored in many districts, their use is not absolutely necessary. In China whole rice is the bill of fare, and the ration is balanced with fish, bugs and worms.

In the wheat growing belt wheat and its by-products are used. Where oats are grown in abundance they are a suitable feed to use. Other feeds, however, must be used to balance the ration and to furnish the necessary protein for growth and egg production. When any part of the food supply must be purchased it is well, if possible, to buy concentrate foods that are rich in nitrogen. Relatively, much nitrogen can be obtained from these foods, but a ration that has an excess of fat and carbohydrates.—Seth W. Shoemaker.

ERADICATING GRUBS.

Spading or plowing of gardens in late fall just before the ground freezes—usually in November—is the only way to eradicate wire worms and white grubs which frequently injure garden crops such as peas, potatoes and strawberries, the horticultural agent declares. The wire worm is the young or larvae of the well known click beetle or "snapper," and the white grub is the young of the June bug or may beetle.

Wire worms frequently bore into the seeds of peas and into the potato tubers and other root crops. White grubs frequently eat ragged holes in the sides of the potato and are especially fond of the new white soft roots of the strawberry plant.

White grubs are frequently introduced into the soil through old manure and are usually abundant in old sod land. It will be well to spread dressing of old manure or compost piles in winter, while the ground is still frozen.

NEW STATE BUTTER CHAMPIONS

Connecticut has two new Holstein butter producing champions, according to an announcement from the advanced registry department of The Holstein-Friesian Association of America.

A Valley Pearl Beauty, owned by R. D. Curtis, Raniam, is the new leader for ten months' production as a junior four-year-old. Her record is 13,417.1 pounds milk containing 677.92 pounds butterfat, equivalent to 847.1 pounds butter.

The new state champion in the senior three-year-old class for seven days' production is K. K. F. V. Ellen of the Gardner Hall, Jr., company herd at Willington. Her record is 1,233.8 pounds milk and 51.07½ pounds butterfat—equal to 118.84 pounds butter.

TIME TO APPLY LIME.

One county agricultural agent says now is the time to apply lime to land that grew potatoes this year and is to be seeded next spring, if that material is needed. Many times the soil is tested in the spring to get on to early and lime will not incorporate in the soil as readily under these conditions. The question always arises in the minds of the thinking farmer, "will it pay me to lime this particular piece of land, will I get back enough crop return to pay for the material and labor necessary to apply the lime?" There is no man who can give him a correct answer without considerable study of soil, sub-soil and crops growing on the land. Even lime he will not always be right.

In general, a soil growing sorrel, covered with moss or failing to grow clover, is sour and would be sweetened by the use of lime, but even then there is no surety that clover or other legume will grow luxuriantly after lime applications. There are many things to observe first.

The only economical way of knowing whether or not lime will pay is by treating a strip with lime and checking up the resultant crops of limed vs. non-limed, subtract the cost of lime and labor from the limed plots and from the result decide.

MARKET WAS REACTIONARY

New York, Oct. 30.—Heavy selling of the oil shares, based on a further reduction in Mid-Continent crude oil prices imparted reactionary tone to today's stock market. Speculation for the decline was influenced also by the relatively high renewal rate for call money, lower refined sugar prices and the cut in the National Enameling dividend from $6 to $4 annually.

Declaration of an extra dividend of 1-4 of 1 per cent. on the common stock of the United States Steel corporation proved to be one of Wall Street's most carefully guarded secrets. The announcement was made after the market closed, the stock showing a net loss of 1 1-8 at 96 3-4 in the final quotation. Chairman Gary declared that while new business was only about one-half of the corresponding capacity inquiries were unusually large and he expressed the belief that any of them would be transformed into actual contracts in the near future.

Wall Street also was cheered by the report that Great Britain had accepted France's terms for a conference of experts to consider Germany's capacity to pay. Foreign exchanges held steady, demand sterling being quoted around $4.48 3-4, French francs around 5.87 cents and Italian lira around 4.5- cents. German marks fell back to one cent a billion.

Mixed price changes took place when the market opened with most of the leading industrials displaying a firm tone. The cut in prices announced by the Magnolia Petroleum company was ignored for a time but later took the selling orders in the oil group increased and losses in the low-priced shares ran from 1 to 3 1-2 points with Mariand Producers & Refiners sagging to new low levels for the year. Rumors of new financing by some of the smaller oil companies also were circulated during the day.

National Enameling dropped 2 1-8 points in direct reflection of the reduced dividend. American Woolen was in supply on reports that the recent cut in woolen prices failed to stimulate any great amount of new business. Dupont, in which a pool is reported to be operating, slipped back 3 3-4 points. Stewart-Warner had a perpendicular drop of nearly 4 points issues before the close. Chain store and shippings which have been strong lately, yielded with the rest of the list, Woolworth dropping 6 1-2 points, Marine preferred 1 1-8, and American International Corporation, 1 1-2.

A moderate inquiry developed in the early part of the session for some of the low priced rails, but this died down before the close. New low records for the year were established by Illinois Central common and preferred, Chicago & Northwestern preferred, Union Pacific preferred and Louisville & Nashville.

Call money opened at 5 per cent. eased off to 4 1-2 and thence to 4, where it closed. Time money was dull and easier, brokers bidding 4 3-4 for 90 and 60 day funds and bankers holding out for 5.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Oct. 30.—Although wheat averaged a little higher in price today eastern buying brought about rallies. Reports of Canadian wheat had some bearish influence, but sellers were cautious on account of possibility of government action which might give an advantage to bulls. The close was unsettled, at 1-8 net decline to 1-4 to 1-2c advance, with December $1.06 1-8 a 1.06 and May $1.10 3-4 corn finished unchanged to 1 1-8c lower, oats 3-8 to 1-2 a 1-4c off and provisions unchanged to 30c higher.

Reports were current that fully 500,000 bushels of Canadian wheat had been brought into Duluth during the last week, presumably for Minneapolis mills, and that additional imports were in prospect. Word of some increase of country selling in the northwest tended also to ease the market here.

Selling in Chicago, however, lacked volume and it gradually became apparent that temporarily the east was supporting the bulge whenever setbacks in price seemed likely to become important. Some of the current buying was said to be based on an opinion that if conditions in Germany this winter developed to the point of famine the United States would purchase cargoes of wheat and flour, and would give aid similar to that afforded Russia after the war.

Official announcement that 13,000,000 bushels of United States wheat and flour had been exported during the four week ending October 27 attracted considerable notice. According to a leading authority this total is completely at variance with widespread belief that at present the United States is out of the export business in wheat.

Seasonable readjustment of corn prices from an old crop to a new crop basis led to a drop of as much as 10c a bushel in the value of old corn. New crop deliveries built steadily owing to unfavorable weather. Oats sagged a little with corn.

Upturns in the price of hogs gave strength to the provision market.

BOND MARKET

New York, Oct. 30.—Today's bond market was practically featureless and prices changed little from yesterday. Traders reported some activity in railroad mortgages of the higher grade. The buying coming mostly from banking institutions. This buying, however, failed to offset sizable selling orders.

Wheeling and Lake Erie and Western Maryland issues both were unusually active, due it was understood, to reports that both roads may ultimately become a part of the New York Central system.

There was a somewhat heavier offering of various industrials influenced largely by declining stock prices. The 5 per cent. bonds of Producers & Refiners were bid up nearly 4 points due to speculative opinion that the bonds have been strengthened through merger of the company with Prairie Oil & Gas.

Selling of U. S. government bonds, under way for several days, subsided some, although most of these issues receded slightly. French issues sold slightly lower for the most part, with a few South American and other European bonds advancing moderately.

Public offering was made of $5,000,000 Canadian Pacific 4 per cent. Consolidated debenture stock at 73 1-2 to yield over 5 per cent. The stock has priority over both the preference stock and the common stock. There was a talk also of an early offering of $10,000,000 Phillips Petroleum bonds although the report was not confirmed.

CURB MARKET

New York, Oct. 30.—Stock prices were somewhat heavy in today's curb market, recessions predominating in both oils and industrials. There were a few strong spots, however, influenced by individual developments.

Chief interest in the oil division was centered in Prairie Oil and Gas which recently announced the purchase of the Producers & Refiners. After opening slightly higher the stock sold lower and the closing price was off 1 1-2 points on the day. Other losses among oil shares included Imperial Oil of Canada, off 1-2 to 1 point, Magnolia Petroleum, 2, Standard Oil of Kentucky, 1-2 and Cosden Refining and Marketing Corp., 1 point.

Glen Alden Coal moved up a point in active trading while Reading Coal closed unchanged after fluctuating within a narrow range throughout the day. The miners were inclined to be reactionary. Cleveland Electric Illuminating, to a new low record, after touching a new minimum three days ago. Detroit Edison closed 1-8 lower on the day. Fred Harvey Transportation Shares lost 1 1-4 on the day.

METAL MARKET

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Slater Hall Musical Course.

On Friday evening, Nov. 2, Jeanne Gordon, prima donna contralto of the Metropolitan Opera company, will appear in Slater Hall.

Miss Gordon will be assisted by the accomplished pianist, George Robelia, who will be recalled as the assisting artist for Florence Macbeth when she sang here.

Tickets for this concert are on sale at The Cranston company, Broadway. Single tickets $2.50, tax exempt.

Her debut in the Metropolitan Opera company was made as Azucena, the gypsy mother, in "Il Trovatore, a magnificent portrayal of the role, of which the dean of American critics, H. E. Krehbiel, wrote: "Her triumph was instantaneous. Her voice is one of the most wonderful organs ever heard in the Metropolitan Opera company, a voice of extraordinary range, of ample power, warm, rich and firm in texture."

That tribute marked the beginning of Miss Gordon's growing triumph in New York, where she has achieved phenomenal favor at every appearance.

In the concert season just passed it was Miss Gordon's enviable record to sing to capacity house with every engagement.

Other concerts in the series will be as follows:

On Friday evening, Jan. 11, Percy Granger, the Australian pianist and composer. On Wednesday evening, Feb. 5th, Joint recital, Oliver Marshall, soprano, and Jean Bedetti, cellist. On Friday evening, March 7th, Erna Rubinstein, the great violinist.

Breed Theatre.

An interesting event of the film season will be the showing of the much talked of picture, The Steadfast Heart, from Clarence Budington Kelland's story of the same name at the Breed theatre today and Thursday.

The Distinctive Pictures Corporation, producers of the film, have assembled a remarkably strong cast for this picture including, as it does, Marguerite Courtot, Joseph Striker, Josy Depew, Miriam Battista, William B. Mack, Hugh Huntley, Mary Alden, Sherry Tansey, Jerry Devine and many others.

Marguerite Courtot will be remembered for her excellent work in Down to the Sea in Ships. Joseph Striker is regarded as one of the handsomest young men now in pictures. Hugh Huntley is one of the most popular of all the screen actors. His most recent appearance was in The Famous Mrs. Fair. William B. Mack has long been recognized as one of America's very greatest actors, his career dating back to the days of the famous Daly Stock company. Mary Alden had one of the principal roles in The Birth of a Nation.

Joey Depew, Sherry Tansey, Jerry Devine and Miriam Battista make up a quartette of the exceedingly well known juvenile actors. Every one of them has been starred at some time or another and all have appeared in great productions.

The story of The Steadfast Heart, dealing with a struggle against criminal environment, is a thoroughly inspiring one. It has innumerable dramatic situations, considerable comedy and many human touches, according to advices from those who have seen it.

Other pictures on the bill include Movie Chats and an Educational comedy.

At the Strand.

One of the strangest gifts ever given a motion picture star was presented to Alice Calhoun while she was working on location in Pioneer Trails, a Vitagraph special production, which is shown at the Strand theatre now. It is a Sioux Indian scalp. It was given to Miss Calhoun by "Pop" King, the oldest living Indian scout, who was acting as advisor to David Smith, the director, in reproducing some of the early western scenes in the film.

During the making of the photoplay, members of the cast wishing to show their appreciation of Miss Calhoun, purchased a white enameled folding chair for her use on location. On the day of the presentation made with appropriate expressions of good wishes, "Pop" King was present. King is the sole survivor of an Indian massacre of a caravan train made during the gold rush of 1849 and is ninety years old.

The wild excitement attached to the presentation led the old man to believe Miss Calhoun was celebrating her birthday. As he had a unique collection of Indian curios, he thought it fitting to present her with one of his more treasured relics.

Short subjects are also included in this special program at the small prices of matinee 20c and evening, 20c and 35c.

Final Showing of Zaza.

The final showings of the Allan Dwan Paramount production of Zaza, which opened at the Palace theatre last Monday, will take place there this afternoon and evening. Gloria Swanson is the star, supported by H. B. Warner, Ferdinand Gottschalk and others. The story is one of a French music hall, a melodrama of great heart appeal.

Sweetheart Night at the Broadway.

The Broadway theatre will present something new to its patrons for tonight, called "Sweethearts Night." The purpose of this is to admit a lady free with every gentleman who buys one ticket only. This is something new and novel and many will surely be delighted with this novelty.

The regular program of B. F. Keith vaudeville and pictures will be shown and real music will be rendered by real musicians. The photoplay features Bryant Washburn in Mine to Keep.

HOPKINTON

The class of 1924 of Hopkinton High school served a salad supper at the Ashaway parish house, Wednesday evening, postponed from Tuesday evening on account of the storm. WILLIAM METCALFE, ET ALS. VS. Manhasset Manufacturing Company, Superior Court, Windham County, Oct. 25, 1928.
Order Appointing Temporary Receivers, Etc.
The application of the plaintiffs in the above entitled action brought to the Superior Court to be holden within and for the County of Windham, on the first Tuesday of November, 1928, which application is dated the 24th day of October, 1928, having been presented to the undersigned at his chambers in the County building at Willimantic, Conn., on the 25th day of October, 1928, the plaintiffs appearing by Ropes, Gray, Boyden and Perkins, and Sabin S. Russell, their attorneys, and the defendants appearing by Abbott Phillips and Louis A. Wetzard, its attorneys, and an answer having been filed admitting the truth of the allegations of the complaint and the application for the appointment of a temporary receiver or receivers, and the parties having been heard, it is found that the allegations of said application are true and that a temporary receiver or receivers should be appointed forthwith.
Now, therefore, it is ordered:
1. That John B. Strongman of New Bedford, Mass., and Artemus C. Townsend of Boston, Mass., be, and they are hereby, appointed temporary receivers of the Manhasset Manufacturing Company.
2. That said appointment shall not take effect until the said Strongman and Townsend shall have filed with the undersigned a bond in proper form, with good and sufficient surety, in the sum of Seventy-five thousand ($75,000) dollars, conditioned on the faithful performance of their duties under said appointment, and in the event that they shall at any time or times hereafter be confirmed or appointed in said action either as temporary or permanent receivers, their faithful performance of their duties as such receivers, and said bond shall have been approved by the undersigned.
3. That said Strongman and Townsend, immediately upon the taking effect of their appointment, shall proceed to take possession of all the books, papers, evidences of debt and property of said corporation, to collect all moneys owing to it, and to take all lawful steps within their power to secure and preserve its assets.
4. That said receivers may, in their discretion, carry on in such manner as they may deem judicious the business conducted by the defendant and operate its properties until otherwise ordered, but no longer than for one month from this date, and to that end they are authorized to make such contracts and to sell such goods and materials on hand as in their judgment may be necessary and proper.
5. It is hereby ordered that no inventory need be filed until the confirmation of the temporary receivers, or their permanent appointment, but that the receivers forthwith file an inventory of bank deposits, cash bills receivable and an estimate of the quantity of merchandise on hand.
6. That a hearing upon the confirmation of said appointment and for the appointment of two appraisers be had before the undersigned in the Superior Court Room at Willimantic, on the 9th day of November, 1928, at 11 o'clock a. m., and that said temporary receivers give notice of their appointment, and of said hearing, to all parties in interest by publishing a copy of this order in The Norwich Bulletin and in the Hartford Daily Courant, twice, and by mailing a like copy, postage prepaid, to each stockholder of record and known creditor of said corporation, at their best available addresses, all on or before the first day of November, 1928.
L. P. WALDO MARVIN,
A Judge of the Superior Court.

ANOTHER COLCHESTER FIRE THOUGHT TO BE INCENDIARY

Colchester had another fire scare at an early hour Tuesday morning. Harry Steck, who had been working all night at his bakery on Lebanon avenue, went out of the building about 1.30 to empty a pail of water when he saw the reflection of flames and on investigating discovered a blaze in a shed in the rear of his place that he used to store lumber. He aroused the residents of that section of the borough and a bucket brigade soon put out the fire, with trifling loss. It was believed that the blaze was of incendiary origin.

Had the fire had a few minutes more to get under headway the probabilities are that the bakery, the Hebrew synagogue and H. Levin's cloak factory would have been involved.

HOW TO STOP SOUR STOMACH

Chronic With Many People—Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Bring Quick Comfort—Sweeten and Stop Acid, Sour Risings and Such Dyspeptic Distress.

When the fact is considered that even careful people, those who follow diet rules, get attacks of indigestion, no argument is needed to recommend the best means of relief. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are used by lawyers, doctors, teachers, by business men, high livers, society women, industrial workers, clerks, and the worst abused stomachs in the world, those of a host of travelers.

For thirty years people have learned that they may eat what they like or what is set before them, and no matter what the condition of the stomach, if due to dyspepsia, these wonderful tablets stop gassiness and sour risings, they give the stomach the alkaline effect which overcomes acidity and thus they either avoid distress after eating or else they quickly relieve it. Be fortified. Get a 50-cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at any drug store and arm yourself against indigestion.

SUES NORWICH MAN FOR $3,000 FOR WRECK OF AN AUTOMOBILE

The following new suits, returnable in November in the superior court, have been filed here at the office of the clerk, Judge George E. Parsons.

Leon Busenski of Norwich is made the defendant in a $3,000 suit brought by William J. Curtin of New London, for the total destruction of Curtin's automobile.

It is alleged that on May 13, 1923, at the curve at the foot of Quaker Hill, Waterford, Busenski, who was coming towards Norwich, drove to the left of the road at a dangerous rate of speed and collided with the Curtin automobile. Curtin claims that his machine was entirely destroyed, that he had to spend $80 for towing and storage and lost the use of the automobile in his business.

For $10,000 for Death

Ralph Harris of New London, administrator of the estate of the late John Longo of that city has brought suit in the superior court against Joseph Contino of New London for $10,000 damages for the death of Longo who received fatal injuries while a passenger in a motor truck driven by Contino.

Longo died in the hospital on June 8, 1923, from injuries he received on May 20, 1923, when he was riding in Contino's motor truck which struck a tree on Pequot avenue, overturned and threw Longo out. Longo was sitting on the right hand seat next to the driver, having accepted Contino's invitation to ride when Contino came to the Longo house on Shaw street.

Three Seek Divorce

On the ground of desertion since Dec. 1, 1916, Josephine Cooper Hester of New London, seeks divorce from George Hester of Hyannis, Mass. They were married Jan. 8, 1903.

Frederick Vlaum of New London sues for divorce from May Burnett Vlaum of that city. They were married Dec. 30, 1917. The complaint alleges infidelity since Jan. 1, 1919, and names Emile Smith. The plaintiff asks the custody of two minor children.

Alleging intolerable cruelty since July 1, 1916, Mary Shvayeh of New London asks divorce from Simeon Shvayeh, alias Sam Shwaick, of Jamesburgh, N. Y. They were married in August, 1915, and the petitioner asks to have her name changed to Mary Homich.

Charles Rogers is the plaintiff against the Mohegan Cotton mills Co., both of New London, in a suit for $700 brought on the common counts.

The National Bank of Commerce of New London sues Charles L. Wilson of that city on a claim for $685.34, dated Jan. 4, 1922, with interest at 6 per cent.

PYTHIAN LODGE AT SALEM INSTITUTED WITH 24 MEMBERS

Monday evening Woodbridge lodge, No. 80, K. of P., was instituted at Salem with a charter list of 24 members. The work of initiation, institution and installation was done in the town hall. The following grand lodge officers were present: Grand Chancellor Charles E. Griffith, New Haven; Grand Prelate William L. Morgan, of Rockfall; Grand Master at Arms Arthur Mitchell of Hartford; Grand Keeper of Records and Seals George E. Wright of Hartford; Grand Master of Exchequer W. N. Potter of Willimantic; Grand Inner Guard Charles Andres of Bridgeport; Past Grand Chancellor King of Willimantic, Past Grand Chancellors Thomas H. Troland of New London, Emanuel Carr of Bridgeport and L. Erwin Jacobs of New Haven. Col. George C. Allen of Hartford of the Uniform Rank. There were visiting brothers from New London, Mystic, Willimantic, Hartford, New Haven and Bridgeport. The rank of page was conferred by the degree team of Oliver Woodhouse lodge, No. 81, of Colchester. The rank of squire by Trumbull lodge of New London, and the rank of knight by grand lodge officers. Later adjournment was taken to Grange hall where a banquet was served by the women of Salem. Following supper the rank of knight was continued, after which the officers were installed by the grand lodge officers, P. G. C. Troland acting as grand chancellor. After the work of instituting the lodge short speeches were made by grand lodge officers and members of the newly instituted lodge. There were nearly 200 in attendance. The new lodge has several applications for the next meeting.

REV. E. S. WORCESTER RESIGNS BELLOWS FALLS PASTORATE

The First Congregational church of Bellows Falls, Vt., has just accepted the resignation of its pastor, Rev. Edward S. Worcester, formerly pastor of the Broadway Congregational church in this city.

Rev. Mr. Worcester presented his resignation to the Bellows Falls church in order that he might be ready to take up on Jan. 1, the chair of systematic theology at the Theological Seminary of the Dutch Reformed church at New Brunswick, N. J., to which he was elected by the general synod of the Reformed Church in America at its recent session at Asbury Park, N. J.

As successor to Rev. Worcester, the Bellows Falls church has extended a unanimous call to Rev. Burton E. Marsh, for the last two years pastor at Stuart, Ia. Mr. Marsh was born at Montague, Mass., was graduated from Amherst college, cum laude, 1898, Hartford Theological seminary, 1901, and has held pastorates in a number of Iowa churches since then.

STEINER RESIDENCE BOUGHT BY DANIEL T. SHEA, NORWICH

Daniel T. Shea, of the firm of Shea & Burke, Norwich, is the owner of the John Steiner residence, 77 Church street, Norwich, the deeds having been passed Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Shea will soon begin alterations to the desirable property, which will be remodeled into two apartments. The large and well built house is finely situated, commanding a wide view of Norwich and its harbor. This was originally known as the Captain Coit place and was the home of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Steiner for over 30 years, before they left to reside in Denver with their sons.

Mr. Shea already owns some very choice property in town, including the Huntington apartment house on Broadway, the Marion block on Main street, and the business building long known as the Doyle block, now owned and occupied by Shea & Burke. In addition, he purchased and occupies as a residence the handsome home of the late Jonathan Pope, 201 Broadway.

For the past three or four years the Steiner house has been the residence of Dr. and Mrs. D. J. Shahan.

JEWELRY NOT REPORTED MEANS BIG TAX [illegible]

In the face of federal internal revenue figures showing that jewelry valued at $4,000,000 was sold in Connecticut last year, it was disclosed Tuesday at the state tax department that watches and jewelry to the value of only $988,053 were listed for local taxation. The state law requires that jewelry be taxed at its fair market value.

The figures indicating the wholesale evasions of the state tax came out in connection with the statewide campaign of the United States internal revenue office for the collection of delinquent taxes on the sale of jewelry. Within the past week alone, federal revenue agents have discovered jewelry sales to the extent of a half million dollars upon which the federal tax had not been paid. One dealer's books showed sales of $60,000 which had not been reported for taxation.

A careful check is being made on sales by jewelers and persons and firms ngaged in business in which the sale of jewelry is only a part. These include hardware, stores, antiques shops, bric-a-brac stores, millinery shops, cigar stores, druggists, dealers in optical goods, department stores, pawn brokers, mail order houses and stationers.

The charge was made at the revenue office in Hartford that the investigation had revealed that a large percentage of such persons and firms had failed to make returns and pay the tax.

Wholesale Evasions

State ta department records showed that private owners of jewelry were considerably more delinquent as regards payment of the tax on jewelry to the towns in which they live. Taxpayers of the state acknowledged the acquisition of new jewelry to the value of only $14,020 in the year, that figure representing the increase over last year of the total value of jewelry listed for taxation throughout Connecticut.

Hartford, for instance, reported the ownership of jewelry to the value of only $116,646, over $3,000 less than the value reported for the previous year. In sharp contrast was the report of the little town of Plymouth, which reported that jewelry valued at about $117,607 was owned there, leading Litchfield county in this respect and coming close to Greenwich with its wealth of millionaires, where $121,805 was set down as the value of jewelry owned. Canaan with $125,485, led the state in the amount of jewelry listed for taxation. New Haven, the largest city in the state, reported $180,491; Bridgeport, second largest, $90,387; Waterbury, $75,875; New Britain, $7,585; Bristol, $10,675; Meriden, $10,835; Ridgefield, $35,333; Stamford, $14,635 and New Milford, $25,150.

Judging from the reports to the state tax department by local assessors, Fairfield county is richest in jewelry owned, with $214,718 to its credit; New Haven county second with $166,681; and Hartford county third, with $137,022, followed by Middlesex county with $56,525; New London county with $55,563; Litchfield with $43,553; Windham county with $15,058 and Tolland county with $12,495.

Enormous Revenue Lost

The revenue lost by the towns on account of evasion of the tax on jewelry is enormous, State Tax Commissioner Blodgett declared. While there is no excuse for it and many taxpayers accomplish it only by making false oath to their tax lists, the commissioner explained that failure by assessors in many towns to assess property at its fair market value was largely responsible for it, as it resulted in smaller grand list totals and therefore caused higher tax rates to be fixed. The commissioner pointed out that an examination of the records over a period of years would show that the higher tax rate the smaller the total of jewelry and furniture listed for taxation.

It would be impracticable to apply to jewelry sales a system similar to that by which local authorities are notified of all motor vehicles registered from their towns in order to help them to list all automobiles for taxation. If jewelry were to be required to notify the assessors of all persons to whom they sold jewelry, and the value involved, it would undoubtedly result in causing those who desired to evade the tax to buy their jewelry from dealers outside the state. Efforts to have the tax on jewelry repealed have always failed, on the other hand, because it comes under the heading of luxuries.

Little Furniture Taxed

The same situation is true with regard to household furniture, libraries and musical instruments. Such property to the value of only $11,540,243 was listed for taxation last year in the entire state. If the two lists were to be relied upon, the furniture in all Hartford homes is worth only $922,447, while furniture in Waterbury homes is worth $1,784,280; in New Haven, $799,836; in Bridgeport, $135,111; in New Britain, $45,913, in Meriden, $107,730 and in Greenwich, $1,756839. It is the conscientious people who pay taxes on jewelry and furniture, according to Commissioner Blodgett.

STOLE FURNISHINGS FROM OLD STONE FARM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Oct. 30.—Charles Avery and William Goodrich, both of Niantic, were before Justice of the Peace Marion R. Davis in the East Lyme town court last night charged with burglary and entering. Counsel for the accused entered a demurrer, which was overruled and probable cause was found. Avery and Goodrich being bound over to the next term of the superior court in bonds of $1,000 each. Avery secured a surety on his bond, but in default of a surety on the bond of Goodrich the accused was remanded to jail.

Avery and Goodrich were taken into custody Saturday by state police, following investigation of the burglarizing of the residence of Mrs. Geo. S. Smith of Saunders Point, East Lyme, from which place, it is alleged, that between $300 and $400 worth of furnishings were stolen.

Mrs. Smith returned to her home, which is known as the Old Stone farm, the early part of last week and to her surprise discovered that entrance to the place had been forced and that a large quantity of furnishings were missing. Mrs. Smith lodged complaint with the state police and officers were assigned to the case. After a search the officers were satisfied that Avery and Goodrich had knowledge of the crime and a warrant was issued for their arrest. A search of their homes was made and in both places a considerable quantity of the plunder obtained from the Smith residence was recovered, being valued close to $300.

Mrs. Smith is widow of George S. Smith, for years a resident of Laurel Hill avenue, Norwich.

FORMER NORWICH BOY ON VIOLIN OVER RADIO

Between 8 and 8.30 o'clock this (Wednesday) evening, a Norwich boy, William G. Casey, son of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Casey of 119 Cedar street, will be heard in violin solos over the radio from station WTAM, Willard Storage Battery Co., Cleveland, Ohio. Mr. Casey is leader of the orchestra and will be heard in four selections, first playing Dreamy Melody (Nast) and Mighty Lak' a Rose (Nevin), and later in the programme Wild Rose (MacDowal) and Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses (Openshaw). The entire programme from this station will include cornet, soprano, violin and piano solos, with a reading and a bedtime story for the kiddies.

TAFTVILLE

On Sunday at the parish hall, the newly elected officers of Ponemah Council, No. 34, Knights of Columbus were installed by District Deputy John Hennon of Jewett City. The officers were as follows: Grand Knight, John L. Sullivan; deputy grand knight, Wilfred Gaucher; recording secretary, James Hanlon; financial secretary, Edward V. Murphy; treasurer, Peter Lafleur; chancellor, Thomas Corcoran; lecturer, David O'Brien; advocate, Nazaire Lafleur; outside guard, Alfred Poyard; inside guard, James Nolan; chaplain, Rev. U. O. Bellerose; trustee for three years, William White. Rev. William Keefe of Greeneville delivered an address on Columbianism, and there were remarks by Rev. Frederick Desureault of Occum, Rev. U. O. Bellerose, State Advocate Collins of New London, District Deputy Hennon of Jewett City, and District Deputy Day of New London. William White, the retiring grand knight, was presented a gold fountain pen in behalf of the council by William Donnelly. Following the installation there was a delicious chowder served and a smoker enjoyed.

Among the organizations contributing to the Backus hospital campaign were the Taftville Chapter, A. R. C., $500; Taftville Maennerchor club, $25; Ponemah Wheel club, $25; Taftville Social and Football club, $10; Franco-American Naturalization club $10 and Ocawasin Camp Fire Girls, $12.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Frohmade entertained Saturday evening at dinner at their home on Dion street.

Mr. and Mrs. John Fitzmaurice entertained over the week-end, Mr. and Mrs. John Fanning and son Leo, and John A. Fitzmaurice, Jr., of Moosup, and Mr. and Mrs. William Donnelly of Ripley place, Norwich.

The meeting of the Christian Endeavor society of the Taftville Congregational church was addressed by Herbert Hicks, field secretary of the Connecticut Christian Endeavor Union. It was a very helpful address, showing the society was a part of a very large movement of young people with a big idea of loyalty to Christ and the church. He dwelt on the value of the quiet hour and putting one's best into the work, which would count not only now but later on.

College Hallowe'en Social

As is their custom President and Mrs. Benjamin T. Marshall tendered a Hallowe'en social to the faculty and students of the Connecticut College at New London Saturday evening. The gymnasium was prettily decorated in Hallowe'en effects. The four classes provided the entertainment as usual and dancing was enjoyed between the facts. The freshmen class presented the play, The Shooting of Dangerous Dan McGrew.

GOOD HEALTH SECRET OF BEAUTY

Beauty lies in the care a woman bestows upon herself and in keeping at bay those dread ailments peculiar to her sex which drag her down and leave telltale traces upon her countenance. Sparkling eyes, the elastic step and a clear complexion never accompany organic troubles. Distressed expressions, a sallow complexion, dark circles under the eyes, lassitude, headaches, and mental depression are the telltale symptoms of women's ailments. Women so troubled should not lose a day in taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, the most successful remedy known to overcome woman's ills and restore health and beauty.
